I see by the papers that a group of British scientists have succeeded in by-passing Old Bossy. They are making milk out of feed without benefit of cow.

Before long, if this scientific trend keeps up, we will be having beefsteaks direct from grain sorghums, eggs out of cracked corn and pigs knuckles out of slops. It is saddening.

We shall be forced to junk most of our traditions, our literature and even our religious symbolism. The terms in which we express them will have ceased to have any meaning. The hen, the cow and the sow will no longer be understandable.

What future youngster, plucking a beefsteak from an ear of corn will be able to understand what Thomas Gray is talking about in his beautiful Elogy when he speaks of the lowing herd winding slowly over the meadow. And being unable to appreciate the poet's imagery, he will be in a mighty poor position to understand the wonderful philosophy of a piece of literature which expresses dramatically the first stirrings of the democratic conscience.

Nursery rhymes would lose much of their charm. A dotting parent, playfully pinching the toes of his young son to the tune of "This little pig went to the market" would be talking in an unknown tongue even to himself.

But the point is moot. When that time comes there will be no elegy, no nursery rhymes. They will have gone the way of the animals whose need the scientist will have eliminated. The population of the earth will have become no more than a census of chemical robots tailored in a test tube and designed in conformity with the dominant scientific mind.

The suggestion may strike you as far-fetched if not silly. But the fact of the matter is isn't any such thing. Over a great and spreading section of the earth a political society is endeavoring avowedly to do that very thing, and if it could be accomplished chemically, rather than politically, you can bet your last suspender button the communists would do it.

Even in our own land the ideal is creeping upon us via subtle changes in our political philosophy and organization. The god of conformity is being worshipped with a political fervor which ignores entirely the fact that the real strength of our democracy is not in sameness but in a competitive diversity.

It is the inevitable product of a system based upon the view that the business of politics is social welfare and not altogether government.

For all our talk of the will of the majority, this country is actually governed by a small minority. It is a dedicated and constantly active minority. It is the small group of really interested people who take part in the party organizations, do the neglected political jobs that other citizens, too busy with their own affairs and with making money, avoid doing.

The fact of the matter is that the voters, even in our so-called free elections, make decisions only on issues which are defined and presented by the activities of this comparatively small group. The minority simply gives them a choice between two or three alternatives.

The next time you are upset because a political issue is decided adversely to your way of thinking, remember the precinct conventions you didn't attend, the political discussions you avoided, the timidity with which you reacted to a question of public policy or welfare because you were afraid of losing business, or didn't want to be troubled.

You are not being governed by a true democracy, but by a small group who are not afraid to

Contract Let For Gas Plant To Be Built At Rising Star

The United Conservation Gas Company's president, Bill Gray, announced this week that negotiations are complete and the company has let a contract for the construction of a $650,000 gas treating plant about one mile from Rising Star, Texas. The plant is to be completely automatic and to have a capacity of 6 million feet of gas per day and will be completed in early December of this year. The plant is to be constructed on a 3 acre tract of land previously purchased by the company. Fabrication of the equipment for the plant has been in process several weeks by the contractor in anticipation of building the plant. Actual work on the site will not begin for about two or three weeks as the equipment must first be built by the contractor in its shops. The plant will be built to treat 6 million feet of gas per day but is so built that with the addition of a small amount of equipment, capacity can be increased to 18 million feet per day. It will produce about 23,000 gallons of hydrocarbons per day consisting of gasoline, butane, propane, ethane and other products.

The United Conservation Gas Company was formed early this year by a group mostly from and around Denver City, Texas. The company's president and chairman of the board is Bill Gray. The secretary and legal counsel for the company is Jerry Paquin an attorney with offices in Denver City, Texas. R. W. Bratcher of Seminole is treasurer and Lee Taylor, vice president and engineer and Jim Deavenport, vice president are both of Abilene.

Gray stated that he will move to Abilene shortly to be closer to the installation and operation of the Rising Star plant. The main offices of the company will remain in Denver City for the present as the company is also negotiating for plants in Colorado and New Mexico. Jerry Paquin will be in charge of the Denver City office. United is a Texas corporation formed for installing and operating plants to treat gas and remove the hydrocarbons and other saleable products and utilizing the residue by sale to pipe lines.

Many fields in Texas presently flare the gas and waste natural resources, thus the name United Conservation Gas Company. The Rev. Weldon Hanes, a young minister who has been appointed to the parsonage of the May church, succeeding Rev. Grace.

Wildcats Open Home Schedule Friday Night

The Rising Star Wildcats, still seeking a win and a way after being tied by feeble Melvin and swamped by semi-potent Bangs, will come home Friday night to open their home season in a game with the Rochelle Hornets Friday night at 8 p. m.

The Cats held the Bangs team on fairly even terms for most of the game at Bangs last week, but crumpled after a series of miscues and let the gates down for the Dragons who ran up a 44-to-0 count before the game ended. Inexperience was blamed for the inability of the local boys to rally and salvage at least a measure of credit from the late game report.

The coaches have very little to say in explanation of the outcome of the game last week.

We just hope the boys get hold of themselves and show a little more of their potential," said Coach Weldon Hill.

Recalling the manner in which Rising Star fans responded to an appeal to refrain from outbursts against unpopular decisions of officials last fall, Supt. Sam Jones said that his schools appreciated the restraint which the fans showed and urged that Although the spectators may not like some of the decisions, the officials are in charge of the game and their authority is upheld by the Interscholastic League. Any outbursts which may be directed at them reflect upon the team and may cause the boys to be penalized."

NOMINEE

SCOTT BAILEY

Scott Bailey Is Chosen County Judge Nominee

EASTLAND — Scott Bailey of Cisco, former State Representative whose bid for re-election failed in the last democratic primary, was selected as the nominee for county judge of Eastland County by the Eastland County Democratic executive committee last Saturday afternoon.

The committee acted after the death of John S. Hart, veteran county officer who had been nominated for a new four-year term. The committee met at the Village Hotel at 5 p. m. Alvin Crowley of Ranger, chairman of the County Democratic committee, said he asks the state attorney-general for advice and that the nominee was picked for certification by the state committee this week.

Appearing before the committee to seek the nomination were Mr. Bailey, Charles Freyschlag, Eastland attorney who was selected as acting county judge by the attorneys of the county recently, and O. H. Dick of Olden, who was defeated by Judge Hart for the nomination last spring.

Bailey, 31, is single. He has been doing graduate study at North Texas State University since last June. He taught school at Seymour for several years before running for the Legislature.

Reports from Eastland this week said that Mr. Dick planned to run as an independent or write-in candidate for the office. The general election will be held in November.

Death Ends Distinguished Career of John Hart, Longtime County Judge

John S. Hart, 72, county judge of Eastland County for 16 years and a prominent citizen of this region for more than 60 years, died at 9:30 p. m. Thursday, Sept. 13, in a hospital at Temple about a month after undergoing major surgery.

Burial followed in Corinth cemetery, midway between Cisco and Eastland, in a plot near the graves of his late parents, I. N. and Katy Hart. Hamner Funeral Home of Eastland was in charge of arrangements. Judge Hart had gone to Temple with his wife for a checkup. Death was attributed to complications from abdominal surgery.

The veteran county official was born Nov. 28, 1890, in Bell County. He moved with his family to Eastland County as a boy eight years old. In his early manhood, he taught school for a time before entering politics. He was elected county tax collector in 1919 and served three terms.

In 1926, Judge Hart was elected sheriff of Eastland County and it was during his term of office in 1927 that the famous Santa Claus bank robbery took place in Cisco. After one term, Judge Hart joined the Texas Railroad Commission's proration forces in East Texas and spent several years in the employ of the state, working also at Midland.

In 1941, Judge Hart ran for sheriff of the county and was elected. After two terms, he was elected county judge. Last spring, he won re-election over two opponents without a runoff and was to have started a new four-year term next January 1.

Judge and Mrs. Hart were married Dec. 1, 1912, and planned to observe their golden wedding anniversary this year. The family home has been a rural residence on their farm six miles northeast of Cisco on the Breckenridge Highway for many years. Besides his wife, Judge Hart assisted by the Rev. Jesse E. Cassle, pastor. Judge Hart was a long time member of the Cisco church. Burial followed in Corinth cemetery, midway between Cisco and Eastland, in a plot near the graves of his late parents, I. N. and Katy Hart. Hamner Funeral Home of Eastland was in charge of arrangements. Judge Hart had gone to Temple with his wife for a checkup. Death was attributed to complications from abdominal surgery.

Polio Vaccine Plan Told Next Week

The Chamber of Commerce this week said it would have an announcement next week on the Sabin oral polio vaccine immunization program planned here for September 30.

While we are quite sure that the program will be carried out as planned, we feel that, in view of the unfavorable publicity which has arisen from a number of polio cases occurring after administration of Type III vaccine in Canada, we should await some further and clarify health authorities before going ahead with our plans," said President James Rutherford.

More than 90 registered for the annual meeting of the Old Settlers Reunion held at the American Legion hall in Rising Star Saturday of last week. It was the largest registration in a number of years.

The program began with registration at nine o'clock followed by a program during which Major Max Prentice, (USA-Ret.) of May, made a very interesting talk on the threat of communism and the strength of the western Christian world in opposing the danger.

W. C. Clements, 90-year-old Cisco humorist, who was scheduled to speak, was unable to attend because of illness.

At noon a barbecue lunch was served in the dining hall of the Legion building and a business meeting followed during which Major Prentice was named president succeeding Fred Roberds; Mr. Roberds was elected vice-president; Mrs. Olive Jons secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Clara Burkhead historian.

$87,000 Sewer Modernization Program Is Outlined By Engineers

A program by which the Rising Star sewage disposal system would be completely modernized, the disposal plant moved and a promising area in the eastern outskirts of Rising Star opened for new residential and commercial development, has been presented to the City Council by an Austin engineering firm.

The firm, the National Engineering Company of Austin, was employed by the city for the purpose and it has come up with a project costing an estimated $87,120 which would be financed partially by a grant of $25,820 through the Texas State Department of Health, and by revenue bonds which would be paid out of the monthly sewer charge which the city collects, requiring no increase in the city's tax rate.

The bonds would be sold to the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the federal government and bear an interest rate of 3.75 per cent, and would have a repayment period of 40 years.

In other words, Mayor Walter Smith pointed out, if the program is approved, Rising Star would have a thoroughly modern sewage disposal system, free of health hazards and capable of taking care of the city's wastes without difficulty, and without any increase in the taxes paid by the residents of the community. A possible increase in the present $1 sewer charge to $1.25 would be authorized to provide ample revenues for amortizing the revenue bonds, but the bonds would stipulate that the purchasers could never have the right to demand payment of the obligation out of any funds raised or to be raised by taxation.

Aside from the obvious benefits of efficient and trouble free sewage disposal, advantages of the program, if approved by the voters, would include freeing a most promising area east of Rising Star from the blight of the present open creek disposal plant and opening it to new residential and commercial construction which would not only add to the economic wealth of the community but increase taxable values for the city and school system.

The present sewage disposal plant was constructed about 1920. It deteriorated to such a degree that the treatment is very inefficient and does not meet State Health Department requirements. Odors from the creek which borders the eastern limits of the city, are very objectionable.

The proposed project calls for construction of a completely new sewage treatment plant located approximately three-fourths of a mile northeast of the present plant and consisting of a thoroughly modern design which would effectually treat and purify the sewage before the effluent is discharged into Copperas Creek.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By Omar Bureson, M. C. 17th Texas Dist.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — By REASON OF THE CUBAN SITUATION today, the following is the May 18, 1961 edition of this column.

THERE IS A FRENCH PROV- ERB which says in effect that the more things change, the more they remain the same. History does repeat itself.

EVERY MAIL BRINGS LET- TERS DEMANDING, imploring or suggesting that we do something about Cuba, and in many is the question, "What about the Mon- roe Doctrine?"

THE MONROE DOCTRINE WAS PROCLAIMED ON Decem- ber 2, 1823. It was chiefly direct- ed at Russia as we might do if we were writing it today.

IN THE EARLY 1880's Russia was looking to establish a colony in what is now the States of Oregon and Washington.

JUST PRIOR TO THIS PERI- OD Napoleon had been defeated and the stronger nations of Europe were looking for places to expand their empires. They were talking of sending fleets to South America to take over new governments which had been established after gaining their independence from Spain. The emergence of new nations in Latin America, the Revolution in the United States and France, caused the kings and emperors of Europe, except the British who had invested in trade in South America, to feel that what was needed was to make the world safe from democracy.

THE IDA OF THE DOCTRINE originated in the Administration of Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson was getting old. John Quincy Adams was Secretary of State and argued with Jefferson that the Doctrine should be made to apply to all of Europe and not just Russia alone. This theory was carried forward through the James Madison Administration and finally formalized by James Monroe.

THE FIRST PART OF THE DOCUMENT is aimed at Russia and the second part at Emperors of Europe.

THE UNITED STATES HAD LITTLE to back up its declaration that foreign governments should not be permitted to gain a foothold in the Western Hemisphere, but depended on the British Navies to enforce the Doctrine. The Monarchs of Europe were angry and made open threats to ignore the pronouncement. Nothing happened and little more was heard about the matter until around 1845. Polk was President at this time and he found occasion to restate the policy.

FOLLOWING THIS PERIOD AND during the Civil War, France set up a puppet government in Mexico under Maximilian. From 1862 to 1867 the military power of France maintained the Emperor Maximilian on a shaky Mexican throne.

IN THIS YEAR OF 1867 the United States had an army left over from the Civil War. After a period to recoup and recover from the weariness of the conflict and the assassination of Lincoln, the United States gave France her orders to get out of Mexico. Without very much argument and less resistance, the French pulled out but left Maximilian. The emperor managed to hold together a small force of Mexicans who protected him for a short time, but he was soon captured by Juarez and shot.

THE UNITED STATES HAS NEVER permitted a foreign country to secure itself in the Western Hemisphere. In a day when all we had to back up our demand was determination, we were successful. We should be as determined today when we have the strength to enforce this policy.

OF COURSE THIS IS NOT 1823 nor 1845 nor 1867, and armadas and armies are not invading Latin America or the Caribbean. But a different kind of invasion has taken place, and it is time we expanded the interpretation of the original Doctrine to include the insidious advances of Communism. If the Nations of Latin

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

VOLUNTARY CONFESSIONS

Our courts decide where our rights and our security conflict.

For example, in the days of the rubber hose, police sought easy confessions. But, today, the U. S. Supreme Court allows only voluntary confessions to go in-to evidence obtained by force or threats are barred.

Recently the Supreme Court spelled out what it means by

1. In one case the sheriff brought the accused into court. The judge told of his rights and of the charges against him. The prisoner said: I'm guilty. I killed the woman.

A rancher had lassoed him, but the sheriff had stepped in to protect him from a gathering crowd.

Despite the roping, the court found the confession voluntary and upheld it. For only the judge and the prisoner's protector were in court when he confessed. No force or threat.

2. But the U. S. Supreme Court rejected another conviction when the "Totality" of the conduct of the officers amounted to a denial of "due process of the law." It concerned a 19-year-old prisoner who had only fifth grade education.

Why did the Supreme Court upset this conviction? Because the trial court admitted a coerced confession in evidence. Officers had arrested the prisoner without a warrant, had held him without much food for two days, and had not allowed him to see anybody he knew. Finally, the police chief had told him that a mob out side wanted to "get him," but if he "confessed," the police could hold them off. He broke down and confessed.

Such confessions, the court held, were not an expression of free choice. (This, newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

America will realize their imminent danger of this new invasion they will join the United States for the protection of their very existence as free and independent people.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE IS WITH US afresh. As the French say, 'the more things change, the more they remain the same.'

Business men, in particular, who have such an important stake in the free enterprise system, are guilty of this stupid neglect of their rights. If they expect to have any influence upon government policy, to protect the system under which our economy prospers, they are going to have to start at the grass roots.

The Communists, the Socialists and other radical elements in our country know what they want and they are hard at work to accomplish it. If the rest of us are not interested enough to fight for our principles from the ground up, were the issues are formed and defined, we may be guilty of allowing this nation to become no more than a community of robots, enjoying only such freedom as our rulers allow us.

THE TOP OF THE LADDER

When one builds a ladder, he does so rung by rung. For the past three years we Seniors have been building the ladder to our future. Much hard work, study and growth have been put into that ladder.

We began work on the first rung in the fall of 1959 when we registered as Freshmen in the Rising Star High School. Our work was unsure, but it was done with pride. We were amateur carpenters, but we were proud to be a part of the trade. When classes began that year, we were not interested in how our finished ladder was going to look; we did not care if it looked crude. We were Freshmen, and there was a whole new experience ahead of us.

We went through that year much the same way as a baby colt goes through its first year; however, we were a little more concerned how the second rung looked. We had to find our place in this high school and secure it. There was one thing more important to us than that, however. That was the fact that we were esteemed Sophomores, and there was a whole new class of Freshmen; thus, we built our second rung.

Then began the building of our third rung. By this time, we realized there was a larger world around us than just our Rising Star High School, and we began to wonder if our first two rungs of fun and folly would have been more profitable to us had they been built of the steel of learning and the iron of maturity. Our third ring was built on decisions, convictions, and a glimpse of the future ahead of us.

Now, after three years of carpentering, we are no longer amateurs. For this reason we that last rung. We cannot say what our last rung will be because we cannot foretell the future. We do know, however, that on it will be built our future.

Our ladder is almost completed. It had a shaky beginning three years ago, but through work, study and growth, it will stand. We are proud of our ladder — not for what it is, but because we built it; the first rung of inexperience, the second of growth, the third of maturity, and the fourth of decisions.

Now after three years of building, we are at the top of our ladder — or are we? For some of us this year may be, but need not be, the top. We should be looking forward to next year when we begin the extension of our ladder.

In a land such as America, where one has boundless and unlimited opportunities, can one ever truly say he is at the top of his ladder?

NOT FINISHED JUST BEGUN

Well, by this time we Seniors are back into the familiar old groove of regular classes, but we have long ago learned the truth of "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy", so we stay lively by managing to find a little adventure now and then.

As most of you know, we have started on our annual magazine sale to earn money for our Senior trip. If you have not renewed your subscription to your favorite magazine or subscribe for a new one, one of our Seniors would love to serve you.

In English we are thinking about on whom we can best write a character sketch, as we continue our study of English literature — and don't forget those book reports due soon. Our civics students are working on the framework of our federal government system and our American history students are getting into their second unit, while the bookkeeping students are continuing their study of the journals. Those for their equipment to come so in chemistry are still waiting they can really get down to work; and timings in our typing class are becoming routine. Now I want to remind you of our game with Rochelle played here tomorrow night. Our Wildcats appreciate your support and promise you a fine game.

Next week Kay will be back with you. Until then this is your substituting reporter signing off and getting back to lessons.

Cynthia

P.S. In announcing the Senior honors, we have Carol Burns as Miss Rising Star to represent our town at the Eastland Peanut Bowl.

Intellect for a place in "La Estrellita" — Kay Lewis and Don Donham. Tommy Alfrod was selected as Most Popular Boy; Mack Harris was selected as Most Handsome Boy. Miss Rising Star is Deana Jones.

UPWARD AND ONWARD

This is the end of our third week of school and how time flies! Really most of us hate to see it go so fast.

We're also looking forward to our next football game with Rochelle. By the way, just one more week until homecoming and it's with our big rival Cross Plains!

Last week we elected some more favorites and they were: Popularity, Sharon Donham; and Tommy Alfrod; Friendliness, Harriett Schmitt and Tommy Alfrod; Athletic, Judy tractiveness, Harriett Schmitt and Kenneth Nunnally; At-Lewis and Mack Harris; Intellect, Kay Lewis and Don Donham; MISS R. S. H. S. Deana Jones; Miss Rising Star, Carol Burns.

The Home E-III — The making wool suits and in Eng. III we are studying literature The American History and Civics students are both learning about our great country. Speaking for most of the typing students, we're all staying busy, as predicted.

Jimmy R., Randy L. and Bill Clarke are following the fad — first, blonde hair then red; Bill believes in really doing things up red, too!

Cherry Maples has lost her heart to a May — Willie V. still likes older girls!!

KNOWLEDGE COMES, BUT WISDOM LINGERS

Another week of our second year in high school has slipped by. We have become acquainted with our teachers and classes and are getting down to some real work now.

Our Sophomore Class is well represented in many of the classes and is making great progress. Members of our class are included in ten various courses.

This year we have six representatives from the Sophomore Class on "La Estrellita" staff. There is much work to this; and thus far the staff has shown wonderful co-operation. Sherry Jones and Robin Reev. These six representatives are: Es, Art Editors; Judy Rutherford, Linda Burkhauller and Sharolyn Roach, class representatives for snapshots; and Charlene Vermillion, business manager.

We want to congratulate the Wildcats on their outstanding team, eight of which are Sophomores — James Cox, Frazier Clark, Gary Duggan, Larry Duggan, Donnie Fraley, Terry Geye, Mark Walker and Danny well with their teamwork.

Our three Sophomore majorettes — Sharolyn Roach, Sherry Jones and Jan Shults — are doing a great job out in front of the band this year.

As you can see from these things, the Sophomores are right in the middle of the pond this year; we are making every effort to add to our school as we continue to learn.

Charene Varmillion

LIVE AND LEARN

The second week of school is going along smoothly. Every one has by now found a the rooms and school is underway.

We are studying heredity in health and it is very interesting. In Home Ec., we girls made our first cookies. They were very good. If you don't believe me, ask Mr. Henry.

The Freshmen in general math find it hard remembering all that they have learned. Keep at it; it will come back!

We are saying our memory work in English I.

The girls in P. E. classes are doing better in their exercises. We would like to welcome our three new pupils — Earline Reed, Troy Crouch, and Sandra Theford.

One of them, Earlene Reed cut her leg and she is in the hospital with an infection. We all hope she gets better and is able to come back to school soon.

Congratulations to the new Freshmen majorette, GINGER Bishop; you'll be great!

I hope Friday turns out well, Becky.

Be sure and back the Wildcats by coming to the next game. Goodbye — until next week. Marcia Lee

GIRLS' SPORTS

Since we are concentrating on football, there is not much activity in the girls' sports this six weeks.

The state law now requires fifteen minutes each day of calisthenics. Most of the girls are getting in shape for basketball. Coach Eddie Joe Henry said that training would probably begin around October 1. He estimated about twenty or twenty-five girls to come out for the team. He also stated that the Freshman girls look good this year. Since there are only fifteen suits, all of you girls had better limber up and get started. Jan Shults

"TOWARD NEW HORIZONS"

Everyone is really enjoying being a member of Future Homemakers of America this year!

Our officers for the year are: President, Harriett Schmitt; Vice-president, Sharon Donham; Secretary, Charlene Vermillion; Treasurer, Loretta Pittman; Historian, Judy Lewis; Reporter, Becky Nowlin. Song Leaders are Julie Watkins and Sherry Jones, and Sergeant-at-arms are Sharrice Lewis and Linda Ezzell. Game Leaders are Virginia Clark and Sharolyn Roach, and Parliamentarian is Sharon Stewart.

Even though it is only the third week of school, we are already busy doing many things. The third year girls are making wool suits. The second year girls are studying different types of materials and how they are made. The first year girls have had their first foods laboratory where they prepared light refreshments.

Just a reminder for all girls who want to pay your dues. They will be $1.25 for the year.

BAND NEWS

Here we are back to our 'jumpin' jive' for another week. The R. S. H. S. Band made its first halftime appearance last week at Bangs. We used the diamond as our original formation. From this, we formed such things as a double diamond and an X. Thanks to the imagination of Mr. Gonzales, we hope to have many more active shows for you.

Our band has a problem of great concern to Mr. G. He is trying to convince a certain "Mr." boy that he does not have two right feet. Oh, well, maybe someday he will learn.

This week our Wildcats play Rochelle, so let's have a victory, boys!

See ya later,

It is a peachy time of the year for homemakers.

You can serve fresh peaches, topped with ice cream, deep dish pie, peaches sliced over cereal, or other peach dishes.

Have you noticed that many of the fresh peaches are above sult fresh peaches are above average size this year? The cold waves of early spring did much to thin the peaches on the trees in many production areas resulting in well-sized fruit.

Let your eye be your guide in selecting quality peaches. Make sure the peaches are plump, smooth-skinned and well-filled out. It's the creamy gold undercolor which tells the maturity of the peach. Over-ripeness is generally indicated by the deeper reddish-brown color and a softness of the fruit.

Peaches in the over-ripe state must be used immediately.

Since peaches are a relatively low-calorie fruit, this is a good reason why homemakers use them for in-between meal snacks that won't add extra pounds.

This is the time of the year for sales on summer clothing and a good time to buy for next summer needs. Here are some tips for the man who might be in the market for a summer suit for next year.

1. Suiting: A smooth-weave material that resists soil and is light-weight but not so thin it that resists wrinkles, will not show through. Select a suiting shrink or stretch, and is color-fast to light, perspiration and washing. A label, tag or pocket stuffer should provide facts about qualities you cannot see.

2. Construction materials: Interfacings, pocket bindings, tapes are light-weight but firm. Be sure trouser waistband interfacing is permanently firm and that none of the facings will shrink more than the suiting.

3. Lining: A skeleton lining of self material and no lining in the sleeves make a summer suit cool to wear and easy to press.

4. Workmanship: The suit should be neatly finished both inside and out. Lines of construction are thin, especially at edges and corners, the seams are protected against fraying. Thick, lumpy construction slows drying and makes pressing difficult.

Here's why Martha puts laundry in the freezer

A woman's work, especially the ironing, is never done. Sometimes Martha just has to take time out for shopping or visiting during the day. But sprinkled clothes can't be left to sour or mildew! So Martha pops them into a plastic bag and into the freezer they go. When she gets back, they'll be ready for her to start ironing again. Isn't it amazing how many ways women have learned to use flameless electricity to make living better ... and, it costs so little, you can use lots of it.

FREEZER TIP... Sprinkle your clothes and place in Freezer for about 10 minutes and they will be ready for ironing.
