

Area athletes gear up; physicals set Aug 6, 13

Physicals for all Muleshoe athletes and other area schools are scheduled for Sunday, August 6, for boys and Sunday, August 13, for girls.

Physicals will begin at 2 p.m. at the Muleshoe High School Gym located adjacent to the football stadium on the campus located at 514 West Ave. G.

Local physicians and area EMT personnel are providing their services at no charge on these dates. These will be the only two opportunities for a UIL physical at no charge. Any area athlete is invited.

Physical forms will be available at the gym the days that exams are given, and forms have been mailed to Muleshoe athletes. Any Muleshoe athlete may pick up a form at the High School Coaches' Office if they misplace theirs or do not receive a form in the mail.

Physicals are required for all athletes who are going into the 7th grade and who are going into the 9th grade. Physicals are also required for any new student to a school.

Also, anyone who has received any medical treatment for any injury in the last calendar year must get a physical.

It is highly recommended that all athletes get this free check-up prior to the start of play or practice.

Anyone with any questions about physicals may contact Coach Randy Adair, Athletic Director for Muleshoe Schools, at 272-7571 (work) or 272-3882 (home).

Football practice will start at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, August 9 for Muleshoe High School. The first four days of football will be non-contact, shorts-only workouts.

Contact one-a-day workouts begin on Monday, August 14 and school starts on Tuesday, August 15 for Muleshoe ISD.

The first football scrimmage is Thursday, August 24

Research team battling greenbugs with multi-tiered approach

LUBBOCK — Got an itch? Just as mosquitoes have bothered people for generations, a pesky type of greenbug has been a nuisance since 1882 on wheat and 1968 on sorghum.

Dr. Thomas Archer, a professor of entomology at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock, heads a team which has developed a method to detect resistance of greenbugs to insecticides and management tactics to combat insecticide resistance on sorghum and wheat.

Greenbugs are aphids that feed on wheat and sorghum.

The aphid sucks the nutrients and liquids from the plants. The saliva used for feeding by the aphid is toxic to the plant, just like a mosquito's saliva causes us to scratch a mosquito bite. Greenbugs can severely reduce the yield of a plant, or even kill it.

Insecticide resistant greenbugs were first detected in Kansas in 1990, and have since spread into the Texas Panhandle, as far as Plainview. They can also be found in eastern New Mexico and eastern Colorado.

"There are limited options other than insecticides for controlling greenbugs," said Archer. "You can use resistant plants, but they are only resistant to greenbugs, so you still need chemicals to back them up. Beneficial insects such as

"Keepers of the Legend" progressing

Local production features fictionalized history of Bailey County with large cast of local talent

By Cassidy Cleavinger
Music Co-Writer

"Keepers of the Legend" Last summer, Alan Finney approached me about an idea for a summer musical based upon the history of Bailey County. I didn't hear much more about the musical until March of this year, when Alan told me that a woman named Paula Paul was writing a script for a musical to possibly be put on in the following summer.

By the beginning of April, the script and the lyrics were submitted by Paula Paul. At that time, Alan and I began writing the score for the Musical. The production of "Keepers of the Legend" was officially underway with a proposed production date of early August 1995.

The musical drama will be presented Aug. 4-8 at 8:30 p.m. at the Muleshoe Heritage Center, with a barbecue at 7 p.m. preceding each production.

At Alan's request, Paula Paul specifically wrote the play to include characters to be portrayed by Laura Wood and myself. I play a school marm and Laura plays a spunky, yet neglected young girl.

The leading male role is played by Heath Scott of Muleshoe. Trevor Thuett of Post fills the role of the bad guy.

Other local participants in the production include Tina Davis, Victor Leal, Dale Griswold, Nikki Felan, Randall Hamilton, Rhonda Calvary, Brandon Mount, Kyle Atwood, Suzanne Messenger, Jennifer Rempe, Callie Hancock, Joel Sinclair, and Erin Gallman.

Sally Messenger is doing the stage direction for the production.

Another local cast member who currently attends Baylor University and is majoring in music, is Mason Conklin.

Other cast members include Matt Pennel of Lubbock and Buddy Beach of Earth.

School's out! Callie Hancock, 6, practices singing for the historical drama, "Keepers of the Legend."

Legislation improves safety for battered women, children

AUSTIN — Battered women and their children should be a little safer and have a few more options available to them as a result of the advocacy efforts of the Texas council on Family Violence (TCFV) this legislative session.

"It was an extremely productive session. With domestic violence receiving so much public attention this year, there was strong bi-partisan support for legislation, led by the Senate Interim Committee on Domestic Violence, that addressed domestic violence issues," says TCFV Executive Director Debby Tucker. "As a result, battered women will be safer and lives will be saved."

Below is a summary of domestic violence bills passed by the Legislature. The bills would:

- Create an arrestable temporary protective order that is good for 31 days and is immediately criminally enforceable. [SB 129]
- Strengthen the current stalking law. [SB 126, SB 124 and HB 43]

- Removes the requirement that two reports must be made to law enforcement before action can be taken against the perpetrator.
- Provides for the victim to be notified immediately upon the release of a perpetrator from jail, prison, or a holding facility.

- Allows the stalking victim to hold the stalker civilly liable by suing for monetary damages in civil court.

- Provide enhanced penalties for repeat violations of family violence and protective order offenses as defined in the Penal Code. [SB 134 and SB 135]

- First violation: Class A Misdemeanor — up to one year in jail and/or a fine up to $4,000.

- Second violation: Class A Enhancement — requires 90 days in jail and may require up to one year in jail and/or a fine up to $4,000.

- Third violation: State Jail Felony — requires 180 days in jail and may require up to two years in jail and/or a fine up to $10,000.

- Require statewide law enforcement training to include information about appropriate documentation in domestic violence cases. [SB 225]

- Require the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services to document the abuse of battered women while investigating child and elder abuse. [SB 131] parasites and predators can control aphids, but they are not totally dependable."

Archer has used a multi-tiered approach towards identifying the resistant greenbugs, developing techniques for controlling the resistant insects, and a method to use in the field to determine if a population is resistant or susceptible.

The first step was to find the pesticide dosage needed to kill the insects in the laboratory. Greenbugs were placed in a vial treated with insecticides, and then Archer determined the number that had died. This was done with susceptible and resistant aphids.

The question the Experiment Station scientists wanted to answer was how to increase the effectiveness of the insecticides. Their approach was to mix the insecticide with another chemical that would block resistance. A greenbug's body can adjust to one insecticide, and it grows resistant to that insecticide. By mixing two insecticides together, you are giving a greenbug's body two toxins to deal with, and it can't handle it.

Two different insecticide combinations were used by Archer and his crew, Lorsban plus Furadan, and Lorsban plus Prentox. Lorsban and Furadan are individual insecticides that kill greenbugs. Prentox is a synergist, which has no insecticidal activities of its own, but increases the efficiency of the insecticide.

These combined insecticides stayed effective longer than they would have if each was sprayed by itself. Lorsban plus Furadan provided peak control for 14 days, and Lorsban plus prentox provided peak control for seven days.

When combining chemicals you must be careful to solve the insecticide resistance problem and not aggravate it, Archer cautioned. Therefore, farmers should not arbitrarily mix chemicals, but only use proven mixtures determined by research. The price of mixtures depends on the chemicals mixed. Chemicals are being mixed at lower rate than normal rates, but an application that would normally cost $8 to $10 per acre for a single insecticide will cost $10 to $15 per acre.

Gel-electrophoresis has been used to detect resistant greenbugs by looking at the genes of a greenbug to determine if it is resistant or not. This system is highly accurate and expensive. It also takes from two weeks to two months to receive the results.

Ed Bynum Jr., a research associate with Archer, has come up with a way to determine in about two hours if a field has greenbug resistance. He uses a process called discriminating dose. Archer and Bynum placed different rates of insecticides in petri dishes, and sent these dishes to different fields with personnel of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Forty-three field tests were tested in 1994. If most or all of the aphids contacting the dish were dead the field was considered susceptible. If 50 percent or more of the aphids were alive the field was considered resistant to the insecticide. Greenbugs from 22 field tests were sent to Kansas for gelelectrophoresis. Of the 22 samples sent, 21 were found to have the same results as the discriminatory dose predicted, which proves the accuracy of the discriminating dose method.

"We will be evaluating insecticide resistance management again in 1995," said Archer. "And with a discriminating dose to tell a person whether or not they have a resistant or susceptible population, a quicker turnaround time, the ability to sample more parts of a field at a cheaper price, and the mixtures to control the resistant populations, we now have a handle on managing insecticide resistant greenbugs in both wheat and sorghum," he said.

Black Magic captures 1st place in Lubbock tourney

By Martha Toles Frost

Muleshoe Black Magic, an AAU boy's 12-and-under basketball team from Muleshoe, brought back individual first place trophies from the Ultimate Warriors Tournament in Lubbock last weekend.

Coach Mack Norman said he took most of the same boys to the national tournament in Fairfield, TX, when they were third graders, and the boys have learned a lot since then about playing team ball.

At first, all of the boys wanted to be high point man, he said. Now, they are playing as a team and scoring pretty evenly.

The team has been practicing at Watson Junior High School Gym and the Muleshoe High School Gym this summer. Their $150 entry fee was paid by Little Dribblers. They are all local boys, said Coach Norman, who is assisted by his son Cyrus.

He said the boys had learned a lot by playing opponents they had never played before— from Shallowater, the second place winner; Levelland, the third place winner; and Plainview, the winner of fourth place.

Black Magic won the first game, with Levelland, by 68 to 55. Michael Norman scored 14 points and Kyle Atwood and Chris Vela both scored 11.

In the second game on July 15, Black Magic was victorious at 51-30 over Shallowater, with Norman scoring 15 points.

The third game saw a 58 to 28 win over Plainview, and this time Chris Vela was high point with 20 points, while Norman scored 14.

Kyle Atwood was unable to make the last game because he went to basketball camp. Other members of the team who were out of town or on vacation during the Lubbock tournament are Roddy Spradlin, Lincoln Riley, A.J. Burhman and Andy Dominguez.

Mosquitos out in force this summer

According to Texas health officials, this year's mild winter and wet spring have contributed to an annoying boom in the state's mosquito population. But although the insects may spoil some outdoor recreation, so far no mosquito-borne illness outbreaks have been reported.

Key Vaughn, chief of the vector control program of the Texas Department of Health (TDH) General Sanitation Division, said, "So far, most areas with mosquito infestations are bothered by 'pest' varieties of the insects, not the more notorious disease vectors."

He explained that of about 83 mosquito varieties native to Texas, only four or five species readily transmit serious diseases. The viruses that cause St. Louis encephalitis, and eastern and western equine encephalitis are native to parts of Texas and are of special public health concern. Other mosquito-borne illnesses, dengue (or "break bone fever") and malaria, were endemic to the state early in the century, but today are rare in Texas and usually are "imported" by travelers from other countries.

Vaughn stressed that mosquito control is the responsibility of local governments--city, county or designated mosquito control districts. "We advise the local authorities on pesticides and other control methods, assist with laboratory support and disease surveillance, but whether a local government sprays to control the insects is its own decision," he said.

Vaughn explained that since mosquitoes must hatch in standing water, people should empty or dispose of any outside containers where water can collect. Old tires, outside flower pots, holes in trees and clogged gutters on houses are infamous hatching places for mosquitoes. In addition, the water in pet dishes, children's wading pools and bird baths should be changed at least twice a week. Also, door and window screens should be in good repair to prevent mosquitoes from moving indoors.

Lou Knowles celebrates 80th birthday in style

Lou Knowles, a resident of Muleshoe since 1964 will celebrate her 80th birthday, Sunday, July 30. Her children and grandchildren will host a reception in her honor from 2-3 p.m. at the Muleshoe Church of Christ (West American Blvd. and 21st St.)

Mrs. Knowles was born on July 29, 1915 in Hollis, OK. She attended school there and was a resident of Oklahoma until 1950 when she moved to Texas. She has called Muleshoe home since 1964.

For ten years, Mrs. Knowles was a dorm director at West Texas State University, where her oldest son, Ron Thomason, is a professor. Upon retirement from that job, she moved back to Muleshoe.

"I didn't retire" though," she said. "I am still working as a hostess at the Muleshoe Heritage Center Depot."

Mrs. Knowles has three

Cotton growers hear report from Combest

Completion of the 1995 Farm Bill will probably not occur until the Fall according to Congressman Larry Combest of Lubbock. Combest, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, met with a group of farmers and agriculture industry leaders July 5 for a Farm Bill briefing that included his assessment of the legislation's progress.

Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) officials attending the meeting noted that the Congressman's assessment of the Farm debate was very in-

PARCHED EARTH

The long summer months come and with them the dry season. All growing things begin to feel the heat and show the effects of thirst. Plant life begins to wither and fade away.

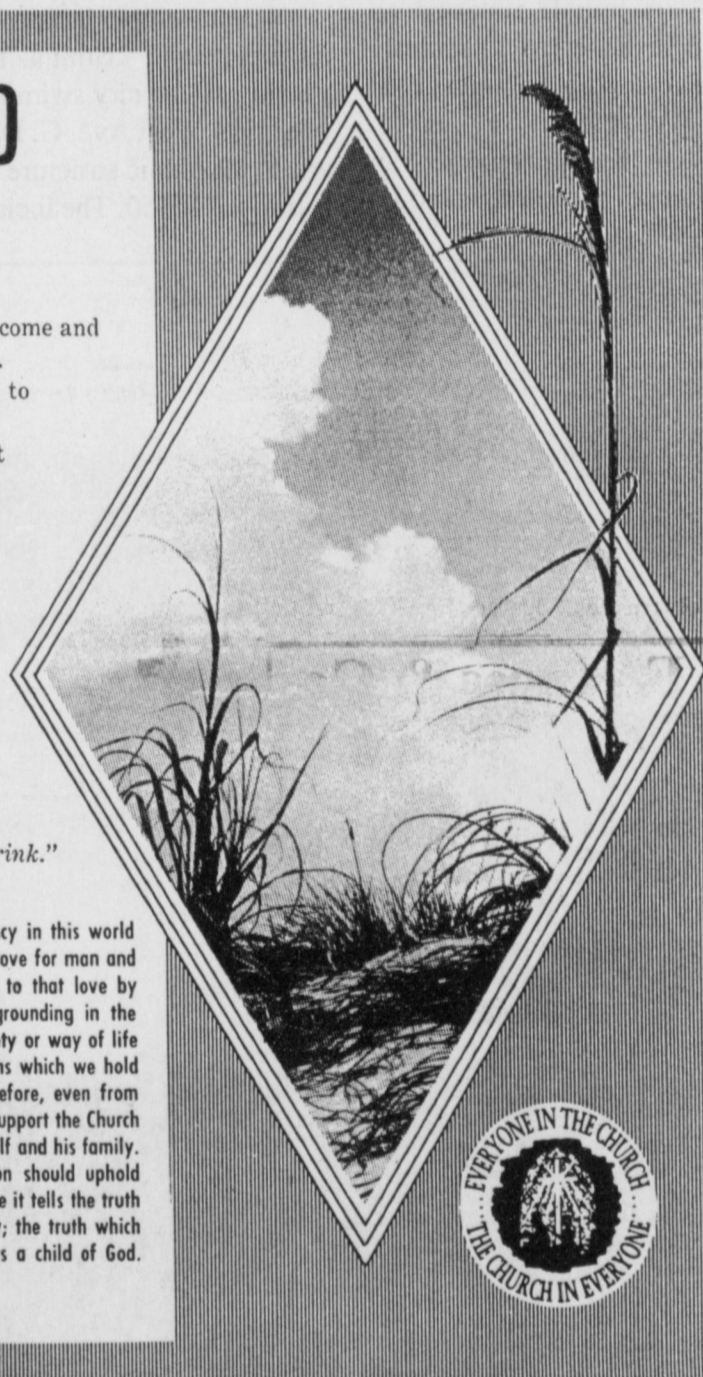

When one leaves God out of his life there is the same fading and incompleteness as the plant without water.

This Sunday put God into your life. Attend church.

"If any man thirst let him come unto me, and drink."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Alternative cooking styles featured on Creative Living

Information on alternative cooking styles and recipes for meal-in-a-loaf quick breads will be the featured topics on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, July 25th at 1 p.m. and on Saturday, July 29th at 3 p.m. (CDT) "Creative Living" airs on public broadcasting station, KENW-TV, from Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, NM.

Pete Zimmer, head chef at the Inn of the Anasazi in Santa Fe, NM, will share some cooking methods for some rather unusual dishes. Zimmer will also show some simple techniques and procedures in food preparation and presentation.

Another guest, Charlotte Hill, will share some of her favorite recipes for what some call meal-in-a-loaf. Hill is the Extension Home Economist for Chaves County in Roswell, NM.

On Tuesday, July 25th at 10:30 p.m. and on Thursday, July 27th at 1 p.m., "Creative Living" will demonstrate a nutritional way to cook, and share recipes for snacks and lunch box treats.

Steve Owen, Regal Ware Inc., will demonstrate how to fry foods with a cooking method that completely eliminates using oils and shortenings, and allows for the retention of important nutrients as well as flavor. Owen is from Kewaskum, WI.

Claudia O'Brien, CA Tree Fruit Agreement, will demonstrate recipes and ideas.

Garden spot of the week

Agnes Wolf, 520 West 6th St., receives this week's Jennyslipper award for the Garden Spot of the Week. Mrs. Wolf moved to Muleshoe in 1979 to work for Anthony's, after having retired from 20 years of service to the J.C. Penny's stores. After 10 years with Anthony's, Mrs. Wolf retired and currently enjoys her lovely flower garden. In the garden are giant marigolds, red verbenias, petunias, pinks, lilies, periwinkles, impatiences and rose bushes.

The Department of Common Sense

Scheduled for the wrecking ball in our government's plan to balance the budget are the departments of Energy, Commerce and Education. Knowing Washington D.C.'s track record on campaign promises, I wouldn't worry about losing anything.

But Jerry and I have come up with a new department complete with a secretary, a real secretary who can type and take dictation. It would have 100 non-paid voting members, two from each state. We have called it the Department of Common Sense.

Whenever a bill is presented in congress it would include a rating by the Department of Common Sense. Each proposal would have to respond to these four simple test questions:

1. The SO WHAT test

"This bill proposes that the state of Pennsylvania be allowed to transport and dump its nuclear waste in Idaho. If this bill isn't passed the users will have to bury it next to their own nuclear power plant!"

2. The WHODOESN'T test
"This bill provides funds to construct a superhighway from Alzada, Montana to Buffalo, South Dakota. These travelers deserve a better highway."

3. The WHO DOES IT HURT test
"I propose we place an embargo on all Japanese VCR's, automobiles and soy sauce imported into the United States."

4. The WHO'S PAYIN' FOR THIS test
"In this bill we only increase our deficit $200 trillion by the year 2025. But that's a long time off."

The 100 non-paid voting members would serve a three year overlapping term. To qualify, a member would be required to have paid taxes for at least ten years, never run for public office, be able to read and write, have voted in the last two national elections and have changed a diaper or oil filter in the last five years.

Each proposed bill would be summarized in 25 words or less and submitted to the Dept. of Common Sense. The members would then apply the four test questions to the bill. They would check FAVOR, OPPOSE or ABSTAIN. The results would then accompany the bill as it was presented to the Congress, Senate or President.

The Dept. of Common Sense would fill a huge void since this is one quality that seems to be lacking in the incestuous, compromise driven, get re-elected, day to day business of governing a democracy.

Alas, common sense tells me that a Dept. of Common Sense would have no clout in Washington (sorry, George) D.C. Lobbyists have beat us to the draw. They have their own Department of Common Cents.

formative.

"Because the Farm Bill is still in the early stages of development," explains PCG Executive Vice President Ronald Johnson, "everything is on the table and a wide array of options are still being considered."

He adds that because of budget constraints reducing Farm Program spending will be a major goal of those writing the new legislation.

According to Johnson, cotton has one of the best programs ever conceived in the marketing-loan program, which was first introduced in 1985. He noted that one of the major goals for the cotton industry will be to maintain as much of the current structure as possible in the 1995 Farm Bill.

Johnson concludes that once the legislation moves out of subcommittee and to the House Agriculture committee, in August, the picture will be much clearer as to what will and will not be included in the legislation.

In addition to the discussion of the 1995 Farm Bill, Johnson says several other important topics were brought up including the importance of maintaining federal support for beltwide boll weevil eradication Programs in 1995.

"The Strong-willed Child": Do You Know Any?

In one of the chapter titles of his fine book The Strong-willed Child, Dr. James Dobson asks the wry but perceptive question, "The Strong-willed Child—Is There Any Other Kind?" Well, is there? Some of us wonder.

Strong-willed children,

Focus On Faith
Curtiss Shelburne

Dobson observes, are the sort of kids who are born shaking their little fists at the world and smoking cigars! According to him, a mother often knows even before the birth that she's dealing with this type of child because for months the little darling has been carving his initials on the uterine wall! If book sales are any indication, lots of parents must feel that they have children of precisely this variety.

But, really, do most of us have to look at our kids to find a good example of a strong-willed individual? I can point to one even closer to home, can't you? My wife . . .

Nope. Closer than that. Now if someone would just write a book on dealing with the strong-willed self, that's a book I'd buy!

Someone did. Someone wrote a book especially for the person who is painfully aware of both his own willfulness and his shameful lack of willpower. I'm convinced that this writer understands me. Listen to him.

"My own behavior baffles me. For I find myself not doing what I really want to do but doing what I really loathe. I often find that I have the will to do good, but not the power. That is, I don't accomplish the good I set out to do, and the evil I don't really want to do I find I am always doing" (Romans 7:15, 19).

The writer, of course, is Paul; the book, the Bible. Paul illustrates the human predicament, but he also points to the divine solution—Jesus Christ, the One who offers power to mold even stubborn wills to His own, the One who at almost unimaginable cost to Himself freely offers forgiveness when we fall.

You see, our Father knows how to deal with strong-willed children. He's got a whole world full of them.

Curtiss Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.
