A great deal of confusion exists here concerning speed limits on North Main—the street over which U. S. Highway 183 passes through the city. According to two highway department signs almost in front of the High School—one on either side of the street—a speed limit of 50 miles per hour applies. However, during school hours local signs placed on the street warn of a limit of much less.

The situation is set up, it seems to me, for a very baffling legal mixup in the event a serious accident should occur on that route. Which signs govern? It doesn't take any great amount of imagination to conceive of what a good lawyer might do in defending a client in litigation arising out of such an event. An injured party, clearly entitled to compensation for damages suffered in an accident there, might find his claim invalid, while another

Aunt Cora Roach Buried Saturday In Services Here

Funeral services for Mrs. Cora Ann Roach, 93-year-old Rising Star pioneer, were held at the First Baptist Church in Rising Star at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 27. The Rev. Ed Jackson officiated and burial in Rising Star cemetery was directed by Higginbotham Funeral Home.

Aunt Cora, as Mrs. Roach was affectionately known to hundreds of friends and relatives throughout this area, died in Rising Star Hospital on Friday, February 26. She was a native of Illinois, born in that state on November 7, 1857, and came to Texas with her family when she was a child of ten. She was first married to J. T. Harris who died in 1901. She later married J. M. (Mose) Roach, father of another well known and pioneer Rising Star family, who died in 1941.

She is survived by two daughters by her first marriage, Mrs. J. A. Beard of Abilene and Mrs. Lee Brownfield of Big Spring; a foster son, A. W. Bailey of Rising Star; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Among her step-grandchildren are Weldon Roach and Mrs. Clark Crownover of Rising Star. Mrs. Robert Butler of Rising Star is a great-grandchild of her second husband.

Only last November Mrs. Roach celebrated her 93rd birthday jointly with her friend, 93-year-old Mrs. D. E. (Aunt Kate) Jones, with an open house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Eddy with whom they were living on North Main Street. She received many gifts and expressions of love and felicitation from friends and relatives throughout this area.

Pallbearers at the services were Arthur P. Smith, Lane Wells, Robert Butler, Clark Crownover, Claude Cox, Martin Joyce, H. S. Childress, Mack Gibson and Fred Roberds.

She was a charter member—and the oldest living member—of the First Baptist Church at the time of her death and was active as a Sunday School teacher and in other capacities in the service of her church during her long lifetime.

Popular Minister Presented Wrist Watch By Rising Star Business Men

Many expressions of regret and of thanks for his many and energetic contributions to the community betterment of Rising Star during three years as pastor of the First Baptist Church were voiced by Rising Star business men at a breakfast Saturday morning, Feb. 27, bidding farewell to the Rev. Ed Jackson, popular pastor. The minister preached his final sermon at the church Sunday before leaving this week to accept a call to the First Baptist Church of Shallowater, near Lubbock.

As the climax of the breakfast, attended by 20 or more friends and well-wishers, the minister, he was presented guilty of violation of traffic rules and poor judgment might escape all penalty whatsoever.

No doubt the situation arises from a conflict of jurisdiction, when there really is none. An incorporated city, I understand, has the prior right to regulate traffic on its streets, and certainly traffic such as passes over Main—including a large percentage of transcountry traffic—should be regulated, if only because it passes right in front of a school. The Highway Department, it occurs to me, should yield to the city in such instances, no matter what its overall policy may be. It is confusing indeed to have one speed limit apply during one period of time and a much higher limit at other times.

It would be better, I should think, for one speed limit, conforming to the requirements of safety where school children are involved, to be established and the approaches clearly marked with signs warning of a school and setting out the speed limit. Considering the rates of speed with which a high percentage of cars and trucks rush into Rising Star from that direction, it would be a good thing for all concerned regardless of whether or not school is in session. With traffic increasing on both Highway 36 and U. S. 183, it is time we began to take some serious and reasonable steps to keep it within the bounds of safety or we are likely to experience a tragedy that could be nothing short of terrible. One shudders to think what could be the consequences with one of these big gasoline or LP trucks wrapped about one of our buildings.

Student Teacher To Train in Ag Department Here

Rising Star High School has been selected as a student teaching center by the department of Agricultural Education at Texas A. and M. College. The student teacher, Calvin Freeman of Comanche, Texas, will conduct classes in the vocational agriculture department at Rising Star High School during March 7-April 15, according to Sam Jones, superintendent of the schools.

Mr. Freeman, a student at Texas A&M, is preparing to become a teacher of vocational agriculture after graduation. In preparation for this profession, he will spend six weeks of this semester doing student teaching. Such teaching, made possible by cooperation of the local agriculture department and Texas A&M, permits him to gain direct teaching experience under supervision of an experienced teacher of vocational agriculture.

E. V. Walton, head of the Agricultural Education Department at A&M College, said that the local vocational agriculture department, with H. L. Geyer as teacher, is considered one of the outstanding departments in Texas.

Mrs. Perry Vallant is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. W. Boyd, and Mr. Boyd in Andrews this week.

February Sets Longtime Record For Steady Cold

For once at least, if he followed tradition, the groundhog proved an accurate weather forecaster. If, as the old saying goes, he saw his shadow on February 2 and went back into hibernation, he did the smart thing. And as of Wednesday he still had two weeks more of winter slumbering left, with a very good chance that he would remain in bed.

The records reveal that the month of February, just completed, and the beginnings of March conformed to all the laws of a hard winter, only more so. It put the climactic touch to a season which set a record, at least for many years past, for sustained cold and recurring northers.

And with the entrance of March this week on the wintriest note of the season—with schools closed and streets almost deserted to ice and freezing rain—it looked as if the record would be extended some further.

According to one calculation, there were 17 days during February when the temperature was below freezing. The City's records revealed that the average low for the month was 30.4 degrees and the average high 53.4. At that, February was but little ahead of January in that respect, if at all, for the record shows that the average low during January was 33 degrees, only slightly above freezing, and the average high 52.5 degrees, less than February's level.

Precipitation during January was 2.8 inches and for February 1.41 inches.

Freezing rain, covering the streets and roads with a thin but dangerous film of ice, forced closing of the Rising Star schools during Tuesday and Wednesday, and cut traffic to a minimum. A number of big trucks were stalled here and at other points along the highways, for parts of the period.

Needless to state, the moisture added to the already highly optimistic outlook for the farming and ranching season of 1960, with the best deep ground season that has been provided in many years.

School officials said Wednesday that unless there is a recurrence of severe icing conditions, which was not expected, classes would resume at the local schools Thursday.

Fox Bounty in Doubt; Cats $3; Wolves $5

There will be no bounty paid on foxes killed in Eastland County until the attorney general rules on the question of whether or not a fox is a fur-bearing or predatory animal within the meaning of the state laws, County Comm'r Bob Carter said this week.

Meanwhile, a bounty of $3 will be paid on cats and $5 on wolves, he said.

Patrons Urged To Visit Local Schools This Week

This week is Public School Week in Texas during which time a statewide effort is under way to encourage a greater interest in the functioning and purposes of the public education system.

Chairman for Rising Star is W. C. (Bill) Crawford who said that, because of the uncertainty of the weather, no specific day was designated for visitation in the schools, but that an invitation is extended to the public, and particularly to patrons of the schools, to take opportunity some time during the week to visit the local classrooms and observe the work being done there.

His invitation was seconded by Supt. Sam Jones and members of his faculty, both in the High and Elementary schools. Those patrons who have special rooms, classes or departments in which they are interested will find a cordial welcome here, not only during this special emphasis week, but at any other time during the season, Mr. Jones said.

Mrs. Nichols Dies At Lubbock; Buried At Wolf Valley

Mrs. Pauline Lucy Nichols, 46, who died at Lubbock Methodist Hospital at 12:50 p.m. Sunday, was buried in Wolf Valley Cemetery near here Tuesday after services at 2:30 p.m. at Higginbotham Funeral Chapel here. Condition of Aaron Robinson "Not So Good" Early Wednesday in Houston

Reports from a Houston hospital Wednesday morning said that the condition of Aaron Robinson, formerly of Rising Star, had become "not so good", according to the Humble Pipe Line office at Cisco.

The condition of J. A. Robinson, formerly of Rising Star, who was injured in an automobile accident near Goldthwaite Wednesday of last week, remained critical this week in a Houston hospital to which he was flown for brain surgery and special treatment, according to information from the Humble Pipe Line Co. North Texas Division offices at Cisco. Mr. Robinson was oil transportation manager for the Cisco district of the Humble P&LCO, and was for many years chief gauger at Rising Star until Humble sold its properties in this area.

His wife, the former Maxine Branton of this city, and two daughters were at his bedside. Mr. Robinson was injured in the same accident which fatally injured a co-worker with Humble.

Plans to Handle Traffic Made in Meeting Here

Preliminary work on concrete structures on Highway 36 west of Rising Star was due to begin within about a week, M. D. Ellis, superintendent for the contractor, Ernest Loyd of Fort Worth, said last week. Dirt moving equipment was expected to start moving in within 30 days.

The work will begin the reconstruction of a 5.8-mile section of State Highway 36 from Pioneer to Rising Star, under a contract awarded Ernest Loyd on a low bid of $290,833.40.

Plans for handling traffic on the route during the construction between various agencies were discussed at a meeting at the City Hall at 10 a.m. Wednesday of last week attended by city and precinct officials, representatives of the contractor, the State Highway Department and the State Highway Patrol.

R. S. Martin, Sr. resident engineer of the Highway Department, from Brownwood, called and presided at the meeting.

Attending were Mr. Ellis, C. A. Cockrell, Sgt. Texas Highway Patrol, Eastland; Roy S. Muckelroy, Sr. Party Chief, Texas Highway Department, Brownwood; R. L. (Bob) Carter, C. Comm'r., Prec. 3; Mayor Walter Smith; Coistable R. B. Forehand; City Watchman Geo. Carter, and E. A. Butler of The Record.

Mr. Martin emphasized that the first consideration in handling of traffic is to insure the travelling public of as much convenience and safety as possible in negotiating the route during construction. The contractor, he pointed out, has the responsibility for providing adequate detours and access routes, during the construction and, where detours are not possible, of seeing that construction is organized and carried out in such a way that adequate passage for the movement of traffic in both directions is provided at all times. Approved barricades, signs, and warning lights and well-trained and courteous flagmen are required in Highway Department safety rules which were read by Mr. Muckelroy. Safety measures to be followed in the movement of heavy trucks and other equipment were reviewed.

Mr. Ellis said that the work would be organized in such a way that all construction which can be done before the present pavement is torn up will be carried out first. Sections of relocation of the route immediately west of town will be closed to all traffic during construction, it was explained. Speed limits on the route during the construction are set up for 45 miles an hour, Mr. Martin said.

The section through the city of Rising Star, from the western limits to the traffic light at the intersection of Highway 183, will probably be the last to be built, it was said.

$713 Raised for March of Dimes In Rising Star

The total amount raised for the March of Dimes in Rising Star during the campaign just finished, set a record for recent years, according to an announcement by A. D. Jenkins, general campaign chairman. Mr. Jenkins said that accounting of all funds received from the various areas of the campaign, showed a total of $713.25, far exceeding last year's record.

"We are deeply grateful for the fine response to the appeal," said Mr. Jenkins, "and certainly appreciative of the fine work of those who helped in the Mothers March 'road block' and of the campaign."

New Methods Contribute to More Efficient Agricultural Production

Editor's Note — Following is the second of two articles written by Rising Star FFA members as a part of their FFA Week activities.

By TOMMY BYRD

Agriculture contributes about one third of the total annual income for the state of Texas. Many new methods are being found daily. There are insecticides, fungicides, herbicides, pesticides, antibiotics, plant regulators, and defoliants now available for the farmer to use. The first successful use of an insecticide was accomplished in 1867. A variety of chemicals were in use by 1900. DDT was first used in 1942. The period of "blood, sweat, and tears" was a period of hand labor and famines. McCormick reduced this labor a great deal with his reaping machine. Eli Whitney invented a cotton gin which speeded up the processing of cotton many fold. Our chemical control of bugs as we use today was not developed over night. In 470 Democritus used a product of olives to cure blight. In 1850 Duchatel invented dusting of sulphur on foliage. In 1854 fumigation was used to control against stored grain pests. In 1860 the bucket spray pump appeared.

Lincoln created the U. S. Department of Agriculture and numerous land grant colleges. This change and others helped make farming what it is today. Not all of the progress was made in chemistry. Twenty-five years ago the farmer still used mules. Today's farmer must have and use technical knowledge in agronomy, agriculture engineering, chemistry, economics, and the other sciences. There are hormones put in the rations, some of these are Stilbestrol (a growth stimulant), Taposole for feed efficiency, antibiotics to prevent disease, and tranquilizers are being used in feeding beef calves. There have been considerable advances in research in bloat in animals. An experiment feeding two calves was performed under controlled conditions. One was fed a ration of today and the other was fed one like he would have received in 1908. The results showed that the calf fed on today's ration gained 42 percent faster on 30 percent less feed at 33 percent less cost.

In swine there have also been considerable steps made. Now the farmer can worm his hogs by simple processes, using hygro-mix. In the sheep industry there has been a cobalt bullet made which can be given in a tube-like gun.

An X-ray machine permits Iowa State scientists to detect decay inside trees and minimize the waste of labor. South Dakota has a special breed of no-tail sheep. California researchers are breeding hybrid bees. Iowa State University experts are working on an electronic brain. Dr. R. V. Fessup, vet and dairyman, says a 3-by-1½ inch magnet dropped in a cow's stomach will stop hardware disease. The germination of seed is speeded up by shocking them with an electronic current. A hybrid sugar beet is now available to the farmer. Perennial wheat seems to be on the way. A new forage crop, a cross of sorghum and Johnson grass, makes 30 tons of forage to the acre.

Coastal Bermuda grass is the beef producing champion. In a test in Alabama it produced 100 pounds of beef per acre of forage. Two implants of stilbestrol are sometimes better than one. Tapazole picks up gains 13 percent. Cattle with access to shade gain faster and use less feed. Cool hogs also gain faster. Pellets have been proved to be best in feeding lambs. In the mechanical line a rotary hoe has proved to be ten times faster than a cultivator in the long run. A late development is a break away haymower which releases and breaks back upon hitting a rock or solid object. A piston free turbine tractor in its experimental states seems only a short time away. Skip row planting, skipping every other four rows, adds one half bale to the acre to cotton yields. Prestarter fed to pigs at three days of age gets them off to a faster start. Automatic PTO hay balers speeds haymaking. A new amino acid called proline has a big effect on chick growth. They gain 10 to 40 percent faster. A new rat killer is packed in vacuum pack ed cans you just open and push in the side and you have a ready-made bait station. Crushing or conditioning hay saves time and helps you get hay in before bad weather can strike. These new methods along with many others being developed daily make it possible for the 1960 farmer to produce more and better products for the billions of people in the world.

Union Center Club Has Community Night

The club furnished chili buns and Mrs. Allen brought a delicious cake for lunch, which we all enjoyed very much.

That night was community night. Mrs. Buck Maples and Mrs. Walter Hill were hostesses. "42" and canasta were enjoyed.

Visitors at the quilting were Mrs. Pearl Criswell, Mrs. Jo Ann Linney and Miss Joanna Allen. Members present were Mmes. Aaron Gage, Roy Allen, Henry Reed, Authur Wright, Tom Perkins, Walter Hill, Henry Scott, G. G. Crowell, Cecil Shults, Jack Knox, and B. H. Hearren.

Comanche Meetings on Peanut Plantings

The following meetings will be held in Comanche County for the purpose of discussing the underplanting of peanuts in 1958 and 1959, and the effect underplanting in the future will have in establishing state, county, and farm allotments:
March 2, 1960, Comanche, district court room, 1:30 p.m.;
March 3, 1960, De Leon, City Hall, 1:30 p.m.

All peanut producers and other interested persons are urged to attend one of these meetings.

In 1959 the county peanut allotment was 50,952.4 acres. Of this amount approximately 43,712.0 acres of peanuts were harvested.

In 1958 the county peanut allotment was 51,062.0 acres, and approximately 42,919.2 acres were harvested.

O. D. Johnson is office manager of the Comanche County ASC.

Mrs. Flo Appleby of De Leon has returned to her home after a two weeks visit here with Mrs. Beyrl Heath.

Rising Star Teacher's Research Is Published By U. S. Education Office

DENTON. — Master's degree research by two North Texas State College home economics graduates is reported in a survey of outstanding contributions to the improvement of college home economics programs just published by the U. S. Office of Education.

The studies are those of Mrs. Billie Hopper Nowlin, now a teacher at Rising Star, and Mrs. Patsy Taylor Wilson, a Rankin teacher.

The work is summarized in the new 144-page book, "Studies on the Teaching of Home Economics in Colleges and Universities, 1955-56."

Mrs. Nowlin and Mrs. Wilson received master of science degrees in home economics education from NTSC in 1956. Their research was supervised by Dr. Editha Luecke.

Purpose of the publication is to make more readily available findings and techniques from home economics studies which have implications for the improvement of college programs. State committees appointed by state supervisors of home economics reviewed graduate studies in their states and recommended them for consideration by the Office of Education.

The final report is based on 52 of these studies selected from 25 schools in the United States. NTSC is the only Texas institution represented in the list and is one of 11 in the country from which more than one study was selected for inclusion in the book.

Reports of the two Texans appear in a section dealing with predicting professional success in home economics.

Mrs. Nowlin's primary purpose was to classify home economics courses into aptitude areas and to find out what relationship existed between these areas and the areas of the differential aptitude test.

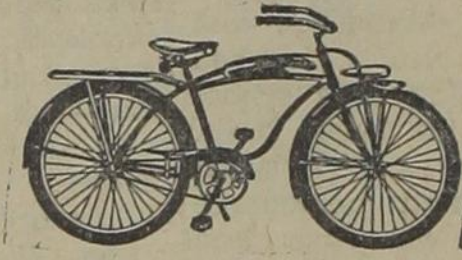

She analyzed the records of 75 home economics education majors who graduated from NTSC between 1952 and 1955.

Instructors teaching the 22 required home economics courses analyzed and classified them as to the proportion of the course content requiring any one of the eight aptitudes measured by the differential aptitude test.

Mrs. Nowlin found highly significant statistical correlations between success in the courses and aptitude scores in verbal reasoning, numerical ability, abstract reasoning, and sentence aptitudes. Significant relationships occurred in mechanical reasoning and in clerical speed and accuracy.

Mrs. Wilson's study analyzed the extent to which the success of home economics teachers could be predicted by their scores on interest and personality tests.

PLENTY OF HOT WATER WITH A QUICK RECOVERY

Electric WATER HEATER

Here's Why Your Water Heater Should Be Electric

NEW LOW RATE

New low ONE CENT rate for electric water heaters... homes, stores, shops or plants... now you can enjoy controlled electric water heating for only one cent (1¢) per kilowatt hour.

FAST HEATING

The Quick Recovery electric water heater... a brand new development in electric water heating... equipped with super speed heating elements is so efficient that hot water is replaced in the heater almost as fast as it is used.

A 40 gallon Quick Recovery electric water heater will outperform a standard 82 gallon heater. Electric heating, 100% efficient, puts all of the heat into the water. Much of the heat in flame-type heaters is wasted up the flue.

NO FLAME

With flameless electric heaters there is no danger from escaped fuel, no pilot light to go out, no flame or combustible materials. The electric heater is clean and safe as a light bulb.

FREE WIRING

Free wiring for customers served by WTU. This free wiring offer also applies to 220 volt ranges and clothes dryers. Ask your electric appliance dealer or WTU.

There's never any work or worry with a Quick Recovery electric water heater. In new homes, in remodeled homes or replacing existing water heaters you will appreciate the space saving compactness of the Quick Recovery electric water heater. With no chimney or flue connections necessary, the electric water heater can be installed anywhere in the house. Saves space, saves money by preventing heat loss due to long pipe runs.

Talking Is All Right—

... if you are running for office or courting your best girl, but when it comes to buying land or town properties don't let the owner talk you out of an abstract. The fact that the seller has owned the property for many years doesn't mean necessarily that his title is good. The safest plan is to get an abstract before you buy. The cheapest property on earth is too high if the title is faulty.
