FAILURE OF PENITENTIARY SYSTEM

The Houston Post, after reading the report of the committee which investigated it, concludes that "the spirit of reformation of criminals is totally absent from the Texas penitentiary system." It quotes findings set forth in the report: "Physical conditions on the farms are not satisfactory." "The clothing of the prisoners is insufficient." "The bedding is, in most cases, unfit for human use." "None of the buildings has necessary facilities for sanitation and sewage disposal plants." Add to these citations the "instances of whippings and strappings, kickings, beatings and other brutal methods brought to the attention of the two subcommittees," and one must feel that a worse indictment than the Post makes can be proved.

As a correctional institution, the Texas penitentiary is undoubtedly a failure. It is probably worse, for it is perhaps true, as the Post says, that the men and women who go there, whether good or bad, "come away worse than they were." No financial statement, however successful it proclaims the industrial and fiscal operations of the penitentiary system, can extenuate its failure as a correctional institution. In fact, it makes that failure more blatant and deepens the reproach put upon the authorities and people who tolerate it. It deprives them of the plea that this disregard of the rights which belong to the convicts as human beings is due to financial necessity. Quite the contrary, indeed, is suggested. When one views the penitentiary system's balance sheet and then considers the neglects and cruelties imposed on the convicts, one sees that the profit results not only from the successful exploitation of their labor, but from the practice of economies that are a denial of their rights as human beings. The State coins not only their labor, but their lives and their souls; for it foreconditions on them which both shorten their lives and tend to strengthen their criminal impulses. There is an ineradicable taint to such profits that transmits itself to the conscience of the people who are content to accept them.

An indignant denial would be made if Texas were charged with having, for the sake of financial profit, deprived the convicts of rights which belong to them as human beings. But that denial would be valid only to the extent that they have not done so consciously. It is undeniably true that the profits of the penitentiary system would be less, and might have vanished if it had clothed, fed, housed and treated the convicts in a way they deserve, according to every consideration of justice and humanity. The fundamental fact is that, urged on by preceding financial failures, those in authority have become so obsessed with the determination to make the penitentiary system pay that they have become unmindful of the higher duty of caring for the physical, mental and moral well-being of the convicts. Every other consideration has been sacrificed, consciously or unconsciously, to that of making the operations of the system profitable. Things which ought to have been done chiefly because the doing of them would have impeded the policy of profit-making. Even the brutality to which the convicts have been subjected is in no small degree due to this policy of profit-making, for the reason that the payment of higher salaries to guards would enlist in the service men of a character which would serve as a preventive of such brutality.

The conditions which the investigation has disclosed can no longer be tolerated, if the people are to escape the stigma of them.—Dallas News.

J. F. Templeton was in town Friday from Woodville, six miles northwest of Richland Springs. He is the bookkeeper for the Wood Bros' large plantation. He talks optimistically of the past year and hopefully for the future. On the Wood plantation there were cultivated more than 1,600 acres of rich sandy land last year. Last week another small sandy land farm was bought and added to this plantation. Claude and Jeff Wood are native born citizens of San Saba county. They are now operating one of the largest business concerns of the county. It's farming but it is big business. This plantation is operated with hired labor and a complete set of books is kept of every transaction. The business is conducted under four superintendents and a strict account and checking balance is kept with each superintendent. A general merchandise store, or commissary, is conducted and a weekly payroll is kept of the labor account. 1917 will be long remembered for the unprecedented drouth which blighted and parched all of west Texas. In the face of this drouth the Wood Bros' plantation showed a balance of more than $20,000 over and above the operating expenses. This farm made feed stuff in abundance. Four crops of Sudan grass were cut from this dry land meadow. Corn, cotton, peanuts, soup beans, Sudan grass and potatoes were all grown in abundance. Soup beans at 10 cents a pound, peanuts at the prevailing market price and peanut hay at $25.00 a ton have all proven to be profitable crops. And cotton at 25 to 30 cents a pound is good. This farm, unlike most farms of the county and of this section of Texas, is selling instead of buying feed stuff.

GIFFORD PINCHOT ENDORSES ADMINISTRATION MEASURE

Mr. W. A. Smith, Editor News, San Saba, Texas.

My Dear Mr. Smith:

The twelve-year fight to keep the Nation's water power from capture by the power monopolists is at last on the verge of being won. The Administration Water Power Bill, now before Congress opens the way to save for the people of the United States their most valuable natural asset. Some fifty million water horsepower is at stake.

The bill in question was formulated under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of War, and the Secretary of the Interior, was submitted to the President for his approval, and recently put forward as an Administration measure. It deals with water power in National Forests, public lands, Indian lands, and navigable streams. A special Committee of the House has been created to consider it.

It is an admirable measure, drawn with thorough knowledge and unusual skill. The principles essential for the wise use and development of our public water powers in the public interest are all embodied in it.

In my letter to you of November 16, 1917, I urged your support of the following seven definite principles in water power legislation:

(1) The thing to do with water power is to develop it. Whatever retards or restricts the development of public water powers on terms fair to the public is against public policy and hostile to the general welfare.

(2) Water power belongs to the people. The sites where it is produced should always be held in public hands, for only so can effective control in the general interest be secured.

(3) Where public development is not desired, the right to use water power sites should be leased for periods long enough to permit sound, attractive, and profitable investment, but never longer than fifty years. At the end of each lease all rights should return to the people who gave them.

(4) In order to protect the consumer against extortion, rates and service should be regulated by Federal authority when State or local authorities fail to do so.

(5) Reasonably prompt and complete development and continuous operation, subject to market conditions, should be required. Already millions of water horsepower are held out of use to further monopoly by private corporations.

(6) Corporations or individuals who make money out of rights granted by the people should share their profits with the people.

(7) The public has a right to complete information about every business based on the use of public property.

It is a real pleasure to tell you that every one of these principles is fully safeguarded in the Administration's Water Power Bill. What remains, therefore, is for Congress to put this measure through without delay.

The Administration Water Power Bill will first come before the House of Representatives, where an effort will certainly be made to amend it in the interest of the power interests. If that fails, the water power lobbyists will endeavor to have the indefensible provisions of the Shields bill substituted in the Senate for the Administration bill. Beaten in that, they will fall back upon the formula of obstruction and delay they have used so successfully for the last ten years.

This measure is practical, fair, and wise. The friends of Conservation should insist that their friends in Congress shall give their prompt and full support to the Administration Water Power Bill, and shall see to it that it is passed without emasculation, substitution, or postponement. It is of vital interests to our country while the War is on, and will be equally important after the War is over.

The passage of this law will secure to the American people forever vast resources whose use for the good of all will make this land a safer and a better place to live in. All the forces of Conservation are behind it. I urge you to give the Administration Water Power Bill your strongest approval and support.

Sincerely yours,
GIFFORD PINCHOT.

The figure 67 in stars appears upon the Service Flag flying from the general office building of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Company at Galveston and represents the number of men who have, up to the present time, joined the army forces of the government. Almost 10 per cent of the 700 employes in the general office building have already gone and many more are liable for service under the next call. The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway as a whole has furnished 379 men for war service.

BENEFITS OF WINTER WEATHER

The Southwest seldom has very cold weather. We are so accustomed to pleasant weather even in winter that when a blizzard comes we are wholly unprepared for it and may be greatly embarrassed in taking care of our livestock and perishable products of the farm and the orchard. This is what happened recently when cold wind, snow and low temperature suddenly disturbed our preparations for crops.

The weather has been unusually severe for our Southwestern winters, yet the rain, snow and freezes will be worth millions of dollars to farmers in this locality. Those who had their land plowed may have the satisfaction of retaining moisture. In many places where drouth has delayed breaking there is sufficient moisture to begin. That advantage will be taken of this there can be no doubt.

Snow and freezes are always beneficial where advantage is taken of them in preparing land. Snow forms a cover for fall-sown grain, affording moisture which readily percolates, thus preventing heaving and injury to plants where freezes follow. The effects of the snow and freezes widely distributed over the Southwest recently will be of almost inestimable value. The soil will be improved and doubtless insect enemies will be reduced.—Farm and Ranch.

KILLEEN SCHOOL IN SESSION SATURDAYS

To Speed up Instruction to Release Rural Pupils for Farm Work

Killeen, Texas., Jan. 23.—Effective this week and until the session closes, school will be taught here on Saturdays—giving the children six days of work each week. This plan has been adopted by the trustees in order that the rural pupils attending the school might finish their courses and assist with the farm work earlier in the spring. The action is characterized as a speeding up program to help win the war, inasmuch as the production of food, etc., is considered essential to military success.

The six days a week session will shorten the spring term about three weeks, yet the required number of days in the school room will be crowded into the term.

FIVE WAYS TO FOOD VARIETY

We must have food to grow, to keep war, and to work. Our food must be nutritious in that it does all these things. It is also important that it should taste good. It will not only be better relished, but it will be better utilized by the body if it does. Food will be more nutritious if it is varied. Variety may be secured by selecting for the daily diet something from each of the following five groups of food: (1) Fruits and vegetables; (2) Milk, meat eggs, cheese, fish, peas, beans, and nuts; (3) Cereals; (4) Sweets; (5) Fats.—Department Bulletin.

ROUMANIA WILL STAND BY ALLIES TO THE END

Cabinet Member Points out Some of Conditions of Lasting Peace.

Jassy, Roumania, Jan. 17.—Take Jonescu, one of the leading statesmen of Roumania and vice president of the Council of Ministers, whose resignation from the Cabinet King Ferdinand recently declined to accept, told the Associated Press today that the Roumanian people would remain faithful to the entente allies until the end, "whatever that end might be."

He pointed out, however, that if Russia makes peace and the Roumanians are forced to seek refuge they would have no Cofu like Serbia, when her soldiers were forced to leave their native soil.

Referring to a general peace, he said:

"The Roumanian Nation can not support the belief that justice will be given to all others and not to herself. The union of Roumanian provinces now under the domination of Austria-Hungary—that nation so guilty for the provocation of the war—with free Roumania is one of the elementary conditions of a just and lasting peace.

"Great Britain, France and Italy are pledged to restore these provinces to Roumania, as Premier Lloyd George and Foreign Minister Pichon recently have said.

"While the United States is not bound by treaty with small nations, these nations have established the justice of their war aims by sacrifices immensely greater in proportion than those of great nations."

COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

Nutritious salad makes a good dish for a home luncheon. As they are rich in protien, cheese salads take the place of cold meat dishes. The following is an inexpensive, nutritious cottage cheese salad:

Mix thoroughly one pound of cheese one and one-half tablespoonfuls of cream, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and salt to taste. First, fill a rectangular tin mold with cold water to chill and wet the surface. After removing the water, line the bottom of the mold with waxed paper; then pack the cheese in three layers, putting two or three parallel strips of pimiento, lettuce leaf, or chopped nuts, between layers. Cover with waxed paper and set in a cool place until ready to serve; then run a knife around the sides and invert the mold. Cut in slices and serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing and wafers. Mincd olives may be used instead of the parsley, and chopped nuts also may be added.—Department Bulletin.

THE CHANCELLOR'S ADDRESS.

(From Ft. Worth Star-Telegram)

All the points upon which the German chancellor expresses agreement with President Wilson have to do with conditions which are to obtain after the war. This is also true of the points which the chancellor says Germany would be willing to discuss. On all other points the chancellor might have just as well entered a short and emphatic negative, for that is what his reply in each case amounts to.

Those which he accepts are precisely those which anyone acquainted with the situation would expect him to accept. These are (1) open covenants instead of secret treaties in future; (2) freedom of the seas, and (3) equality of trade conditions after the war. The German government, as things stand, could not very well express anything but agreement with the first proposition, though there would be good ground to doubt its sincerity in carrying it out. The other two propositions are in Germany's interest. They are the things which the allies are willing to concede in the event of a just peace, but which would be weapons in the hands of the allies in the event they were forced to accept anything less than such a peace. There is nothing conceded, therefore, in agreeing to these proposals.

Then in addition to these the chancellor says Germany would be willing to discuss disarmament and a league of nations, after the other questions are settled. This eliminates five of President Wilson's fourteen pillars of peace. To the other nine the chancellor's reply in effect is that Germany cannot agree to them. So it will be seen that upon examination the much vaunted "conciliatory attitude" vanishes. Von Hertling assumes the tone of a conqueror. What he says to the allies is practically this: "If you want peace, you will have to make up your minds to pay a higher price for it. We control the situation. We occupy French territory; we occupy Russian territory; we occupy Belgium. This is our trading material. What do you bid? Come again."

Sifted down to a formula, that is what Von Hertling's address amounts to, and to that there is only one answer. So long as that is the attitude of the central powers, the decision must be on the battlefield. Germany's devastation of Belgium and Northern France will never be regarded by the allies as something for Germany to trade with. There will be no bargained peace. Germany's rape of Belgium was one of the greatest crimes of history. Far from being regarded as something to Germany's advantage it stands before the whole world as the chief evidence of Germany's guilt. It is not something for which Germany must be paid. It is something for which Germany must atone.

All that need be quoted of the chancellor's address are the following two sentences:

"The Belgian question belongs to those questions which are to be settled in the peace conference."

"The occupied parts of France are a valuable pawn in our hands."

Those two sentences contain the whole spirit of the Von Hertling address. Of what use is it to discuss what an opponent with such an attitude thinks of open covenants, freedom of the seas, freedom of trade, disarmament, and a league of nations? Such an opponent could not be trusted to keep any kind of a covenant, for he still regards the violated treaty with Belgium as something to trade with. So long as this is the attitude of Germany there can be no peace, for it would be suicide to disarm before such a power, it would be the height of folly to admit it to a league of nations and restrictions of its right to the navigation of the seas and to equality of trade with other nations might easily become necessary weapons of defense against it.

The German chancellor wants to know our bid. What price will we pay for Germany to stop fighting? What price will we pay for the evacuation of the invaded and spoiled portions of France? What price will we pay for the withdrawal of troops from bleeding and violated Belgium? Good God! Will the time ever come when we shall be willing to bargain with a criminal over his crimes? Will the time ever come when we shall be willing to talk peace on such terms? In the face of this, is there any need to inquire what the chancellor says about Alsace-Lorraine, about Poland, about Russian territory, about the Italian portions of Austria, about Germany's "loyal, brave ally, Turkey" (sic), about colonial and other questions? Does it not become plain that so long as this represents the attitude of the Imperial German government, so long as the German people stand behind their government in such an attitude, the war must go on? We hope there is nowhere in the allied world a single loyal patriot who thinks otherwise.

If the German army must be driven beyond the Rhine, if the occupied portions of France and Belgium are to be removed from the sphere of negotiation by allied arms, if it is necessary to have occupied portions of German territory upon which to "trade"—if that is the task ahead of us, then that task must be undertaken with unwavering spirit. We cannot think of the blood that must be shed to accomplish it. We can only think of the blood that has been shed already. The lives of the living are no more sacred than the lives of the dead. We shall never insult the memory of the beloved dead by abandoning the cause for which they died. Let Americans now prepare for war, indeed. Let them prepare for any sacrifice, any suffering, any martyrdom on the battlefield rather than that. The present government of Germany has decided to stand or fall by the force of might. Whether the German people will stand behind them in this is not for us to ask at this time. So long as the German people have such spokesmen, so long must they take the consequences. Nor is it for us to ask whether the peoples of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy will stand behind its government in an alliance with such a power. That is for them to decide. Our own duty is clear. And just so sure as there is a God of justice, we shall perform that duty.

"Let there be no misunderstanding," said President Wilson in his address to congress last month. "Our present and immediate task is to win the war and nothing shall turn us aside until it is accomplished. Every power and resource we possess, whether of men, of money, or of materials, is being devoted and will continue to be devoted to that purpose until it is achieved. Those who desire to bring peace about before that purpose is achieved, I counsel to carry their advice elsewhere. We will not entertain it."

And such must be the deep conviction of every American patriot in this hour.

Dan Miller has furnished the News with a record of the cotton ginned in this county prior to January 1st. The record shows a total of 3,903 bales this year against a total of 7,428 bales for the same period last year.

THE BAPTISTS IN A CAMPAIGN FOR EDUCATION

The Baptists of Texas own and operate more than one dozen schools located in different sections of the State. They conduct a Theological Seminary at Ft. Worth, the second largest Baptist Theological Seminary in the world. They conduct a Medical College which is in Class A, allied with the Baptist Sanitarium, Dallas. They conduct two nurses training schools of the first grade. The other schools are all correlated with Baylor University and are from the academic grade to the college grade.

Two years ago, the Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas resolved to raise $1,000,000 to set all of these schools forward, the same to be raised in four separate campaigns, one quarter of a million a year. The first campaign resulted in $265,000 cash. The second, resulted in $282,000 cash. The Baptists in every section of the State are now in a sixty days campaign, beginning January the first, to raise the third quarter of a million dollars. No notes are taken.

There are 5,000 students in all of the Baptist schools of Texas; Theological, Medical, Literary, and such like.

The Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, selected as a campaign committee to carry this third effort to success: J. R. Gambrell, Corresponding Secretary of the Board, S. P. Brooks, President of Baylor University and L. R. Scarborough, President of the Southwestern Theological Seminary.

The campaign is well under way. All the forces of the Baptist denomination in this State are enlisted. The pastors, the school men, the missionaries, the women workers, the B. Y. P. U's. and the Sunday schools are all in. It is the purpose to carry the question of Christian Education into every Baptist church in the State and to appeal to the intelligent devotion of Baptists to help the great cause of Christian Education. The campaign opens auspiciously. The school centers are responding nobly and the committee is hopeful, though not unmindful of the difficulties of the times we are now in.

Chairman, for the Committee.

Miles Millican of the Chappel section took his wife to the hospital week before last and she submitted to an operation for appendicitis. She was recovering nicely at last report.

CAMP TRAVIS NEWS

M. K. Carter of the Supply Co. 345th Field Artillery, Camp Travis, is now attending the Tractor School. This honor was given private Carter by his Company Commander because of his special ability along this line and he will no doubt make good in this new service just as he has in all work in the National Army.

Corporal Robert H. Carr, has been transferred from the Headquarters Company, 345 F. A. to the Casual Department, which is located at Hancock, Georgia.

Private John W. Watkins of San Saba, who, during the past several months has been on detached service at Remount Station No. 2, from Battery A, 345th Field Artillery, has returned recently to his organization, and has been assigned to the "Sixth Section" thereof. "The Boys" are more than glad to have him back again in Battery A.

In accordance with E. O. No. 7, dated January 15, 1918, Vester H. Ruffner of San Saba, has been appointed a first class private in Battery A, 345th Field Artillery.

Floyd E. Brezeale, a San Saba boy who is stationed at Battery B of the 345th Field Artillery at Camp Travis Texas, is proving a worthy man. He has recently been selected by his Captain from a Battery of about 200 men to be a member of the Battery Commanders Detail. It is considered among the men of the Battery to be quite an honor to be chosen as a member of this detail, as only the best men are selected for it. If Brezeale makes good on this work, and we are sure he will, it will mean promotion to something good.

A WOMAN'S BURDENS

are lightened when she turns to the right medicine. If her existence is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and mental disorders that afflict her sex, she will find relief and emancipation from her troubles in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run-down," she finds new life and strength. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic and nerve which was discovered and used by an eminent physician for many years, in cases of "female complaints" and weaknesses. For young girls just entering womanhood; for women at the critical time of life; in bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulcerations, inflammation, and kindred ailments, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine put up without alcohol—ingredients on wrapper. All druggists. Liquid or tablets. Tablets, 60 cents. Send Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cents for trial package.

MOODY, TEXAS.—"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the Loion Tablets. I believe I would be in my grave if I had not used these medicines. I was so nervous I was a wreck; was not able to do my housework. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was recommended to me. I had taken it but a day until my nerves were quieted down and I could sleep at night. I had not taken more than half a bottle before I noticed a marked improvement, so I continued. I then got stout and did as much work as five other women. I had a hurting in my side and a bearing-down, but the medicine put a stop to that. I am glad to recommend Doctor Pierce's medicines."—Mrs. GEORGIA BERRY.

Why Suffer?
Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Alderson, W. Va., writes: "My daughter... suffered terribly. She could not turn in bed... the doctors gave her up, and we brought her home to die. She had suffered so much at... time. Having heard of Cardui, we got it for her."
CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic
"In a few days, she began to improve," Mrs. Cox continues, "and had no trouble at... Cardui cured her, and we sing its praises everywhere." We receive many thousands of similar letters every year, telling of the good Cardui has done for women who suffer from complaints so common to their sex. It should do you good, too. Try Cardui.

LETTER FROM COLEMAN BURNHAM

Mr. W. W. Hart,
Dear Teacher:—

I am still in one piece and feeling fine. The navy life, food, or something has done wonders towards making me get fat. I have not been on the sick, lame, or lazy list yet, but have felt like going with the lazy gang several times when it would come time to deal with coal. I have not had to help coal any since I came aboard this ship, but had it several times while at the training station. We also had some fun handling the pick and shovel. The work is all easy enough, it is just the way a boy looks at it.

I haven't done any thing but study since I came aboard the Arkansas. My studies are supposed to be on Wireless Telegraphy, but I have added a subject on my own accord, and that is a thought now and then about home. I didn't like it much when I first came on here, but as I stay, I like it better. Our school room is down on the third deck, where day light doesn't come, so you can imagine the reason I did not like it at first. I believe I will get white down here, if I can keep the dirt brushed off, but it seems to be a hopeless task sometimes. It is the worst place for a fellow to get dirty I have ever been in. We have a laundry on this ship, and as you may know it is an installment that is always appreciated by the sailors. About the most amusing sight I ever looked at is a recruit washing his first suit of white clothes. He will put you in mind of a dog trying to get arranged in his bed on some cold night. He may fix his clothes like he thinks he wants them and starts in on the job. He will not be long until he is up and looking, fixing and planning again. If you come by he will very likely offer you a dollar to finish it.

The only thing a sailor seems to look forward to is pay day. After pay day most of them have a sure enough time for a few days, then all the joy vanishes; and sad faces with muttering for a stamp to send a letter home will greet you, when you meet these exmillionaires.

I have never seen any real navy life yet, and the head lines on the daily paper, which I see every day, is all the war that I have experienced so far. I think I may be in the war zone before very long. This ship is being put in a perfect fighting condition, and it will be in good shape in another month or two.

The severe cold, scarcity of fuel and labor, and transportation seems to be hindering war movements to some extent, but I believe there will be things happen next summer that will enlighten the Kaiser to some extent. As for my part, I wish he had been born enlightened and saved Uncle Sam all this expense and trouble educating him. I know you can sympathize with Uncle Sam, for he is superintendent of a great school with a monstrous rascal for a pupil, where you are superintendent of a high school with mischievous boys to teach. This is Bill's fourth year. May be he will graduate. Hope he don't come to U. S. for a post graduate course.

Have you heard from Mr. Ellison? I saw in the San Saba paper where Frank Flack was in Italy. It would be fine if there were a million more there as good as he. Does your gang of boys ever get very patriotic? You must have a good company by this time if they have been drilling. A little drill like we had last year sure makes a difference with a boy when he is first put in ranks.

It is about time for supper, so you know I can't write when beans are on my mind. Write, if you have time and tell Leslie to learn it all.
Sincerely yours,
Coleman Burnham.

To the Voters of San Saba County

In placing my announcement for re-election before the voters of this County, I feel that there is little I can say, further than to again express my appreciation for the vote I received in the last election and for the loyalty of my friends in the past which I regard as an unmistakable evidence of friendship and confidence upon the part of the people of San Saba County. My record as a peace officer and a citizen is well known and it is needless for me to say that I try at all times to discharge my whole duty in a conscientious and impartial manner toward all. Of this fact I think my friends and supporters are fully persuaded. I take this opportunity to state that it is my intention as a man and an officer, that no confidence reposed in me shall ever be misplaced. Assuring one and all of my sincere appreciation and soliciting the support of every voter in San Saba County. I am,

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 7c.

Dr. S. W. Rimmer and J. M. Carter attended the great Shriner school at Dallas Saturday, 310 of the soldiers were given the degrees and these men say that if General Hulen and the boys hold onto the Kaiser like they held the ropes at Dallas then his satanic majesty is a goner. We don't know what that means, but the Shriners do and that is enough.
