When the summary of the work of the Local Selection Board was drawn up last week, the Board was within two days of finishing the examination of all registrants who had been summoned to report to the Board. Sixty had been summoned for Wednesday and 60 for Thursday of last week, and 108 of these 120 men appeared for examination. Of the 12 registrants who failed to report, five have properly accounted for themselves. The names of the other seven are: John Gallatin Paxton, Willia Dyer Sisson, Tomie Bingham, Rufus Herbert Berry, Trinidad Amezola, John Mouser and John Andrew Matlock.

Out of the 108 registrants examined 37 men were found to be physically qualified for military service and who filed no claims for discharge or exemption. They are: Alsey Ocie McHorse, Bevy Eugene Hart, Joshua Bickham Boynton, Lloyd Homer Kolb, Cecil Edgar Taylor, Lonnie Sam Low, Roy Monroe Hall, William Bluford Mills, William Thomas Maxwell, Theodore Albert Idenus, Thomas Harrison Murray, Jeff Davis Startz, Roy Jennings Byrd, Thomas J. Swails, Thomas Calvin Rainey, Vernon C. Lawrence, William Homer Coughran, Albin Francis Wood, Frank George Lehner, Roy Russell Hawkins, Jesse Albert Osborn, William Brock Ashby, Joseph Emanuel Johnston Rogers, Frederick Riley Preswood, Francis Baker Sloan, John L. Williamson, Walter Burney Brown, Buck A. Jones, Thomas Oliver Cooper, James Dow Coughran, Lee Owens Bushwar, Emmett Alfred Lewis, Thomas Morton Allen, Joseph Augustus Mays, Leonard Brown, Frank Oliver Starr and Edmund Kirby Smith.

Out of the 108 registrants examined 57 were found to be physically qualified for military duty who filed claims of discharge or exemption. Of this number, the following based their claims on the ground that he was a married man with wife or child dependent upon his labor for their support: William Raymond Crutsinger, Fred Paul Walker, Carl Burnard Wood Ralph Towerton, Emmett Joe Goode, Joseph Richard Miller, James Davis Hopkins, Arthur George Walker, Albert Sidney DeAx, Louis Leon DeLamure, Allen Alford Rainbolt, Lenard Melvin Hector, Ernest Edwin Pierce, William Fletcher Barefoot, R. D. McCarty, Alvin Waldrop, Ollie Edward Green, Frank Charlie Halupa, Ranie Earl Moore, Gus Herman Behrens, Landy Ellis, John Duskin Jackson, Homer Lee Wilbourn, Mack Crawford, Carl Lindsey Shirley, Lonzo Elsworth McCarty, Lester Wilford McAlister, Robert Lee Mathews, Harry August Winkel, Sam Thomas, William Hiram Ponton, Logan Stewart Hardy, John Alfred Chapman, Robert Marion Virdell, Rufus Earnest Gage, Mark Bean St. Clair, Robert Grant, Willie Hudson, John Edward Watkins, Tyra James Bowman, Roy Adoffies Rankins Charles Edgar Lambert, Robert Sherman Russell, Lee Clout, Jeff Finch, and Jerrell Dodge Heatherly.

And the following registrants based their claims for discharge on the ground that he was the son of a widow dependent upon his labor for support: Marion Miller, Silas Witt Taff, and John Samuel May. And the following based their claims of discharge on the ground that he was the son of aged and infirm parents dependent upon his labor for support: Ayna C. Sykes, Herman Everet Coil, William Cyrus Reynolds and T. Trowbridge. And the following based their claims of exemption on the ground that they were regular ministers of religion: Case Wesley Germany and William Cleburne White. And the following based his claim of exemption on the ground that he was already in the military service of the United States, Robert Lee McConnell. Juan Lopez based his claim of exemption on the ground that he was a resident alien of a country other than Gemany.

Out of the 108 registrants who reported, 13 were found to be physically disqualified for military service.

Besides the list of registrants who did not file claims of discharge or exemption, the following is an additional list of such registrants that has been compiled since the summary of last week: Willard Padier, John William Watkins, Donana Turner, Edward Bush Guess, Richard Roland Hall John Watson Graves, James Ernest Hardman, Loyd Havins, Walter Thomas Vogel, Guy B. Smith, John Terry Walker, Homer Barton, Arnold Lynn Moore, Frank Raymond Gray.

The names of 107 of this class of registrants have been certified in all to the District Board at San Antonio and an additional list of 22 names will be sent in later in this week, making 129 in all.

The work of examining registrants to make up the first quota has now been performed by the Board, and with the names of 129 men certified to the District Board and by that Board to the Adjutant General, this means that San Saba County will be able to answer "Ready" when the call comes for the 97 men this county will have to furnish. The Board is now busy catching up with a large mass of clerical work that accumulated during the 17 days on which registrants were being examined.

The exact dates on which the four contingents of the county's quota will leave San Saba are yet to be determined. A change has already been made twice in these dates. Just as soon as these dates are definitely set and final mobilization instructions are given the Local Board by the Adjutant General, this information will be published by the Star.

Brooks Baker and Jonnie Haltmar returned to San Antonio Saturday after a few days furlough home.

CAUTIOUS JUDGE.

"Safety First" seems to be the motto of some of the judges in the West Indies. When an alien prisoner is brought before them, they consider the possibility of a gunboat from the culprit's native land popping in to make trouble.

It is said that a Haiti magistrate on examining a prisoner found that he was from Switzerland.

"Switzerland," he mused. "Switzerland has no seacoast, has it?"

"No seacoast, your honor," said the interpreter.

"And no navy?"

"No navy, your honor."

"Very well, then," said the judge.

"I'll give him a year of hard labor."

A Great Disadvantage.

"Well, if you don't like the way this country is run, why don't you become a candidate for office, get yourself elected and institute some reforms?"

"My friend," answered Mr. Blowster, "if I devoted my undivided attention to running for office, by the time I got elected to one a new crop of evils would have sprung up with which I would be totally unfamiliar."

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN.

"Our baby squalls all night long." "Don't be discouraged. He may grow up to help nominate a president some day."

LONG IMAGINATION.

Kitty—Gracious, dear! And were you very nervous when you guided your first automobile? Daisy—I should say so. I ran over a white rabbit and thought it was a cow.

GIVING HIM WARNING.

"If you come home early this afternoon, go around the house and enter by the back door," said Mrs. Dods-worth.

"What's on foot?" asked Mr. Dods-worth. "Nothing's on foot," thank heaven! I will entertain the Browning club this afternoon and I don't want any object so intensely material as you are to profane the soulful atmosphere we shall have created by several hours of study and recitation."

An Ideal Arrangement.

"You ought to propose to my sister," stammered the young lady. "She is a splendid cook, while I have nothing to recommend me save what you are pleased to call my good looks."

"I want to marry you," maintained the young man. "Still, I realize that a good cook is a great boon. Maybe your sister would come and cook for us," he continued hopefully.

Wise and Otherwise.

The wise man his umbrella takes. When he starts out for a roam; But others who take chances oft; Bring some other fellow's home.

The Offender.

"I heard one of your most intimate acquaintances cut you the other day." "Quite true."

"Who was it?"

"My barber."

Who Can Say?

"Henry, do you think this skirt is too short for a woman of my years?" "I can't say, my dear. I don't know how many inches are supposed to be taken off for each year."

According to Directions.

Grins—I understand your wife has gone away for a three weeks' visit. Groans—That's right.

Grins—Don't you miss the directing hand of the household department? Groans—I should say not. She left her mother on the job while she is away.

MISS CHARITY

By SYLVIA TURNER.

Miss Charity, that is what they nicknamed her when she first went to the opera house as caretaker and queen of the "scrub ladies."

The old theater had fallen into a forlorn state that year. Then Colonel Moulton came on from New York, saw its possibilities and took the lease over. He had the place remodeled, sent on East for a first-class opera company, and sat back in an orchestra chair at rehearsals watching the result.

It was here that Miss Charity first saw him, a slender old gentleman, in a light gray suit, wearing a pearl Fedora with a black band. Remarkably gentle in his way of speech, and courteous in his manner—even to "scrub ladies." When she reached home she told Marie Jocelyn about him, and the child listened gravely.

"Some day, Ellza," she answered, "you shall take me to see him, and if I like him, too, I may sing in his company."

Miss Charity had laughed and petted her, in just about the same way as she might pet her canary or the maltese kitten. It was three years since she had received Marie Jocelyn as a special consignment from Fate. She had been wardrobe woman at the opera house then, back in the good days of the stock company, and there had been Mme. Jocelyn—"Eloise Jocelyn" on the program—with her twelve-year-old child. It had seemed very natural that when the call came from France of the fortune awaiting there for Eloise that she should leave her little girl with Miss Charity until her return.

"For have you not been our good angel?" Eloise said fervently. "In one, two, maybe three months I shall return, and then we shall all be happy and with much money."

And Miss Charity had believed her. Besides, she was glad to have Marie for a while, even a few short months. But the months had stretched to years, and no word had ever come back from France of Eloise Jocelyn. Miss Charity never told the child that her mother might be dead, but simply that she was detained and would surely return some day. So Marie had grown like a flower, with her mother's great, dark eyes and blond hair. And how she loved the old opera house! It had been her playground through the years.

When the rehearsals were over Marie would steal out on the great darkened stage and imagine herself each of her favorite characters, speaking the lines as she had learned them from listening to the members of the company.

Then came the opera company when Marie was fifteen, and with the added work she helped Miss Charity after school hours. So it happened that one day when the colonel fell asleep after a prolonged rehearsal of "Faust," he was wakened by a voice singing Siebel's "Flower Song." It was a voice so clear and fresh, so thrillingly sweet that it seemed as though youth and spring had suddenly burst into song.

"God bless my heart and soul!" gasped the colonel. "Who is that?"

Miss Charity was listening, too, thinking herself the only audience. She hurried down the side aisle to where he sat, trembling and anxious, explaining in her little hesitating way that Marie Jocelyn meant no harm at all.

"Harm?" thundered the colonel, rapturously. "I wouldn't have missed it for $10,000, my good woman. Tell her to sing more—try the "Jewel Song," my dear."

Marie Jocelyn took her good fortune very calmly, quite as if it were only her just due. At her name the colonel straightened his shoulders. Then he told Miss Charity that he would educate Marie for opera and sign a ten-year contract with her.

"Oh, but Colonel Moulton," cried the little woman. "How dare I permit the child to sign away the best years of her youth so, without her mother's permission? I do not know whether she is dead or alive."

"And you'll waste time waiting to find out," answered the colonel impatiently. "The child has a voice and a personality. She belongs to opera."

So against Miss Charity's wishes Marie prepared for her career. Prepared according to the colonel's ideas and actions a bit old-fashioned, but thorough and shrewd. Her years at languages and instrumental music came in New York, to be followed by three abroad.

It was while they were still in New York that Mme. Alvani, Marie's teacher, permitted her to sing once for charity. Suddenly as she began to sing the "Chanson de Florian" there came a smothered cry from the audience.

"Marie!"

Always thereafter Miss Charity contended that if Marie had not been a true artist she would have stopped her song, but the girl went on, even though she could see the figure in black with outstretched arms, and the piteous white face of Eloise Jocelyn recognizing her.

"Yes," the colonel would say in relating the story often. "The mother was Marquise De La Croix. She lost her memory the first year of the war in the horrors she went through. She forgot that she even had a child, until Marie rose to sing that morning." (Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Summer Complaint.

During the hot weather of the summer months some member of almost every family is likely to be troubled with an unnatural looseness of the bowels, and it is of the greatest importance that this be treated promptly, which can only be done when the medicine is kept at hand. Mrs. F. F. Scott, Scottville, N. Y., states, "I first used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy as much as five years ago. At that time I had a severe attack of summer complaint and was suffering intense pain. One dose relieved me. Other members of my family have since used it with like results."

One of the most beautiful of church weddings occurred her last

Tuesday morning in the M. E. church at 9 o'clock when the Rev. E. J. Harris and Miss Alva Kuykendall were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The members of the Epworth League had very beautifully and artistically decorated the church in the League colors, green and white. A huge bank of ferns formed an arch for the back ground of the altar. A beautiful rug spread here, and around the chancel were suspended lovely streamers of white, thus forming a gorgeous background of green and white. The organ was also made lovely in its dress of these colorings. "O Promise Me" was sung most beautifully by Miss Florence Lehmborg. As her sweet, resonant tones were wafted away over the company and died away the beautiful strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March came softly from the organ where Miss Ada Sims presided. Soon all eyes were turned to behold the arrival of the bride party. As they approached the altar they were met by the Rev. C. A. Lehmborg, who in his impressive manner performed the ceremony. The bride was handsomely gowned in white georgette with other accessories entone. The groom wore the conventional black. The bride's going away gown was a lovely coat suit of grey with boots, hat and gloves of the same shade. The happy couple left immediately amidst showers of good wishes for their honeymoon which will be spent at Seabrook, Galveston and other points on the coast. After September 1st they will be at home in Dallas to their many friends. The bride is the highly accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kuykendall and is very popular in church and social circles. She has spent several years away in college, the last being spent in Lynchburg, Va. Her queenly presence will be missed very much by her many friends, but she will make another home happy by her sunny disposition. The groom was one of the instructors in the C. J. C. in the first year of its existence and since then has been here a number of times. He has climbed from being the pastor of a small congregation to the honor of being one of the best of the Dallas pastors. We bespeak for the happy couple a bright future. The following accompanied them to Llano where Mr. and Mrs. Harris took the train for Galveston: Misses Francis Kuykendall, Frank Brown, Della Paxton, Francis and Messrs Lovell Kuykendall and Allen Walker. The following guests from San Saba attended the Harris-Kuykendall wedding: Mesdames Clarence Gosch, Guy Brown and Misses Louise Walters and Cordelia Francis.

Graves Burke visited in San Saba from Saturday to Monday.

Theodore Ideus, who has been drafted, is settling up his business affairs preparatory to leaving. He shipped a carload of his cattle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Taff and Grant Hubbert went to San Saba Saturday afternoon to visit the former's parents.

Rev. C. A. Lehmborg and family left last Friday for Dublin, where he will leave the family and go on to the officers training camp at Leon Springs. We sincerely regret to see this estimable family leave Cherokee, for during the two years they have been with us they have made many close friends. Prof. McDonald has been president of the College during the last two years, and the College has never had a better president, or prospered more, either financially or otherwise than during his administration. His students will ever remember him and be influenced by his teachings. The best wishes of innumerable friends go with him and family.

Oscar Gray and family moved from their ranch to their elegant home purchased of the Rev. C. A. Lehmborg which was vacated Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Taff moved into Mr. Gray's house and are now domiciled on the ranch. Mr. Tag having leased Mr. Gray's pastures. He still remains cashier of the Cherokee State Bank. We are pleased to have Mr. Gray and family in town, and it will be a convenience for them as they wish to send their daughter to school.

These young men have been notified to be ready for departure Sept 5 Messrs. Vester Ruffner, Dudley Boultinghouse, Graham and Francis Hickman. The best wishes of many of their friends will go with them to the battlefield and hope for them to be brave "Sammys."

The Epworth Leaguers have decided upon a very noble work, which should meet with the approval of those interested in the souls of our boys who are going to war. Each boy who has gone to fight for Uncle Sam, and each one who may go is to be given a Khaki bound New Testament with certain passages marked which encourage these noble young men. Also a friendship letter is enclosed with best wishes for them in their work and an appeal for them to take counsel in this book of all books. May the good work continue for the "Sammys."

Campbell Wood and sister, Miss Bess, were here Saturday. Miss Wood was the guest of Mrs. Oscar Gray. Mr. Wood has been in training in the U. S. army at Fort Sam Houston and has now attained the rank of Captain.

Quite the most pleasant of events was participated in Saturday morning, when a party of friends awoke before King Sol had put in his appearance, and hiked themselves away to the warm waters of Cherokee creek for a morning bath. Mother Earth had changed her temperature very suddenly Friday night and the morn was most delightfully cool. The plunge was taken and many stories related while plans were being made for a delectable breakfast after which the merry crowd returned home, quite elated over the effect of the jaunt and feeling much better for the day's happenings. Those who were fortunate to be up so early were: Mesdames E. T. Barber, James, of Texarkana, Misses Callie and May Stobaugh, of Coleman, Annie Mae and Kate Kuykendall Myrtle Parry Jessie Ottinger, Luella Barber, Mrs. C. L. Behrens and small sons, Eugene and Lamar.

Next Tuesday, is the opening day of the seventh year of the C. J. C. we kindly remind you, Let everyone prepare to help and make this a better year than any. We realize that conditions are unfavorable but let us not forget that now, in the adolescence

GET DYNAMIC TONIC—TODAY

The wear and tear of modern life with its hurry and worry, its stress and strain, is responsible for the nervous condition in which so many people find themselves.

Such conditions always indicate a loss of phosphorus from the nerve and nerve-centers.

Depression, sleeplessness, irritability, worry over trifles, melancholy, inability to endure prolonged effort—all these are signs that the nerves and nerve-centers are starving for phosphorus in the form of food phosphates.

These phosphates are supplied in that wonderful vitalizing remedy—

Dynamic Tonic

(called "dynamic" because it produces energy). More than that—these phosphates in Dynamic Tonic are in the chemical form in which they are most abundant in the human body potassium, calcium and magnesium phosphates. (The full formula is on the label).

TO PATRONS OF S. S. SCHOOLS

You are requested to read this article carefully, and to preserve it, if necessary, in order that you may know what books to purchase for your children and to instruct them as to what teachers to whom they should report on the first day of school, Sept. 10th. Before buying books you will, of course, make a list of the old school books you now have and thereby determine what new books are necessary. A child's promotion does not always necessitate the purchase of an entirely new set of books, for in most cases some of his old books are used in the new grade.

All children in the first seven grades should supply themselves with books before school opens, but pupils of the High School Department are requested not to do that.

There will be no formal opening exercises, owing to the fact that the auditorium is not large enough to accommodate the entire school; so at nine o'clock on the first day the children in the first seven grades will report to the rooms here-in-after assigned, as follows:

Pupils of the Primer Class report to Miss Fuess, room 1, third floor; of the First Grade, to Miss Walters, room 2, third floor; of the Second Grade, to Miss Rector, room 7, second floor; of the Third Grade, to Misses Brown and Ketchum, rooms 13 and 14, first floor (basement); of Fourth Grade, to Miss Wilson, room 15, first floor; of Fifth Grade, to Misses Kelley and Taylor, rooms 3 and 4, third floor; of the Sixth Grade to Mrs. Long, room 6, third floor; of the Seventh Grade, to Miss Norris, room five third floor, and all pupils of the High School Department, to the auditorium.

A HELPING HAND FOR THE HONEST MAN IS THE SPIRIT OF THE WESTERN COUNTRY

San Angelo Standard.

The spirit which pervades the business world of the west, like the spirit which pervades the social or industrial world, is something entirely different from what is generally found in other sections of the country. In the West "a man's a man for a' that," and if he is a man who is conscientious in his desires to make good, he will find the business world ready and willing to assist him in accomplishing his undertakings and developing the coming section of America.

In the West, according to those who have the experience, they "Let not Ambition mock their humble toil,"

Their homely joys and destinies obscure;
Nor Grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
The short and simple annals of the poor."

A Helping Hand

But when an honest man casts his lot with the people of the West, buys a home, a farm or a ranch, sets to work to make it the best he can and to provide for himself and his family, he always finds a helping hand when he is confronted with difficulties over which he has no control and which, to him seem insurmountable. Little human interest stories told about the streets of San Angelo show that such men can always find a business man or concern who will stick to him "through thick and thin," and will rejoice with him when success finally crowns his efforts.

Numerous incidents are recorded which show the willingness and desire of San Angelo business men to "stand solidly behind" those who may be indebted to them, and continue to advance supplies or money rather than to profit by closing them out.

Owed Them Fortunes

"I have been trading with this firm for twenty-four years," declared Mr. Word, "and this is the first time I could say I did not owe them a nickel. I have owed them as much as $10,000 at a time and they have never pushed me for a cent piece. For three years at one time I did not pay them a cent, not even an interest, I just simply could not and they knew it. They could have sold me out, made money for themselves and ruined me, but they did not push me at all. Instead of taking summary action as business men usually do in other parts of the country, and putting me out of business for their own good, this concern stuck right to me, and continued to supply me with everything I needed."

"There have been three times when I have scratched my head and wondered what these men would do. I owed them more than I could pay and could not see my way out. I would not have been astonished to have a visit from the sheriff. But they knew I would pay them when I was able and they continued to furnish what I wanted. Yes, I have traded with that firm twenty-four years, and I expect to trade with those men the remainder of my life."

Fine Ranch
When I began trading with them I was not in very good shape. The house knew it, but it knew I wanted to do the right thing and was here to stay. They told me so, and I went to work. Today I have one of the finest little ranches in the West. It is fenced with wolf-proof fencing, well watered and stocked. These business men assisted me in acquiring what I have. Did I say "assisted"? Well, if it had not been for these people I would have been out of business years ago. You can't beat the West for real willing business men.

Their Characteristics
"The business man of the West is a fellow who has another trait not found in some communities. He does not harp to other business men about what a certain unfortunate individual owes him or lie awake at nights planning how to get a pretty-well-to-do fellow in a tight place and then freeze him out."

There Are Others
The story told by Mr. Word is just one of the many which could be told.

It is the spirit of the business man described by Mr. Word that has been so instrumental in building up the West. There are stories of stockmen who have been in the tight places, and yet have their herds. There are stories of farmers who overcame all obstacles and now own their farms. There are stories of many a working man who came here with nothing and owns his home, all through the efforts of the big spirit of the business men of the West.

SLOAN SIFTINGS

The weather for the week ending Saturday August 2, follows: Sun. very cloudy, ther. 76 and 100, wind S. Mon. cloudy, ther. 78 and 104, wind S. and W. Tues. cloudy, ther. 80 and 106, wind S. Wed. nearly clear, ther. 78 and 105, wind S. Thurs. cloudy, ther. 80 and 104, wind N. and S. Fri. clear, ther. 72 and 95, wind S. Sat. clear, ther. 61 and 96, wind S. av. ther. for week 78 1-2, F.

During the past week the drought was broken locally. The river showed a rise of three feet during the early part of the week. It was learned later that the rain was in the Sorrell ranch vicinity.

Sullivan and Collins are making molasses at the Jym Sloan molasses mill this week.

Tobe (Sam) Walker of the firm of Holman and Walker was at the Canyon ranch the past week.

The Rev. B. D. D. Greer is holding a continued meeting here.

Free school taught by Miss Anise Harber will begin Monday, September 17th. This school will go on (continued by private subscription) at least seven months.

Gus Woods, who was reported to have diphtheria last week is now just about well.

Messrs. Doran, Maxwell and Ellis, who shipped cattle to Fort Worth last week, report satisfactory sales. Of course during this drought and the many enforced sales, as a rule, most of us don't get what we consider a fair price for our stuff.

RIPVANWINKLE.

PLANT GRAZING CROPS

Owing to the great scarcity of feed every farmer should plant at least a few acres of wheat, oats, barley or rye this fall for grazing purposes.

Of course it would be useless to plant these grazing crops unless it rains to put a season in the ground so that all arrangements should be made to sow as soon as the rain comes and have as early pasture as possible.

If you have never tried sowing grain for grazing you will be surprised to learn the large amount of feed your horses, cattle, hogs, goats, sheep and chickens will get from it. Your stock will all keep in better condition by having the green feed and your cows will give more and better milk. It will take little more than half the corn or other grain to fatten your hogs for meat and your chickens will lay all winter if they have plenty of green feed.

In the spring, if the rain is promising after grass has come, you may take your stock off and let it mature making perhaps more than you could on any other crop. If it is not promising plow it up and plant any other crop. The pasture is worth many times the cost of the seed.

I am planning to get seed for the farmers in carload lots and if you intend buying let me know. In a short time I will be in possession of prices that the different grains can be bought for and where. I am here to help you if I can in all things and want you to call upon me if assistance or advice is wanted.

R. P. ELROD,

County Agricultural Agent.

Chronic Constipation.

It is by no means an easy matter to cure this disease, but it can be done in most instances by taking Chamberlain's Tablets and complying with the plain printed directions that accompany each package.

...YOUR TITLE PASSES WHEN WE ABSTRACT AND PERFECT IT. NO DELAY, NO MISTAKES.—WALTERS & BAKER.

WAR DEPARTMENT WANTS HORSES AND MULES

Instead of buying from contractors as formerly done the United States War Department has decided to buy direct from the farmer, cavalry horses, light artillery horses, heavy artillery horses, wheel mules, lead mules, and pack mules.

Any one having horses or mules for sale may get information regarding the manner of sale and specifications of the animals to be bought by the Government and other particulars, by applying to me.

The Government wants good stock and will pay well for it. Contractors have been in the habit of buying horses and mules from the farmers for the Government for a great deal less than the Government pays and the idea is to give the farmer the benefit of this difference.

Horses
Ages Height in Hds. Wt.
5 to 8 .....15 to 16 ..... 950-1200
5 to 8 .....15 1-2 to 16 .....1150-1300
5 to 8 ..... 16 to 17 ..... 1400-1700

Mules
3 to 8 .....15 3-4 to 16 3-4 .....1150-1250
3 to 8 ..... 15 to 15 3-4 ..... 1000-1150
3 to 8 .....14 1-2 to 15 1-2 .....950-1150

Specifications for these animals are on file with me and will be made known upon application. All horses and mules must be well broken and gentle for saddle or driving.

The plan of sale is simple and easy and there are many hundreds of horses and mules in San Saba county that will fill the specifications. For the convenience of the farmers I will be at the following places at the time stated for the purpose of discussing the sale of horses and mules and the feed and seed question. If you are interested meet me and get information needed for sale.

San Saba, all day, September 3rd.
Richland Springs, 2 to 4 p. m. Sept. 4.
Cherokee 2 to 5 Wed. Sept. 5th.
Berid 2 to 5 Thurs. Sept. 6th.

Note the time and place and meet me there if you are interested. It is absolutely necessary to meet me there if you want to sell.

R. P. ELROD,

County Agent.

Ask Anyone Who Has Used It.

There are families who always aim to keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house for use in case it is needed, and find that it is not only a good investment but saves them no end of suffering. As to its reliability, ask anyone who has used it.

A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, Says This Georgia Lady, Regarding Black-Draught. Relief From Headache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.—Mrs. Chas. Gaston, of this place, writes: "I am a user of Theford's Black-Draught; in fact, it was one of our family medicines. Also in my mother's home, when I was a child. When any of us children complained of headache, usually caused by constipation, she gave us a dose of Black-Draught, which would rectify the trouble. Often in the Spring, we would have malaria and chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught pretty regular until the liver acted well, and we would soon be up and around again. We would not be without it, for it certainly has saved us lots of doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well saves a lot of days in bed."

Theford's Black-Draught has been in use for many years in the treatment of stomach and liver and bowel troubles, and especially which it now enjoys in most of its merit. If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such disagreeable symptoms as headache, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc., and unless something is done, serious trouble may result. Theford's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for these troubles. It is purely vegetable, and acts in a prompt and natural way, regulating the liver to its proper functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try it. Insist on Theford's the original and genuine. E 79
