On Tuesday, the 26th of April, the mail for Richmond and Petersburg, &c. will leave Bradley's wharf, in this city, by 3 A. M. and arrive at Richmond same day by 8½ P. M., and at Petersburg by 12 o'clock at night. The mail will leave Petersburg every day by 2 A. M., arrive at Richmond by 5½ A. M., and at Washington same day by 10 P. M., thus gaining half a day between this city and Richmond and Petersburg, and from thence it will be still further expedited to New Orleans.

expedited to New Orleans.

Travellers passing between the several eastern Atlantic cities and Mobile and New Orleans, will find this line to be the most certain and expeditious, as there will be no interruption in their travel between the cities of N. York and New Orleans. They will be carried over the railroads between Petersburg and Blakely, Richmond and Fredericksburg, Washington and Baltimore, &c. &c. and when on water, in first-rate low pressue steamboats.

CITIZENS' LINE TO WHEELING, via RAILroad to Harper's Ferry and Winchester.—No night traveiling.

IN addition to the two daily mail lines, by the national road to Wheeling, the proprietors have established a new line, via Winchester, intersecting the splendid national road at Cumberland. Passengers by this line take the railroad cars at 6½ o'clock in the morning, spend an hour or two at Harper's Ferry, where they dine, and arrive at Winchester early the same evening. Next morning they will take the Citizens' Line of first-rate coaches, dine at Romney, and lodge first night at Cumberland, second at Uniontown, and arrive at Wheeling early next evening.

Thus passengers are now afforded an opportunity of going through to Wheeling without loss of rest.

Seats secured at the Stage office, at Barnum's City Hotel.

STOCKTON & STOKES.

P. S. Passengers for Pittsburg, by either of the above lines, can take steamboat at Brownsville, or stages at Washington, Pennsylvania, or, taking the mail stage to Harrisburg, at six o'clock in the morning, can proceed on from thence by superb canal boats.

GREAT NORTHERN AND Southern Daily Mail Route.—The Petersburg Railroad Company inform the Public that their road, extending from Petersburg, Virginia, to Blakely, North Carolina, on the Roanoke, a distance of 61 miles, and constituting a part of the great Daily Mail Route North and South, is now amply provided with superior Locomotives and Cars, to accommodate all the travel that may offer. The cars leave each end of the road daily, on the arrival of the respective mails. Travel-the road daily, on the arrival of the respective mails. Travellers with their own equipages can have their horses and carriages transported on this road with perfect safety and convenience; and thus perform, in five or six hours, while resting their horses, a journey which would otherwise require two days to accomplish. The Blakely Hotel, at the southern termination of the Ra'lroad, has been rebuilt of brick, on an enlarged scale, and no pains will be spared to render its accommodations such as will give satisfaction to passengers and travellers generally.

Besides the daily line of mail coaches from Blakely for the South, via Raleigh, Fayetteville, &c. there is a line via Tarborough three times a week, connected with the mail line at Fayetteville, and also a line from the Railroad at Belfield to Clarksville, Milton, and Danville.

citeville, and also a line from the Railroad at Belfield to Clarksville, Milton, and Danville.

Another tri-weekly line from Blakely, passes through Warrenton, Oxford, &c. and connects with a line to Salisbury, N. C.

In the course of the present season, a branch will be opened from the Petersburg Railroad at Blakely, to Wilkins' Ferry, at Gaston, on the Roanoke, from whence a Railroad, to cross the river by a bridge, is now about to be constructed to Raleigh.

The railroad from Baltimore to Washington is now in operation, thence to Potomac landing the line is continued by steamboats; thence via Fredericksburg to Richmond, a considerable portion of the railroad is finished, and the remained ris in a rapid course to completion. The line continues from Richmond to Petersburg by a turnpike road—and thence by the Petersburg railroad to Blakely, as before mentioned, is the main and only DAILY MAIL ROUTE BETWEEN BOSTON AND NEW ORLEANS.

DEBATEINTHE

SPEECH OF MR. WISE, (OF VIRGINIA,) Commenced on the 14th, and concluded on the 19th of April, 1836, on the resolution of Mr. DROM-

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

GOOLE, and his amendment proposed thereto. THURSDAY, APRIL 14.

On motion of Mr. DROMGOOLE, the following resolution submitted by him yesterday, was taken up: Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to minunicate to this House full information of the mode an namer of selecting banks in the several States or Territoric moneys in said banks.

The resolution having been read, Mr. Wise rose, and moved to amend it, by substituting the following in lieu thorses:

send for persons and papers, to inquire into the mode or agenc of selecting the banks of deposite for the public money; the contracts with the Treasury Department, by which they ar regulated; the manner in which, and the persons by whom the resolution of my colleague, and I will endeavor to show the very material difference between it and the resolution for which it is offered as a substitute.

The most striking difference is, that the resolution simply proposes to direct an inquiry of the Secretary of the Treasury, and my amendment proposes to appoint a select committee, with full powers to investigate, by the oaths of witnesses, the whole subject of keeping and disbursing the public money.

ment, in respect to this difference between it and the resolution, is, that it is contrary to parliamentary usage to insti tute a committee of investigation before an inquiry has been addressed, in comity, to the Department, and until such inquiry has been answered in an unsatisfactory manner. Permit me to say, sir, that this rule of parliamentary pages has been been deadly a distributed in the same has been been to say and the same and usage has been already complied with, and in such a manner, by the Secretary of the Treasury, as forbids a moment's delay of investigation, or the least indulgence of comits.

It will be remembered, sir, that, during the last Congress, the Senate of the United States addressed an inquiry similar to that of 'my colleague, but in fact more full and more searching than his, and that inquiry, in 1833-'34, was an searching than his, and that inquiry, in 1833-34, was answered. The answer then given I considered, and still think, was unsatisfactory and false. If it was not the "expressio falsi" it was the "suppressio veri." In consequence of my conviction and impression as to the character of that answer, and prompted by information which I had obtained since the commencement of the present session as to the relations of "a certain Reuben M. Whitney" to the Treasury Department and the deposite banks, I offered the proposed amendment as a distinct and independent proposition to investigate those relations. "touching the department of the proposed amendment as a distinct and independent proposition to investigate those relations."

refused to grant the power of investigation, with a majority of the friends of the Sceretary in the House, the infer aded. Accordingly, sir, in the Globe of the 9th instant see Mr. Secretary (Woodbury) giving the cue to "th faithful;" and for the first time in the history of our Government does the Head of a Department steep from his high elevation to the editorials of the "official organ" to answer "by authority" an inquiry which had not been made and to suggest to his friends his preference for a simple in quiry when an investigation was asked, if not to dictate to Congress the mode of its proceeding in guarding the public money under his control! In the editorial to which I allude, and which I beg leave to read, my colleague and the House will find every inquiry embraced by his resolution anticipated and answered.

FROM THE GLOBE OF APRIL 9, 1836.

"Mr. WISE.—This individual, in a resolution which he has three times called up in the House for immediate action, is but acting anew the panic scenes in the Serate in 1833-'24. Then, the Secretary of the Treasury was called upon for copies of contracts made by the Department with the deposite banks, correspondence with them, and even the amount of stock that officer hald in one of them; also whether a regent was employed to We have good reason to believe that any information which Mr. Wise may wish, concerning the deposite banks, in possession of the Treasury Department, he can readily obtain, by applying for it, viithout the aid of a formal resolution; and in relation to an agent to superintend the deposite banks being employed or paid by the Department, we are authorized to say the same answer would be given to such an inquiry as that made to the Senate in 1834.

"The insinuation made by Mr. Wise, that some person as a first of the Senate was the Treasure of the Senate banks.

agent of the Secretary of the Treasury, or of the deposite banks is employed in deciding on their selection, or in taking security from them, is without the least shadow of foundation. All thes arrangements, we are authorized to say, are made between the obblic authorized officers of the Treasury Department and the

So far as the resolution of Mr. Wise refers to "a cert in Reu "So far as the resolution of Mr. Wise refers to "a cert in Reuben M. Whitney," and his agencies for the deposite banks, and the compensation which he receives from any of them, he (Mr. W.) has already, over his own signature, given to the public the nature of the same; and, although these may be considered matters purely and altogether of a private nature, yet we believe that Mr. Whitney will not hesitate to answer any question relating to them which may serve to gratify the curiosity of Mr. Wise."

Thus, sir, adopting the answer of Mr. Taney in 1833-'34, and having already said before inquiry "thus far wil I answer, and no farther," why should we delay investiga tion by instituting an inquiry already answered by this au thorized editorial? Is the object of my honorable colleagu to give the pilferers of the public purse more time to pic and steal? The answer which the Secretary says authority" he will give is exactly the answer I expected he would give. And it is to test the truth or falsehood of that I demand a committee, with power to send for persons and papers. I here charge that answer of 1833-'34, as now adopted by the present Secretary of the Treasury, to be, at this time, false and deceptive; if it speaks truly, as far as it speaks at all. I believe it can be proved to be false in suppressing the truth, or in not telling the whole truth. I ask for the power to procure this proof; and am I to be told that I must again inquire of the culprit whom I charge with having already answered

But, sir, let us suppose that usage will not be complied with by adopting the amendment which I propose as a sub-stitute for the resolution of my honorable colleague. Stil the objections to the adoption of that resolution are insu-perable, and the reasons for departing from usage in this case are conclusive. Admit that Mr. Secretary has given case are conclusive. Admit that Mr. Secretary has given no answer, and that this House should not compromit its dignity by noticing editorials in the Globe as official communications, it is a sufficient objection to my mind to a more taquity that Mr. Secretary himself has "by authority" invited, suggested, or even dared to intimate the cour of an inquiry, when the question of examination by the oaths of witnesses was pending. It seems to me that by that "authorized" editorial in the Globe, Mr. Secretary dis not so insolently and impudently mean to say "so far will answer, and no farther," as he meant cunningly to give the cue to "the party," or creschingly and craven-like to beg his friends to sereen him from the scrutiny of a committee The one interpretation or the other must prevail to convict him of insolent dictation, or of guilty timidity. Sir, I am bound to believe that my honorable colleague did not take the hint from the Globe to offer his resolution, but I must say it comes at an ill-oriened time for the reputation of the Secretary, and he ought scarcely to expect us to yield that to dietation which is due only to courtesy, or to yield that to charity and mercy which is due to truth and the conntry. Why, sir, did not the House permit me to introduce him to answer over again?

Sir, this brings me to a still more valid objection to the resolution of my colleague. If there be any thing false or foul in the relations of Mr. Secretary with R. M. Whitney, is it to be expected that he will himself expose it? Doe not every lawyer know that felons at the bar of justice will nine hundred and ninety-nine times in a thousand, plead "not guilty?" Was it ever heard of that the mere reas evidence not only of his own innocence of any the least improper connexion with R. M. Whitney, or of any other malfeasance touching his office, but of Whitney's purity, ed; let the Secretary of the Treasury have leave to answer, not on oath or cross-examination, in vindication of himself, and not only will be be made innocent, Whitney not proved guilty, the deposites left the easy prey of corruption, but you and I, and every man who has dated to intimate a sus-picion, will be held up to odium and abuse! I, therefore,

I fear be pursued, it will be proof conclusive that there is the foulest corruption in the Government—not a mere corruption of ambition for office or station, but base mercenary well!" and all were bound to believe it. Defiance even was hurled at the effrontery of bare suspicion, and loudly was innocence and purity pretended, even after investige tion began to probe the ulcers of corruption. The Senate committee were not believed, and it was a duty of party al mittee of the House was appointed, consisting of a majorit of "the party" itself; and, after a long and Jaborious exa or the party fisel; and, after a long and haborious examination, it came out slowly, and not until a particular juncture, when certain of the "knowing ones" began to love Mr. Barry's place better than his peace or his party; that there had been embezzlement, fraud, and corruption enough to render the Department insolvent, and to bring the name of an honest and honorable man (Mr. Barry) altered to inform and contempt. The truth was exposed at the name of an honest and honorable man (Mr. Barry) almost to infamy and contempt. The truth was exposed at last, but too late to save the money. The rogues had deceived Mr. Barry, pocketed the money, and most graciously resigned office to escape conviction, and to enjoy their ease and their gains! Is this scene to be acted over again? No, sir, not with my consent. I am for pouncing upon them now in the act of pilfering and plundering the Treasury, and detecting the thief in the "mainour." What they for reputation, when they have once got the der? The People's money will make them many riends. And we are to be pausing here upon a point of etiquette with one of the suspected, who will be glad, perhaps, of the opportunity to quiet our fears yet awhile longer, whilst the plunderers are at their work, and the thieves are taking and carrying away!"

I am, therefore, for abolishing so costly and corrupting I am, therefore, for abolishing so costly and corrupting a usage, admitting it to exist, and not to have been complied with in this case by an answer already made in advance. What were the moneys of the Post Office Department compared with the entire revenue of this country, with a surplus in its Treasury of more than forty millions! A drop in the bucket—a rivulet to the ocean. I am for going into the investigation, then, immediately, probing this matter to the core, and saving the public money while it is still in my reach, if it is so, and saving the pub-lic morals before they become stale. Such are the firs pjections to the dilatory, ruineus, and whitewashing ourse proposed by my colleague. But, sir, I have said that the Secretary has given an an-

' by authority" in the Globe, and, I repeat it that answer is false. If such a committee as I propose i that answer is false. If such a committee as 1 propose is granted, I will prove that answer to be a wilful suppression of the truth. I hold Mr. Secretary responsible for the whole editorial in the Globe; and what does it say? "No agent had been employed by the Department." And further the respondent answered not, though he knew that an agent had been, and was then, and knows that he is now, employed by the deposite banks, by virtue of contracts with the Department, and, in some instances, upon its recom-mendation! Mr. Secretary also very officiously gives me "reason to believe" that "any information I (Mr. Wise) may wish concerning the deposite banks, in possession of the Treasury Department, I can readily obtain by applying for it, without the aid of a formal resolution." This is most gracious and obliging! I wish to know somethin nost gracious and obliging! I wish to know somethin but Rouben M. Whitney, and Mr. Secretary kindly offer inform me about the deposite banks. I wish to be ir rmed of the unrecorded transactions between him an Whitney & Co., and he pertly offers to give me any in formation "in possession of the Treasury Department," at banks, not Whitneys! I wish to examine him upo oath, under the authority and sanction of this House, an by under the addition and saltcom of this thouse, and be gives us "reason to believe" that he will tell us any ling but the very thing we wish to know, "by (my) applied for it, without the aid of a formal resolution?" And, sir, has it come to this, that subjects of such im-

my resolution, so that the main question might have been put upon its adoption before my colleague offered his, to which mine is an amendment, which may now be cut off by the previous question whenever the friends of Mr. Second the public moneys and the preservation of the public I believe, dare not accept. I will not inquire, as Mr. Wise, for mere curiosity, when I feel bound to investigate from a sense of duty as a Member of Congress. I will not apply to a man for evidence against himself, when I believe that I have no need of his confessions to convict him of falsehood, if not of corruption. And, if this is to be the medium of light and knowledge to the People of their public the land, that power may without fear conceal the abuses which it commits, with impunity.

He has also informed us that "the insinuation that some person as an agent of the Secretary, or of the deposite banks, a employed in deciding on their selection, or in taking security from them, is without the least shadow of foundation. curity from them, is without the least shadow of founda-tion." Now, sir, this too is a perfect special plea. Here, for the first time, does the "authorized" editorial speak in the disjunctive or alternative of an agent of the Depart-ment or of the banks, but as to an agent for what? For "deciding on their selection, or in taking security from them." "All these arrangements," says the answer, "are made between the public authorized officers of the Treasu-ry Department and the banks only." But are "these ar-rangements" all? The Secretary, no doubt, decides upon selection, takes security, and the two contracting parties, the banks and the Department, contract, but who is the "internuncie?" Who secretly corresponds? Who re-eachment. I ask again, then, shall the secrecy and pring of this agency screen it from investigation? Shall the ho are secretly concerned be allowed to tell only wha they choose?

Sir, the Constitution solemnly points out the manner in which officers shall be appointed. There are constantly many ways and devices practised whereby to create and pay officers under the appointed. ion, and loudly league, (Mr. Mason.) I ask now, if Mr. Secretary shall, after investiga-under its authority, clothe R. M. Whitney with all the attributes of an officer, and with more power by favor than he could possibly obtain for him by law, and then escape acountability for his malfeasance because he is not an office under his control? By the same cunning invention, in fraud of the law and the Constitution, may not agent of every description be foisted into every Department' And, if in, without being known to the law, and offi cers in fact, without peng known to the law, and on-eers in fact, without responsibility as such, will not their chances of pillage be multiplied beyond calculation, and the means of detecting them be impossible? Shall official corruption be cloaked under the mantle of inviolable priva-

corruption be closked under the mainter of involunts proceed? Is the corruption the less dishonest, or the less to be sought after, because it exists in secret, and is the more difficult to be found out? Shall we knowingly permit the very plan invented to deceive us to succeed? Do gentlemen expect deeds of darkness to be done in the day? Will have not inventionally until a proceed and the second of the control of the contr they not investigate until crime is already public? Cat there be no corruption which is not official? Is Whitney purposely not made an officer or agent of the Governmen purposety not made an officer of agent of the Government in order to avoid all manner of responsibility as a private agent of the Banks? Are public officers to be converted thus into private individuals, and official responsibility into private trust? Privacy, sir, secrecy! is all they ask to perpetrate their deeds of darkness; and shall we not hold up to their deeds the light of truth? By a patent slime of correction shall these acts of fifthy received and to clude the ruption shall these eels of filthy pools be made to elude the grasp of investigation? Never! with my consent.

But, sir, the difference between an inquiry and a trial is not the only, though the chief difference between this resolution and the amendment proposed. If the resolution of my honorable colleague be critically examined, it will of my honorable colleague be critically examined, h which be found that it could not be more artfully drawn than it is to correspond exactly with what we may now certainly, "by authority," anticipate will be the answer to it by Mr. Secretary. It does not inquire even as far as justice to bruth and the country demands. It asks only such questions as Mr. Secretary has said beforehand he will an er, and none whatever that he has evidently shown a

To understand the extent of the difference between the resolution and amendment, we must understand, or keep in mind, the nature and character of the agency employed by the Department, and paid by the banks to be inquired into the Department, and paid by the banks to be inquired into or investigated. An agent, sir, is not required so much by the Government to select these deposite banks, and make contracts with them, as he is required for the purpose of obtaining information concerning them, upon which Mr. Secretary may decide upon their selection, and upon the formation of contracts with them. The agent does not select; he does not contract with them. But he furnishes the information upon which selection and contracts by Mr. Secretary and the banks are based. I therefore go, first, beyond the mere "mode and manner" of selecting and forming contracts with the banks, and propose to investigate the character of all correspondence touching to investigate the character of all correspondence touching to investigate the character of all correspondence touching the public deposites. What may we suppose to be the character of a correspondence between Mr. Agent Whitney and Mr. Secretary of the Treasury, in relation to a bank which is proposed to be selected and contracted with by the latter? If any such regular correspondence exists, will gentlemen not inquire into it? I believe, sir, that much would be found in such a correspondence to be dreaded. I believe, sir, that there it can be found that notified considerations weighed heavier can be found that political considerations weighed heavier than all fiscal reason for selecting and contracting with certain local banks. I do not charge the fact to be so. I charge nothing. I only wish to investigate whether the fact be so or not. I do not expect, sir, that investigation will find the lact to be so affirmalizely. I presume that if Whitney ever has recommended a bank from political considerations, it has been done negatively. He might in a letter to Mr. Secretary very properly say, for instance, that in this or that State or city there are several banking institutions, all equally sound and safe as to credit and funds, but that this or that bank will use the public money for political purposes, because its controlling officers and its stockholders are warm partisans of a particular party, and therefore it cesses of a Department with so much money held at wil only to obtain information, but to supervise, and examine and report upon the condition, the solvency or insolvency ing, the reporting, or whatever other agent you may call him who is in a word the eye of the Treasury Department over the safety of the public money, and consequently over the solvency of these banks; his trust is still more important and responsible. I, therefore, sir, an supervise and report upon the condition of these banks. By schom is he employed and paid? Is it possible that he is paid by the banks themselves, which are to be watched and guarded? I demand to know if this be the fact. If so, it corruption on the face of it. It is flagrant robbery of the Government. Sir, we are told that Argus of old had an hundred eyes, employed and paid by the jealousy itself of Juno, to guard Io, the mistress of Jupiter—an hundred eyes to watch a single heifer, and they were all soothed to sleep by the harp of Mercury. Now, sir, our Argus of the Treasury has but two eyes to watch thirty-five banks, by whom he is employed and paid to guard themselves! Sir, do you, suppose that either of those two eyes is for the Reuben M. Whitney, thus employed and paid, will serve-sit here until December, if I cannot sooner satisfy myself that the money of the Treasury is safe, and, what is more important, that the morals of public officers are pure as human weakness will admit. It is a great mistake, sir, on the part of those who are interested to drive us from our posts as soon as possible, to suppose that the People are not anxious for us to do our duty, and that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that duty thoroughly and faithfully. Day after day, gentlemen the money of the Treasury is safe, and, what is more important, that the morals of public officers are pure as human weakness will admit. It is a great mistake, sir, on the part of those who are interested to drive us from our posts as soon as possible, to suppose that the People are not anxious for us to do our duty, and that they are not willing we should take abundant time to do that duty thoroughly and faithfully. Day after day, gentlemen suspend the Rules, or give universal consent, for the purpose of offering resolutions to inquire into the expediency of establishing a mail route, of granting a pension, of paying a private claim, or for any purpose, however trivial or unimportant, so it does not touch the subject of abuses; and yet they plead that they have not time to investigate the great and paramount subject of protecting your whole revenue from pillage, and your highest public offices from the most dangerous abuses.

Having shown the great difference, both in character and extent, between the resolution of my colleague and the amendment which I propose, here I might conclude: but, sir, I must inquire what now is the condition of your public moneys? They were once safe in the Bank of the United States. That institution was clamored down by "the party," under the weight of charges of corruptly using its funds for political purposes, and of being a dangerous commercial monopoly. The deposites were removed by an extraordinary exercise of Executive power, and the public moneys were taken into the custody and control of the Secretary of the Treasury must remain stakeholder for the Government until Congress directs by law by whom and in what manner the public money shall be kept. And in this character of mere stakeholder, until Conby law by whom and in what manner the public money shall be kept. And in this character of mere stakeholder, until Congress passes an act, the Secretary of the Treasury, on his ow responsibility, has proceeded, and without resort to Congress even whilst in session, to form, extensive contracts with numer to the law is the description of the character of the state of ons local banks for the deposite, sale-keeping, and transfer of the public money, and has assumed to himself solely the power of controlling these banks, and, through them, the entire currency of the country! As evidence of these facts, I refer to a Circular of Mr. Secretary Woodbury, dated the 22d of February, 1836, in which he "requests that after the 4th of July next the deposite banks will not issue notes of a less denomina tion than five dollars, and that, after the 3d of March than live dolars, and that, after the 3d of March, 7, they will issue none of a less dénomination than dollars." With what a parade of dates does this pote of the currency issue his "sic volo" in the form of a retail 1 bated on Washington's birth-day! To commence tition on five dollar notes on the day of the Declaration of pendence!! And to annihilate all notes under ten dollars e day when the presidential term of Gen. Jackson expires!!! the day when the presidential term of Gen. Jackson expires!!! e object is to introduce the "golden age," and the reason givis that the "gold coined at the mint will supply the place of all notes!" Sir, I put it to you, would not this be the very ce of humbuggery, if it was not acted by a Secretary of the easury who is thus attempting to cloak the most dangerous asaption of power, in perfect derogation of the power of Coness, by imposing upon the confidence of the People in a popuname? The Secretary proceeds: "And it is deemed reasonable that while the deposite banks have the use, without atterest, of unusually large sums of the public money-they able that while the deposite banks have the use, without erest, of unusually large sums of the public money, they used make some further temporary sacrifices to obtain and culate gold," & C. Sir, here is an admission by the Secre-himself that these banks have "the use, without interest, unusually large sums of the public money!" What right he, a mere stakeholder—a mere guard—a mere servant, should not dare to act until ordered by law—to give the of a single dollar to a single bank, much more "the use of wally large sums, without interest?" (hen Congress, sir, exercised the power of granting a charor, in other words, of making a contract with the Bank of

when Congress, sir, exercised the power of granting a char-er, or, in other words, of making a contract with the Bank of the United States, every consideration on both parts was open-y expressed by law; and that much abused institution was bliged to pay a bonus of $1,500,000, and to perform numerous and onerous duties, without charge or demand of interest on its part, for the Government, in consideration of being made the depository of the public money; but now the deposite banks

I am authorized to say upon the highest authority, I mean that of experienced and extensive merchants, was never in greater demand than it now is in the markets of all the great Northern and Eastern cities. The demand for it yields from 2½ to 3 per cent. per month, and from 12 to 18 per cent. per annum. And, whilst money is thus in the greatest demand, prices of every thing are at the highest rate, and speculation is raging in every direction. He who can now lend money is realizing a vast profit; and at the same moment, he who can borrow money at a fair rate is realizing at once a fortune. This, I hesitate not to say, is a forced state of things. It is produced by those who have the control of the money-power. Who now has every facility of borrowing, of lending, and of investing? He who can borrow at 6 per cent. per annum, and lend at 3 per cent. per month; or who can now obtain any amount of money to invest in public lands, in the purchase of slaves, stock, town property, or any thing else, is at once gifted with the touch of Midas. Who now can obtain any "accommodation" from deposite banks, and every facility and indulgence upon discount or loan to any extent which you, nor I, nor any one else, can obtain? Reuben M. Whitney & Co.?

Will not gentlemen inquire who are the partners of this firm of Whitney & Co.? I believe it is a rule of Chancery that a party can compel one known partner to disclose all the unknown partners of a firm. It is the rule even at common law. My friend from Kentucky, (Mr. Hardin,) who is the most distinguished lawyer in my eye, will set me right—if there be any secret and unknown partners, that the known partners hall not take advantage of the unknown not being named in the pleading, without notifying the adverse party of all the actual partners. In equity and good conscience, the People are entitled to a disclosure from this firm, which is using their money, and endangering their best interests. Who, then, is included in that omnibus of all unknown partnership names—Co.? It is as noto sident of the United States. His agency is not officially recog-nised by Mr. Secretary, and yet the very contracts which Mr Secretary makes with these banks, in conformity to the formul-of Amos Kendall, who was scouting agent of the Department show on their face that such an agency is contemplated and ex-

It can be shown that these banks pay large stipends to this gent, in proportion to their amount of deposites in each respect yely, and upon the recommendation of the Department. The eposite banks have the use of the public money without inter st, when it can be proved that a number of banks, equally soun ad safe, have bid, or are willing to pay as high as from two t aree per cent. for the public deposites. The surplus revenu is now the pet of the Treasury and the pet banks, by reading a report upon his character made in 1832, by George McDuffle, John Q. Adams, and John G. Watmough, three gentlemen of as high character for truth and integrity as any to be found in any country. In the reports of committees of the 22d Congress, latsession, 1831-'32, page 307, we find the following passage: "There was one occurrence during the examination of thransactions of Thomas Biddle & Co. with the bank, which me transactions of Thomas Biddle & Co. with the bank, which merits particular notice.

"An informer and witness, by the name of Whitney, who had formerly been a director of the bank, was produced, who de clared, upon oath, that in May, 1824, two of the cashiers of the bank had informed him that Thomas Biddle & Co. had been in the habit of drawing money out of the bank, on a deposite of stock in the teller's drawer, without paying interest, and that the president of the bank had discounted two notes, one for Thomas Biddle & Co. and one for Charles Biddle, without the authority of the directors. This witness stated that he went with these officers of the bank, and examined the teller's drawer and the discount book, and found the facts which had been stated to him discount book, and found the facts which had been stated to him verified by the examination. He also stated, to give additional certainty to his averments, that he made a memorandum at the time, with the dates of the transactions, which memorandum he produced to the committee. Having thus unalterably fixed the date of the transaction, as if by some fatality, he went on to say that he immediately proceeded into the room of Mr. Biddle, (Nicholas,) the president, and remonstrated with him against these irregular proceedings, and that Mr. Biddle promised him that they should not occur again.

"Mr. Biddle was present during the examination of this witness. On that day, being on oath, he said that he was utterly astonished at the testimeny of the witness, and could only oppose to it his solemn declaration that there was not one word of truth in it, from the beginning to the end. He added, that, from the relation in which the witness stood to him, he would have sunk into the earth sooner than he would have dared to come to him with such a remonstrance as he pretended to have made. scount book, and found the facts which had been stated to him sunk into the earth sooner than he would have dared to come to him with such a remonstrance as he pretended to have made. The officers of the bank, from whom the witness alleged that he derived this information, were examined, and all of them positively contradicted him. They testified and demonstrated from the books that Thomas Biddle & Co. had never obtained money, in any instance, without paying interest, and that the two notes which Whitney asserted to have been discounted by the president alone had been discounted regularly by the directors.

"In the interval between the adjournment of the committee that day and its meeting the next, a member of the Board of Directors suggested to Mr. Biddle that he was, about the time of his alleged transaction, in the city of Washington. On examining the journal of the Board and the letter book, it was found by entries and letters that for several days received to found, by entries and letters, that, for several days previous to the alleged interview between the president and Whitney, and for several days afterwards, the president was absent on a visit to this city, (Washington,) on the business of the bank, and Gen. Cadwalader was acting as president in his place?

"Thus was this artfully devised story, which was intended to blast the reputation of a high-minded and honorable man, through one of those extraordinary interpositions by which Providence sometimes confounds the contrivances of the wicked, made to recoil upon the head of its inventor, who Wilson and to recent upon the read of its inventor, who must forester stand forth as a Blasted Monument of the speedy and retributive justice of Heaven."

This "blasted monument" is Reuben M. Whitney! How came he in charge of the forty millions of the treasure of this land? Did not Mr. Secretary know him? Sir, I believe it can be proved that the former Secretary of the Treasury (Mr. Taney), refused in a provided it as for it receives the provided in the former secretary of the Treasury (Mr. Taney). efused, or promised to refuse, to recognise this perjund traitor as an agent of the banks, on account of his How comes be now in pay and employment? Who employs him? Sir, Reuben M, Whitney is nothing, but his connexion with the public Treasury is something. It is almost enough in itself to give assurance of corruption and wrong, when such a person is the selected and approved agent of the Treasury! Oh, my country!—when I see that patrictic man, who fought for his country, and who has the confidence of his countrymen, for his country, and who has the confidence of his countrymen, countenancing a traitor who sware to obey the laws of an enemy during the last war, and a perjured man, who has since sworn falsely against his neighbor: when I see the public treasure expended to repair and build up anew "a blasted moral ment of the speedy and retributive justice of Heaven:" when I see the holy vessels of the very shrine of our temple handled by the touch of a mercenary miscreant: when I see a spoilsmonger of party, a piun of money-changers, a pander of power's parasites, fattening and glutting upon the substance of this land of the free and its people—all within me asks, whence come the revenues of this country? Tell me, ye bold adventurers of the stormy seas! ye busy merchants of the exchange! ye sunburnt Southerners of the sickly cotton clime! ye hardy woodsmen of the Western wild lands!—all who till or trade, toil and are taxed—tell me if your labor and enterprise did not the renemues of this country? Tell me, ye bold adventurers of the stormy seas! ye bany merchants of the exchange! ye sunburnt Southerners of the sickly cotton clime! ye hardy woodsmen of the Western wild lands!—alf who till or trade, toil and are taxed—tell me if your labor and enterprise did not lay up this sacred treasure for your country! Shall the great price of the sweat of your brows be spent upon a traitor in the work of corruption? What say the representatives of the laborers? Sir, when I think of my constituents, who venture thousands of miles over the ocean with their produce, and who pay their duties to their Government upon their return; or of the poor emigrant, who leaves the hearth of home, and wends his weary way over mountain, lake, and river, and expends his "little all?" for land surrounded by savage dangers: when I think of a treasury overflowing from these sources, and of its being worse than wasted on pimps and plunderers, I am impelled to a deed of daring which I know will bring down upon my head the vengeance of power; but I defy the tormentors! It is only the rod of the money-power I dread—it is mammon, only, wielding so monstrous a monopoly, I fear! Are all men forsworn? I exclaim against the foul pollution! I call upon every apostle of liberty left to assist in driving the money-changers out of the temple! Has the money-mania scized the minds of all men? I fear the spirit of speculation is the legion which is tearing us! Has the stroke of steady policy been arrested for the purpose of a general scramble? Will honest men be benefited? Will the People's prosperty be promoted? No! Speculation in stocks and speculation in politics rage together. Power and purse have joined hands, and—weal for the few of the party! I—we for the many of the People! All are drunk on the day of the harpies' harvest—oh! I who shall be the globeness? "The party! Triumphs, and the patriot weeps!

Sir, why refuse an investigation? I fit here be anything foul or corrupt in the Treasury Department, surely it should

'nor lot in this matter."

So, sir, when the sorcerer or magician of this day saw that by great and meritorious services, by long and faithful probation, by honest and patriotic devotion to the country, and its constitution and liberties, alone, the Presidency and its power, and places, and pomp, and patronage could be merited and won; being old, and having done nothing to deserve the highest reward which the country can be tow remaining and having the ward which the country can bestow—cunning, and having the facilities of a favorite—sycophantic, with the spirit of a fawaiis slave—a political Jesuit, with the holy corps of "the faithful"—ambitious, with a trained band of mercenaries at his heels ambitious, with a trained band of mercenaries at his heels—a Machiavelian for policy and expediency alone, totally regardless of principle, with millions of gold in his hands, like Simon of old who offered to purchase the gift of God, he has bethought him to purchase the gift of the People with Monry! Sit, I say if the People are as faithful to their liberty as Peter was to his God—and they should be, for liberty is the gift of Heaven—they will say to him, as Peter said to Simon Magus, "Thy money perish with thee—thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter."

Mr. CLAY said that the bill was in exact conformity with the former one, and was intended to revive the commission which had expired in consequence of the expiration of the treaty. The Committee on Foreign Relations were desirous that it should pass without delay. There was a peculiar propriety in so passing it, resulting from our existing relations with Mexico. A survey was to be made; and we were endeavoring to ascertain, as precisely as possible, the true boundary line between that country and our own. In the mean time the General commanding our forces in that quarter had taken up a position in or near this disown. In the mean time the General commanding our forces in that quarter had taken up a position in or near this disputed territory. Existing circumstances were such as to make it absolutely necessary that proper officers should be authorized to carry out the provisions of the treaty, thereby evincing the sincerity of our intentions, and the fidelity with which we adhered to our engagements.

The bill provided for the services of a commissioner and surveyor, but not for those of a clerk. A provisional appropriation was introduced, however, to pay the salary of such officer, and the Executive empowered to appoint him if it was deemed necessary.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. FRY, from the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, reported a bill for the relief of E. Powers. Read nd committed.

Mr. MILLER presented the petition of the Trustees and Faculty of Dickinson College, in the State of Pennsylva nia, asking that a portion of the public lands may be appro priated in aid of the several incorporated Colleges within the United States. Referred.

On motion of Mr. SHIELDS, the Committee of the Whole was discharged from the further consideration of the bill providing for the payment of certain pensions, and it was brought into the House, and, after some amendment, was ordered to be engrossed, and read a third time.

Mr. BELL, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported a bill for the adjustment of certain claims to reserva-tions of land, under the 14th article of the treaty of 1830, with the Choctaw tribe of Indians. Read twice, and committed to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union; and the report accompanying the bill was ordered

Mr. CLAIBORNE said, that as this bill involved con siderations of the greatest interest to his constituents and to the country at large, and as the report accompanying the bill presented a full view of the whole subject, he moved the printing of five thousand extra copies of the report and bill; which motion was agreed to.

Mr. BELL, from the same committee, reported a bill to provide for the speedy adjustment of claims to reservations of land and grants of land under Indian treaties; which was read twice, and committed.

Mr. BELL, also, from the same committee, reported bill for the relief of Silas Fisher, a Choctaw Indian. Read twice, and ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. PEARCE, of Rhode Island, from the Committee of Commerce, reported a bill making an appropriation for the rection of a marine hospital at City Point, in the State of irginia. Read twice, and committed.

Mr. ADAMS, from the Committee on Manufactures to which was referred the bill from the Senate for the reduction of certain duties, and the repeal of others, reported the same, with amendments. Committed, and ordered to

Mr. MERCER asked leave to submit a motion to direct he select committee of 24, to which was referred an in quiry into the proper mode of managing contested election before the House, to ascertain whether a better Hall for he purposes of a deliberative body than the present Hall of Representatives can be provided within the Capitol, and have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. MERCER obtained leave to make a short state nent, which he thought would satisfy the House that the resolution ought to be adopted. He said he had gone to the Hall of the Library with an experienced architect, and had examined the room and the walls, and he found that a room could be provided there, of the dimensions of ninety feet, by fifty. He said the chord of the circle of the presen House was ninety feet, and the space occupied by the House was about fifty feet deep. He was satisfied that a Hall could be made where the Library now is, as good and convenient for a deliberative assembly as could be devised fa capitol was about to be constructed anew; and he hoped he resolution would be adopted, that the House might have the report of a committee upon the subject.

Objections being made to acting upon the proposition

Mr. MERCER moved that the Rules be suspended, fo the purpose of acting upon it; and the question being ta-ken, there appeared, ayes 97, noes 49, (not quite two thirds.)

PUBLIC LANDS.

The House resumed, as the unfinished business of yesterday, the consideration of the motions pending in relation to the reference of the bill from the Senate for the distribution of the proceeds of the sale of the public lands mong the several States.

Mr. Williams, of North Carolina, had moved to reer the bill to the Committee of the Whole on the state Mr. GILLETT moved its reference to the Committee Ways and Means.

Mr. CARR moved to refer it to the Committee on Pub Mr. GILLETT said he thought the measure ought t be considered by the Committee of Ways and Means; and he could see no foundation for the intimation that the committee would report against and oppose the bill. They had made no report upon it, nor was any thing known, except the intimations of the chairman of that committee, that the money would be all required for other purposes of the country. He thought that committee ought to have the consideration of the subject, that they might estimate the other necessities of the Government and the nation, and see if any thing remained that could be divided. If and see it any thing remained that could be divided. If the House went on to act, as it was said they should, promptly, they might pass a law for dividing a surplus in the Treasury when no surplus would be found there.

In relation to the remarks of the gentleman from New York, (Mr. Granger,) he wished to know if that gentleman was in favor of the defence of the country, and other remarks and it is a surplus to the same that we have the same transfer.

projects and improvements; and he wished that gentleman's opinions and advice, more particularly in consequence of his relation to a distinguished statesman of the West, who the gentleman cartainly accounted. ted to power, and would have an excellent lieutenant He wished to know whether he goes to patronize railroads if so, there will be no surplus. He wished to know if the entleman would go with him to erect custom-houses and ourt-houses; if so, it would reduce the surplus: and there court-houses; if so, it would reduce the surplus: and there were other propositions, such as to reduce the postage, to build a canal round Niagara Falls, which might cost five millions, and would reduce the surplus to that amount. There is a proposition that sales of public lands shall be confined to actual settlers, which would very much reduce the income; and another proposition was made, of deep interest to the Western States, for the graduation of the price of those lands, which would retard the sale, and decrease the amount of revenue. Mr. C. then referred rease the amount of revenue. Mr. G. then referred to ther propositions, such as the establishment of foundries, and other public works, for the purpose of showing that it was proper to consider, before passing the bill for distributing the surplus revenue, whether there would be any surplus to distribute.

He would give no opinion upon the propriety of making the different appropriations he had alluded to, but he shought there were appropriation bills reported of a sufficient amount to swallow up the whole sum in the Treasury. amount to swallow up the whole sum in the Treasury. Gentlemen, he thought, ought to examine and cipher up these matters; and he thought this bill ought to go to the Committee of Ways and Means, that the House might have their advice and opinion. He thought that they would report against the bill, and by their objections endanger the passage of the bill. He could not think that a report of a najority of a committee would endanger the measure, un-ess it was of very doubtful character. The minority could eport their opinions in its favor; and if the bill could not tand that test, it must rest on a feeble ground. He thought entlemen who believed the measure was so much a favor ite with the people, would not object to let the bill take the isual course of all similar propositions in relation to the public funds. If it is not a measure that will stand all scrutiny, they ought not to urge it; and to be properly scruti-nized, it ought to go to the Committee of Ways and Means be considered, and in connexion with other subjects for the disposal of the public treasure.

Mr. GRANGER spoke about one hour in reply to his

[His remarks shall be hereafter given.]
Mr. BRIGGS said he understood there were three mo Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union; second, to the Committee of Public Lands; and, third, to the Committee of Ways and Means. He said this was no new subject before Congress; it had been acted upon in one or the other House repeatedly for these seven years, and there was no necessity therefore for such an investigation as would be required. and there was no necessity therefore for such an investiga-tion as would be required upon a subject with which the House was not already acquainted. Every one knew the general character and merits of the measure, and he was in favor of having the bill committed at once to the Com-mittee of the Whole on the state of the Union. If it was sent to either of the committees of the House, it would nave to take its chance among other papers and other busi-ness, and nobody could tell when it would be heard from gain; now it was in the power of the House, and he oped they would keep it there, and act upon it. The committee of Ways and Means could tell, to be sure, how auch money was in the Treasury, and how much had een appropriated; they could tell, also, how much it was proposed to appropriate to other purposes; but he was not sposed now to stop and ask those questions; he was not sposed to wait till the Committee of Ways and Means could ascertain how much money they could use upon rail-continuation of the Cumberland Road, reported the same ; roads and canals and public roads—appropriations only six f months ago in high disrepute, as monstrous monopolies, but now in high favor with that party which wishes to preven distribution of the surplus revenue to the People of the country. He would be willing to trust the subject to the vote of the House now, and he hoped they would refer to a Committee of the Whole, and act upon it at the carlies period which the business of the House would permit. Mr. LANE took the floor, but the hour of one o'clock having arrived, the special order was announced.

FORTIFICATION BILL. The House, on motion of Mr. CAMBRELENG, proceeded, in pursuance of the special order of the 26th of January, to the further consideration, in the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, (Mr. Mann, of New York, in the chair,) of the "bill making appropriations for the fortifications of the United States for the year 1835."

The question being on the motion of Mr. CAMBRILENG The question being on the motion of Mr. CAMERELEN to amend the bill by inserting a clause making an additional appropriation of $700,000 for the armament of the Mr. TOWNES, who was entitled to the floor, rose and addressed the committee about two hours, on the virious topics heretofore brought into the debate. He main rous topics heretofore prought into the debate. He mantained that the amount of the surplus revenue had been greatly overrated; that the public lands, as had, he said, been before confidently stated by the honorable gentleman from Tennessee, (Mr. Bell,) would not, hereafter, yield more than a million of dollars annually; and that the state of things on the Southern and Western frontier, and the general condition of Europe, admonished us to reserve whatever surplus we might have, whether it was ten o twenty millions, for the great purpose of national defence He adverted to several of the political topics heretofor discussed in the committee, compared the merits of the different candidates for the Presidency, and vindicated the present Administration from some of the charges brough against it. The proscriptive policy was, he undertook to show, established and acted upon, in the Administration preceding that of General Jackson, and before that time, while General Jackson's immediate predecessor was in the office of Secretary of State. He adverted, particularly, to some transfers of public printing made by that Secretary of State.

Mr. ADAMS rose to explain. He said he had never, while he acted as Secretary of State, made a single change of a public printer from political causes. While he was before the country as a candidate for the Presidency, there was not of the printers of the laws, who were as much were many of the printers of the laws, who were as mucl opposed to him as any editor could be to any candidate but he had never changed one of them from any political motive. He did make one change at Gen. Jackson's personal suggestion; though, whether Gen. J. would recolled it or not, he could not tell. It was in the case of an edito at Nashville; and when Gen. Jackson and his colleague in the Senate came and personally requested it as a favor, for it was supposed the editor was favorable to Gen. Jackson, he did make the transfer; but it was without knowing either of the editors. The motive for this change was afterwards the subject of much misconstruction. He did no mean to charge the present or any Sccretary of State with political motives in relation to changes of this kind; but h did mean to say, that he did not remove one printer whil he was Secretary of State for political considerations; an turther, that while he held a more elevated situation, hever removed one person from office for political causes and that, he believed, was one among the principal reaso why he was not more successful as a candidate for a second

Mr. TOWNES resumed, and spoke till after 3 o'clock Mr. FRENCH took the floor, and expressed a wish taddress the committee on the subject. On motion, the committee then rose, and the House

NAVAL SERVICE .- The bill making appropriations for the Naval Service for the current year has at length passed both Houses of Congress, and, as it will undoubtedly be approved by the President of the United States, may be considered to be a law. As it will be probably some weeks before it finds a place in our columns in the course of our publication of the acts passed at this session of Congress, we have, in the following lines, summed up, for the information of our friends, in and out of the Navy, the principal particulars of the bill: NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR 1836.

- $2,318,017 For pay of officers and seamen -Superintendents, constructors, &c. 68,340 Provisions -782,263 Repairs of vessels 1.065,000 Improvement at Portsmouth Navy yard, 67,000 Brooklyn -84,300 Philadelphia . THE VIRGINIA ELECTION .- The returns of the Election for Delegates to the Legislature of Virginia having now been received, we are enabled to state the general result of it. Out of a body consisting of about 130 members, the Jackson majority is 18 or 20. The Whigs have neither lost nor gained any thing of consequence in the composition of the House of Delegates; but the election is said to establish, beyond reasonable doubt, that the majority of the voters of the State are on their side. Our friends in Virginia are in high spirits. The Kanawha Banner thus Hear ye Representatives in Congress from the old States! Hearken to the voice of the oracle which foretels your destiny, if ye be not wise in time! The Detroit Free Press, the organ of the Spoils party in Michigan, cries out against the passage of Mr. CLAY'S Land Bill, and predicts its defeat-arguing against present action upon it in the following terms:

"When both Michigan and Arkansas shall become members of the Union, the new States will be strong enough in the Senate to defeat any measure which may be injurious to their interests, if not powerful enough to accomplish what will promote them. It is highly important for the new States that Mr. Clay's bill, now before Congress, should be defeated."

We perceive, by the English papers, that Mr. FEATHERSTONHAUGH, the United States Geologist, has had the honor conferred on him of being elected a Fellow of the Royal Society. This distinction, emanating from the most celebrated body of learned men in Europe, and over which the great NEWTON presided, must be in every sense gratifying to the individual who is honored by it, for it is rarely conferred; and, as far as we ecollect, of individuals now living in the United States, is only shared by our eminent fellowcountryman Mr. Bowditch. We were confident, when we published Mr. F.'s Geological Report of the past year, that it would be cordially received in Europe; and so it has turned out. We rejoice, on the public account, that it s so. We are pleased always in the belief that the scientific men of Great Britain are glad of opportunities to honor those who are strengthening the interests of science and of mankind, in this country, with whom they have so many congenial relations.

Letitia Clark, and Francis Clark Meigs, complainants, against Ellen Morton Bailey, John Appleton Bailey, and Laura Bailey, defendants.

PHE bill in this cause states in substance that Francis Clark, deceased, mortgaged lots Nos. 26 and 27, in square No. 252, in the city of Washington, to Moses Young, deceased, to secure the payment of $1000 and interest; that the same were fully paid to said Young in his lifetime; that the said defendants are his heirs at law, that the complainants are the widow and heirs at law of the said Francis Clark; that on partition between them of the real estate of said Francis Clark, said lot No. 26 was assigned to the complainant, Letitia Clark, as a part of her share, and said lot No. 27 to said Francis Clark Meigs as a part of his share, and that the said defendants reside out of this District and in the State of Massachusetts; and the object of the said bill is to obtain a conveyance from said defendants of said lots to the said complainants last named respectively. It is therefore ordered, this 15th day of March, 1836, that notice of the substance and object of the said bill be given to the said absent defendants, by publishing a copy of this order once a week for six successive weeks, in some newspaper printed in this county, warning the said defendants to be and appear at the rules to be held for this Court in the Clerk's office of this county, on the first Monday in September next, and to answer the said bill; otherwise the same will be taken for confessed against the said defendants; the first advertisement to be published at least four months before the said day.

CANCER FARM FOR SAILE.—The above farm contains about 1,200 acres of land, and lies on Bull Run, Prince William county, eight miles from Brentsville, the county town, and twenty-five from Alexandria. This land is enclosed with a good fence, and is divided into eight fields, six of which are used for agricultural purposes, and two as sheep-walks, a stock of upwards of three hundred having been profitably grazed on said fields. Clover has been successfully grown for ten years past on this farm, and but partially grazed, from which circumstance the seed has become so completely incorporated with the soil that the expense of seed, and labor of sowing the same, have been almost entirely saved for several years past; only two bushels have been sown the present year, and yet there are timothy, seventy of which are well set, and are particularly, beautiful and productive. The annual crop of grass will more than pay the interest of the purchase money for the whole tract.

Lest it may appear from the above paragraph that the balance of the tract is worth nothing, I will state that there is a fair prospect for 1,500 bushels of wheat from the growing crop, and that the field now planting in corn is good for 400 barrels. The truth is, that the field for speculation in this section of country is wider is, that the field for speculation in this section of country is wider than any other part of Virginia, and that lands may be had at lower prices.

The dwelling and other houses on the premises are calculated to make a family comfortable. Orchards of well-selected fruit trees are now in a bearing state, producing a good supply for family purposes. It is confidently believed that grazing cattle may be successfully pursued on this land. Mr. John Carter fattens annually from one to two hundred on land immediately in the neighborhood, whose character as grass or grain land is certainly not in higher repute than this farm. Southwestern lands will be taken in payment for this land.

The terms of sale will be made liberal; five years will be given to pay the money in, if required.

given to pay the money in, if required.

If this land be not disposed of before the month of August, it will be offered at public sale at Brentsville, on the first Monday of that month, that being court day.

DOLLARS REWARD.—RANAWAY from the subscriber, residing in this city, about the 1st instant, two negro men, WILLIS and HANSON. Willis is a stout, able-bodied fellow, 25 years of age, about feet 9 or 10 inches high, of a middling dark complexion, with large heavy eyebrows for a negro, and a very surly look when spoken to. His clothing is not known, but he is supposed thave a large pea jacket of dark bearskin cloth, nearly new. Hanson is the brother of Willis, and not quite as tall, but stout in proportion. He is 20 years of age, of a darker complexion than Willis; tolerably black, with a small scar on the upper per of the forehead, near the hair; has rather an unpleasant countenance, and when questioned generally hangs his head. His clothing is probably the same as Willis's, and the may have obtained forged papers, and will endeavor to make their way north; but as no search has been made for them, they may still be lurking in the neighborhood of the city.

I will give $50 a piece for them if taken within the District. We may be a provided the streets of the proposed to the provided the streets.
