Electoral Officials Gear up for November 8 Constitutional Amendments Election, early voting continues thru November 4

Rockwall County voters will go to the polls Monday, October 24 for the November 8 election, with 10 Constitutional Amendments on the ballot. The amendments address a variety of issues, including redistricting, voter ID, and public officials' terms. Rockwall County Elections Administrator Glenda Denton said the amendments are designed to address issues that voters might want to be aware of, such as the impact of newly enacted legislation on filing dates for candidates.

As a point of clarification, officials want to be sure the public knows that the Rockwall County redistricting will not have any effect on the constitutional amendment election, as the complete process has not been finalized. For the November 8th election, the polling places have not changed, said Denton, pointing out the 16 polling places familiar to area citizens. "Voters will go to the same polling place they've always gone to."

Another voting-related issue raising public attention is the proposed "ID Bill," currently in the pre-approval stage with the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ). Upon approval, everyone wanting to vote will be required to show some proof of ID, along with voter registration card. Although voters will not be required to present their Voter Registration Cards, said Denton, they must be able to present a specific type of ID to be permitted to vote.

Denton specified that the "prescribed" ID's that will be required are: a Texas Drivers License issued by the Department of Public Safety; a Texas ID Card, also issued by the Department of Public Safety (DPS); a Concealed Handgun Permit; a US Military ID, a Citizenship Certificate if it has picture, or a US passport. In lieu of these forms of identification, a voter may also present a new Texas Elections ID Certificate. This certificate will be issued by the DPS to individuals who do not have a Drivers License, Texas OD, Passport, or other required ID.

Early voting ends November 4, with three full time polling places in full swing: 1) the Rockwall County Elections Office, located on the square at 107 East Kaufman; 2) Heath's City Hall, located at 200 Laurence Drive; and 3) Royse City's City Hall, 305 North Arch Street.

All polls are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the exception of an extra early voting site in Rowlett at Cullins Lake Point Elementary. This site has an abbreviated schedule, posted in detail online with all other election information at rockwallcountytexasonline.com

Rockwall Council OKs added water conservation measures

Following a lengthy but alarming report by the North Texas Municipal Water District on Oct. 17, the Rockwall City Council unanimously moved to implement level three water conservation measures — a plan that includes additional part time personnel, heavy fines and water disconnection for violators.

Jim Parks of the NTMWD recapped the implementation of stage 1 conservation measures in April, stage 2 in August and, with no significant rains expected, recommended implementing stage 3 by Nov. 1.

Parks explained the impact of so little rain, compounded by a major water source being eliminated due to the zebra mussel infestation of Lake Texoma, which represents about one-quarter of the water supply. The report showed the current elevation of Lake Lavon has dropped to about 479.6 feet. If Lavon's level falls below 475 feet, dipping below the height of the intake pumps, Parks said they will not be able to draw any water from the lake at all.

"The rains are certainly helping," said Parks, "but to end this drought as it currently exists now, it would take

Endon-Chisholm City Council Approves New Annual Fire Safety Inspection Program

25th Endon-Chisholm city council meeting focused on approving a new annual fire inspection program with Bureau Veritas. The contractor for plan reviews and building inspections will be Bureau Veritas. Council members were in attendance and participated in the discussion of the contract with Bureau Veritas. Rick Herzberger, city manager at Bureau Veritas, was on hand to present the program. Council members voted in favor, to adopt a new fire inspection program that will be conducted by Bureau Veritas. The fee for the inspection will be a fixed fee. This inspection will also be conducted by Bureau Veritas. Council members expressed concern that the city's fire department will have to absorb the cost of the city's residents is of their greatest concern. Inspector Randy Slack said, "I work closely with fire departments and chiefs. I like to involve them with verbal coordination. In my experience if when there's an issue, we can have better luck with them." Council members voted that no additional fee would be added on to the city by Bureau Veritas for these services. Any fee absorbed by the city. The issue of code enforcement. Mayor Gary Moody said the building on the corner of Hwy. 205 and Klutts Road as an example with this and a few other properties that were in poor condition and pose a health and safety hazard.

Council members agreed that Butler should be allowed to be proactive and enforce the ordinances in place that were created to protect the safety of the city's residents. After council reviewed and approved the September 2011 financial report, mayor pro-tem Steve Hatfield commented, "We are very blessed in this municipality by people that work so hard to but us in this positive situation."

IMMEDIATE IMPLANTS

As their name suggests, "immediate implants" are embedded in the dental sockets immediately after tooth extraction. The advantages of these "same-day implants" over "delayed implants" (which are placed in partially or completely healed bone) is that they sustain bone formation that provides the best aesthetic results and enable treatment time to be shortened. Good bone quality and quantity are needed for immediate implants to be successful. The gums and adjacent teeth must be in good health, and there must be a stable and favorable relationship between opposing teeth that meet to form an occlusion (bite). Patients meeting these and other criteria who are faced with extraction of decayed or fractured teeth may want to consider the advantages of immediate implants.

On God's Word

by Timothy W. Burnett

The use of "another" in 1 Corinthians 12:7-10

Part of the fun in studying God's word in the Bible often involves digging into the minute details. 1 Corinthians 12:7-10 repeats the English word "another" throughout. A study of the earlier Greek words for "another" will show something very interesting. It is actually translated from two different Greek words.

1 Corinthians 12:7-10 lists nine different ways that God's saints can profit from the manifestation of holy spirit. The word another is used seven times translated from the Greek word "allos," and two times translated from the Greek word "heteros."

We might think, "Well...what difference does it make?" It makes a big difference when it comes to understanding the scripture more clearly, even if the improved clarity is only slight.

The Greek word allos meant another of the same kind, and the Greek word heteros meant another of a different kind. Let's connect each word with the verses.

The word allos was used with word of wisdom and knowledge, gifts of healing, working of miracles, discerning of spirits and interpretation of tongues. The word heteros was used with faith and speaking in tongues. Why was the word heteros used with faith and speaking in tongues, and not allos?

One clue rests in its use with speaking in tongues. Speaking in tongues began to be available on the day of Pentecost as recorded in Acts 2:4, and continues to be available for all of God's saints to this day, and until Christ returns for the rapture (see 1 Thessalonians 4:13-18). There is no mention of it in the book of Revelations, which mostly describes the period of time after the Day of Christ.

With this in mind, it can be seen why speaking in tongues was used with the word heteros (another of a different kind). It would have been different from what was available prior to the age of the grace of God, that being the Old Testament Law period which lasted until the day of Pentecost recorded in Acts 2:1-4. During the Old Testament period it was not available to speak in tongues, but God changed the conditions and it became available.

What was different about faith? There are many examples of Old Testament people acting with faith on God's promises. Hebrews chapter 11 is full of examples.

As used in the New Testament epistles, the word "faith" is used in basically two different contexts. One is about saints believing to live in their lives. Yet Romans 3:21-22 reveals another use, "the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the prophets. Even the righteousness of God which is by the faith of all men and upon all them that believe."

When people are filled with holy spirit, they have the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ as he currently sits on the throne. This was a major dynamic spiritual additive for all of us after they are filled with holy spirit and get born-again by the Ghost.

After a man was healed of a physical problem and could walk again, Peter explained to everyone by what you man was healed. The healing is found in Acts 3:7. Peter's Acts 3:12-16, "The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, fathers, has glorified His son Jesus; Whom you delivered up to the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go, the holy one and the just, and desired a murderer to be granted; and killed the Prince of life, whom God has raised from the dead, and whose name is Jesus Christ."

Peter continued by saying, "And his name through faith in this man strong, whom you see and know; yea, the faith which given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all."

This signified a huge spiritual shift from the Old Testament to the New Testament. It is very clear that it was the name of our Lord Jesus, the son of the man who believed in his name. There is great legal and authority in the name of our Lord Jesus.

The word "faith" used in Acts 3:16 is the same word as used in

There are two new ways to profit from the manifestation of holy spirit. One is by speaking in tongues and the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ. The other is by being filled with holy spirit after the Day of Christ, it is very much possible that we can be filled with holy spirit before the Day of Christ. This would be a good subject for further study.

Heath water tower settlement poses danger for Hillview residents

I have read and studied the recent court settlement between the City of Heath and The Fulton School and find it creates a serious hazard and potential dangerous barrier for residents of the Hillview subdivision, which is adjacent to the school

In its rush to settle and rid itself of continuing costly legal services, the city council and its staff have once again shown their disdain and disregard for the property rights of a citizens. When that road is closed or made impossible to use, homes along that stretch of property will be unable to receive police, fire or EMS services.

It is simply outrageous.
Another egregious violation of property rights is the city's decision to spend our hard earned tax money to build a road that is totally unnecessary. The City agreed with Fulton to abandon use of the City owned exclusive access road and redirect all construction traffic down the residential subdivision on Hillview Drive where the traffic will make a hard left turn to cut across a residential lot owned by Fulton, in the middle of the cul-de-sac subdivision on a new 60' wide access road that will cost an additional $46,825.50 for the road construction.

Then, after the two years it takes to complete this project, the City will remove the road and put all the rock from the $46,825.50 road on the Fulton property for Fulton's use.

This has got to be one of the very worst decisions I have seen yet from this City.

If you view the Council meeting video (available online at www.RockwallTexasOnline.com) you will hear Rich Krause state that this decision should put to rest the persons complaining about how much the City spends on lawsuits and if we (the Hillview residents) had been willing to make concessions (his word, not mine) a year ago maybe this could have been different.

Our little subdivision is zoned SF-15. The City's codes and ordinances do not allow this kind of change to the land use without first following its own ordinances. All the residents on Hillview Drive have signed a petition stating for the City to stop this action and we do not agree with this decision. It appears we'll have to go to the expense of getting a court approved temporary injunction to protect us from this gross negligence on the part of the City of Heath.

The City told 3 residents at 10:30 p.m. on Tuesday (10/18/11) about this decision and had the meeting with a dozen of us on Wednesday (10/19/11).

The City was next door to me installing the fencing to start this unbelievably bad decision on Friday morning. Talk about feeling railroaded.

My first job was at a retirement home next to my middle school and the part of my job I enjoyed the most was simply visiting with the residents. So when Judy Holder of Heath contacted me to tell me about Heath Area Terrific Seniors, I was all ears.

The group, nicknamed HATS, is part of the First United Methodist Church of Heath's senior ministry, devoted to reaching out to seniors and retirees of all ages. The community at large is invited to participate, extending beyond FUMC's own congregation. HATS meets at 1 p.m. the first Wednesday of each month in the church's Fletcher Hall. There are no dues or registration required to participate.

The group is led by Holder, Barbara White and Lynne Wall. The women strive to create fun programs and outings for their members, all being free or very inexpensive. The group has been meeting for more than 12 years. FUMC's Pastor Scott Holcomb-McLain greets the group each time and offers prayers before they begin or embark on an outing.

Past events have included special speakers, flower-arranging classes, book reviews, bingo with prizes, luncheons and trips to the Dallas Arboretum, the azalea festival in Tyler, Purple Ranch lavender farm in Royse City and various lunch outings.

Each January the group hosts a Birthday Bash reminiscent of the birthday parties of youth, including games and festivities to celebrate everyone's birthday all at once.

Each February members are treated to a Valentine's Tea complete with entertainment, served refreshments, and beautiful table settings created by the group. There's even an indoor picnic and Independence Day program each July.

"My mother is 98 and has been in HATS since the start," said Holder. "I got involved with this ministry after I retired 3 years ago. Some in our group are younger, some are older, so we have a nice mix of folks. Both ladies and gentlemen attend our events."

Next week the group will meet at 1 p.m. Wednesday for a special Veterans Day program, featuring Linda Robinson, volunteer coordinator for the USO at DFW airport. Her son recently returned home from his second deployment, Robinson joined the USO after her son's first deployment, then went on to spend thirteen months as the Program Manager of the USO in Balad. While there, Robinson was instrumental in the start-up of the United Through Reading Military Program, which sends children's books to families of deployed soldiers with a DVD of the soldier reading the book to the significant child in their life.

In December HATS participants can look forward to their annual Christmas luncheon featuring singers and entertainment.

Heath to implement water use restrictions Nov. 1

The City of Heath will implement its Stage 3 water restrictions Nov. 1 at the request of the North Tarrant Water District.

The watering restrictions are needed because of ongoing drought conditions, according to a Heath City Council report. Under the restrictions, City of Heath water customers will be limited to watering landscape sprinklers or irrigations systems once every two weeks, according to the release.

Other activities prohibited under Stage 3 restrictions include:

- Hosing of paved areas, buildings or windows (pressure washing of impervious surfaces is allowed)
- Operation of all ornamental fountains or other amenity impoundments to the extent they use water
- Washing and rinsing of vehicles by hose, except with a hose and cutoff nozzle;
- Using water in such a manner as to allow runoff or other waste.

The schedule may be updated periodically and published in the city's monthly newsletters and on the city website.

Homeowners with lawn or chemical services that apply treatments on a regular basis are recommended to schedule these services of the city's watering schedule so that applications may be made before Stage 3 restrictions are mandatory. Violations could result in a fine of up to $2,000, according to the NTMWD. The NTMWD is the city's water supplier via the City of Rockwall. More information and tips on how to conserve water may be found at ntmwd.com.

Brookshire leads Bulldogs over Greenville

indicated that Roys City should have won easily Greenville. ... their hosts, 579-311, but had to score a late ... 27 victory.

That was the largest lead in the game for RC, which had trailed 20-14 and 27-21 to the Lions, whose losing streak stretched to 18 games over the last two seasons.

"Any time we walk away with a win, it's going to be good for us. We played inconsistently but still were able to come out ahead. We did overcome some adversity. They gave one of their best shots at us," said Bulldogs head coach Greg Strahm.

While Greenville was falling to 0-8 overall and 0-4 in District 13-4A, Roys City was solidifying its hold on the district's final playoff berth by improving to 2-6 and 2-2. A home victory over Mount Pleasant for Friday's Parent Night would put the Bulldogs into the playoffs.

Strahm said, "It was very nice offensive production, probably our best this season, including very few turnovers. Defensively, we were scarred by a few big plays."

Greenville quarterback Shay Sellers threw for 57- and 32-yard touchdowns and also ran for two TDs, one from 27 yards out.

However, Bulldogs junior quarterback Wes Brookshire overshadowed that performance by accounting for all of Roys City's touchdowns. His 375 passing yards included two touchdowns to Torrell McQueen and one to Michael Webb. Brookshire ran for the Dawgs' other two scores.

The teams spent much of the game trading touchdowns.

First came Roys City's 82-yard drive following the opening kickoff, capped by Brookshire's 39-yard touchdown pass to McQueen and countered by Sellers' 57-yard scoring connection with Jaquentin Patt. A missed extra point after the Lions' touchdown would haunt them most of the evening.

After that, it was Brookshire's 14-yard pass to McQueen, matched by Sellers' 27-yard run to make it 14-13. Greenville scored again on the quarterback's 4-yard TD to take its first lead.

In the third quarter, RC regained the lead on Brookshire's 6-yard run, but the Lions went back ahead on Sellers' 32-yard pass to Maury Kelly. Brookshire's 13-yard scoring pass to Webb and Sean Pollock's extra point put the Bulldogs ahead to stay 28-27. Webb had a huge game, with 13 catches for 153 yards.

With time running out in the game, Brookshire scored the clinching touchdown on a 1-yard run, giving him 100 yards in 13 carries.

With its District 13-4A championship long since wrapped up and no one left to play in the district, the Roys City volleyball team set about preparing for the playoffs.

The Lady Bulldogs (31-10 overall, 12-0 in the district) will play Tyler John Tyler at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Emory Rains.

RC head coach Robyn Hill said of John Tyler, "They're tall, big blockers. They work real hard at the net and they can hit hard. We have to get up and block them."

With a bye Tuesday in their seven-team district, the Lady Bulldogs played a warm-up match for the playoffs at Denton Ryan.

Even though it didn't mean anything to the district standings or the playoffs, it was a hard-fought match. Ryan won 25-21, 23-25, 25-12, 32-30 to end RC's 13-match winning streak.

"We needed that," Hill said of the competition. It was a back-and-forth match, except that third game. It was aggravating."

Hill said the team had another opponent tentatively scheduled for a 4:30 p.m. Friday warm-up match at RCHS.

Richardson wins district cross country

Kenny Richardson ran his best this season - 16 minutes, 12 seconds for 3.1 miles - to win the District 13-4A cross country championship Monday at Mount Pleasant.

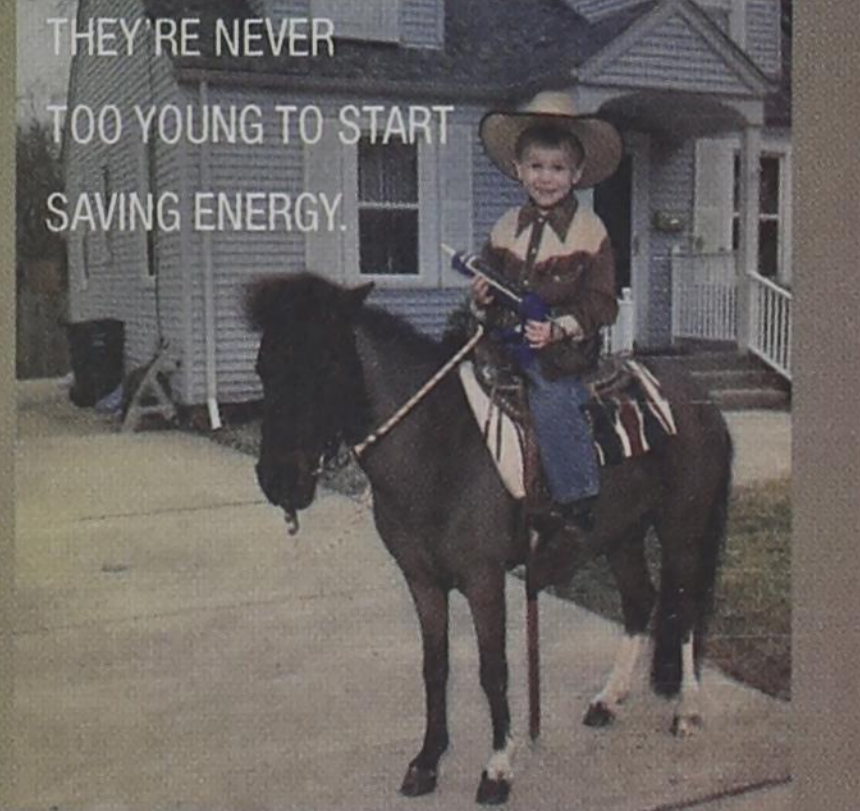

The Roys City runner's individual title means that he will join teammate Ulisses Lopez, who finished third in the district, and the Lady Bulldogs' team at the Region II-4A meet Saturday, Nov. 5, at Vandergriff Park in Arlington.

Despite the two high finishes, the RC boys finished fourth with 92 points. The top three boys' and girls' teams, along with the top 10 individuals, qualified for the regionals.

The Roys City girls used a more balanced lineup to finish third with 79 points to 46 for champion Texarkana Texas and 72 for runner-up Mount Pleasant. RC's top finish was 10th place by Taylor Neely in 13:10 for 2 miles.

Mount Pleasant took the boys' title on a foggy morning with 36 points. Edgar Ramirez's second-place finish paced the Tigers.

Undefeated Hawks rally to 26-21 win over Wylie

Rockwall-Heath again rallied Friday, Oct. 21, scoring a 26-21 victory at Wylie that kept the Hawks undefeated (8-0 overall, 5-0 in District 10-4A). For the third time this year, Amaris Fields caught a game-winning fourth-quarter touchdown pass from Cody Court. This 6-yard scoring pass with 8 minutes remaining came after the Pirates (3-5, 1-4) had overcome deficits of 14-0 and 20-14 to take a 21-20 lead.

"We've had a lot of close ones," said RHHS head coach Mickey Moss. "It's good experience, to learn how to play tough in close games and come out a winner."

The Hawks have clinched a playoff berth, and could take a giant step toward their second 10-4A championship in 4 years by beating equally undefeated

Highland Park (8-0, 5-0) in Friday's Senior Night game at Wilkerson-Sanders Memorial Stadium.

Court had the best game of his career. He completed 15 of 19 passes for 222 yards and three touchdowns, and carried the ball 16 times for 81 yards. Court connected for two second-quarter TDs on passes of 38 yards to Fields and 39 to Jacob Granstaff to give RHHS its 14-0 lead.

Moss said, "Cody did a great job, throwing the ball and running and making his reads."

"This game was good for his confidence. His improvement has just been a weekly process. The quarterback thing is magnified. Everybody looks at the quarterback to get it done. If the offense doesn't do well, they look at the quarterback."

As a team, Rockwall-Heath played much better in producing only one touchdown a week earlier in Rockwall. The Hawks rolled to a well balanced 448 yards and 222 through the air.

After taking a 14-0 lead, RHHS allowed two touchdowns (14-14) to tie the game 14-14 at halftime. Terrell Burt, Wylie's defense for the Pirates, scored on a 72-yard run. That run carries for 148 yards, the highest total the Hawks have allowed.

"Our defense played outstanding in the second half. We had a good first half," Moss said.

The Hawks regained the lead 20-14 on Rico Henderson's run in the third quarter. Parker Swanson's extra-point attempt became important when Wylie's T.K. Rockwell returned the kick for a touchdown and Seth Hiddink added the extra point.

The Hawks defense didn't give up a touchdown in the second half. Fields totaled 122 receiving yards on seven catches, including four passes for 76 yards. Jeremy Armstrong didn't score, but had high 109 yards in 13 rushing attempts.

Slow start leads to Rockwall Christian loss

Rockwall Christian Academy fell behind 21-0 in the first quarter and 35-7 at halftime, and couldn't catch up to Garland Christian Academy in a 56-26 loss Friday, Oct. 21.

The Warriors fell to 1-6 overall and 1-2 in TAPPS District 2-IV. They didn't score until the second quarter, when Taylor Corbin passed for a 55-yard touchdown to Austin Dean.

Corbin accounted for all four RCA touchdowns, with second-half passes of 51 and 67 yards to Daniel Rorie and Corbin's own 1-yard run. The Warriors' quarterback led the team with 53 rushing yards in 22 carries and completed 9 of 21 passes for 203 yards. Rorie gained 123 yards on four catches.

Corbin also helped RCA's defense. He had played safety early this season, but after that was limited to offense only because of an ankle injury. Against Garland, he persuaded head coach Caleb Palmer to put him in at cornerback.

Palmer explained, "Garland has a number one receiver, Zev Bailey. On their first drive, he had (two) catches, one for a touchdown. Taylor said, 'Let me play corner. He won't catch the ball.' Taylor got physical with him, and he didn't catch another pass."

Even with Bailey held in check, GCA's high-powered offense was slightly better than its season average with its 56 points and 604 yards (314 rushing, 290 passing). The Swordsmen, who lead the district with a 3-0 record, are 7-1 overall.

Palmer said, "Out of anybody in our district, GCA is the one we didn't match up with."

The Warriors can clinch a playoff berth by defeating Richardson Canyon Creek Christian (5-3, 3-1) in Friday's 7:30 p.m. Homecoming game at Rockwall High School.

Motley County downs outmanned Fulda School force second loss of season

The Fulda School went up against one of the big boys in Texas six-man football Saturday, and their second loss this season.

Both losses have come against strong teams. Falcons head coach Josh Johnson added to the schedule opponents canceled games. They lost to Arlington High Point Prep, the second-ranked team in the TCCO earlier this year and on Saturday to Motley County, ranked fourth in UIL Division II.

Despite losing the game 72-26 and three players to injury, Johnson said, "We got 45ed by a team that could play for a state title, and we had three players out with concussions, but it was worth it."

In the game, played at the neutral-site Greyhound Stadium in Strawn, Fulda (6-2 overall) trailed 10-0 in the first quarter. The game could have been closer than that, Johnson said.

"We got to the 8 yard line, and Jasten (Reese) dropped a pass. They go four-and-out, then they score on a sweep to go ahead 8-0. We had been playing without Hayden (Leverett), who was out of the opening series, but we scored on a fourth-down conversion when Reed Strout threw to Jasten (Reese)."

"We just didn't execute on offense early."

"We stayed with them for a quarter and a half, but after it was 38-20, it got away from us. They scored touchdowns in the last 2 minutes of the second quarter."

By that time, Reese and starting defender Taylor Zachary also had been injured and left the game. Fulda was a lack of execution in the first quarter. After that we just didn't have enough bodies."

With Leverett, who already has set Fulda's season record with 24 touchdowns, out of the lineup primarily a passing offense.

Three different quarterbacks - Stockton, Qwe'terious Conley and Tanner Treadway - each threw at least one pass. They combined to complete 18 of 30 passes for 116 yards, including touchdowns to Reese, Treadway and Todd Treadway. Tanner Treadway led the team with 68 yards rushing and 39 receiving.

Fulda will return to TAPPS 6-Man District 2-I play Friday for a 7:30 p.m. home game against Cornerstone Christian Academy at Rockwall-Heath High School.

What it took for one Rockwall County soldier to serve in Iraq

The Military View
By Jerry Hogan

Major Darren Reim, son of Joan and Jack Reim of Heath, has just returned from his second one-year tour in Iraq.

Darren went to high school at St. Marks in Dallas graduating in 1989 and then on to college at the University of Texas in Austin. Right after graduating from UT he moved to Rockwall County and from there it was law school at SMU where he graduated in 1997. Marriage to wife, Lisa, and public practice in this area was the logical progression after all of this education.

But Darren felt that he wasn't really serving his country. He had joined the Texas National Guard after SMU with the hopes of his unit being activated for federal service and being deployed to Iraq. However, it was 2004 and his unit had not been called to active service and it didn't look like it was going to happen anytime soon. What did he do? Well, he called up the National Guard Bureau and volunteered to be deployed with the very next Guard unit going to Iraq.

This unit turned out to be the 116th Cavalry Brigade from the State of Idaho. He would be going as the staff judge advocate (military lawyer) with the unit and he would be leaving almost immediately. Next stop: Kirkuk, Iraq.

This city is about 150 miles north of Baghdad, is the capitol of the province and is right in the middle of the area of Iraq that produces up to a million barrels of oil a day, almost half the entire oil production of the country. It is estimated this area has a remaining reserve of over 10 billion barrels.

It is also the city that has always been considered by the Kurds in Iraq as the cultural capitol of Iraq. It is a city with the provincial government being composed of Kurds, Iraqi Turkmen, Arabs (Sunni and Shari) and Assyrians, a mixture of politicians that don't always agree what is best for the city, province, region or country.

Major Ream's job: Be one of two Americans assigned to the capitol to assist the government in learning how to "follow the rule of law" (even though most factions in the government really didn't really even like the others) and "continue the development of a 'Unified Iraq' that would work under a centralized government based in Baghdad."

You can imagine the excitement of trying to referee some of the discussions that followed on these two main objectives.

In the summer of 2005, after a year in country, Major Ream returned to our area and went to work in Fort Worth for the environmental control agency (TCEQ). He also remained in the Idaho Guard and spent lots of time on airplanes going back and forth from here to Idaho for his monthly drills and field exercises.

In 2010, his unit was deployed again to Iraq. This time it was to the Baghdad area where he was based at Camp Victory, that massive base outside the airport in Baghdad and the area where most of the palaces of Hussein are located. His mission was serving as the garrison judge advocate for the Victory Base, the largest in Iraq, and the Green Zone where the Iraqi government and the U.S. Embassy is now located. His task was to provide legal assistance in the administrating military justice for approximately

4,000 soldiers and 15,000 civilian contractors, legal assistance for approximately 100,000 of dollars of U.S. contracts still in force in Iraq and to assist in the down planning for the withdrawal of U.S. forces and the handover of the bases to Iraqi control. (On Victory Base, the contractors are located.)

According to Major Ream, "The Iraqis are running the base. When we close down a base it is turned over to them. We recently turned over Camp Cropper, the base that had the most high value prisoners. The goal is to close all of the major bases as soon as it is on schedule. The Iraqi forces are the ones meeting with us now as the US military does no patrolling or seeking out bases. It is all left to the Iraqis."

I asked Major Ream what our soldiers are like in Iraq and he said, "I am not surprised."

"Our U.S. soldiers have done a tremendous job and they have done it in an ethical and honorable way and I am proud of them."

So what now? Well, Major Ream has gotten so used to life in Idaho he has decided to join them on a more permanent basis. His family will be moving to Boise, Idaho, where he will be working on an environmental program of the Guard. But he will be in Rockwall County and he will be here always.

Welcome home to one more of our local warriors who will be here to help preserve our value system and our way of life. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Jerry Hogan is a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel who is also the Rockwall County judge at 214-394-4033 or jerryhogan@sbcglobal.net.

Defending individual rights in a world full of tyranny ...

The Federalist Papers: An Introduction

At a time when Texans are awakening to the power and security of our U.S. Constitution, and in order to better inform our readers about the importance of our constitution, its purpose and scope, we are offering a continuing series of "The Federalist Papers," explanations provided to Americans prior to adoption of the U.S. Constitution. We offer our special gratitude to Project Gutenberg Association and Founding Fathers web site for access to the thinking of America's founding fathers. We pray our elected and appointed government officials will study these writings and assist with reclaiming the liberty and security of individual rights for which the constitution was constructed.

From

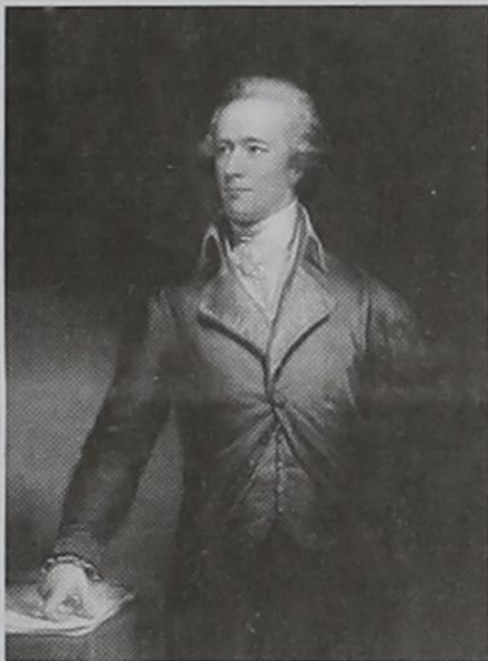

<http://www.foundingfathers.info/federalistpapers/>

The Federalist Papers were written and published during the years 1787 and 1788 in several New York State newspapers to persuade New York voters to ratify the proposed constitution.

In total, the Federalist Papers consist of 85 essays outlining how this new government would operate and why this type of government was the best choice for the United States of America. All of the essays were signed "PUBLIUS" and the actual authors of some are under dispute, but the general consensus is that Alexander Hamilton wrote 52, James Madison wrote 28, and John Jay contributed the remaining five.

The Federalist Papers remain today as an excellent reference for anyone who wants to understand the U.S. Constitution.

FEDERALIST No. 13 Advantage of the Union in Respect to Economy in Government For the Independent Journal.

Alexander Hamilton

To the People of the State of New York:

As CONNECTED with the subject of revenue, we may with propriety consider that of economy. The money saved from one object may be usefully applied to another, and there will be so much the less to be drawn from the pockets of the people. If the States are united under one government, there will be but one national civil list to support; if they are divided into several confederacies, there will be as many different national civil lists to be provided for--and each of them, as to the principal departments, coextensive with that which would be necessary for a government of the whole. The entire separation of the States into thirteen unconnected sovereignties is a project too extravagant and too replete with danger to have many advocates. The ideas of men who speculate upon the dismemberment of the empire seem generally turned toward three confederacies--one consisting of the four Northern, another of the four Middle, and a third of the five Southern States. There is little probability that there would be a greater number. According to this distribution, each confederacy would comprise an extent of territory larger than that of the kingdom of Great Britain. No well-informed man will suppose that the affairs of such a confederacy can be properly regulated by a government less comprehensive in its organs or institutions than that which has been proposed by the convention. When the dimensions of a State attain to a certain magnitude, it requires the same energy of government and the same forms of administration which are requisite in one of much greater extent. This idea admits not of precise demonstration, because there is no rule by which we can measure the momentum of civil power necessary to the government of any given number of individuals; but when we consider that the island of Britain, nearly commensurate with each of the supposed confederacies, contains about eight millions of people, and when we reflect upon the degree of authority required to direct the passions of so large a society to the public good, we shall see no reason to doubt that the like portion of power would be sufficient to perform the same task in a society far more extensive in power, properly organized and exerted, is capable of doing so to a very great extent; and can, in a manner, reproduce itself, and extend its great empire by a judicious arrangement of subordinate powers.

The supposition that each confederacy into which the empire is likely to be divided would require a government not less extensive than the one proposed, will be strengthened by another supposition, more probable than that which presents us with three confederacies as an alternative to a general Union. If we attend carefully to the commercial considerations, in conjunction with the political considerations of the different States, we shall be led to conclude that the States which will most naturally league themselves under two confederacies, four Eastern States, from all the causes that form the basis of their sympathy and connection, may with certainty be united into one. New York, situated as she is, would never be unwise to unite with a feeble and unsupported flank to the weight of that which is to be on her other obvious reasons that would facilitate her union with New Jersey is too small a State to think of being a frontier to this still more powerful combination; nor do there seem to be any obstacles to her admission into it. Even Pennsylvania, by inducements to join the Northern league. An active foreign policy, the basis of her own navigation, is her true policy, and her various circumstances, may not think themselves much benefited by an encouragement of navigation. They may prefer a system of free trade, unlimited scope to all nations to be the carriers as well as the producers of their commodities. Pennsylvania may not choose to be interested in a connection so adverse to her policy. As she is a frontier, she may deem it most consistent with her interests to be exposed side turned towards the weaker power of the South, towards the stronger power of the Northern, Confederacy, she the fairest chance to avoid being the Flanders of the North, may be the determination of Pennsylvania, if the Northern Confederacy includes New Jersey, there is no likelihood of more than a prospect to the south of that State.

Nothing can be more evident than that the thirteen States would to support a national government better than one half of the States, any number less than the whole. This reflection must be taken into account in obviating that objection to the proposed plan, which is a principle of expense; an objection, however, which, when we take a nearer view of it, will appear in every light to be groundless.

If, in addition to the consideration of a plurality of civil governments, we view the number of persons who must necessarily be employed in the inland communication between the different confederacies, the illicit trade, and who in time will infallibly spring up out of the necessity of revenue; and if we also take into view the military conflicts which it has been shown would unavoidably result from the conflicts of the several nations into which the States would be divided, we shall clearly discover that a separation would be not only detrimental to the economy, than to the tranquillity, commerce, revenue, and every part.

Texas Constitution Amendment proposals for November 8 election

by Jpdoe Laubenberg

TEXAS HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Constitutional Amendment Election
Nov. 8, 2011

Proposition 1, SJR 14: Tax Exemptions for the Spouses of Deceased Disabled Veterans

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for an exemption from ad valorem taxation of all or part of the market value of the residence homestead of the surviving spouse of a 100 percent or totally disabled veteran."

Summary: Currently, the Texas Constitution exempts the residential homesteads of totally disabled veterans from property taxes. This would extend the exemption to the veteran's surviving spouse, as long as the survivor does not remarry and the property remains the survivor's residential homestead.

Supporters: Veterans' spouses make great sacrifices, many of which are financial, for our country's safety and security. Extending the tax exemption to disabled veterans' surviving spouses is an appropriate tribute to their role in securing our freedoms.

Opponents: Texas should be cautious about granting property tax exemptions. This reduces revenue for local government, and increases the burden on other taxpayers.

Proposition 2, SJR 4: Bonds for Water Resources Development

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of additional general obligation bonds by the Texas Water Development Board in an amount not to exceed $6 billion at any time outstanding."

Summary: The constitutional amendment would allow the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB) to continually issue bonds for the Texas Water Development Fund II without future voter approval, as long as the principal does not exceed $6 Billion. These bonds provide assistance to local water and wastewater projects.

Supporters: Entities need state backing to complete these expensive and vital water resource projects. TWDB now depends on recurring constitutional amendment approval to ensure Texas' water future. This would allow a predictable, perpetual bond authority.

Opponents: The bond debt is paid for by the taxpayers. Because of the large amounts of money involved, repeated voter approval should be required for TWDB to continue issuing bonds.

Proposition 3, SJR 50: Bonds for Government Loans to Students

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds of the State of Texas to finance educational loans to students."

Summary: This constitutional amendment would give the Higher Education Coordinating Board authority to fund student loans through bonds, as long as the total amount does not exceed the amount previously approved by voters. At present, legislative and voter approval is required for additional bond capacity.

Supporters: Education costs continue to increase. The state must do everything possible to help students achieve their higher education.

Opponents: Allowing perpetual bonding authority is a dangerous precedent, especially when Texas is struggling economically. Increases should be subject to voter and legislative approval to maintain accountability.

Proposition 4, HJR 63: Use of Property Taxes for Transportation Funding

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to permit a county to issue bonds or notes to finance the development or redevelopment of an unproductive, underdeveloped, or blighted area and to pledge for repayment of the bonds or notes increases in ad valorem taxes imposed by the county on property in the area."

Summary: The constitutional amendment would allow counties to pledge increased property tax collections for transportation funding in special reinvestment zones.

Supporters: Cities and towns already use increased property tax collections for this purpose. This would give counties the same tool to finance transportation projects.

Opponents: The property tax system is problematic and already overburdened. Texas should not expand use of these taxes. Approval of this amendment will only serve as an incentive to increase property value appraisals, and will not address the true problems with state transportation funding.

Proposition 5, SJR 26: Interlocal Contracts

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to allow cities or counties to enter into interlocal contracts with other cities or counties without the imposition of a tax or the provision of a sinking fund."

Summary: This constitutional amendment would allow the Legislature to authorize cities and counties to enter into interlocal contracts with other cities or counties without meeting certain tax assessment and sinking fund requirements. Currently, a city or county cannot take out debt unless it levies a tax sufficient to pay the interest and creates a sinking fund of at least two percent.

Supporters: Authorizing this policy would allow cities and counties to jointly administer programs and services without facing unnecessary barriers. This would save taxpayer money by reducing duplication of government services.

Opponents: If the merged programs are implemented poorly, transparency and accountability could be an issue.

Proposition 6, HJR 109: Fund Transfers to the Available School Fund

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment clarifying references to the permanent school fund and allowing the legislature by general law to direct the General Land Office to distribute revenue from permanent school fund land or other properties to the available school fund."

Summary: The Permanent School Fund (PSF) is a special supplemental fund that provides additional monies to school districts. Those funds are distributed by the State Board of Education (SBOE) through the Available School Fund (ASF). This amendment would expand authority for distribution of those funds to the General Land Office (GLO) or the School Land Board (SLB). It would allow the GLO or SLB to distribute up to $300 million. The amendment also will temporarily increase the market value of the PSF to allow the distributions.

Supporters: The General Land Office is already making distributions when needed and this amendment brings constitutional clarity for the Attorney General's office.

Opponents: This amendment is unnecessary because the State Board of Education can act quickly to transfer the proceeds to the Available School Fund. Additionally, it is inappropriate to artificially inflate the market value of these properties, even if it is a temporary measure.

Proposition 7, SJR 28: El Paso Parks

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to permit conservation and reclamation districts in El Paso County to issue bonds supported by ad valorem taxes to fund the maintenance of parks and recreational facilities.

Summary: This constitutional amendment would allow El Paso County to finance and construct parks and recreation centers through the issuance of bonds supported by ad valorem taxes.

Supporters: Ten counties already have this option. This only applies to El Paso County and has support from the legislature. Opponents: This is a vehicle for new taxation of El Paso County, which is especially imprudent in these tough economic times. Texas should not allow this additional property taxation; Texas should not pass that would lead to all counties having this authority.

Proposition 8, SJR 16: Tax Breaks for Water Stewardship

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment providing for the appraisal for ad valorem tax purposes of open-space land and water stewardship purposes on the basis of its productive capacity."

Summary: The constitutional amendment would allow landowners to receive property tax exemptions for water stewardship. The amount would be based on the productive water capacity of the land.

Supporters: This measure would be a significant incentive for property owners to engage in water conservation. This is an important given predicted future water shortages and the fact that the majority of Texas water is on private land.

Opponents: Tax exemptions are already available for water and for agriculture. Too many tax exemptions result in additional remaining property owners.

Proposition 9, SJR 9: gubernatorial Pardon Authority

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment providing for the governor to grant a pardon to a person who successfully completed deferred adjudication community supervision."

Summary: Currently, the Governor can only pardon individuals with criminal convictions, but cannot pardon defendants who have completed probation without conviction. This amendment would allow the Governor to do so.

Supporters: Although individuals who have received deferred adjudication are not convicted, they still carry the arrest and conviction on their record. They deserve a chance to have their records expunged and improve their chances to remain in society and gain employment.

Opponents: The record of the individual's arrest and conviction should remain public information. It is risky to restrict access to this type of information.

Proposition 10, SJR 37: Resign-to-Run Requirements

The Ballot will Read: "The constitutional amendment providing for the length of the unexpired term that causes the automatic resignation of an elected county or district officeholders if they become candidates for another office."

Summary: At present, if a county official files candidacy for another office with more than one year left in their current term, they must resign. This constitutional amendment would only require resignation if there is more than one year and thirty days left.

Supporters: This amendment is necessary to line up with the filing deadlines Texas has enacted to comply with the federal Overseas Voter Empowerment Act, which allows overseas voters to meet voting deadlines.

Opponents: Resign-to-run should be repealed. Other public officials are not required to resign when they run for another public office. District officials should be allowed this same benefit.

RHS scored on Wesley Davis' passes of 31 yards to Bruce Brookins and 78 to Coan Calabrese. A week after he threw five interceptions, Davis and the Jackets did not turn the ball over.

"It's hard to find positives when you get beat and take a pretty good thumping from a good football team, but Brookins caught the ball well." The sophomore was on the junior varsity until moving up to the varsity in a starting role 2 weeks ago.

Calabrese led RHS with 93 yards on his three catches. Rockwall's running game suffered, with just 93 yards in 32 carries. Curtis Turner, who made his first starter, led the team with just 26 yards in three carries.

The Covenant was more than quick enough for the Eagles.

To its credit, HCA made a valiant effort to extend the game past halftime with its best drive of the game. The Eagles gained 44 of their game total of 101 yards on a drive from their 20 yard line to the Knights' 16 before the home team's defense stiffened and took over the ball on downs for a final kneel-down. Quincy Terrell accounted for 39 of those yards, 31 rushing and 8 on a pass to Cameron Westmoreland.

A touchdown and a 2-point conversion kick would have brought HCA within 44 points at 52-8.

"The kids fought hard and tried hard," Huckabee said. "But we were beat up and banged up. We were pretty much done."

Covenant led almost from the beginning of the game. The Eagles fumbled the ball away on their first possession, and one play later the Knights' Ben Coop ran 15 yards for a touchdown.

Jake Hornberger threw three touchdown passes, two to Collin Teaster and one to Clark Martin, who also scored a rushing TD. Colby Boozer ran 38 yards for a score, and Carson Sharpless intercepted a pass by Terrell and took it 30 yards for a touchdown.

I LOVE THE FEELING I'VE GAINED FROM MY WEIGHT LOSS.

My hospital in Rockwall has given me so much to be thankful for. To begin with, everyone at the bariatric center treated me like I was somebody, not just a plus-size body. They explained my weight loss surgery options and helped me make the right decision. And now look at the results. I'm not overweight. I'm overjoyed!
