Rockwall County Library plans reception to honor retiring Bishop

Gloria Bishop, who has been responsible for carrying out the mission of the Rockwall County Library's Adult Literacy Center since 2000, is planning her retirement, and the library is organizing a public reception as a sendoff.

Bishop will be recognized with a 6 p.m. reception on Jan. 24 in the library's Community Room. Current and former Literacy Center students and tutors, as well as members of the general public, are invited to attend.

In her role as adult literacy coordinator, Bishop has seen the program grow from two students and five tutors in 2000 to approximately 300 students and 70 tutors, according to a library news release.

The Literacy Center is sponsored by the Friends of the Rockwall County Library, with additional funding provided by individual donors, corporate and foundation grants, and awards from local civic organizations. Since its inception in 2000, 267 students have obtained GED certificates and 21 have entered college. Eight native-born Americans, who previously could not read well enough to pass a driver's test or take care of their bills, have learned to read. And 1,705 English as a Second Language students have improved their reading and speaking levels, with many empowered to obtain jobs, earn promotions to better positions and assist their children with homework and in communication during parent-teacher conferences. Seventy-nine of these individuals have completed study and exam requirements to become U.S. citizens, according to the news release.

Bishop is retiring so she and her husband, Ed, can undertake retirement plans they've been making for several years, according to the news release. Longtime library volunteer Carol Cease will take over as the new adult literacy coordinator beginning Feb. 1, according to Marcine McCulley, library director.

Gloria Bishop, adult literacy coordinator for the Rockwall County Library, is shown working with students using computer-aided language programs in the ESL classes offered at the library. Bishop, who has served as coordinator of the library's adult literacy program since 2000, plans to retire. She will be feted with a 6 p.m. reception on Jan. 24 at the library's Community Room. Current and former Literacy Center students, tutors and the public are invited to attend.

Local Habitat preparing for next project

The Rockwall Habitat for Humanity organization is currently preparing for its next build, which will be at 302 E. Ross St.

The organization has been "on hold" for good weather conditions and is looking for volunteers to "stay tuned for more information." Volunteers will be notified when plans are ready to be put into motion, according to Jeff Airheart, volunteer coordinator.

The organization is in need of assistance in replenishing its supply of food and water. Meal providers for breakfasts and lunches on build days are needed. Anyone interested in assisting in these areas should contact the organization through its website, rockwallhabitat.org.

Rockwall High School Jazz Band performs at Chamber Banguet

The Rockwall High School Jazz Band was invited to perform at the 2013 Rockwall Chamber Partnership Awards and Appreciation Banquet and delivered a mix of classic jazz and contemporary hits such as "Brick House," made famous in 1977 by the Commodores. Several members of the group played more than one instrument during the performance, according to Brian Mears, associate band director.

Hail, a survivor, to join upcoming Relay for Life event

by Mary Thacker

Kathleen Hail has been a Rockwall resident since the age of 2 and is a graduate of Rockwall Elementary School, Rockwall Intermediate School and Rockwall High School. She left her hometown just long enough to attend college at Southwest Texas University where she majored in art. She planned to continue her education to become a teacher, but was impatient to get out into the real world after she received her degree. She went on to own two CD Warehouse stores, where she worked until she had her daughter. Since retail sales are a 24-hour, seven-days a week commitment, she needed something that would allow her to have a more flexible schedule. Luckily, there was an opening at Rockwall County Abstract & Title, the business her family has owned and operated since 1972. Hail joined her mother, brother, and father at the company in 1999.

In May 2006, Hail started experiencing the symptoms similar to those of a kidney infection that wouldn't go away. Her doctor detected a tumor in her abdomen, but the scans were inconclusive as to its exact location. Surgery was scheduled in June at Baylor Hospital. Doctors hoped to remove the tumor and were prepared to remove Hail's right kidney, as well. However, the size and location of the tumor made its removal too difficult.

"They basically opened me up and sewed me back up," she said.

Hail's tumor was diagnosed as leiomyosarcoma, a very rare type of cancer that attacks soft tissue and accounts for 1 percent of all cancers. In addition, it is unusual for someone of Hail's age to have this type of tumor. Most leiomyosarcoma patients are either young children or older adults. In most cases, it originates in the joints between the bones and can cause those suffering from it to lose a limb. Hail's tumor, however, was located at the base of the vena cava, the long blood vessel that runs from the neck to the abdomen. Her doctor told her that it had probably been slowly growing since she was 18 or 19 and had just reached the point where it was interfering with the function of and was started on a different drug for five months, which her body tolerated. Her doctors referred her to MD Anderson in Houston in December of 2006.

"Of course, I was happy being treated at Baylor, because I was near my family and have very good doctors. But MD Anderson is an entire department dedicated to sarcoma, my new doctor operates on about 12 tumors a week each year," Hail said.

Her surgery was scheduled for the available date. After eight hours on the operating table, her right kidney and a tumor the size of a football were successfully removed from her abdomen.

"A tumor is very sticky—like gum—it couldn't be pulled off without tearing my kidney to shreds," she said.

"I thought my cancer was just going to be a speed bump, and then I would go on down the road," Hail said. "I just wanted to forget it happened."

However, she has had several recurrences since her original diagnosis. Currently, she is trying some new chemotherapy with cell growth inhibitors to help stop the small tumors from

"My doctor described my tumor as moss growing over my kidney, causing it to shut down," Hail said.

Her oncologist prescribed an aggressive series of chemotherapy to shrink the tumor.

"I was too naïve to know that when an oncologist says aggressive chemo, that's really serious," Hail said with a wry smile. "I should have known when they told me I would be in the hospital for seven days while receiving the treatment that it was going to be pretty rough."

The weeklong stay stretched into nearly two weeks before she was released to go home to recuperate before starting another series of treatments in three weeks.

However, Hail experienced a bad reaction to the drug during her second course of chemo.

"They wanted to give me the chemotherapy for three days then watch me for three days. But the chemicals were basically frying my brain. My mom walked into the room, and I didn't know her," said Hail.

At that point, she was sent home in her lungs from growing.

"My doctor says that he's trying to keep me alive until a cure is found. Each year new drugs are coming out. Last year my current medication was in trials and it wasn't even available five years ago. Today I can get it with a prescription," Hail said with a smile.

"I realized that cancer is not going to let me go. I needed to get involved and help find a cure," Hail said.

Last year she attended Relay For Life, the signature fundraising event of the American Cancer Society, as a survivor. This year, she and her daughter Chloe, will be part of her team, Hail's Krew.

"My daughter has had to live with this, since she was 6 years old. Last summer she went to Camp Kesem, a nonprofit organization organized by Texas A&M, for kids whose parents have cancer. At school, no one understands what it's like to have a parent with cancer. At Camp Kesem, it's a whole place of kids who understand," Hail said.

Relay For Life is another place where people understand what it's like to have cancer.

"I was surprised by how much it comforted me to see so many people who are going through the same thing that I am," Hail said. "I think some people don't go to Relay, because they think it will be sad. But it's a celebration plus it's fun. My daughter is looking forward to staying all night."

Hail is also luminaria chairman this year and is responsible for setting all the paper bags filled with candles that are decorated in honor of those who have beat cancer or in memory of those who have lost their battle with the disease.

The luminarias will line the track at Cain Middle School at the Rockwall County Relay For Life beginning at 7 p.m. April 26. The entire community is invited to attend.

BATTLING BAD BREATH

About 65 million Americans suffer from halitosis (bad breath) at some point in their lives. Many believe onions and garlic are culprits, but these foods are rapidly absorbed into the bloodstream. The blood is then carried back to the lungs, where the food smells are released by the lungs and evaporate into the air, causing food odors from the mouth. After they run this course, however, the breath eventually returns to normal through evaporation. More problematic are the bacteria that cannot survive in oxygenated areas and hide in the thick mucus on the back of the tongue. They emit a sulfur compound that causes the offending odor. This problem must be addressed with brushing or scraping the tongue.

Dentistry today is constantly changing, and new technologies and treatment methods abound. At our office we are committed to keeping up with the new practices and providing our patients with the best dental-care experience one can find. At McNEW DENTAL, our goal is to help preserve your natural teeth for a lifetime. We're located at 1300 W. Ralph Hall Pkwy., Suite 114, where we take the time to be gentle and provide the best possible dental care in a friendly and comfortable environment. PH: 469/338-4603. # On God's Word

by Timothy W. Burnett

Meek and lowly in heart ... Part 2 continued

In this study on Jesus' words about being "meek and lowly in heart" (Matthew 11:29), we began with basic identified the ancient Greek words for "meek," "yoke," and "take."

At this point in the study, we may feel overwhelmed with various verses that used the same words. But as we continue to dive into them one at a time, our hearts will become more comforted and edified. This is just a guaranteed result for they who read and study with the intent of believing and loving God's word.

Let's take our time reading each usage. Read the area of verses around them. Notice the context, what they are talking about, who is being addressed, etc. We can learn from them even if they do not seem to fit with the scripture we are learning about.

Continuing with the study, the word "learn" found in Matthew 11:29 was translated from the ancient Greek word manthano (see Greek-English Lexicon Strong's number 3129).

Manthano meant to learn or be apprised. It was used for increasing one's knowledge in the following verses: 1 Corinthians 14:31 and 35; Romans 16:17; Philippians 4:9; 2 Timothy 3:14; Revelations 14:3; John 7:15 and Matthew 9:13.

It was used in the context of being "imbued with the knowledge of Christ" in Ephesians 4:20; Matthew 24:32; Mark 13:28; Matthew 11:29 and Colossians 1:7.

It meant "to hear or be informed" in Acts 23:27 and Galatians 3:2.

The following verses used the word manthano for "to learn by use and practice" and "to be in the habit of; accustomed to": 1 Timothy chapter 5; Titus 3:14; Philippians 4:11; Hebrews 5:8.

Manthano was used in the Septuagint and can be found in the Hebrew-English Lexicon Strong's number 3925. It meant "exercise in; learn; accustom and combine," and was used in Isaiah 1:17, 2:4, 26:10, 29:24; Proverbs 30:3; Deuteronomy 4:10, 14:23, 17:19, 18:19, 31:13; Jeremiah 10:2, 12:16; and 1 Chronicles 5:8; Micah 4:3; Ezekiel 19:3 & 6.

The word "heart" in Matthew 11:29 was translated from the Greek word kardia (Greek-English Lexicon Strong's number 2588).

Young's Concordance to the King James Bible reveals a hundreds of verses where kardia is used. It is sufficient for this article to provide the meanings described in the Lexicons.

According to the Lexicon, the word kardia is "from a root signifying to quiver or palpitate."

The Hebrew-English Lexicon explains its Septuagint counter-part as "the soul or mind, as it is the fountain and seat of the thoughts, passions, desires, appetites, affections, purposes, endeavors."

The word "rest" in Matthew 11:29 was translated from the Greek word anapausis (see Greek-English Lexicon Strong's numbers 373 and 372).

Anapausis was used in Revelations 4:8 with the meaning of "intermission, or cessation of any motion, business or labor."

It meant "rest or recreation" in Matthew 12:43; Luke 11:24 and Revelations 14:11.

The Lexicon also states that in Matthew 11:29 it meant "blessed quality of soul."

As used in Luke 12:19, the Lexicon explains it meant "of the repose one enjoys after toil."

In Revelations 6:11 it meant "to keep quiet, and of calm and expectation."

In Matthew 11:28 it meant "to refresh the soul of anyone."

While reading through the different usages of each word, take note about what can be learned from them. For example, while reading the Septuagint's word for "lowly" and "meek" was used in the book of Job, notice how he suffered great and terrible affliction and ended wrong counsel by miserable comforters. Job's heart (or kardia) for was clearly from "the fountain and seat of his thoughts, passions, desires, appetites, affections, purposes and endeavors."

Rockwall Lady Jackets tied for lead halfway through district play

by Lary Bump
 Rockwall bounced back from its first district loss this season with a 68-53 victory Friday night at Longview.

By winning, the Lady Jackets reached the midpoint of the District 12-5A with a 5-1 record, good enough to place them in a three-way tie with Mesquite and Mesquite Horn. Those three teams were two games ahead of Longview (3-3), in the district's fourth playoff position.

RHS (19-7 overall) had lost at home Tuesday, Jan. 8, to Mesquite 59-43. The Lady Jackets were to play at Mesquite Horn, a team they had edged 47-44 in the district opener for both teams.

Against Longview, Rockwall's Ellen Baker scored 15 points, 12 on 3-point shots, in the first half. The Lady Lobos (15-9) held her to 3 second-half points, but RHS' 17-2 run in the third quarter stretched a 7-point lead to 22 at 57-35.

Sara Williamson finished with 17 points and Morghen Day had 11 for the Lady Jackets.

Three nights earlier, RHS had led 14-11 after the first quarter, but Mesquite came back to take a 29-23 halftime lead. The Lady Skeeters (16-10) used a 30-20 second-half advantage to run away from Rockwall. Williamson scored a game-high 19 points.

The Lady Jackets have been outscored during the second quarter in each of their last three games, but won two of them. In district play, they defeated North Mesquite 60-53 behind Williamson's 26 points Jan. 2 and started Tyler Lee on a four-game district losing streak with a 59-28 defeat Dec. 21. In that game also, Baker scored 18 and Williamson had 17.

During the holiday break, RHS won three of four games at the McDonald's All-Star Invitational in Bryan. The only loss was in the quarterfinals against Katy Seven Lakes 45-27. Seven Lakes (20-6) took an 18-9 first-quarter lead and stymied the Rockwall offense after that.

In the tournament, the Lady Jackets won against Conroe Oak Ridge 74-36, Corpus Christi Ray 65-55 and Spring Westfield 64-33. Williamson averaged 15.3

points in the four tournament games, with Baker contributing 12 per game.

Roysce City Lady Bulldogs face loss to Lovejoy and Wylie High

by Michael Morrill
Lovejoy Beats Lady Bulldogs 60-43

The Lovejoy Lady Leopards basketball team, who is in their first season as a 4A Team, has played some quality 4A and 5A teams during the non-district portion of their schedule.

By doing so, it has prepared them well for District 13-4A play.

In District 13-4A play, the Lady Leopards have been playing at a high level and they continued to do so Tuesday, January 8 at Roysce City.

Behind a balanced scoring attack which saw four Lady Leopards score in double figures, Lovejoy beat Roysce City 60-43.

With the win, Lovejoy improves to 5-1 in District 13-4A play. Roysce city falls to 17-8 and 3-3 in District action.

Roysce City held a 9-7 lead after the first quarter thanks primarily to 7 points scored in the frame by senior Krystal Pickron.

But in the second quarter, Lovejoy's sharpshooter Paige Eberhart got hot and she scored 11 points in the frame to push the Lady Leopards into a lead that they would never relinquish. Nine of Eberhart's points in the quarter came on three point shots.

At half time Lovejoy led 30-18

In the early stages of the 3rd quarter, Lovejoy would stretch their lead to 34-18.

That is when Roysce City made their one significant run of the game. The Bulldogs went on a 16-8 run to cut Lovejoy's advantage to 42-34 in the final moments of the 3rd quarter. In fact, right before the end of the 3rd quarter, Roysce City looked like they had trimmed the lead to six but a questionable offensive charge call against Krystal Pickron nullified the basket that she had scored. That call effectively ended any further comeback attempts by Roysce City.

At the end of the 3rd quarter, Lovejoy led 44-34.

With the game on the line in the 4th quarter, Lovejoy made all the key plays. As it turned out, the Lady Leopards had too many weapons and the visitors would leave Roysce City with the victory. Shaini Rainey would lead the Lady Leopards in scoring with 20 points Samantha Odum had 12 Paige Eberhart as mentioned above had 11 points, and Stefanie Lewerenz finished with 10.

Krystal Pickron did score a game high 27 points. But, she had to really work for all the points that she got in the game. Lovejoy's defensive game plan against the Roysce City star was very effective on this night.

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total
Roysce City	9	9	16	9	43
Lovejoy	7	23	14	16	60

Roysce City Scoring Summary: Krystal Pickron 27, Sydnie Erbe 6, Lauren Dusek 6, Janai Williams 3, Yasmine Woodard 1.
 Lovejoy Scoring Summary: Rainey 20, Odum 12, Eberhart 11, Lewerenz 10, Langa 3, Hancock 2, Leggett 2.

Lady Pirates Defeat Lady Bulldogs 63-48

In a crucial District 13-4A game, the Wylie High School Lady Pirates beat Roysce City 63-48 Friday, January 11. The game was played at Wylie High School.

With the win, Wylie improves to 4-3 in District 13-4A play. Roysce City falls to 17-9 overall and 3-4 in District action.

Right now after the first half of District play, state ranked McKinney North first place with a perfect 7-0 record. Lovejoy is in 2nd at 6-1 Sherman and Wylie High School sit in a tie for 3rd at 4-3. Roysce City is on the outside looking in consideration to the District 13-4A playoff picture. So, the Lady Bulldogs have some serious work if they want to make the playoffs again.

Against Wylie, Krystal Pickron did have another outstanding game as she scored in 34 points. But, on a night when she needed help, her teammates were unable to provide enough extra scoring punch.

Wylie got the big win primarily because their dynamic duo of Colby Davis and Kennedi Foreman exploded for a combined 46 points in the game (Davis had 21 and Foreman contributed 25).

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total
Roysce City	8	11	13	16	48
Wylie	8	20	12	23	63

Roysce City Scoring Summary: Krystal Pickron 34, Lauren Dusek 6, Janai Williams 4, Alexis Wanton 4.
 Wylie Scoring Summary: Davis 25, Foreman 21, Stewart 7, Jordan 3, St. Pierre 3, Drew 2, Tate 2.

His Majesty Obama and debt ceiling

by Wendy McElroy, fff.org
Part 1
 President Obama may be poised to claim an unprecedented executive power. Or not. It depends on whether you credit official denials from White House Press Secretary Jay Carney or public statements from high-ranking Democrats.

The monarchical power in question is the ability to raise the debt ceiling at will. It involves bypassing the House of Representatives, which currently has the constitutional authority to initiate all revenue bills.

In what could be a trial balloon, top Democrats from Senate leader Harry Reid to House Speaker Nancy Pelosi and former president Bill Clinton are urging Obama to sidestep the debt-ceiling battle with Congress by invoking a controversial constitutional clause, section 4 of the Fourteenth Amendment.

They want Obama to claim authority under that clause to unilaterally raise the debt ceiling, perhaps through an executive order. Executive orders have the force of law without requiring the president to go through a legislative process. So far, purely practical reasons have led Obama to decline.

But the upcoming debt-ceiling crisis will be ugly, and what is politically practical can change quickly. On December 31, the federal government bumped its head against a ceiling of $16.394 trillion.

This means it is unable to issue new debt to make payments on existing debt; instead, Treasury Secretary Tim Geithner is resorting to what he calls "extraordinary measures" such as shuffling about federal-employee pension funds in order to buy time. By about mid-February, time will be up; the federal government will face massive payment delays and possible defaults.

And yet, Republicans in the House will not raise the ceiling unless Obama commits to deep spending cuts. He refuses to do so.

Many fiscal conservatives and libertarians are undisturbed by this impasse, even though the immediate fallout would be regrettably painful. Gridlock sounds good when the alternative is the runaway train of entitlement spending that is bankrupting America.

But the gridlock could be short-lived. The longer a standoff drags on, the more loudly Democrats will raise the Fourteenth Amendment and the more tempted Obama may be to substitute a constitutional crisis for a financial one, especially if he has a better chance of winning the former.

Seizing the power to raise the debt ceiling would be a disastrous expansion of presidential authority. Two basic restraints on executive power are established by the Constitution's tripartite balance of power: the competing authorities of Congress and of the United States Supreme Court. A unilateral move by Obama could weaken both.

Generally speaking, a reduction in any government power is cause for celebration. But in this case, the power would not be reduced. It would be transferred wholesale into executive hands, which could then work without constraint. It would increase the prospect of dictatorial America.

Royse City Bulldogs defeat Wylie High School 63-47, fall to Lovejoy

Michael Morrill
Lovejoy Beats Royse City Boys 54-30
 Much anticipated District 13-4A boys' basketball game, Lovejoy came to town and beat the Bulldogs 54-30 Tuesday, January 8.
 The win, Lovejoy improves to 4-0 in District 13-4A play. Royse City falls overall and 3-1 in District action.
 The game was all about shooting. Lovejoy time and again got high percentage shots at the basket or wide open looks on jump shot opportunities and they took advantage of them as they shot 54% from the floor in the game.
 While, Royse City was shooting very poorly. For the game, the Bulldogs shot 25% from the floor including 2 of 24 from 3 point range. Also no player scored in double figures in the game.
 Briceno and Tre Hayes were the leading scorers in the game for Royse City with 8 points each.

Royse City Boys Get Back to Winning Ways, Beat Wylie 63-47
 The Royse City varsity boys' basketball team got back to their more familiar winning ways with a 63-47 District 13-4A victory over Wylie High School Friday January 11. The game was played at Wylie High School.
 With the victory, Royse City improves to 14-8 overall and 4-1 in District 13-4A play. Wylie falls to 2-3 in District action. Right now, Royse is right in the thick of the District 13-4A playoff race.
 Going into the 4th quarter, Royse City was clinging to just a two point lead at 39-37.
 Now with the game on the line, Royse City played a dominant final quarter when they needed to the most. The Bulldogs outscored the Pirates 24-10 in the decisive quarter and because of that Royse City walked away with a very important District 13-4A victory.

 Royse City had three players score in double figures in the game. They were Jamie Briceno (18 points and 7 rebounds), Tre Hayes (15 points and 4 rebounds), and David Frye (11 points and 7 rebounds).
 Also, Michael Webb contributed 8 points and 4 assists in the game.

The girls break loose in 2nd half to defeat RHHS

Tracy Bump
 Kall-Heath appeared to take control of Friday night's game when the Hawks wiped out Tyler Lee's 1-point halftime lead by scoring 6 points in 29 seconds of the second half to go ahead 23-18.
 The Hawks then took a timeout. After that, it was lights out for RHHS.
 The Lady Raiders outscored Rockwall-Heath 17-2 over the next 5 minutes. Lee held the Lady Hawks (7-14 overall, 0-6 in District 12-5A) to just 7 points during the final 15 1/2 minutes and ran away for a 51-30 victory.
 Lee had led 11-8 after the first quarter, and stayed close despite shooting just 25 percent (5-for-27) for the first half. Katie Webster, who led the Lady Hawks with 18 points, and Jordan Mitchell took turns stealing the ball to spark the third-quarter surge.
 In the 2-15, 2-4 took a 39-28 lead into the fourth quarter - when Rockwall-Heath made only one of 14 shots, half of those 3-point attempts. For the game, the Hawks were 11-for-56 (20 per cent).
 The shooting has plagued the Lady Hawks during the district schedule. They shot 14 per cent (5-for-35) while turning the ball over 27 times in a 62-17 loss to Mesquite Horn Jan. 4.
 The closest district game has been a 59-54 overtime loss to Longview Jan. 10. Rockwall-Heath. In that game, Webster scored 18 points and had help from Jordan Mitchell's 13 and Jacquelyn Turner's 10. The Lady Lobos' Maci Hopkins made a layup to tie the game 45-45 in regulation time, then put in 7 of her 18 points in overtime. She also had 17 rebounds.
 The Lady Hawks also lost 60-42 at Frisco Wakeland Dec. 31, and 51-19 to Mesquite Dec. 21. Mitchell led the team in each game with 14 and 8 points.
