Downing was there to catch a rising star

By RICK WHITE

Managing Editor

Although time clouds some of his memories, Elmer Downing can still vividly recall the day he met Waylon Jennings. Living a few miles west of Littlefield at the time, Downing went to town one day. He doesn't quite remember why. It was about 1948
"I was walking down the street, when I heard someone plunkin' up a storm," said Downing, who taught himself to play guitar as a child. It was Jennings playing at his dad's creamery.
"So I turned around and went back," said the 68 -year-old Downing, a retired farmer who moved to the Muleshoe area in the 1950s. "We talked for a while and he asked me if I played. He told me next time I came to bring my guitar."
They started to play together, and even tually formed a band called the Texas Longhorns. Also in the group was current LambCounty Commissioner Emil Macha, who worked at KZZN, a Littlefield radio station that featured live music.
In his late teens then, Downing played rhythm guitar and sang a little. Macha played a bass fiddle made out of a #3 wash tub. Jennings, probably on the short side of 16 , played lead guitar and handled most of the vocals.

They played a lot of Ernest Tubb, a Jennings' favorite, and Hank Williams.

As a teenager, Elmer Downing of Muleshoe played in a band with country & western legend Waylon Jennings in his hometown of Littlefield.

For about two and a half years they played twice a week live at the radio station and at other functions.
Jennings was a temperamental, even back then. "He quit the band a couple imes for a week or two," Downing recalls. "He always wanted things his way."
"I always liked him, although a lot of people didn't," Downing said. "He was just a big kid."
Jennings obviously went on to bigger things. He was one of the "outlaws," who

Hospital, doctors benefit

 from symbiotic relationshipBy JOANNA GALLMAN Journal staff writer Doctors can survive without hospitals. But hospitals can't survive without doctors.

That's the way Muleshoe Area Hospital District administrator Jim Bone ministrator Jim Bone described the somewha symbiotic relationship between doctors and hospitals.
Although they receive no financial support from the Muleshoe Area Medical Center, independent practitioners in the hospital have admission privileges that allow them to provide services otherwise sought in larger facilities.

A lot of people would rather not go to Lubbock if said the hospital's Chief of Staff Bruce Purdy, who was raised in Muleshoe.
Dr. Mark McClanahan who has been in private prac tice in Muleshoe since 1988 said the hospital has up graded its graded its capabilities considerably.
"The hospital had just barely opened its doors when Igothere," McClanahan said. "Of course, at that time, it wasn't Medicare certified and was operating on a shoestring.
"Now the hospital is much more capable. We have a sur geon, CAT scan access, the home health service, and physical therapy that we never had before. There's been a big growth process, it's just been a slow, steady

The hospital surgeon, Dr Robert Johnson, and a nurse practitioner and medical team that handles emergency room coverage is provided to the hospital through contractual agreement.

Although not contracted by the district to practice in the hospital, the five independent doctors are part of an "active staff" that provide services like emergency room back-up coverage and inpatient care services that not only the doctors, but the hospital benefits from.

Council reviews 1996-97 budget

By JOANNA GALLMAN

 Journal staff writerCity Manager Dave Marr reviewed with City Council members Wednesday the preliminary draft of the 1996-97 fiscal budget.

Marr indicated that the $$ 2.5$ million budget hinges on the Council's decision on several issues, including the construction of handicap ramps on Main Street and the City's solid waste removal system. Marr is also awaiting an estimate for the reroofing of City Hall.

The largest portion of the budget involves City employee salaries and several capital outlay projects, including the replacement of several police cars and garbage trucks.
The Council will discuss in detail additional budget issues at their meeting Monday.
In other action, councilmen

Home health agencies continue upward climb

Abstract

By RICK WHITE The Muleshoe Area Home Health agency is hospital care on wheels, delivering extended services to patients in the comfort and convenience of their own home. The home health field has exploded in recent years, as third-party payers like Medicare and insurance companies continue to emphasize shortening the amount of time patients stay in hospitals, which is one of the major costs of health care.Home health has grown from less than 200 state-licensed agencies in 1980 to 3,650 today.

"The district is committed to serving the service area," to serving the service area,

MHS turnout impressive as rebuilding process begins

Rain on the first day of practice failed to dampen the enthusiasm of 81 Muleshoe High School football players and its new head coach.

Wednesday's rain did force the Mules indoors for a few minutes during the morning sessions of two-a-days, but otherwise everything was running smoothly for a program bent on changing its fortunes after an 0 10 season.

The 81 players in the ninth through 12th grade is a substantial improvement from past years.
"It indicates they're excited," said David Wood, tackling a major rebuilding effort at Muleshoe in his first head coaching job.

The words out that we're going to work hard; that we have high expectations. And most of all, we're having fun."
The emphasis of the first few days of two-a-days has been learning the system, and learning what the whole program is about.
"We're teaching them what's expected of them; the discipline part of the program, Wood said.

Personnel is evaluated after every practice, but Wood said he'll get a much better handle on his team starting Monday when they begin full contract.
"We'll find out a whole lot more once we put on the pads," Wood said. "Some of them look like Superman in shorts. But you can't tell what kind of heart they have or how tough they are in shorts.
Muleshoe holds its first scrimmage Aug. 23 against Floydada. The Class 3A Mules open the season Sept. 6 at Portales.

Lazbuddie has 23 players out for practice and head coach Mark Scission expects a few more when school starts.
Conditioning has been the major focus, a problem Scission thought cost the Longhorns a couple of games last year.
"I didn't think we were in good shape last year. And it showed in the fourth quarter of some games," said Scission. "We're doing more

TAAS system holds schools accountable

By JoANNA GALLMA Journal staff writer Success appears to be on the brain as local campuses are receiving TAAS accountabil ity and accreditation ratings and making final preparations for the start of the school year. School begins Aug. 12 at Three Way, Aug. 15 at MISD and Aug. 19 in Lazbuddie. As teachers are beginning to return to their classrooms, a major o their cis is being put major emphasis is being put on results of the TAAS Accountability and Accreditation Rating pro vided the by the Texas Edu cation Agency.
The TAAS accreditation system ranks a school's success according to a variety of fac tors, namely student scores on the TAAS test. However, fac tors such as drop-out rates, at tendance rates, ACT scores, and socio-economic subgroups figure into the rating
The system ranks schools into three categories: exemplary, if 90 percent of each subgroup passes the test, rec ognized if 70 percent passes, and acceptable if 30 percent of each group passes MISD Superintendent Bill Moore said Muleshoe was rated "academically acceptable," with "recognition" for ACT scores.
Lazbuddie ISD was ranked "academically acceptable with acknowledgment of exem plary" ACT scores, according toSuperintendent Phil Warren Three Way was also ranked acceptable.
While many are wary of the emphasis put on TAAS scores Moore and Warren believe the ranking system is credible. "It's a pretty comprehensive tool," Moore said. "The public and legislature made it pretty plain they want wide assess ment. I think it's a pretty equitable way to do it

Program offers aid to preschool children with disabilities
Early education can be critical because of the amount of learning that takes place in the preschool years. The Preschool Program for Children with Disabilities provides services for children ages 3-5
Public schools in Texas provide for the special education of children who have a disability. Children with identified physical, mental, perceptual, speech, language, social and/or hearing problems may be eligible for the program. Children with vision and/or hearing problems may be eligible for services beginning at birth.
Districts will use information from a variety of sources to determine eligibility according to Texas Education Agency guidelines.
The services provided are developed by the Admission, Review and Dismissal Committee. The committee typically consists of the child's parents, an educator, an administrator, and someone invloved with testing.
