Here was held the speaking and here all times during dancing. Music was furnished by the string band from Tahoka. The townsite is beautifully located on a big open prairie within three miles of the top of the Plains, and will be watered from three enormous springs in the foothills. I met Mr. Alexander, the manager and promoter of the town. He expects to put in the water works just as soon as can be done, will have a school building by October he says, and a railroad as quick as it can be built. If he does half he has promised it will be the best place in the West to locate. The Colorado Record will establish a branch office in Post, and have the "Post Record" first on the ground in rza county.

The coznoy was organized and officers elected last month. I met most all of them. The officers are all getting ready to move and deal out justice from tents until they can build their own homes and public buildings. All talk of concrete houses.

The barbecue was the nicest I ever attended. Two men whom you all know, Sam Wilks and Gene Clark, had it in charge and everybody had dinner and supper. There was no rush and all were served decently and in order. The young people began dancing at sundown and danced all night, and did the same thing the night before. It must have been lots of fun for them but looking on grew tiresome to me at 12 o'clock and I retired.
