DIXIE LYCEUM COURSE.

Musicals, Magic, Lecturers, Humorists, Concert Companies, Quartettes, Orators, Educators and Wizards.

Twelve Attractions of the Highest Order and Refinement.

JUST WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT

The Favorite Rink has been remodeled and a stage built, seated and heated for an Opera Hall, and in addition to the skating carnivals put on from time to time, the management, Messers Sprague and Cody, announce the booking of twelve fine attractions from the Dixie Lyceum Course, that will appear here through the winter and spring.

Quite a number of people in Colorado have often asked why we could not have a Lyceum Course in Colorado so we could hear the great lecturers and high class musical clubs. The Record is pleased to announce that such a course is now booked for Colorado at the Favorite Rink. We give below a list of these attractions, and the dates for their appearance here.

Wednesday, Oct. 24, Orphan Musical Club.

Tuesday, Nov. 6th, John Thomas Concert Co.

Tuesday, Nov. 27th, Ralph Bingham, humorist.

Wednesday, Dec. 5th, Featherstone Comedy Co.

Friday, Dec. 28th, Macy Concert Co.

Wednesday, January 9th, the Alpine Entertainers.

Saturday, Feb. 2nd, Bob Taylor, new lecture.

Wednesday, Feb. 6th, Lauroot & Co., magician and magic.

Tuesday, Feb. 19th, Floyds Word Wide Wizard and Magician.

Saturday, March 9th, Hawthorne Musical Club.

Friday, March 29th, the Whitney Quartette.

The prices for all the above attractions will be 35c, 50c and 75c, except for Bob Taylor, and his prices are 50c, 75c and $1.00.

These attractions have been secured at considerable expense and could not be secured for Colorado at these prices except for the reason that The Favorite management plays them all at Abilene, Merkel, Colorado, and Big Springs in the same contract.

The Record management has conducted personally a Lyceum Course for three years, and has played several of the above attractions and we give our personal guarantee that they are first class. We would like to specially mention Ralph Bingham, the humorist, the Featherstone Comedy Co., Bob Taylor in his new lecture, the Hawthorne Musical Club, and the great World renowned Wizard, Floyd. These we know personally, and while we have no doubt but that they are all good the above are exceptionally fine. Take the Hawthorne Musical Club, every member is an artist in his or her line and is first class, and we have never known their price to be less than $1.00 in the cities.

A Lyceum course is refining, entertaining and educational.

An invitation to everyone to call and look through

A Sensible View of the West.

Mr. John K. Rosson, a good business man of Dallas, after an extensive trip over a number of West Texas counties, has the following interview in the Dallas News, which is sensible and to the point:

"The large land owners and ranchers are cutting up their pastures in small farms or in tracts to suit the purchaser and the majority of the range country is selling at from $10 to $20 per acre. Cattle have been selling for such unreasonably low prices during the past few years that the cattlemen recognizes he can no longer continue in the cattle business on land that is valued at these prices, and he also recognizes that Western Texas is becoming one of the greatest cotton producing sections of Texas.

"In visiting Baylor, Knox, Haskell, Jones, Shackelford and Throckmorton counties on this trip I saw cotton on sod land that if it matures will make at least a bale of cotton to the acre, and I heard reliable men say they had cotton that would make better than a bale and a half to the acre, and it was selling yesterday on the streets for 10.75, and was as pretty staple as I ever looked at. It requires an average of ten acres of this land to support a cow the year round, which is worth on the market $16 or $17 net. Supposing this land will raise on an average of half a bale of cotton per acre, which is a very low estimate, means five bales of cotton produced on the same land that it takes to carry one cow, which brings in a revenue of $250. I predict the range country is something of the past, and of course after a period of five to eight years stock farming will then be an issue and there will be as many cattle raised in that section as there are at the present time, but it will take at least that length of time for the farmers coming in the country at the present time to get his affairs shaped to handle cattle and other live stock as they do in the Northern States at the present time, but when this is done the business will be on a much more satisfactory basis from every standpoint to those who are interested.

"I take pleasure in recommending to the farming element throughout the country to diversify their crops and raise a few sheep, hogs, and cattle, get a good brood mare or two and raise a good mule or a good horse, either of which is worth from $75 to $125 at 2 years old, and it always pays to use the best blood you can secure. It costs no more to raise a good horse or mule than a beef steer, and either of them are worth three or four times as much."

The West to The East.

Come out of the land of the dying East! To the land of the living West; Here in the heart of the Land of God Where the harvest blooms in the virgin sod, Is life, and hope, and rest! O, ye who travel the crowded streets, In the troublous cities of care, Who struggle from morn until set of the sun, What have you to show when the day is done? What is your prize, and where? The sunken eye and the pallid cheek Are the gifts of the crowded East, Where men meet men in anger and strife And perishing millions battle for life, And hunger is at the feast! Why will you cling to the haunts of men, To the town and its poisoned breath, Where children are born in the world to weep, And the only relief is the fitful sleep That ends in the sleep of death? The hand of the prairie is reaching out With a promise of life and rest— Abandon the struggle that is idle and vain, And come to the land of the golden grain— The heart of the living West! For here is hope, and here is content, And here is God's free air! And here is the sun of the promised land, Where the heart can grow and the soul expand, And love is everywhere!

Automobiles Pass Through

Two big Automobiles passed through Colorado on Saturday last from Big Springs to Abilene and stopped at the big water trough on the Lasky corner. Quite a crowd gathered around and Bud Coe rode on one of them for nearly a block. Bertner had to be told what were. The Record man was there and learned that Spaulding Bros. of Abilene, in company with W. D. Mulkey and Willis Rudis had gone over to Big Springs after the machines. They had been used on the mail line from Big Springs to LaMesa, but owing to the difficulty of getting experienced Cheffeurs they had been abandoned, and Spaulding Bros. had bought them and were taking them to Abilene and will repair them and make first-class machines of them.

Concerning Land Values.
 At week The Record published an article admonishing the owners and real estate men not to raise the prices of lands so high, as they would have a tendency to drive prospectors to the fields. There has been considerable comment on the article referred to, and the consensus of opinion is that land values are not too high, not even high enough, for land that will produce a bale of cotton per acre and more feed stuff than can be stacked on the same ground on which it grew, as the Mitchell county land has done, is well worth $5 per acre. Commenting on what we said last week the Ft. Worth Record says:

"The immigrant who comes to Texas to stay—the man who has in him the qualities of a builder and a good citizen—has a pretty well defined idea of how much money he intends to put into the lands he will buy. And what is more, he has a better knowledge of the work, the expense and the time it will take to bring the land which he buys up to the standard of 'improved land' than the land agent has. He also is capable of comparing values of new lands in Texas with the well improved and closely cultivated lands of the older states. He has studied these lands all his life, but he has determined to come to Texas to get a share of the prosperity which blesses the state. But he is not blind. Any attempt to put exorbitant prices upon him at once awakens his suspicion and a suspicious customer is hard to land. He expects to pay a good round profit to the land owner, but he will not pay for anticipated values, and then contribute his work to create these values. Texas needs men more than she needs anything else at this moment, for an increase in population means the necessity for good roads, the necessity for manufactures and the necessity for all those things, denominated improvements, which must be provided for a growing, industrious, pulsating population. It will pay to be reasonable in business transactions with the strangers."

Midland at the Fair.
 Several of the counties of the western and northwestern portions of the State, realizing the benefits to be derived from showing what they can do in the way of producing agricultural products, have exhibits at the Dallas Fair. Among these is one from Midland county. It is in charge of Frank F. Elkin. Mr. Elkin says that the people of his part of the country, knowing that when it comes to matters of this kind, that everybody wants "to be shown," got up this exhibit so that the visitors to the Fair could see it and then have an idea of what they are doing in the West in the matter of agriculture.

What is known as "the Midland country" is that portion of the State consisting of what is sometimes designated as the "south plains." The counties forming that region are Midland, Gaines, Andrews, Martin, Dawson, Glascock, Upton, Crane and Ector and that portion of Howard lying on the plains. It is said that a large part of the land in this large district is tillable, some estimating the tillable portions at as high as 90 per cent. Most of it is described as a chocolate loam, and is said to be very fertile. Samples of the soil are on exhibition at the exhibit. There is said to be an abundance of water, varying in depth from thirty to 125 feet. The town of Midland claims over 500 wells on one section of land and a windmill pumps from each of them. Midland is said to have more windmills than any other town in the world, and is often called the Windmill City. In the exhibit is a fine specimen of corn raised by a Georgia farmer who settled near Midland and who began ploughing his sod land April 9th of this year. Corn in what is known as the "corn district" of Texas was knee high when this man began preparing his sod land. A wagon load of large watermelons are also in the exhibit. They were taken from sixty that were taken to Midland by a Mr. Longbotham, the sixty weighing 5,200 pounds, or an average of over eighty-five lbs. each. There is also on exhibition probably forty or fifty varieties of field and garden crops, as well as all kinds of fruit.

Mr. Elkins says that the speculator has not yet invaded this territory, and that he is not wanted, as the desire is for the land to be settled by farmers.

Mike's Mistake.

The persistence with which, in the face of prevailing prosperity some papers in the eastern part of the state refer to the west as a drouth-scorched land, unfit for settlement, recalls the story by Mark Twain of the Irish soldier. Mike was an orderly and in a hot battle he had orders from his colonel which took him to the rear. On the way he was attracted by the call of a man who stated that he had lost a leg in the fight and implored to be carried out of reach of the guns. The brawny Irishman good-naturedly took the poor fellow on his back, but had gone but little way when the wounded man was beheaded by a shell.

Only a short distance had been traveled after this unfortunate circumstance when an officer was met who demanded "Why are you wasting time with that dead man instead of discharging your duty?"

"Its himsilf [that aint dead," said Mike; "only had his leg shot off."

"I tell you the man is dead; his head is shot clean off."

"Arrah, but ye're mistook in toirly; its his leg, he towld me so out of his own mouth."

"Lay him down and see for yourself."

Mike obeyed; looked in puzzled surprise for a moment and said: "Faith and ye was right; its his head sure, but begorra, he towld me it was his leg."

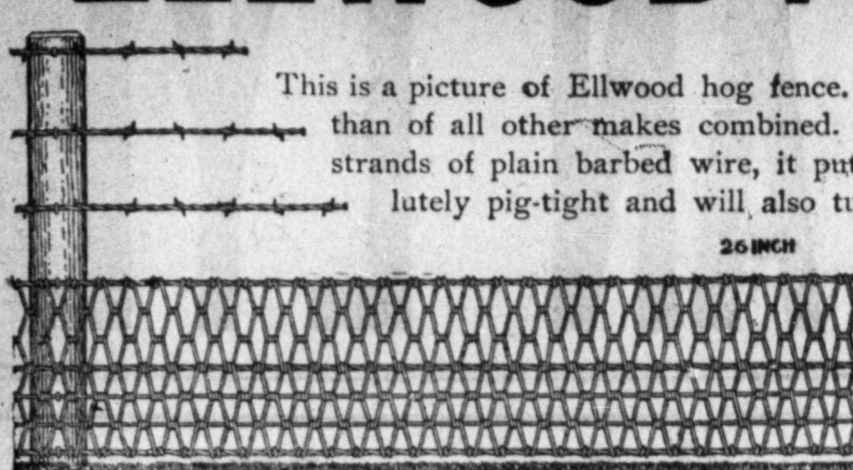

Our eastern friends have been told that the west was once paralyzed by drouths, and it is hard to convince them there has been "something" doing" since that time. However, when they have been persuaded to investigate, they always admit, as the Irishman did, that they had been misinformed. HARDY M. BOYD.

Masquerade Carnival.

The masquerade carnival at the Favorite Auditorium on last Thursday night was a success in every particular. The attendance was large, both from this place, Big Springs and other points. The Jones orchestra furnished sweet music.

Among the maskers could be seen a host of various characters well represented, among them being the sober robed monk, the red cross nurses, a benevolent old gentleman, Folly, knights of ye olden times, d'stract school girls, Colonial dames, princess Cinderella, clowns, bats, Indian warriors, the tackiest of tecky folk and various others too numerous to mention.

The genial general manager, Mr. C. C. Cody, personally looked after the evenings entertainment, and in selecting the judges was careful to secure out side and wholly disinterested parties. They were composed of Messrs. D. G. Ferguson of Waco, and U. O. Whalen of St. Louis, who awarded the prizes as follows:

The first prize, for the best costume, representing an old gentleman, was awarded to Mr. Andrew Coggin, who declined it on account of being the local manager of the Auditorium.

Best ladies costume, Miss Pearl Stephens, a pink and white Martha Washington gown.

Most graceful costumed lady skater, Mrs. Frank Greene, red and white blocked dress and clown cap.

Best gents costume, Mr. Leonard Wight of Big Springs, a typical Indian chief costume.

Most comical, Mr. John Hubbard, old shaggy beard man.

Best child's costume, Wooten Jeffers, Prince suit of velvet, with plumed hat. The first four prize winners received $3.50 each, and the little Prince a weeks, admission and skating privileges.

B. L. Wulfjen took a flash light picture of those in mask, then separately the prize winners, after which masks were removed, others joined the skaters and a most delightful evening was spent in this popular past time.

A Successful Opening.

The Colorado Drug Store threw widely ajar its doors on last Friday in a formal opening to the public, and the vast crowds who called testified to the popularity of this firm.

The interior was elaborately and tastily decorated in palms, ferns and cut flowers, making it quite an attractive place to linger. The pleasant whirr of the electric fans, strains of sweet music, and comfortable settees while sipping choice ices, in congenial company was truly an enjoyable outing for the visitors.

Souvenir postal cards were distributed, the guests sprayed with sweet perfume, and delicious punch dispensed by Misses Eleanor Coleman, Ophelia Arnett, Martha Earnest, Lonnie Henry and Etta Schaper of Waco.

Messrs Gus Bertner and Max Thomas, the senior members of the firm were out of town, but the younger members Messrs Maurice Terrell and Neal Gross most courteously looked after the pleasure of the guests, being ably assisted by Reaves Coleman and Earnest Bertner.

These gentlemen have cause to be proud of their cozy and up-to-date establishment, and Colorado of this new and enterprising drug firm.

Warehouse Proposition.

Colorado, Tex., June 9th.
The committee appointed at the last called meeting of the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union of Mitchell county, met with a similar committee from Scurry county for the purpose of considering the advisability of erecting a cotton warehouse in this county in which to store cotton and other merchandise belonging to the membership, at the court house at 10 o'clock June 9th. There being only six locals represented, the committee adjourned until 1:30 o'clock p. m. when the following resolutions were adopted:

1. That we, the Farmers Union of Mitchell county put forth a determined effort to build a cotton warehouse in this county.
2. That we favor the erection of this warehouse in Colorado, but will receive bids from other towns in the county.

3. That D. G. Fields and W. H. Goodwin act as committee to ascertain where suitable lots can be secured for the erection of the building.

4. That we adopt the co-operative plan and place shares at $2 each, and no member be allowed more than four shares until all the membership in the county be tested.

5. That each member of this committee be instructed to canvass their respective local unions and solicit shares, as soon as possible and report the result to this committee on the 30th day of this month, at the court house at 10 o'clock a. m.

Mr. Bryan's star is decidedly in the ascendancy as the next democratic presidential nominee.

We need more smokestacks in Colorado. It requires men to keep them hot, and men must be fed and clothed.

There is no good thing necessary to a town's prosperity and growth that can not be had by persistent and united effort systematically directed. A spirit of civic pride that prompts every man to stand by every move made to better the town, can bring almost anything to pass.

What little of Admiral Rojstvensky's scalp the Japs failed to take, will be finished up by the Russians. He is to be tried by naval courtmartial for his defeat in the battle of the Sea of Japan, and if convicted, the punishment is death. And Russian naval and army courts-martial rarely fail to find a sacrifice.

The National Woman's Business League in session at Chicago last week resolved that man as a husband was a mere incident in the life of woman—a convenient but unnecessary creation. Now what will the fellows who think every woman they meet is trying to catch them, think of this?

In emphasizing the fact that the Colorado country is a cotton producing section, its adaptability to many other crops is sometimes overlooked. For fruit and truck farming it is adapted to a wonderful degree. East Texas can not surpass it, while its possibilities in the poultry line have as yet not been touched.

No section of the South-west offers more abiding opportunities to homeseekers and investors than this particular part of Texas. With climate and soil unsurpassed for healthfulness and fertility, the conditions of living are easy. Every day brings increasing numbers from East and Central Texas to make this their permanent home. At the forefront of this favored country stands Mitchell county and Colorado. Great are the twain, and The Record is their prophet!

Its the same story in every West Texas paper one reads—home seekers and investors galore. Never in its history has the growth and development of this section been as rapid and of as permanent a nature.

Mr. Roosevelt's dramatic stand on the report of the condition of the packing houses, will not alone effect the packers, but the cattle and hog raisers most of all. Mr. Roosevelt was elected life honorary member of the Cattle Raisers' Association but a short time ago, and that organization naturally resents this slap at their interests.

The Taylor County News in making the odious comparison says:
 "Senator Bailey has had the bill extending the irrigation laws to Texas called up and passed, but unlike Congressman Smith, he doesn't imply that the bill was passed by himself alone. Smith says 'the bill I passed,' Bailey will say 'the bill I acted a humble part in having passed.' Honor to whom honor is due.

Too true, too true. Every one who has ever seen and heard him speak knows that Mr. Bailey's humility and self-abnegation make up the greatest defect in his character. Careful reference to Judge Smith's campaign literature will show that he is not the brazen egotist our Taylor county confrere depicts him. "The bill I was instrumental in passing" is the language he uniformly uses. The Record also asks "honor, to whom honor is due."

Other things being equal, a representative usefulness in Congress is in direct ratio to his continuity of service. However able he may be, however well equipped as a legislator and parliamentarian, a new member of Congress is unable to do much for his section and constituents, until he has done other members favors, of whom he is then able to ask help in return. When a man has been in Congress a number of terms, there is hardly a member of that body whose help he cannot command in securing legislation effecting his district alone. Not because of his legal or legislative ability, but solely from the fact that he has performed a like service for them. When the people East get a capable and (fairly) honest man in Congress they usually keep him there.

MANUFACTURING OUR NEED.

A Texas cotton mill is just completing an order for 5,000,000 yards of sheeting for Shanghai, China. And the people of Itasca, where this mill is, have found out it pays much better to export cotton in this form than in the unspun bales—St. Louis Republic.

A square acre of wisdom is in this simple statement. Agriculture alone does not build cities, for the reason that only one class of the population produces the wealth, while all other classes simply exchange this wealth among themselves. The coming to Colorado of a dozen more business houses, the location here of a score more doctors, lawyers, or other professional men or mechanics, would not materially increase the volume of business already existing, but rather divide it into yet smaller quotients.

We need enterprises that will create a new wealth every day that did not exist the day before. Instead of shipping off the cotton raised and receiving 8 or 9 cents the pound for it, a cotton mill would transmute it into yarns and cloth for which we would receive two or three times as much as for the raw material. Besides, mills and factories, by their pay rolls would stimulate business in all lines. If the strictly agricultural towns would hold their own, they must foster every sort of manufacturing enterprise, however small, that multiplies the value of our raw products. New England has waxed rich by doing this very thing, and which could be done just as well and much cheaper by the people who produce it. Competition is so keen and the margin of profit is so small these days that one town can offer but small inducement over another as a market. The only enduring foundation on which to build an abiding prosperity, is the manufacturing industry—its our only hope, our very salvation.

It is not only necessary that you attend the primaries, but tell your hired man, your neighbor and your prospective father-in-law and all his sons to attend. Votes count.

How do you old ex-confederates like the idea of voting for a man who favored giving your maimed and disabled comrades a measly pittance of $2.08 per month? If you think he is broad enough to represent you in congress, then vote for Jim Cunningham.

Instead of galavanting over the district and making promises as to what he will do if re-elected to congress, our worthy representative is at his post in Washington looking after the interests of the nation, his state and his district. He is not making any tremendous promises, but he is doing something. At any rate, he is present at roll-call.

So the Abilene Reporter is a little hot under the collar at The Record for referring to Mr. Cunningham as a lobster. Possibly an explanation is due Mr. Cunningham and the Reporter. A crab or crawfish would come nearer expressing the correct term, for any one who does not believe in progress, certainly should be classed among those crustaceans.

Political parties are sometimes ungrateful, but we do not think the democracy of the jumbo district will so far forget itself as to turn down the man who has served them so faithfully. But in order to return him, endorse his policy and show your appreciation of his good work, it is necessary that every citizen turn out to the primaries and cast his ballot. Let nothing but a funeral or serious illness of yourself or family prevent your turning out on that day and help roll up one of the biggest majorities in the biggest district in the biggest state, and for one of the biggest men intellectually that has ever represented the Lone Star state in the national congress.

Jim Cunningham's candidacy for congressional honors reminds one of the story wherein a man had a pet coon and agreed to give it to one of three boys that would give the best reasons why he would be a Democrat when he grew up to manhood. One boy gave as his reason, that he knew nothing else but democracy; that his state and county were democratic, they were in prosperous condition, consequently he would be a democrat. No. 2 said his father was a democrat and his grandfather had been a democrat, they were both good men, and he would follow in their footsteps, politically, anyway. The third youngster said he was a democrat because he wanted that coon. Thus it is with the Hon. James C., of Abilene. He can bring nothing against the record of Congressman Smith; he can say nothing against Mr. Smith's reclamation measure. His own record as a legislator does not shine out like unto Jupiter or Mercury of a dark night, and as stated before, his only argument is that he would rather be in congress than to have the district represented by Mr. Smith.

What a Young Man Can Do.

There is no telling what a young man with enough energy and a fair amount of sense can accomplish. The trouble with most men who fail is not lack of sense but a sad dearth of energy. This thought is called forth by the notice of the election of Seth Ward as bishop in the Methodist church. Bishop Ward was raised in Leon county, Texas, a country boy with few opportunities and most meagre education. When he began preaching he received such a poor salary that he had to work in the field as a day laborer for six days in the week and preach on Sundays, and his salary as a preacher was about as good as his sermons. He never shirked work, and he always did the best he could with the means at hand. This habit of doing his best has elected him to the highest position in the gift of the church at the age of forty seven, notwithstanding there are hundreds of more gifted men who would be glad of the place. Whatever man attempts, if he will only do his best all the time he will be pretty sure to succeed. Where there is failure, not attributable to bad health in nine-tenth of the cases, it is due to lack of concentrated effort.—Brownwood Bulletin.

From now on we are after your clothing business, we have one of the best tailors in Texas and we also carry the famous lines of M. Born, A. E. Anderson and Meyer.

Colorado, Texas

I wish to say a few words about the above subject, and especially about lands in Central West Texas. They are a good investment. I would like to convince every farmer and every farmer's son of that fact. I have never known anything but farm life, having been born and raised on a farm. I am only 32 years of age, and I, like most of you, have seen land advance from a few dollars an acre to from $50 to $100 an acre, an upward. On these farms some one has toiled for years, some have made a good living and probably saved a little money. But it was all produced by the sweat of the brow. It all meant work, which of course did not hurt anyone if in good health. But the best money made out of land is not what you work for, for, but that made by the rise in the price of land. My father's old homestead cost him sixty cents per acre. I remember when he bought it, and I am not old. To-day it is worth $65 per acre. It does not seem possible that so short a time ago that this land could have been bought for so little money. The rise in this land did not cost any work. It is true the land was made more valuable by reason of the work and improvement, but we got pay for these as we went along. But the increase in the price of land would have been a great thing if we had never dug a post hole on it or turned a furrow. The land above referred to never had a better crop on it than the lands in Mitchell and adjoining counties now have.

The point that I wish to emphasize is this: You don't have to work land or even live on it for it to make you money. You know the easiest money made out of land is that which you do not have to work for. Many men make a living by farming. Hundreds get rich in the rise in the price of land.

Young man, the thing for you to do is to buy some good cheap land in some good country and let it grow. There is no reason why you shouldn't, and many reasons why you should.

Farmers who have seen land rise in price, you owe it to your sons to encourage them to a spirit of legitimate speculation. Boys, you owe it to yourselves to learn to speculate along safe lines. Be cautious, but don't be a coward. While you are trying to figure out how many blades of grass will grow on an acre of land some other fellow jumps in and buys the land and turns around and sells it for twice what he paid for it. Some people believe that the only honest way to get a dollar is to make it by hard work. I think this is a mistake. It is just as honest to buy 80 acres of land for $800 and sell it within a year for $1600 as it is to buy a pig and sell it at a profit. It is perfectly legitimate and absolutely safe.

It is the safest business on earth. Buy land in a good country while it is cheap. It might not grow in price as rapidly as you think for, and again it may grow in price more rapidly than you ever dreamed of. But one thing is certain, it will grow. It has to grow. There are more people in the world now than there used to be. There isn't any more land. Where will your children and grand children get a home? You can't make an acre of land by any chemical process. No legislative act can make one. The population of the United States is rapidly increasing. Think of the added mouths to be fed, the additional clothing to be supplied. The pork, beef, boots, shoes, woolen and cotton goods—all must be supplied from the land. Think of the increased demand for land this will create. Isn't it bound to rise in price?

been up against... It is the most... there is. I believe... the best place on earth for a boy, and as good a place as there is for a man after all. When you come right down to hard it is no summer picnic. There is nothing bad about it. It is honest, honorable and respectable as any business a man can engage in.

BUT THE QUESTION IS

if you have a few spare dollars what is the best thing to do with them? Where can you plant them so they will grow? It is in land—good cheap land in a good country. It can't lie down and die. It won't eat its head off. It don't burn up or run off. Political parties or politicians can't control its value. It is limited in amount, people have got to have it, and I believe you owe it to your children to encourage them to buy land while it is cheap.

My honest and best judgment is that there is a great opportunity for you here now. I have studied the resources of this country for a number of years. I am not asking you to have faith in a thing that I do not have faith in myself. I am, and have been for the last 3 years putting every spare dollar I had into good land and am still doing it. I have made a profit on every acre I bought. Every man to whom I have sold can sell today for double the amount he gave me. All of it is in Mitchell and Howard county.

Every spare dollar I get I am going to put in land in this country. I am buying and selling all the time. That is a part of my business. If I had the money I would buy it all, but I haven't got it, so I want you to buy a me of it. I can give you the names of 20 men to whom I have sold land in the above counties. You can write to any of them and see if I haven't treated them fairly.

I would rather you would come and see me and see the country, but if you can't, write me and tell me just what you want. I will promise you one thing, I will treat you fairly if you buy of me. I have some land of my own to sell, also have a few choice tracts that I have been asked to sell on commission.

My office is with the Whipkey Printing Company. When in Colorado come and see me.
