Noted Baptist Ministers Were Here Monday

Good Size Crowd Heard Talk at Local Church, In Interest of Decatur College

Rev. A. D. Heath of Decatur, and Rev. Copius of Dallas, spoke at the local Baptist church Monday night in interest of the Decatur Baptist college.

Christian Education was the subject upon which Rev. Heath addressed his hearers. And for an or more entertained a good size crowd who had gathered at the church to hear him.

He held close to his subject and from a biblical standpoint proved, that at all time the educated people who sought to carry out the will of the Almighty were his chosen people.

The purpose of the ministers in traveling and preaching in this part of the state, is to raise a required sum of money for the above named college. The money to be utilized in putting the school on a more efficient plane.

Rev. Heath and Rev. Copius the past week or more have been putting in their time visiting the different Baptist churches in the Wilbarger Association.

Dr. Daniel and family will leave Monday, for their future home in Stevens County. In mentioning the Dr. leaving Odell last week, we stated he would locate in Erath County when it should have read Stevens.

Would Complete Kansas City End of Orient Road

W. T. Kemper, Director Says That's the Next Important Step to be Taken

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3. The next step to be taken by the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway Company, after complete organization, will be to extend the line from Wichita to Kansas City.

This decision of the directors was announced recently by W. T. Kemper, president of the Commerce Trust Company and one of the directors.

"We directors have just returned from a tour of the road, said Mr. Kemper. "We were thoroughly pleased with the prosperity of our territory. An effort will be made to hurry along the re-organization so that we can begin quickly the construction of our track to Kansas City. I can't say just when this will begin but it will be soon.

The Orient line now extends from Wichita, Kas., to Alpine Texas. It is planned to build it from Kansas City to Mexico, where it will connect with the Mexico National Railroad.

Landmark Changes Hands

The general store at Doans, crossing on Red River, one of the landmarks of this section, has been sold by C. F. Doan proprietor for the last quarter-century or more, to Fred Glasgow, a business man of Vernon. All the old timers of Jackson county know all about Doans crossing. For years it was the only reliable crossing on the river, and freighters and early settlers from far north as Elk City used to stop there regularly on their trip to Vernon for supplies. Mr. Doan probably knows more old greener county people than any other living man. —Altus Okla., Times

Lots of Bolly Cotton

Lots of bolly cotton is being brought to town these days. In fact a greater portion of the cotton that now comes to Odell, is in the bolly class.

Last week a bolly fight was on between the local ginmen and some transient buyers, who were here a few days buying up the low grade of cotton to be shipped away. The fight for the bollys waxed warm for a few days and in some instances the paid as much as a dollar and a half a hundred for this grade cotton which was a good price at the time.

When you are away from home speaks a good word for Odell—it will not be out of place.

We are requested to insist that all the farmers in this immediate vicinity attend the farmers mass meeting that will be held in the W. O. W. hall Saturday evening February 20th; a notice of which appears elsewhere in this issue. It would only be useless talk on Reporters' part, for it to attempt to give the many reasons why the farmers should attend and take part in their cooperative meetings. As they have long since been educated to the fact "that in unity there is strength" and that together they can stand—but divided will fall. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, the brilliant editor of the Fort Worth Record, recently made a long comment in his paper, in regard to the last meeting the "sons of the soil" held in his city. He commended them for their untiring efforts to get closer together and took a peep into the future and told them the time is coming, when the united voices of the farmer would be a more dominant factor in the upbuilding of our country and the shaping of the governmental affairs.

There is a big scope of country west of Odell, comprising the Plainview settlement and more, which includes a number of families who all do their trading at Odell. These people are put to no little ill convenience when it comes to getting mail, as some of them have to go several miles to their mail boxes or come the same distance to Odell to be served by Uncle Sam. We are not sure whether a sufficient number of mail boxes could be placed in that country to obtain route. But a number of its citizens, with whom we have talked, believes with the proper directing of a route out through their neighborhood, the required number of mail boxes could be established. We would like to see a route out of this place in a westward direction and also one going east, but it sometimes looks as if our wish along that line will never be gratified. Odell is a new town and sometime before she was placed on the map, the postal authorities intersected this country with a rural lines out of different towns to accommodate the patrons for the time being. The country now is more thickly settled and there are today in this part of the county, equally as many families who have no rural route accommodations, as there are ones who have. It will be remembered a short time ago a route inspector went over the proposed line to go east of Odell and left us with the assurance at the time that he would recommend the route to higher postal authorities and do all in his power to establish a line. It has not yet been definitely learned just what action in regard to route has been taken, if any, as Uncle Sam postal department at Washington does not do its work on the impulse of the moment. But at any rate should the eastward route ever be granted, it will have to done after a revision of the Tolbert routes is made. The Reporter is with the people of this country in assisting them to get all the mail accommodations and don't believe we should give up all hopes about ever getting our rural routes. We should all continue talking and agitating this rural route question and by sending petitions, let the authorities at Washington know that mail accommodations in this country are not what they ought to be. And maybe later on, if there is anything in the old saying, "where there is a will there is a way," we can succeed in establishing some mail lines out of Odell and relief will then come.

Since development of the European war troubles, and commercial activity in America has been shaken from center to circumference, many cooperative organizations have sprung up in the U. S., like a mushroom in the night. The latest movement to be started in Texas, is the "Let Texas Feed Itself" movement, an account of which the Reporter reproduces below. The data in regard to this movement being mailed to us by Wm G. Breg, chairman of a committee. "The skirmish in the campaign to induce Texas to feed itself has been fought out and while the battle is far from won, the skirmishers made a satisfactory impression. Over one hundred towns were visited last week by evangelists from Dallas and Fort Worth and they went right to the root of the matter. They conferred with the banker who is to furnish the money; the merchant who is to furnish the credit and the land owner who is to furnish the land on which the next crops in Texas are to be grown. They made as plain as a pipe stem the fact that this campaign is in no sense an acreage reduction proposition in so far as cotton is concerned. Every one knows that in cotton section, cotton is the money crop and the basis of both credit and prosperity. But they did not stop there. They went further and showed that it did not profit a cotton farmer to raise all cotton and spend every dollar he can rake and scrape for feed for his animals and food for his family. And a further fact was emphasized. The cotton farmer, who for years has mortgaged his crop before it was planted for food on which to subsist while he was making that crop, is apt to find this year that the merchant who fed him last year, and the banker who financed that merchant, neither of whom has been able to collect last year's accounts, are not going to be in position to advance the same line of credit this year. They have the warning that the farmer must think about feeding himself and make his plans accordingly. Ways and means of helping the farmer do this have been outlined and discussed. It is admitted the farmer will have to have help in order to meet this condition. He will have to have credit to secure a sow or two and seed for a garden. Furthermore the land owner will have to help and instead of hindering, by restrictions in his lease, he will have to not only permit but encourage the tenant to become self supporting. The result of these conferences was more than satisfactory. A good start has been made. And it will be kept up and must be kept up if the tenant farmer of Texas is to escape the hardships and the prosperity of the State is not to suffer a serious set back."

ISOLATION AND DRUDGERY THE TWIN ENEMIES OF AGRICULTURE.

The Rural Church the Guiding Star of Progress.

The New Rural Civilization.

By Peter Kadford.

We are confronting a new rural civilization. It is so radically different from the life of the past that it may well be called new, not merely because of its characteristics, but because of its triumph in rural co-operation and leadership. The utilization of modern agencies, and the use of farm machinery have greatly increased the efficiency of the farmers, broadened their vision and made life more satisfying.

The most serious enemies to country life are isolation and drudgery, and perhaps the worst of the two is isolation. It is the curse of the country. The hunger of young people for companionship has been disregarded and in various ways the social instincts have had their revenge. The fruits of modern inventive skill and enterprise have enriched country life and afforded the facilities of banishing forever the extreme isolation which used to vex the farm household of the past. The telephone is a great social asset in the rural home; the rural free delivery brings the world's daily message to the door; the parcels post delivers ten million packages per annum at a half million homes and the automobile annihilates distance, making isolation a myth. The building of public highways has brought communities and farm homes closer together.

The Slave of Drudgery.

It is a dramatic moment on the farm when machinery emancipates the slave of drudgery. The evolution of farm machinery is a continued story of human ingenuity. One man now, by the aid of modern mechanical devices, can do as much as five or ten men used to perform and the work is less burdensome and more fascinating. The miracle of conquest will lift the curse of drudgery that has crushed the courage out of farm boys and caused them to retreat to the cities. There are many labor-saving devices for the homes that can relieve the wife of back-breaking tasks. Labor-saving machinery has wrought educational problems that have engaged the attention of the boys, relieved the housewife and added new economies and values to farming and has taken away self pity and given them a genuine price in their calling. We need to take full advantage of these facilities.

Co-Operation the Key-Note.

One test of modern civilization is the capacity for co-operation. The selfish days of the independent farmer are rapidly passing and we are beginning to catch the vision and share the profits of organized efforts. There are many farm machines adapted to serving a community, but organization of farmers is required to purchase and operate them on a co-operative basis, and new laws are needed to permit these transactions.

New Tasks for the Rural Church

The rural church has been slow to adjust itself to the new order of things. The churches are discovering new opportunities for service, broader community usefulness and a greater social mission. The church must gird itself for new tasks and under a new virile type of leadership undertake real community building with the modern church as the center of activity and source of inspiration and guidance. The triumph over isolation and the gradual emancipation from drudgery, the development of good roads, telephones, rural mail service and the wonderful evolution of farm machinery make for religious advancement. The increase in intelligence, new social consciousness, growing spirit of co-operation, added efficiency of rural institutions, character, home building and better rural morals afford opportunities for a community-serving church to demonstrate its power. The rural church to fulfill its mission must swing around it the influences for progress.
