Makes Shipment of Watermelons

A few of the members of the Odell Melon Growers Association who taken advantage of the first planting of watermelon made, began hauling them into town Wednesday morning and loaded two cars that day, which were billed out to a commission house in Colorado, these melons as general rule are proving to be of the finest variety, and the general manager of the Association is continually receiving communications and reports from commission houses. The Association members entertain no doubt but what a ready market can be found for their melons, orders have been put in for several more cars, as the watermelons have started to ripen, several shipments are expected to be made out of here in the next few days.

Alf Webb came in the office Saturday and ordered the Reporter and Dallas Semi-Weekly News for one year.

W. H. Britton and J. H. Gobbell attended the picnic at Elmer, Oklahoma last Friday.

Revival in Progress at Baptist Church

Crowell Clergyman Assisting Local Pastor In Meeting

The Baptist summer revival that was announced in last week's issue of the Reporter to begin Friday night, July 26 was postponed until Sunday night on account of pastor Rev. C. T. Starkey not reaching here in time from Alabama where he had been conducting a meeting.

The meeting is now in progress, Rev. J. E. Billington, pastor of the first Baptist church at Crowell, arrived here Monday evening, and is now assisting the local pastor in conducting this meeting, a good audience, especially at night is turning out to hear Rev. Billington's able discourses, he having just closed a successful revival at Crowell. Just when this meeting will close we are not in position to state.

Closes Successful Revival

The revival meeting Rev. H. C. Mason of this place and Rev. E. C. McDonald, pastor of the First Baptist church at Chillicothe, have been conducting at Center Point school house, closed Sunday morning with fourteen additions to the church, eight of them being candidates for baptism, who were baptised by Rev. Mason Sunday evening.

S. A. Naylor and wife visited at Chillicothe Sunday.

Summer Annual Association at Jackson Springs

Primitive Baptist to Hold Annual Session Commencing Thursday Aug. 8

The Primitive Baptist denomination will begin a series of meetings at Jackson Springs, commencing Thursday night, August 8, and continue till Sunday evening, the members of this denomination have for the last two or three years held an annual association at some place near here, holding their last summer session at Jackson Springs, this place has been permanently established by them, as a location to hold their yearly gatherings, a tabernacle has been erected on the ground, and other conveniences made, and so well known are these religious festivals among the Primitive Baptist people a large attendance has always attended heretofore, but owing to the immensity of the crowd expected this year, people coming from a distance coming prepared to camp on the ground, there will be no public meals served as has been the custom heretofore, but everybody is cordially invited to come and bring well filled baskets, and join in with them at this meeting.

Revival at Maple Hill

Preparations are being made by the Holliness denomination to begin a Tabernacle Revival at Maple Hill, commencing Sunday, August 18, a. m.

S. A. Williams, Holliness Evangelist, will be present and assist in the meeting, and as the meeting is being well advertised they are expecting to do some great revival work at Maple Hill.

And still there are vacant lots here yet that are in a needy state of weeding.

We imagine defeated candidates that were out for offices finds very little consolation, in that consoling passage of scripture that tells us all things happen for the best.

Although there may be some of the candidates whom you were supporting for an office that were defeated in the election Saturday, but we must submissively accept the voice of the majority, and let them rule—that's Democracy.

Over The Phone

From August Holland's Magazine Several evenings ago a young man repaired to a telephone office and rang up his sweetheart. "Is that you?"

When I Run For an Office Again

We imagine defeated candidates who submissively went sailing up salt creek Saturday, to be just now in a perceptible mood to stamp the face of mother earth, and in a frenzied delirium cryout:

- People like birds will fly through the air;
Fish will swim in the wind;
The earth will have for its axis a hair,
When I run for an office again.
- Streams will flow backwards, and mountains will float;
The bible will tell us to sin;
There will be wool on a dog, and hair on a goat;
When I run for an office again.
- People will slide off this terrestrial ball;
The man in the moon will grin;
Mars'll drop down and make the earth a call;
When I run for an office again.
- The stars of the heaven will fall to the earth;
The Messiah a message will send;
That people will laugh in sorrow, and cry in mirth;
When I run for an office again.

Cotton is King

UNCLE SAM CROWNING COTTON KING OF PRODUCTS.

No nation ever expressed victory in more forcible language or heralded tidings of conquest in more convincing terms than Uncle Sam when he announced to the world the supremacy of Cotton as a money crop over all staple products. We quote the following from his coronation speech: "Average farm value of products per acre in Continental United States in 1910:

Cotton	-----	$24.97
Corn	-----	13.37
Wheat	-----	12.63
Oats	-----	10.90"

The Texas Welfare Commission is investigating the production of and the methods for marketing cotton. W. T. Loudon, milk of DeLeon is chairman of the sub-committee having the subject under consideration.

"Yes, George, dear," came the reply.

"Are you alone?"
"Yes, darling."
"I wish I was there."
"I wish so, too."

"If I were there do you know what I would do with my darling?"

"No George; I do not."
And then somehow the lines got mixed, and this is what she heard:

"Well, I'd pull her ears back till she opened her mouth, and then I'd put a lump of mud in it. If that didn't answer I'd give her a sound thrashing."

And then Marion fainted. Now they never speak as they pass by and the man who was talking to his farrier about a balky mare says that anybody who will advise a man to put his arm around the neck of an obstreperous horse and whisper words of love in its ear ought to be hanged.

Evidence of a Live Town

To our desk there come from seventy-five to one hundred exchanges each week. From these we can judge very accurately the life and prosperity of a town. If the paper is full of good live advertising, then that town is alive, people are spending their money at home, and the farmers drive in for miles around to do trading. If the advertising is rather meager and the merchants are afraid to let the people know through the columns of the paper what they charge for their goods, then that town is dead, the farmer and town citizens as well are sending away their cash money every time to the mail order houses, while the merchants sit down and kick because the people are not loyal to them. People do read advertisements and no one knows it better than the mail order houses. There is no way to meet them but on their own ground, if the cash expenditures are to be made at home. —Bonham News.

Farm and Ranch, Holland's Magazine and the Odell Reporter three papers one year for $1.50.

A Good Road Movement

The movement that was started by C. H. Shaw and others towards the claying of the road that leads out through their community is receiving the attention of the people of that vicinity, several of the neighborhood who are required to put their time in at road working agreeing to do extra work, and help in the movement with donations, quite a little sum was donated by the business men here Saturday towards helping, and as the fall season of the year is about here, and the marketing of farm products soon will begin, all roads needs to be in good traveling condition, for patronizers of a town often consider the condition of the road to a place before they will the distance.

Plow Now For Next Year's Crop

To the Farmers of Texas:

The land that you expect to put in small grain this fall, and that is not growing peas, or some other crop, should be plowed at the earliest date possible. This plowing should be very carefully done, so that every bit of the land will be turned over at least one inch deeper than it has heretofore been plowed. It should be very carefully harrowed immediately after it is plowed, before the clods get hard and dry. If the land is low and has a tendency to be wet, it should be bedded in ten to twenty foot beds, so that the furrows will act as drains.

The top surface should not be allowed at any time to get hard, but should be harrowed as often as is necessary to keep the soil fairly pulverized so that the summer rains will sink into the earth and form a reservoir to hold this rainfall, and prepare for a season in the ground that will start and sustain a crop, even if the fall is dry. Having stored this summer rain, and kept it from evaporating, by keeping the soil mulch on top of the ground, you can sow rust-proof winter oats in August, or early September, or wheat in October or early November, and be sure of a splendid fall and winter pasture, and almost sure of a fine grain crop next spring.

The wheat and oats that are sowed early will stool and cover the ground with much more vigorous and hardy plants, with one-fourth less seed, than will be necessary, if you sow later. The seeds should be separated with the greatest care, and none but the big, stout, strong, vigorous grains should be sown. These vigorous grains having been planted early and far enough apart to give ample room for development of the roots will be much harder and better able to stand the hard winter than the thickly sown, crowded, poorly developed plants, that have but little time before cold weather to make root. With the land thoroughly prepared in mid-summer, and kept in condition to receive and hold the rainfall, and only vigorous seeds planted, with warm weather and plenty of room for development, a good crop is practically assured.

The above suggestions with regard to plowing the land at once and harrowed just as often as is necessary to keep the top surface properly pulverized, will apply to the next year's corn and cotton land, as well as to the oat and wheat land for this fall. In fact, it will pay to sow oats or some other crop on all of the land, and as the time approaches for spring planting save the best of the small grain crop, and plow under as a fertilizer the most inferior part of the crop. If you, in this way, will keep growing a constant cover crop, other than weeds on the land, presently your land will be rich, and there will be no weeds.

Pres. Texas Industrial Congress.

J. P. Tate and family of Red River community attended singing here Sunday and taken dinner with Alf Webb and family.

C. G. Thompson, candidate for County Treasurer, John Reese for Tax Collector, and J. B. Copeland for County Judge spoke here at the school house on last Wednesday night, but owing to the rain which began about dark there were but few present, had it been a fair night the entire community would have been there.

Prof. J. M. Reynolds and daughter, Miss Fanny came over Sunday morning and sang with us, quite a crowd was present in the forenoon and in the evening there was a large attendance, more than could be seated, we had some fine singing. We hope to have Prof. Reynolds with us in the near future to teach a vocal music school.

Maud's Brother Jake

Jake Muller, on a summer's day, raked the meadows sweet with hay. The mule with which he raked the hay was muddled dun, with streaks of gray. Jake's shirts were hickory, and pants were brown, with a patch on the part where he sits down. Jake cussed in a way that to see, for the mule went haw when he said gee. A bumble bee's nest in the stubble lay, where Jake and the mule raked the hay. A rake tooth ran through that bumble bee home, and the bees came out and began to roam in search for the man that summer day who raked the meadow of clover hay. The bees swarmed inside Muller's shirt, and quickened the mule to a lively squirt. It was tough on the mule and worse on Jake, and worse still on the sulky rake, for the mule turned loose in a promiscuous way and scattered the rake all over the hay.

City Building Notes

Prosperity follows publicity.

A town is as dead as it looks.

Be modest in all things except city boosting.

It's easy enough to be pleasant —when you are a booster.

It soon gets monotonous when one man does all the boosting.

There is a reason for a city's growth—it is usually co-operation.

It may be tiresome pounding the same proposition all the time but success comes from sticking to what you start.

A man with a number twelve shoe and a number three hat usually leaves the smallest foot-prints on the sand of time.

Bad Spells

"I suffered, during girlhood, from womanly weakness," writes Mrs. Mollie Navy, of Walnut, N. C. "At last, I was almost bed-ridden, and had to give up. We had three doctors. All the time, I was getting worse. I had bad spells, that lasted from 7 to 28 days. In one week, after I gave Cardui a trial, I could eat, sleep, and joke, as well as anybody. In 8 weeks, I was well. I had been an invalid for 5 weary years! Cardui relieved me, when everything else failed."
