TAES At Halfway Field Day To Underscore Weed Control

Increased levels of weed control in corn due to introductions of more selective herbicides and herbicide combinations will be one of the premier research programs set for display Thursday, September 11, in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Halfway Field Day.

Field Day tours of the experiment station at Halfway are set for 1:00 p.m. continuing throughout the afternoon until 5:00 p.m. The research center is located 14 miles west of Plainview on Hwy 70.

According to TAES weed scientist, Jim Schrib, the field day weed stop will feature control of one of the Texas High Plains' most prolific annual broadleaf weeds, pigweed.

"Even though the weed continues to present problems, its susceptibility to triazine herbicides has made the species relatively easy to control," reports Schrib. "However, grassy weeds such as barnyardgrass, shattercane, fall panicum, and crabgrass have increased in importance in recent years.

Another of the weed tour's highlights are herbicide combinations for weed control in corn. Combinations such as Aatrex plus Sutan, Bladex plus Sutan and Aatrex plus Lasso have indicated in most instances much better weed control than either herbicide alone.

In addition to providing a wider spectrum of weed control, herbicide combinations will allow a lower usage rate of the more persistent herbicides, which would be beneficial for corn to cotton rotations, notes Schrib.

Several highly effective herbicides on grassy weeds which have been recently developed for use in corn, will also be discussed, says the TAES scientist. Most of these herbicides are short residual compounds, which offer advantages for certain double cropping and crop rotation systems.

"In the future with the availability of these new herbicides," Schrib concludes, "producers will be able to match the correct herbicides to his particular

Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin—Campaigns for and against a new Texas constitution are getting off the ground.

Proponents of the far reaching revision to be voted on November 4 have opened an Austin headquarters under the direction of former State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert and State Rep. Ronald Earle of Austin.

Opponents, for the time being led by State Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, are setting up shop in an office building across the street.

First copies of a proposed voter's guide to the revision document were placed in the mail last week. They present complete text of the eight propositions to be voted on, with a comparison summary of the "old" and "new" constitutional provisions.

Acknowledged opposition has centered largely on the proposal for annual sessions of the legislature—a 140 day session during odd-numbered years and a 90-day meeting on even-numbered years.

House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, concerned over effect of the opposition, asked an attorney general's opinion on whether the short, even-year session could be limited by law or legislative rule to budgetary and emergency matters.

Their proposal immediately stirred strong disapproving comment from both proponents and opponents of revision, indicating, perhaps, a hot campaign during the next three months.

Ouster Rules Drawn

A Senate committee approved rules for the impeachment trial by 31 senators of 229th District Judge O.P. Carrillo September 3.

Carrillo personally appeared at the committee hearing with his attorneys. Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate prosecutor, who will be special counsel to the Senate presiding officer, urged proceedings be conducted "on a high plane in strict accord with the rules."

The committee tentatively approved live broadcast news coverage of the trial and recommended a gag rule to restrict comments by senators on proceedings in which they sit as court and jury.

Carrillo subsequently has been indicted by a Jim Wells County grand jury. He already faced a September 8 trial date on an income tax case in federal court at Corpus Christi and an October 2 hearing by a Judicial Qualifications Commission master in removal proceedings.

AG Opinions

A state representative who intentionally charges expenditures to the state in excess of the authorized amount is subject to prosecution under the penal code, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- Teachers cannot be school board members in the same district which employs them.

- Beginning September 1, judges must contribute six per cent of their annual compensation paid by the state to their retirement fund, legislators eight per cent.

- A motion for discovery rather than the Open Records Act is the appropriate means for access to information in a welfare recipient's case file concerning pending criminal charges against him.

- There is no law authorizing Wharton County to cease operation of the county's Nightingale Hospital, other than by lease.

- Texas Board of Dental Examiners may not require dental assistants to register with the Board and pay an annual fee nor permit employment of more than one dental hygienist per dentist.

- A member of the board of commissioners of the Port of Houston Authority may also be a member of the Texas Amusement Machine Commission.

- A board of regents may not compel a college faculty member or employee to take a leave of absence without pay while campaigning for public office in a school district, city or other local governmental district, but may require that for candidates for any other public office.

Outdoors in Texas

By J. C. Roberts

Ever hear this one . . . "Aw, it's just a bullhead . . . throw it back" . . . This rough fish, the famous mud cat, can be fun to catch, and even a gourmet can't tell the difference between a channel cat or mud cat, when it's prepared right, and caught from the right waters. Bullheads from muddy water have a poor taste, but a mud cat taken from flowing streams or clear lakes are tasty. Bullheads can be caught on about anything . . . liver, blood bait, worms, minnows, dough bait, or even another bullhead that has been cut up in smaller pieces. One look at the bullhead and you know where he got his name. His head is large, and his mouth twice the size of a comparable channel cat. Watch those spines in the dorsal and pectoral fins. They can dish out a painful puncture.

Rites Read for Leader Tuesday

Final rites for Roy B. Davis, age 74, were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday morning in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. I.D. Walker, associate pastor; and Rev. J.T. Bolding, a retired Baptist minister.

Burial was held in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Rix Funeral Directors.

A friend to many residents of the black community, he was known to the Lubbock community as "Mr. Cotton". He died at approximately 2 a.m. last Sunday morning in Methodist Hospital after being admitted Friday after suffering from chest pains.

Davis, a very modest man, held many positions in the field of the cotton industry. His most visible contribution to the cotton industry was in West Texas where he contributed a great deal to Plains Cooperative Oil Mill. He was general manager of the mill. This mill was known at the time of his retirement, as the largest cottonseed processing plant in the world, from 1943 until 1971.

After his retirement, he was named a consultant to the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University and had worked actively in plans leading up to the building of the $30 million American Cotton Growers denim mill in Littlefield.

He was a friend of the Eastern Little League Baseball organization. He wanted young people of East Lubbock to have an opportunity to participate in active recreational activities.

Mr. Davis was born in McGregor, Texas and moved to Lamesa in 1906. He later moved to

GOURD DIPPERS

Before houses had indoor plumbing, a common fixture in most homes was the water dipper and pail. Usually they were on a shelf or small table in the kitchen where they were handy to anyone wanting a drink and also where the water could be used in cooking.

There were a variety of different types of dippers and pails. Some were made of porcelain enameled steel, others zinc-coated or galvanized iron. However, most old timers agreed that the best water pails were those made of cedar wood and the only kind of dipper anyone should have was one made of a gourd. The wooden pails kept the water cooler (iced water was unheard of) and the gourd dipper, besides being hand crafted, just made the water taste better. Zinc was thought by some to contain a poisonous substance that gave the water a bad taste and porcelain enamel was dangerous because it chipped easily and a person might swallow the small sharp pieces.

Large, domestic gourds could be grown at home. Upon maturity the best were selected for dippers and put away to dry. It was better if they dried for a couple of years or more before making dippers from them. Gourds for dippers were selected primarily for their shape and size. Some preferred gourds with long, straight necks while others chose the curved necked ones because they could be hung on the rim of the water pail. After the gourd had seasoned long enough, it was marked and a knife or small key-hole type saw was used to cut it to the shape desired. The insides were scraped and cleaned out and it was ready to use.

Water was fetched from the well, cistern or spring and most people tried to keep the pail at least half full at all times because you never knew when company might drop in. When company did come, one of the first things they did was gather around the water pail for a drink. All drank from the same dipper and not much thought was given to the danger of spreading germs. However, a person was expected, if he didn't drink all the water in the dipper, to swish it around a little and throw it out, leaving the dipper clean for the next person. It was a time when things were shared, especially dippers, water and germs.

Lubbock in 1921 and began working for this community. He was a graduate of Texas A&M University in 1923 after attending Lubbock High School.

In agriculture, he also served on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Cotton and Cottonseed Research and Marketing Advisory Committee during the late 1940's and early 1950's.

He was also a member of the First Baptist Church and the Downtown Bible Class, the Lubbock Consistory, the Khiva Shrine Temple, the West Texas Museum Association, the Lubbock Club and the Lubbock Country Club.

Texas Safety Association Says Rest Your Feet at Jaycee Rest Stops Along Way

Austin—What are you planning on doing for the rest of your life? If your immediate future includes a Labor Day weekend highway trip, Texas Safety Association advises that a stop at one of the nearly 200 Texas Jaycee holiday rest stops may just provide you with the "rest of your life"; it can be the pause that defeats driver problems like highway hypnosis, delayed reaction time, and traffic tedium.

For over 15 years, the Jaycees of Texas, in cooperation with the Royal Globe Insurance Companies and local merchants, have provided free coffee and refreshments to highway travelers on long holiday weekends. The campaign was originally begun as the Labor Day Rest Stop program, but with the shift of many major holidays to Mondays, the emphasis was expanded to all holiday weekends by many Jaycee chapters.

Response to the program has been gratifying, even though no real figure on accidents prevented or lives saved is available, because you can't count accidents that never happen.

The Texas Safety Association reminds you that a 15-minute break in a two-hour drive can be the difference between a safe arrival and an accident. Drop in at a Jaycee holiday rest stop this Labor Day, for the rest that can save your life. (And don't forget to say "thanks.")

Clothes may make the man but our opinion is that it is the woman who makes the dress.

The best way to get your share of the wealth of the country is to work hard for it.

Weed Control Stop Set For TAES Field Day

A potential volunteer sunflower weed problem along with the latest information and equipment in weed control will be spotlighted Tuesday, September 9, as the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station marks its 66th Annual Field Day.

Heading up the field day weed control program is Dr. John Abernathy.

The TAES weed scientist reports that research information gathered from several thousand test plots will be stressed in the field day tour stop set to focus on resistant annual and perennial weed species plaguing area cotton, sorghum, soybean and sunflower fields.

Says Abernathy, with some 400,000 acres of sunflowers being grown on the High Plains this year, a potential volunteer sunflower problem exists. The threat is especially significant in the rotational crops like cotton and soybeans, notes the scientist.

Resistant weed species on tap for the field day discussion are lanceleaf sage, morning glory, thornapple, wild sunflower and watergrass. Perennial weed problems scheduled to be covered are yellow nutsedge, lakeweed, Johnsongrass, Texas Blueweed, and Whiteweed.

Current status and use of new herbicides such as Roundup will also be highlighted in the weed control tour stop, Abernathy adds.

Several new types of herbicide application equipment can also be viewed during the tour of weed control research plots.

A recirculation sprayer for Johnsongrass control in cotton and soybeans, a shielded sprayer for directing powerful herbicides beneath cotton plants and new types of spray nozzels and additives for controlling spray drift will be detailed in the TAES's comprehensive review of weed control research.

TAES Lubbock Field Day Activities begin at 1:00 p.m. continuing until 5:00. Tours by way of tractor pulled trailers will leave the Experiment Station's headquarters every 15 minutes throughout the afternoon.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is located 7½ miles north of Lubbock just off Hwy. 87.

Never expect good luck to make up for loafing.

It was an interesting week. Football practice started at most colleges and many high school players chortled, because they have been working out for days and days.

And, on the baseball front, the Red Sox took a look at Baltimore and decided that the Orioles weren't so tough. But the Phils made the Pirates look over their shoulder and forced Pittsburgh to play the type of ball of which it's capable.

Steve Sloan wiped his brow, sent his Raiders through three days of dummy drills in shorts and longed for the day when he could hear padding and flesh crackle.

There was laughter over the continued "feud" between Barry Switzer at Oklahoma and Darrell Royal at Texas. CW performers didn't take sides, but Charley Pride probably had a few words to say about OU. But maybe Merle Haggard had a few words for UT, too.

The bird season is right around the corner and those doves, which have been so thick that they are a menace to motorists—even those going 55 mph—probably will disappear with the first volley of shots. And there should be a lot of volleys this year.

The birds have one thing in their favor, though, it's been dry for a long time now and that makes the ground powdery. It may not help the doves, but it will aid quail and pheasants.

Youth must be served, which probably is the reason why so little was written not long ago when Morris Frank died. It was a shame, too, for Morris was one of the giants in Texas newspaper circles.

The quick-witted, nimble Morris Frank probably didn't have an enemy in the state. He was in demand as a master of ceremonies, as well as an after dinner speaker. He wrote a column for the Houston Chronicle that often had evidence of his humor.

Years ago, when I was covering the Golden Gloves state tournament in Fort Worth, the Star-Telegram tossed a dinner for the visiting scribes. If it hadn't been for Morris, that would have gone down as the all-time dullest dinner in history.

But Morris was the emcee that night and, when the other talent fell shorter than short, he stepped into the breach. From his knowledge of the writers, and with no notes, he proceeded to tell something funny about each one. He had the place roaring.

Only one writer didn't think it was funny when Morris got to him. The writer, his face flushed, rose to his feet to make a feeble attempt at embarrassing Morris.

I can't really pass on the exchange between the two, because family papers frown on rowdy language. But Morris had a retort so quick and sharp that nothing was heard from that particular writer again. Wise people learned to roll with his humor, which was much like Will Rogers', gentle and innocuous.

I treasure a picture of Morris taken on one of his visits to Tech. Somehow he managed to get a couple of those green freshman beanies and we're posed, wearing silly grins, with arms around each other's shoulders.

He sent me one of the pictures with a notation to the effect that, if the educators could see the picture, it would set back college education 100 years. Morris Frank was one of a kind in an age when humor is needed. He will be missed, sorely.

Dave Forbes recently won a victory for pro hockey when he was freed on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, intentionally, in a hockey match injury to Henry Boucha.

Having been a hockey participant in my younger days and an aficionado of the sport throughout my life, I was happy to see the verdict. Although I'm as sure as shooting that the attack undoubtedly was deliberate.

Hockey is not like other sports. It is played at breakneck speed. The action is almost continuous. The body contact is every bit as rough as football. Adrenalin flows faster and quicker than in other sports and that causes strange things to happen.

I remember one particular case when I was playing defense in an inter-class game. John Gray was a fraternity brother playing for the other team.

I don't remember just what happened, but one of the unforgivable things was to let an offensive player split the defense and go in on goal. Gray had the puck and I checked him, forcing him off. As I recall, he stuck the butt of his stick in my ribs, not gently.

The next time he came down ice, I went to meet him. I forced him to the boards, cross checked him and hammered him into the woodwork resoundingly.

Gar Laux, who used to be with Ford Motor Co., and a frequent visitor to Lubbock, was the official. Gar was the college goalie, and a good one.

He blew his whistle, jerked his arm with thumb upwards and I was on the way to the penalty box. I was still steaming, but as soon as I got in the box and had a chance to calm down, I felt just a little regret that it had happened.

That's hockey for you. In the heat of battle, an unintentional trip, a crash into the boards, a stick in the ribs, anything like that can get your blood pressure up. You forget the prime thing and think in individual terms instead.

I'm sure much the same thing was true in the Forbes-Boucha affair. It may not be right, but it's part of the game. And anyone who plays hockey knows that. You expect it and protect yourself as best you can. Believe me, you don't need courts to try cases. The players will settle them themselves.

The Pirates may have come out of their tailspin just in time. Breathing hard were the Phillies, Cardinals and Mets. A three out of four conquest of the Reds may have done the trick.

The contenders all had chances, but blew it. Not one of them could be consistent just when they had a chance. Still, it's just about the only race left and it isn't over yet. The Pirates, though, seem to have recovered in time.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Reverse Subsidization

It is no secret that many foreign nations either directly or indirectly, and sometimes under the table, subsidize their national firms on their export activity. * * *

But not so generally well known is the fact that the United States government does the same thing, but in a reverse direction. It actually, for all intents and purposes, subsidizes foreign imports. * * *

Under the Trade Act of 1974 when workers are laid off because of imports destroying their employer's business and thus their jobs, they can receive up to 70 per cent of their pay for at least one year, and for an additional 26 weeks if needed to complete training for some other line of work. * * *

It is not to be inferred that these misplaced workers are on a gravy train. The key word here is "workers" who were working when through no fault of their own, some remote shenanigans by the State Department, usually called something like "unilateral negotiations" pulled the rug out from under them. * * *

Stainless steel cutlery plants, fabric plants, footwear factories and other operations, largely in the New England area, have been forced to close because of the competition from imports. * * *

Probably even more amazing is the fact that this killing off of Americans' jobs is taking place at a time when the dollar is devaluated, and presumed ably this should result in imports costing more than the domestic products. * * *

In the early years of the National Federation of Independent Business, the members were quite strong in support of using tariffs to protect the jobs of American workers. In the past few years this position has eroded presumably because the business people felt that labor demands were growing so great that such tariff protection would only encourage higher demands by labor. * * *

But of late, NFIB surveys indicate there is less blame being placed on labor for the current economic conditions, and more on government. A team of eminent economists who worked on these matters with Ronald Reagan when governor of California, arrived at a conclusion that government is sopping up 41 per cent of national income, which results in inflated prices. * * *

Thus, it is perhaps time to rethink many of the theories of the past three or four decades. There is a lot to be said for the principle of free trade providing it is truly free and not just an empty slogan. * * *

But there is another consideration. If the present application of what is considered free trade policies further enslaves the taxpayer to help those thrown out of work in the process the question could perhaps be asked just who is free in the current so-called free trade system. * * *

Wednesday and their son, Aubrey Mayfield, also attended. *****

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R.M. Mayfield were Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Maloney and Mrs. Hazel Guy of Whitesboro, Texas, and Mrs. Retha Dewease of Paris, Texas. *****

Rev. and Mrs. J.T. Ayers of Corsicana, Texas, were recent visitors in the home of his mother, Mrs. John Ayers. *****

Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Moore returned home last week after attending the Nazarene Camp meeting at Lake Arrowhead and visiting her brother, Mr. and Mrs. T. Cavitt of De Leon, Texas. *****
