JEST SOME THOUGHTS—

We had quite a Fourth at our house, as we attended the car races in Lubbock, where our son-in-law vies each week with numerous other skilled drivers. Needless to say, we enjoyed the races very much, and it provided enough excitement to last us for awhile. Guess we're getting old.

But there is no doubt about it, these young men must be able to handle a car, at a high speed, around many other cars and drivers also wanting to get there first. A wreck doesn't slow them down one iota as we noticed when Harrell got tangled up with another hot rod, and came out of it and finished the event.

Ropes boasts two drivers in these races each week, besides Harrell is Mickey Smith, who has also made a good showing, especially for his first year in this maddening world.

Following the races, spectators were treated to a display of fireworks that was very pretty, and some different from any we had ever witnessed.

Now that the exploding holiday is over, things have sure quieted down in our town. July 4th is the holiday to shoot fireworks, and nearly everyone does so.

This heat is really intense—but we love it. It penetrates down to the marrow of the old bones, and adds new life, and sweats the poisons out of the system, that have become frozen there in the winter. People should bloom and flower in the summer like plants—we guess.

Our eldest, Berrilyn Whitehead, who keeps shop for us two days a week, had a real "newspaperman's day" Tuesday when she was gathering news. She left us the following note: "Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Tate and three children from Kaufman visited Monday, but I forgot to write who's nephew it was. This was a good day. Ha!"

Anyway, the Tate's visited here, and it isn't unusual to forget who you were talking to, when about three hours later, you go to decipher your notes.

We would remind you to be sure and attend the Hockley County residents and old settlers reunion this Saturday in Levelland—it promises to be a good one.

Ropes has much, much history, that has been compiled by Mrs. L. S. Rosser, with the help of many old settlers.

We don't know where the time goes, but it's that time of week again, so we must get busy and get another issue printed. We aren't rolling off the page any more, we're running—just as fast as we can. There's just no time for the leisure of rolling.

Clean Up Day Slated at Community Building

The Community Center Board of Directors with the aid of the Scout Troops of Ropesville is sponsoring a work day on the Community Center building for the mothers this Tuesday, July 13th, from 8:00 in the morning until dusk. The plans are for the women to wash the windows, scrub walls and do general cleaning at this first work day. The women need to clean the windows while the screens are down and being repaired.

In several weeks the Dads will have a work day. The building is in desperate need of cleaning and repair and because of limited funds, it falls upon us to do the work ourselves with available funds going for supplies and some carpenter work that cannot be done by the Dads.

During the school year we have our fifty scouts, including several troops of boys and girls, using our community building each week. If your child is a Scout, or you are interested in helping improve our community, we hope you will come out for both workings. Bring cleaning rags, buckets, brushes—cleaning detergents will be furnished.

At present the Community Center Board is comprised of Fred Satterwhite, Glynn Braden, Leon Young, David Dalton and Larry Jackson. David Dalton and Larry Jackson are recent appointees, taking the place of retiring members, Bill Patman and Bud Rucker. Bud Rucker is still functioning as a liaison on financial matters for the Board. Fred Satterwhite has the keys and calendar for this wishing to use the building. Each of these members urges the ladies to help at this first working and for the men to be prepared to help in several weeks.

If you bring your older children, have them come prepared to work in the yard by bringing their garden tools

FACULTY COMPLETED

O. V. Fuller, superintendent of the Ropes Public Schools, told the Plainsman recently that the faculty for the 1971-72 school year is complete.

"If there are no changes," said Mr. Fuller, "this is the first time in history we have had our roster completed this early."

New teachers include Leslie Tonn, B.S. degree, who will instruct Junior High Science and serve as assistant coach; Mrs. Tonia Tanner, B.S. degree, from Texas Tech, will teach Junior High English and also Speech; and Jim Beckem who has his Master's degree from Tech will be the new Band Instructor.

Mrs. Ruby Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Forbis of Seminole and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Drake and family of Lubbock spent the holiday week end in Ruidoso.

The Early Settlers Association announces its 10th annual reunion and the Golden Anniversary celebration of the organization of Hockley County Saturday, July 10, in Levelland.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. on the court house square, and continue until 11 a.m., when the parade will begin. The parade will assemble at First Street and Highway 116, and proceed down Houston Street and around the court house square and then go to the Women's Building on the Fair Grounds, where the annual barbecue lunch will be served to one and all.

The meal will be prepared by the Jaycees, and promises a time of luscious food, and visiting with friends.

At 1:30 p.m., everyone is to assemble back at the court house square, where the afternoon festivities will begin. Master of Ceremonies will be J. G. Stacy. Several early settlers will be interviewed, and string and instrumental music will be provided. Judging of the costumes will follow.

The welcome address will be given by Z. O. Lincoln, president of the Early Settlers Association, followed by the necrology service, presided over by the Rev. Bob Robbins.

The historical portion of the program will then be given on the many towns and settlements in Hockley County. County Judge Hulon Moreland will give the history of Hockley County, then the following histories will be given: Whitharral, Sam Langford; Smyer, Billy Burleson; Hodges, James G. Marrow Jr.; Whiteface, Wendell DuLaup; Fairview, Kent Cooper; Sundown, R. E. Home; Oklahoma Flats, Doyle Gilley; Pettit, Mrs. Pearl Fincannon; Levelland, Bill Vardeman; Cattleland, J. T. Hewlett; Ropesville, Mrs. L. S. Rosser; Claune, Eddie Paxton; Pep, A. G. Jungman, Sr.; Anton, Ed Hart; and Center, Mrs. A. M. Armstrong.

Awards will then be presented, as selected by a committee, on different things such as best decorated window, the most appropriately dressed in western style, etc.

At 8 p.m., a street dance will be held on the south side of the square from the Levelland State Bank to the drug store.

Points of interest everyone is urged to visit will be the antique displays in store windows; antique cars on the square; the museum in the Watson Building on Avenue H, west of the court house; the art exhibit at Rainey Art Gallery, 710 Avenue H; and sidewalk sales by the merchants around the square.

The noon meal is served without charge. The entertainment is also free.

To sponsor something of this size takes money, and it is all done by donations. If you care to donate, you may do so either when you register or a box will be provided for same at the Women's Building. Any money not used in this year's celebration will go into the treasury of the Early Settlers Association for use in next year's reunion.

A day of fun and visiting, and learning facts of our county is in store for all those who care to attend. Come out and help make this year's celebration the biggest ever.

Narrow-Row Cotton Uses Water Efficiently

Studies on the utilization of soil water show that cotton planted in narrow rows is the most efficient.

Yields from field tests at the Deltapine Farm east of Lubbock point to a significant difference between row spacings, reports Dr. Charles Wendt, associate professor at Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center who conducted the study. Cotton drilled in 10-inch spacings yielded 923 pounds of lint per acre compared to 687 lbs. for double-row and 454 pounds for single row cotton on a 40-inch bed.

Varieties planted on the Amarillo find sandy loam soil for the 1970 tests included Deltapine 16, Paymaster Dyarf, Rillcot 90, Deltapine Experimental Strain 6311-46652 and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Experimental Strains CA-971-86-3 and CA-491-69.1. All were planted on May 15 and 16 on 40-inch beds with spacings of single rows, double rows and four rows 10 inches apart.

According to Wendt, the cotton was irrigated on July 15 and August 7 and received no appreciable precipitation during the growing season. Soil water extraction by the crop was determined with a neutron during the periods July 18-August 4 and August 11-September 4.

In general, the amount of soil water used increased as row spacings increased, points out Wendt. However the amount of water in the soil was also higher as row spacings increased since there was some difficulty in irrigating the drilled cotton. There was no difference in the ability of the different varieties to obtain water from down to four feet in the soil.

The various varieties and strains showed little difference in the amount of soil water extracted in a particular row spacing with the exception of the two Experiment Station strains. Less water was extracted by these "CA" varieties in the drilled rows. Wendt says this was due to differences in plant populations. The other varieties and strains had populations greater than 200,000 plants per acre. Although all seeding rates were the same, the poor seed quality of the "CA" varieties accounted for the smaller populations.

The one-year study shows that cotton planted in close row spacings can use water throughout a four-foot deep soil profile, points out Wendt. The crop can extract four to four-and-a-half inches of water from a saturated soil profile. If irrigation water is available, current varieties can be grown in narrow rows to increase yields without affecting fiber properties.

HOST PICNIC

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Flowers and boys hosted a barbecue picnic in their backyard Sunday evening to celebrate the July 4th holiday.

Those enjoying the cookout were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Belew, Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Bradshaw and Bart, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Merkle, Elizabeth and Jody and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Collett, Ronnie and Kim from Oklahoma City. Later in the evening a fireworks display was enjoyed by all.

PNG NEWS

Amarillo, June 23 — Pioneer Natural Gas Company announced today that its wholly-owned subsidiary, TranState Tire Company, TranState Tire Co., has leased its Dallas tire retreading plant to The Tire and Battery Corporation of Dayton, Ohio.

At its February, 1971, board meeting Pioneer announced its intention to "drastically change, curtail or terminate" the operation of TranState in 1971. At that time the board established a reserve to be included in the 1970 financial statements in anticipation of the disposal of the tire company. "TranState's other retreading plant in Laporte, Indiana, has been shut down pending disposition," a company official said.

The Tire and Battery Corporation, which has a retread operation in Belwood, Pennsylvania, anticipates that the Dallas plant will produce 150,000 tires a day and should be in production between July 1 and July 15.
