Jest some thoughts

Time nor tide waits for no man—true. It's here and gone before you know it. Looked around you lately? Time is quickly fleeting and we are heading for, it appears, a hard, cold winter.

Tuesday morning of this week, our windshield was frosted over for the first time—so we presume this is the first visit of Jack Frost to our area.

For some the frost will be welcome—there is more foliage than usual this year on the cotton, and it needs to come off, to prepare for the strippers. For others, a few more days of grace is desperately needed for the late cotton to mature.

Perhaps we will have it—who knows.

And, times have not changed in the process of hiring workers—just become "covered up". Once, a long time ago, a farmer who needed some extra hands approached one of the village loafers with an offer of a job. "What'll ye pay?" asked the idler. "I'll pay ye what your wuth," replied the farmer. The loafer thought this over, then shook his head. "Shucks, no," he refused. "Be durned if I'd work fer that!"

If you think the roads in our town haven't become a problem—just try driving down them. We are thinking of parking near the chug holes on Main Street and walking home if we can find a path between the five-foot holes.

So far our car has suffered three broken springs, bent the exhaust pipe from trying to back out of one of them, and the shaking is so rough, the spark plug wires fly off, the license tag has been bent and the ash tray is rattling.

That's what you call a rough road.

Usually, it is ruts, and you are safe in getting into them, because they will eventually lead you to some settled area—but with the holes, you might not be seen.

Our roads have become so bad, we are thinking of calling them detours.

So, we'd better detour off the page for another week.

Let's stop inflation

Inflation hurts everybody. Yet nobody seems to do much about it. People appear to believe it's almost as inevitable as death and taxes.

The steady rise in prices has many causes, of course. Some of the economic factors are rather complex and difficult to understand. But there is one aspect of inflation which is easy to understand. It is this: If everyone, together, decides to pitch in to stop inflation, it can be stopped.

This means the manufacturer has to decide to hold the line on his prices. Merchants need to decide they're going to be satisfied with what they've been charging. Wage earners need to be willing to forego wage increases. Professional and service people need to hold the line on their fees and rates. Everyone involved in setting prices, in other words, must get together with an anti-inflation psychology.

The problem is: Who starts the ball rolling? Nationally a new organization—Citizens for A New Prosperity—has been formed to do just that. It's backed by leaders from all walks of life and plans to organize state committees to spread its doctrine of cooperation for the common good down to the grass roots.

Why shouldn't all of us want to join the cause? Cooperating for the common welfare is the best way for us to help ourselves. This is one of the greatest opportunities for combining public service with self service that we have had in many years.

We wish great success to the fight against inflation and encourage everyone to take part.

A nationwide campaign, reaching into every county in the United States, to mobilize the public behind the country's effort to control inflation and create peacetime jobs, is being organized by Citizens for A New Prosperity, a volunteer group with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Headed by a non-partisan committee representing various segments of society, the citizens group is in the process of developing state committees which will carry the fight inflation campaign into local communities. National chairman is Robert Lewis, president of Reader's Digest, and Henry H. Fowler, secretary of the Treasury in the Johnson administration, is vice chairman.

In his announcement of the plans for statewide organization Mr. Lewis explained that the citizens group recognizes that the public needs the opportunity to understand the issues involved in the country's economic problems, to voice their concerns and to support efforts to achieve economic stability and growth.

"We recognize that problems can be overcome and progress made only if citizen action is added to the directives and decisions of the executive and legislative branches of the federal government," he said.

He urged all Americans who are concerned about halting spiraling living costs, creating employment opportunities and helping make American goods and services competitive in world markets to join in with the efforts of the Citizens for a New Prosperity.

While state and county groups will encourage local support for the nation's new economic goals, the national headquarters in Washington will serve as a voice for the public with Congress and the administration. The group will welcome public comments and suggestions. The headquarters address is 1627 K Street, N. W. Washington, D. C. 20036.

Pam Ream honored

Lions hear program on weather Monday

The Ropes Lions Club met in regular session Monday evening in the school cafeteria.

Harold Frost, director of the Lubbock Weather Bureau, presented the program. His talk was most informative with information of how the weather develops and is forecast on the South Plains.

Pete Pettiet, chairman for the Ropes area in the United Fund drive, stated its intentions, and reminded members the goal is $750. Businesses will be solicited and for the first time, individual farmers will be contacted. Pete encouraged all Lions Club members to support this worthy cause.

Bonds total 71 % of goal

According to a report received from County Bond Chairman R. H. Munsterman, sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Hockley County during September totaled $5,602. Nine-month sales were $77,848 for 71 per cent of the 1971 goal of $110,000.

Sales in Texas during the month were $15,465,128 compared to $15,033,393 during September 1970. The January-September sales totaled $152,382,599 with 84 per cent of the 1971 goal of $181.9 million achieved.

Nationwide, purchases of Series E and H Savings Bonds totaled $415 million, 18 per cent above 1970 sales. The January-September sales were the best since 1952, totaling $4,174 million—19.2 per cent above a year earlier. Exchanges of Series E for Series H Bonds amounting to $197 million were reported for the first nine months of 1971—8 per cent above those exchanged in 1970.

COUNTRY STORE ACTIVITIES BUZZING

Planning activities for the Country Store are gaining in impetus daily. A half-dozen committees are working, and everybody is busy with one or more supporting projects.
A number of items have been contributed and others are coming in regularly. These include: a hog being made into country sausage and bacon, three mattresses, a deluxe model folding table for table tennis, more than a cord of firewood, decorative picket fence for a flower garden,
tricycles, beautiful Fall flower
and driftwood arrangements
and many home canned articles.

Many other items are promised and are being prepared.
They include sporting goods, furniture, books, Christmas decorations, hand tools, antiques, electric appliances,
quilt scraps, good clothing,
camping equipment and all kinds of home baked goodies.

The store will include a snack bar serving coffee and beverages along with home cooked donuts, pie, candy and cake, with lots of food to go.
The Country Store is a part of our Lord's Acre Program and proceeds from it will go into this fund. Donations of all kinds of salable items
are welcomed and appre-

To elect director

Hockley County cotton producers and agribusiness men will elect a businessman director and a producer director to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. at a 7 a.m. breakfast meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 10, at the Chat & Chew Restaurant, 411 College Ave., Levelland.

Announcement of the election comes from Bill Thompson of Shallowater, current Hockley County businessman director to the 25-county commodity organization. Each of the counties in PCG territory has two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer. They serve two-year terms, with businessmen normally elected on odd years and producers on even years. However, the death of producer director Chester Borders of Levelland makes it necessary for Hockley County to elect both directors this year.

All county farmers and businessmen are invited, and all are eligible to participate in the election, Thompson said.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Dalton spent Sunday in Tahoka visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor.
