Temporary organization was effected at an April meeting in Houston, and plans for the November meeting were laid at a steering committee assembly in Austin, August 18.

Farmers may find it just as difficult to obtain fertilizers and fuel during the coming year, according to Dr. Michael Sprott, economist in management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The tight supply-demand balance of certain nitrogen and phosphate fertilizers is the result of several factors. First is the release of 62 million acres that were set aside in 1972.

Another important influence is the strong foreign demand for fertilizer, making export prices much higher than domestic ceiling prices.

Devaluation of the dollar has further aggravated the situation, continues Sprott. Like other items in world trade, fertilizer prices currently may be discounted by as much as 20 percent where the price is quoted in dollars but payment is made in currencies whose values have risen in relation to the dollar.

The shortage of phosphate fertilizers should soon be eased by expansion of phosphoric acid production, but the outlook of nitrogen fertilizers is far less promising. The supply of ammonia, the source of most nitrogen fertilizers, depends on the availability of natural gas, its feedstock. With each natural gas curtailment faced by the ammonia producers meaning reduced production, the supply of nitrogen fertilizers could fall one million tons short of world demand in 1973-74, says the Texas A&M University System economist.

The immunizations offered will be polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus.

Records are not available on clinic day. You may come by the office Monday through Friday.

Farmers experienced a tight fuel situation during spring planting this year and expect a similar situation this fall. Although the diesel supply for fall appears adequate, gasoline stocks are low, notes Sprott.

For next spring, the gasoline and diesel situations appear mildly optimistic. Although farmers will be permitted to plant more acres, more fuel is being imported and allocated to distributors servicing farm accounts.

The big fuel concern is over the short supply of LP gas, says Sprott. A cold, wet fall and a harsh, early winter could keep farmers from obtaining enough propane for crop drying.

The Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, aided by energy staffs in many states, is emphasizing farmers' fuel needs to the Department of Interior, where the nation's petroleum fuel policies are made. The policy makers understand the peculiar seasonal needs of farmers and are committed to providing them with sufficient fuel in a timely manner to prevent crop losses, notes Sprott.

DEAR EDITOR

Ropes Needs Own Watergate Investigation

Dictatorship instead of democracy seems to be the fate of Ropesville in the form of the City Council who refuse to heed, or even listen to, the requests of 126 qualified voters in this small town.

Recently, when a citizen of the community allegedly failed to abide by the law, it was thought he should be allowed to go scott free. Between this, and other unlawful acts of so-called upstanding citizens and Christians, the Marshal deemed it best to resign his position when he received no backing.

Marshall O'Neal Fox has served the city of Ropes well for six or seven years. It is ironic that it is not the youths or teenagers who give him trouble, but adults who apparently have failed to grow up, or else think they are outside the limits of the law.

When he came to Ropes there were several elements which had driven other lawmen away. He stuck and cleaned up the town. No longer do beer and whiskey bottles line the streets and the porches of business places. Before he resigned the hot rodding was held to a minimum and Ropes was a quite, safe place to live.

When his resignation was made public many citizens were very upset. A petition was passed asking the city council to rehire Fox to his former position. This piece of paper speaks for 126 voters in the community.

When it was presented to the City Council October 9, they refused to recognize the voice of the people. Councilmen Wilburn Burks, Howard Johnson and Preston Reeves voted against even considering rehiring Marshall Fox and Billy Ray Martin and Tony Garcia voted in favor of reinstating him to his position. Mayor Boots Moore was not called upon to vote but indicated he is in favor of Marshall Fox.

Why should some think they should be allowed to break the laws? Because they, or their relatives, serve in governing positions? Why do some think they are immune to even traffic violations? Why do some people think their children can do no wrong?

We wonder, if their closets were checked, how many skeletons would rattle? It is amazing at the guise some people live under.

Gossip flows thickly enough here to be cut into cubes and freeze even the heartiest of persons. It has been proven many times that only one side of a story is placed for airing...the side, perhaps, that certain members of the City Council want to see?

Perhaps a little questioning is in order. Let's start a Ropesville Watergate where all the facts can be brought before the citizens.

Those who are interested in law and order and feeling safe and secure in their beds at night had better act now. First thing you know the federal government will be moving in.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

I don't know if Texas Tech fans even yet really appreciate the Red Raider defensive unit, but it is something else. It has made the difference in virtually every game Tech has won.

Saturday night was no exception. The Raiders really capitalized on the breakes, if you can call alertness in recovering a fumble and intercepted passes breaks. I prefer to call them defensive opportunities seized on by the defense through alert play.

At any rate, the defense turned the ball over to the offense with good field position several times. This is important and just as important as the offense staging a 70 or 80 yard march for a touchdown. The defense, possibly, is even more important than the offense.

The Aggies had momentum going for them when Tommy Cones intercepted. The Aggies also had field position. So, you have to say that it was the defense that won the game.

Now, a lot of people are complaining that Tech's offense is pretty sickly and, to a point, I'll agree. I'll agree if you mean that it doesn't slog downfield for 60 or 70 or even 80 yards.

But don't overlook the most important thing, the ability to capitalize when it is given the ball following a turnover. In many ways I'd rather see a touchdown scored following a turnover than one of those tedious marches. And Tech's offense has been capitalizing.

Jim Carlen was jovial after the game Saturday and had such a good time with the press that he stayed far longer than usual. In his conference with the writers, here's what he said.

"Willis probably is the best defensive player I have ever had. He's the most overlooked and underrated...we have a lot of improving to do. We can't stand four 15-yard penalties. We still need more consistency in the offense...I'd like a break in the schedule. We're beat up. I think, if you'll check, that we're the only team to play on 11 straight weekends.

"This team has a lot of character. They play together, they're proud of each other. They're like a family. And they don't think that anyone can beat them. I wouldn't swap Barnes for any other quarterback in the league.

"Over all, the offensive line was getting beaten (by A&M). About George Smith, he's been hurt, still is hurt. But he picks on the biggest player. He came off the field after hitting the biggest Aggie and said to me, 'I got that dude, Coach', and I replied 'Yeah, but you're the one who's limping!'".

As for Arizona this week, Carlen says that Arizona is well coached and has speed, the two things about the Wildcats that impress him most.

"They're offensive team is explosive, a lot like Houston," he said. "They have good kickers, good return men. They're secondary is good and they're booming Terrell for All American at linebacker.

"Arizona is big in the offensive line, bit in the defensive line. Will we be "up" for the game? We'll have to be up for each one of our 11 games."

Before the varsity plays, the freshmen will close out their season against Baylor here Thursday night. Carlen looks for the Cubs to be awfully tough. In addition to being pretty fair, Tech's lost a couple of studs to injuries and something like seven players are on the varsity squad.

Hope the freshmen can keep their string going. It's an achievement to win as many games—10—in succession as they have and there's nothing wrong with making it 11.

I was pulling so hard for Willie Mays Sunday and the aging, tired, injured super star came through with a clutch hit, the key hit as the Mets scored four runs to win that marathon second game.

It hurt to see Willie stumble on the basepaths, when he'd have been on third as a younger player. And the one great centerfielder fell down, too, and that hurt.

But, boy, that single made it all good!

I guess that the home run really has taken the inside out of the baseball game. For instance, the Mets had runners on first and third, no one out. Here's where I looked for the squeeze.

A squeeze scores one runner, probably moves the man on first to second, with one out. Then we swing away, right? Wrong. Two batters in succession try to murder the ball, become outs. And it's up to Mays. He succeeds, but what if he pops out? End of inning, end of game as it turned out.

It has started out as a rowdy world series with the umps apparently blowing a couple of calls and enough errors to make a Little League coach beam over his players.

Unless things change, this won't go down as the most exciting World Series ever played, but then, the Mets are in it, aren't they?

Finishing Touches Menswear

Accessories are fashion punctuation. They complete the fashion statement, coordinate ideas and accent important trends. Today more than ever, belts, jewelry and neckwear are making clear the message that the mood of the market is for understated elegance and a town-and-country look in fashion for the well-dressed man.

Belts—While the basic beltline is traditional, smooth and uncluttered, greater attention is given to detail and workmanship. The 1 3/4 inch width continues to be most popular for fall with the 1 1/2 inch width making headway. The skinny belt remains strong. Fabric belts are important for fall because of the high leather prices.

Jewelry—The identification bracelet is back in an updated style. Cuff links return with predictions of the return of French cuffs. Cuff link shapes are sharply geometric with straight and sleek lines. Sterling silver is often combined with other metals.

Neckwear—Butterfly bow-ties in plaids, paisleys and neat patterns provide updated neckwear fashion. Ties remain at the 4 1/4 inch width which are played up with textured surface interests on subdued dark grounds, particularly in tones of earthy rust, brown and burnt orange.

Shoes—The shoe for fall 1973 will be more streamlined and classic with less of a bulky look. Tans, browns and blacks in smooth leathers and suedes will be the fashion shoes; and the crepe sole returns in casual shoes. For the mature man, the heel will be only slightly higher than in past seasons, avoiding the exaggerated high heel that is in favor with the young.

Hosiery—with Gatsby's '73 comeback, fashion gets a chance to kick up its heels all over again. In hosiery, the Great American argyle leads the way, followed by houndstooth, pinchecks and plaids. Socks are going great lengths reaching right up to the knee. Fibers stress a feeling that is soft and elegant, in Orlon and Polyester blends, rich wools, and cashmeres.
