Ed Williams, retiring president of the Slaton Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce, was named this community's "outstanding citizen" for 1963 at the 38th annual banquet of the organization Monday night in the Junior High Cafeteria.

Sharing awards with Williams, before a crowd of approximately 200 diners including many out-of-town guests, were Mrs. Fred H. Schmidt, who was presented a plaque as Slaton's "woman of the year" and the Athenian Study Club, whose president, Mrs. Bob Kern, accepted the Distinguished Service award on the club's behalf.

The Distinguished Service Award is given at the banquet each year to the local organization which does "the most to serve" this community.

Youth Aid Cited

Dee Bowman, master of ceremonies, in presenting the Distinguished Service Award, cited the Athenian Study Club for "the great amount of good it has done for the youth of the area at tremendous cost when one considers the club's limited resources."

Alex Webb, last year's "outstanding citizen," made the plaque presentation to Williams. He told the crowd that the selection committee had a difficult task "but one man stood out." Webb cited Williams many other community contributions in time and leadership besides his fine direction of the Slaton Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. G. W. Privett presented the plaque to Mrs. Schmidt as "woman of the year" citing Willie Kate's many activities down through the years, particularly in support of the Slaton schools.

Mrs. Schmidt was described as "a ball of fire" in school activities when her own children were in school with that interest holding steady even today as a grandmother.

Williams earlier in the program before receiving his award summed up 1963 as "a good Chamber of Commerce year."

He introduced the organization's 15 directors and their wives and then installed the new 1964 officers: J. S. Edwards, Jr., re-elected as treasurer; Don Kendrick as vice president; and Doug Galassini, as the new president.

"A Wise Choice"

He termed Galassini, manager of the Southwestern Public Service Co. here, as "a wise choice" before turning over the gavel to him as "my last official duty."

Bowman introduced a long list of out-of-town guests to open the program.

Msgr. Peter Morsh, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, gave the invocation preceding the serving of the chicken fried steak dinner.

At the conclusion of the program, Bowman thanked the Slaton F. H. A. chapter for the attractive banquet decorations, which included a snow scene as a stage backdrop and the lettering of the banquet theme, Fantasy in Frost, on the far wall.

Directors of the Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce introduced were Wayne Banks, Earl Eblen, "Bud" Englund, Bob Graves, Jay Gray, W. A. Heinrich, Jim Hughes, Robert Huser, Don Kendrick, Bobby Poyner, Ells Schmidt, and Dr. Lee Vardy. The five retiring directors are Williams, the president, Huser, Poyner, Schmidt, and Dr. Vardy.

W. R. Lovett Rites To Be Held Here Today in Methodist Church

Funeral services for W. R. Lovett, 79, retired Santa Fe railroad engineer and long-time former Slaton resident, was scheduled to be held at 10 a. m. here today in the First Methodist Church with Rev. Rollo Davidson officiating.

Lovett died in the Heights Hospital at Houston at 7 a. m. Monday after suffering a sudden heart collapse. He had been in ill health for the last 10 years.

He came to Slaton in 1919 and lived here until the death of Mrs. Lovett three years ago. Since then he lived approximately 18 months with his son, Cecil R. Lovett of Carthage, Tex., and the last 18 months with one of his daughters, Mrs. W. N. Dabney of Houston.

Lovett retired from railroad service approximately 15 years ago. He was born Feb. 29, 1884, in Bucyrus, Kans.

Survivors, besides son and daughter mentioned above, and another daughter, Mrs. J. E. Lilley of Houston; two sisters, Mrs. P. H. Kimmell of Thornton, Ind., and Mrs. W. K. Heaton of Brighton, Colo.; eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Masonic graveside rites were scheduled in Englewood Cemetery following the funeral service. Williams Funeral Home are in charge of arrangements.

Irwin Reed and guest are invited to be guests of The Slatonite to see "Wives and Lovers" and "The Man with the X-Ray Eyes" showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Slaton and Caprock Theatres. Present this coupon (plus tax) for two tickets at the Slaton Theatre or Caprock Drive-in box office.

A former Slatonite, who well knows what he is talking about, came home Monday night to give his old hometown a four-point blueprint on how to succeed at the job of industrial development and to warn that "a city is like a tree—it either grows or it dies."

Bill R. Shelton, assistant executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission who spent his first six years of schooling in Slaton schools, returned as the featured speaker of the 38th annual banquet of the Slaton Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce.

His talk was packed with the kind of facts all small communities need to hear—and understand.

Optimistic Ending

He ended it on an optimistic note.

"What I would do, if I could," he said, "is convince the Texas people that their future is brighter than it has ever been in history."

"I would so inspire them that they would get so busy realizing the opportunities ahead that all of our economic problems could be overcome."

"Since the beginning of time, nature's inflexible law had been to 'adapt or die,'" Shelton said in closing. "Time, fate, science and technology has provided us with the necessary tools to adapt."

It used to be said that Texas could not industrialize because we lacked fuel. Then came oil which Texas has in abundance—about 45 per cent of the nation's supply.

It used to be said that Texas was handicapped by its hot and humid climate. Then came air conditioning which is now almost universal.

"It used to be said that Texas could not compete with the Midwest in the production of pork and fed cattle because it lacked corn. Then came Sorghum which is now grown by the thousands of tons.

"It used to be said that Texas did not have the financing to exploit its own resources. Texas today is becoming an exporter of capital."

"Note that these changes have come about in this century."

Tells How and Why

But Shelton's principal message was the how and the why of community industrial development.

"You as citizens and businessmen of Slaton should have interest in increased industrial activity in this community," the speaker said after examining briefly many of this nation's, this area's and this state's economic problems.

Terming the basic purpose for industrial development of a city is to lay the foundation for growth, Shelton said the answer to the question, why growth is a very simple one. It is "to survive."

"A city that stops growing begins immediately to regress. And there are some very important, very reasonable, and very understandable justifications for this statement."

Shelton declared a city must grow because its citizens save—and unless savings are put in use in some way, expenditures will not equal income and the level of the city's activity will decline. If savings occur in a city and the enterprises of the city do not use those savings locally, those savings gravitate outside the city and are employed elsewhere.

Depreciation Suffocates

The second reason you must grow, Shelton told Slatonites, is "because depreciation becomes a terrible suffocating burden if you don't grow."

"As a city grows," he explained, "it allocates a part of its activities to supporting growth. The construction trades and their allied industries are most notably engaged in this type of activity."

"If suddenly growth ceases, immediately something very important happens. The first thing is that all buildings which were built in anticipation of further growth now are adequate to supply for some time to come the anticipated building requirements. Promptly depreciation sets in. Not only physical, but investment depreciation too."

Cites Slaton's Growth

Shelton went on to point out when he was born here in 1930 Slaton had a population of 3,876. Today Slaton is listed by the Bureau of Census with a population of 6,750, nearly a 100 percent increase. However, he pointed out, "your business community has not grown in the same ratio. In 1930, Dunn and Bradstreet listed 145 rated firms in Slaton. Today they list 175, an increase of only 30."

The speaker said another reason industrial development is important to the community is that it adds assessed value to the tax rolls. "This is due," he said, "to the fact that industry pays a disproportionate share of the cost of public service and improvements."

He said the third reason industrial development is important is that it provides jobs for young people in the community. He pointed out the Texas Education Agency reports show that it costs $4,244 per pupil in Block to provide a youngster with a high school education. He said in the industrial commission "recently worked in a town that had a graduation class of 93, but that within a year 78 had left town to seek employment or go off to school. This was an investment of $402,000 lost to this town," he emphasized.

Finally, he declared, industrial development helps the morale of local citizens.

A town which has for many years not attracted a new enterprise finds itself wondering just what is wrong. The whole community may develop an inferiority complex. Businessmen in the community became reluctant to

Observations and Potpourri

Our Coice - Grow or Die

A man with a message — a message Slaton needs not only to hear but to follow — was the Chamber of Commerce speaker this week.

His talk on the how and why of industrial development for any Texas community was packed with solid facts plus a lot of years of know-how at the upper echelon in the mad scramble to add industry and payroll.

Bill Shelton pointed to no easy road for Slaton, or any other community which wants to take heed. He pushed aside all the willy-nilly which usually clouds the industrial development issue. Grow or die, he said.

Most of the industries which came to Texas last year were gobbled up by the big cities. The small towns got only a few. What's the use in a small town trying then, one might think. But that wasn't the point at all.

To win industry, any community must enter the arena of intense competition. It must be organized on a four-point front to win new industry.

What Bill Shelton may have left unsaid is simply that too many small towns lose the battle for industry because they are ill-prepared to compete with the major cities for new payroll.

Industry winning is a greater challenge to a small town — than to a city. But it is even more essential.

At a recent city official conference in Houston, it was pointed out that today's trend is away from the small town life to life in the cities. Until 1970, the trend is for the cities to grow larger, the small towns smaller.

Grow or die, Shelton said. This is all too true for the smaller community in Texas today, just as it is for the small towns the nation over.

To hold on, to keep what we have, and not to slip back is going to take an all out effort.

To grow in the face of this trend will be even more difficult. But any town which will face its problems squarely can solve them.

Bill Shelton offered Slaton that choice Monday night. He told us why it is necessary with plain, hard facts. But he showed the way with a four-point program of action.

What's left to us now is to get the ball rolling. We must continue to develop Slaton on all four industrial aiding fronts. Slaton got the message, all right, grow or die.

The Slatonite chooses growth, and all work that will go with it. We think all the citizens of Slaton do too.

Hates Hitler Philosophy

There has been much in the papers lately about lessening of hate. We have heard none from the far right, but the liberals and moderates have pledged not to hate so much. We are waiting with bated breath to hear such statements from General Edwin Walker, H. L. (Big Daddy) Hunt, Welch and others.

We have engaged in open debate with Birchers on various platforms without becoming insulting. We have asked from the audience in a church, if we were a communist, and we still tried to give a civil answer. Try it, this is hard to take from a 19-year-old Bircher who has never served his country a single day.

Pledges not to hate are always in order in a civilized world, but the most important pledges now are work — work as never before. We must give more of our time our talents, and our money in forming an organization which will meet opposing philosophies with weapons they understand.

This editor is willing at any time, before an audience, to debate with the Birchers. But suppose the Birchers don't want debate — what do you do then?

This is not an academic question. The Birchers were not debating with Adlai Stevenson. They were there, active, insulting, hitting, and spitting. The attitude of the police was one of satisfaction. The very look on the face of the police was — just try to stop them and you go to jail.

The police did act — only on the Birchers — only after the Birchers had hit and had spit. And there was still no action by the liberals in Dallas to avoid the next disaster.

The President was killed, and the liberals pledged not to hate so much! Even Ghandi would laugh at such meaningless pledges.

We, repeat, this is a time to spend of our time, our talents, and our money to convince the growing ignorance which is led by the greedy millionaires in an effort to preserve more and more of treasures while the crowds are fighting.

We hate the philisophy of Hitler wherever it is found, but we are always willing to debate, argue, attempt to persuade. And in defense of our ideas or friends, we will fight whenever necessary.

Penn Jones, Jr. in The Midlothian Mirror have urged the news media of that state (newspapers, television stations) to state each time a traffic accident whether the car was equipped with whether the victims used the seat belts, and whether prevented serious injury or possibly death. The news in Wisconsin now regularly ask police officers for this information. Our colleagues there feel this has helped the public.

The Committee on Transportation Safety of the Medical Association decided at its last meeting a similar procedure in Texas. Col. Homer Garrison of the Department of Public Safety approved such a principle, but with some reservations: "We only want from mentioning the belts under circumstances that were chiding an owner for negligence." The Council on Relations and Public Service of Texas Medical Association recently approved the plan. Colonel Garrison has his six regional commanders and his public information with this project, and is sure of their cooperation. The Medical Association's office will release news of all news media.

It will be up to the doctors all over Texas to see news media cooperate. It will take the monotonous one sentence, "This car was not equipped with seat belts to convince people that seat belts are not just a hardware item."

To stress sins of omission in matters of public safety, report new cases of polio with a statement such as, "has had neither Salk nor Sabin polio vaccines." If the parents persuade even only a few to protect themselves and their families, they are worthwhile.

— Heinrich Lamm, M. D., Harlingen, Chairman, Council on Transportation Safety.

Worth Repeating - "Seat Belts Saves Lives"

Seat Belts in automobiles are no longer news. Like the weather, they are easy to talk about, but for many people it seems hard to do anything about them.

Approximately 40,000 to 42,000 people die every year in traffic accidents in the United States. About one-third of them could be saved, and innumerable injuries could be avoided, if all people in automobiles would use belts always. While this ideal situation will never be reached, we who know about the usefulness of a health measure should keep urging the public to adopt it.

The Division on Safe Transportation of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin began to strive for a law which made the installation of seat belts compulsory in Wisconsin years ago. Finally the Wisconsin legislature passed such a law, the first in the nation. One can legislate installation of belts but not their use; thus one must persuade. Our Wisconsin colleagues

Crippled Boy Wins Sports Letters With Assist from March of Dimes

A boy who can scarcely walk because of arthritis wins a letter in athletics. Impossible, you say. Not if the lad has the grit of Tim Ewald.

Even though this 17-year-old from Minneapolis can barely "inch" along with the help of a cane, he wears the monogram of Golden Valley High school in both football and track.

How come? How is all this athletic activity possible when it takes this likable youngster as much as 15 minutes merely to tie his shoelaces?

You must look back seven years to find the answer. As the second-oldest of five sons, Tim, at the age of 10 could outrun all his brothers and even his parents, Graydon and Diane Ewald.

At touch football, no one could lay a hand on him. Tim dreamed of a high school and college career in football and track.

Then, at the age of 10, came disaster. One night the boy was struck by the indescribably severe pains of rheumatoid arthritis throughout his body. His temperature soared. For long months he had to be hospitalized in body casts and treated with cortisone.

To continue working in the field of sports, even though he can't join actively because of crippling rheumatoid arthritis, Tim Ewald, 17, hopes to become a sports cartoonist. Here he outlines caricature of a sports personality. His doctors at March of Dimes Arthritis Center say this is good therapy for his hands and wrists.

Aided by March of Dimes

Now, after seven years of the disease, Tim is slowly regaining some mobility—thanks in great part to physical therapy given him at the March of Dimes Arthritis Treatment Center in the University of Minnesota Medical School. This treatment is conscientiously repeated at home.

Much as the boy yearned to play, such strenuous sports as football and track were not for him. It was all he could do just to hobble from class to class.

But in his freshman year at high school he resolved to be as close to sports as his crippled condition permitted.

Tim made a private vow that he would become a team manager.

He made it in his freshman year as manager of the football squad. He made it again in his sophomore year. Last year, his third, he managed the track team. He won his letters in two sports.

Tim won't talk much about what his duties are. He's an excessively modest youngster but, even if it does embarrass the boy, his father says:

"I looked into this with some care because it would be dangerous for Tim to overdo. I found out that these managers aren't snap jobs given by the players to a classmate they feel sorry for. The work is tough—Tim goes along in the team bus to games all around the state, he checks equipment and keeps the players' records, he's a timekeeper, and so on. But he thrives on it—and it's far better therapy than gnawing his nails because of no contact with sports."

Even with his heavy schedule of classes, homework, team management, home exercises and weekly visits to the March of Dimes Arthritis Treatment Center, Tim finds time to draw, chiefly cartoons and caricatures for which he seems to have promising talent. He thinks that someday he might like to be a sports cartoonist.

Faces Surgery

Will he walk again normally? It's quite possible. This year, after graduation from high school, he may undergo hip surgery. Dr. Keith N. Drummond, assistant director of the March of Dimes center, explains that Tim's hips are now locked in a bent position caused by contraction of the tendons and muscles and by inflammation of the hip joints. Under favorable circumstances, surgery could release and lengthen these shortened tissues.

Whether crippled for life or on his feet again, which now seems likely, Tim is determined to continue working actively in sports. That's about all he'll say. But you know that this quiet and resolute youngster means it.

Among Other Matters

J. L. H.

This week nice guy nomination - it's a couple! Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hagerman. We are glad we know you Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman.

It was nice renewing an acquaintance last week with Marion Donaldson. We spent the usual number of minutes trying to remember each other. Marion and her family are again residing in Slaton. Welcome back Marion (Wilson) Donaldson.

Tiny, but so tall in the eyes of Slaton Monday night as always was Mrs. Fred H. Schmidt. Accepting the "Woman of the year" award at the 38th annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, Willie Kate was gracious and charming as she is at all times with everyone.

Mrs. Nora Kirk, Mrs. L. A. Reasoner and Mr. L. G. 'Shorty' Kirk all of Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kirk of Petersburg and Mrs. J. D. Edmonson of Lubbock attended the funeral of Mrs. Arcus E. Cunningham in Canyon on Monday of this week.

Mr. Doc McGuire is still confined to mercy hospital but is doing well. Mr. McGuire was injured in an auto accident recently.

Sometimes when our fellowman disappoints us we barely have time to blink back our tears before the kindness of another moves us again to tears. Thank you Jim and Helen Cornish.

A great deal of what we see still depends on what we are looking for.

CARD OF THANKS

The wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for their thoughtful deeds and for the wonderful food and beautiful flowers in the passing of our loved one. That God's richest blessing be with each of you is our humble prayer.

Mrs. N. E. Denton and Lynn. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Denton. Brothers and Sisters.

Wayland Baptist 13th Homecoming Dates Are Set

Suspicious or not, several hundred alumni of Wayland Baptist College here are expected to gather for 13th annual Homecoming festivities on Feb. 4-15, according to Dr. W. Neil Record, executive secretary of the Association of Former Students and assistant to the WBC president. High on the list of alumni attractions is the traditional selection of the Coming Home Queen to be chosen this year from the Honor Class of 1944. A drama production, basketball games, class reunions, and a baby parade are on the agenda. Additional events are also being planned. Special reunions for the classes of 1914, 1924, 1934, 1944 and 1954 are scheduled for the afternoon of Feb. 15 with a mass reunion also tentatively on the agenda, according to Dr. Record. The annual business session will be that afternoon also when officers are elected and plans formed for the new year. Current president is Vernon Stokes, Plainview. Members of the Board of Directors whose terms expire this year are Jack Jeter, Happy; Mrs. Lillian Shelton Harral, Abernathy; and George James, Plainview. Other Board members are Bill Webb, Borger; and Edna Windwehen Thomas, Plainview. The Coming Home Queen will be presented at the chapel program planned by the Association for Feb. 14 in Gates Hall Auditorium, and also at the annual Homecoming dinner for sexes following day. The annual parade of Future Pioneers, all under five years of age, will be followed by a barbecue on Feb. 15. To lead off the weekend's activities will be production of "The accidents should be re-inspected after repairs have been made." "Some 5,000 official inspection stations over the state are waiting to inspect the four million vehicles which have to be inspected by April 15," the DPS director said. "There can be no extension of time and after the deadline date of April 15, vehicle which come under the provisions of the Inspection Act which do not display the 1964 inspection sticker will be operating in violation of the law."

Deadline Set For Inspection

The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, Col. Homer Garrison Jr., today reminded Texas vehicle owners that the 1964 vehicle inspection deadline will be upon them. He reported that some 60 per cent of the allotted inspection period has elapsed and only 20 per cent of the vehicles have been inspected. "If this trend continues, vehicle owners can expect to have to wait in line in order to get their vehicles inspected by the April 15 deadline," he said. Garrison pointed out that Texas experienced its worst traffic fatality record in 1963 and vehicle defects were involved in some of these fatal accidents. He urged all Texans to begin the new year with safe vehicles and to keep them safe throughout the year. He added that vehicles involved in traffic

Evening Classes To Be Offered At Wayland For Elementary Teachers

Readiness to read usually does not come naturally to a youngster but a well trained teacher can help a child enjoy contact with the written word, believes James T. Wright, assistant professor of education at Wayland Baptist College.

To help provide lines for teachers, he will teach an evening class an "Reading and the Language Arts in Elementary School," Education 383, from 6:30-9:30 p. m. each Tuesday during the spring semester. Classes will be in special new facilities in Room 205 of the Home Life Building.

This is one of six evening courses being offered by Wayland for the convenience of Plainview area residents, according to Dean Robert G. Collmer. Other courses are "Audio-Visual Education," 333, taught by Kenneth P. Theda, instructor in education and psychology, from 6:30-9:30 each Monday in Room 205, Home Life Building; "Phonetic of French," French 303, taught by Dr. Vivian Mercer Gruber, head of the modern language laboratory in Gates Hall; "Intermediate German," German 223, taught by Friedrich Horlacher, instructor in modern language from Germany, from 6:30-9:30 p. m. each Monday in Room 203 of Gates; "Rise and Fall of Nazi Germany," History 493, taught by Dr. Jerry Dawson, head of the history department, from 7-10 p. m. each Thursday in Room 219 of Gates; and "Spanish Conversation," Spanish 212, taught by Julio Fidalgo, visiting teacher from Monterrey, Mexico, from 7-9 p. m. each Tuesday in Room 204 of Gates.

Registration for evening classes will begin the week of Feb. 1 at the hour and place of class meetings. Courses may be taken for credit or non-credit.

Basing his teaching on his own experiences as an elementary school teacher, as well as on extensive study, Wright will present material acquainting students with many different concepts so that future teachers can develop a philosophy to guide them in building an effective reading program which can be adapted to needs of their students. Methods of teaching penmanship, grammar and oral communication will be included in the course.

Some of the methods which Wright will present as help in teaching reading are phonics, context clues and structural analysis.

Work in the library will be encouraged in order to show students how they as teachers can add to a good reading program, he says. "Modern elementary schools have found that a well supplied library is central in helping students enjoy reading," he believes. Criteria for selection of material for a grade school reading program will also be discussed as well as criteria for grouping children according to reading ability and for recognizing cases where individual help is necessary.

Some curriculum materials for primary grades will be used in addition to the next "Principles and Practices of Teaching Reading," by Arthur W. Heilman.

Wright is a graduate of Ouachita Baptist College and the University of Arkansas where he earned his M. Ed. degree and is working toward the D. Ed. degree. In addition to seven years experience as a grade school teacher, he has had five years experience as a high school teacher.

expand their own activities and to invest in new ventures. The entire community suffers from poor morale.

Then "The How"
From the why of industrial development, Shelton then turned to the meat of the nut — how. To promote industrial development, Shelton declared a community must organize itself in four areas.

First, it must have a community development program to make the community a better place to which to live. Other things being equal industry will simply choose the "best town" he said, in which to operate. He cited an example to how the wife of a president of one firm seeking an industrial location in Texas made the final choice after the selection was narrowed to 4, simply because one town took enough pride to keep its lawns green during drought years. The others had not.

Second, a town must have "some knowledge about what you have to attract industry. "Know your pluses and your minuses," Shelton declared. "Industry wants the facts about you."

Financing Needed
Third, you need some type of financing.

He pointed out that both New Mexico and Oklahoma, two neighboring rivals for industry that Texas wants, have state programs permitting towns to vote bond issues for industrial financing, while Texas does not. He said the Texas answer may come from one or two sources — certain persons with money in the community who will help finance industry, or industrial foundations.

Shelton said there are 182 industrial foundations in Texas today. He defined an industrial foundation as a non-profit organization which is a community bank for industrial development in which local businessmen together put up the money.

Fourth, he said, you have "to promote."

"I challenge you," he said, "to walk into any industrial organized community and you'll find citizens sold on their town."

Word Of Warning
"You must have all four working for you. One or two is not enough."

in city industrial development as Texas' one hope for future growth, Shelton pointed out that the state's agricultural rate of growth is not large, and that "our oil industry does not show any real growth potential for the future either."

Shelton was introduced by Dee Bowman, master of ceremonies.

It was a "hard sell talk." Shelton obviously didn't come to entertain with jokes. He had a message he has been trying to sell all of Texas.

Monday night, he gave that message to "the folks that care" in his former hometown.

Assistant Fire Chief Pete Williams conducted the business session Monday night at the Slaton Volunteer Fire Department's bi-monthly meeting.

A letter of appreciation was sent to the Centurette Study Club for their donation of the Porta-Power unit recently given to the Department for installation in the Rescue Unit. Also, with the Centurrettes' work for the March of Dime drive, a donation of $10.00 was forwarded for this cause.

All members of the department are now subscribers to the Firemen's Retirement Fund. In a previous meeting it was decided that the department make the payments for the individual members and thus enroll the entire membership in the plan.

A donation was received by Allen Wallace for a run made on December 26 when the well house on his ranch caught fire and was severely damaged. Another donation was also received from Mr. F. A. Strube for services rendered when a trailer load of cotton was destroyed.

Breakfast will be served Wednesday morning at the Fire Station to the firemen. This is a regularly planned occasion and enjoyed by all.

Fires for the past week are as follows:

"When moisture is properly controlled in ginning, then the use of lint cleaners and driers not only does not damage cotton fiber, but actually allows the farmer to get the highest value for his cotton," according to a summary report on three years of ginning research on High Plains cotton soon to be released.

The report on this practical research, co-authored by Bill Crumley, Associate Director of the Textile Research Laboratories at Texas Tech, and Executive Vice-President of Plains Pfeifferberfer, is based on tests conducted jointly by Plains Cotton Growers, Texas Tech, Lockett Enterprises and Cotton Research Committee of Texas. The research, all done under commercial conditions as nearly as possible, was done specifically to determine the effects of certain commercial ginning treatments on grade, staple, price, bale values, fiber properties and spinning performance of High Plains cotton. Cotton used was from the 1960-61, 1961-62 and 1962-63 crops, using a single variety ginned at the same commercial gin using the same equipment each year.

Plains Cotton Growers will send a copy of the full report to all of its member gins as soon as it is available, and others may obtain copies from PCG or the Textile Research Laboratories at Texas Tech.

WAKE UP YOUNGER!

with Helen Alpert

paying families don't see much need for a family lawyer.

Often only under prodding, one may have his lawyer prepare a will.

But can you tell a big legal risk from a small one? Can you spot the signs of legal trouble? Check with your family lawyer when:

1. Your status changes: upon coming of age, marriage, the birth of your children, buying a house, divorce or death. For you may then need to draft or revise your will, change your insurance, or re-figure your taxes.

2. You buy or sell. Look out for flaws in the paper before you go into debt, part with money, or sign anything involving big expenditures or long-term obligations.

3. You enter into other contracts. Promises, spoken or written, bind you if they call for a "consideration," something of value in return.

4. Someone threatens your rights. The law exists to defend them but with some rights you must take action yourself for them to work for you.

When you can bring your lawyer "live" facts (e. g. unsigned contracts, vexing tax returns you haven't filed), he can do much more for you, and at a smaller cost than when you bring him "cold" facts (mistakes you have made which threaten trouble).

But above all, get both live and cold facts to him at once. For time may run out in many such situations. Your lawyer may be able to do something for you today, which he cannot do tomorrow.

Tell your lawyer what you want. Tell him all the facts, good or bad, and then keep him informed all along. He is sworn to keep what you tell in confidence, and he cannot serve you without full knowledge.

ENGLISH LAWYERS

Even though the American Revolution ended the dominion of the English king over the colonies, the common law of England as a tie with the mother country remained. It has stood as the common heritage of a sister people and has served as the fountainhead of American legal thought. However, in the years that have passed since the Revolution, the legal professions of Britain and America have proceeded along separate lines of development.

In the English legal profession lawyers are split into two classes. They are called solicitors and barristers. Broadly speaking, solicitors deal directly with clients and prepare cases. Barristers conduct cases before the courts. The closest analogy that can be drawn to the American profession is the practice that has grown up in some of the large firms of having office lawyers and trial lawyers. Actually, there is more difference. In the United States, when a lawyer is admitted to the bar of a particular state, he becomes a combination barrister and solicitor.

The profession of law in England came into being between the Eleventh and Thirteenth Centuries. During the earlier portion of this period, it was customary for a litigant to bring a friend to help him in his law suit. By the end of the Twelfth Century the common law had become so complicated that friend gave way to a professional called a narrator. This narrator was the ancestor of the present day English barrister.

Toward the last part of the Thirteenth Century, a second class of professionals emerged. Many litigants, who were large landowners, found it difficult to make a personal appearance in court to assist with the case. In lieu of their presence, they sent an agent or "attorney" who was the forerunner of the English solicitor of today.

Thus, the distinction between the attorney or solicitor, and the barrister or narrator. As written pleadings became the vogue, it was the attorney or solicitor who saw the client, elicited the facts and prepared the necessary papers. The barrister then argued the case in court.

The American profession has not followed the English system since the frontier atmosphere and experimentation with new government and new laws did not lend itself to the divided English method of handling legal matters.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

OUR FEET
Helen, My 3 girl-friends

Helen, I'm in poor health and 9 miles from the nearest hospital. To get to the bus-stop to find a ride first niles. Near here there's a nursing home, but the charge has been up for 8 months, and I'm still here. I hoped there was a clinic in it I can't sit. I live alone on a small farm.
What do I do? Doctors cost too much.

SICK FARMER.
I'm hoping to get help from a clinic in an invisible home. Bum a ride to the hospital. Bring with you on Social Security. You've been wise in getting hospitalization insurance at the hos-get home later!

reported her all these years I'm an executive with a wife, daughter and a small but ultra apartment. Mother's decision not to live with us was a relief, but we are deeply concerned because she goes nowhere, is becoming reclusive. We are her only visitors. How can we stop the destruction settling upon her?

SON WILLIAM

Your letter is a twin to a recent appeal from the Postmaster of a large city. Like him, your indication of being "her only visitor" suggests you fail to take her anywhere? Make it a generous point to attend church with her, go to some civic meetings here and there, help unroll interesting activities for her. Give her a chit to pay cab fares until she finds companion—and count on the Irish, she will! As for the Postmaster's Mother, she's now so busy and independent they have to make a date with her a week in advance, to squeeze in a visit with her!

WRONG HOUSE IN

Dear Helen, help. I bought an unfurnished house in a community only a few years old. Probably my final home. I am over 70 and alone. I have every trouble with the house. The plumbing and water-pump don't work and the building company won't fix it. The new furniture is so junky it falls apart, and the refrigerator is not what I ordered. I am so disgusted. By the time I turned around I spent $3,000 more, cash. I'm not even sure I have a clear title to the house and land. Should I get a lawyer?

GYPPED

Get a lawyer at once! This letter is printed because it again puts the spotlight on the warning to beware of a new community until you've scrutinized it for honesty to its residents and home-owners. An attorney will now have to bail you out, my friend! NEED HELP ON A PROBLEM? Write to Helen Alpert, National Senior Center, Lehigh Acres, Florida, or in care of this newspaper. Write today for the free list of the many booklets and services available to you, compliments of this column.

AND Sidelights
By Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — With less formality than he would display in warning his wife he was inviting guests to dinner at the Mansion, Gov. John Connally "announced" he is running for a second term.

Actually the announcement was no great surprise, although rumors continued that he was going to go to Washington, retire, or run for the Senate. But the informality of it did leave some reporters wondering if they heard him right.

"When are you going to announce?" a newsman asked at the start of Connally's first press conference since he was wounded by the same assassin who killed President Kennedy.

"What's wrong with right now?" the Governor shot back.

"Well, are you announcing now?" stammered another reporter.

"Good a time as any," shrugged the Governor nonchalantly. "I have no prepared statement, but I'll announce right now for reelection as Governor."

And that's the way it happened! Before the conference was over, a half-hour later, Connally also:

Predicted the Democratic national ticket, which he expects will be headed by his old friend President Lyndon Johnson, will beat the Republicans in Texas by a 60-40 margin.

Said he still sees no need for a special legislative session on congressional redistricting unless the Supreme Court unexpectedly acts early to uphold a lower court decision on "at-large" (statewide) elections for congressmen.

Declined to be drawn into U. S. Senate race controversy and efforts to find an opponent for Sen. Ralph Yarborough, but indicated waves of harmony engulfing President Johnson and Yarborough do not necessarily include him. Said Connally: "My thoughts are my own." He is recovering his strength, has regained lost weight, has given up smoking, and has a collection of tailored slings for his shattered right arm — including a grey herringbone sling, a blue serge, a red velvet one for sport, and a black formal with a silk "lapel" and covered buckle in the back, all from a lady in Kentucky.

APPOINTMENTS MADE — Sherman Birdwell Jr., Austin funeral home operator, was Governor Connally's choice as employer representative on the Texas Employment Commission. Birdwell succeeds Jake Pickle who was elected to Congress from the 10th District last month.

Birdwell topped a long list of new appointments.

Connally renamed Paul Fulk of Wolfe City and A. G. Thompson of Hamilton to the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Fulk is a past president of the Texas Press Association and owner of the Texas Sun. Thompson is a businessman-rancher.

To the Nueces River Conservation and Reclamation District he named: Ramiro R. Ramirez, Alice banker; Ben M. Silva, Carrizo Springs rancher; J. Bernard Vine, Dilley businessman; Fred Meyer, Devine farmer; Melvin Roland, Ewald businessman; Harry Schulz, Three Rivers attorney; and LeRay Smith, San Antonio insurance man.

Appointed to the Historical Survey Committee were Will Davis, Austin attorney; Mrs. Dan Lester, Jefferson civic leader; and Charles R. Woodburn, Amarillo businessman.

Connally appointed Judge Wendell Odum to the Harris County Criminal District Court No. 2; William M. Hatten to Harris County Court of Domestic Relations No. 2; and George E. Cize to the new 165 District Court of Harris County. Appointment dates are effective April 15 for Odum and Hatten and June 1 for Cize.

THE COURTS SPEAKS — The Supreme Court has held that Judge J. H. Starley is fully eligible to preside over trial of an eight-year-old suit to determine Rio Grande Water rights over a vast area in Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron and Willacy counties.

Property ownership in the area by Mrs. Starley's uncle and aunt do not disqualify the judge, the high court concluded in directing that the trial proceed.

A suit to halt shell dredging near live oyster reefs in Galveston to Trinity Bay has been transferred from Houston to Austin and is slated to be heard in 126th District Court here January 28.

Attorneys for small-tract oilmen urged the Supreme Court to alter its 1961 Normanna decision bearing on oilfield allocation formulas. The landmark decision of a couple of years ago threw out favorable oil and gas production formulas for the small producers. Small tract men claim the decision will overturn formulas in 300 Texas gas fields and 2,000 oil fields . . . and definitely will hurt their interests.

CURB TEENAGE SMOKING — The State Health Department has a word of advice to teenage smokers: "Be smart — Don't start."

Dr. J. E. Peavy, Texas health commissioner who recently gave up cigarettes himself, says the department will put up anti-smoking exhibits at junior and senior high schools in the 10 largest cities of the State. The plan preceded release of a national fact-finding committee report on dangers of smoking.

COOPERATIVE COLLEGES URGED — The Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School may recommend a plan of coordinating college facilities in big cities.

Under the proposal, both private and state colleges in such areas as Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, and San Antonio-Austin would develop closely coordinated "megapolitan" education programs to make it possible for strength of each institution to be best used in giving students a finished education. Such an education, said sub-committee spokesman John Gray of Beaumont, would be too costly for a single institution to produce.

JUNIOR COLLEGE STUDY AIDED — Texas Research League told Texas Education Agency its colleges and vocational rehabilitation program are doing fine. But more legislation is needed to help both.

The agency gave its approval to a pilot program in six local areas to determine how to prevent school dropouts.

A Research League representative said the vocational rehab program last year got 3,566 disabled Texans work at a cost of $3,500,000. He recommended more money for the program and better public acceptance.

League Research Director James W. McCraw said State support should be equal for junior colleges regardless of their size. He recommended also that State aid be available for technical and vocational courses, that dormitories be banned at junior colleges without State Board of Education consent, and that the colleges be allowed more freedom in setting tuition rates.

GAS RATE APPEAL HEARING SET — The Railroad Commission has set a hearing January 21 to hear the appeal of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company over refusal of several Northeast Texas towns to grant it a rate raise. Towns include: Atlanta, Bloomberg, Gilmer, Naples, New Boston, Omaha, Ore City, and Queen City.

JUNIOR COLLEGES — Many people interested in state government and education are saying we need more junior colleges in Texas.

The National Educational Association has said the country should add the first two college years to the present system of free public education.

Texas Research League has advised the State Board of Education that there are at least 17 counties in Texas which could qualify for new junior colleges: Angelina, Brazos, Dallas, Denton, El Paso, Hale Hidalgo, (when Pan American becomes a four-year State College), Jefferson, Jim Wells, Lubbock, McLennan, Tarrant, Taylor, Wichita, Tom Green (when San Angelo College joins the State system), Orange and Midland.

In Travis, Grayson, Liberty and other counties, junior colleges already have been authorized but local taxpayers haven't yet supplied the financing.

Other counties might join together and qualify for a junior college, if suggestions of the Research League are passed into law.

TEXAS AGRICULTURE — Lt. Governor Preston Smith, speaking to the State Association of Young Farmers in Austin, said the agriculture in Texas will continue to progress despite population shifts and changes in land use.

Smith said there are 224,000 farms in Texas today, with total value exceeding $14,500,000,000; that $2,500,000,000 worth of farm products were marketed in Texas last year; and that another $2,000,000,000 in farm machinery, seed, fertilizer, and other farming necessities were sold in Texas.

SCREW WORM COUNT ZERO — Texas stockmen did not report a single case of screw worms from Dec. 20 through the first week in January, according to Dr. R. C. Garrett of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

D. Garrett said the 17-day stretch without a case reported was a record breaker, and recalled that 157 cases were reported in Texas last January. At the same time, he urged stockmen to inspect their animals carefully to make sure the screw worm doesn't get a new start. SHORT SNORTS — State's general revenue fund shows a $23,800,000 deficit at the end of December. Total cash in all State funds was $235,300,000 . . . House Speaker Byron Tunnell of Tyler announced for re-election to his House seat . . . George W. Busby, chief of the inspection

Mother's wearing her smart new hat, Susan's curls are brushed till they shine, and Dad's looking pretty sharp, himself, in that pale gray suit.

If the Browns look like a family starting out on a pleasure ride — well, that's exactly what they're about to do. They're going to church.

The Browns are regular churchgoers. But this is their secret. They go to church not only because they feel they should, but because they want to. Church, for them, is one of the most joyous occasions of the week.

No one ever said that going to church had to be a glum, long-faced affair. Going to church isn't a duty. It's a privilege.

Make church your destination this Sunday. And go joyfully.
