Textile Plant In Area Claimed Feasible

LUBBOCK--The establishment of a cotton textile plant in the Texas High Plains area is feasible and the prospects for it to be a profitable enterprise are good.

Some 60 persons concerned with the production and utilization of cotton heard highlights of a joint study made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and two national consulting organizations to determine the feasibility of such a plant.

The report was delivered to educators, researchers, producers, processors, and industrial leaders as they met in the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University last Thursday.

This study was undertaken at the request of the Texas Industrial Commission, the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Committee of Texas, many local residents and interests, including the Textile Research Center; and Roy B. Davis widely known leader in the High Plains cotton industry who has been associated with the research center in recent months.

The report indicated more than sufficient markets for cotton denims, cotton denim blends, cotton twill blends and cotton twills to support a $15 million plant employing some 400 persons.

(On July 10, members of Slaton City Commission, Chamber of Commerce board, and the Industrial Foundation met to discuss the possibility of attracting a $22 million textile plant to Slaton.

Lucrative financial inducements had been offered by Louisiana interests to the Japanese company considering location of such a plant in the United States, but Slaton still is believed to have an outside chance for this industry. A meeting of the Japanese officials with members of the Texas Industrial Commission is scheduled this month.

The Texas Water Development Board has assured that sufficient water exists in the Lubbock area for such a plant. Success of the plant would require experienced management and competitively priced water, electricity, fuels and supporting services. The survey indicated all are available.

Dr. J. E. Simpson, director of the USDA's Agri-business Program, which sponsored and directed the investigations, said that the two national consulting firms had made the investigation under contract with funds supplied by the USDA rural development program.

Per-Acre Output Must Be Maximum, Cotton Growers Told In Lubbock

LUBBOCK--Cotton growers have an unusual opportunity to make market gains, but they must squeeze every possible bale out of the acres now growing.

This fact was stressed at a meeting sponsored here today by the National Cotton Council in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, state Extension services, and the American Petroleum Institute.

Connell Echols, Lamesa, vice chairman of the Council's Producer Steering Committee, presided.

Describing the current cotton supply situation, Dabney Wellford, assistant to the Council's executive vice president, said that for a number of years, man-made fibers have taken advantage of cotton's uncertain supply to push their products into cotton's markets.

He added that inadequate plant capacity and the energy shortage have made the man-made fiber supply situation uncertain. For the first time, cotton has the opportunity to turn the tables.

Export demand also is strong, Wellford explained. Reasons for this include short crops in foreign countries, shifting from cotton to other crops in certain countries, tightness of man-made fiber supply abroad, and devaluation of the dollar.

"To take advantage of these opportunities, every possible bale the farmer can show a profit on needs to be squeezed

July Rains Are Good For Crops

After a long period of relative dryness followed the wet winter, the Slaton area had good rains during the month of July, with a total of 3.45 inches recorded in the city itself.

On Monday night, or early Tuesday, .20 of an inch was measured, following another .20 of an inch over the weekend.

The rains were heavier in many areas near the city, and were reported as beneficial to the crop prospects. Cotton was looking good in the area this week.

Slaton Men On Outstanding List

Wayne Edwards and Edwin Knight, both of Slaton, have been named to the Outstanding Young Men of America List for 1973, according to Doug Blankenship, chairman of the board of advisors for the national awards publication. In its ninth year, the awards are sponsored by leading men's civic, service and professional organizations.

The awards volume features the accomplishments of approximately 7,000 young men of exceptional abilities and achievements from across the country. Edwards, owner of Edwards Insurance Agency in Slaton, is a member of the Slaton Lions Club, and has been chairman of the city-wide July 4 Celebration for the past two years. Knight, also a member of the Lions Club, is business manager for the Slaton Independent School District. He is a member of First Baptist Church, is married and has one daughter. Edwards is married and has two daughters.

Nominations for the awards were made through the chamber of commerce office, and each was cited for service to others, professional excellence, business advancement, charitable activities and civic and professional recognition. The young men chosen for this distinction are between the ages of 21 and 35. The publication is scheduled to be released in October.

Bristow To Lead Wilson Baptist Revival Services

Evangelist Wayne Bristow of Lubbock will lead the First Baptist Church of Wilson in revival services August 5-12. At age 36, Bristow is a veteran of more than 300 evangelistic crusades throughout the world. He recently participated in a nation-wide crusade in Uganda, East Africa.

Felix E. Snipes of Atlanta, Ga., will be the music director and soloist for the services. Snipes is beginning his 12th year in full time evangelistic music. Almost eight of those years he spent as music and platform director for Dr. John Haggal and Evangelism International.

Services are scheduled daily at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. The Sunday services will be at the regular times. Nursery facilities will be provided for those with small children, according to the pastor, Rev. E. K. Shepherd.

Rev. Shepherd said, "We cordially invite people of all faiths and those of no particular faith to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to hear the inspiring messages and thrilling music by these two men of international reputation."

Owners Urged To Keep Bikes In Safe Place

Owners of bicycles in Slaton were urged this week to take special precautions to keep their bikes in a safe place, as the epidemic of 10-speed bicycle thefts continued in the city.

Police Chief Fred Clark said he would encourage all owners of bicycles, especially the 10-speeds, to put them up at night, and also to record the serial numbers. He said that anyone wishing to record the serial number with the police department may do so by calling the department, 828-6212. "We're keeping a list of serial numbers on file here," he explained.

Three more 10-speed bikes were reported stolen here during the last week, and one of them was recovered after Chief Clark spotted it being ridden by a youth. This one was listed as stolen from 505 W. Crosby, the residence of Mrs. Charles Meeks, who valued the bike at $115. Mrs. Jim Sadler reported that another bike, valued at $109, was stolen from the same address at the same time, but it has not been recovered. It is a Sears 10-speed.

Lindol Beard, 1155 W. Crosby, reported theft of a 10-speed Schwinn bicycle from his residence on Sunday.

On Saturday night, two men were treated for gunshot wounds at Morcy Hospital, then transferred to a hospital in Lubbock. Shot in one arm and one hand was Tommy Garcia, 18, of 550 S. 14th, and shot in the shoulder was Ubaldo Garcia, 23, of Temple. They told police that six men in a 1955 auto pulled up beside them at 5th and Murray and challenged them to a race. When they declined to race, the driver of the other car opened fire, they told officers. Investigation of the incident was continuing.

On Tuesday in the 100-block of W. Garza, a 1970 auto driven by Pauline Ford Rodgers of Levelland was involved in a collision with a 1969 pickup driven by Raymond Frank Gentry, Rt. 1, Slaton, with total damage estimated at $50.

On Monday morning in the 100-block of S. 8th St., a 1970 car driven by Freda Pettit of Hale Center and 1972 auto driven by Joseph Allen Miles, 625 S. 11th St., collided.

A telephone pole was shattered and damage to the car was heavy as a 1965 auto driven by Julia Beatrice Whaley of Rt. 1, Slaton, overturned and hit the pole in the 1400-block of W. Division near the Handy Hut Thursday night.

Motorists here were advised that speed limit on north 20th St., from Dickens to FM 400, has been designated at 45 miles per hour, from a previous designation of 35, which remains the speed limit on 20th from Dickens south to Division.

Do you smoke in bed? If so, and if not so, there is a new safety item for you. The flame resistant mattress and pads are adding to sleep safety, along with flame-retardant night clothes. All such items manufactured after June 21 of this year must either meet the flame-resistant standard, or be prominently labeled that they did not pass the test. We all have long been aware of deaths and injuries caused by fabric ignition, and the new regulations are preventive medicine for those most likely to be the victims of burns. This is mainly children under six years old. Between 3,000 and 5,000 deaths per year are caused when clothing is ignited, and directly related financial losses exceed a quarter-billion dollars.

Have you taken your vacation yet? The old thing about "getting away from it all" is a good one, according to some folks who must know. They suggest that you take a vacation that is as different from your every day life as possible. If you work alone, plan your vacation among other people. If you work with people, plan it alone, or just with the family. If you live in the country, go to the city while city-dwellers come out to look at the "wide open spaces". If you punch a time clock in your regular day, try to see that there is no clock or watch available for you vacation.

You can retreat from work and give tense muscles and irritated nerves a chance to settle down. If you decide on double-pay instead of a vacation, you are not only cheating yourself, but your employer also. The vacation skipper is more likely to make errors, feel put-upon and self righteous. He may become irritable with co-workers, and resentful of those who do take a vacation. Productivity isn't always measured by hours on the job. So, take your vacation!

Texas Cotton May Benefit From New Yarn Process

Twistless yarn, the product of a new yarn making technique that bonds the fibers together with a water soluble adhesive, rather than by twisting in the conventional spinning process, is soon to be produced in the Textile Research Center (TRC) at Texas Tech University.

The research project is designed to determine how Texas natural fibers respond to the "twistless" process.

The twistless process was developed in Holland and an international patent and licensing authority is now owned by a group of Dutch textile interests.

The work at TRC will be under the direction of A. A. "Tony" Ball, head of the Structures Laboratory. Ball is now at the manufacturer's plant in Holland gaining expertise in processing techniques and operation of the new equipment.

Texas cotton was shipped to the plant earlier so that it would be available for Ball's use. The research now being initiated by Ball in Europe will be continued at the Textile Research Center upon his return to Lubbock.

Paul Cook, TIGOT president, stated, "The advent of twistless yarn has taught us that fabric strength is not directly correlated to yarn strength. After the twistless yarn has been woven or knitted into cloth, it is washed and the water soluble adhesive used to bond the fibers in the yarn stage is removed. It is the individual fibers that are woven or knitted together, rather than the yarn. In strength tests that have been conducted comparing average fabrics made from the two different types of yarn, the fabric made from twistless yarn has always proved to be as strong, or stronger, than its spun yarn counterpart."

"A big advantage of twistless yarn is that it can be made up to 50 times faster than ring spun yarn and in a range of yarn counts from 8 to 225. The fibers in fabrics woven from twistless yarn lay more parallel and take on a sheen similar to finished poplin. Also, with fibers free to react individually, instead of a twisted mass, the fabrics are very wrinkle resistant and carefree naturally," Cook said.

James S. Parker, TRC director, added "Twistless yarn may well prove to be one of the most significant breakthroughs yet for Texas type cottons. Staple length and micronaire may be of little importance in this yarn making process. In fact, it could well be that low micronaire cottons have certain inherent advantages."

BINGO WINNER -- Bill DeWees was named three-month winner in the Nursing Home Auxiliary-sponsored bingo contest at Slaton Nursing Home.

In Deut. 8:2-3--"Do you remember how the Lord led you through the wilderness for all those forty years, humbling you and testing you to find out how you would respond, and whether or not you would really obey him? Yes, he humbled you by letting you go hungry and then feeding you with manna, a food previously unknown to both you and your ancestors. He did it to help you realize that food isn't everything, and that real life comes by obeying every command of God."

Do you like to walk through your "wildernesses" and do you like to be hungry (for food, or perhaps for companionship, or love and understanding)?

The Bible shows that God permits these things to happen, just to see how we respond. And the Bible also promises that He has provided for us in advance if we love Him and trust Him through it all. Praise the Lord!

shown us by Jesus, who, though he was God, did not demand and cling to his rights as God, but laid aside his mighty power and glory, taking the disguise of a slave...And he humbled himself even further, going so far as actually to die a criminal's death on a cross. Yet it was because of this that God raised him up to the heights of heaven and gave him a name which is above every other name, that at the name of Jesus every knee shall bow...and every tongue shall confess that Jesus is Lord." (Phil. 2:3-11.)

There are 80 many scriptures telling us how to be humble. And we are fully aware in our minds that this is true. But to get right down to living it, it's quite a different matter sometimes.

It's even easy sometimes to be humble and courteous to our close friends, but a different matter within our family. Your friends may believe you to be humble, but does your husband or children know that you're humble?

We can look at Jesus as the supreme example of humility. He could have become proud and haughty because he was the Son of God, the highest honor of all. (However, he did not stoop to this, because if he had, he would have been following the devil rather than God.)

When we think of someone important (in the world's eyes) we feel that they are so high above us that they wouldn't even want to speak to common ordinary people like me, much less want to come into my home and eat and visit with me like good friends do.

Yet this is exactly what Jesus did--even though he was the most important person in the whole world! He went into the most common ordinary homes and talked with the lowliest of people.

He was so humble that when he performed miracles he even told some of those people not to tell what he had done.

The best test for humbleness for us would be being humble around the ones whom it's hard to be humble at home, or at work. The only way we can be humble in these circumstances is to look at these people under the covering of God's love. He loves those people and forgives their sins when they ask for it, just like He does me and you. It's easy to overlook the sins and faults of our close friends because we love them. So if we're having a hard time being humble around our husband, for example, the only way we can become humble is ask for God's help, ask Him to give us such a love for this person that we won't even see his faults--only see God's love covering him. He will hear and answer this prayer if we are sincere and ask in faith, believing that He will do it. James, chapter 1, declares this truth.

In being humble like a little child, we see little children running and playing with other children, maybe even complete strangers. Some may be terribly dirty and ragged, some clean and neat, some of another color skin. But they think nothing of these things; they are just laughing and having a wonderful time! The Bible says we need to be like little children in this manner--having happy fellowship--with one another without thinking about other's circumstances, faults, sins, habits, dress, education, etc.

Maybe we have been asking the Lord to show us how to be humble, and really sincere about it. And then along comes a situation where we feel we are being mistreated, and we begin to complain against God, "Well, why are you letting him treat me this way...it's not right!" And maybe it's not right, but we don't realize that perhaps this is God's way of answering our prayer of showing us how to be humble.

And then along comes a situation where we feel we are being mistreated, and we begin to complain against God, "Well, why are you letting him treat me this way...it's not right!" And maybe it's not right, but we don't realize that perhaps this is God's way of answering our prayer of showing us how to be humble.

And then along comes a situation where we feel we are being mistreated, and we begin to complain against God, "Well, why are you letting him treat me this way...it's not right!" And maybe it's not right, but we don't realize that perhaps this is God's way of answering our prayer of showing us how to be humble.

Nursing Home News

By BOBBIE GREER

Did you miss the news last week? That was because our social and activities director, Bobbie Hogue had surgery at West Texas Hospital. She came home July 23, but later had to be re-admitted to the hospital. She will not be back to work for a while, and we really do miss her here at the home. We really are keeping busy. Our new building is beginning to take shape and we are all excited about it. We are proud of our home and believe it is going to be the best in these parts.

Our residents are excited too, and don't seem to mind the noise. It is amazing how they enjoy the activities that go with the building.

We have been enjoying good fresh squash this week, brought to us by Mrs. Walter Stolle of Southland, Mrs. Mitchell of Posey, and Mrs. Willie Schneider of Wilson. We are so fortunate to have such good friends.

We welcome a new resident, Charlie Kerrigan.

THE FIVE BARLEY LOAVES

And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

And Jesus took the loaves, and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down, and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost. Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten.

NEW PROGRAM
Mrs. Glenda Harris, home economics teacher at Roosevelt High School, has completed training at a five-day workshop in Austin, for Home Economic Cooperative Education (HECE) teachers. Mrs. Harris is now certified to teach in Roosevelt High School's new HECE program, according to Marvin Williams, superintendent.
Williams said the new vocational program will be added to the curriculum of Roosevelt High School this fall. It includes in-class instruction and on-the-job training for students who are interested in home economics related occupations.
Mrs. Harris said that each student in the program attends classes at school during a part of each day and is employed for a minimum of 15 hours each week in a home economics related occupation.
In addition to regular school classes, the student receives daily instruction related to the world of work and the occupation in which the student is employed, Mrs. Harris said.
Williams noted that students of junior and senior standing who are 16 years of age or older, are eligible to participate in the program.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN--Back in the days when the holder of a bank checking account could write a draft on a brown paper sack, or a piece of wood bark, it probably wasn't as hard to keep track of an account balance as it is today when Texas banks print personalized drafts, process checks with computers, and offer a myriad of helpful services.

But one of the major problems merchants encounter today is the proliferation of worthless checks which are given, in the main, it seems, by well-meaning consumers who simply find it hard to master the mathematics of checking accounts.

Hundreds of millions of drafts on Texas banks are written annually by people who find this a convenient way to keep a record of payment on everything from insurance premiums, to mortgage coupons, to sandwich luncheons and drugstore purchases.

Usually, everything works out to the satisfaction of the account holder, the merchant, and the bank depository.

Many times, however, checks do "bounce"--that is to say, get returned to the merchant with a bank explanation of

"insufficient funds."

In that event, the merchant will notify the check writer by certified mail of the return, with a request that the insufficient check be redeemed by a certain date.

In most cases, the giver of the check responds right away, since a good credit record is one of the most-prized assets in today's society.

If the consumer does not answer the notice about a returned check for up to $50, however, the merchant can take the worthless check--together with his certified mail receipt--to the county attorney for collection and/or legal action on what is classified as a misdemeanor crime.

(As of August 27, 1973, when a new law takes effect, the county attorneys will have jurisdiction on worthless checks for up to $200. The legal penalty for prosecution will be up to two years in county jail and/or a maximum fine of $1,000.)

Realizing that the average "worthless check" writer suffered from poor bookkeeping ability, rather than any intention of perpetrating a fraud, most county attorneys proceed with care from that point.

They understand, also, that the merchant's interest is only in keeping his books straight, by securing payment on the checks.

In Travis County (Austin) where some 300,000 Texans live, County Attorney Ned Granger begins by writing a letter to the person of which the merchant complained. "Generally," Granger says, "it's a housewife's, or student's, disease."

He says that his office received 16,802 complaints in 1972 regarding worthless checks totaling $262,185, and through contacts with those complained of, $130,929 was recovered for the merchants involved.

The leading causes of farm injuries are motor vehicles, field work, and accidents occurring in the home. "These accidents usually occur far from hospitals or other professional medical help," Herschberger continued. "In many instances, proper emergency car within seconds is necessary to save the victim's life."

For this reason it is vital for persons working on a farm to know first aid. Artificial respiration, control of bleeding, and care for fractures are among the techniques taught in Red Cross first aid courses. If the victim of an accident

Farm Safety Week

With National Farm Safety Week, Lubbock County chapter of the American Red Cross urged farm workers to learn first aid as a major step in reducing the high accident rate in the nation's largest industry.

Next to the building trades, agriculture is the most lethal of all occupations, causing 2,300 accidental deaths a year, according to Mr. Larry Herschberger, Red Cross Safety Programs chairman. It also ranks high in causing disabling injuries--some 200,000 a year, Herschberger said.

Cooper FFA News

By JIMMY KAHLICH, Reporter

The 1973-74 FFA officers had a barbecue supper at the home of Dan Taylor, Cooper Ag teacher. Also included were the boys who helped haul hay this summer.

The officers include Joel Green, president; Dennis Pate, vice president; Dale Schaffner, secretary; John Fehlisson, treasurer; Jimmy Kahlich, reporter; Robbie Buskemper, sentinel; John Hawkins, parliamentarian.

The officers discussed money-raising projects, suggestions for meeting programs, refreshments, programs and door prizes.

In trouble in the water. ARC Poster 1021, available free from the local Red Cross chapter, gives detailed directions for making the "safety post" and also gives safety information.

In all wounds the danger of tetanus (lockjaw) is present. While puncture wounds, contaminated with barnyard soil or manure, are considered the main threats, any wound, however insignificant, is potentially dangerous, Hercherberger stated.

That is why it is desirable for farm workers to receive tetanus immunization as protection against possible future wounds. Information about anti-tetanus injections can be obtained from a physician.

Local Granges, 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers, and other groups can arrange for both first aid and water safety courses with the local Red Cross Chapter, he added.

Grocers Be Authorized To Accept

Food retailers entering the Food Stamp program will have to be authorized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture before they are eligible to accept food stamps.

Under the Food Stamp program, which is being operated in all Texas by the end of the year, families are certified by the Department of Public Welfare. Families then receive an amount of money, known as income, resources, and factors, for food stamps. They then use the stamps to purchase eligible foods at local authorized food stores.

"Most grocers in stamp county apply for authorization," Garber stated. "The program usually notices a noticeable increase."

Grocers redeem stamps through local banks Federal Reserve System.

out of the acres now growing," Wellford stated.

He added management techniques designed to get the most from a late planted crop are called for, along with careful planning to make sure that all the fuels, chemical, equipment, transportation, etc., are available and ready to move when needed.

Speaking on the energy outlook, John B. Howard, American Petroleum Institute, Washington, D. C., told the group gasoline is likely to remain in tight supply, "although we should get through the summer with only a few scattered shortages."

Nicholas H. Smith, assistant deputy director, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Washington, stated the Secretary of Agriculture is committed to supplying adequate fuel to American farmers as a national interest priority.

"This is not only in the farmers' interest, but is in the interest of consumers. They are dependent on food and fiber supplies that must be obtained with petroleum-powered equipment," he said.

Kicking off discussion of methods of achieving better yields, Jasper Jernigan, USDA's Extension national cotton specialist, stressed the importance of the industry and various agencies working together.

Beverly Reeves, USDA's cotton gin specialist, described ways of improving harvesting efficiency through proper adjustment and maintenance of machines. He also explained guidelines for use of module builders and risk compactors in field storage of seed cotton to improve harvesting efficiency.

State Extension specialists in Texas and Oklahoma reported on the current yield and insect control situation in their respective states.

R. H. McRae, Council's marketing and processing manager, told the group the Council has initiated a series of meetings across the Belt to discuss ways of expediting the flow of new crop cotton. These have established excellent lines of communication between groups involved in movement of cotton at the local level.

In addition, he said the Council is sponsoring a piggy-back cotton transportation seminar in Greenville, S. C., today. Purpose is to explore feasibility of using this system to supplement conventional methods of moving cotton.

sented data showing ample market opportunities for the denims and twills, availability of labor, water and other utilities, and the general impact upon the region's economy and environment.

It was pointed out that the short staple High Plains cotton is particularly suited for the heavier fabrics such as the denims, with national production of men's and boys' trousers and work clothes approximating $2.9 billion annually.

Hubert Jones and Larry McDowell, representatives of Lockwood Greene Engineers, Inc., gave engineering data on plant design (360,000 square feet), equipment needed (about $8 million), and other costs for an optimum size plant to manufacture cotton denims, seemingly the major market outlet in the foreseeable future.

Dr. Simpson said the final report on the project should be available within 30 days. Industry leaders said it is believed the report will help materially in decision-making by the several firms actively considering establishment of a plant in the High Plains area.

James S. Parker, director of the Textile Research Center, presided over the session.
