Three Accidents Are Investigated

Three traffic accidents, including one in which a horse was killed, were investigated by Slaton Police Dept. during the last week. In addition, one burglary and one arrest for carrying a prohibited weapon were reported.

The horse was killed Sunday when it apparently ran out in front of a pickup driven by Joe Randal Ross, 710 S. 15th St. on FM 41 near the U. S. 84 intersection. Owner of the horse was B. G. Busby of Slaton.

At 12:35 p.m. Saturday, a 1970 station wagon driven by Duane Earl Cox, 940 S. Collins, and a 1962 auto driven by Trino Guerra, 1120 S. 8th St., collided at 9th and Lubbock.

On Monday, the first accident of the new year involved a 1965 station wagon driven by Susan Sander Brasfield, 815 E. Lubbock, and a 1967 car driven by Gabriel Sanchez Espinosa of Southland. Total damage to both vehicles was estimated at $375.

Santo Villa, 535 N. 9th, reported about $100 missing from his home after a burglary Monday.

On Sunday, officers arrested a 46-year-old Houston man on a charge of drunkenness, and also charged him with carrying a prohibited weapon after finding a .38 caliber pistol.

Canyon Nudges Slaton For Cage Title

BY JIMMY MATSLER

Determined Canyon overcame the tough Slaton Tigerettes 46-38 last Saturday night to win the third annual West Texas Girls Invitational basketball tournament. The victory avenged a one-point loss to the host Tigerettes in last year's tourney final. This year marked the first time that Slaton has not won the Chamber of Commerce sponsored event.

Canyon, running its season record to 20-2, was led by Sheryl Gunner who swished the nets for 25 points. The Tigerettes, losing their third game of the season to Canyon, were sparked by Gretta Stricklin's 16.

Muleshoe's Regina Hardaway tallied 19 points leading her team to a 50-33 win over Valley and the third-place trophy. Jana Turner and Mickey Lipscomb each scored 13 for Valley. Post defeated New Deal 79-56 for consolation, with Melanie King tossing in 24 points for Post, and Charisse Abbe bucketing 28 for New Deal. With Sherry Wall scoring 30, Idalou belted Ralls 72-41 for seventh place. Pam Shoemaker canned 29 points through the hoop for Ralls.

Slaton captured the Most Valuable forward award as Karla Kitten was elected. Other forwards named to the all-tournament team were Kim Killingsworth of Canyon, Leanne Waddell of McCamey, Jeannie Putnam of Muleshoe, Eva Cheatham of Valley, Lorna Rhodes of Petersburg, and Miss Stricklin of the Tigerettes.

Canyon's Carla Ratliff was tabbed Most Valuable guard of the tourney. Susan Hull of Canyon, Kay Stephens and Scharla Johnston of Slaton, Donna Davis of Tulia, Jan Hall of Post, and Kathy White of Idalou also were named all-tournament guards.

The sportsmanship trophy went to Petersburg. Canyon reached the finals by besting McCamey 66-28 Thursday, and Valley 51-34 on Friday.

Slaton's Tigerettes obtained the finals by annihilating Lakeview 91-26, which broke a tournament record for most points scored by a team, 85, and largest winning margin, 59 and topping Muleshoe Friday by a 54-45 count.

Jeannie Putman was the leading scorer in the tournament with 102 points in five games.

Slaton had balanced scoring from its forwards throughout the tournament as Karla Kitten had 61 points, Gretta Stricklin 58, and Jan Davis canned 55.

Miss Wall of Idalou also won the free throw trophy, hitting 29 out of 30 in the special competition.

BOMBING SCENE--The old Santa Fe office building near the Santa Fe depot in Slaton was being demolished anyway, but it caught fire Monday to add to destruction. Firemen in Slaton again were busy during the answering alarms. Also some 80 bales of cotton on a truck burned away northwest of town. (SLATONITE PHOTO)

ARE an average worker, and will see your first paycheck of 1973 within a day or two, you may be in for an un-expected surprise.

Even't thought about it, the surprise will be in the form of a bigger bite being taken out of your paycheck for social security. If you are an employer, you now must pay more than 11 per cent of the cost of your employees.

It is nice if you are on the edge of social security, since benefits are increased, and more and more people are covered. But the constantly increasing social security taxes are hurting the worker quite a bit, and are hurting the employer even more.

The minimum amount of annual pay upon which social security taxes are levied also is increased. Seems like only a few years ago it was $5,400, and that's where it ought to be. But this last year it was $9,000. In 1973, to draw any paychecks free of social security taxes, you'll have to make $10,800.

Stand against increases in social security benefits is like coming out against a high school football team, but most people seem to forget that every increase in benefits is accompanied by an increase in the taxes one must pay. U. S. News & World Report recently commented that the only way to collect more money is to let the workers revolt against the entire system.

Could you manage to retire on a pension? Well, believe it or not, says the Nation's Business, that's what you can do from social security in the year 2000. You're 35 now and have a long enough life expectancy.

So, you must keep your nose to the grindstone until you're 65, and you must earn the top benefits. If and when you do, you'll get another $555 per month. That's more than $1,600 for the two of you.

Business comments: "The result of this year's rewrite of the Social Security law. It put a built-in increase into the law to cover future hikes in living."

Projections are figured to average about 3 per cent a year, and it's also figured that salaries will go up about 5 per cent a year.

Magazine notes that social security will apply to salaries up to $15,000 a year. And they don't predict the rate of taxes, but from here it might be about 20 per cent of the salary, unless we elect some people who change the trend.

Defensive Driving Course Set Here

Slaton Assn. of Insurance Agents will sponsor a new defensive driving class beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in West Ward cafeteria. Instructors in the course, which runs two hours each Tuesday night for four weeks, will be Bob Kern and Don Kendrick.

Most adults who take the course qualify for a discount on their auto insurance premiums. Cost is $8.

Anyone wishing to sign up for the course should contact one of the following agency sponsors: Browning and Marriot, Pember, Kendrick, Jack Clark, Edwards or Chester Williams.

Bale Count Goes Higher In Week

Damp weather, including drizzle and then snow, halted outside operations in the Slaton area during the last week, but cotton gins stayed fairly busy with what already had been harvested, and the bale count advanced to 65,863, up about 6,500 from the previous week.

The sun came out Wednesday after snow fell early Wednesday morning and Tuesday night, about a two-inch fall.

Gins and their totals to date were: Slaton Co-Op 17,500; Farmers Gin 3,500; Posey 3,515; Union 5,445; Acuff 11,578; McClung 4,579; Basinger 2,350; Hackberry 4,700; Wilson 5,100; Wayside 3,740; Gatzki 1,693; Gordon 2,163.

First Lubbock County Baby Born In Lubbock

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leonard of 1919-34th in Lubbock were the proud parents of Lubbock County's first 1973 baby. A son, Gregory Robert, was born at 3:28 a.m. Jan. 1 in St. Mary of the Plains Hospital. He weighed 6 lb. 11 1/2 oz.

The first baby born in Slaton was Miss Pebbles Elizabeth Marie Llanas, daughter of Airman First Class and Mrs. Ruben Llanas of Wolforth. She was born at 12:30 a.m. Jan. 1, 1973 and weighed 6 lb. 14 oz.

Commission Ups Retirement Rate

Slaton City Commissioners conducted a special meeting Thursday, Dec. 28, to discuss and vote upon the Texas Municipal Retirement policy.

Commissioners voted to raise benefits fifty per cent from the present program. For example, if a retired city employee is receiving $200 per month from the old retirement rates, he will now get $300 per month under the new policy. The change and benefits are based on the full salary of the employee, and not a flat rate as before.

Two ordinances were adopted with the new policy. The first is the removal of a standardized salary limit. For example, as it now stands under the present policy a person making $400 per month before retirement receives the same amount of money after retirement as a person grossing $600 per month. Under the new program each city employee will receive a retirement amount based upon his or her individual salary.

The second ordinance adopted increases the city's contribution from 1.6 per cent to 5.5 per cent. The new program became effective Jan. 1, and is retroactive.

Final item on the agenda was to list some citizen's opinions on the city's greatest needs. The five-year guaranteed program is for capital improvements only. Some of the suggestions listed include: repair to the water tanks, traffic speed signs throughout the city, paving of streets for drainage purposes, a new criminal justice building, a new maintenance barn, a water pump system for constant water pressure, plant improvements for sewage storage, beautification of the square, a new ambulance, new police cars, a tractor

County Death Toll Raised To 31 With Fondren Death

Jesse Ray Fondren, 24, of Lorenzo, was killed Friday in a Lubbock truck-forklift crash to bring Lubbock County's 1972 death toll to 31. Both vehicles were northbound on U. S. 87 when the rear-end collision occurred, causing Fondren's fork lift to overturn and strike a gas meter. Services for Fondren were held Sunday in Crosbyton.

St. Joseph's Church Is Scene Of Twin Ring Vows

Wedding vows were exchanged at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in St. Joseph's Catholic Church by Miss Rita Kay Payne and Jerry Burrell.

The Rev. Edward Pawlak, of Christ the King Catholic Church, Lubbock, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with multi-tiered candelabras with red tapers and arrangements of red poinsettias, red carnations and greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Glen Bradley Payne, 700 S. 17th Street. Burrell is the son of Mrs. Dolly Caldwell Brown, Rt. 1 and Mr. Gordon G. Durrell of Graham.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Renaissance gown of antique white silk peau d' soie. A moulded bodice was accented with a deep yoke of English net embroidered with seed pearls and crystal beading. Long candlestick sleeves with button and loop closure were cuffed in pearl encrusted English net. The front center panel was intricately beaded in garlands and scrolls of pearls. A half hat of matching peau d' sole with clusters of beaded lace medallions held her mantilla veil of silk illusion that was sprinkled with beaded lace medallions and bordered in scallops of re-embroidered Alecon lace. Her bouquet was of white roses, lily of the valley and baby breath with ribbon and pearl streamers.

Mrs. Bruce Pember Jr., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Misses Mindy Leach of Long Beach, Calif.; Diana Doughtie, Bay City; Marilyn Davis, Lake Jackson; Gwenda Stricklin, Huntsville; Susan Pearson, O'Donnell and Mrs. David Bartholomew of Lubbock. They wore long gowns of Christmas red velvet sashed with gold roping, fringed at the ends. Their headpieces were gold-edged hoods that were attached to the gowns. FOOT NOTES

BY MARGRET BARTLEY

The Slatonite had several calls Thursday because some folks didn't get their Slatonite. We didn't cut them off, the Post Office and other government agencies were closed Thursday for the declared national day of mourning for former president, Harry S. Truman, who died Dec. 26.

Seems like a good thing most folks didn't have to report to work Monday morning. Even on Tuesday morning, there were a bunch of dreary-eyed people. Well, you just get to celebrate the New Year once a year! Lots of folks have so much fun they find something to celebrate once a month. That could be hard on you after a while.

We survived through Christmas just in time to come up with everything for the New Year. It brought snow, and from the looks of the cars parked around the doctor's offices, half the community has pneumonia or some such. And, did you hear as much grumbling as I did this morning over going back to school? Everyone is so happy to get a holiday, but they're never quite ready to go back to school. I really don't blame them, because when I get a holiday from work, I'm usually not so anxious to go back either.

I didn't have the oomph to make new year's resolutions, but I found some good ones that have been passed down and copied from year to year. They sound like what most of us need, so let's read over them and give it a try, O.K.?

Smile. It costs nothing, but it is more valuable than gold. Recognize that each person has individual worth no matter how he has failed.

Honor the true as you see truth. Let your sight be guided by fact.

Praise your country and strive to keep it on the road of righteousness. You are a part of all that is.

Take time to listen to the very young and to the very old. They need your ears and your understanding.

Be kind. Too often people are more thoughtful of their pets than of their fellow human beings.

Do justice. Let no one condemn you for lack of character. Admit you are wrong when you are. Accept criticism in a friendly manner and learn from each experience.

Honor your family, your friends, your associates, yourself, by playing square with the world. There is no substitute for the old-fashioned virtues which remain as new as tomorrow.

Obey the Golden Rule because you have a sound heart and a good soul.

was his call that you followed when we preached the to you. (I Thessalonians 2:14, Phillips)

Planning, believing, belonging, and becoming--these are components for realizing the person I want to become.

There is always a challenge to beginning--the beginning of friendship, a new job, a new life, a new year. Beginning something new. At the birth of Christ, God took on a form, and mankind began a new era because new hope manifested.

Why do we not sometimes discover something new and why shared it with someone else? Discovering for what it means to believe in Christ, are we willing that discovery?

Believing in Christ is an indication of our confidence. Moreover, we want to belong to the fellowship made of other people who believe in Him so that we may share, strengthen, and become more like our Master.

Bible reading and prayer we gain insight for becoming a child of persons Christ can use.

PRAYER: Almighty God, give us insight as to what we come, so that by our example others will want to make gainings. We pray in Christ's name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY:
I help someone to make a new beginning?

SUNDAY'S SERMON

Trust
One thing is true about modern life - people are worried. We worry about taxes, bills, what people think about us, where we are going to get money for next summer's vacation, and many silly things. We lack a trust in God that he will provide for us and our families in the future.
God gives us so much each day to be thankful for. He sees that our needs are met - that we eat, drink, have clothing and shelter. Yet so many of us lack faith and trust. We worry ourselves to the point of becoming ill.
We can feel better, too, about many of our worries, if we trust Him to do what is right for us. He knows what we need, even more than we do, most times. Our faith must be aided by trust, in order to lessen our burden in this life.

RELIGION IS NOW

— a weekly message relating the world of today to the lessons of Faith and Church ...

Which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counting the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it. — Luke XIV, 28

The foundation of a solid construction must be more than mere dreams. Dreams may be the incentive, but realities demand something more substantial, like stone or concrete. We all have dreams and hopes for the life we would like to build, and dreams are needed. If we would live successfully, however, let us not forsake reality. There must be effort, there must be achievement. We cannot build successfully, dream upon dream.

Humble To Become Exxon Company

One of the nation's largest oil companies will have a new name with the new year. Humble Oil & Refining Company will become Exxon Company, U. S. A., a division of Exxon Corporation.

This change, which follows by several months the company's renaming of its gasolines, re-figures from active use the name Humble.

Humble traces its origins to the year 1917 and its name to the major oil field discovered in 1904 near the town of Humble, Tex., about 20 miles north of Houston.

The company announced last May that it was changing the name of its gasolines to Exxon in order to end a long-standing confusion for its customers caused by the company's use for legal reasons of three separate trademarks in different parts of the country.

At the same time, Humble said that it would adopt a new company name similar to its primary trademark. Humble Chairman and Chief Executive M. A. Wright, referring to the benefits of the new name, pointed out that a unified primary trademark and company name would directly relate the company to its marketing activities, allowing the public to associate more readily headquarters-level actions with those in the marketplace.

"It will help create a better understanding that our company activities are national in scope and, for the consumer, a better understanding that our products and services are backed by a national company," Wright said.

The three regional brand names on the company's pumps came down during July and August and in their place appeared signs for Exxon, Exxon Plus and Exxon Extra.

In November, the pole signs identifying each station began to be replaced with the new design. This effort will continue during the early part of 1973.

Over 1/3 of People Getting Social Security Checks Are 72 or Over

Over one-third of all people getting monthly social security checks are 72 years old or over, according to social security officials here.

"Social security pays monthly retirement, disability or survivors benefits to over 28 million people a month," a spokesman said. "About 10 million of the beneficiaries are 72 or over."

Of the 10 million, 6 1/2 million get retirement payments based on their own work under social security. About 1 million get payments as dependent wives or husbands, about 2 million as the widows and widowers of workers, and about 500,000 as people 72 or over who are covered under a special provision of the law because they had very little opportunity to earn social security credit during their working years. "Beneficiaries age 72 and over can keep working, earn any amount, and still get the full social security check they're entitled to every month," the spokesman noted.

Beneficiaries under 72 will lose some benefits if they earn over $1,680 in a year. "But no matter how much they earn in a year, they can be paid the full benefit they're entitled to for any month in which they neither earn wages of more than $140 nor perform substantial services in self-employment," the social security spokesman said.

The average social security benefit paid to a retired worker 72 or over is about $161 a month. A total of 13 1/2 million retired workers, 62 and over, get social security benefits, and the overall average payment is $160 a month.

For a Little Peace and Quiet . . .

White House Office of Consumer Affairs

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, noise in our homes may be reaching such high levels that there is a danger of injury to the human ear.

Some of the worst noise polluters are electrical appliances.

To combat this growing problem, EPA will soon issue regulations under the Noise Control Act of 1972 to require labeling of noise emission levels on electrical household appliances. A label will be required on the appliance or on its package and will indicate the appliance's noise level in decibels, a unit for measuring the loudness of sounds.

According to EPA, noise levels of 9-60 decibels can be considered to be safe, low sound levels; noise of 60-70 decibels can cause negligible hearing damage but can produce annoying sounds; noise of 70-80 decibels can cause hearing damage if there is continual exposure; noise of 80 decibels or more is considered to be the loudest occurring in the home and can cause damage to hearing under frequent exposure.

EPA has ranked household appliances into four categories corresponding with the above decibel levels:

- 0-60 decibels—major appliances such as air conditioners, refrigerators and clothes dryers;
- 60-70 decibels — clothes washers, food mixers, dishwashers, vacuum cleaners and electric knives;
- 70-80 decibels — sewing machines, food blenders, electrical shavers and food grinders.
- 80 decibels or more—electric yard-care tools and shop tools.

To help reduce the noise around you, EPA urges you to compare the noise output of different makes of an appliance before making a selection.

However, if you're stuck with noisy appliances or live in an urban area, here are some other things you can do:

- Use noise-absorbing materials on floors;
- Hang heavy draperies over the windows closest to outside noise sources;
- Put rubber or plastic treads on uncarpeted stairs;

Phone Call Can Establish Application For Social Security Payments

People can now establish an application filing date for monthly social security payments in certain circumstances by making a telephone call to any social security office, according to social security officials here.

"Dates of application for benefits should be established when it appears you may not be able to return a signed application to social security until the following month and may lose some benefits," a spokesman said. "And when you call, you must express your intention to claim benefits."

"The date you apply for social security benefits can be important," he said, "especially if retroactive payments are involved."

Cotton Styles Set For 1973

DALLAS -- America's market-minded cotton growers staged their "Cotton Impact '73" fashion forecast show in the great hall of the apparel mart here, and the mid-autumn extravaganza scored a direct hit with thousands of dollar-wise retail buyers representing women's and children's wear stores from coast to coast. This was sponsored by Cotton Growers with their dollar-a-bale program.

For close to an hour, models paraded cotton fashions of the future to the upbeat rhythms of today's young music, showing previews of the newest pastels, prints, ice cream colors and whites, all designed in cotton denim, chambray, corduroy and knits.

"We offered advance cotton designs in the color trends we believe consumers will buy, and the retailers saw the profit potential for themselves."

The audience got a close look at the new colors, textures, weaves, knits, styling and performance qualities of cotton fashions that Cotton Incorporated and the nation's top designers and garment-makers believe will sell well next spring.

The demand for cotton's unmatched qualities of comfort, freshness and easy-care continues to grow, and consumers across the country are asking for more and more cotton.

Cotton Incorporated approached the major garment makers and designers a year ago and advised them of the fabrics that the company would support at the Dallas show this year. Each manufacturer was allowed to submit three garments for possible inclusion in the fashion preview, and the basic requirement was that any garment submitted contain at least 60 per cent cotton.

"With both mill and manufacturer actively involved in the presentation, we could assure buyers in the audience that all garments shown were actually in production and available for delivery next spring," he added.

Before the show, the audience was treated to complimentary servings of "cotton nuts," processed kernels of cottonseed; "cottonade," an orange-flavored drink derived from cottonseed oil; and cookies made from cottonseed flour.

SWPS Plans Big Expansion

Southwestern Public Service Company will invest more than $196,000,000 in new equipment and improvements in the next five years, it was announced last week by Roy Tolk, chairman and president of the electric company.

"The area has turned itself around economically and all signals are 'go' for future growth. We must be prepared to provide the power that will be needed to keep pace with this growth and the power that will be needed to keep the environment the way all of us want it to be," Tolk said in announcing the expansion program.

New generating facilities with a capability of 631,000 kilowatts would be completed during the 5-year period, Tolk said, and, just before the end of the 5 years, construction will begin on a 350,000 kilowatt unit scheduled to go into service in 1979.

The new generating facilities include a 25,000 kilowatt gas turbine at Riverview Station, which will go into service in mid-1973. This unit, while small in size, is large in unique features. Its exhaust gases will be piped to a waste heat boiler, and steam from this boiler will supply 60 percent of the steam to drive the presently installed conventional generating unit at Riverview. By reusing the waste heat from the gas turbine, the efficiency of the two generating units is increased by 20 percent.

"We are working every day in every way that we can to conserve resources. We have experienced some shortages in gas fuel, but we have a commitment to our customers which demands that we find the fuels to meet their electric service needs," Tolk said.

Southwestern pioneered in the use of treated sewage effluent as cooling water at its Nichols Station, near Amarillo, beginning more than a decade ago. Now they have gone one more step and are using equipment that cleans up the treated water to the point where it can be purified for use as boiler feed water. This is being done on the first unit at Jones Station and is projected for the second unit at that facility and also for the 1976 unit.

"When we have installed all of the generating facilities proposed through 1976, we will save, on the average day, 14,000,000 gallons of potable water through the use of sewage effluent. That's the equivalent of the daily water needs of a city of 100,000 people and is a most important conservation consideration," Tolk added.

Returning to the matter of fuel resources, Tolk said that the 350,000 kilowatt unit planned for 1976 will be built so that gas, oil, coal or even solid waste can be used as a fuel. "This one is actually going to have a garbage door on it," he said.

Speaking in a more serious vein, he added, "We are confident that our suppliers will find the gas that we need for fuel, but we will be prepared to burn other fuels if it doesn't turn out that way. We assure our customers now that, if it is necessary to use coal as a fuel, every standard of environmental protection will be met and exceeded, if possible."

The 1976 unit will be located north of Amarillo so that the sewage effluent can be purchased from the city.

A major transmission line project for 1973 is a 230,000 volt line running from Tucco Interchange, north of Abernathy to Nichols Station, northeast of Amarillo.

Homebuilder Interest In Ecology Blooming

The ecology movement has Yorktown Village were designed not gone unnoticed by builders. In fact, farsighted builders are very much in the forefront of those who recognize the importance of protecting the environment.

Almost every convention, workshop or seminar for professional builders these days sets aside time on the program for ecologists or consumer advocates.

Part of the message to builders is the fact that ecological and business principles need not be irreconcilable.

An example is a condominium townhouse project in Westchester, N.Y. Before the first bulldozer scraped dirt, builder Carl Kamhi had topographical maps prepared. All trees were designated by species, diameter and location. Trees marked for saving were protected from the bulldozer.

Rocks and boulders unearthed during excavation were saved for use as exposed retaining walls, rock gardens and other landscaping features.

Buildings were sited to follow the terrain, and sometimes were shifted to save clusters of trees. Only 10 percent of the total acreage was used for building; the rest was allocated for greenbelts and roads.

A swamp on the property was dredged and transformed into a peaceful lagoon. An island in the lagoon has a big oak tree that serves as a focal point.

Even the buildings at Old

Building materials were selected to complement the rustic atmosphere. Roofing consists of heavyweight asphalt shingles in several earthtone colors. The shingles impart a rustic texture and warmth, and at the same time, are classified as fire-resistant.

Electric heat made even air conditioning units unnecessary, but utility meter cabinets do not intrude; they are capped by individual shed roofs that disguise their appearance.

Possum Kingdom Rainbow Stocking Planned

AUSTIN -- Rainbow trout are scheduled for stocking in the Brazos River below Possum Kingdom Reservoir.

The Parks and Wildlife Department will release approximately 4,000 eight- to 10-inch trout Jan. 17 in the river 25 miles west of Mineral Wells.

Water quality studies on the Brazos River indicate that the cold water flowing from the depths of Possum Kingdom Reservoir will be suitable trout habitat for the first four miles below the dam.

The fishery will be maintained by yearly stocking of catchable-size trout since the department does not expect the trout to reproduce.

Trout are provided by the National Fish Hatchery systems.

CONSUMERS' CORNER

Children's pajamas, flammable or not? There is some confusion as to whether or not all children's sleepwear now on sale meets the federal flammability standard. The standard went into effect last July and some people interpreted this to mean that after that date all children's sleepwear is fireproof. This is not so. You still must read the label carefully.

Currently, there are three types of sleepwear as far as flammability goes: First, garments manufactured before July 30, 1972, can still be sold even though they do not meet the standard. This type of sleepwear can be sold until July 30, 1973 and there is no label on these garments indicating that they do not meet flammability standard.

Sleepwear manufactured after July 30, 1972, that does not meet the flammability standard is labeled: "Flammable (Does not meet U.S. Department of Commerce Standard DOC FF-3-71). Should Not Be Worn Near Source of Fire."

Garments that do meet the flammability standard will carry that information on the label. These garments are also labeled with care instructions that will keep the fabric flame-retardant.

Burke-Hartke Bill Survey Finds Damaging Effects

Survey just concluded by National Association of Manufacturers shows conclusively that the tax provisions of the Burke-Hartke bill would have damaging effects on American business in four major areas.

The proposals would:

- Seriously weaken the international competitive position of American industry;
- Adversely affect the U.S. balance of payments;
- Threaten the security of thousands of American jobs;
- Dilute the value of corporate stocks held by pension funds, mutual funds and millions of individual investors.

The survey was conducted by the International Economic Affairs Committee of the NAM, and the findings were presented by the committee's 1973 chairman, J. Stanford Smith, Senior Vice President, General Electric Co., at a Washington press conference on Dec. 5.

Sections 102 and 103 of the Burke-Hartke bill call for taxation by the U.S. of both the earnings U.S. foreign subsidiaries send back to their parent companies and the earnings they reinvest abroad. Also, the measure would repeal the tax credit for the foreign taxes paid by a U.S.-based company.

The study covered 83 firms which earned $18.3 billion before taxes and $9.8 billion after taxes on sales of $151.9 billion in 1971.

Over half ($1.5 billion) of the $2.6 billion of after-tax earnings of the foreign affiliates of the U.S. firms studied was remitted to the U.S. parent and thus was available for domestic investment in new plant facilities or for distribution in dividends.

The study concluded, "Unfortunately, it appears that the prime impetus for changes in the U.S. tax system is domestic, political expediency rather than sound economic reasoning, which is tantamount to playing Russian roulette with the economy—and every individual's real income."

ITEM: If you are sewing pajamas, robes or gowns for children, look for flame-retardant fabric in the yard goods department. If a fabric meets the flammability standard, that information will be printed on the end of the bolt.

Dear Consumer

Wheeling and Dealing

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs

One day while driving from Washington, D.C., to my home in Philadelphia, I had a very frightening experience—a tire blowout.

The result of this incident was a very strong determination on my part to find out everything I could about tires and their safety. Not being a car buff, I had a lot of information to catch up on.

There are three kinds of tires on the American market—bias plys, belted bias and radials:

1. The bias ply is the most common. Made up of criss-crossing cords, it is the least expensive of the three tire types and is well suited for normal driving. However, due to its construction, it runs hotter than the other tire types (and, therefore, doesn't wear as well).

2. The belted-bias is also constructed of criss-crossing cords but has two or more layers of fabric or "belts" under the tread. This tire runs cooler and gives more mileage than the bias-ply.

3. The radial is the most expensive of the three types. It is made of cords running at right angles and several "belts." This tire hugs the road better than the other two and provides long wear. However, it may be too wide to fit the wheel rims of your car. It is also hard to steer without power steering.

Choosing what kind of tire you need depends on your driving habits.

If you use your car mostly for shopping or driving to and from work, you won't need heavy-duty tires. A bias tire with medium to heavy tread might be acceptable.

If, however, you do a lot of driving at turnpike speeds, your best bet for good traction and longer mileage is a belted or radial tire.

No matter what tire you choose, remember not to mix tire types. Mixing can result in erratic and dangerous car performance. For best driving conditions, fit your car with tires of the same type.

Also, give your new tires a "break in" period, limiting your speed for the first 50 miles to 60 mph.

Concerning tires, and snow, here are some important points to remember:

• If you live in a temperate climate where annual snowfall is slight, you should select a snow tire that provides good traction on snow but also handles well on wet and dry roads.

• If you have radial tires on your front wheels, you should have radial snow tires on your rear wheels.

• Studded tires are also available for winter driving. However, they can cause damage to highway surfaces and are, therefore, banned in five states. For driving on ice, studded tires provide the most traction. They should have between 100-150 studs per tire for the most traction.

If you plan to buy tires in the near future, remember to shop before you "deal." For more information on tires, you may want to read these Transportation Department publications: "The Hazards of 'Mixing' Tire Types (free). Studded Tires (free) and Tires: Their Selection and Care (65¢). You may order them from Consumer Products Information, Washington, D.C. 20407.
