School Debt: $40,000 And Growing

By DALTON WOOD

Slaton School board members Tuesday night took a look at a preliminary budget for next year and gave it a tentative okay at this point. The preliminary figures indicated that the school should wind up this year about $40,000 in the red, and probably will go another $13,000 or so in the hole next year, even if a 10-cent tax rate increase is voted.

Last year the school district closed the year owing about $41,500, and went about $29,000 further into the deficit column. This was wiped out by sale of some school property for $30,000.

Official budget for next school year, is adopted at the August meeting of the school board, the final meeting of this fiscal year. At that same time, the board is expected to increase the tax rate by at least 10 cents, and possibly more.

Present tax rate is $1.75, with $1.28 of this amount used for operating the schools. The other 47 cents goes into interest and sinking fund to retire bonded indebtedness.

Little Dribblers Eliminated From National Tournament

Slaton's All Star Little Dribblers were eliminated from the Levelland National Tournament in the third round of action when they fell to the Levelland team, 31-17.

Levelland went on to place as runner-up to Lacasine, La., who swept the tournament senior division with four straight wins.

Slaton opened the tournament Wednesday with a resounding 51-9 win over Mead, Kan. Slaton was in control of the game every minute, and their win entitled them to play Dallas Compton on Thursday.

In a close game, Dallas Compton defeated Slaton 42-35, but Slaton was still in the running for the championship.

Coming back Friday afternoon, Slaton swept Durant, Okla., 41-21. Gaining possession of the ball from tip off, Slaton played a steady game of good defense.

The win over Durant matched Slaton with Levelland Friday night, and the ensuing loss ruled Slaton from the finals.

High point girl for the entire tournament was Debbie Heinrich, who totaled 23 points in the four games. Lynn Webb was close behind with 21 total points. Linda Lewis, Webb and Heinrich were high pointers for the Mead game with eight tallies each. Heinrich led scoring in the Dallas game with 15 and Webb paced the Durant game with 13 points. Phyllis Heinrich was high pointer with six in the Levelland game.

This year was the third annual tournament, and although crowds were small, Slaton residents were able to hear the games over KCAS.

Supt. J. C. McClesley told the board that the preliminary budget he has prepared (and already cut by more than $70,000 from what the real needs are) projects an increase in the cost of operating the school of about $138,000. Even with a 10-cent increase in taxes, only about $24,000 additional revenue would be brought in, based on the current evaluation. However, some increase in evaluation is certain within the district.

The superintendent pointed out that the increased costs of running the schools comes from many sources, including inflation, requirements of the state accreditation committee which recently visited the schools, requirements of the state legislature such as putting all employes under workman's compensation, new minimum wage law, and some reductions in state funding eliminated by the legislature.

In explaining to some of the newer board members how much of the money needed to run the school system is raised locally, McClesley pointed out that the school budget each year runs about $1.5 million, and that local taxes brings in about $400,000 annually. This means local taxes must pay about 11 per cent of the total costs of running the schools, he said, noting that the portion paid locally naturally increases as the total amount increases.

Earl Foerster, Tommy Davis Jr. and Melvin Abernathy were appointed to the board of tax equalization of the school, and date for the board to meet was set as June 28.

Mrs. MayBelle Kern, SELCO director, reviewed for the board a new diagnostic program to be operated by the school in conjunction with Texas Tech psychology department. She explained that the program is designed to diagnose and treat problems of children with learning disabilities, using Tech personnel and doctoral psychology students to assist in the classrooms here.

"This program provides the local school system with data on children which can help the pupil and help their teachers to instruct them according to their individual needs," Mrs. Kern said.

Mrs. Melba Holland, past president of Slaton Classroom Teachers Assn., presented a proposed document to be used by principals in evaluating teachers, a new requirement of the state not to be confused with the overall school evaluation program which will begin this fall, but which does no evaluating of individuals.

Board members looked at the final average daily attendance figure of 1,752 in the schools, and were told that this qualifies the school for 70 teachers next year, one more than was paid by the state this year. A breakdown of the membership figures showed 628 pupils at West Ward, 329 at Stephen F. Austin, 459 in junior high and 497 in high school.

City Okays Power Rate Increase

By SANDY MARTIN

Slaton City Commissioners approved at 10 per cent increase of Southwestern Public Service Company and voted to increase the company's franchise rate by one per cent during a City Council meeting Tuesday.

Coy Evans, manager of Southwestern's operations for Slaton, Wilson and Southland, appeared before the Council and explained the need for an increase.

"Inflation has caught up with our company," he said. "We haven't come before the Council with an inflated figure to negotiate with. We've cut back to the bare bone, and this is what we need to continue service."

Southwestern's last general rate increase was in 1967 when rates were increased by 7.62 per cent.

When asking for approval of the increase, Evans said 11 other area towns had approved it.

The Commissioners voted unanimously to accept the increase and to up Southwestern's franchise percentage to three per cent.

Southwestern now pays two per cent of their total gross receipts in taxes to the city. In increasing their taxes, the Council is moving toward equalization of all utilities' payments. Pioneer Gas currently pays three per cent and Southwestern Bell Telephone Company pays two per cent, City Secretary Alex Webb said.

"We will probably be encountering Bell soon and asking them to pay three per cent also."

The added one per cent will mean approximately $2000 plus annually for the city.

In citing the negative aspect of the increase, Commissioner B. H. Crandall noted that the increase would show up on the consumer's bill. Evans agreed that the increase would be made up by consumers, but Webb said the average increase would only be approximately 10 cents per month.

Both the company's rate increase and the franchise increase will become effective in September.

In other action, the City Council outlined a program for the use of $91,000 in revenue sharing monies. After some discussion, the Council voted to allocate funds for the following: $6,500 for Brasher, Goyette and Rapier Architects for the new Police Department Building; $40,000 for maintenance barn and grounds; $12,000 for repairing the roof of city hall; $24,000 for paving; $6,000 for a street sign machine; and $2,500 for building restrooms outside city hall.

Other major actions taken by the Council were the approval of a resolution to aid the South Plains Association of Governments with their project to establish an area wide police radio system and the acceptance of a resolution calling for paving inside Russell Park.

The Council also set insurance rates for the new Police facilities at $20,000 for the building and $20,000 for its contents.

Several Slaton citizens attended the meeting and requested aid from the city with a garden program. Ben Scott, Maxine Quintero and Lee Posey explained the garden program and said money from Community Action was not coming through.

Residents in Ward IV have joined together to raise community gardens, and Community Action had promised to help pay the water bill for upkeep of the gardens. After hearing the requests for aid, the Council voted to pay the water bill for the gardens.

Mayor John Landreth congratulated the representatives on their campaign to clean up their section of the city and noted that cooperation between residents and the city has been outstanding.

Prior to the undertaking of new business, the Council approved the sale of Slaton Golf Course to Courtney White and Ransome Galloway. Former owners were Dr. Don Hatchett, Gene Mitchell Sr. and Tedly Hatchett. The matter was considered earlier in the month at a special meeting of the commissioners.

Vandals Smash Car Windows

Rock-throwing vandals smashed windows in three vehicles and three businesses in Slaton during the last week, causing damage in the hundreds of dollars. Police also investigated several traffic accidents, including one in which a young woman was injured when the motorcycle she was driving struck a car which pulled across 9th St. in front of her.

Cheri Jane Morgan, 19, of 425 W. Crosby, suffered a broken wrist and other injuries. She was reported in good condition at Mercy Hospital. The 1973 motorcycle she was riding was in collision with a 1970 car driven by Royce Duane Chance, 29, of 225 N. 3rd, in the 1100-block of S. 9th.

The rock-throwing incidents occurred over a period of several days, but most occurred Saturday night or early Sunday. Windows were broken out of vehicles owned by Earl Eblen, 435 W. Crosby, Mrs. C. W. Turner, 430 W. Garza, and Pete Pettiet, whose 1974 pickup was parked at Red Barn Chemical Co.

Windows were smashed at Slaton Feed and Seed Co. on two separate occasions, and a 4 X 6-foot window was broken at G&H Castings.

A trailer pulled by a 1966 car driven by Roy Clifton Reed of Lubbock came unhitched, smashed into a fence and overturned at U.S. 84 and north access road Saturday.

There has been considerable talk about where all the pennies have gone. The government says about 30 billion disappeared, and assumes that they are being hoarded in pickle jars, boxes, dresser drawers and shoe boxes. A figure that many of them are being hoarded because of speculation that they might go up so much it would be worth melting the pennies.

A survey report we read didn't mention hoarding. It says the "wheat" of the building, figuring they are worth more. I've heard all kinds of stories about these pennies being worth a penny, but nobody has offered to melt them. (I have 11 of them under a loose corner of the carpet.)

The government is putting on a big show to get people to take their pennies and get them back into circulation. The pennies aren't going to increase in value, anyway, because the government has prohibited melting them for even if you could, the cost of melting would eat up the increase. The old credibility gap mentioned by the body believes what the government says. Aha, they say, these pennies are getting pretty valuable now because the government wants to do us out of them. Those people who are suspicious of the government's contention that it's unpatriotic to melt pennies and that they won't be able to melt them. Quite possibly they are being truthful and honest, but one thing is true. They're not gonna get my pennies in circulation, by cracky, unless they melt them through the nose for them. I know a lot of truthful, honest people, but I don't know any who aren't in government.

WE feel like we are living in a time when nothing seems to work like it used to. This age is typified, perhaps, by the fact that we saw several years ago showing a man talking to a mother as he showed her an "educational" toy: "Here's one to show you for modern living: no matter how you put it together, it won't work."

The trend toward poor workmanship, empty promises and guarantees, advertising of products and services, and dishonesty in general (outright lying) has become a feeling by many persons that can't trust anybody anymore.

The reason we're reminded of this is because which happened 15 or 20 years ago. My grandfather, M. H. Winningfield, was still living. The old man decided that maybe he ought to get a new car. The old Ford had been well used but it wasn't worth quite as much as a new one. When he went to a car dealer, the man told him what he would do for a trade-in. Mr. Winningfield just took a minute and declared flatly, "I'm not buying a bunch of crooks!" and he got in his car and drove home.

PRaise THE LORD

By LENDA WOOD
 "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness." (Come before Him clothed in sacred garments.) Ps. 29:2.
 "Worship the Lord with the beauty of holy lives." Ps. 96:9.
 Jesus Christ is the one who makes us pure and holy before God. Without Him we are nothing because we cannot save ourselves, neither can we make ourselves holy and acceptable before God, in our own strength. The Bible even says that our own righteousness (as good as man is capable of being) is as filthy rags in God's sight.
 The Bible says in Eph. 4:24 that to be clothed with holiness we must throw off our old sin nature and put on this new nature which is in Christ. (Remember, when we first became Christians, we became new creatures, new persons, new inner beings.) If we have accepted Christ and still live like our old selves before we came to Him, then something is wrong.
 We must remember that there is always a battle going on in our lives, the sinful nature against the spiritual nature. The battle is more evident to us at times than at others. It seems as though sometimes our lives are almost pulled apart by unknown forces. And, like Paul said, "No matter which way I turn I can't make myself do right.

When I want to do good, I don't... sin still has me in its evil grasp!" (Rom. 7:18-22.)
 Even Paul, who was one of the greatest Christians who ever lived, admits he could not live victoriously in his own strength, because he goes on to say, "Oh what a terrible predicament I'm in! Who will free me from my slavery to this deadly lower nature?" Then his answer is: "Thank God! It has been done by Jesus Christ our Lord. He has set me free." When we allow ourselves to follow after our fleshly desires, then the battle begins. It's up to each of us. When we WILL to walk following God's leadership, then we live victoriously, as is promised. We fail so utterly sometimes that we want to pray, "God, make me do better." But we must remember, God does not MAKE us do anything — we have our own free will, our choices to make.
 "Those who belong to Christ have nailed their natural evil desires to his cross and crucified them there." Gal. 5:24. (Read all of Gal. chapter 5 — it tells more about how these two forces within us are constantly fighting each other to win control over us.) We will not be victims of this constant battle if we keep our eyes on Jesus. It's only when we begin looking around us at ourselves, our circumstances, our problems, that we falter and sway this way and that.
 We cannot be victorious without the Word of God being literally devoured and put to work in our every-day lives. I was talking to a young person just a few days ago who was very much concerned regarding what he would do in the future with his life. This young person is a believer in Jesus and has accepted Him as his Saviour. But he admitted to me that he never reads his Bible. We must open up the Bible and read and read, and give God a chance to help us.

 To be clothed in the beauty of holiness is to come to God, believing that He is, and that He is hearing and answering our needs.
 Charles Allen, in his book "God's Psychiatry" says that to make God's Word vital and helpful in our lives, we must feed on it every few hours (like we take a prescription for our bodies). When we go to the doctor and he prescribes medicine, it would be foolish to take it all in one gulp when the directions say "take one every four hours". We take it as directed. He suggests taking the Twenty-third Psalm once every four hours.
 We forget sometimes that God promises to bless those who ABIDE in Him, walk daily with Him, and that He will give us our hearts' desires providing we seek Him first in our lives. This is not to say that we serve Him in order to get our needs met — we serve Him first and above all because He is worthy of our devotion alone.
 The Bible says that those who are bent on following their old evil desires can never please God.
 Let us come before Him clothed in sacred garments, trusting Him to help us with anything that burdens us — and He will. God is faithful.

An Enemy Within

There is an enemy that is common to almost all men. This enemy is more destructive than an atom bomb. It takes the lives of untold numbers every year. It sends many more to institution for the mentally ill. And it affects many millions more in thousands of ways. It stifles the effectiveness of people and curtails their industry and productivity. It turns friends against each other and makes enemies more bitter.

What is this enemy? It is FEAR. People are usually afraid of that which they do not understand. Prejudice, bigotry, and hatred often order the lives of those who are afraid. Fear causes devastation of ways. But, there is an answer to this problem. Jesus Christ can right the thinking and rectify the life. When one is motivated by love and faith, his clear and sober thought makes him a rational contributor to the stability of society. The Bible declares: "Perfect love casteth out fear." (1 John 4:18)

Advice?

Whenever you find yourself in deep water, it's a good idea to keep your mouth shut.

Fathers Essential To Development

Fathers play essential roles in helping children develop into well-balanced adults, says Dr. Jennie Kitching, family life education specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service family program. "Fathers are often relegated to the positions of "good provider" and disciplinarian only," says Dr. Kitching. "But the truth is that any father will have a very far-reaching influence on his son or daughter." First of all in just being a man, a father makes a unique contribution to his children, she says. In order to grow up and take places in the world as either men or women, all children need to have an image of how men act. No matter how financially successful or unsuccessful a father may be, his children will learn much about masculinity from watching and listening to him. "However, precisely because a father's influence on his children is so strong, he must be careful not to hand down too rigid a concept of what a man does and doesn't do," Dr. Kitching cautions. "It is a good thing for boys and girls to see their father engaged in various activities and responsibilities — which would include helping with home and child care." In conversation, the way in which a father answers questions may also influence the child's life. Dr. Kitching says that whether he knows it or not, a father interprets society's codes when answering questions about why people fight wars, why the family can't buy a new car, or why father and son can't go hunting this weekend.

CARD OF THANKS

When good friends walk beside us on the trails that we must keep, our burdens seem less heavy and the hills are not so steep. The weary miles pass swiftly, taken in a joyous stride, and all the world seems brighter, when friends walk by our side.

Our friends and relatives are among the choicest possessions life has bestowed on us. Someone has truly said that great is the fellowship along that highway of life known as friendship's road.

Thank you and God bless you all.

Additives Proved Necessary

Despite recent consumer concern, food additives are necessary to furnish the entire nation quality food said Mrs. Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Before a processor can use an additive, he must present information to the Food and Drug Administration. "As such, he shows a particular additive will accomplish its intended effect in food — and that the amount used doesn't exceed what's reasonably necessary."

Spices, natural and synthetic flavors, such as liquid derivatives of onion, garlic, cloves and peppermint, make up the largest group of additives — flavors and flavoring agents, the nutritionist continued, discussing various additives.

"Stabilizers, on the other hand, prevent oxidation and spoilage of food.

"For years, people have used salt, sugar, vinegar, heat, freezing, smoke and spices to prevent or delay spoilage. Modern developments brought preservatives such as antioxidants, mold inhibitors and fungicides on the scene.

CLEP TEST SCHEDULED

Next testing date for the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test will be Saturday, July 20, at South Plains College, a national test center.

Students can earn up to 18 hours of college credit through the CLEP, said Don Melton, director of guidance and counseling at SPC. Students interested in taking the upcoming test should sign up at least three weeks in advance. The fee is $15 for each test.

The tests will be administered at 8 a.m. July 20 in the SPC Administration Building. There are two types of tests given — general and subject examinations.

General examinations are objective tests that measure achievement in five basic areas of liberal arts — English composition, humanities, mathematics, natural science and social sciences-history. Subject examinations, each 90-minute objective tests, measure achievement in specific college courses.

Subject examinations currently available include Afro-American History, American Government, Analysis and Interpretation of Literature, Biology, Clinical Chemistry, College Algebra, General Psychology, Introduction to Business Management, Money and Banking and Western Civilization.

Melton said that students who wish to earn credits before attending college next fall should take the CLEP exams given in July. Other dates for CLEP exams will be Aug. 17 and Sept. 21. The tests are given once each month throughout the year.

For further information on the CLEP program, write or call the office of Don Melton, director of guidance and counseling, South Plains College, Levelland, Texas, 79336.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT WORKSHOP

LUBBOCK — Farm implement dealers and others interested in the business of farm power and equipment will get a chance to exchange ideas and concerns during their second annual business management workshop June 25 in Lubbock.

Site of the one-day meeting is the Plains Co-Op Oil Mill.

Cotton Machines Win Growers' Approval

The cotton module builder and cotton rick compactor, both manufactured and marketed under license from Cotton Incorporated, have won another endorsement.

The machines "will save the day for us," declared O. D. McCutcheon, farm advisor of the University of California Agricultural Extension Service in Hanford, Calif.

McCutcheon said Kings County cotton growers are increasing acreage this year by 23 per cent, which will bring production up to a level 77 per cent higher than 1970 plantings.

"These two cotton machines will save us millions and permit us to run our harvesters full blast and run the gins for a longer period of time," said McCutcheon.

The extension farm advisor also had words of praise for the Cotton Incorporated agricultural research implementation staff. They "have done a terrific job," he said.

The cotton rick compactor was developed in research sponsored by Cotton Incorporated. The idea was conceived by J. K. ("Farmer") Jones, associate director of agricultural research for Cotton Incorporated. Research was conducted in a cooperative project by Dr. Milton Smith of Texas Tech University, Lubbock. The machine stacks seed cotton in free standing ricks on the ground.

The cotton module builder, also the brain child of Farmer Jones, was perfected in a cooperative project at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station, directed by Lambert Wilkes. It stacks seed cotton on pallets.

Dr. George A. Slater, Cotton Incorporated vice president for agricultural research, called the words from McCutcheon "welcome endorsement from one of the most well informed cotton extension men in the United States."

The module builder is the basis for a whole new system that allows the total mechanization of seed cotton handling from harvester to gin. Modules are stored on the turnrow, at a central point on the farm, or in the gin yard. They are hauled intact, aboard special loader-transporters. A new automatic module gin feeder, already developed and scheduled for commercial production this year, feeds cotton from a module directly into the gin, eliminating suction pipe operators.

Cotton stacked by the rick compactor is rehandled by loading machines and conveyed from the field to the gin in conventional cotton trailers. A considerable amount of Slaton area cotton was processed in this manner in the last two seasons.

The rick compactor is suitable in arid areas, where ground precipitation is not a factor in storing cotton. The module builder is suitable in rain belt areas, as well as dry areas. The pallet protects the mass of seed cotton from ground moisture.

With either device, cotton harvesting and ginning are freed from the shackles that once bound them together in a vicious cycle, the system's backers claim. Harvesting and ginning proceed independently of each other.

Cotton harvesters gain efficiency because there is never any lost time waiting for a place to dump, and gins can extend their season and cut man-power requirements significantly, supporters declare.

NOTICE

Job Training Program Slated

An on-the-job training program which will train some 20 persons for specialized work was announced this week by G&H Castings Corp. of Slaton. Applicants for the program, made available by and funded through the U.S. Dept. of Labor, now are being accepted.

Effective dates for the National Alliance of Businessmen program are June 1 through Dec. 31 of this year.

Karl Matthes, operations manager for G&H, said the training program will allow inexperienced and unskilled persons to receive proper training for skilled job opportunities at G&H. He added that each trainee hired for the program will be on the payroll of G&H from the first day and will spend his time in both the classroom and in on-the-job training.

Professional Skills Development, Inc., of Fort Worth has been retained to provide the specialized training involved in the program.

Interested persons may make application for the program from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the city hall from next Monday, June 17, through Friday.

Use cooling equipment in the correct size for the space to be cooled. An oversized or undersized system wastes energy. Required cooling capacity depends on exposure to the afternoon sun and amounts of insulation and window space.

PLANT CHINESE RED PEAS TO BE COMBINED FOR WOLDERT CANNING COMPANY, TYLER, TEXAS ... A 77 YEAR OLD COMPANY!

DIRECT COST FACTORS

1. Herbicide — Use Trellan as a pre-emergent.
2. Seed — Plant approximately 18# per acre in rows.
3. Fertilizer — If your land needs it, use up to 200# per acre of any high Phosphate analysis fertilizer.
4. Insecticide — Spray twice with Toxaphene, 1 pint per acre, by aircraft or ground rig.
5. Combining — Any variable speed combine can be used, spike-tooth cylinder or rasp-bar type.

DIRECT REVENUE

By multiplying your contract price times an average yield of 900 - 1000 pounds of combine run weight peas to the acre, you can quickly see the excellent gross profit potential on this crop.

In addition to the fine cash drop feature of Chinese Reds, here are some other facts:

1. Peas are only 70 days from planting to harvest, not like grain crops and soybeans which tie up the land for much longer periods.
2. Peas impart far more nitrogen and nutrients to the soil than they take out.
3. Peas require relatively small amounts of fertilizer, if any, and do not require high nitrogen analysis fertilizer which is so very costly today.
4. Peas combined under our contracts are paid for on uncleaned weights ... just as they come from the combine.
5. Peas on our contracts can be harvested with moisture up to 30% giving growers maximum yields and ability to choose his own harvest time.
6. Peas planted under our contracts have no germination or purity requirements when our own seed are planted.
7. Chinese Red Peas are an ideal crop in which to rotate from grain, cotton and other row crops as it is the best soil builder of all Southern Peas.
8. Chinese Reds are particularly resistant to excessive rainfall at harvest time.
9. Chinese Reds combine easier than any other variety.
10. Chinese Reds can be broadcast or planted in rows.
