GARDNER TAKES CROSBY JOB

Spence Named Wilson School Superintendent

Bob Spence, who has been serving as high school principal at Wilson, has been named superintendent of Wilson Public Schools to succeed Gary Gardner, who resigned to accept the post of superintendent of schools at Crosbyton. The two officials will take over their new duties July 1.

Gardner, superintendent at Wilson for the last three years, said Spence already is handling most of the administrative chores, and noted that applications are being accepted for the high school principal's job. Anyone interested should contact Spence.

Spence has been in the education profession for 18 years. His teaching experience began in Loop as vocational agriculture teacher in 1957. He then moved to Clint, Texas, where he was in vo-ag from 1958 to 1974. In August of that year he was hired as high school principal at Wilson.

The new superintendent holds a BSE degree from Abilene Christian College and a master of arts degree from New Mexico State University. He completed his 60-hour school administration program from the University of Texas at El Paso.

He has been a member of TSTA, TSPA, Texas Vocational Agriculture Teachers Assn., Alpha Tau Alpha, Phi Delta Kappa, Masonic Lodge and Order of Eastern Star. He is a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason. He and his wife have three daughters and one son, and they live in Wilson.

Slaton Okays Amendments

There were 368 ballots cast in Slaton Tuesday in a constitutional amendment election calling for increased benefits for retired teachers and public employees and a pay hike for state legislators.

Slaton voters approved both amendments, following an apparent statewide trend. There were 150 votes in favor of the increase for state employee retirement benefits and 138 votes against it. The legislators' proposed pay increase from $4,800 to $7,200 yearly was carried in the city by a vote of 195 for and 173 against. Box 36 went against the trend, however, voting against both measures.

Heaviest voter turnout was in West Ward School where 133 ballots were cast.

Paving Projects Pushed

City Secretary Alex Webb announced this week that paving of 20th St. from Lynn St. to U.S. 84 will begin soon after school ends, and citizens who want private paving done should start the application process now.

"Basically, it's cheaper by the dozen, so to speak," said Webb. "The paving company will have all their equipment here, so they will probably do private paving for a little less than if they had to make a special trip down here for a block or two of paving."

Webb stressed that part of a block cannot be paved. "Everybody on both sides of the block must be committed. We can't pave half of a block or one or two lots."

Webb explained the process for applying for paving. "First, someone on the block needs to come to me and get a petition. This petition must be signed by everyone on the block. If one person on the block doesn't want to pave, the whole block will have to go unpaved. After the petition is signed, it can be brought back to me, and I'll get a cost price on paving."

The city will pay for 25 per cent of the paving. Webb said this basically

City Finances Given Eye

By SANDY MARTIN

The second quarter city budget report was made at Tuesday's lengthy City Commission meeting and several citizens appeared to ask the Commission for action concerning business being conducted near their property.

Mrs. Van Smith and Mrs. Evelyn Dunlap appeared before the Commission asking that something be done to stop Bo Becker from servicing and parking his trucks on a lot adjacent to their property. "We want the law enforced," said Mrs. Smith. "We've called the Police Department and the Mayor and Commissioner (J. P.) Spears. We want him stopped."

Mayor Pro Tem Otis Neill advised the women of the pending legal action against Becker and said there is nothing he or the commission can do until the legal action is resolved. Neill suggested that they "be patient" and wait for the upcoming hearing.

Case Slated

The city is seeking an injunction against Becker for violating city zoning and building codes and the case takes care of the intersections and alleys. Because the contract for the paving of 20th St. has not been let, Webb could not give an estimate on the cost per foot of paving.

"Each resident on the block to be paved must put a check in escrow for the amount of the paving cost. We'll keep this check until the paving is completed, then we'll cash it," said Webb.

Webb said the contract to pave 20th St. also could include any private paving if the process is completed by the time the contract is let. "This is a good time to do paving," said Webb. "The cost will never be any less than what it is now."

will come before a Lubbock district judge May 16.

In other action, the Commission approved the Planning and Zoning Commission's recommendation that 5 1/2 lots in south Slaton belonging to James Edwards be used as site of a cement mixing plant. The Commission passed the action with the provision that if a residential development should ever be started in that area, the plant would have to be removed.

The Commission also accepted the resignation of Don Kendrick as Fire Marshal and Fire Chief and approved the selection of Bob Kern as acting Chief and Marshal.

The final action of the day was the reviewing of the city's second quarter budget report. City Secretary Alex Webb spent more than an hour reviewing the budget for the Commission and several visitors.

Financial Report

Webb reported that the city has collected $241,308 of the estimated $352,616.48 income for the year. "This is 68.4 per cent of the income collected for approximately half of the fiscal year. Although this is a little ahead of a 50 per cent mark, the collection of taxes is, for all purposes, over and in the coming months the receipt of money will even it out," said Webb. Through March of this year, $124,503 had been collected in taxes.

In the expenditure department, 55.5 per cent of Recognition was given to many visiting Rotary officials and former Slaton club members who returned for the occasion, and to O. Z. Ball, who has belonged to Slaton Rotary Club longer than any other current member. Ball joined the club in 1927, two years after it was organized.

Watkins, now president of Lubbock Downtown Rotary Club, which sponsored organization of the Slaton club in 1925, commented that "A man's work is not just a way of making a living, but one of service" to the community.

Quoting R. A. Baldwin, who was president of Slaton Rotary Club in 1933, Watkins noted that there were community tensions in Slaton when the club was formed in 1925, and said establishment of Rotary here helped to resolve some of these tensions in the early years.

Rex Webster, representing Rotary District Governor Marshall Formby of Plainview, who also was present, presented to the club a certificate recognizing the 50th anniversary of the club.

Club President J. C. McClesky presided, Bill Sewell introduced the speaker, and Mrs. John Sims provided dinner music. Spanish dances were performed by Vicki Madrid and Oscar Martinez.

G&H CASTINGS

Slaton Firm Chosen For Statewide Award

G&H Castings Corporation of Slaton is one of six companies selected to receive the Annual Governor's Expansion Award for 1974. Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced Wednesday. Others were Mooney Aircraft Corp. of Kerrville; Amoco Chemical Corp. of Alvin; Timex Corp. of Abilene; Inca Metal Products of Lewisville, and Mr. Fine of Athens. The six winners were nominated by their local chambers of commerce or industrial foundations and selected by the Texas Industrial Commission for their civic and economic contribution to their communities.

"Considering the economic situation we are now facing these awards take on a new meaning," Gov. Briscoe said in Austin. "Too often in the past, we have taken industrial expansion for granted. We shouldn't, considering almost 80 per cent of our growth and the majority of new jobs come from existing industry."

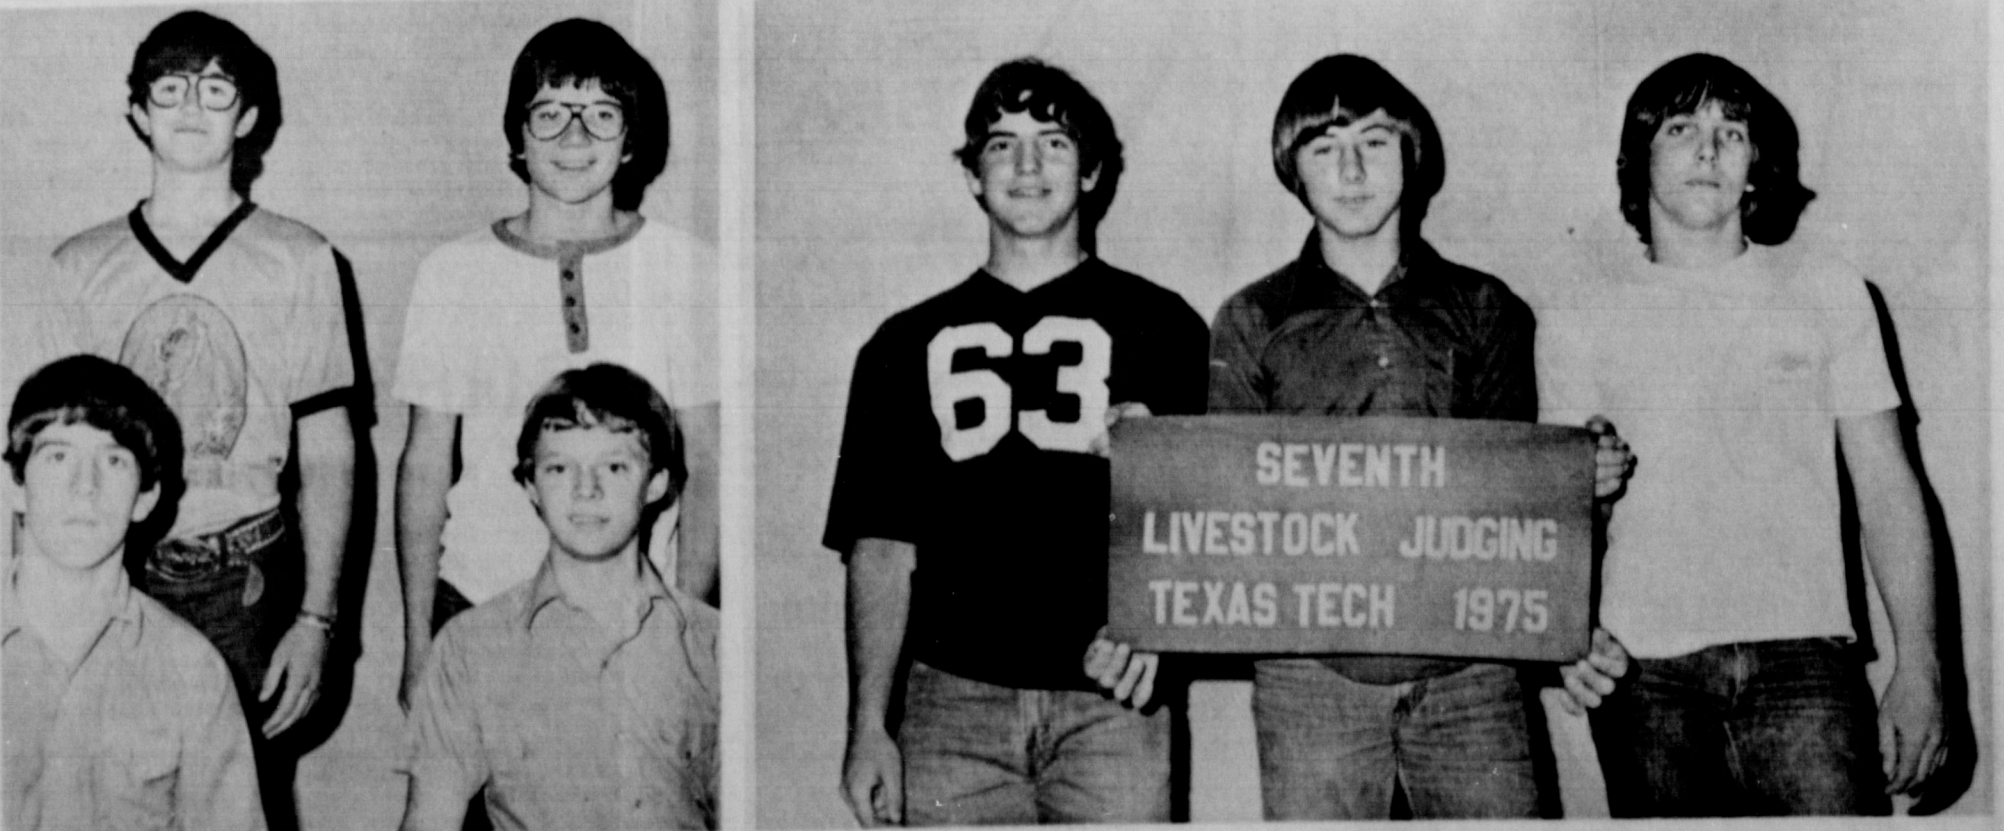

Gov. Briscoe said the award winners will be honored in ceremonies in May.

Jim Harwell, executive director of Texas Industrial Commission, said a record of entries were submitted. "Competition was especially keen this year. Usually we pick only five award winners, but the results were so close we selected six."

"Selection was made after analyzing company payroll increases; new employees; the plant area enlargement, as well as local expenditures for goods and services. Civic participation is also taken into consideration," he said.

G&H Castings Corporation of Slaton was recognized for a 100 per cent employment increase expansion. The 164 employees generated almost $500,000 company payroll last year, almost double that of 1973. In addition, the company spent $437,000 on local goods and services.

BICENTENNIAL BITS

By NEWMA CARNES

The 200th birthday of the United States of America — the Bicentennial — is a subject of increasing interest to ever-increasing numbers of people. We see about it on TV, hear about it on the radio, read about it in magazines and newspapers. This birthday — this Bicentennial — is a big event growing bigger daily.

Slatonites would like to help celebrate, not just "in our own small way," but by becoming a part of the national celebration. Slaton citizens are meeting now, working to insure Slaton a role in the national celebration.

You can help. Slaton's first step in national participation is to form a Bicentennial Committee — that step has been taken. The committee includes representatives of the city's ages, occupations, and ethnic groups.

The second step is formation of sub-committees to suggest goals and projects for the three areas of celebration: Heritage '76 — projects relating to our history and heritage; Festival U.S.A. — projects of celebration and cultural activities; and Horizons '76 — projects to prepare for the future. These also have been formed.

The third step is to submit the Bicentennial program to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission (ARBC) in Texas. Following state endorsement, the program is submitted to the ARBC in Washington. Slaton action on this step will be taken as soon as the committee can prepare the program.

How can you help? By making certain that you and your ideas, talents, and interests are represented in the Slaton Bicentennial program. To assure this, one must participate in the meetings, the planning and the work. Each club, church, occupation, and organization should be represented.

The second general meeting of the Slaton Bicentennial Committee was in the Chamber of Commerce building Tuesday. The next general meeting will be May 13.

For further information, contact one of these chairpersons: Ellis Schmidt, Newma Carnes, Tom Roy, Liz Bourn, Geraldine Mann, Greeley Sanders, Mary Louise Ruiz, Almarine Childers, George Privett or Milton Schlueter.

Questions Answered About Cancer

People in the Slaton-Roosevelt area have a lot of questions about cancer.

Here are some answers from the Slaton-Roosevelt American Cancer Society Unit, whose volunteers say "We want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime," as they conduct the Society's annual educational and fund-raising crusade hereabouts this month.

Q. What is cancer?
A. Cancer is actually a group of diseases all characterized by the same trait: the abnormal growth and spread of cells.

Q. If I get cancer, what are my chances?

A. If cancer is diagnosed when just beginning, and treatment is prompt, the chances of cure are excellent. This year more than 218,000 Americans will be saved from cancer.

Q. Can cancer ever be prevented?
A. Yes. Elimination of the cigarette habit could prevent the development of most lung cancer, a major killer of American men and women. Avoidance of over-exposure to the sun could prevent skin cancer.

Q. Do viruses cause cancer?

A. Scientists have established the fact that viruses can cause cancer in animals, but thus far, it hasn't been proven in humans.

Wood Girls Just Miss State Trip

Slaton's girls doubles tennis duo of Juanel and Vondell Wood just missed going to the state tournament at Austin as they lost a close match in the regional semifinals at Odessa last Saturday after winning twice. The twin seniors then played the other semifinals loser, defeating that team to take the third place trophy in the field of 16 teams.

The district championship girls from Slaton defeated Donna Carroll and Sharon Curbo of Winters 6-2, 6-1 in the first round, then in quarterfinals ousted Linda Norman and Kelly McDowell of Floydada 6-3, 6-3. Then in the semis, the Woods were beaten 6-4, 6-4 by Morton's top doubles team of Sherita Fluitt - Prescilla Minor. Both sets were tied at 4-all before the Morton team was able to win.

In the third place match, Vondell and Juanel outlasted Morton's other team of Joan Whitehead and Kathy Mason, also a semifinalist, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

Donette Marble and Debby Johnson of Floydada repeated as regional champions by overcoming Fluitt and Minor in the finals 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

few drivers know how to keep their cars youthfully sleek. Here are some questions and answers on car-care routine that will enhance your buggy's beauty as well as its trade-in value.

1. Do you hose your car with a good strong jet of water? You're courting nicks and scratches if you do. The blast may actually drive grit INTO the finish and scratch the windows.

2. What's the water-drop test? It's an easy way to gauge the rust-resistance of your chrome. Pour a few drops of water on chrome surfaces. If the drops form little beads, your chrome is okay, but if they spread in patches over the surface, get out Simoniz Chrome Cleaner. It cleans and restores beauty to chromium and other metals, and removes and prevents rust.

3. How often should you polish your car? Every three or four months, but chrome may need more frequent protection against the elements.

Cities Now Get Sales Tax Sooner

The new monthly payments replace the old quarterly rebates which Bullock said "were only a step ahead of the Pony Ex-

Comptroller Bob Bullock issued $16.1 million in checks last week in the first ever monthly payment of city sales taxes. The monthly payment to Slaton was listed at $3,244.62.

The quarterly system, with a lag of 60 to 90 days between the state getting the tax and when it went to the cities, had been in use since the first city sales tax went into effect in 1968.

Tuesday's payments went to more than 500 towns and cities for taxes collected between Feb. 18, the cutoff date of the last quarterly payment, and April 4.

In a letter to city officials Bullock said the "quicker payments should be an asset to every city's financial operations" and that "because this money belongs to your citizens we have a responsibility to get it to you as quickly as possible."

Bullock said cities can expect future monthly payments about mid-month. He said the first two months payments can be expected to be less than the payment of the third month of each cycle when quarterly tax payments by merchants come in.

Under the new monthly system payments of less than $500 won't be made, Bullock said. Monthly allocations of less than $500 will be added to the next month and paid either when they top $500 or at the end of each third month regardless of amount.

There were 273 towns with allocations of less than $500 for the first month on the new system.

'Texas' Opening Prompts Annual Art Competition

The Gala Opening of the musical drama, "Texas" in the Palo Duro Canyon on June 18, 1975 will be the occasion for the third art competition sponsored by the drama and the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum. The subject for 1975 will be "Openings".

The judges for the competition on the occasion of the 10th season of "Texas" are being announced this week: they are Olive Vandruff Bugbee of Clarendon, art curator of the Museum; Clarence Kincaid of Lubbock, horn professor of art at Texas Tech; Allan Brown, in charge of photography at West Texas State University.

Mrs. Bugbee is a distinguished painter whose pictures hang in many galleries. To reinforce the formal training she received at the University of Chicago and from recognized artists, she has lived outdoors, working with animals, studying them and studying the geology of the land around them. Her passion for wildlife emerges in the vitality and clarity of her paintings.

Clarence Kincaid received his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees in Art at West Texas State University and took his doctorate at the famous Pennsylvania State Art Department. He has held many shows throughout the region and specialized in water color and design.

Allan Brown is also a graduate of West Texas State University but in Political Science. He turned to photography after his graduation and is recognized as one of the best commercial photographers in the area. One of his specialties is aerial photography.

As in previous years, the preliminary selections will be made from slides or small photographs of the originals. These must be in the "Texas" office by 5 p.m. June 4. Send them to "Openings", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or bring them to the "Texas" office, 2010 Fourth Avenue in Canyon.

Final judging will take place on June 18. The prize for the 10 winning artists in each class will be two tickets to the Gala Opening of the 10th season of "Texas" that evening.

The winning entries will be displayed at the performance and then will hang in the Museum from June 24 through July 30.

Entries in three classes will be judged: Painting including oils, acrylics, gouaches, tempera, water color and mixed media; Drawing including pastels, pencil sketches, pen and inks, felt tips and graphics; and photographs including color and black and white.

"Openings" of all kinds will be considered: eyes, ears, doors, windows, caves, tunnels, seeds bursting, — opening nights.

For information about the contest write "Openings". For information about the performance write "Texas". The address in both cases is Box 268, Canyon, and the telephone number is 806-655-2182.

Tennis Camps Slated At WTSU

CANYON, Texas — Registration for the sixth annual West Texas Tennis Camp continues at a brisk pace, according to camp director David Kent, but plenty of spaces remain open two of the three summer sessions.

The camp, on the campus of West Texas State University, is scheduled for three sessions, June 1-7, June 22-28, and July 27-Aug. 2.

"The first session is already filled, but we still have plenty of openings in the second and third," said Kent, who also is head tennis coach at WTSU.

More than 1,200 young tennis players have improved their games since the camp was started five years ago. Campers enjoy excellent tennis facilities, a modern dormitory, and balanced meals.

Cost for each weeklong session is $150. Application forms are available by writing David Kent at West Texas State, Box 413, Canyon, Texas 79016. A $50 deposit is required with all applications. The camp cost includes room, board, instruction, and all activities.

Campers receive an extra bonus during their off hours. The $4-million WTSU Activities Center is open to them. Inside the AC, campers will find swimming, bowling, paddleball and handball courts, and many other varied activities.

The second and third sessions of the camp will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

TEXAS TALK

By FRED MYERS

The worst is over... probably. Statements like this have become the most common hedge in the cattle industry in the past few weeks as top executives of the beef business find reason to be cautiously optimistic in the face of rising per capita consumption and a decrease in the industry's number one problem, glut. Caused by a combination of price controls, natural cattle cycle (cattle population reaches a cyclical peak every 10-11 years) and high feed prices, glut (oversupply) seemed for a while to be unending. Consumers are solving the problem by buying more beef and accepting grass-fed meat. Packers buying grass-fed cattle have to use 2 or 3 of the young pasture-fed cattle to produce as much meat as a single grain-fed animal. So the problem seems to be solving itself, but even the optimistic cattlemen (not the easiest thing to find) say it will take at least 18 months before the industry is back to normal.

Area Men In Service

ANTHONY COMPLETES OSUT PROGRAM

Army Private Homer R. Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferreal R. Anthony, Slaton, completed the new "One Station Unit Training" (OSUT) program at Ft. Polk, La. OSUT provides basic and advanced training with the same unit, on the same post.

Accent on Health

Many Texas children who have never had physical examinations are getting them through a medical screening program which has extended services to more than 159,000 children in the past two years.

These preventive health services are being extended to Texas youngsters, ages 0 to 21 years old, who are on "aid for families with dependent children," "aid to blind" and "aid to totally or partially disabled." All are on welfare rolls.

The Department of Public Welfare is responsible for administering the Texas Medical Assistance Program and consequently has responsibility for implementation of the periodic screening program. But because of the State Health Department's activity in this field, the Health Department has taken over responsibility for screening through an agreement between the big agencies. The cooperative program is known as "Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment" — EPSDT.

Object of the program is to identify physical problems in the children and refer them to physicians and other appropriate sources for such services.

Statistics prove that these children are greatly in need of diagnosis and treatment.

In fact, more than one-third of those screened throughout the state were found to have medical problems — some of them of urgent nature.

During the life of the program, 159,310 children have been screened and 58,415 — more than 36 per cent referred for treatment. Biggest problem has been in the field of vision, followed by low hemoglobin (anemia). As you would expect in screening so many children, problems do run the gamut from small to major defects.

Example:

A 2½ year old boy near Bryan, with the aid of State Health Department Laboratory tests and an examining pediatrician, was found to have epilepsy, anemia and high lead content in the blood. The child was briefly hospitalized and placed on medication. The child had been delivered by a midwife two months prematurely and had little or no medical follow-up, including immunizations.

A 16 year old boy with severe acne of the face, shoulders and back was examined. His history revealed that he was very uncooperative, caused problems and refused to participate in any social functions at the children's home where he lived. Referral to a skin specialist for successful treatment, which gave the youngster a new outlook on life. On his first interview, the boy had told a State Health Department worker, "I thought after you reached 14, if you still had pimples nothing could be done."

Example:

A woman whose husband had recently died of kidney disease had two of her children in the hospital for evaluation of kidney problems. She became frightened and removed them from the hospital and medical care. When the children were brought in for screening, the mother was convinced of the importance of medical care. The children were returned to the hospital and now are on kidney dialysis machines awaiting transplants.

Rural Wreck Toll Listed

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 45 accidents on rural highways in Lubbock County during the month of March, 1975, according to Sgt. O. C. Guthrie, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed and 18 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first three months of 1975 shows a total of 125 accidents resulting in four persons killed and 69 persons injured.

Many Approaches

Scientists seeking an answer to cancer are involved in many different kinds of studies—for example, virology (the study of viruses as a possible cause of cancer), cell biology and immunology (the study of the body's natural defense system). It's important to keep each kind of research going at top speed, say the American Cancer Society volunteers as they conduct the April 1975 ACS educational and fund-raising Crusade nationwide.

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO...?

SAMMY BAUGH was pro football's first great passer. The lanky six feet, two inches, 175 pounder was All-America tailback at Texas Christian in 1936. He played 16 years with the Washington Redskins and completed 1,693 of 2,995 passes for a 56.5 percentage. Today Sammy Baugh is still 175 pounds and keeps busy on his 35,000-acre cattle ranch near Rotan, Tex.

HANK GREENBERG'S big bat earned him his niche in baseball's Hall of Fame as a slugging first baseman for the Detroit Tigers. His big year was in 1938 when he slammed 58 home runs, just two away from Babe Ruth's record of 60. His lifetime batting average was .313, including 331 homers. Today Hank Greenberg is an investment broker in New York City.

WES SANTEE in the early 1950s was America's greatest miler. While wearing the colors of Kansas University, he came within a half-second of breaking the then supposedly insurmountable sub-four-minute mile barrier. In 1955 he was barred from competition by the A.A.U. for accepting excess expense money. Today Wes Santee heads his own insurance agency in Lawrence, Kan.

BOBBY THOMSON was 28 years old when he hit that pennant-winning home run off Ralph Branca in 1951 at the Polo Grounds. It was the third playoff game between the Giants and Dodgers. It was the bottom of the ninth inning, two men on base, and the score 4-2 when he lofted a fast ball into the left field seats. Today Bobby Thomson resides in Watchung, N.Y., and is a sales representative for a paper company.

TONY TRABERT in 1953 became number one tennis player in the United States, winning the coveted National Championship at Forest Hills, N.Y. Two years later he became the best in the world, beating Kurt Nielsen in the finals at Wimbledon, without the loss of a set. He received a $75,000 offer and turned pro. Today he operates his own tennis school in Ojai, Calif.

PARRY O'BRIEN in 1954 was the first shot putter to toss the 16-pound ball over 60 feet. He competed in four Olympiads, winning two gold medals, in 1952 at Helsinki, and in 1956 at Melbourne. He finished second in 1960 at Rome. Today Parry is a vice president of a mortgage banking concern in Los Angeles.

Your BABY HELPFUL HINTS ABOUT INFANTS

THE FORMULA FOR A HEALTHY BABY

Every year in this country an average three and a half million babies are born. If you are a parent of one of them, there are probably a few things you'd like to know about helping keep that new citizen healthy and well nourished.

The first person you should consult about your baby is his or her pediatrician, who knows what's best for each individual child. He may well tell you that the way your baby eats is often as important as what your baby eats. Before the age of six months or so, propping a baby's bottle and leaving baby unattended while feeding should not be condoned, regardless of how busy mother may be. The danger is great that the milk will come out too fast and choke the child. Moreover, no matter how the baby is fed, it is desirable that the mother sit down and hold her baby for feeding three or four times a day. This not only gives the mother a few moments of rest and relaxation, but, according to psychiatrists, a warm, close relationship is likely to develop which benefits both mother and child.

What a child eats is still vital, however. Often, in an effort to be the "first on the block" to have a child who eats solid food, mothers will introduce solid food items into the baby's diet before they are recommended by the pediatrician. Today, pediatricians agree that during a baby's first year a well-balanced diet is especially important. Formulas, such as Enfamil, can help provide a complete balanced nutrient intake for an infant. Enfamil is easy to use, since it comes in special, already-prepared bottles called Nursettes or in a ready-to-use 32-fluid-ounce can from which a day's supply of bottles can be filled. The ready-to-use formula does not require sterilization, and does not have to be refrigerated until after the can is opened.

Ingenious Triumphs Of Chemistry

GOOD NEWS ABOUT SCIENTIFIC ADVANCES

THE MAGIC OIL BARREL: A CHEMICAL FAIRY TALE

Imagine a barrel, a barrel containing 100 gallons of crude oil. Now imagine it's a magic barrel, and standing over it is — what else? — a magician, pulling out an amazing array of articles.

For instance: Forty-six white shirts (65 percent polyester), 13 garbage cans, 46 sweaters, 365 ladies' lingerie, two tires, nearly eight tire tubes and 23 pounds of filler equivalent to four and a half auto tires.

And for good measure almost enough fuel gas to last an average household 30 days.

Our magician aims to please, though, and on demand, instead of the garbage cans, he could pull out of his barrel 40 buckets, or 1,155 feet of home water pipe or 8,800 square feet of film sheet. Instead of sweaters, he will gladly give us 11 blankets or 66 rolls of cord or nine beer cases. Rather than lingerie, the ladies might want 910 pairs of nylon pantyhose — or nine 16" television cabinets. Rather than tires for our autos, we may want 27 tires for our bicycles and 35 tubes for those tires.

Not Magic, But a Real Industry

Quite an act, but the barrel isn't magic, of course, and the magician is a very real, productive and innovative chemical industry that can extract all those products by taking 53 of the gallons in a real barrel and sending them through some complex processes to produce intermediate and end products that make up much of the modern world.

In economic terms, it is estimated that more than 85 percent of all the goods and services used each year rely on chemicals in some way. The chemical input may be very small, perhaps one to five percent, but it is vitally necessary.

Not only is the chemical industry necessary, it also adds tremendously to the value of basic and intermediate materials by transforming, or making it possible to transform, those materials into a multitude of products.

One analyst recently estimated that there are 315,000 people working in the petrochemical industry. They provide 1,000,000 jobs in basic industries that are chemically related — synthetic fibers, synthetic rubber, for example. In turn, four to 10 million people are at work using the materials to make the things we, the consumer, use.

If the petrochemical industry lost only 15 percent of its oil and natural gas feedstocks, almost two million people would lose their jobs and our gross national product would drop $65 to $70 billion.

But there is another way the chemical industry adds value to oil. It builds in some permanence. When crude oil is refined into fuel and then burned — it's gone. The petrochemical industry, on the other hand, turns the crude into objects, some of them seemingly as permanent as man can make them, some semi-permanent and some ephemeral — those pantyhose, for instance.

Some articles can be recycled, however. The tire mentioned earlier must be replaced, but what's left can be recycled and used as an additive for asphalt filler or filled with concrete to become part of a reef or breakwater, thus adding miles to a tire's life.

Reconverting Plastics

Even plastics, the environmentalist's bane precisely because they are designed for qualities of permanence and near-indestructibility, needn't become litter in perpetuity or thrown onto an ever-growing waste pile. It seems certain now that a way will be found to degrade plastics so that the energy locked inside will be set free and converted to our use after years and years of other use made possible by the chemical industry.

The chemical industry uses only five percent of the oil and three percent of the natural gas consumed in this country for the petrochemical industry. Although the share of the barrel's importance of the entire economy is not over-estimated.

At the same time, the industry realizes its part to conserve and has taken a leadership role in this area. After meetings with the federal government concerning conservation, the industry has set a goal of 15 percent reduction in energy use — a 330,000 barrels of oil equivalent a day by 1980 compared with 1975 base. This volume of energy is being conserved through the Manufacturing Chemists Association's "Using the Chemical Industry's Energy" program.

The plastics industry dependent virtually on petrochemical plastics means that from packaging to dinnerware, non-stick pans, floor coverings, work surfaces, auto parts, gears, thermal and electrical — and life-extending — replacement of the human body.

More than half for everything from coats to chemicals, as well as construction industry wood is a good example of other covering. To ink, printing the petrochemical. The lowly aspirin, antifungal shampoo, detergents are all products.

How important are petrochemicals? Ask charge of alien world's food show half the fertilizer creates the world yield comes from and natural gas.

Maybe, after a far-fetched to this barrel of crude oil — if it springs a leak in trouble.

Accent on Health

Food is your most urgent daily need. The hunger drive is basic to human existence and survival. Yet the food you eat — and the foods you don't eat — may be a contributing factor to serious health problems now and in the future. Your eating habits may actually lead to the destruction of your health, according to the State Health Department.

The nation's diet is so poor, in fact, that improper nutrition costs some $30 billion a year in doctor bills and other health care costs, according to a report from the U. S. Senate's Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

The committee said that there are three major dietary problems in this country: undernutrition, or not enough food; malnutrition, or not enough of the right kinds of food; and overnutrition — too much food, especially too many calories.

Inadequate nutrition has been associated with poor mental development and even with emotional instability. Maternal and infant diseases and deaths, absenteeism among school children and among the workforce, losses of life due to cardiovascular diseases and hypertension, the expense of dental disease, alcoholism, diabetes, obesity, digestive malfunctioning... all of these potentially crippling and life-threatening conditions can be attributed, at least in part, to poor nutrition.

Most people know that there are some foods which are better than others for helping children grow and keeping adults vigorous and well. Unfortunately, most people don't bother to follow what they know to be good dietary practices. We eat only the things we like, what we're used to eating, or what we think we can easily afford — although, in fact, good nutrition is no more expensive than bad nutrition. Too many people fall for brightly-packaged foods, or foods that can be prepared quickly and eaten on the run, rather than the sensible choice of foods that provide a nourishing, balanced daily diet.

Nutritional scientists have identified on less than 57 nutrients that are used by the human body and that are necessary for life and well-being. These include 13 vitamins and vitamin groups; 17 minerals; 22 amino acids, the basic building-blocks of protein; several fatty acids and other fat-like substances; sugars; starches; and water. All of these nutrients, in their proper proportions, can be included in the daily diet by choosing wisely from the four major food groups.

Chances are you already know what the four basic food groups are. See whether you can name them: first, the meat and protein groups, including nuts and soybeans; second, the milk and dairy group, including cheeses; third, the fruit and vegetable group; fourth, starches and cereals. State health authorities recommend a diet that includes a selection from each of these four basic food groups every day.

The body converts the 57 nutrients found in these basic foods into thousands of different chemical compounds that are needed to create blood, bones, muscles, the tissues of the central nervous system, and the hormones and enzymes that regulate the body functions. This is a 24-hour-a-day process. Food is used for energy, growth, and the maintenance and repair of all body tissues. Food also is essential to regulate the body's internal processes, including natural resistance to disease, according to public health officials.

A nutritional deficiency is the result of jacking in an insufficient supply of one or more of the basic nutrients.

This doesn't happen overnight, but rather accumulates over an extended period of time when the body doesn't get an adequate supply of an essential nutrient. At first, the body adapts to the insufficiency by drawing what it needs out of its own tissues. The body also can slow down, or sometimes completely stop, the chemical processes that require a certain nutrient.

Eventually, a nutritional deficiency will make itself known through such common symptoms as fatigue, poor appetite, insomnia, a general achiness, or other generalized feelings of not being "quite up to par." Sometimes a fairly serious nutritional deficiency may be completely hidden, since the nutrients act in an interrelated manner, or the deficiency may be mistakenly attributed to "low-grade viruses," common colds, and similar common, largely incurable health problems.

To make matters worse, people with poor diets do have more colds, flu-type viruses, and other relatively minor health problems. Poor nutrition often results in lower immunity to these common diseases, according to state health authorities.

But an excessive number of colds or flu attacks be just the milder sequences of poor nutrition. Inadequate diet can contribute to, or cause, a host of serious, life-threatening diseases and health problems.

The role of and of both cholesterol and saturated fats in the development of hypertension and heart disease has been publicized.
