WORK

by dalton

IN A HOT TIN ROOF: If my money were to hold out, one of these days we would have a carport finished. Right now it's in the month of construction, mainly in the days when it is nice enough to do such things, it also is nice enough for recreational activities, which are much more than hitting your finger with a hammer.

It was a hot day, so I figured it would be a good time to put roofing tar in the tin roof of the carport. Someone told me that was best for this, because then the tar would be soft enough to work with. What I forgot to say was that on such a hot day the roof would be kind of like a skillet.

At this problem Saturday by sending up on the roof to do all the work. Her was that some of the braces and stuff (I don't know all the terminology; I just nail the boards didn't appear to be strong enough to hold up, but I was sure they would hold up, she's so trim and slim. She bought so I'm going to stick by it.

She spent most of the afternoon on making by degrees and smearing the tar. Meanwhile, I got around on the roof of the carport and painted very well, when she was engrossed in work her eyes were coated with perspiration, I had to play tennis.

When she came back, she was still up there, kinda bad about it, so I told her to come down. Besides, about that time she had finished the job, and it was time to come down and go fix supper.

The incident is just another which shows that I am definitely management although some might have another opinion.

COLES: Newspaper advertising is the last week a woman called in an ad for a dog and found it before the paper. And some folks ran an ad opposing the school finance bill and it was the next day. For a second or two I figured my friend Ted Gentry had stuck up. I saw him walking down and I waved at him and he didn't wave. Like a dummy, I had forgot for a moment that he is blind.

Pool Operation Here Assured

Negotiations were under way this week to lease the swimming pool in the park to a private operator, and Chamber of Commerce officials affirmed that regardless of what develops, the pool will be operated here this summer.

pool will be operated here this summer.

"Also," said manager Tom Roy, "there definitely will be swimming lessons taught by qualified instructors here in the Slaton pool, and anyone who is interested in signing up for these lessons already may contact the chamber office."

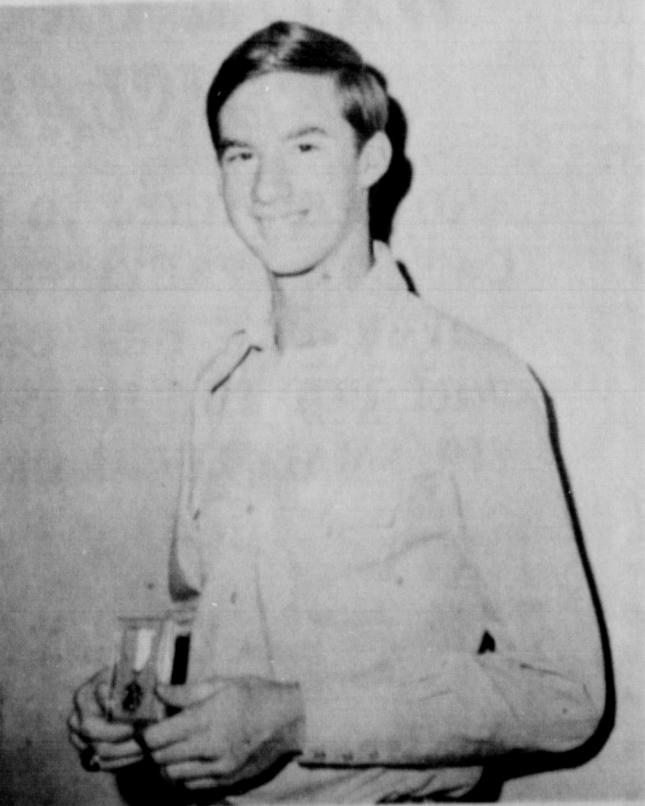

The Chamber board is expected to consider the matter at its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday.

TEXAS TALK

By FRED MYERS

A marked decline in the number of varieties being grown commercially is one of the unusual things about Texas' number one cash crop... cotton. In 1910, F. J. Tyler, in an article entitled Varieties of American Upland Cotton, reported for the United States Department of Agriculture that there were 613 varieties of cotton being grown. Sixty-five years later there are fewer than 50 with only about ten of those commonly used. Two reasons are predominant for the unusual turn-around. First the boll weevil infestation wiped out many susceptible long-staple varieties. Second, producers have developed the varieties they like best and are satisfied with the increases in crop yields, the storm resistant boll (for machine harvest) and the generally shorter growing season provided by relatively few types. Evidence of the success of the varieties being used is amply illustrated when comparing current yield per acre with that of 1950.

WRITES TO UIL
As a matter of public interest, the following letter sent to the University Interscholastic League, Bureau of Public School Service, Division of Extension, University of Texas, Austin, Texas, is being printed:

Dear Sir:
As an avid University Interscholastic League participant, I sincerely believe Spanish should be included in the school contest.

I am a Spanish-speaking Anglo who believes that this language is an integral part of daily life in Texas. Since the Southwest has a large percentage of Mexican-Americans, the following facts are apparent:

1. Extensive tourist travel exists between Mexico and the United States.
2. Business transactions are made on a considerable scale between these neighboring countries.
3. There should be better understanding between our two cultural groups.

A study of Spanish and our common historical background will help to further our respect of each other, thus bettering social and economic levels of all. The inclusion of Spanish contests in our League would cause more interest in Spanish by Texans.

Ray Kitten Attends National Conference

Ray Kitten of Slaton, president of the Board of Directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, recently returned from a trip to Washington, D.C., where he attended the National Conference on Water and Hearings of the Federal Power Commission (FPC).

The district's manager, Frank Rayner, read a petition adopted by the Board of Directors on April 12 which urged the FPC to re-establish the priority of natural gas for irrigation by downgrading the priority of use category.

On Dec. 19, 1974, the FPC had issued an order to El Paso Natural Gas Co. which curtailed the use of natural gas for irrigation by downgrading the priority of use category.

Wilson Receives Fire Truck

This week is important to the residents of Wilson.

The Wilson Volunteer Fire Department, under the leadership of Fire Chief Dan Cook, took possession of a fire truck presented to them by the Texas Forest Service.

The new fire fighting unit consists of a 750 gallon tank and a 100 gallon per-minute pump mounted on a government surplus 2½ ton truck. The unit was assembled at the Fire Control Department's shop in Lufkin, and was painted by Texas Department of Corrections personnel at Huntsville.

The unit was made available to Wilson through the Cooperative Rural Fire Defense Program which is conducted by the Texas Forest Service. This program helps rural communities develop and maintain local capability to prevent and suppress natural-cover fires which threaten their forests, range, structural improvements, and human lives.

Through the Cooperative Rural Fire Defense Program, the Texas Forest Service has provided fire trucks for a number of Texas communities. Total cost to the community for a fire truck is normally under $3,500, but may be higher depending upon the extra equipment specified by the cooperating volunteer fire department.

To be eligible to receive one of these fire fighting units a community must: submit a formal application from its volunteer fire department or other functional organization; prepare and submit an operational fire plan; provide for systematic personnel training in fire suppression tactics and safety; provide for reimbursement to the Service of a reasonable portion of the material costs involved in the modification and loan of equipment; and execute an Equipment Loan Agreement which specifies Texas Forest Service and Cooperator responsibilities, equipment reimbursement amounts, and

Washington, FPC Administrative Law Judge Curtis L. Wagner, Jr., ordered public hearings to be held on the subject in Lubbock, Phoenix, Ariz., and Albuquerque, N.M., "because of the unique characteristic of agriculture".

The National Conference on Water, called by the White House at the Cabinet level and sponsored by the United States Water Resources Council, was held April 22-24. Eight panels composed of water officials, legislators, environmentalists, Federal agencies and members of the general public discussed and exchanged views on the objectives of the conference: (1) to examine the role of water in national affairs through 1985 and (2) consider the adequacy of existing and proposed policies and programs in fulfilling this role.

New Plant Recycles Cattle Feedlot Waste

The largest facility ever built to recycle cattle feedlot waste has commenced production at Summerfield, Texas.

Operated by the BioCon Division of Searle Agriculture, Inc., the new facility uses a bacterial digestion process to convert cattle manure into a soil conditioner, called "Tilleez," that improves the tilth and fertility of farmland.

BioCon's facility, situated eight miles southwest of Hereford in the Texas Panhandle, can accomplish in about six days a biological conversion of manure that would take a year to complete in nature. Company officials estimate that the plant will recycle approximately 150,000 to 200,000 tons of feedlot waste per year.

Dr. William C. Hackett, general manager of the BioCon Division and a developer of the recycling concept, describes Tilleez as "a useful resource recovered from an ecological problem. The process creates a commodity of value to farmers and, at the same time, reduces the odor of the manure as an environmental concern," he said.

The heart of the BioCon plant is two 400-foot-long vats, each capable of holding up to 1,700 tons of waste. After being pulverized, manure is distributed in the vats where bacterial action converts it into soil conditioner.

Soil conditioner produced at the Summerfield facility will be available in bulk to High Plains farmers through agricultural supply distributors.

The recycling concept used by BioCon was pioneered under Dr. Hackett's direction at a cattle feed yard in Ohio. The new operation in the Texas Panhandle utilizes a bacterial digestion principle developed in Ohio but has certain adaptations for the Southwest.

Library News

The children's Storyhour was Saturday in the Slaton Branch Library. Eighteen children enjoyed the filmstrips "The Little Island" and "Hercules". Lisa Nowlin read several stories to the group. Nora Torres brought her handmade puppet from Mexico, "Paunchito" and let it dance to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw." The children checked out books on their departure. This was the last Storyhour before the summer programs begin weekly in June and July.

Friday afternoon, one kindergarten class is scheduled to tour the library. The students will view some filmstrips and hear stories read.

The summer reading club will begin June 2, and continue until July 26. The theme will be "Bartholomew Cubbins" of Dr. Suess. Children reading four books will be given a membership card, on which additional hats will be added for 14 books. They will make the honor roll upon completing the required books.

"Kidstuff Again", will be renewed June 2, and each Tuesday afternoon at 3 p.m. a program of films or puppet shows will be enjoyed for eight weeks during the summer.

Library hours: 11:30 to 6 p.m., and 9 to 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
Editor, The Slatonite:

I would like to pay tribute to a lady that means a lot to me. She is the kind of person that doesn't say a whole lot, but what she does say is worth listening to. She is a Christian lady with a Christian family. She went with her children to Sunday School, instead of just sending them. I would need the entire space in the newspaper just to tell of the good she has done. There are many ladies who have the same qualities as she, but this lady has never received any credit for her achievements.

To many people she is Mrs. Ricker, to her close friends she is Doris. Her husband calls her "Honey" or "Sugar". But to me she's "Mama."

BICENTENNIAL BITS

By NEWMA CARNES

Jackie McElfresh is chairing a Heritage sub-committee to prepare a broadcast of Bicentennial Moments over KCAS. If you have information about early-day

Slaton events, places, or people; or if you are a senior citizen who would like to reminisce, contact Maxine Walker (828-3509). May 26 is Memorial Day. Everyone is urged to display flags and to wear the red, white and blue colors of our country on that day. Before

May 26, the Festival committee will sponsor flag sales — both the large flags with brackets for mounting on a building and the small flags to be handheld at parades. Bing Bingham, Cynthia Jackson, and Stephen F. Austin school will handle the flag sales. The Festival committee is also planning presentation of a play with a bicentennial theme. Tentative date for the performance is in October. Call Sandy Martin (828-6201) for additional information.

The major project of both Heritage and Horizon committees is a museum for Slaton. Several themes and several locations have been proposed and are now being investigated. If you have materials you might be willing to loan for a display, if you have a suggestion about a good location for a museum, or if you would like to join the community effort to establish a museum, please talk to Betty Perkins (828-6240 or 828-3378). Almarine Childers, Milton Schlueter and George Privett are co-chairmen of the Heritage committee, which presently numbers 23 persons. Liz Bourn and Geraldine Mann chair the Horizon committee, and the Festival committee is under the leadership of Greeley Sanders, Mary Louise Ruiz and Helen Dunn.

Interested persons get together.

Check with your president, chairman, leader, or minister to be certain that your church, club, organization, group, etc. has a representative on the Slaton Bicentennial Committee. The next general meeting is Tuesday, May 13, 7:30 p.m., at the Chamber of Commerce office.

City Needs Emblem For Bicentennial

Slaton is looking for an official Bicentennial emblem for the city.

Tom Roy, Chamber of Commerce manager, said the competition is open to everyone, and the original design emblem will be used on all literature and materials during Slaton's Bicentennial celebration.

Roy said the emblem should reflect the theme of the nation's 200th anniversary and its importance to Slaton.

Entries should be submitted in four color on an 8 1/2 x 11 sheet of paper. Also, a description of the emblem should be submitted also, telling the significance of the design.

Deadline for the entries is June 15. The winner will be announced at the July 4 celebration.

Below are Bicentennial emblems for Texas, Lubbock and the United States.

Read 1 John 4:7-11

Their hearts had felt strangely warm as he talked with them and explained the Scriptures during the walk down the road. (Luke 24:31, TLB)

The basis of a good world, or home, depends on how much we love each other.

Because her advice had been scornfully dismissed, the mother of a frustrated and rebellious teenage son was tempted to become angry. She could have belittled him by saying, "For goodness sake, go ahead and do it your way. We're tired of your insults!" But hesitating momentarily, she remembered the Lord's love and patience in her own life and quietly said, "Well, that's different than I would do it, but go ahead and try it."

Thus she continued to relate to her son, keeping the way open for further communication. Acceptance, love, and understanding do not necessarily mean agreeing, but rather just continuous walking together.

Can we not walk together with others and warm their hearts with Christ's winsome influence as He did?

PRAYER: Teach us to walk uprightly with those about us, O Father, warming their hearts with Your good news and helping motivate them to some service for You. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: We will let the love of God radiate through us to others.

Nursing Home News

You are invited to come help us honor our mothers on Mothers day. We will be having open house Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. We are having come and go tea, and we would like to have everyone come by.

We have two new residents this week, Mrs. Beulah Locknane, who came here from Clovis, N.M., and Mrs. Carrie Barry from Slaton. We are very happy to have these ladies.

We have only two residents having birthdays in May. They are Daisy O'Conner, May 26, 1888, and Matthew Matthews, May 29, 1895. Our birthday party will be Tuesday afternoon, May 20, at 2:30 p.m. We invite you to come help them celebrate.

Monday night everyone enjoyed slides of the Holy Lands. They were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Akin. We surely did enjoy the pictures since this is the only way in which most of us will ever see the places of Christ's life, and many others of Biblical days.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schnell of Slaton have had as their house guest this week their granddaughter, Denise Tankersley, a '75 graduate of Columbine High School of Littleton, Colo. She was salutatorian of her class. Mr. and Mrs. Schnell attended the graduation exercises.

Accent on Health

Medical help for children in Texas comes from many sources, and for three children living near Brenham it was the State Health Department Laboratories which discovered they had high lead levels in their bodies.

Lead poisoning can cause mental retardation or even death, and early discovery is vital to prevent any lasting effects. How did the laboratories in Austin become involved with lead poisoning cases near Brenham?

The State Health Department, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Public Welfare, is carrying out an extensive medical screening program throughout the state for children on welfare rolls. The State Health Department is responsible for the physical examinations given under this Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment (EPSDT) Program through a contract with the Welfare Dept.

When a medical screening team from the State Health Department rolled into Brenham last year — bringing with it the promise of better health — the three children with lead poisoning attended the clinic.

During the extensive physical examinations, blood samples were taken to be sent to the Health Department Laboratories for analysis. On this day — a lucky one for the three children — the blood samples taken disclosed the sinister lead condition.

The initial high lead reading led to another test to verify the first result, and the children began treatment to leech the lead from their systems.

It also resulted in an investigation by an environmental health engineer of the premises where the children lived. His inspection of the home showed lead-based paint peeling from the walls, woodwork and window sills. The paint chips have a sweet taste which children find enjoyable, and they were chewing on the window sills and picking up paint flakes.

Since the discovery, the walls have been covered over and the parents advised of the lead problem. And, the children have been undergoing periodic blood tests and treatment by a local physician.

These youngsters are just three of the more than 159,000 children in Texas who have been examined in the EPSDT Program.

During the physical examination by a physician or nurse, blood samples are taken and sent to the special Medical Screening Division of the Bureau of Laboratories.

Each child's blood undergoes a laboratory analysis for syphilis, lead, hemoglobin (anemia) and hemoglobin types (sickle cell and related diseases). About 30,000 individual tests are performed each month.

The laboratory includes 15 highly trained personnel, including laboratory technicians certified by the Society of Clinical Chemists (ASCC). The laboratory is one of the best in the state.

The superior Medical Screening Program is a very important program in the state. It relates that the program is a very important program in the state. It relates that the program is a very important program in the state.

"We feel we are helping children toward better health because of the reason we said Therrell."

The Health Department facility is the only laboratory in operation in the country with the equipment of New York Albany. Only other laboratories are equipped with this testing.

The lead testing equipment is an outlay of some $100,000. Automated equipment enables the laboratory to keep abreast of continuing work load.

"There is no one else in the state who can get done with the same dedication as Dr. Therrell."
