Jane Bruns, Chosen Farm Bureau Queen Thursday Night

Jane Bruns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Les Bruns, was crowned Bailey County Farm Bureau Queen at the climax of a contest held Thursday night at Muleshoe High School auditorium. She will represent the local Farm Bureau, sponsors of the annual event, in district competition in Lubbock.

Theme of the program was "Over the Rainbow" and was carried out in stage decorations and background music played by organist R. A. Matheny, Matheny Music Co., Lubbock. The 13 contestants made their appearance on stage underneath an archway of red roses. The backdrop was formed by baskets of flowers.

Each was interviewed by master of ceremonies, Gene Lynn, KCBD-TV, Lubbock, and spoke on the subject "Why Am I Glad My Family Belongs To Farm Bureau."

Carolla Bass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bass, was guest speaker. Her topic was her trip to Chicago as a representative of the Future Homemakers of America.

The 18-year-old queen was crowned by Gene Lynn in the absence of the reigning queen, the former Dav-Jean Anderson, who was unable to attend the ceremonies.

Boy Scout Correction

It was reported in the Muleshoe Journal that Richard Ainsup was the recipient of the Eagle Scout Award. We were a little ahead of ourselves, as Richard is now working on this high award, and his brother, David, was the one who received the award Monday night. We at least had the picture of David, but with Richard named, both in the story and picture. David was the first Scout to have the Eagle Charge read to him in ceremonies in Muleshoe. There are several Eagle Scouts in Muleshoe now.

Change Proposed in Beef Grade Standards

COLLEGE STATION, August 15.—A revision of U. S. quality standards for beef has been proposed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in line with recent recommendations of the National Advisory Committee on cattle and several state and national cattlemen's organizations. De-emphasis of maturity as a grading factor in young beef is the major proposed change, says Frank A. Orts, Extension meats specialist at Texas A&M University. This revision would result in some reduction of marbling requirements for prime, choice, good and standard grades and maturity classifications in these grades from three to two, Orts points out. I would also eliminate the two marbling degrees in excess of that now classified as "abundant" in determining (See Standards Page 5)

Hunting Seasons on Seven Species Set

By MELVIN R. EVANS
Refuge Manager, Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge

With the approach of fall the hunters are beginning to get itchy fingers and to plan their hunting trips. Two questions that must be answered before definite plans can be made are when are the seasons and what are the bag limits. Quail season runs from November 14 through January 31, with a bag limit of one of either and 36 in possession. Turkey may be taken from November 14 to November 29, with a bag limit of one of either sex. Antelope season runs from October 3 through 6, by Texas hunting permit from landowner daily. Mourning Dove season in this area opens at noon September 1 and runs through October 30. Shooting hours are from noon until official sunset daily. White-winged Dove season will run two consecutive weekends, Sept. 5 and 6 and Sept. 12 and 13, opening at 2 p.m. daily and closing at official sunset in the following counties: Brewster, Brooks, Cameron, Culberson, Dimmitt, El Paso, Hidalgo, Hedspeth, Jeff Davis, Jim Hogg, Kennedy, Kinney, La Salle, Marin salaries, and 65 per cent of the budget for instruction purpose. The estimated cost per pupil will be $335. The Building fund is $890,121. Also in this meeting, the milk contract was let to the Sealtest Food Co. with a low bid of .0474 erick, Presidio, Starr, Terrell, Val Verde, Webb, Willacy and Zapata. This bag limit will be 12 doves Doves is 12 per day and 23 in possession. Mourning Doves may be taken in the White-wing area during the White-wing season. This bag limit will be 2 doves per day and 24 in possession, but only 10 per day may be White-wings and only 20 White-wings may be in possession at any time.

By Federal regulation one wing of all doves taken must be left attached to the bird, un-plucked for species identification. Official sunrise and sunset can be learned by reading, listening to, or watching the local news media of this area, or by contacting the local wildlife law enforcement personnel.

The Gasoline contract was let to Mobil Oil Co. for .1783 per gallon. The board voted unanimously to integrate the 8th grade at Muleshoe Junior High. The enrollment at Hilltop school is expected to be over 90 students and the board felt this move was necessary in order for the teachers to have a better and more efficient school system.

New teachers approved for employment for next year were: Wayland B. Ethridge, 7th grade language arts, Junior High. He is a graduate of Muleshoe High School, and has a degree from West Texas State University. He has taught the past three years a Friona High School. Ronnie Joe Jones, Junior High Coach and social studies teacher. He is a graduate of Hollis, Oklahoma High School and has a Degree from Southwestern College, Oklahoma. He has taught the last year at Snyder, Oklahoma.

Test Tomatoes Now Ripe, Yield Is Promising

er of Muleshoe High School and local farmer, is justifiably proud of the early returns from his tomato variety demonstration 2 miles northeast of Muleshoe. Twelve varieties of tomatoes were transplanted from the local Garden Center Hot House and Texas Tech to the Brady farm on May 19th. In spite of terrific weather damage in the spring, the early varieties bore ripe fruit by July 26th. A gathering of all ripe fruit on August 11th showed two Canadian varieties yielding a pound of ripe fruit per acre. This multiplied by number of plants per acre will give a yield of between six and seven tons of ripe fruit per acre. This could mean a very fancy profit at local tomato prices. The two early ripening varieties are from Canadian seed furnished by Dr. John Larsen, horticulturist of Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the names of these varieties are Red Top and Globe Trotter. The other ten varieties are coming along, and plans are to gather, weigh and record yields once each week until the season ends.

Two Accidents Reported by THP

Texas Highway Patrolmen, Jim Freeman and B. J. Van Wink, reported that they investigated two accidents Sunday, August 9. The first at Maple, a 1958 Ford Station Wagon and a 1953 Ford Pickup were both demolished when they collided 3-10 mile North of Maple. Sand and speed were the cause of this wreck. Sunday afternoon, a 1964 International Pickup driven by Laura Hawkins, Sudan, overturned twice on a dirt road, 4 5-10 miles Southwest of Sudan. Laura Hawkins is still confined to West Plains Hospital suffering injuries not believed to be serious. Laura's twin sister, Lola Hawkins was held over night at West Plains and released Monday morning. Breda Brewer of Lubbock and Marla Sadler of Littlefield, also occupants of the pickup were treated and released soon after the 7 p. m. accident. Patrolmen also issued 74 traffic tickets and warning tickets during the week.

These girls scouts were the last of three trucks loads, taken for a ride on the Muleshoe Fire Truck by Earl Ladd Jr. and Dutch La Rue. The scouts were also given a talk on the operation of the truck by Ladd.

WAGES OF SIN — This oil painting 'Wages of Sin' was painted by Joe Adams, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Adams. It depicts an alcoholic, clutching an empty bottle, peering through an open window. Joe has studied art under Mrs. Elizabeth Black.

Test Soil Now For Next Wheat

The application of sufficient fertilizer, in proper balance to correct soil deficiencies, is now accepted as one of the most profitable single practices in Bailey County. County Agent J. K. Adams says it is now time to be thinking of your fertilizer use program for wheat to be planted this fall.

Bailey County soils vary greatly in their ability to supply nitrogen and phosphorus. The soil guide for determining the amount and grade of fertilizer needed. Remember that 50 bu. of wheat grain alone contains about 50 lbs of N and 25 lbs of P. 205. Forage removed by grazing or about 3 percent actual nitrogen on a dry weight basis.

Data from research conducted on the Pullman soils indicates time of nitrogen application is not a major factor where wheat is being grown for grain only. Yields were about the same when in split applications, or as a top dress in February. However, where grazing is to be practiced it is important to apply all or part of the nitrogen as a pre-plant to stimulate early growth.

SOIL CONSERVATION
A meeting of the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District will be held Monday night, 8 p. m. in Muleshoe State Bank Community Room.

COTTON PROMOTION
The Chamber of Commerce will be held in Muleshoe State Bank Community Room at 7:30 Wednesday.

The nitrogen can be conveniently applied anytime before listing. If solid or liquid forms are used, they should not be left on the surface for long periods.

If the soil test indicates a deficiency of phosphorus, the phosphate should be applied in such a manner that it will remain in crops, much of the phosphorus is utilized while wheat plants are young. Because phosphorus moves very little from the point of application it is important it be with phosphates after wheat is up cannot be expected to give the most profitable response.

Taking soil samples now will insure getting your report back in plenty of time for final planning and fertilizer application. Complete information on sample collection and mailing may be obtained through the office of County Agent J. K. Adams. Don't forget to send in the Information Sheet with the samples.

A SOVIET CHILD (First in a Series of Three) — In the U. S. S. R., the number of pre-natal centers which obligatory observation is increasing rapidly. In 1940 there were 6,300 and in 1962 the figure jumped to 18,000. (1963 figure not yet released.) To serve these centers, there are approximately 100,000 midwives and surgeon's assistants. In town and country-side alike, free qualified medical aid is available for a woman and children. More over, all Soviet women are entitled to maternity leave from job with full pay by the state. The law provides for state aid to mothers of large families. In addition to grants at the birth of each child, they also receive monthly allowances for each child until its coming of age. Mothers who bring up three or more children are awarded especially inaugurated orders and medals. "Each new-born child belongs not only to his mother and father, he also belongs to the state and the whole of Soviet Society must show concern for the upbringing of this new citizen," said N. S. Krushchev. After a visit to the pre-natal hospital at Tashkent in the republic of Uzbekistan and hearing the remarks of Dr. Ludmila each child really becomes a ward of the State. To put it in proper terminology, a subject of the Communist Party.

When a child is born, the maternity home informs the post-natal center in the mother's residential area. As soon as the mother returns home, her child is placed under the vigilant medical and prophylactic care of its changes with each visit or call in that doctors and specialists work in shifts and see or specialists (usually, the specialist may not see the same patient) who watch over its development. In case of necessity, the state or labor union at which one of the parents works provides the family with a large apartment after the birth of a child. All nutritional formulas and foods are provided by the Institute of Nutrition of the U. S. S. R. Academy of Medical Sciences and the State Sanitary Inspection.

Reducing Verticillium Wilt Loss in Cotton

Verticillium wilt is now showing up on many Plains farms. According to County Agent J. K. Adams, this costly disease seems to be found earlier each year.

Adams says some farms are reporting heavy verticillium wilt problems following irrigation. Careful water management is one method by which producers can combat the disease. Avoid frequent irrigations. Irrigations should be spaced as far apart as possible by applying more water per irrigation. Water lowers the soil temperature and the disease becomes active at 85 degrees or lower. Avoid deep cultivation that damages roots, as the wilt fungi can enter the plant through damaged roots.

Adams also points out that proper attention to nitrogen applications is another important factor in reducing losses. Side-dressing should be done as early in the season as possible. Application should be made away from the plant root area in order to avoid root injury.

It is easy to recognize the symptoms of verticillium wilt. It first appears as a yellow mottling of the lower leaves. These mottled leaves will die at the edges and eventually fall from the plant. As the disease moves through the plant, younger leaves at the top start showing signs of mottling. Plants develop wilt usually die within a few days. For additional information concerning this plant disease, ask at the county agents office for a copy of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service publication, "Guide for Reducing Cotton Disease Losses," number L-573.

Pouring the liquid off of canned vegetables is somewhat like removing the desirable additives from your automobile's gas tank. For both contain elements needed by the human machine and automobile engine for proper functioning.

In the case of the liquids from canned vegetables, about a third of the minerals and vitamins in the can are lost. In order to get the full nutritive and money value from canned products. You might use the liquid by adding it to gravy, soup or using it in a cream - sauce or stew. Here is why - After vegetables are canned, their water - soluble nutrients distribute themselves evenly throughout the solids and liquids. The drained solids, which usually make up about two - thirds of the soluble nutrients. The other third is in the liquid.

Keep in mind that canned vegetables have already been cooked. To serve them with the most flavor and food value, drain off the liquid and boil down to one - third of its original volume, then heat the vegetable in this concentrated liquid. Minerals and vitamins are saved and you get the full benefits expected from your purchase.

For this week's best buys in fresh fruits and vegetables, you might try lemons, plums, grapes, nectarines, cherries, pineapples, bage, sweet corn, eggplant, lettuce, celery, tomatoes, squash, cucumbers, green peppers, dry yellow onions and okra.

And don't forget that outdoor cooks find many meat bargains at the retail meat counters. Give the family a variety of menus by taking advantage of super-market offerings.

Life would be a lot simpler without so many organizers.

Time will cure all scars and wounds - if there is time.

The truth is the last thing most people want to hear.

COTTON TALKS

Answering the question, "What will the price of High Plains cotton be this Fall?" is a pretty tough assignment. Market prices are always uncertain, and even calculating the coming crop's loan value poses a problem so long as the all - important element of quality remains an unknown factor. And, the price picture is further complicated this year by the new microaire premiums and discounts incorporated into loan values.

Since it is impossible to know in advance what this Fall's cotton quality will be, about the best that can be done is to apply 1964 loan prices to the qualities produced in a previous year, say 1963. An estimate reached in this way could only be grossly inaccurate if the area experienced a wide difference in cotton quality for the two years, which is not very likely.

The 15 most predominant qualities in the 1963 crop made up 81.1 percent of the total, and since these qualities fell more or less in the middle range of a bales, we can consider them fairly representative. By figuring the weighted average price, using 1963 qualities and 1964 loan values, we came up with an "average" loan price of 26.9 cents per pound. Again, this assumes that the 1964 crop will fall approximately into the same quality ranges as 1963 cotton. It also ignores the effect of microaire discounts which will be applied to the loan for the first time this year. Both these facts will need to be taken into consideration by any producer setting out to spots grown in most other areas," which merely means that light spotted cotton from the High Plains usually spins into more acceptable yarns.

While it provides no immediate prospect for price relief to farmers, there is good reason to believe that more of the area's "low mike" cotton may be sold on the market this year, and this fact should be in the long run prove helpful. Mills have for years discounted the price of some bales with microaire readings between .27 (below 3.5, the "tenderable" limit. And, since the loan made no allowance for this up until this year, some of this cotton was automatically forced into the loan. It remains to be seen whether the microaire discounts assigned by the loan actually reflect the reduced value of the cotton, or whether the trade will buy above the loan discount.

The price received by the farmer, then, will be about 2.5 cents per pound less than the 1963 price for the qualities he produces, minus what ever discount his cotton suffers from low microaire readings, plus any premium that mills may be willing to pay over the loan value.

On the other hand, mills will be buying cotton at a much lower level. The price to mills will be the amount paid to the farmer, less the 6.5 cent PIK or about 9 cents per pound less than in 1963 on cotton not discounted for microaire. This will provide the supreme test for the theory that price is the answer

SCS Tests Sprinkler Systems In Area

Sprinkler systems vary in the pattern and distribution of the water they put out on the ground. Such variations can be caused by a number of things. Some outside factors such as wind direction and velocity cannot be controlled. Others, however, are a result of the components used to make up each lateral. The length of each move is also important. These are things which can be changed if necessary to improve the system.

Although patterns and distribution on conventional systems which have been in use a number of years are known, a number of new modifications have come into use only recently. It is then the responsibility of the SCS to check such systems and determine if they can be approved from a standpoint of irrigation efficiency. This check is made by a method of evaluation which involves setting a number of straight sided cans in a pattern of ten foot squares. This is done so as to catch water in the area between any two nozzles along a lateral. The cans are set out until the start of a set and left until the set is complete. Then, the water in each can is measured to determine how many inches fell at each. These measurements are used to draw a pattern showing the distribution pattern of water in the set.

Ideally, the measurements at each point in the pattern should be fairly similar. If they are not, some correction should be made in the system. This might involve changing nozzle pressure by such means as changing pressure at the pumps, changing lateral length or diameter, or changing nozzle size. Also, length of moves and - or length between - sprinkler heads might need to be altered, and type of nozzle may be at fault.

Only when the proper corrections are made if needed and the pattern shows proper distribution of water at all points can an irrigation system design be approved by SCS standards. Such distribution patterns are important in that poor patterns mean that some areas in each set will get considerably more water than will others next to them. When that is the case, water is wasted and plant production suffers, even though difference in growth may not be readily apparent.

Another consideration is that, even though pattern may be good, other factors in the irrigation system may have to be improved before it is acceptable. An example would be a lateral with too much friction loss from one end to the other. This would cause uneven amounts of water to be applied along the length of the lateral, even though at a given point pattern of water fall may be acceptable.

These and other factors are taken into account by the Soil Conservation Service in testing a system for irrigation efficiency. This efficiency is important for several reasons. An efficient system wastes less water and distributes water more evenly so each plant receives its share. It provides more profit, as less water has to be pumped to do the same amount of good and crops are more uniform in the growth and maturity.

The SCS feels that it can help producers in the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District by providing them information about their sprinkler systems and designing systems to be installed. If you have a system now in operation or intend to put one in, the personnel at the SCS office in Muleshoe will be glad to provide technical assistance.

quality grade. The other revision, he said, is that all carcasses must be ribbed to be graded; that is, the hindquarter and forequarter must be separated between the 12th and 13th rib so the ribs are visible to the grader.

Although beef palatability tends to increase with age, increased marbling tends to enhance palatability. Thus, says Orts, grade standards require increasing amounts of marbling to compensate for increasing maturity.

Recent research has indicated that additional marbling required to offset increased maturity in cattle under 30 months of age has been over-emphasized, the specialist says. The new proposal would reduce by one degree the marbling required in choice grade beef carcasses from animals 28 to 30 months old.

The USDA states the revision will simplify application of grading standards and grading of only ribbed carcasses would make the nationwide grading service more accurate and uniform.

Interested persons are invited to submit written comments and views on the proposal to the Hearing Clerk, USDA, Washington, D. C. Reports copies of the proposed change may be obtained at my office, he adds, or from the Livestock Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA.

B & C Builders Sell Inland Steel Here

If you need a steel building of any kind or whether for farm or business, see Lonnie Bass, president of B & C Builders, Inc. of Muleshoe. This company has erected dozens of steel buildings in West Texas and New Mexico since its formation and has just completed one for the Francis Implement Co., on West American Blvd., in Muleshoe.

well known throughout this area as a contractor. He keeps abreast of new developments in the building industry and adopts whatever ideas he thinks will improve his construction work. The office of this organization is located at 217 E. Ave. B and the phone number is 3-0780.

B & C Builders are dealers for Inland Steel Co., and keep a large inventory of steel on hand at all times. They sell steel to contractors in this area as well as use it themselves.

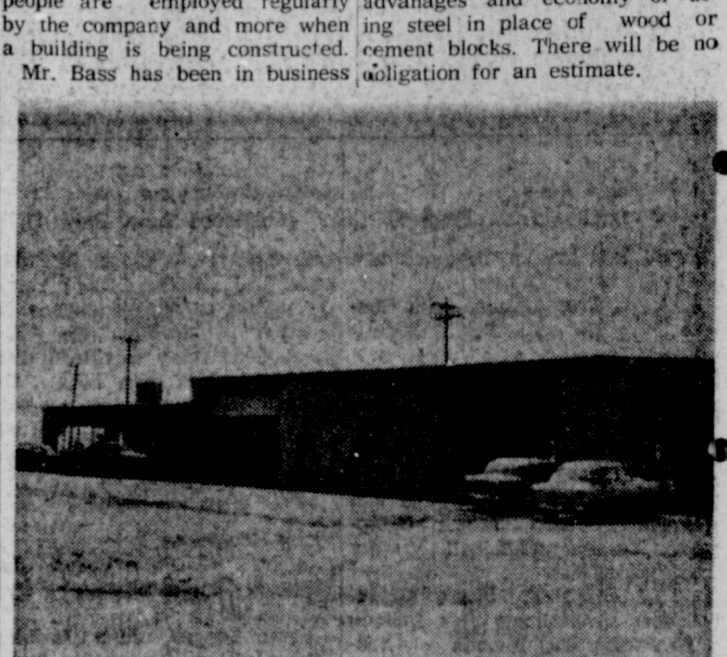

Business men and farmers are more and more coming to recognize the value of steel as a construction material because of its longer lasting quality and its clean appearance. There are no termites in a steel building as there might be in a wooden structure and the new types of steel are rust - resisting and need no upkeep. Then the most important feature is that it is fire-proof and offers security against loss.

B & C Builders does a turn-key job. They design buildings, do the drafting, engineering and construction work and the building is complete in every detail when finished.

This firm was organized here July 1, 1963, with Lonnie W. Bass as president; W. R. Carter as vice - president; and Allen T. Webb, Jr., as Engineer. Six people are employed regularly by the company and more when a building is being constructed.

Mr. Bass has been in business in Muleshoe since 1956 and is a type of structure, see Mr. Bass and let him explain to you the advantages and economy of using steel in place of wood or cement blocks. There will be no obligation for an estimate.

STEEL BUILDING — The new steel building for the Francis Implement Co., was constructed by B & C Builders, Inc., of Muleshoe. This is one of the newest buildings.

You can also buy minerals, salt and insecticides here.

to individual buyers as well. He also buys and sells metal.

Mr. Fried mixes special types of feed for dairy cows at this feed makes them healthier and more productive. His many years of experience in this business has taught him what types of feed various animals like and what type make them fat and healthy.

Starting in 1941 Mr. Fried has built up a thriving business and is widely known through this part of West Texas. He has many customers who have been buying from him for twenty years or more and his business is expanding. He has three employees in addition to himself and the four of them run the feed mill.
