Uncle Ananias says that every woman likes to think her husband is particularly difficult to manage.

Seasoning the spontaneity of youth and making it responsible for details is one of the hard jobs of employers.

When the President presides at Cabinet meetings we wonder if he asks the secretary to present the "unfinished business"—or does he have a sense of humor in such matters.

The tiger second string shopped up rather well in last Friday's game, which promises a good team next year, Lamb, Austin and Scott being outstanding. Lamb has two more years; Scott, a good punter, has two years yet, and Austin, who promises to be very fast is also a Sophomore.

And speaking of football, Tahoka, the team Slaton played Friday, will without a doubt be very hard to beat next year. Most of their players are young and have two and three years more to play. McCord and Snowden in the backfield are two of the best passers we have seen on a high school eleven. McCord as you remember can place a very good "shot-gun" pass and Snowden puts a long pass just where he wants it. All Tahoka needs now is a man that can hold onto the ball when these two men put it in their hands.

We predict that year after next Tahoka will be one of the stronger teams of District 5. This change appears to be due to a change in coaches.

While adult farmers are struggling with the problems of production and marketing, a splendid new "crop" of farmers of the future is growing up.

More than a million farm boys and girls are now enrolled in 4-H clubs. Here they are learning practical lessons in successful agriculture. On a not distant tomorrow, they will be operating the nation's farms, organizing and running the nation's farm marketing cooperatives and working out the problems of the day.

The fact that organization of farm youth has now reached its highest point in history, augurs well for the agricultural future. The training and information these young farmers receive in their 4-H clubs and elsewhere will prove invaluable.

That little "Duck" Howell doesn't look much when he runs, but we will argue all day on his blocking abilities. He looks as if he had flat feet, fallen arches, knock-knees, bow-legs, cross-eyes, freckles, dimples, club-foot, a hang-over, etc., but he CAN block.

Farmers in our cotton producing state, as well as those in foreign countries, are fast learning the value of planting Texas' State Certified or Registered Seed Stock. Lubbock County farmers planted 7,588 bushels of State Registered or Certified Cotton Seed this year in their efforts to overcome the serious problem of inferior quality.

Mexico, Argentina, Greece, Italy, Ethiopia, Algeria and Ecuador are the foreign countries receiving the bulk of our cotton seed exports. Farmers in these countries recognized the superior quality of Texas' State Certified and Registered Seed by purchasing 74,373 bushels of seed for their 1937 planting.

After the cotton crop is gathered this fall, if the farmer who planted seed of unknown quality will compare his yield and net profit per acre with that of his neighbor who planted pedigreed seed, he will readily see the advantage of planting proven seed for every crop.

Accident Victim Buried Wednesday

Funeral services for Mrs. S. T. Cantrell were conducted Wednesday, October 6th at the Baptist Church with Rev. Ferguson officiating.

Susan T. Branch was born Sept. 9, 1865 in Tenn. and moved to Texas when three years of age. At eighteen she married W. W. Cantrell and became the mother of nine children, 8 of whom are still living. In early life she professed faith in Christ, united with the Baptist Church and remained a faithful member until her death. She came to Slaton in 1916 and lived here until 1932 when she moved to San Angelo to make her home with her son, Norman.

Mrs. Cantrell was instantly killed in a car wreck near Texarkana, Texas, Sunday, Oct. 3. She, with her son, Dr. Cantrell, were enroute to Washington, D. C. when the car driven by the latter skidded and overturned on some wet pavement. The son was seriously injured and remains near death in the hospital at Texarkana.

Following the funeral services at 3 o'clock the body was laid to rest in Englewood cemetery, with Foster Funeral Home in charge. Active pallbearers were: the grandsons, Harry and Paul D. Bennett, Jim Nix, Raymond Day, and L. V. Cantrell. Honorary pallbearers were: Edd Haddock, O. Z. Ball, H. G. Sanders, Bob Merrill, Rev. Scott and R. G. Shankle.

Survivors of the deceased are seven sons and one daughter, Mrs. W. E. Bennett, Amherst; and Newt Cantrell, Amherst; R. M., El Paso; Dr. W. C., Clifton, N. J.; L. J. of Washington, D. C.; R. J. of Hawthorne, Calif.; Norman of San Angelo, and Arthur of Amarillo, and a number of grand children and great-grand children. All the children except R. M. and Dr. Cantrell were present at the services. The injured physician is ranked near the top of leading medical doctors in the United States.

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

On next Friday night Slaton will play host to a large number of football fans who will come along with the football team and student body of the Littlefield High School. These visitors, and many others from our neighboring cities will come to see a game widely heralded between two of the most outstanding teams in their respective districts. Both teams, both high schools and both cities will be out to win, and it is only natural that they should, but sometimes, as in a few past instances, that desire to win has unbalanced tempers.

It is to be hoped that in the coming contest the spirit of fairness and sportsmanship in the fullest degree will not only be highly demonstrated in the team and the student body of both schools, but especially on the sidelines where unpleasant circumstances generally arise. The will to win and the determination to battle for that win is to be commended in any school, achieve that victory is more commendable.

The supporters of the Tigers would a thousand times rather see their team come off the field bowed by an honorable defeat than to see them emerge in dishonorable victory, and there's not a shadow of a doubt but what the loyal supporters of the opposition feel the same way. The football career of player and student in support, is not fostered by school faculties or fans that want to see anything but a spirit of fair play instilled in the build-up of the youngster. Fair play has always been uppermost in the mind of all Americans.

So, regardless of expectations, voiced by a few of the most radical fans, bent on winning fair or foul, we hope that the personnel of each school, supported by the team and the student body, will go into this fray with a spirit of good will to the winner, remembering this, that if you don't have it in your make up to win, you certainly cannot get it out of your temper. Players and students of both schools are too broad minded not to be able to take a loss with chins up, and are too proud of their institutions and town to let someone who is not responsible cause hard feeling between the factions. Remember the poem, "For When The One Great Scorer Comes To Write Against Your Name, It's Not If You Have Won Or Lost, But How You Played The Game".

And Littlefield, we are glad to have you, and may the best team win.

Mass Recital To Be Held Sunday

Mr. M. L. Duncan, local musical instructor, has been appointed by the Junior Musician's Club of America, sponsored by the Institute of Educational Music, to make a selection of representative teen-age musicians who will be sent to a mass recital to be held in Dallas at the Pan-American Exposition, Sunday, October 17.

Widespread is the interest hereabouts in this event for in the last Fall recital of a massed group held this past November more than four hundred and fifty junior musicians took part, a large number of which were from this part of the country.

This year's plans and preparations under the guidance of the Institute call for an even greater attendance inasmuch as invitations had been widespread over the State of Texas. The cooperation of the Pan-American Exposition has been promised so as to make it, a most outstanding item in their special events program according to Mr. G. O. Hutchinson, Southwest Director of the Institute of Educational Music.

The event itself will be held in the Court of Honor in front of the Hall of State under the guidance of several outstanding conductors. To those interested in the progress of educational music, the work now being done by the Institute in the cause of amateur music both from a cultural and from a self-improvement viewpoint for boys and girls of school age is looked upon with a great deal of interest. Since the outstanding success of the mass recital held in Dallas last November as well as the triumphs of the organization in other parts of the country, particularly on the West coast, the effects of the institution have long since past the experimental stage and a definite and most progressive program been set.

Slaton Graduate Is Spanish Teacher

Monday night, October 4th the Slaton school board elected Mr. Melvin Sisk to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Jo Hestand, who taught Spanish in the high school.

Mr. Sisk, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sisk, was born and reared in Posey, where he attended school until entering high school here. For four years he made an impressive record, graduating in May, 1933. Then followed 4 years of study at Texas Tech, where he majored in Spanish, and made English his minor. From this college he graduated in June 1937.

At the present time he is teaching at Roosevelt High School but his resignation from that institution will become effective October 8th. He will assume his new duties in our school system Monday, October 11th.

Job work neatly done here what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Rivals for Nudism.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—I took part in a parade celebrating old days in California, riding in an ancient open carriage with our postmaster here—he calls Jim Farley "Jim"—and our congressman, who like practically all Democrats in good standing in the southern part of the state, craves to be the next nominee for governor.

If any more aspirants bob up, there won't be anybody left to vote for them. This certainly has been a banner year for oranges and candidates.

Irvin S. Cobb

Our outfit got a lot of cheers from the crowds and a perfect ovation when passing a given point where the Elks also were giving away beer. All three of us felt pretty proud of ourselves until we realized that probably the applause wasn't meant for us. There must have been thousands in that crowd who'd never before seen a horse-drawn pleasure vehicle.

If Lady Godiva, dressed only in her long hair, rode on a white horse through any modern city street, there'd probably be ten who'd hurrah for the horse against one who looked a second time at the lady. Sight of a white horse would be a treat to one and all, whereas in these days of nudism and public undressing on the beaches—but that will be about all for that.

International Messes.

WITH the great powers tottering on the brink of hostilities to a more tottery extent than usual; with the Spaniards still willing to fight to the last Italian from Brother Mussolini's loan collection; with China battered to a bloody hash-meat in what would closely resemble a war if only Japan had so declared it, which must indeed be gratifying to the ghosts of the thousands already slain and the homeless refugees from ruined cities—this seems a mighty good time for us to keep our shirt on.

Kindly recall that other historic occasion when Uncle Sam felt called upon to hop into a mess cooked up by foreign nations and, as a result, not only lost his shirt, but has never since been able to collect the laundry bills for washing the said shirt. This, if you get the drift, is a subtle reference to those defaulted European debts.

Let us, therefore, highly resolve that, no matter how great the pressure from within or without—mainly it'll be, as was the case before from without—we'll keep the old shirt on.

Classifying Bores.

I VE been classifying bores. Class B bores are those still using the lapel clutch or buttonhole grapple, whereas a class A bore is one whose boast is that he never lays a finger on you—just holds the victim by psychic power.

Lately I've met what I should call a super A type, the same being a gentleman who, in addition to having perfect technique otherwise, had been imbuing garlic to excess—and didn't care who knew it. When finally rescued, they had to use a pulmotor on me.

Meeting this champion reminded me of what I heard the late Wilson Minzer say to a gentleman who insisted on boring Wilson while suffused with the afterglow brought on by combining bourbon whiskey and Bermuda onions in his diet. His hiccoughs were not only frequent but had echoes to them.

Finally, when Wilson was practically ready for artificial respiration to be applied, he said:

"Dear sir, your breath would start the windmills turning in an old Dutch painting."

Typical Texans.

I USED to think a typical Texan was one who said he was going to send you a ten-gallon hat and then didn't do it. But he is a subspecies.

A really orthodox Texan tells you he's giving you a pair of genuine Texas steer horns. They'll be along as soon as he can have them shipped. But he never ships 'em—that's what makes him typical.

So many typical Texans have volunteered to send me sets of long horns that, if all these parties were laid end to end, you'd have one of the finest consecutive strings of born liars ever seen. But they wouldn't stay that way; they'd rise right up and start looking for Easterners to promise long horns to.

Not that I'm craving any long horns. They stretch so far from tip to tip they make you think of a muskellunge fisherman trying to show you how much that biggest one measured. If you hang them low, they prong people in the eye. If you hang them high, they're chiefly useful for cobwebs to drape on. And no self-respecting wife will let you hang them anywhere.

MUSSOLINI VISITS HITLER

War Strength of Nazis Displayed for Il Duce . . . Japan Sharply Warned Not to Bomb Russian Embassy

Il Duce and Der Reichsfuehrer Review Nazi Troops in Munich.

War Dance for Duce

BENITO MUSSOLINI, visiting Adolf Hitler for the purpose of composing and presenting to the world a statement of the intentions and demands of the Italian and German governments, was received by the Nazis with great enthusiasm. Il Duce, on the way to Berlin, stood on a hill in Mecklenburg with Hitler and witnessed a big war dance staged by the reichsfuehrer that displayed the regained military might of Germany most impressively.

Adolf Hitler

Hitler's best officers and troops, armed with the latest weapons of death, put on a sham battle participated in by all land and air forces. In the nearby Baltic the German warships showed how they chase "Red" submarines; and at Wustrow the anti-aircraft batteries gave a demonstration of their effectiveness. The huge munitions plants in the Ruhr district were visited, and the throngs of workers, given a holiday with pay, cheered the two dictators heartily. Every city and village was decorated. In Berlin there were tremendous demonstrations and elaborate festivities in honor of the visitor from Rome.

As for the statement by the rulers of Italy and Germany, the best guess was that it would declare that hereafter Fascism and Nazism must be shown proper respect by all powers, that "defamation" of the regimes must stop and that their aims and intentions must be understood by the world and that their right to political parity must be recognized.

To the German press Mussolini said: "My visit to Germany is wholly a matter of the heart, a visible sign of the cordial friendship between two great, cultured peoples that trust each other implicitly."

"The two peoples will clasp hands, will put their packs and rifles on their shoulders and will march side by side in the future, for this future belongs to us."

Russia Warns Japan

TOKYO officially notified Berlin that the Chinese were plotting to attack the Russian embassy in Nanking with planes disguised as Japanese aircraft, for the purpose of involving the Soviet government in the Sino-Japanese conflict. With the equivalent of "Oh, yeah?!", Russia retorted with a stern warning that it would hold Japan responsible for any bombing of the embassy, intentional or accidental. The Soviet officials said they considered the reported plot a "pure prevarication showing the intention of some Japanese military powers to bombard the Soviet embassy intentionally and then try to escape responsibility."

With callous brutality Japan continued the air raids on Nanking, Canton and other large Chinese cities, the bombs slaughtering thousands of helpless civilians. The utter contempt for protests of western nations shown by Japan seemed warranted by the failure to insist on respect for the nine-power treaty guaranteeing the territorial integrity of China. For this failure Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek blames especially the United States. "This war," said he, "will last as long as Japanese aggression lasts in China."

The League of Nations advisory committee adopted a resolution condemning the Japanese aircraft for bombing open towns, though the British tried hard to avoid mentioning Japan by name.

Leland Harrison, the American observer without vote, sat silent throughout the acrimonious debate in the committee.

A Japanese submarine sank a fleet of Chinese fishing junks off the coast of southern China, killing 300 men, women and children.

Yarnell's Policy Wins

ADMIRAL HARRY YARNELL was decidedly opposed to the policy of Washington to withdraw American warships from Chinese waters in the face of danger. His protests have been considered by the general board of the Navy department and his program approved. Consequently our naval vessels will remain there to protect our nationals "as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists."

The Navy department announced that the Asiatic fleet could not be withdrawn under present conditions "without failure in our duty and without bringing great discredit on the United States navy."

More Woe in Palestine

GREAT BRITAIN'S contested plan to divide Palestine between the Jews and the Arabs, with a slice for herself, came to the front again when Lewis Andrews, British commissioner of Galilee, was assassinated by a group of terrorists in Nazareth. Three men, two in European garb and one in peasant clothing, ambushed Andrews and shot him and his bodyguard to death.

Andrews had gained the enmity of extremists because of the strictness of his rule as district commissioner and his life had been threatened frequently.

O'Mahoney Butts In

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, on the way to Seattle, first entered the "enemy's" country when he crossed the border of Wyoming, the state of Senator Joseph O'Mahoney, leader of the anti-Supreme court enlargement forces. Mr. Roosevelt's train reached Cheyenne in the early morning, and there, among the welcomers, was Joseph, though he had pointedly not been invited to board the train. He walked alongside the President's car and Mrs. Roosevelt emerged, shook his hand and asked after Mrs. O'Mahoney.

Senator O'Mahoney

The senator then entered the private car and he and Mr. Roosevelt shook hands and said "Hello," but the atmosphere was decidedly chilling; he took leave of the party at Casper, Wyo., after accompanying the President and his group on a drive about that city.

The Chief Executive spent two days in Yellowstone National park, and then went on to Boise, Idaho; to the Bonneville dam near Portland, and thence to Seattle.

No Special Session

ACCORDING to high government officials in Washington, the President has dropped his plan to call a special session of congress in November. Administration leaders, it was said, were convinced that it would only invite trouble over the appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme court and further damage Mr. Roosevelt's legislative program.

Noted Merchant Dies

EDWARD A. FILENE, best known of all Boston's merchants, died of pneumonia in the American hospital in Paris. He was seventy-seven years old. Besides being a business man, Mr. Filene was a noted social economist. He was sometimes called the apostle of mass production and distribution.

Only ten days after he took charge of the American legation in Vienna, Grenville T. Emmet died of double pneumonia. He was sixty years old and was a former law partner of President Roosevelt. He was minister to the Netherlands in 1933 and was given the Austrian post last July.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL

By Carter Field

Washington.—There are certainly signs in Chicago, at the conference between railroads and labor, that on the part of those particular labor leaders at least there is promise of a rule of reason.

For the first time since this country started to work out of the depression, labor, in these conferences, despite the knowledge that the administration is on its side, has shown a disposition to let the employer live and make a profit. This doesn't sound as though it were much of a concession. Some might think that of course labor would have to take this stand, as, if there were no profits—if the employer did not "live"—there would be no jobs.

Every employer who has had labor troubles, however, believes that it is simply impossible to exaggerate the importance of dealing with labor union representatives who agree frankly that the employer should not only "live" but should make a profit. And it does not often happen that labor representatives, in a conference with employers, have been willing seriously to discuss abandoning restrictions on their employers which they hoped to obtain by law!

A case in point in the railroad labor negotiations is the bill pending in congress, which restricts the length of freight trains—generally called the 70-car bill. Most experts agree that this idea is not primarily in the interest of safety. In fact, some contend that it would increase rather than diminish hazards. It is primarily to force the employment of more men to operate more trains. But the railroads contend that it would not only increase their pay rolls, but would cause congestion in railroad terminals at times when there is a rush to ship perishable freight.

Sounds Reasonable

Now the point is that this bill passed the senate—the "greatest deliberative body in the world"—with hardly any discussion. It was stopped in the house not because of the actual strength of its opponents, but because of other things. Those who wanted to stop it had the advantage of the crowded closing days of a session. They had the advantage of the wages and hours bill and others far more spectacular than the 70-car train bill. But railroad representatives here admit privately that they have small hope of killing it next session if the railroad unions continue to press for its passage.

So the willingness of so many labor representatives at this Chicago conference to call off passage of this law was not an empty gesture. They were giving up something they thought of real importance in order to permit the railroads to make enough money to give them an advance in wages.

It all sounds reasonable enough, but it was spectacular in labor relations history, of tremendous importance to every employer of labor and to every person living in this country as indicating a long step towards industrial peace.

Most observers are inclined to think that this conference is a straw in the wind indicating the trend of labor relations for the next year. This view may prove too optimistic. There is no certainty about it. But it seems probable for several reasons. One is that intelligent labor leaders realize they have a much aroused public opinion to deal with. There is more sentiment than they like for something they would fight to the last ditch to avoid—responsibility of labor unions for their actions, clinched on them by a law forcing incorporation of unions.

Find Ally in Lewis

The bituminous coal producers may find John L. Lewis a very potent ally on one of the problems that is worrying them more than anything else.

This is government competition for the coal industry from hydroelectric power developments. It just so happens that Mr. Lewis is very strongly persuaded that all this hydroelectric stuff is the bunk. He believes that electric current can be produced more cheaply from coal than from water power, even under circumstances favorable to economical water power development. Further he believes that the engineers of the electric industry have long since pre-empted most of the sites promising low cost development.

It also happens that Mr. Lewis has expressed himself very forcibly about the lobbyists who come to Washington paid by local chambers of commerce and other associations and maneuver to get big power developments financed by the federal treasury in their localities.

Naturally, Mr. Lewis has pointed out, this benefits that particular community during the period of construction. So would tearing down a row of houses on one side of a street, and erecting them again in precisely the same condition on the other! The local merchants would be selling groceries and clothing and drugs to the workers. The local doctors and dentists would be getting some fees from the transients.

But when the whole job is completed, Lewis points out, it takes very few men to take care of the dam and the electric plant. Whereas a lot of coal miners are out of work forever as a result!

Agree With Lewis

It so happens that every one in the electric industry agrees with Mr. Lewis in every particular on this particular subject, little as they may think of his C. I. O. and ideas about gratitude in politics, etc. The point they make is that the government right now in this electric business is gambling with the people's money.

The point is that the chief cost of producing electricity from a hydroelectric development is interest on the cost of the project. Due to abnormally low interest rates at present—they being held down by artificial government restrictions—this particular item of cost is very unlikely to decrease. Quite the contrary. When the bonds sold now to finance such developments mature the government is more likely to pay a much higher rate.

But the cost of producing electricity from other sources is extremely apt to become less. Mr. Lewis says current can be produced more economically now from coal than from water power. Most engineers agree. But not after the dams and hydro plants are built, providing the cost of these dams and plants is charged to profit and loss.

Nearly every year the cost of producing current from coal is reduced. Every few months there is some improvement in Diesel engines, which makes the production of current from oil cheaper. No one knows when the terrific waste now involved in cooling systems will be eliminated. But scientists say it's coming and will revolutionize the production of power, cutting its cost to a fraction.

So it might pay the coal barons to have Mr. Lewis discuss this question with them to their mutual advantage. It would certainly dramatize the situation before the country and tend to stop more government competition!

Scribes Snicker

The fiendish glee of anti-administration column writers over the discovery that Charley Michelson, premier Democratic press agent, attacked Hugo L. Black in 1926 as a Klansman, and as unworthy to fill the shoes of Oscar W. Underwood, is a rather interesting commentary on how the status of the once abused press agent has advanced in the last decade. Also on how much this same Charley Michelson has done to advance it.

But it is also rather amazing in that it has always been the accepted doctrine that newspaper men who wrote editorial or policy into their stories at all injected the partisan flavor desired by their bosses! So that unless one assumes that bosses employ writers solely for the brilliance of their writing, or perhaps in order to present all sides of the picture, the slant taken by the writer is in accord with the editorial policy of the paper.

It so happens that the New York World, at the time Michelson wrote this attack on Hugo Black, had been running an anti-Klan crusade. This crusade was conducted by men in the New York office, only helped out in pinches by the Washington bureau, of which Michelson was the head.

It also happens that the World was, of all the outstanding newspapers of its time, the most anxious to have its editorials backed up by news stories, interviews and color in general.

Brought Up Reserves

As a matter of fact, there was a sort of reserve staff, consisting of ten or twelve young men working for other—though never rival—papers. Generally these were youngsters covering the senate or house of representatives for non-New York newspapers or press services. They would be called on the telephone, as soon as the chief of the World bureau received his orders, and directed first to read the editorial for which endorsements were wanted, and then get them.

This policy accomplished the point of indicating to World readers that their paper had a tremendous following among the government officials and important persons generally. The World did not pay money for endorsements. It only paid hacks to get them.

Later on Michelson went to work for John J. Raskob, and did his amazing job of smearing Herbert Hoover, probably the most effective press agenting job ever done in this country. When they were thrown out the window in the 1932 Democratic convention, Michelson was retained by Franklin D. Roosevelt and James A. Farley—has been writing Farley's speeches and many others ever since, and cheerfully blasting his former employers, Raskob and Jouett Shouse.

The whole point is that a good press agent works for his employers, and shoots at whatever target they direct, just as a good lawyer resorts to all sorts of legal technicalities as well as sound argument to attack his client's opponents.

HOME EC GIRLS ENTERTAIN FACULTY WITH BUFFET SUPPER

The Slaton High School Home Economics Class entertained the faculty with a Circus Supper Tuesday, Oct. 5th at seven o'clock in their own department. A colorful circus motif was carried out in decorations and program theme.

Miniature circus rings were the appointments on the individual tables, a miniature circus tent forming the center piece on the main table. As the guests arrived they were presented with a paper cap which they wore through the evening. All dignity was cast aside when each had to perform like animals, grinning and barking, to receive their red lemonade and ice cream cones.

Hostesses for this unique affair were: Mrs. Dayten Eckert, sponsor; Evelyn Meading, Jessie Fay Dunlap, Vaga Scott, Lanette Becker, Wanda Waldrep, Mary Kirkland, Dorothy

COMMENTS IN COLUMN

BY BRIGGS ROBERTSON

The "Saga" of the old West has passed, that exclamation has been heard, over and over again, but the transformation is not near so evident to the listener as to the one who has seen the change take place. I am not by any means one of the oldest "Old Timers," but I can clearly remember the day of the fleet-footed Antelope, as it ranged these Plains with the long horned steer. That was the day before the railroad came, the day when the Plains of Texas was a far-flung domain. Mighty in its vastness. Miles apart were the very crude stacks of the Settler, and seldom did a stranger pass his door.

Today I stood on the same "Plains", but in a different world. Among a different people, with different customs. I heard the blast of a powerful locomotive, drawing behind it, possibly one hundred cars. I stood among modern homes, in a modern town, with electricity doing the chores, with natural gas cooking the meals, with radios bringing a speaker's voice from England, with farmers receiving New York reports every morning in the old farm home. With wide concrete highways, and automobiles speeding along at seventy miles the hour, and planes in the air at much greater speed. I saw cotton coming in, in an endless stream, pulled by a motor, on rubber tired cotton wagons. These and a thousand other things have happened in a few short years. What would these people think, that lived out here and died out here thirty years ago, if they were suddenly brought back today to see. Miracles are still happening. Who can visualize fifty years from today, and conceive their vision.

CnC

Still there are rumors of war, the Japanese are Barbaric in their determination to crush a bleeding China. The civil war in Spain is seeping in its own blood, and England and France have delivered an ultimatum to Italy. The world is seething with unrest. Even our most learned men, know not what to expect, nor when to expect it. One thing seems practically sure, trouble lies ahead, and our own country will come in for its part in it. Maybe not a fight in the trenches, but we have a noce today that must be set in order. Newspaper dispatches say today that Labor is squaring off for its biggest fight in history. Labor divided against itself. The farmer is restless and afraid of the future. The money barons of the country, big and little are trying to recoup their depression losses, agitators are sweeping the country, adding fuel to the flames. Millions of Americans are drifting, homeless and penniless, but with ideas. The nation as a whole is drifting, but where, no one seems certain. There is a crisis coming, and what we must endure to survive it is not quite known, but we will survive it what ever the cost, and with some day to come, this country will move along smoothly again, under a new system where every one will be home-builders and contented families and a nation that will be a shining example to all the world.

Has reverence for the Church and its objectives diminished since we out-lived the era of kneeling congregations? And are most of the present day preachers acting in accordance with the wishes of their flock when they refrain from preaching about the terrible things to happen in the hereafter to the damned? Apparently, fire and brimstone sermons have practically given way to discourses molded to soothe the modern ear. The voice of the modern preacher is even and controlled, seldom raised to a pitch that might disturb the slumber of some heavy paying member, sometimes asleep in the rear. Modernization along these lines may be best, but there are many yet who still maintain a deep reverence for the toll of an old church bell, a congregation kneeling in prayer, and a preacher that tells his people things that are sometimes disturbing to hear.

C-n-C

Where is the "Civic Pride" that was once so evident here? Only a few years ago, this was a city of shacks, but "Civic Pride" flared and we built modern churches, fine schools, beautiful homes, paved streets and a modern hospital, but after we got a city started we stopped. Lately we have let things rock along as they were. We quit building, we quit advertising and apparently we have quit trying. What new enterprises are we getting today, and what new enterprises are we going after? I talked to a leading business man the other day and I was surprised to find that he did not belong or attend any civic or commercial organization in town, he doesn't do any advertising because he does not believe in it, and he is far too busy to lend any of his time to any committee for any enterprise. Every town has some of these kind of men, some towns have more than others, and the more a town has, the more unfortunate that town is. This type man may be a money-maker but he is not a town builder, and those of you who own property and ever hope to see it enhance in value can not follow his example. Smart, intelligent and truthful advertising is the first step to any successful town, and coupled with an organization of live business men, things are bound to happen. Take stock of yourself today and see if your efforts are spent wholly on the inside of your four walls, and if so, that is the main trouble with your town. And yet, as the poem goes, and truthfully too, "It Isn't the Town, It's You."

DISTRICT PRESIDENT TO SPEAK SATURDAY

Of great interest to all club women here is the announcement that Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview, President of the 7th District of Federated Clubs,

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four of life. 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

Doilies Offer Thrifty Way to Set Table

A perfectly appointed table is the dream of every woman's heart. With the simplest of crochet you can make this dream come true. This set of doilies, in four sizes, does the trick. There are a 6, 12 and 17-inch size suitable for luncheon and buffet sets as well as doilies while the largest, a 22-inch doily, is just the thing for in-between cloth on many a table. Use string or mercerized cotton—they'll stand long usage and be decorative too. Pattern 1462 contains directions for making the doilies shown; illustrations of them and of all stitches used; material requirements. Send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to The Sewing Circle Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

I LEARNED TO 'BEAT' ACID INDIGESTION
ONCE LIFE WAS MISERABLE, NO APPETITE... LITTLE SLEEP...UNTIL THE DOCTOR SAID 'ALKALIZE'

BUT NOW—AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ACID-INDIGESTION I USE PHILLIPS' AND I FEEL LIKE A NEW PERSON ALMOST IMMEDIATELY!

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready. Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Jerry Field was breathless from the effort of shaking off congratulatory hands which had tried to detain him.

"Changing her sandals at Lookout House. I've got to speak to you, Trent! Quick!"

Relief stopped the thumping of Mark Trent's heart. Had Brooke married Field, would he be here? He would not. He turned to Kowa still standing beside him and asked in a voice he had difficulty in keeping steady:

"Is anyone in the print room?"

The Jap disappeared and returned with incredible speed.

"No person there, sir."

Mark spoke in a low tone to Jerry Field:

"Slip into the room back of the stairs. Sam, tell the musicians to play something loud and gay; then join us. Now that we know Brooke is safe, Mrs. Gregory—"

"Mrs. Gregory is coming with us," Jed Stewart interrupted.

Even with the door of the room closed, the beat and rhythm of the music outside set the air within vibrating. A cheery fire crackled on the hearth. Incredibly long-stemmed Tempair roses in a tall vase made a splash of gorgeous crimson against the neutral tinted walls hung with Japanese prints, scented the air with their spicy fragrance. Mrs. Gregory resisted the seductive depth of a large chair and sat erect on the edge.

"What's happened? What's happened?" she demanded testily.

"Wait a minute. Thought I heard something." Field pulled aside the hangings at the window and peered out; Jed Stewart on his toes looked over his shoulder. "Yep, there they go. Police are no respecters of supper parties."

Jerry Field drew the hangings close and returned to the mantel. The lighter he held to his cigarette was not quite steady. "Now, folks, listen to my bedtime story."

For an instant there was no sound in the still room save the purr of the fire and the tap of a snowy vine against a window. Then it seemed to Mark Trent that the woman in the deep chair, Sam Reyburn with his elbow resting on one corner of the low bookshelves, Jed Stewart backed against the door as if to barricade it, stopped breathing as Field told how Brooke had commandeered his roadster and himself to take her across the causeway, of the reason she had given for her going, of her suspicion that the man she called the Bath Crystal Bandit might be serving as waiter at the party because of interest in the jewels of one of the guests.

Mrs. Gregory instinctively put one hand to her tiara and one of the blazing plastron at her breast. "I suppose you mean mine. When did they in-intend to take them?" she quavered.

Mark Trent crossed the room. He sat on the arm of her chair and put his hand on her shoulder. "Steady, Empress, they can't get them now. Go on, Field. Then you and Brooke are not married?"

"Married! No such luck. Didn't I make that clear? Brooke told that yarn to avert suspicion from our get-away. Do you think I'd be here if we were married?" There was a glint of steel in his eyes as they met Mark Trent's.

"Where was I—oh yes. We made headquarters in record time. Brooke told her story. Your kitchen, Trent, was the scene of the neatest, quickest clean-up in the history of crime in this state. I'll bet. No, don't go. Inspector Harrison sent special instructions to you to keep things moving here so that the news of the arrests wouldn't get out until he had the men safely in jail. Sorry to report that you've lost your chauffeur, Mrs. Gregory."

"Dominique! Not Dominique? He's been with me for years. Why have I lost him?"

"He's been taken along for questioning. The inspector didn't have time to go into it here. The Jacques at Lookout House also are being personally conducted to headquarters. Quite a party, if you ask me. I didn't hear much, but your man Dominique, Mrs. Gregory, was to have engine trouble on the way home. While he tinkered, you were to be relieved of your jewels."

Anne Gregory's face was gray; it dropped into sagging lines, her mouth quivered childishly. Suddenly she was an old defeated woman.

"Isn't there anyone in the world I can trust?" she whimpered.

Mark Trent moved closer to her. "Of course there's someone you can trust, you have Brooke and Sam, Jed and me, and—"

"Don't forget me," Jerry Field interrupted. "Now, who's come?"

h queried.

The low quick knocking at the door was repeated. Jed Stewart opened it cautiously and let in a drift of dance music and Lucette.

Her lips were startlingly red in contrast to the whiteness of her face. The rhinestone straps which held up what there was of the back of the bodice of her pale blue frock sent out a million or two iridescent sparks. She caught the lapel of Mark Trent's coat as he took a quick step toward her.

Mark Trent turned her by the shoulders that she might see Jerry Field standing by the mantel. He saw the look in the girl's eyes, saw something in the man's spring up to meet it. He felt the quiver that ran through her body, felt the effort she made to overcome it as she said flippantly:

"News flash! Eloping bridegroom returns without lovely bride. Where's Brooke, Jerry?"

"Changing her wet sandals at Lookout House."

"Wet sandals! Where has she been?"

"She'll be here in a minute and tell you herself, Lucette. Better go back to the party," Mark Trent suggested. "The New York producer and the Boston manager are still here, aren't they? We're depending on you to see that they have the time of their lives."

"Boy, when Brooke didn't appear, I forgot those bozos, forgot that we'd had a play." With his hand on the knob of the door, Sam stopped.

"Come along, Lucette."

Lucette caught Field's arm.

"Come with us, Jerry, and stop the rumor that you and Brooke have eloped; also we'll let people tell us what hits we were in 'Islands Arise.'"

"Suppose we go back to the party," Mark Trent suggested, and offered his arm to Mrs. Gregory.

As Mark Trent stepped back that Mrs. Gregory might precede him into the hall, Jed Stewart caught his arm.

"Sorry to Report That You've Lost Your Chauffeur, Mrs. Gregory."

"Just a minute, fellah!" He lowered his voice. "The inspector wants us to wait up until he gets here, no matter if he doesn't come till daylight."

Mark nodded assent. The throb of a harp, the singing of the violins, the quaver of the horns, the brooding of the oblie were muted to a caressing minor, heart-breakingly sweet, as he piloted Mrs. Gregory to a throne-like chair in the hall. He left her and went in search of the New York producer. It required considerable finesse to evade clamorous friends. Even as he acknowledged praise of his acting, congratulations on the party, he was thinking what a queer, aching, vivid thing love was, with its ecstasy, its inevitable misunderstandings, its quarrels, and he wondered why he bruised his heart against Brooke's dislike, wondered if she would ever forgive him for that kiss. At least he—

"Mark! Mark!"

Before he had a chance to evade her, Daphne Field flung a bare arm about his neck.

"Dance with me, please! Mark! Mark! You must love me!" The girl's voice caught in a sob as she pressed against him.

Too annoyed to answer, he put his arm about her to guide her out of the room. As he turned he saw Brooke Reyburn standing directly behind her. There was a curious light in her eyes, a mocking smile on her lips.

Even as Brooke smiled and accepted congratulations on the success of her brother's play, did her best to entertain the New York producer who attached himself to her from the moment Sam presented him, she was asking herself impatiently:

"Will the party never end? Who stole that paper from my desk? Can I make Mark Trent understand why I held it back? If it is, will he ever forgive me?"

But all parties end. The last of the guests, with Mrs. Gregory carefully tucked into their limousine, drove off in a flood of moonlight which transformed the world into an enchanted land of dazzling purity. The producer and manager left in a powerful car after hearty handshakes with Sam and a backward look at Brooke as she stood between her brother and Mark Trent in the hall. Except for the Reyburns, the Fields were the last to go.

She drew an unsteady breath of relief when the front door had shut out the brother and sister. They were outlanders in the present situation. She couldn't have told her story before them, and she must tell it quickly; that will must be found. She wanted Lucette and Sam to hear what she had to tell Mark Trent and Jed Stewart: the sooner they knew of the change in her fortune, the better.

Mark Trent linked his arm in Sam's.

"Don't wig-wag the let's-go signal at the girls, maestro. Jed and I can't let you off yet. Come into the library. Half the fun of a party is talking it over. I told Kowa to bring in some eats. I don't believe you Reyburns ate a mouthful of supper; you were too busy receiving congratulations. I'm starving myself."

Sam grinned.

"Now that you call the matter to my attention, I could toy with a little food. Come on, Brooke."

Lucette was curled up against the pillows in a corner of the library couch hugging her knees, when they entered. Stewart was backed up to the mantel. The girl's eyes were brilliant, her cheeks were pink, the voice in which she greeted them was bumpy from excitement:

"Come in, folks, and hear Jed tell me how good I was. He predicts that I would be an overnight sensation on Broadway."

"Snap out of that idea and snap out of it quick."

"Don't growl, Master Reyburn; he has been handing bouquets to the play too. I done you wrong, Sammy, when I crabbed about the last minute changes you made in the script; they were the high lights. Where's Jerry?"

Mark Trent answered Lucette's question.

"He and Daphne have gone home. You put it all over the other women in the cast of 'Islands Arise,' Lucette."

"She was a knockout and so was the leading woman," Sam agreed, "but, if you want to know who had the New York producer eating out of her hand, it was our little sister Brooke. After she arrived—trust a Reyburn to realize the dramatic value of a late entrance—I couldn't pry him away from her; lucky I got my option before she appeared. What were you saying to him, Brooke?"

"We talked theater fast and furiously. It was a wonder that I could think of anything but the near escape the party had from a hold-up."

Kowa entered with his quick catlike tread. His eyes sparkled like black diamonds as he set a Chinese teapoy of red and gold lacquer beside each chair.

"Boy, I'm tired! I feel all in," Sam confessed.

"It's reaction, and I'll bet you haven't eaten for hours and hours," Mark Trent spoke to Kowa as he returned with a laden tray.

"Serve Mr. Sam first. Here you are, maestro."

Sam's grin was swift and a trifle sheepish.

"I'm all right, m'lady; slumped for a minute, that's all."

"Don't apologize," Lucette mimicked.

"I'm not apologizing. I'm explain—" Sam broke off with a grimace at his sister. "Humorous, aren't you, kiddo? Fuss over Brooke, Mark, she needs it more than I. What with bracing me every time I got cold feet about 'Islands Arise' and getting dragged into the crime wave, she's had a hectic time since she came to Lookout House to live—I'll take another shot at those rolls, Kowa—I don't wonder she has decided to trek back to the town apartment. What will we do with the parrot when we go, Brooke?"

Brooke felt her color rise in response to the flash in Mark Trent's eyes as they met hers reflected in the great mirror. This was as good an opening as any she could bring about to tell the story of the paper Henri had produced. She rose and stood behind her chair.

"We won't have to consider the parrot, Sam. Mr. Micawber has gone."

"Gone!" Sam and Lucette chorused.

"Did he make another get-away, or has Henri kidnaped him?"

"Neither, Sam. He's in his cage, just a heap of green feathers."

"Poor old duffer. He hasn't had any pep since the night he took off in a hop for freedom. I liked that bird. Something's always taking the joy out of life."

"Cheerio, Master Reyburn, you still have your option," Lucette reminded. "Why can't we move to town tomorrow? No more commuting! What a break! I suppose you'll close Lookout House, Brooke?"

Brooke tried to force a gay note into her voice:

"I'll close Lookout House, Lucette, because I have accepted an offer—"

The sentence trailed off as Inspector Bill Harrison strode into the room.

"Well, Mark, I got it!"

"Got it! You're too modest, Inspector, you got the whole gang, I understand."

"Cripes, I'm not talking about those dirty thugs, Mark. That isn't what I came for. I got the will you was telling me about."

Removal of Gall Bladder
By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

A PROMINENT lawyer was going down hill physically. He was seventy years of age but had always been able to look after his legal work despite attacks of indigestion and an irritation which caused painful and frequent emptying of the urine.

The indigestion gave him loss of appetite, sour taste in the mouth, a bloated feeling, gas on the stomach and in the intestine, fullness after eating, and either constipation or diarrhoea.

He didn't want to go to a doctor as he was afraid that an operation, perhaps two operations, might be necessary, and at seventy years of age he was "taking no chances."

The symptoms however—terrible attacks of indigestion, and the frequent desire to pass urine—made him decide that life wasn't worth the living with this pain and distress so he consulted his physician.

Some months later friends meeting him on the street stopped him and congratulated him on his splendid appearance—good color, brisk walk, calm, serene face.

Don't Put Off Operation.

To the inquiry as to the cause of the change in his appearance, he quite casually remarked, "Oh, they found some gall stones and removed my gall bladder, and then a little later I had them remove the gland at the neck of the bladder, so with these two annoyances removed I'm feeling young again."

The point here is that while operation can never be treated lightly and operation on one past seventy would seem somewhat of a serious risk, nevertheless when gall stones are present it is not the age of the patient that matters from the standpoint of a good recovery after operation, but the length of time the patient has allowed the symptoms to be present before undergoing the operation.

So if your doctor advises removal of the gall bladder, don't put it off too long. If it should come out, the sooner the better.

DiETING Daughters.

One of the unfortunate things about prescribing reducing diets, particularly for women, is that so many young women of normal weight, or even below normal weight, believe that they will have a better appearance, will look "slim," if they follow the general rule of reducing weight, which, after all, is "just to eat less food."

Intelligent young women, college and business girls, who would not think of using a drug such as thyroid extract to reduce weight, will deliberately "starve" themselves to get the slim boyish figure.

"Of all the conditions found on examination of large groups of young women, underweight is about the most universal and likewise the most likely to prove dangerous." I am quoting Jane Foster, R. N., in Hygeia. Miss Foster is assistant director of health, Sarah Lawrence college.

"There is then the problem of the girl of eighteen or nineteen consciously controlling her own weight at a standard below that for good health. Now the greatest cause for death in this age group is tuberculosis, the predisposing factor of which is malnutrition—underweight.

"The greatest cause of illness in college health records is found to be infections of the nose, throat and chest and these, too, go with pronounced underweight. Other companions of underweight may be irritable dispositions and a loss of the natural mental ability or alertness. Those who work with this age group are frequently impressed with the large number who complain of fatigue and general dissatisfaction with life."

Of course the cause of this fatigue, irritability, dissatisfaction with life, is that these young women, who should be eating more food at this age than at any other age in their lifetime, are actually eating less than the body needs just to keep it working, aside from the extra food needed for growth in height and width. And the foods that should be eaten for growth and strength—meat, eggs and milk—are not included to any extent in the diet of these slim-mad girls.

What these girls of normal weight forget is that underweight means undernourishment, and undernourishment means that a reduction of the "energy reserves" of the body occurs when not enough food is eaten and the body is below normal weight.

The energy reserves of the body—the reserves needed to promote health and growth, and prevent or lessen the effects of illnesses—can only be maintained by a generous all round diet at this important age in a woman's life.

FUTURE FARMERS HOLDING IMPROVEMENT CONTEST

An improvement contest is being staged among the students of vocational agriculture in the Slaton High School. The purpose of the contest is very definite. In the main it is to stimulate a desire on the part of the boys to improve their skill in performing jobs on the farm and in the home. We hope to see much good accomplished by the contest such as beautifying the home, adding home conveniences, improving farm practices and stimulating greater interest in the Future Farmer organization.

This contest is conducted in a very simple manner. Each boy keeps tab on the jobs he does over a two weeks period. He then reports to a committee of ag boys, appointed by the president of the local chapter, the jobs he has done and the time spent in doing them. This committee goes over the reports and determines the number of points to be given for the work. The contest is to run for six months, Oct. 1, 1937 to March 31, '38.

At the end of this period the boys who have made the greatest number of points will be awarded valuable prizes. There are two divisions to the contest, one for first year ag boys and one for second year ag students.

Presto! Now You See Them—Now You Dont

Amazing new camera tricks, developed by screen magicians for the production of the Hal Roach-M-G-M super feature comedy, "Topper," coming to the Palace Theatre next Tuesday, blaze a new trail in motion pictures.

Photographic effects reached a new importance in Hollywood in filmatizing Thorne Smith's fantastic story of the hilariously funny and thrilling adventures of two lovely ghosts, as portrayed by Constance Bennett and Cary Grant.

Here are a few of the many unusual scenes in this screen play which create astounding legerdemain with the celluloid: the beautiful lady ghost (Constance Bennett) at one point reaches down, grasps a zipper on her dress and zips half of herself right off the screen. When the handsome male specter (Cary Grant) objects, she zips all of herself right out of the picture. Throughout the fantasy Miss Bennett and Grant, playing low plane spirits, have the ability to materialize and dematerialize wholly or in part.

Cary Grant drives the futuristic automobile, jacks up the wheel, changes a tire, but you don't see him—you see just the various implements moving about their eerie business.

Miss Bennett bathes and dries herself in full view of the audience but curious onlookers will only see water bouncing off an invisible form and note the industrious movements of the towel. In another sequence, there are real panties on a transparent lady.

Roland Young is involved in many bewildering escapades with the gay ghosts. His hat and cane fly through space, his tie is arranged, his vest buttoned and his hair combed by invisible hands and he himself flits through the air with the greatest of ease.

Slaton Wins Over Tahoka 26 to 0

Last Friday Slaton ran rampant in their game with Tahoka, compiling a total score of 26 to 0. The visitors were forced to play a defensive game from the beginning and showed promise in their aerial attack.

Slaton used the second string men to begin the game and through out the first quarter, and they started again at the half. In the third quarter Lloyd Henry ran 62 yards through right tackle for a touchdown, then kicked goal; in the same quarter Bullard intercepted a pass and raced 65 yards for the second tally.

In the fourth quarter Lamb of the second string, ran 69 yards to score and Scott, also of the second string, kicked goal. Later Lamb again went over the goal line after a short line drive, to make the final score 26 to 0.

Outstanding players for the Tahoka team were Snowden and McCord. All the first string for Slaton were in good form and for the second string Lamb, Scott and Austin were stars.

A peculiar feature of the game was that neither team had crossed the 50-yard line at the end of the half, and both teams had only one first down.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Clean Comics That Will Amuse Both Old and Young

Household Questions

Cleaning Enameled Sinks.—Those stubborn dark streaks which accumulate on enameled sinks and bathtubs can be removed with kerosene.

Potatoes for Short Cakes.—Hot, boiled and mashed white potatoes are good in making short cakes and puddings. They not only save flour, but require less shortening.

When Peeling Small Onions.—Cover small onions with hot water and let stand for a minute or two and the skins are easily removed.

Eggs in Tomatoes.—Take large tomatoes, slice off the tops, remove the pulp. Break an egg into each case, replace the pulp, add a nut of butter, season with pepper and salt. Replace the tops and bake in a hot oven for 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold, garnished with cress, peas or lettuce.

Dry Soiled Clothes.—When clothes are sent to the laundry they are usually paid for by weight. Money can be saved if the housewife makes certain all articles are dry before they are sent out.

When Washing Soft Polishing Dusters.—Rinse them in slightly soapy water instead of clear water. This makes the dusters much softer and they polish better.

Crab Apple Jelly.—Take one pint of water to every pound of apples, and boil until soft. Then put through jelly-bag. Allow one pound of sugar and a tablespoonful of vinegar to every pint of liquid, and boil for half an hour or until it jellies.

Johnny Cake.—One cup yellow corn meal, one cup bread flour, one-third cup sugar, one and one-half cups sour milk, half teaspoon soda, half teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt. Mix and sift the dry ingredients twice, and gradually add the sour milk. Beat well, and bake in a shallow greased pan, in a moderate oven.

POP— Silly Question

The Curse of Progress

Anything to Oblige

A young subaltern joined a guards depot, his upper lip as yet unadorned with even the suspicion of down. The adjutant sent for him. "You must grow a moustache." "Yes, sir." "And not one of those Chaplin affairs—a proper moustache." "Yes, sir." The interview was finished, but the subaltern did not move, so the adjutant asked: "Well, what more do you want?" "Any particular color, sir?"

Knows His Stuff

After the tiff she calmed down a bit. "But how can you love me, George," she said. "The doctor says I must have a course of slimming, and now you won't let me. I think that's brutal of you." He took her in his arms. "My darling," he replied, "I love you so much that I can't bear to lose an ounce of you."—London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Make Your Own Lace Accessories

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MISS COLLEGE GIRL

Miss Debutante and matrons young and not so young who being active in social affairs need must "dress up" to occasion, here's telling you how to economically acquire that air of elegance which fashion demands for this fall and winter. No matter how ungenerous your clothes allowance may happen to be you can have a whole collection of lace "pretties" such as the sketches here show at comparatively trifling cost. In fact the idea that prompts this illustration, together with its story, is to give you "pointers" on dressing smartly and handsomely on a limited allowance.

A touch of lace will do it! Transform your simplest demure and unpretentious gown into a costume of distinction. And now that we've told you, the first step is either to let your favorite dressmaker in on the secret (show her these sketches) or perhaps you prefer to thriftilly adopt the "make it yourself" course of action. Not that you have to be an expert with the needle, for, provided with carefully selected patterns, there is no reason why, if you can sew even a little bit, that you should not successfully copy these charming fantasies. No matter how many you make of these lovely lace items you can't ever have too many.

SILHOUETTE TRENDS FOR EVENING DRESS

Outside of that the pencil-slim Directoire with its high slit skirt and the revival of the Empress Eugenia, there is a definite tendency in many houses to a Spanish type of dress. This is usually marked by flounce ruffles. And one must not forget the gently widened skirt as evidenced also in the afternoon clothes. The most startling bit of material used in this has been the placing of various types of lace over lame to give the firmness and stiffness required. One more skirt—and the silhouette can be settled. That is the short front. This varies from the gradation effect to those cut off clear to the knees in front to show a filmy petticoat of ruffled net. A cross between this and the Directoire are skirts which are cut-away like a man's coat, to the knees and then come down to the ground at either side seam.

Daytime Footwear for Fall

Most daytime shoes have lost the rugged, sporty look that formerly characterized the appropriate footwear for tailored suits. Smart, soft-toed models, many of them made with elastic insets and gores, mould the foot trimly. Others, constructed entirely of elastic leather, insure a streamlined silhouette, unmarred by gapping sides or fastenings that protrude. These snug, form-fitting styles are as easy on the feet as bedroom slippers, partly because of their construction and partly because of their comfortable walking-height heels covered with matching materials or built up of little uncovered layers that are nick-proof and resilient.

BRIDLE-PATH CHIC

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

To dress up to the part she plays should be the ambition of every true sportswoman. It may be along scenic bridle paths that the enthusiast guides her gallant steed or it may be in the glare of bright light and trumpet loud in the fashionable horse show arena that she will make her bow. In either event her riding togs must be correct down to the slightest detail. The picture shows a sartorially perfect outfit. We would especially call your attention to the horse's head carved from brown shell catalin that is nonchalantly pinned on her coat. During the summer it became quite a fad to wear novel carved catalin fish, frogs, snails and such, either clips or brooches, on one's bathing suit.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for October 10

THE CHRISTIAN IN GOD'S KEEPING

LESSON TEXT—Jude 14, 17-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.—Jude 21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why David Sang. JUNIOR TOPIC—In God's Keeping. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Keeping Ourselves Christian. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Safe in God's Keeping.

To be born is only to begin life. The years which stretch out before with their growth, their struggles, their joys, call for courageous living.

So it is with the Christian. He is a "born one," as we saw in our lesson of last Sunday. But when he is born again he is just ready to begin the Christian life.

The Epistle of Jude sheds much light on the dangers which beset the Christian's pathway and exhorts him to holy living and sacrificial service. It opens with a description of the Christian and closes with an ascription of praise to God. It reveals the Christian as one who is

I. Called in Christ (vv. 1, 2). The entire Trinity is seen to be active in our redemption (See Revised Version). Jude writes "to them that are"

- 1. "Called"—The Holy Spirit calls men unto salvation. 2. "Beloved in God the Father"—for God is love. 3. "Kept for Jesus Christ"—until he appears.

II. Living for Christ (vv. 3, 4, 17-23). As Jude began to write of the "salvation" which he had in "common" with his readers, the Holy Spirit moved him to deal with a very urgent and vital problem—the hostility of wicked men toward the gospel of Christ, and their efforts to destroy "the faith." The Christian life includes

- 1. Contending for the faith (vv. 3, 4). "The Faith" is the body of revealed truth, the gospel, the good news of redemption in Jesus Christ. The world hates the gospel, and attacks upon it are to be expected, but the most insidious assault is that of those within the church (v. 4) who profess to believe in Christ. Against them and their destructive work Christians must "contend earnestly," at the same time praying that they may be delivered from their sin and its terrible judgment (vv. 15-16).

2. Observing the times in which they live (vv. 17-19). Some folk seem to think that being a Christian means entering into a place of security and rest and promptly going sound asleep. Far from it. The Christian, knowing God's Word, is keenly alert to the dangers of this ungodly world. 3. Keeping their own souls (vv. 20, 21). The best defense is a vigorous offense. The way to contend against error is to build up one's own faith by the study of God's Word, by communion with his children, but above all by prayer "in the Holy Ghost." And above all there will be an abiding in the love of God and a looking for the fulfillment of the mercy of Christ at his coming again.

4. Saving the souls of others (vv. 22, 23). Soul-winning is (or should be) the normal expression of the Christian's life. It is his crowning joy. It most effectively counteracts error and worldliness. It builds up the church. Why not do it?

Note that there are two types of sinners to be rescued. Some are "in doubt" (R. V.), needing tender and careful instruction. Others are in grave danger, and must be rescued by drastic reproof and decisive action. Soul-winning is urgent business.

III. Kept by Christ (vv. 24, 25). The doxology at the close of Jude has been a haven of comfort and assurance for God's children throughout the centuries. Hither have come the strong in faith to rejoice and praise God. Here has been found the strengthening of faith by the fearful and trembling soul who had not yet learned that he may fully trust God. These verses present two truths.

- 1. Assurance. Our Saviour is able to keep us from falling, yes, even from "stumbling" (R. V.), and to present us "faultless" "without blemish" (R. V.), with exceeding joy, before the glorious presence of God. 2. Worship. Such a God and Saviour is indeed worthy of the outgoing of every Christian heart in adoration and worship.

Work and Wait. Haste is not always speed. We must learn to work and wait. This is like God, who perfects his works through beautiful gradations.

Greatness of Trifles. "Commit thy trifles unto God, for to Him nothing is trivial; and it is but the littleness of man that seeth no greatness in a trifle."

Sabbath Days. Sabbath days are quiet islands on the tossing sea of life.
