Uncle Ananias says that the waste involved in postponing thinking until the last moment is colossal.

If they stack any more cotton in the County Park we will have to move our football stadium.

Our girl says that if there is anything a woman dislikes it's the sight of another woman making a fool of a man.

A headline says "FDR Submits Four-Point Legislative Program"—Why not stretch it a point and have a star program.

In one of the club reports this week we set a line that said the Band Mothers Club had asked them for help in purchasing new uniforms for the Tiger Band. This is something that we, as citizens of a progressive town, should see is put over.

Those of you who have seen the band this year will agree with us that they are the louziest in the State if not in the Country. These uniforms are four years old, and were cheap to start with. If you will look at the suit you have been wearing for the past four years, you will have an idea how the band suits look. They have faded, and since the high school colors have been changed, dyed in an effort to make them correspond with the football team's suits. This, as you know was not very successful.

The band has done more for the town in the way of publicity than any other thing that we have sponsored. They are rated with the best, and have won many prizes in their various contests. Let's keep them at the top.

You all know as well as we, that regardless of how good a band is, if their uniforms are not flashy, colorful, and of the best quality, that they do not make much of an impression.

The town is represented to over 150,000 people each year outside of Slaton by the band—is this advertising worth a decent set of uniforms? We think so! What do you think?

There is a grave danger, pointed out by many responsible economists, that the country may sink into another depression—unless corrective steps are taken. The same experts are generally agreed that two of the outstanding causes of the recent drop in business production and the collapse in security values are the Capital Gains Tax and the Undistributed Profits Tax.

Charley Guy, of the Lubbock Avalanche has this to say: "While we do not put much faith in the Pollyanna gesture, or in the late Dr. Coue's 'Day by day, in every way, we're growing better and better,' we do believe the time ripe for the nation, as a whole, to embrace a little optimism.

"Spencer Wells, recently back from New York, reports business circles in the Big Town as 'jumpy.' The stock market seems to mean everything to them," he said, "and when it breaks they get to worrying."

"C. W. Ratliff, night editor of Avalanche-Journal papers, just back from Los Angeles, reports that business men to whom he talked there are as jittery as a bunch of New Year's celebrants on the morning after. They're prophesying," he says, "that another 6 months will see the start of another depression—a worse one than we've ever dreamed of.

"Of course, a lot of the fears are caused by the present special session of Congress, by the ever-mounting public debt, the unbalanced budget and the national administration's 'to hell with business and industry' attitude. But the fact remains that we still have a fine, rich, largely undeveloped

Disappearance of $28,000 Is Probed

Federal postal department officials are still investigating the disappearance of a sack of registered mail at Slaton last week which contained some $28,000 in silver and currency for the First National bank at O'Donnell. The money was from the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas.

"All I know is we did not get the money when we expected to," said J. L. Shoemaker, Jr., active vice-president and cashier of the bank. "It did not arrive as scheduled."

Postmaster J. Mack Nobles of the O'Donnell post office said the sack was not handled through the O'Donnell office. "We received notice that a reward had been offered for its recovery, but I do not know how much. The notice did not state."

The money was to have been used in payment for cotton picking in that territory Saturday. It was to supplement funds already in the bank.

The sack, it was reliably reported, was thrown off the Santa Fe train here, the junction point, where mail for O'Donnell, Wilson, Tahoka and Lamesa is transferred to a branch line train. The train leaves Slaton soon after the arrival of the morning passenger train from Dallas.

For the past ten days several postal inspectors have been in this section and a number of people have had the experience of having a new bill jerked from their hands. Almost everyone you met would ask you if you had a new bill in your possession.

We have been given to understand that a large amount of money had previously been taken from the same run.

country and a general citizenship of unsurpassed intelligence and ambition.

"Let's have a little faith!" More power to you Charley.

Two bills have been introduced in Congress by Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat of New York, to correct these taxes. In support of these bills is the practically united sentiment of economists, financial journalists, industrial leaders, and many men high in the government service. There is no qualified opposition worthy of the name.

Prompt passage of these two bills should be the first move toward stopping another depression and reviving the recovery movement.

"Varsity Show" With Powell and Waring at Palace Sunday

"Varsity Show," has its local premiere Sunday at the Palace Theatre. Starring the ever-popular Dick Powell and introducing in grand manner to motion picture audiences, Fred Waring and his nationally famous orchestra, the Pennsylvanians. "Varsity Show" marks a new high in musical and comedy entertainment.

Included in the stellar cast besides Dick Powell and Fred Waring are such leading figures as Ted Healy, Lee Dixon, Priscilla Lane, Rosemary Lane, Buck and Bubbles, Walter Catlett, Johnny Davis and Roy Atwell.

The plot of the picture deals with the efforts of Chuck Daly (Dick Powell), a Broadway producer temporarily on his uppers, to stage the annual Quadrangle Club show at Winfield College. Daly, himself a Winfield alumnus, is induced to return to the college to rescue the varsity show from the hands of Professor Sylvester Biddle (Walter Catlett), faculty advisor, who is all for art and nothing for modernity in school presentations.

Daly overcomes many obstacles set before a successful production by Professor Biddle, jams members of the cast through special scholastic examinations and then figures in a student strike brought on when Biddle ousts him from the campus. The undergraduates take matters into their own hands. The show must go on.

Novel and Decorative Fastenings

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE present insistent demand for unique and ornate fastenings, fashion flings a new challenge into the realm of costume design. It is a challenge to which designers are responding with unbounded enthusiasm, since it offers new avenues of adventure to creative genius. Which explains why our fall and winter apparel is being slide-fastened or buttoned, as the case may be, with a play of imagination that is fairly breathtaking.

The illustration shows several from among the multitudinous uses made in the present gesture to trim as well as to fasten with decorative slide-fasteners and with buttons. For the smart fitted sport coat with its raglan sleeves and slightly flared lines accented with row-and-row stitching as pictured to the left, the designer achieves a chic fastening with huge catalin buttons carved in an effective floral motif. Often "acid indigestion" is distressing to you—and offensive to others. But now there is no excuse for being guilty. You simply carry your alkalizer with you—and use it at the first sign of "upset" stomach. Simply take two tiny tablets of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia when out with others. Or—if at home—you can take two teaspoons of liquid Phillips'. Both act the same way. Relief is usually a matter of seconds. "Gas," nausea, "heartburn," acid breath—all respond quickly. Just make sure you ask for "Phillips'."

AFTERNOON WINTER SUIT IS HIGH NOTE

Plaid for Dress, Blouse Suit and Coat Is Latest Plaids are telling a fascinating story. You'll be wanting a two-piece tailored jacket suit. They give that new-this-season look, besides the plaids that are being manufactured are that colorful and flattering they are simply irresistible. Then, to wear to the ball game, a huge roomy coat of horse-blanket plaid as bizarre as they make 'em will be a cheer leader in itself.

Enliven Black Costumes With Bright Accessories

The call for black with colorful accessories is answered in the present vogue for black costumes enlivened with red accessories. The latest interpretation of the black and red color scheme is given by smart dressed women who wear red suede hats and carry handbags to match. This combination sets a black suit or ensemble off to perfection. And there's the new red suede gloves they're wearing with black. You will yield to temptation when you see them. A red boutonniere adds infinitely to this allure.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for November 14 THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER

LESSON TEXT—I Timothy 4:6-16; II Timothy 2:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—Neglect not the gift that is in thee—I Timothy 4:14. PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers. JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why and How Ministers Are Trained. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Minister in the Modern World.

"The Christian Minister"—there is no greater calling among men, but none is more often the target for misrepresentation and abuse by those outside, and all too often the victim of the carelessness, weakness, and sin of those within its own circle. On the other hand it has had, and continues to have to this day, within its ranks such a noble army of faithful and sacrificial men as would probably be impossible to duplicate in any other calling. The study of today's lesson should arouse in the hearts of Christian people a high regard for the ministry as a calling, and a kindly purpose to aid their minister to live up to its glorious possibilities. Every true minister who studies it will find his spirit humbled before God in thanksgiving for the privilege of service, and in prayer that he may be forgiven for his failures and empowered for the work of the future.

The need for such a study is indicated in the verses just preceding our lesson, namely, I Timothy 4:1-5, where we read of the express warning of the Spirit of God that in the latter times there should be teaching and preaching which departed from the faith, substituting men's wisdom for God's Word. One who looks around him cannot but feel that we have fallen upon that evil day.

I. What to Preach (I Tim. 4:6-9). The "good minister of Jesus Christ" preaches the words of God. To do this he must himself be "nourished" by them. Spare your preacher the necessity of running errands, serving on boards and committees, and encourage him to study his Bible. Preacher, are you studying God's Book, learning and teaching "good doctrine"? If so you will have no interest in or time for "profane and old wives' tales."

II. How to Preach (I Tim. 4:10-12). 1. Sacrificially (v. 10). The man who regards the ministry as a nice, easy, respectable occupation is not in the same calling as was the apostle Paul. In fact, there is nothing to indicate that he is in the Christian ministry at all, for in that calling there is labor and suffering of reproach. This is not something to be borne in a spirit of resigned submission. The minister knows and "trusts in the living God," and gladly bears every responsibility with which God may entrust him.

2. Authoritatively (v. 11). The minister of Christ speaks for God. In doing so he teaches with assurance and is to "command" men in the Lord's name. All too often the servants of the Lord feel and act like "grasshoppers" (see Numbers 13:33), and everybody else regards them as feeble and impotent, when they should be "strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus" (II Tim. 2:1).

3. Actively (v. 12). Whether young or old, the minister is to be an example, a pattern in his active daily life. Note how discriminating is the scripture. He is to be a pattern for others in speech, manner of living, in love, in spirit, in faith, and in purity of life.

III. Who Is to Preach (I Tim. 4:13-16). 1. The man who is divinely called (v. 14). God called Timothy; men recognized that call and ordained him to give his life to the exercise of his God-presented gift. This is the right order for our day. 2. The man who is properly prepared (vv. 13, 15-16). The ministry calls for the best preparation that a man can possibly obtain. He must know how to read God's Word, both publicly and privately. He is to be skilled in exhortation, and in teaching Christian doctrine.

In conclusion, let us consider the portion from II Timothy 2 which properly presents the work of the minister as that of a soldier at war against the world, the flesh, and the devil. He must be prepared to bear hardness, and he must not yield to the temptation to get into "side-lines," no matter how dignified and profitable they may be. His sole business is to serve and to please God.

What Education Means The real object of education is to give children resources that will endure as long as life endures; habits that time will ameliorate, not destroy; occupation that will render sickness tolerable, solitude pleasant, age venerable, life more dignified and useful, and death less terrible.—Sydney Smith.

A Happy Man Happy the man who sees a God employed in all the good and ill that checker life.—Gowper.

The Newest in Miniature

SEW-YOUR-OWN presents a house frock with the heart to be up and doing, no matter how busy you are, how old you are, or how many calories you've forgotten to keep count of. Sew-Your-Own also presents the first doll with a heart (the picture proves it). And lastly it presents a frock with a love interest for a Modern Miss, something usually confined to the movies.

Ideal for Home. Sew-Your-Own always has had a soft spot in its heart for the Lady of the Fireside, she who cooks and bakes and sews and keeps everything right. Today's house frock for her (above left) is as neat and sweet as anyone could wish. The collar is in contrast, the saw tooth edging piped to match. Of course, it's easy to run-up and practically no trouble at all to launder. Better make two!

A Doll—a Dress. The little lady in the center, above, knows her heart's in the right place because Mommy put it there. Dolly Dimples is her well little playmate and her heart's in the right place, too. Ask your Mommy to send for Pattern 1203 and you'll have a great big surprise in store. Yes siree!

Her Heart Unattached. You will find Miss Svelt Seventeen (above right) is good to her figure! Her frock, an original Sew-Your-Own design, gives her real distinction—that different-in-the-right-way look. It is the ultimate in chic in rayon crepe with a satin waist front.

The Patterns. Pattern 1405 is designed for sizes 34 to 46. Size 36 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35-inch material plus 3/4 yard contrasting. Pattern 1203 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, and 5 years. Size 3 requires 1 3/4 yards of 35-inch material for the child's dress. The doll's body, medium size, requires 3/4 yard of 35-inch material. The doll's dress, medium size, requires 3/4 yard of 35- or 39-inch material. One hank of wool is required for doll's hair. Pattern 1377 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 44 bust). Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material. The topper in contrast requires 3/4 yard of 39-inch material.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

CROP CONTROL MEASURE

Features of the New Bill Prepared for Congress . . . Italy Adheres to Anti-Red Agreement

Edward W. Pickard

SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

"LITTLE FLOWER" WINS Florentino La Guardia, who licked Tammany and was re-elected mayor of New York, in a striking pose as he addressed voters.

Farm Measure Ready

Voluntary crop control for wheat, corn, rice and cotton; and compulsory limitation of tobacco production, are provided for in the new farm measure drafted by the house committee on agriculture for action in the extraordinary session of congress.

Secretary Wallace's "ever normal granary" plan is included in the bill. The measure also provides for "tariff equalizing taxes" which would be actually a revival of the processing taxes which the Supreme court declared unconstitutional.

The policy of congress is declared to be to maintain "so far as practicable both parity of prices paid to farmers for all agricultural commodities marketed by them for domestic consumption and export and parity income for farmers marketing such commodities."

Benefit payments would be made only to producers taking part in the general program, and would be based on (1) the use of land, (2) changes in the use of land, and (3) the percentage of normal production going into domestic consumption.

For the protection of consumers the bill provides that when prices of the respective commodities exceed parity by 10 per cent the secretary of agriculture shall call outstanding commodity loans, thus releasing stored commodities and in this way preventing excessive prices.

Italy Joins Anti-Reds

MUSSOLINI has given the democratic governments of Europe something else to worry about, for Italy has joined Germany and Japan in their agreement to combat communism, and no one knows how far this alliance will go or just what are its intentions. The three "charter members" of the pact—that status was given Italy—hope that all other fascist minded nations, including Poland, Portugal, Von Ribbentrop Hungary and some of the South American republics, will adhere to the agreement.

Political observers saw the prospect of a world divided into three camps—fascist, communist and democratic.

Emerging as one of the probable chief leaders of this united front is Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to Great Britain. Hitler sent him to Rome to sign the new pact, and it is expected that the headquarters of the alliance will be in Berlin.

Officials in Rome stated the pact was not directed against any country and said Russia might have all the communism it wants so long as she keeps it at home. But they intimated the military forces of the signatories were ready to back up the agreement. Virginio Gayda, authoritative commentator, said that 2,000,000 tons of warships and 200,000,000 persons are now at the disposal of the anti-communist front.

In Berlin the mouthpiece of the foreign office asserted the pact has the backing of 200,000,000 people "who are not prepared for any political reasons to allow the primary necessity for fighting bolshevism to drop into the background."

There was a belief in European capitals that there were secret military clauses in the agreement, and this suspicion was intensified by the fact that German warships joined Italian warships in target practice off the Italian naval base of Gaeta.

One of the possible implications of the pact which bothers Great Britain is that the three allied nations may make a great clamor for restoration to Germany of her lost colonies.

Hitler, Mussolini and Premier Konoje of Japan exchanged felicitations on the signing of the agreement.

Duke May Come in February

MAYBE the duke and duchess of Windsor will come to the United States after all. It was said in Paris by one of their associates they had decided tentatively to make the trip in February, believing that by that time they could carry out their plan without criticism.

The sudden cancellation of the trip was primarily due to the harsh criticism of organized labor because it was to be managed by Charles E. Badaux, whose speed-up system is abhorrent to labor. That gentleman promptly withdrew from the tour arrangements and President Green of the A. F. of L. thereupon said American labor would "extend a sincere and cordial welcome to the duke and duchess and co-operate in their proposed investigations."

Should Edward and Wally come over in February, perhaps Mrs. Roosevelt will find it possible to arrange her lecture dates so as to be present at the luncheon the President will give for the visitors.

Our Navy Grows Rapidly

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY CLAUDE A. SWANSON reported to the President that the navy is stronger than at any time since war days and is moving steadily up to the full strength permitted by the treaties abrogated by Japan. It will not go beyond the limitations in those pacts unless other nations do so.

Under its big replacement program the department has under construction two new battleships and has appropriations for 85 other warships. These include three aircraft carriers, one heavy cruiser, nine light cruisers, fifty-five destroyers and seventeen submarines.

Five years ago the total number of under age vessels was 101 of 728,050 tons, with twenty-three vessels of 12,500 tons under construction. Today the navy has 113 vessels of 869,230 tons under age, and eighty-seven vessels of 335,565 tons under construction.

Shanghai Falls to Japs STUBBORN defense of Shanghai by the Chinese came to an end when the Japanese troops made their way across Soochow creek and occupied the entire city. The defenders retired westward and prepared to block the way of the invaders toward Nanking.

China Won't Negotiate GEN. CHIANG KAI-SHEK, dictator of China, issued a formal statement opposing direct negotiations with Japan for settlement of the Far Eastern conflict.

He reaffirmed China's determination to continue the struggle until "justice is re-established in this part of the world," and expressed optimism concerning the military situation.

Success of the Brussels conference was endangered by the presence there of Soviet Russia. Japanese circles said they believed Japan was ready to exchange information concerning the conflict in China with signatories of the nine power treaty of 1922, but not with nonsignatories like Russia.

President's Birthday PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has authorized the use of his fifty-fifth birthday, January 30, for the promotion of the nation-wide fight on infantile paralysis. As in previous years, the day will be celebrated in many cities with balls. This time the funds raised thus will not be handed over to local agencies but will all go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which was created recently by Mr. Roosevelt. The President has approved the appointment of a committee headed by Keith Morgan of New York to arrange for the celebrations.

New Attack on Black ALBERT LEVITT made a new effort to obtain Justice Hugo L. Black's removal from the Supreme court, shortly before the court itself had opportunity to decide whether to hear another test of Black's eligibility.

Levitt asked President Roosevelt to start quo warranto proceedings against Black. This in effect would require Black to show by what right he held the position.

What Irwin S. Cobb Thinks about

Growing Cannon Fodder. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— To produce this crop takes time and planning.

First our veterans must grow past fighting age because those who survive the horrors of one war never willingly enlist for another. Meanwhile be sure the women have been bearing children, since children are the seed corn of your future sowing.

As the newer generation grows up dose it on the old reliable P. P. P. formula—parades, pomp, propaganda. Bands and guns and flag-wavings, murderous preachments and manufactured patriotism; they all help to fertilize against the ultimate harvesting.

Befuddle the neighbor with the neighbor over the way is an enemy who must some day be crushed without mercy. Make him believe his country's destiny demands revenge for old hurts, reprisals for old losses, widened boundaries writ in blood.

And then, in about 20 years, you have a nation ripened for ruin, a race of mothers ready to offer their sons to the slaughter. It's a slow crop, but a sure one, and highly gratifying to professional sword-rattlers and power-mad dictators, to profiteers and financial hijackers.

Let's see, come 1938, it'll be just about 20 years since the last time the world cut its own throat.

Two-Faced Politicians. SOMEBODY says the type of politician who swaps worthless promises before election for the public's confidence—and its votes—reminds him of Janus. Janus was a god with two faces, and the ancients finally got so they couldn't trust either one of them. But it took them a long time to catch on.

Might I be pardoned for thinking of a homelier simile? I'm thinking of the pack-rat of this western country. The thrifty pack-rat slips with stealthy tread into your camp whilst you slumber and carries off something of value. But he doesn't steal it—nothing like that. He merely exchanges with you, you being asleep at the time. He leaves a dry twig behind and totos off a side of meat. He confiscates one of your boots, but, in return, confers on you a couple of dead cactus stalks. His intentions may be honest, but there is no record showing where a pack-rat ever got the worst of a trade. I figure he's part Scotch.

And the profits resulting from his professional dealings certainly may be likened to the career of many a chronic officeholder now flourishing in our midst.

This Man Dewey. WHEN the Republicans get out the hound-dogs to run down their 1940 nominee, they might search in the tall timbers of Manhattan island.

There's a young fellow there, the name being Dewey, and he being kin to the great admiral whose deeds crackled at Manila one May day morning like the lightnings on Mount Sinai. He comes of old Yankee stock. He hails from a debatable state, Michigan; lives in a pivotal state, New York. Still in his mid-thirties, he smashed the fastest, surest nests of labor racketeers and vice racketeers in America.

He married a sweet Texas girl, as southern as they make 'em. Her grand-uncle was Jeff Davis. My daddy was Jeff Davis' relative, too.

And this young Dewey trained for grand opera. Speaking of this charm thing, think of a President who'd wind up his fireside radio chats singing "Home on the Range."

Yes, sir, the G. O. P. might go farther and fare worse.

Nordic Supremacy. RECENT events bring to mind a little story of some years back when night-riding patriots in an Arkansas county fell called on, as a sacred duty imposed upon all true Caucasians, to put the Black brother in his place; said place, in at least one instance, being a colored cemetery.

Also, there had been a flood of notices to vacate sent through the mail to members of the African race, followed by unpleasant surprise parties did the recipients fail to heed the gentle warning.

So the community was getting more Nordic by the hour and the sound of the Anglo-saxophone was heard oft in the stilly night. That's the scene and the plot. Now for the sketch:

Pelagria Perkins meets Hookworm Hostetter on Main street: "Hooky," says Pelagria, "effen you wuz to git a letter from dese here white shirts, what would you do?"

"Me!" says Hookworm. "Boy, I'd finish readin' it on the train."

Push Gobbler as National Bird

Los Angeles, Calif.—The American eagle will have to give up his job to the turkey gobbler, if the Northwestern Turkey Growers association gets its way. Senators and congressmen of 14 states were asked to make the turkey the national bird at the next session of congress. It was argued that the turkey, besides being the symbol of Thanksgiving, is native to America. Misses Edith Lawrence (left) and Pat Gergen are pictured above showing how the turkey would look in the eagle's place against the American shield.

Ye Council Eats Right Well After Ye Slick Barter

Deer Is Thanksgiving Meal and Indian Is Goat.

IF AMERICANS this Thanksgiving are well able to appease both their consciences and their appetites, their moral dexterity is no better than that of their forebears on the town council at Danvers, Mass., in the year 1714. Venison, rather than turkey, made up the piece de resistance on a Thanksgiving feast there, but religious complications arose, as recorded by Rev. Lawrence Conant, of that city:

"After ye blessing was craved by Mr. Garrich of Wrentham, word came that ye buck was shot on ye pork brought mingled thanksgiving and chagrin to a boy named Benjamin Franklin, who often became restless during the long graces which accompanied Massachusetts meals. So one day after the pork had been dutifully stored away, he suggested that if his father would only "say grace over the whole cask, once for all, it would be a vast saving of time."

In the latter half of the same century, whenever a feast was in order in the back country of Virginia and the Carolinas, young Daniel Boone or some other hunter would go out to find venison or bear meat to mix with pork in the habitual "great stew" of such a celebration. With it were served roast pork or bear or broiled venison.

Bear and venison are no longer generally available for the Thanksgiving dinner, but turkey is still one of the mainstays.

Mr. Shepard's conscience was tender, and so was poor Pequot's back. Lord's day by Pequot, an Indian, who came to Mr. Epes with a lye in his mouth like Ananias of old.

"Ye council therefore refused to eat ye venison, but it was afterward decided that Pequot should receive forty stripes save one, for lying and profaning ye Lord's day, restore Mr. Epes ye cost of ye deer, and con-

A Thanksgiving Prayer

For what we have, though small it be, We thank thee, Lord, For the simple joys of serenity, We thank thee, Lord, For the gentle touch of the friendly hand Of those who love and understand, We thank thee, Lord.

Of all thy gifts the greatest three Are friendship, love and fidelity, Let others pray for the harvest's yields, Humbly our prayer to thee we send That when we've reached our journey's end, Someone may say, Farewell, good friend."

SYNOPSIS

Joyce Sewell, on the eve of her twentieth birthday, rebels at her lot, dependent on her detested stepmother, Irma, and full of tragic memories of her mother's murder twelve years before and her father's death six months ago. Irma calls in Helm Blackadder, an admirer, to help her persuade Joyce to marry rich, young Michael Kirkpatrick. Mike, sent up to Joyce by Irma and Blackadder, demands a showdown on his proposal and is rejected. Reading her father's papers, Joyce realizes that La Barranca, a Mexican hacienda which her father had owned, legally belongs to her. Later, she receives a letter enclosing a warrant on the United States Treasury for $10,000 compensation for her mother's murder at La Barranca. She confers with Mr. Bradley, a banker and only remaining friend of her father's. She confides that she wants to make a secret journey to Mexico.

She sat staring at the floor, not answering at once. "I know what you mean," she said finally, "and I'll try to explain. I remember everything, but I've found out that being far away from a thing like that doesn't help you to forget—it makes it into a picture on the wall. Then there's something else. Places go by contrasts, don't they? I won't say anything about Elsinboro; all I can tell you is that when I've been unhappy, when I'm most miserable, I look back and dream of happiness and La Barranca." She swept her eyes to his face. "My mother isn't here, Mr. Bradley. I mean she couldn't possibly come to Elsinboro—not even in my thoughts. Does that sound foolish to you?"

"Not foolish, my dear," he murmured, "not at all foolish." Touched by his understanding she reached out one hand impulsively and laid it on his arm. "Oh, Mr. Bradley, please be my friend. You can help me so much! My passport, a letter of credit, but that's not all. You know my stepmother. Father used to keep telling me she's a good woman. Well, she is, but if she finds out what I'm doing or where I am I'll have two fights on my hands instead of one."

"How are you going to work it? How will you get away?"

"I've thought it all out. I can say I'm going to Frances Holder's for a visit."

"H'm. But they'll trace you. Nowadays a deliberate disappearance is one of the hardest things on earth to stage."

"I've thought of that too." She gave him a look so composed it set his blood to tingling. "If I go by air, where will I be by the time they begin their tracing?"

He blinked at her admiringly. "Joyce, I've made up my mind. I'll do everything I can to help you and I promise I'll keep my mouth tight shut till you say the word."

On the same impulse they rose to their feet and stood with right hands half extended, not quite touching. "You're awfully young, Joyce, and most people would say I ought to be jailed for letting you go. But you've got heart as well as head, and as for youth—what's it for? To spend while it's strong."

He proved as good as his word and better, for he could see a lot further ahead than Joyce. Within ten days not only did he arrange that her passport for travel abroad should come direct from the State department rather than through the local county clerk, but he coached her on her department in the meantime toward her stepmother, provided her with a certified copy of her father's will, warned her about excessive baggage and bought her tickets by air in a fictitious name.

Later, without detection, she boarded a plane at Elsinboro's almost deserted airport that connected at Newark with a night plane south.

CHAPTER III

Dirk Van Suttart, second secretary of embassy, would have showed to greater advantage in any other setting. The traditions of an ancient name were behind him, he had more than his share of good looks, a reasonable amount of money and a merry eye. Away from his job he was as clean-cut a young American as ever drew breath, but he was on the way to being spoiled, poisoned by the bite of the diplomatic bee.

He was engaged in testing the spring of a polo mallet when the reception clerk entered, laid Joyce's slip on the desk and lingered to smoke a cigarette. Dirk read the paper over his shoulder.

"What does she want?"

"Same old thing. She'd like to walk in on the chief."

Dirk finished testing the stick, put it away in a clothes closet, went to his padded chair and rummaged for a dispatch. "All set. You can show her in." Presently Joyce stood before him. He perused the dispatch frowningly for a moment longer, then motioned her to a chair beside the desk.

"Won't you sit down, Miss Sewell?"

Joyce hesitated. "You're not the ambassador, are you?"

"Hardly. I'm the second secretary." "I wanted to see the ambassador." "Are you an American?" "Yes; born of American parents residing abroad. I arrived from the States last night. Do you wish to see my passport?" "That's not necessary at present. I suggest you state your business. If it's something I can't handle—or if it's important enough—an appointment will be made for you with his excellency."

Joyce sat down without taking her eyes off him. She was puzzled. Here was a young man, the very antithesis of Mike Kirkpatrick in looks, manner and breeding, yet all she felt was bitter disappointment. Why? Suddenly the answer swept over her. She was face to face with the mask that had defeated her father—immature, perhaps, its veneer not yet solidified, but the same unfeeling mask.

"What's your name?" she asked. "Dirk Van Suttart," he replied, betrayed by the suddenness of the question. A glint lit in his eye and color rose to his cheeks, but he quickly controlled his anger and raised one eyebrow. "Really, Miss Sewell, when you requested a personal interview I didn't realize you were contemplating an exchange of confidences."

"I like to know to whom I am talking," said Joyce coolly. "I think you'll find my business is quite personal. I'm the daughter and sole heir of the late Cutler Sewell and there's a file in this office under his name. I wish to know my rights. Am I entitled to have copies of the dispatches, or to examine them, or to be given a resume, or—if all that is impossible—can I be informed of the last step in the negotiation?"

By this time both Van Suttart's eyebrows were raised to the limit. "No copy of any dispatch can be given to anybody," he declared, "except by specific direction of the Department of State, and the same restriction applies to the balance of your question. May I ask to what this file refers?"

"To my father's property in this country."

"I thought so, Miss Sewell, Americans abroad suffer from an unfortunate delusion which you seem to share that the foreign service is maintained for their individual convenience. It isn't. It was created for the benefit of the United States as a whole and of the taxpayers at home who foot the bills. Haven't you heard of the Mexican claims commission in Washington?"

"I have."

"That, my dear young lady, is where you should file your petition." "I did, through my father, when I was eight years old. I'm not eight now, Mr. Van Suttart, though you seem to think so. The Mexican claims commission has been sitting for a great many years considering claims amounting to $250,000,000. Has it settled a single case?"

"I'm not at liberty to say."

"You mean you don't know? I'll tell you, it hasn't—not one."

"Miss Sewell, this conversation is getting us nowhere. May I say in conclusion that I've given you all the advice—the only advice—to which you are entitled? The embassy can do nothing to help you—nothing whatever."

"Help!" exclaimed Joyce. "I didn't come here for help; I asked for certain information. Are you sure you have the authority to refuse it?"

"Quite sure."

half day he was telling himself that if he had met this girl at a cocktail party instead of in the course of official business he would have crashed through to her side and stayed there. But he was too late, the polished shell he wore had held out too long.

"Mr. Van Suttart," said Joyce, "your imagining I came to you for help has its funny side. Aren't you ever puzzled as to why you're alive—why you draw down pay? A canary in his gilded cage earns his keep with song, but a popinjay can't even sing."

She was gone before he could wipe the look of amazement from his face, much less answer.

She hurried to the hotel where she was living, paid her bill and asked that her baggage be brought down. At sight of the petaca there were supercilious glances from the tourists, the clerk and even the porter, but not from the taxi driver; again the little native trunk served her well. He did not bother to lie about the fare and even understood her quest for the best hotel unfrequented by foreigners. Unhesitatingly he drove her to an establishment in a back street but near the center of town. The proprietor greeted her in soft Castilian and took the trouble to accompany her himself to a top-floor room.

"Can you recommend a woman lawyer?" she asked.

"I know of one, but she's a Mexican."

"I prefer a Mexican," said Joyce. "Will you give me her name and address?"

He took out his card, scribbled on it, and handed it to her. "She's a difficult person," he remarked, "but an excellent lawyer."

Joyce decided to waste no time in telephoning for an appointment, but she did stop long enough to unpack her bag and hang up her clothes. As her rage at Van Suttart began to cool she wondered at it and felt a little ashamed. Probably that manner of his had got him his job, perhaps he was paid to make people feel exactly as she had felt. She opened the petaca, sorted out the documents she thought she would need and made her way on foot to the lawyer's address. It was a strange, old-fashioned building with a long dark narrow hall which opened suddenly upon a big square well surrounded by balconies and roofed by the sky. There was an elevator but no attendant. Rather than attempt to work the mechanism herself she walked up two flights and located a door upon which was inscribed: Lic. Margarida Fonseca.

She knocked; there was no answer. She opened the door, stepped into an empty anteroom and coughed. The door into a room beyond was open. She passed through it and stopped short. On the farther side of a littered desk, leaning back and apparently absorbed in staring through the thick wall at some vision far away, sat a woman whose appearance could be described only as leonine. One glance was enough to make her speak in English.

"What do you want?" "A lawyer," said Joyce. "What for? What about?" "May I sit down?" "No! What about?" "An estate."

"Whose?" "Mine. I have the documents here proving absolute title if you'll only take the trouble to look at them."

"No use. You're wasting my time. Don't waste yours or your money by going to any other lawyer. I give you that advice for nothing."

"What is your time worth?" asked Joyce, switching to Spanish. "I like you. How much would you charge to let me sit and look at you for half an hour?"

Model Hayloft Is Placed in U. S. Farm Building; Seek to Standardize Crops

The most modern farm laboratory in the world has been opened by the Department of Agriculture in Washington in an effort to raise the standards of American farm products, writes a Washington United Press correspondent in the New York Herald Tribune.

In the new standardization building are located the bureaus directing regulatory and marketing agencies dealing with the principal farm products. Technological and economic research scientists also are housed in the air-cooled structure.

It also houses a modern hayloft—a combination standardization research laboratory and warehouse—with glass north front and scientific devices for analyzing quality and factors in hay.

Cotton experts prepare standards for use in domestic and foreign trade. The appeal board of review examiners, the final authority in the interpretation of standards, has its classing rooms in the building. Along with cotton standardization and classical work, the physical Margarida Fonseca swung around in her swivel chair, planted her elbows on the desk, her fists in her cheeks, and stared. "Carra! Hablas Castillano, gringuita! So, we talk Spanish! Who are you?"

"My name is Joyce Sewell. I'm the daughter of Cutler Sewell who owned—"

"Tst! Tst! Nobody owns anything. You possess, you don't own."

"Oh, but I do," protested Joyce. "I can prove it." She advanced, sat down on the edge of a chair and laid her documents on the desk. "Please let me show you."

"It's no use, my child. I've told you the truth and the whole truth. Incidentally I don't like Americans, but let me give you something else for nothing. Get out. Go back to your own country before somebody makes one bite of your pretty head."

Joyce stood up and buried her grave blue eyes in Margarida's black ones. "I'll get out, but I won't go back. I was wrong about you. I may not find a lawyer with more brains, but I'll get one who isn't a coward." She snatched up her precious documents, turned quickly and started toward the door.

"Stop!" yelled Margarida. "Nobody can say that to me! Come back and sit down. Give me the papers." She took them, spread them out but kept her puzzled eyes fixed on Joyce. Abruptly she smiled.

"I thought you were out to make a play on the tender female heart but I've changed my mind. Have you any money?"

"How much?" "Ten thousand dollars."

"Really! You're loose in Mexico at your age with $10,000! We'll see the papers."

She glanced over them swiftly with odd jerks of her nose as if she were a parrot tearing the meat out of one nut after another.

"Why didn't you tell me it was La Barranca?" she asked of the blue sky.

"You didn't give me a chance," said Joyce.

Margarida turned. "I think I've found a way. It has nothing whatever to do with the courts. Come back in a week."

"That won't do," said Joyce, "it won't do at all!"

"Why not?" "Because a week is too long!"

"You have courage, little one. Since you don't do your fighting with tears we'll go hunting together. Fortunately I care nothing what happens to you—nothing at all. Is that clearly understood?"

"Don't worry," said Joyce. "Show me the road and I'll look out for myself."

Margarida scooped up the papers, crammed a hat on her head, showed the way out and slammed the door behind them. A moment later they were in a taxi which scurried along interminable back streets to draw up in exactly 15 minutes at the residence of Gen. Zacharias Onelia, right-hand man to the minister of war.

"General, it is very good of you to receive us," said Margarida. "Do you mind taking a look at this young lady before she goes out to walk around the patio while you and I have a talk? She has a peculiar value, General."

"To me?" "Especially to you," said Margarida and turned to Joyce. "Suppose you go out, chica, and stay out till you're called!" As soon as Joyce had gone Margarida leaned toward Onelia and continued in a low voice. "General, this is a momentous business, far deeper than may appear at first glance. The young lady, Miss Joyce Sewell, is undoubtedly the lawful owner of hacienda La Barranca."

Stomach Sufferers
Mr. Sidney Smith, who is manager of the Lubbock Hotel Laundry, states that he suffered fifteen years with stomach trouble, but after giving Gas-Tons a trial now eats anything he likes. Gas-Tons are on sale in Slaton at Teague Drug Store. Ask them to explain the iron-clad guarantee that you must be pleased.

Less Monthly Discomfort
Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated. Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Reading, the magic highway to adventure. Children read because of 3 fundamental characteristics of their nature: Curiosity, desire for wish-fulfillment, and the tendency to imitate. Within the limits of individual differences, every child who reads at all is following one or more of these urges.

Our shelves are full of approved books, for reading with a purpose or for recreational reading.
