Hestand-Kimbell Grocer Co. Opens New Branch

Keeping with progress on the South Plains, the Hestand-Kimbell Grocer Co., has opened a new branch in Littlefield. The progressive spirit shown by this firm, under the management of Walter B. Hestand, is worthy of comment. That the needs of the community of Littlefield can be better cared for, they decided this should be the logical place for the new plant. Some time past they opened a plant at Lamesa, and are meeting with fine success. We can recommend this company very highly to the business interests in Littlefield. Marked success has been with the company since its inception in Slaton. We hope they may grow in numbers and the volume of business commensurate with their endeavors.

Slaton Man Married at Lockhart

News has reached Slaton of the marriage of Dr. George W. Shanks, of this city, to Miss Sammye B. Magee, of Lockhart, on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the First Methodist church in Lockhart. The couple left immediately following the ceremony for a brief honeymoon trip to San Antonio and Dallas and are expected to arrive here Friday morning. A full account of the marriage will appear in a later issue of this paper.

Blue Bonnet Club Met With Mrs. Payne

Mrs. W. E. Payne was a delightful hostess to the Blue Bonnet club last Wednesday at her beautiful home on West Garza Street. The house was decorated in summer flowers from her own garden. Dainty refreshments were served to twenty members present and two guests, Mrs. R. C. Champion and Mrs. Clifford Simmons.—Press Reporter.

"THE FALL OF EVE" IS COMEDY CYCLONE

Columbia Pictures has picked another winner in "The Fall of Eve," an all-talking special which opens at the Palace Theatre Sunday. It is a veritable comedy cyclone which revolves in an extremely clever and novel fashion the exploits of two married and harried couples. When the husbands attempt to steal away from the wives for a little play and get caught in the act, they lie out of it in a manner that will keep you rocking with laughter.

The players are ideally cast. Patsy Miller, Ford Sterling, Gertrude Astor, Arthur Rankin, J. Prouty, Guy Farrington, Fred Kelsey and Hank Mann, all well-known comedians, give splendid performances. The voice reproduction is well done, revealing to us several new talking personalities. Frank Strayer directed.

REGISTRATION FOR 5TH ANNUAL SESSION TEXAS TECH STARTS SEPT. 23

LUBBOCK, Texas. — Registration for the fifth annual session of Texas Technological College will begin September 23. This will be preceded by freshmen orientation September 20, and 22. Dr. L. H. Hubbard, president of the College of Industrial Arts, Slaton, and former dean of freshmen at the University of Texas, has been selected to deliver the annual address to the incoming first year students.

The freshman class last year numbered 1004, and a substantial increase in this number is expected for the coming school year. Statistics for four years show that an average of 90 percent of the freshman class returns to school the following year. Based on this percentage the next incoming class will number something over 700. And it is further stated on past figures that there will be a minimum of 450 juniors and seniors. These figures would indicate a minimum total enrollment for the year, not including the summer session, of at least 2500.

Miss Faye Cleveland Became Bride of Dan L. Cummings

On Monday, September 2nd, at the home of the pastor of the First Methodist church of Lubbock, Miss Faye Cleveland, of Abernathy, became the bride of Mr. Dan L. Cummings, of this city, with Rev. H. L. Munger officiating.

The bride wore a blue frock with hat and accessories to match. She is the youngest daughter of Mr. C. Cleveland, of Abernathy.

Mr. Cummings is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Cummings of this city and has made his home here with his parents for several years.

The happy couple left immediately following the ceremony for Albuquerque, New Mexico, to make their future home.

Those other than relatives who attended the wedding included Mrs. W. P. Shelton, of Slaton, and Miss Gertrude Pool, of Abernathy.

The many friends of the couple wish them a happy and prosperous married life.

CAR REGISTRATION REFUNDS READY

Refunds totaling about $275 will be received by Lubbock county motorists who purchased licenses between May 23 and June 16, according to County Tax Collector A. J. Clark.

One hundred and fifty auto owners are entitled to the refunds, he said.

The recent legislature passed a bill to become effective May 23 which allows reductions in license fees to be made monthly instead of the old system of quarterly reductions. Announcement of the new law was not received by the local office until June 16. During that time 150 paid fees under the quarterly plan.

TALKING FILM STARS BANCROFT

"The Wolf of Wall Street," starring George Bancroft, will be presented at the Palace theatre next week as an all-talking motion picture.

This announcement is noteworthy due to the fact that it will mark the first time local audiences will be able to hear as well as see Bancroft in action in a dramatic story so full of tense drama that it may be classed as one of the season's most outstanding productions.

Like many other stage stars now in motion pictures, Bancroft has never had an opportunity to bring his voice to the screen until now. "The Wolf of Wall Street" is an ideal film for this purpose, inasmuch as it abounds in tense situations dealing with stock-market manipulations which offer gripping moments for dialogue. Rowland V. Lee directed the film from an original story written expressly for Bancroft by Doris Anderson.

The star is fortunate to have such an exceptional cast of supporting players in this picture. There are Baclanova, a product of the Moscow Art Theatre; Paul Lukas, called the "Barrymore of Hungary," who speaks flawless English; Nancy Carroll, from musical comedy; Arthur Rankin, nephew of the famous trio of Barrymores, and an experienced stage actor; Brandon Hurst and Crauford Kent, both veterans of the stage. "The Wolf of Wall Street" marks a monumental step forward in the filming of all-talking motion pictures.

Post has taken the first step towards the securing of a modern airport. The name of the town has been painted in a prominent place in box-car letters, and a committee of investigation of West Texas Airports has been appointed.

H. H. Edmondson Rushed to Hospital For an Operation

H. H. Edmondson, manager of the E. & A. Dry Goods Company here, was rushed to a Lubbock Sanitarium Tuesday evening and underwent an immediate operation as a result of an acute attack of appendicitis.

Mr. Edmondson remained at his place of business all day Tuesday and apparently seemed to be feeling fine, but began to feel badly about 9 p. m., and was rushed to Lubbock where the operation was performed at 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

According to late reports from the hospital, he is resting well.

Mrs. Edmondson and sons, who have been visiting in California for the past month, were notified of Mr. Edmondson's condition and are expected to arrive here Saturday.

Mrs. Ragsdale Hostess to Study Club

Mrs. R. W. Ragsdale was hostess to the Wednesday Study Club in their regular meeting this week.

The subject for the program was, "Wives of Presidents" and the program was as follows:

Leader—Mrs. Bechtel.

Roll Call—A Good Vacation Joke.

Washington, Adams, Jefferson—Leader.

Madison, Monroe, Adams—Mrs. Badgley.

Jackson, Van Buren, Harrison, Tyler—Mrs. Brewer.

Polk, Taylor, Fillmore—Mrs. Cobb.

The meeting was enjoyed by all present and the new yearbooks for this year were distributed.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. S. A. Peavy on September 18th.

NO RAIN—JUST BLUSTER.

The much wished for precipitation did not materialize, while it blustered, the wind blew, the drops of rain came down sparingly, but the relief from the heat wave is appreciated. Some sections had hail with damage to crops. This was particularly felt at Littlefield. Thursday, the sky was overcast and all were longing for the rain. Of course it is like living, with the coolness that covers the South Plains, everyone is up and coming. You can see it in the walk, just simply all pep, as folks were going to work. This will give the ladies a chance to don the new furs and the stores are full of new stuff.

Mrs. L. B. Hagerman and son, Merle, have returned from a visit with relatives in various parts of California.

St. Joseph's Catholic School Opened With Ceremony

Ushering in the new school year, St. Joseph's Catholic School opened Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. Solemn High Mass was celebrated at 8:00 o'clock by the Rev. Thomas D. O'Brien, assisted by Rev. G. Boeckman, Lubbock, Rev. F. M. Higgins, Dalhart, and Rev. E. J. Clinton, Panhandle. One hundred and forty were enrolled on the opening day. Five teachers are in charge of the school, being from the order of Franciscan Sisters, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Some of the Sisters that we had last year have been placed in other schools, but the new Sisters who have charge are proficient in their work and doubtless will win the esteem of the patrons. A distinctive feature this year is in the wearing apparel of the children, the girls of the Grammar school will be clad in a pretty shade of blue and tan uniform, the girls of the high school will wear a tan uniform with black tie.

This is the second year of high school work offered by St. Joseph's. They have the fine arts and music and have the same grades as the public school.

The Rev. O'Brien stated with the growth of the parish, it was anticipated that a new addition would be built next year to accommodate the growing classes. The outlook for the year is very flattering and the Rev. O'Brien is well pleased with the patronage given the school.

Football Squad Has 2 "Cripples"

The 1929 Football Squad have at the present time two "cripples". They are J. J. Maxey, who underwent a minor operation the first of the week, when a tumor was removed from one of his fingers, in order that he might better engage in the game. And Captain Sam McMennany received a broken finger while practising the first of the week.

These are only minor injuries and the boys will soon be able to get back into practice and endeavor to make a stronger and better football team for Slaton than ever before.

200 BANDS AT STATE FAIR.

More than 200 bands will be entered in the Statewide Band Contest to be held at the State Fair of Texas, Oct. 12 to 27, under the auspices of the Texas State Band Teachers Association, according to Earl D. Irons of Arlington, who is chairman of the contest committee. A total of $10,000 in cash prizes is being offered the winners of the contest. A massed band concert will be played on the grounds each afternoon during the 16 day exposition.

LUBBOCK, WE CONGRATULATE YOU IN SECURING THE 1930 KIWANIS CONVENTION

With the co-operation spirit well developed, Lubbock gets what she goes after. That the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and other organizations gave help and assistance to the Kiwanis Club of Lubbock, can not be passed without stressing the great things accomplished by teamwork. This is the spirit that builds cities, they just do not happen, their people make them. Slaton congratulates the Kiwanis Club in being able to have the convention of 1930 in their city. We understand the Plainsman did not even have time to change his collar, providing he had an extra with him, and the rest of the boys were wire pulling. We suspect that they had a royal good time in our old home town.

J. F. Harrell Hurt In Car Wreck

J. F. Harrell, salesman at the Jackson Chevrolet Company, sustained a broken arm and other slight injuries Saturday evening when the car which he was driving, overturned near Matador.

The accident occurred when Mr. Harrell attempted to pass a car while turning a sharp curve in the road. Mr. Harrell's car went into the ditch and turned over.

He was immediately rushed to a Matador hospital, where it was found his arm was broken in two places below the elbow, and the bone had protruded through the flesh and stuck into the ground.

Mr. Harrell's injuries are not serious at present, however very painful, and would become quite serious should infection "set up" as a result of dirt in the broken bone.

MOTOR CARS AND HEALTH.

Did you ever think of the big part played by the automobile in getting America's urban population to fresh air?

Twenty-five years ago there were millions of people cooped up day after day in the stifling heat and the smoke-filled air of our large cities. Fresh air specials loaded with poor children were run into the country districts.

But now nearly every family is able to get the pure air of the country at least once a week. The automobile

Life's Partner-

GALVANI once said that "electricity is life". Certain it is that today it is man's greatest ally in almost everything he does.

From birth his comfort, happiness and progress are constantly being promoted by endless applications of the energy carried by this nerve force of modern life.

It builds his skyscrapers, lights his home, runs his machines, makes his clothes and afterwards washes and irons them, sweeps the floors of his home, makes his toast and coffee, milks the cow, pumps the water, cools the refrigerator, runs the fans, operates his transportation systems, bridges the ocean with his voice, and, in electrotherapeutics, actually becomes the giver or saver of life by making possible diagnoses, treatments and operations heretofore beyond the reach of science.

The dependable supply of electrical service which makes these modern conveniences possible has been developed under the American political and industrial principle of individual reward for individual merit.

What the electrical energy generated in this country means in terms of national wealth, is shown by the fact that machines operated by the electric motors of the United States are doing every day as much work as could be accomplished by 175,000,000 men.

FRIENDS HARD TO HANDLE—DON'T WELCOME SIN—LEARNING THE WAYS OF WOMEN.

There used to be a man who told me I should marry again, and had a woman picked out for me. Somehow I could never squelch him, I had known him so long, although I had never intimated to him that I needed such advice. His assumption that I needed his assistance was extremely wasteful to me; no doubt he spoke to women unknown to me, and made me ridiculous, but I could not help myself. Fortunately I am rid of this man, as he died some time ago, but others remain to keep me sufficiently humiliated. One of the heaviest burdens of my life has always been numerous persons among my acquaintances who make a fool of me, and I have never been able to get rid of them. According to my standards they are grossly impolite, but they seem to have friends and prosper. I get along well with active enemies; they at least only scowl at me, and finally they quit talking about me behind my back—but I cannot handle some friends so successfully.

I am firmly convinced that the most sensible effort in which a man may engage is to do the best he can with such powers as Almighty God or heredity has given him. There are so many weak and unfortunate that I cannot help them all, but may I help myself? . . . I must eat to live, and food is contrary and malicious. At 9 a. m., when suffering distress from unwise or overeating, I resolve to do better thereafter, but four hours later, with agreeable friends at table, I forget the solemn warning and resolution of the morning. . . . With my striving I make a little progress. I am a fool for not making more, or have I inherent weaknesses of body and mind that tie me hopelessly to sin? Some say they can pray for strength, and receive it. Others say they are able to exercise their will and overcome evil; but I have observed that both these boosters are usually as weak as I am; so generally so that their methods do not impress me. . . . Is sin the seed planted in man to inevitably destroy him at eighty, or earlier? . . . Anyway, I am able to regulate it a little, to my advantage, and shall persevere; I am still convinced that there is most comfort in life for those who resist sin as much as possible, instead of welcoming it.

I often think of a saying by Napoleon: "I will be compelled to go to school again," he said, when contemplating his second marriage, "to learn the ways of a new woman." . . . Napoleon was a king; the girl he was to marry a princess of a subject nation. She had been brought up in the simple German way; she had been assigned to him for breeding purposes and I do not say this in an offensive way, but as a mere statement of fact) . . . Why did he not say to this girl, he said to his subjects: "Learn my ways." . . . Well, the most powerful man cannot do that with a woman. Let a king arrange for intimate association with a peasant woman, and he has another war on his hands. He is no longer king of his country or of himself. He has divided his royal power; he may be a Senate of the firm, but must wrangle with the House before his acts are constitutional.

Tells How to Raise Calves at Low Cost

Calves that are allowed to run with their mothers on good pasture will probably do well without a grain supplement for the first four or five weeks.

Young calves, however, that are kept from their dams, with the exception of a few minutes twice a day except when they are permitted to take milk, make better growth on feeds. They should be taught to eat a little grain mixture and some legume hay of good quality. If an older calf that has learned to eat the grain a little more readily.

At the New Jersey Experiment Station $28 was the average cost of raising calves to the age of 6 months, without milk or milk substitutes after they were one month old. These calves were taken from their mothers when from 36 to 48 hours and fed whole milk three times a day until one month old. When one week old the grain ration was placed before them, and a little was smeared on their noses to get them accustomed to it.

This ration was composed of 100 pounds of yellow corn meal, 150 pounds ground oats, 50 pounds each of linseed meal, wheat bran, and soluble blood flour, and 12 pounds of minerals consisting of equal parts of limestone, steamed bone meal, and salt.

From the time the calf is three weeks old until one month old, the amount of milk fed should be gradually reduced, either in the amount of liquid or by substituting water for the milk. When the calf is one month old it should be getting nothing but good alfalfa hay, the dry grain mixture and water. At this time it should be consuming from one to two pounds of the grain mixture daily and gaining an average of one pound a day, even though it may look a little thin for a few weeks after the milk feeding is stopped.

CAUSES OF CRIME.

Crime furnishes a means of "livelihood for thousands of persons in the United States". The crime wave has been variously attributed to the war, automobiles, the increased freedom of the "younger generation," improved standards of living, prohibition and ownership of fire arms.

Reformers attack first one issue and then another in their effort to place the blame for crimes ranging from dodging taxes to thievery and murder.

The sale and ownership of revolvers and pistols has come in for more than its share of persecution. It is true that revolvers are used in the commission of crime, but so are automobiles, hammers, clubs, knives, sawed-off shotguns, machine guns, poison, bricks, gas, rope and endless other commodities, all innocent in themselves.

The United States has no cleaner sport, and probably none which develops a greater degree of skill, than shooting at targets with small arms.

If it were possible to keep pistols and revolvers from the man who follows crime for a living (which it is not), he would simply resort to one of any number of other weapons which would serve his purpose as well.—Exchange.

FARMER'S CURRICULUM.

In the early days, when a child started to school, the three R's were the main thing taught. Now the farmer is being told that the three C's are what brings prosperity to them. They stand for Cotton, Cows and Chickens. In other words the man who diversifies is the man who gets by these days. Any country which depends upon one crop solely for its prosperity is bound to be handicapped. It is very often the case that the one crop will fail. Then all source of revenue for that country is gone until another year rolls around. People must live whether prosperity or want abound. Should the cotton fail, it is very convenient to have the cows and the chickens to fall back on for some ready cash. They never fail to bring it in. People need eggs, butter, milk and cream throughout the year. It is but little trouble to have cows and chickens. And past experience has taught those who have thus practiced this kind of diversification that it never fails to pay. All guesswork has been eliminated from this kind of work. It is the height of common sense and wisdom to put the three together.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED from indigestion—everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Mattie Mullins, of Pound, Va.

"For months, I did not see a well day. I worried along, but never felt well. I got a package of Theford's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years.

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."

SPORTSMEN AND HUNTERS.

The shot guns are coming out of closets these days and receiving the attention that the first touch of Fall demands. Our hardware dealers are mindful of the season and are filling their windows with displays that make the sportsman stop and look if only in curiosity.
Before long many of us will be heading for the woods, the marshes and the plains in quest of a good time, a little exciting shooting, and incidentally a bag of game.
We use the term incidentally above because it expresses the attitude of the true sportsman. The man who really loves the out-of-doors and the pleasure one can have tramping through the fields with a gun on his shoulder, is not primarily interested in how large his bag is at the end of the day. He knows only too well that there's fun in the sport for its own sake. He has nothing but contempt for the game hog and the pot hunter.
But alas there are many hunters who cannot be classified as sportsmen. They are interested solely in the outcome of the trip rather than in the pleasure to be derived from going. They want to come back with a loaded bag in order to gloat and brag, and they are rather careless over the methods they employ to accomplish the desired end.

They are persons with much vanity and limited vision. They cannot see that game becomes more and more scarce with the passing years. They do not realize that a great sport will pass out of existence without adequate laws carefully observed.
To which of these two classes of men delineated above do you belong? Are you a true sportsman? Does it ever occur to you that the game laws are for the purpose of preserving your favorite pastime? Or are you thoughtless of the future?

POLITICS THIS WEEK.

The Senate Tariff battle will be exciting even to the man on the street. The once duldest subject in the world has aroused enough comment this year to intrigue the interest of anyone with a normal interest in his living costs. While waiting for the bell to ring for the second round of the bout, it is interesting to take note of the personalities involved.
Senator Smoot would seem the logical person to lead the protectionists with Senator Simmons of North Carolina in direct opposition, and no doubt they will play highly important parts. It is expected, however, that Senator Reed of Pennsylvania will be most active in the fray, since he is a more aggressive debater than the Senator from Utah, while the quiet Finance Minority leader may yield somewhat to Pat Harrison, whose satirical tongue makes him a colorful figure in any argument. "Jim" Watson and "Joe" Robinson, Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate, respectively, have a heavy responsibility.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma plans to fight for limitation of revision to agricultural schedules, and Borah, who first advocated such limitation, will probably make an excellent leader for the farm relief group. Other Progressives — Brookhart, Norris, Nye, Frazier, etc.—are certain to be to the fore. Reports that the Tennessee seat left vacant by Senator Tyson's death may be filled by Representative Cordell Hull, a learned and able opponent of high tariff, are cheering.

The more evenly divided opposition and defense in the Senate will make for a far more intensive fight than was waged in the House.

TIME SOON HERE TO PLANT SMALL GRAIN PASTURES

COLLEGE STATION.—Pointing out that oats, barley, rye and wheat are all valuable winter pasture crops for livestock and poultry in most parts of Texas, as well as serving a very useful purpose as cover crops to hold available plant food in the soil, E. A. Miller, Extension Agronomist, suggests early sowing of these crops to get the most out of them. Experience has shown, he says, that small grains sowed by the middle of September furnish more grazing than crops seeded later.

To get early pasture these crops may be drilled between cotton or corn or grain sorghum rows with a small grain drill, or may be broadcast and then covered by use of a fine-tooth one-row cultivator, harrow or other scratcher. Seeding should be thick, at the rate of about 90 pounds per acre, if grazing is desired.

When the crop is to be saved for grain or hay as well, it is advisable, Mr. Miller states, to spray oat or barley seed with a formaldehyde solution at the rate of one pint of formaldehyde to ten gallons of water to prevent smut. This amount will be enough to treat 40 bushels of seed. After spraying, the seed should be shovelled over two or three times, placed in a pile and covered with a wagon sheet for several hours. It may be sowed without further drying.

Wheat smut is controlled by the copper carbonate treatment. The seed is placed in a tight container so arranged that it can be revolved on an axis. From two to three ounces of powdered copper carbonate should be sprinkled on every bushel of seed and thoroughly mixed by revolving the container.

Out-of-town visitors were noticed in the city Wednesday morning. It has been difficult to find out the names of these parties. Agreed at Last.

It is reported that a local teacher and the mother of one of her pupils were having a discussion over the progress being made by the son of the latter in his school work. It is also reported that they were not in agreement.

Said the Mother: "Well, 'Im absolutely certain that Willy is trying."
Teacher: "Yes, he certainly is—very trying."

Value Cannot be Over Estimated

Plainview Blacksmith Says, "Orgatone Has Relieved me of my Worries and I am Happy Again."

"I can't praise this new medicine, Orgatone, too highly for all it has done for me," said R. L. Bater, of Rural Route No. 3, Plainview, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative.

"For about six years, I have been in a bad run-down condition, and suffered from stomach troubles. I was in a wretched state and gas formed on my stomach, I would feel as if I was just going to burst, I would be so bloated up. I was troubled with my kidneys and had pains in my back, which was very weak. My nerves were completely shattered and I just couldn't sleep at all, and was very restless and worn out. Every night I rolled and tumbled, and would have just given anything to go to sleep and really rest. I had a bad case of constipation and in fact, my general condition was just run-down and I was tired, and did not have any energy and felt no-account all the time.

"Orgatone was recommended so highly by the people here of Plainview, I decided to try it. I have just taken one bottle and want to tell everybody that my worries are over, and I am well and happy again. It is the finest medicine I have ever taken or heard of. I feel better than I have in the past six years, and all of my troubles are gone. I actually know if I hadn't gotten hold of the right medicine I would have died, for I was on my way to the grave, and no one or any kind of medicine helped me. I think Orgatone really saved my life and I would like for every one suffering as I did to try it, and then see for themselves."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Slaton by the Teague Drug Store, who are direct laboratory agents. Adv.

What Happened Before.
Remember Steddon comes West to avoid revealing the result of an unfortunate love affair to her father.

The Rev. Dr. Steddon, a clergyman of kind heart but narrow mind who attributes much of the evil of the world to the "movies" and constantly inveighs against them. Mem, her lover, Elwood Farnaby having died in an accident, at the advice of Dr. Brethrick, gives her bad cough as an excuse to get to Arizona and from there writes home that she has met and married "Mr. Woodville," a wholly imaginary person. Later she writes again to say that her "husband" has died in the desert. She takes a job as a domestic to avoid being a burden on her parents. A fall prevents her becoming a mother. In Arizona she had met

Tom Holby, a leading man in a motion picture company, and through him gets the opportunity to play a part in a desert drama. With the company is

Robina Teele, a Star, fond of Holby and Leva Lemaire, an extra woman. After her accident, Mem becomes friendly with

Mrs. Dack, a poor woman of Palm Springs, Arizona, and takes an interest in her bright little son, Ferry Dack, who has a great gift for mimicry. Inspired by a letter from Leva, Mem plans to go to Los Angeles to take a job in a film laboratory.

She gets a job in a film laboratory, but loses it. She meets a Mrs. Sturgis from her home town, who talks of the evils of the movies and says the stars are forced to sell their souls. Mem then learns her mother is coming to visit her. Mem is worried about her finances.

Now Go On With the Story

Well, she would sell what God had made of her for what man might make of her!

At the studio she had met the casting director, Arthur Tirrey. It was he who said to this one or that one, "Here is a part; play it, and the company will give you so much a week." He was the St. Peter of the movie heaven, empowered to admit or to deny. He was the man for her to look to. He had seemed a decent enough man, and he had looked at her without insolence. But you can never tell!

Mem studied herself a long while in the mirror, since her eyes and her hair must be her chief wardrobe, her chief equipment. She practiced such positions as she supposed to represent invitation. They were silly and made her rather ill.

She reached Tirrey's office and found him idly swapping stories with his assistant. He spoke to her courteously, motioned her into his office, opened the door, and took his own seat behind his desk.

The telephone rang. He called in and said, "Sorry, Miss Waite; that part has been filled. The company couldn't pay your salary. I begged you to take the cut, but you wouldn't. Times are hard and you'd better listen to me. Sorry. Good-by!"

This was a discouraging background for Mem's siren scenario. She determined to carry out her story and, in all self-loathing, sat herself in her big chair to wait. She imagined a Cleopatra nobility. She thought of her best friend, secretly twitched up her skirts, thrust her ankles well into view. She turned upon Mr. Tirrey her languishing eyes, and tried to entice them into them as into a fire.

She pursed her lips and set them. She widened her breast with sighs.

Tirrey seemed to recognize that she was deploying herself. He grew visibly uneasy. But he was as polite to Mem as if she had been Robina Teele.

"What can I do for you?" he asked. "Want a chance to act?"

"What experience have you had?" he asked.

Mem was suddenly confronted with the fact that all actors must offer themselves for sale—not the pretty ones only, but the old men, too, and character women.

Actors are much abused for talking themselves. Few of them do when business is not involved, but when it is they must discuss the goods they are trying to sell. Shoe merchants talk shoes; railroad presidents, railroads; politicians, politics; clergymen, salvation. Each salesman must recommend his own stock and talk it up.

So Mem had to grope for experience and dress her window with it. And she had had so little she lied a little, as one does who tries to sell anything:

"I was with the company that Tom Holby and Robina Teele played in. I took the part of an Arabian woman. Mr. Folger, the director—er—praised my—er—work."

"Well, he knows," said Tirrey, "but he's not with this company, you know. Have we your name and address and a photograph outside in our files?"

"No."
"Well, if you'll give them to Mr. Dobbs, with your height, weight, color of eyes and hair, and experience, we'll let you know when anything occurs. I'll introduce you to Mr. Dobbs and he—"

He moved toward the door to escape from the cruelty of his office, but a frenzy moved her to seize his arm in a fierce clutch.

She tried to play the vampire as she had seen the part enacted on the screen by various slithy toves. She drew her victim close to her, pressed tight against him, and poured upward into his eyes all the venom of an amorous basilisk.

"I'll pay the price! I know what it costs to succeed, and I'm willing to pay. I'll do anything you say, be anything to you. You can't refuse me!"

She could hardly believe her own ears hearing her own voice, though pride in the acting she was doing lifted her from the disgust for the role.

He looked at her without surprise, without horror, without even amusement, but—also without a hint of surrender. His only mood was one of jaded pity.

"You poor child, who's been filling your head with that stuff? Are you from his factory was labeled: "Bermond presents—"; "Copyright by the Bermond Company"; "This is a Bermond picture". The slogan of the company was, "This is a Bermond year."

When Mr. Bermond heard Mem crying, his heart hurt him. He did not like scandal, disorder, confusion, or grief on his lot.

He went to Mem and tried to console her. He took her hands down from her contorted face and forced her to look at him. Seen through the cascades of her tears she was strikingly attractive, appealing.

"Sarah Bernhardt failed in her first play, you know, and you may be a second Sarah some day," he said. "Just you wait!"

Mem's eyes were filling with rainbows. A bystander drew Bermond aside. It was Claymore, a dramatist who had had a few successes before he established himself in the moving pictures as a director.

"That girl has the tear," he said to Bermond. "That woman you've given me for my next picture is awful. Let me take this kid and give her a real test. She might have just what we want."

"Sure! Fine! Go to it!" said Bermond, and hastened to Mem with the good news that Mr. Claymore—the great Mr. Claymore—was going to give her a chance!

The next morning found Mem at the studio betimes, borrowing mascara and advice from Miss Calder.

Claymore was waiting for her when she came from the women's dressing rooms. She was daubed, smeared, lined, powdered, rouged, masearoad, and generally calcimined for duty. Her heart was beating in alternate throbs of fear and frenzy. Her feet were at the brink of the Rubicon.

Claymore had provided a camera man, a few men to handle the electric lights, a property man, and even a pair of musicians—a violinist and the treacher of a wheezy little portable melodeon.

Claymore marched her into the

"I'll pay the price. I'll do anything you say. You can't refuse me."

really trying to vamp me?"

The crass word angered her:

"I'm trying to force my way to my career, and I don't care what it costs."

Tirrey's sarcastic smile faded:

"Sit down a minute and listen to me. A little common sense ought to have told you that what you've been told is all rot. Suppose I were willing to give a job to every pretty girl who tried to bribe me with love. Do you know how many women I see a day—a hundred and fifty on some days; that's nearly a thousand a week. And if you won me over you'd still have to please the director and the managers and the author and the public. How long would our company keep going if we selected our actresses according to their immorality?"

"Forget this old rot about 'paying the Price'. Tell Mr. Dobbs your pedigree and we'll give you the first chance we get, and no initiation fee or commission will be charged. How's that? A little bit of all right, eh? You're a nice child, and pretty, and you'll get along."

He lifted her from her chair and put his arm around her as a comrade, and slapped her shoulder blades in an accolade of good fellowship.

She broke under the strain and began to cry. She dropped back into her chair and sobbed. It was good to be punished and rebuked into common decency by the way of common sense.

It chanced that the president of the company was returning to his office from a visit to one of the stages. This was the man whose name was familiar about the world. Every film scene and gave her a little of what he called footwork.

"Go back to that door and come forward to this spot. Shake hands with—er—with your lover—er—Well—no. Let me see. That's too simple. Let's get down to business.

"You've a— Oh—well, just for instance, you've been—er—betrayed and your child has died and you've been accused of murdering it and you're now being called before the judge and the jury. Do you get me? You're coming into a courtroom under a charge of crime; you feel your shame, but you're innocent of the charge, yet you're overwhelmed with guilt for your fall, and the father of the child is—was killed in the war, say—and you don't much care whether you live or die; so you're in despair, yet defiant. That's a triple layer of emotion for you and I don't suppose you can get much of it over, but—just try to give the atmosphere of it. Now back to the door. Walk through it once."

Claymore was a much embarrassed as Mem, for his invention was not in its best working order so early in the morning. He felt as silly as a man badgered by a peevish child to tell a story.

But his trite plot stirred Mem amazingly. He could not know how close his random shots had come home to her and flung her back from the forward-looking artist to the lorn fugitive who had stumbled into California laden with disgrace.

She was all atremble and her eyes darted, her fingers twitched. Claymore marveled at her instantaneous response to his suggestion. There were born artists who shivered on the least breath of inspiration and suggestion.

His first impression of Mem was that he had found a genius, and he fought against the obstacles he encountered later with the zest of a man digging toward known gold.

In a kind of stupor Mem obeyed his commands like the trained confederate of a hypnotist. She went to the door, came in reluctant, shame-faced, doomed. She advanced slowly till she reached the edge of the rug he had indicated, then halted, and with a fierce effort hoisted her head in defiance and braved the lightning of the judge.

She heard Claymore call to her: "That's fine! Now we'll take it!"

She started back, but was checked by the camera man's "Wait, please!" He ran forward and shouted directions on all sides for lights.

"Hit those spots! Throw the ash can on her. Bring up that Klieg! Put a diffuser on that Winfield. What's the matter with the second spot? Your carbons are flickering. Mike! Mike! Trim those carbons on the second spot! Pull 'em!"
