Uncle Ananias says if you know what you want you can usually get it.

Does anybody really like the thick gravy that's poured over the food at some restaurants?

The girl-friend says a wife may be the boss, but that doesn't mean she likes to be called "the boss."

You don't know how good food can taste unless you've eaten a slice of bologna and a slice of onion between two pieces of rye bread at midnight.

What every man should know:

His wife is boss at home—No suggestions from him are wanted about running the place—Complaints about the icebox and the garbage can are particularly resented—Her friends are always welcome, but his friends are on strict probation—If she reads trash that's her business—She likes the furniture just where it is—She likes the curtains—That goes for the lamps, too—If he can afford a new suit of clothes, then he can afford to have the downstairs walls cleaned or papered—She chooses the menu with other people in mind besides him—if he doesn't like whipped cream on his salad he doesn't have to eat it—He once told her she looked like a frump—That's why she spends plenty of money for clothes, facials, and permanents, see?

She likes a temperature of 75 in winter—There aren't any left-overs in the icebox any more, because he once said there were too many left-overs—The maid is over-worked as it is, without bothering about his old socks and shirts—If he'll give her the money, she'll show him how to run a house—She breaks even at bridge—She gets the last cent of value for every dollar she spends—She takes credit for the fine things that the children do—She blames him for their weaknesses—She can't be intimidated by any man—So make the best of it.

John Alden Crawford at the Palace Theatre gave us this:

God gave us two ends; one to sit on and the other to think with. A man's success depends on which end he uses most. It is a case of heads you win and tails you lose.

M. P. Gentry came in this week and paid for the three years we had been carrying him on our subscription list, and for another year in advance. If the rest of you mugs that we have been carrying would do likewise, it would soon get us out of debt.

It has long been the opinion of business leaders and economists that revision of the federal tax system is essential to the eventual achievement of sound prosperity. Now that belief is making headway in the high places of government. Motivating cause is the business recession which, in the view of all the experts, was largely the result of chaotic fiscal policy.

Secretary Morgenthau's recent utterances marked what many hope to be a new and more realistic approach to the problems of taxation. Mr. Morgenthau advocated balancing the budget by reducing expenditures for relief, highways, public works and agriculture. He further advocated broadening the tax base. And he intimated that there must be revision of certain special taxes which are wearisome and detrimental to business and investment.

At the opening of the special session of Congress, the President

likewise touched on the gravity of the tax problem and the need for revision.

As Representative O'Connor, Chairman of the important House Rules Committee, said a few days before the special session opened, Congress should grant tax relief at once, instead of waiting for the regular session. He added: "If the Ways and Means Committee came in with a tax bill changing the capital gains and corporate surplus taxes, the reaction would be tremendous. The psychological effect would be tremendous. I'm going to do all I can to build up that idea."

War Vet, Traveling 'On The Thumb' Visits Here

Armistice day, 1918, Sgt. L. B. Lowenstein was in a hospital in Sabine, France, suffering from shell shock.

Now, he's in Slaton, one of many stops while touring the country "on the thumb"—which is hitch-hiking to you.

California is his home, and he is headed in that general direction. But he doesn't much care whether he gets there by Christmas, or by spring.

His trip, he says, is one in search of adventure. You gather, from talking to him, that he hasn't found much adventure, but has seen a lot of country.

"I've traveled about 80,000 miles since I left California," he asserts. "I'm just coming from the American Legion convention in New York, and the V.F.W. convention in Buffalo.

"Slaton an out-of-the-way spot? Not for me, buddy. I hit a lot of those kind."

Here, as in every town, he's visiting other veterans, seeing what there is to see, then moving on.

"It's a long way from home, buddy," he says, "but I haven't a care in the world. Can you say that?"

Shirley Temple At Palace In 'Heidi'

Millions the world over have been enthralled by the warmth, the tenderness and the charming beauty of Johanna Spyri's beloved story of Heidi and all the colorful folk who lived and laughed and loved high up in the Swiss Alps, just beneath the stars. Translated into all languages and read everywhere, it is a story that had to wait for its star before it could be brought to the screen. The Twentieth Century-Fox production of "Heidi" starring Shirley Temple, coming at the Pevue Saturday night and Sunday and Monday to the Palace Theatre, is the picture for which she'll be remembered always.

"Heidi" brings a Shirley Temple more glorious than has ever been known, in the picture she was asked to make by thousands of fans who wrote to the Twentieth Century-Fox studios. Bringing love to hearts filled with hate, and a twinkle to eyes filled with tears, "Heidi" tells of an embittered mountain-top exile, brilliantly portrayed by Jean Hersholt, reclaimed from his fierce hatred of the world, of a young girl who finds the strength and courage to walk again, and of the little heroine who brings everyone new zest for life.

Pensioners Meeting To Be Held Fridays

Mr. Williams of Lubbock will be on hand to give any and all kinds of information to those desiring it pertaining to the pension.

Plans Announced For Improvement Of Park

Commissioner Ben Mansker has announced that an allocation has been made for the improvement of the County park here, work to begin in the Spring.

At present plans are for the removal of the black locust trees and these to be replaced with trees and shrubs of various kinds. To care for the irrigation of these, pipes will be laid underground to form a modern system of watering.

Slaton First Annual Show Is Success

Slaton's first Annual Poultry Show opened December 2nd and runs thru Saturday. Since issuing the Catalogue, the Ladies Auxiliary to this show have had a meeting, and they are to have in connection with the show, a showing of canned products, needle, knitting and art work. Miss Clara Pratt, the Home Demonstration Club Agent, of Lubbock has been asked to be the Judge of the canned products; Mrs. Wilbur Jones of Slaton to be the Judge of the art department. The canned division will be fruits, vegetables, jellies, preserves and pickles. The needle department will include new and old pieces appliqued bed spreads, crochet rugs, luncheon sets, afagan, dollies, table clothes, knitted dresses, one- and two-piece; knitted blouses, rugs, sweaters and scarfs.

The art department is to be non-professional with first prize of 50c, second, 25c; and third, ribbon.

This show is to be in three rooms, the poultry room; the room for all grains; and the third room for the Ladies' show.

Remember the place is just across the street from the Slatonite, in three rooms well lighted, heated and watered.

We ask and want the farmer to quit his cotton for two or three days and come in with his chickens, as the income from chickens may be better next year than from cotton.

Slaton National Farm Loan Ass'n. Observes 20th Anniversary

Marking two decades of cooperative farm-mortgage credit in Lubbock, Lynn, Crosby, and Garza counties, the Slaton National Farm Loan Association is observing the twentieth anniversary of its founding this year. Since December 30, 1917, the day it was organized, the association now has outstanding loans amounting to a total of $114,600.00 Land Bank Commissioner Loans and $612,575.00 Federal Land Bank Loans, and now has 255 members. J. W. Nesbitt of Slaton is the association secretary-treasurer and Vincent W. Nesbitt is the Association acting secretary-treasurer.

The group that met in Slaton 20 years ago to form the association was composed of local farmers and ranchmen who signed the articles of incorporation and application for a charter. Some of which are still members today.

Members of this association become part-owners, thus sharing in the success of their own farm-financing business. In effect, therefore, the plan enables farmers to pool their credit resources and obtain their financing at low interest rates, but more particularly, enables them to arrange their debts on terms which avoid, as far as possible, the risk which go with a short term mortgage.

The association's loans are made on long-term contracts amortized over as much as 33 years, and the semi-annual payments reduce them to the vanishing point. At present, the association is making first-mortgage loans at an interest rate of 4 percent, a rate which has been in effect 6 loans since June, 1933, and the best rate that the association has offered.

LOCAL STUDENT LISTED ON A. C. C. HONOR ROLL

Increased by Advertising

In 1889 the per unit of population value of manufactured products in America amounted to $89.60. For the year 1929 the per unit of population value of manufactured products had increased to a total of $579.70. Advertising created the demand that called for the employment of three to four times the number of workers and reduced the cost of products to consumers.

Juvenile Togs Styled to a Nicety

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NEVER, no never, have children's winter outfits been so cleverly styled as they are this season. It is not only that each is a "picture" in its bright colors and cunning details, but when it comes to being practical and protective from the elements and snugly "comfy" at all times, as fond mothers insist must be, designers have so painstakingly equipped outfits for the younger generation with "all modern improvements," cruel winters, wet-wet rain, dancing snow furies, not even Jack Frost himself have even a ghost of a chance to get in.

As pictures speak more eloquently than all the adjectives that might be penned, let's look to our illustration for enlightenment as to what leading designers are turning out in way of children's cold-weather suits for now and the winter to be. Here we see three cunning, and as thoroughly practical as they are attractive, ensembles that all but "stole the show" as the little girls who modeled them came stepping down the runway at a children's Merchandise Mart of Chicago a short time ago, before a vast audience of visiting merchants.

To the fond mother who delights in seeing little daughter look as if she had just stepped out of a fashion plate, the clever ballerina-back legging suit pictured to the left will prove a real find. It is one of the newest models and forecasts what the fashionable little miss will wear through the winter. Of handsome Copenhagen blue sturdy woolen coating it is styled in a novel manner of seeming to achieve a clever ballet flare. The suit has a beaver collar which, of course, will make a hit with any little girl, and crowning glory over all, it has a matching hat with fur trim. The zipped leggings offer every protection from wind and cold.

Dewberry (a new shade this season) is the color featured in the voguish fitted coachman-style coat to the right. Here is a type that will make best-dressed little girls look even better dressed for it carries an air of distinction in its every detail. Has a cape too, and when little daughter's friends see that cape they will be imploring mother to buy them one.

An adorable outfit made of a maize-colored wool of caressing softness costumes the little snow queen centered in the group. She looks just that, what with the fluffy snow-white angora edgings that trim bonnet, coat and muff. Yes, there's a little matching muff as you can see and with what pride and glee the fortunate wearer will call her admirers' attention to this precious possession. And to fill the cup of joy full to overflowing there are dainty little sprays of flowers hand-embroidered in the sweetest colors on the yoke and on the wee muff and on the very flattering matching bonnet.

And, by the way, since cunning winter ensembles for little folks is our theme, if there be a doting relative that longs to bestow upon your child a grand Christmas gift why not just throw a gentle hint to him or her in regard to the fur coat, muff and hat ensembles that are so proudly shown in this season's juvenile apparel shops and departments. Or if you are thinking in terms of practical school or play-time clothes why not one of the pretty sweaters and suede jerkin sets that come in such attractive colorings? Or a dressier threesome consisting of velveteen hat, coat and legging set, for legging sets are the big idea this season.

SHIRRED VELVET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Not too much or too little, but just right, is this charming frock of velvet. It is in the new "don't dress for dinner" length, correct for bridge club wear or matinee date and then on in to the evening. Soft baby doeskin gloves in plaster pink blend beautifully with the warm winy tones of the velvet. The styling of the gown typifies a leading trend, in that the velvet is muchly shirred and a corselet waistline is accented. Brilliant clips add the glittering note which fashion deems imperative this season.

For Afternoon

Afternoon blouses for winter are apt to have band or draped collars and back closings. Sleeves are long, and most of them are of the plain, tight variety.

NEW BAGS ARE GAY IN CARVED HANDLES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Suede antelope "mam'selle" hand-bag trimmed with catalin. Like other items in the fashion category such as apparel, jewelry, hats and even shoes, handbags now have acquired distinctive names indicative of the types they are designed to please. Mam'selle bags, which are now being shown in many shops in black, brown, burgundy and other colors, with carved catalin handles or decorations, are generally jaunty in type but not gaudy and as their names indicate, made especially for mam'selle.

Chic Little Fur Jackets

Popular for Street Wear
The cool late autumn days are bringing out by the scores on avenue and boulevard stunning little fur jackets of every fur almost from leopard to aristocratic Persian lamb. The boxy types prevail but there are any number of youthful bolero and waist-depth types. Gray ensembles especially are worked out with gray woolsens and brief gray astrakhan jackets. Short fur capes are also very fashionable. Many women are having their coats that have served their time as such made over either into the shorter jacket or a cape.

Lace Veils Now Popular

for Evening Headress
Society women who attend formal affairs are taking enthusiastically to the unique fashion of wearing a charming lace veil thrown picturesquely over the head, secured with a flower spray or feathered ornament or handsome jewel pin. The effect is enchanting. The veils are sometimes edged with sequins, and then again a delicate tracery of embroidery adds to their allure.

Matching Sets

Leather belts and matching buttons are shown on woolen sports frocks for winter.

CHRISTIAN REST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 11:28-30; Hebrews 4:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matthew 11:28.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When We Are Tired.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Great Invitation.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Christ Gives Us Rest.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Rest.

"Time, like an ever-rolling stream, bears all its sons away," so sang Isaac Watts in 1719. One wonders what he might say today! The mad rush of modern life—its relentless drawing of us all into its terrific tempo—leaves us distraught, nervous, overanxious. Nervous disorders are on a rapid increase, even among children. The condition prevails in the country as well as in the city, although it is aggravated in metropolitan centers.

Let us lay down the burdens of the universe for a bit and counsel quietly about that almost forgotten Christian virtue, rest. Nowhere can the troubled spirit find calm of soul as surely and as quickly as in God's Word—and in the One revealed there, for true rest is

I. Found in Christ (Matt. 11:28-30).

Rest for our souls is found not in the cessation of activity, but rather in joining with Christ as our yoke-fellow and in going on with him in meekness and lowliness of heart. Most of life's restlessness is the result of pride, of driving ambition to be somebody or to attain something. True humility removes all such disturbing factors.

But we do have a yoke and a burden to bear. Yes, it is true that not all is easy in the Christian life. But as someone has suggested, the burdens are like the burden of feathers on a bird. They may seem to be too heavy for his little body, but as a matter of fact they are the thing he flies with! Such are the "burdens" of Christ.

II. Received by Faith (Heb. 4:3).
Those who believe enter into rest. Faith in God through Jesus Christ brings a man into an abiding place that the storms of life may beat upon but can never move. Fair weather followers of Jesus who fall into a frenzy of fear and worry when sorrow or loss comes upon them need to learn to walk by faith. "Be not dismayed whate'er betide, God will take care of you," is more than the pious expression of a hymn writer, it is a statement of fact.

III. Rejected by Unbelief (Heb. 4:1, 6-11).

"The worst thing in the world" is unbelief—because it effectually closes the door to God's blessing. Jesus could not do "many mighty works" in his home town of Nazareth "because of their unbelief" (Matt. 13:58). Unbelief will keep us from the rest that God has prepared for his people, for it not only hinders men from coming to the Saviour, but keeps them from resting in him after they are saved.

IV. Necessary to Useful Living (v. 11).

Only when the follower of Christ appropriates that rest of soul which results from turning from his own efforts and trusting himself fully to Christ will there be that absolute surrender of every detail and problem of life to him which will bring out in daily living the glorious beauty and power of a life at rest with God.

A poem by Fay Inchfawn which has blessed the writer's soul is here passed on, with the prayer that it may help you who read these notes: "Well, I am done. My nerves were on the rack. I've laid them down today; It was the last straw broke the camel's back. I've laid that down today. No, I'll not fume, nor fuss, nor fight; I'll walk by faith a bit and not by sight, I think the universe will work all right, I've laid it down today."

"So, here and now, the overweight, the worry, I'll lay it down today; The all-too-anxious heart; the tearing hurry; I'll lay these down today. O eager hands, O feet so prone to run, I think that he who made the stars and sun Can mind the things you've had to leave undone. Do lay them down today."

How true it is that we are prone to bear all the burdens of the universe when God's Word has told us to cast all our care upon Him, for He careth for us (I Pet. 5:7). It is a powerful testimony for Christ when distraught and worry-ridden non-Christians see God's children walking steady and true in the midst of disappointments, trials, and sorrows. And the opposite is also true, that failure to trust God is a practical denial of our professed faith.

In Step With Santa Claus

KEEPING up with the Joneses is easy—it's keeping up with Santa Claus that has Sew-Your-Own in stitches currently. We got a peek at his wares, though, and frankly we copied some of his artistry. (You can see for yourself there's a "Christmasy look" about today's trio of fashions.) And happily you can do more than look and wish—you can make them realities the easy way: just sew, sew, Sew-Your-Own!

Cute and Cozy.
Look your prettiest in leisure or on the job in the lusciously feminine house jacket (young sister to the house coat) above, left. Santa Claus has ordered thousands of these for feminine friends in his good graces and you know S. C. usually shows impeccable taste in gifts. In handsome silk crepe or very lightweight corduroy it is as cosy as a love seat before an open fire. Make it either in the short length (see inset) or regular dress length.

Feminine Flattery.
Polish yourself off in a brilliantly styled new frock for the holidays just ahead. Sew-Your-Own's newest success (above center) will be your success once you wear it in the public eye. It is most gifted in its distinctive design, below-waist slimmness, and all-of-a-piece simplicity. Make your version the very essence of chic in sheer wool or satin, in your most flattering color.

A Blouse or Two.

Tops in the fashion picture just now is that friendly little item—the blouse. A completely engaging one is shown here for women who sew. Wear it tucked in or peplum style. And here's a practical idea: you have a choice in sleeve lengths. For variety's sake, why not make the long sleeved model in silk crepe for dress; the short sleeved one in jersey for sports and all occasion wear?

The Patterns.
Pattern 1412 is designed for sizes 32 to 42. Size 34 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material and 1/2 yard for contrast. Short length requires 4 1/4 yards.

Pattern 1394 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 2 3/4 yards of 54-inch fabric.

Pattern 1417 is designed for sizes 34 to 44. Size 36 requires 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch material; with short sleeves, 1 1/2 yards.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

New Pattern Book.
Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Fall and Winter Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Sports Broadcasters. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—Somebody said that there were always two big sporting events—the one Graham McNamee saw and the one that actually took place.

But, alongside the present sports broadcasters, Graham's wildest flight would sound like the dulcet twitters of a timid love bird as compared with the last ravings of John McCullough.

Coaches brag of the lowered percentage of serious football accidents this fall. But oh, think of the radio descriptions who'll wind up the season suffering from nervous exhaustion, wrecked vocal chords, violent rush of loud words to the mouth, complete collapse, even madness.

You'll be passing the rest cure sanitarium, and, as the windows burst outward, you'll hear pouring forth something like this:

"Oh boy, boy! with one tremendous burst, Irish Goldberg is jamming his way from the red back line right through the black interference! Nothing can stop him!"

But don't get worked up. What you hear is merely a convalescent microphone orator mentioning a checker game between two fellow-inmates and reverting to form.

Virtues in Snakes. SOMETHING I said recently about the folly of killing every snake on sight, without investigating the snake's character, brought a flock of letters from readers who don't like snakes.

Even a so-called venomous snake may have his better side. In Kansas, in the old local option days, you could get a drink only on a doctor's prescription, excepting in case of dire emergency, such as a snake bite. So every properly run drug store kept a rattlesnake on the premises to serve the citizenry. And the only time a drug store rattler ever refused to bite a thirsty stranger was when he was all worn out from accommodating the regular local trade.

And what though it was a snake that led Eve astray in the garden of Eden? He may have brought sin into the world, but wouldn't we have missed a lot of spicy reading matter in newspapers if he hadn't?

Yep, I plead guilty to thinking an occasional charitable thought for any decimated and vanishing group. I feel that way about old line Republicans and mustache cups and red woolen pulse-warmers.

Political Predictions. WE TAKE the opportunity to announce that the Literary Digest, or rather its journalistic successor, will not conduct a poll on next year's congressional and state elections. The burnt child dreads the poll.

Let others go around taking straw votes, but, the way the Digest folks feel now and, in fact, have felt ever since last November, they wouldn't start a canvass to prove that two and two make four. Because, look here—what if it should turn out that two and two merely make some more Marx brothers or a double set of Siamese twins?

Anyhow, the business of basing cocksure predictions on half-cooked estimates doesn't seem to be flourishing these days. Figures don't lie, but the citizens who furnish the figures may do so, either unintentionally or just for the sake of a laugh. The rise of candid camerazoning—say, we just thought up that word—proves that a photograph of things as they are is mightier than a lot of loose statistics predicated on what the voters may or may not do—and probably won't, when the time comes.

Forgotten Stars. ONCE interviewers clamored for a hearing and her face was on half the magazine covers and her name in letters of flaming light above all the marquee. Once impressive tycoons catered to her temperamental whims; press agents waited upon her, courtiers attending a queen. Autograph seekers besieged her then, while now only bill collectors desire her signature—and they'd like to have it on a check. Speak of her to the newer generation, and somebody will say, "Who? Spell it, please."

She is all through, all washed up. But, like the deaf husband whose wife has slipped, will be the last person in town to hear the news. Having traveled a road which issues mighty few round-trip tickets, she still dreams of a come-back.

She is the most tragic and the most pitiable figure—and one of the commonest—to be found in this place called Hollywood. She is any one of the host, men and women, who, ten years ago, or even five, were glittering stars in movieland.

U. S.-BRITISH TRADE PACT Treaty Planned That May Affect International Relations . . . Insistent Demand for Modification of Tax Laws

Trade Treaty with Britain

IN WASHINGTON and London it was officially announced that the United States and Great Britain had agreed to negotiate a reciprocal trade treaty, which has been sought by Secretary of State

Secretaries of State. The treaty is expected to be signed in London in the near future. It is a landmark in the history of international trade relations.

In return, the United States will grant most favored nation status to British goods. The treaty is expected to be signed in London in the near future. It is a landmark in the history of international trade relations.

Representative Allen Treadway, Massachusetts Republican, denounced the proposed treaty as certain to prove disastrous to American business. He warned it would throw "more Americans out of their jobs."

Governors Ask Tax Repeal

GOVERNORS of the six New England states, in conference in Boston, adopted resolutions severely criticizing the tax and tariff policies of the administration. They demanded repeal of the capital gains tax and the tax on undistributed corporate profits, and denounced the pending reciprocal trade agreement with Czechoslovakia as impeding the jobs of thousands of American citizens.

The governors who took this action were Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, Maine; F. P. Murphy, Republican, New Hampshire; George D. Aiken, Republican, Vermont; Charles F. Hurlley, Democrat, Massachusetts; Wilbur L. Cross, Democrat, Connecticut; and Robert E. Quinn, Democrat, Rhode Island.

Plotters Alarm France

FRANCE was in a great dither over an alleged plot of the Cagoullards or "hooded ones," and other rightist groups to overthrow the republican government. The secret police have been making many arrests and have uncovered secret arsenals and depots of the conspirators. Among the men they seized was Jean de la Meuse, wealthy textile manufacturer of Paris. In their pursuit of the plotters the police went as far as Switzerland, persuading the government of that country to oust the count of Paris, who would be heir apparent of the throne of France if there were any longer such an institution. He had been holding conferences with royalists.

After Labor Racketeers

FOR four months Eliot Ness, the young safety director of Cleveland, Ohio, has been investigating labor racketeering in Cleveland, especially in the building trades.

He has been passed around since the labor movement began," and added that "it's high time this stuff was stopped."

Harrison Backs Water

PREVENTED from considering the pending government reorganization measure by a filibuster against the anti-lynching bill, the senate engaged in a lot of talk about tax revision. Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, after conferring with Secretary Morgenthau, declared that additional revenue to compensate for modification of the undistributed profits tax could be raised only by broadening the income tax base or by a general manufacturers' sales tax.

Mention of a sales tax aroused Senator Borah and others, and the Idahoan prodded Harrison until he backed down and said he did not quite mean what he had said.

"If, in the revision of the tax laws, we should lose some revenue, I do not believe, with the spending program that is now going on, that we would help business," Harrison told the senate. "I think the goal should be to try to balance the budget at the first opportunity. I believe the wise way to do it is to curtail some of the emergency expenditures."

Harrison proposed a return to the old normal income tax on corporations and, if necessary, to increase the rate to 18 or 20 per cent instead of the former maximum of 15 1/2 per cent.

HOWARD E. COFFIN, who was chairman of the World war aircraft production board and sponsored the development of the Liberty airplane engine, was found shot to death at his winter home in Sea Island, Ga. Party Invitations Are Problem Here

DEAR Mrs. Post: Two sisters and their brother would like to give a big dance and have asked me to suggest an invitation to their party. I've really had great difficulty trying to compose this due to the three hosts' names. Written formally, each one on a separate line followed by "request the pleasure of your company, etc." makes the invitation so long. I wonder whether simply "Mary, Sara and Jack Brown request the pleasure, etc." would not be better?

Answer: I would suggest printing instead: Mary, Sara and Jack Brown hope you will come to their dance on Friday evening, February 23rd at 10 o'clock at the Blank Athletic Club Do say yes.

On the other hand if they would rather send formal invitations, the titles will have to be included and the following wording engraved:

The Misses Mary and Sara Brown and Mr. John Brown request the pleasure of (written in) company at a dance on Friday evening, the twenty third of February etc.

Invite Engaged People to Parties Together

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you please explain how far the obligation of inviting engaged people together must be considered? We are asking a business associate of my husband to dinner on a Sunday and while there has been no public announcement made of it, we know that he is engaged to a young woman whom we have never met but of whom he often speaks. Must I ask her to dinner, too?

Answer: After the engagement is announced, then a hostess may not ask a man to a party without including his fiancée. This does not mean that at some occasion he may not happen to take a meal in her house. In your case I think I would ask him whether he would like you to invite her. It is possible that he would rather you wait until the engagement is announced and she can meet people as his fiancée.

Housewarming Defined

DEAR Mrs. Post: I realize that the term "housewarming" is given to any type of party as long as it is the first real one given by new owners or tenants. But is one kind of party more usually given on this occasion, and tell me, if there is, how you would suggest going about giving it?

Answer: It is rarely other than an informal late afternoon or early evening at home. Very simple refreshments are set either on the dining room table or on a card table in the living room. The principal feature is, of course, that the entire house is open for the visitors' inspection. And this means the whole house!

Greeting to Mary

DEAR Mrs. Post: Am I supposed to say "How do you do, Miss Brown," or even "How do you do, Mary" to a young friend receiving with her mother when Mary happens to be a very good friend of mine whom I greet no more formally at other times than "Hello, Mary"? The party will be a big one and the invitations are formal and I have an idea that saying "Hello, Mary" upon arrival would be very bad.

Answer: You say "How do you do, Mrs. Brown" very formally, and with a sweet smile and in not too boisterous a tone of voice "Hello, Mary" or "How do, Mary."

Hands in Greeting

DEAR Mrs. Post: Etiquette suggests that a man wait for a woman to extend her hand in greeting first. But what is a man to do when a hostess receiving at a party for her daughter fails to put out her hand in spite of the fact that etiquette also says that a guest should shake hands with a hostess and her daughter in the receiving line at such a party?

Answer: If she does not hold her hand out to him, then he behaves as he was taught in dancing school when a small boy. In other words, he takes one step, cracks his heels and bows from the waist and says, "How do you do, Mrs. Brown."

Answer Own Bell

WHEN entertaining a young man and the door-bell rings and there is no servant to answer the door and the other members of the family are upstairs, should the girl go to the door or should the young man offer to go for her?

Answer: I think she should go in her own house. WNU Service.

A Mother Speaks

"I hold aloft the torch and set it farther on. "I have gone down to the brink of dark waters and from the cold shadows brought back warm and precious life. "I am an inspiration and a victim.

"I have known reverence and ingratitude, adoration and neglect. "I have drunk of joys that Heaven will not make sweeter. "I have felt griefs that endless torment could not make more keen.

"I have been borne aloft on wings softer than those of angels. "I have seen in loving eyes the light that never was on sea or land.

"I have known the callous cruelty of indifference, the pain of being left behind on the path of life the agony of 'superiority.'

"I have known the joy of being told that my white hairs are the beauty of undying youth.

"I have known the anguish of being told that I was never young. "I have known the gladness of sacrifice and its sweet appreciation.

"I have known the happiness of remorse for unmeant indifference of regret that 'they did not realize.'

"I have slept on pillows softer than down, in which no unflinching hand had ever placed a thorn.

"I have received tributes, nobler than any paid to kings and warriors, from those who testified that what they did and were owed to me.

"I have seen stalwart sons grow into the likeness of him I love, and sweet daughters become what I longed to be.

"I have known the glory of fulfillment, the fame of contented completed mission, the overflowing repayment for having given myself.

And Yonder Lay the Tenth Bairn

A divinity professor was asked to preside at the baptism of a latest-arrived infant in the crowded home of the minister of the parish in Scotland.

The professor gave out one of his paraphrases often used on such occasions.

"Let us," he said, "sing the second verse, 'As sparks her close succession rise.'"

To his consternation he observed that the congregation seemed unable to repress a giggle.

Afterwards, asking the minister's man what had been wrong, he received the reply, "You youngsters, the minister's name is Sparks."

Gift of Humor

I HAD rather be strong, stoic, affectionate, loyal, noble, thoughtful, than be the best hearted, most generous, yet if the gift of humor be added to the matchless graces, you have a combination that is absolutely irresistible.

never allows emotion to degenerate into gush or virtue into rigidity. Thus I say that humor is a kind of divine and crowning grace in a character, because it means an artistic sense of proportion, a true and vital grace, a power of infinite forgiveness.—Arthur Benson.

Thumbtack Your Draperies to a Board.

TO GIVE draperies the smartly tailored effect obtained by the professional decorator, a valance board must be used. A straight one by two inch board will be needed. A small finishing nail in the top of the window casing near each end and screw eyes placed near the top of the back of the valance board will hold it in place as shown at A. Both side drapes and valance may be thumbtacked to the board and then be quickly hung all at once by hooking the screw eyes over the finishing nails. Think of the advantage on cleaning day! Just lift board and all off the nails and take outside for dusting.

Nature Pays No Attention to Motives

NATURE'S penalties for our mistakes are just as severe as her penalties for our sins. The pistol that we "didn't know was loaded" does just as deadly work as the pistol used in murder. The wreck or fire caused by carelessness is just as destructive as the wreck or fire caused by deliberate intent. The number of disasters in the world due to mistakes is far greater than those due to deliberate sin. Thoughtlessness is sin. Let us think of this the next time we are tempted to excuse ourselves on the ground that we "didn't mean to."

Tack the side drapes to the board first as at B, arranging fullness in flat pleats. In making the valance, allow enough material to fold around the ends of the board as at C; then tack it along the top, stretching it just enough so that it is perfectly smooth. The valance shown here is made of glazed chintz and matches the glazed chintz border that faces the edges of the side drapes. The glass curtains may be hung just inside the window frame or to the bottom of the valance board. Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. ### SYNOPSIS

Joyce Sewell, on the eve of her twentieth birthday, rebels at her lot, dependent on her detested stepmother, Irma, and full of tragic memories of her mother's murder twelve years before and her father's death six months ago. Irma calls in Helm Blackadder, an admirer, to help her persuade Joyce to marry rich, young Michael Kirkpatrick. Mike, sent up to Joyce by Irma and Blackadder, demands a showdown on his proposal and is rejected. Reading her father's papers, Joyce realizes that La Barranca, a Mexican hacienda which her father had owned, legally belongs to her. Later, she receives a letter enclosing a warrant on the United States Treasury for $10,000 compensation for her mother's murder at La Barranca. She confers with Mr. Bradley, a banker and only remaining friend of her father's. She confides that she wants to make a secret journey to Mexico. Bradley arranges all details for her. She departs by plane undetected. Dirk Van Suttart, second secretary of the American embassy in Mexico City, gives Joyce a chilly reception and she loses her temper. She finds a Mexican woman lawyer, Margarida Fonseca, who takes her to General Onelia, right-hand man to the Mexican minister of war. Margarida reminds Onelia that the usurper of La Barranca is his dangerous enemy, General Dorado. The two make plans to send Joyce with a few picked men under Pancho Buenaventura to drive Dorado out. Adan Arnaldo, a young man who runs El Tenebroso, a night club, knows Dorado's present whereabouts, so they take Joyce there that night, where she notices Dirk. General Dorado arrives.

the address to the driver. The car slowed, swung around the next circle and started back in the opposite direction. "All right, I'll believe you. Since you say you're what I thought you were I'll take you straight to your hotel on one condition." "What is it?" "That you never come into my place again." "Don't worry!" said Joyce fervently. "I wouldn't anyway. I've never been so frightened before, and it wasn't the row that did it." "No?" said Arnaldo curiously. "If that rumpus didn't scare you, what did?" "A face. It was horrible. I'll never forget it." "What face?" "That man in uniform—the one who started the trouble." "Dorado," said Arnaldo slowly. "Pepe Dorado. So that's it. What do you want to know about Dorado?" "Only—only that I'll never see him again." "You won't; nobody will for a long while," said Arnaldo grimly. "Why?" asked Joyce quickly. "Did something happen to him?" "Not yet, but I promise you it's going to. I give him until daylight. I won't see him out of town in person but I have a couple of partners nobody knows about who will. When they tell him to beat it he'll go and stay gone." As the car drew up in the light from the hotel entrance she laid her hand on his arm and looked straight into his eyes. "Why have you been so good to me? Why?" He shrugged his shoulders. "A lot of us Mexicans play at hating puzzle it out for what it was—a look of eternal farewell—she compromised by touching cheeks in the Latin manner, one cheek and then the other. That done she hurried down two flights of stairs to the street and within five minutes was being driven at vertiginous speed along the Paseo de la Reforma, through the umbrageous Bosque de Chapultepec, around Dolores cemetery and into a blind lane. There, blotted out against a clump of bushes, stood a dilapidated touring car with its tattered curtains in place. Sergeant Pancho Buenaventura, in uniform, stepped out to help with the luggage and motioned to her to get into the tonneau, but she knew better. Resigning that space to her bags she climbed into the front seat beside him. A moment later they were off and presently swung left into the Toluca road.

ward Irma. "So there's a reward now, is there? How much?" "Five thousand dollars." "Holy pickere!" Blackadder started pacing the floor. Suddenly he halted. His brow cleared as if by magic and he made a leap for the telephone. "Airport!" he shouted. "Get me the airport!" A moment later he was talking again. "Airport? I don't know you and you don't know me, but this is Helm Blackadder. Get it? Helm Blackadder. Have you reported to the police what day, what hour and where you took your last woman passenger?" "No. Why should we?" "You know why. You see the papers, don't you?" "Sure, we read 'em—me and the pilot both—and that's why." "I see," said Blackadder softly. "Now listen, you. I'm Miss Joyce Sewell's guardian. Quit worrying about that reward, if it's ever paid to anybody, which it won't be, I'll guarantee you'll get your share. You and your buddy don't want to be put behind bars for compounding a felony, do you?" "Aw, say now, Mister, we ain't done nothing." "You're right you haven't and you'll find there are cases where you can get in as bad for doing nothing as for pulling the trigger. They call it abetting, meaning to incite, to encourage." "What do you want to know?" "When did she leave?" "A week ago today at four o'clock." "Where to?" "We carried her to Newark." "How much did she pay for her ticket?" "How do I know? She didn't buy no tickets from us." "Who did?" "Nobody. She had her tickets with her." "Did anybody meet her at Newark?" "No." "Have you any idea where she went from there?" "Sure. She was a through passenger and would just have time to catch the plane south." "Through? Through to where? Miami?" "No. Balbuena." "Where's that?" "It's the airport at Mexico City, Mister, and much 'xt reg'ny it do you to know it." 12, 17 Blackadder turned to Irma. "Did you get it? Joyce is in Mexico City. She's been there for about four days." "Mexico City!" gasped Irma. "Why, how can she be? You can't travel to Mexico City on five dollars. I know because—" "That's what's got me stumped," interrupted Blackadder. He proceeded to call up the heads of the three banks in town, leaving Mr. Bradley, known to have been Cutler Sewell's good friend, to the last. The first two made no bones about answering since their information happened to be negative; they had paid out no money as a loan or otherwise to Joyce Sewell. But when it came to the president of the City National, the reply was decidedly evasive. "Let me get this straight, Helm," said Mr. Bradley's aggravatingly calm voice. "Have you taken out papers as Miss Joyce Sewell's guardian?" "No," said Blackadder, controlling his temper with difficulty, "but her stepmother is sitting here beside me. Do you want me to put her on the phone—have her tell you you can say it to me and say it all?" "No; I'll take your word for it. Now just what is it you want to know, Helm?" (TO BE CONTINUED)

CHAPTER V

Back in Elsinboro Mrs. Sewell was pacing distractedly up and down her living room awaiting the arrival of Helm Blackadder. Why had he shouted at her over the telephone? Why had he said such things? It was she who had grounds for anger, she who had a right to feel hurt. Was it her fault he had been away—gone to New York without saying a word? Her soft brown eyes watered and then blazed. Everything she had done had been right; she had sacrificed herself to the limit, but she had done what was right. Abruptly Blackadder appeared before her, not having bothered to ring or knock. She hurled herself into his arms. "Helm! Oh, Helm!" she sobbed. It was one of the cleverest moves of her entire career. Perforce he held her, patting her back, and the harder she clung to him the less could he find it in his heart to pour out the scathing words which a moment ago had been trembling on the tip of his tongue. "Irma, how on earth could you stir up such a mess for yourself? Why didn't you find out where I was and call me up? Why couldn't you wait till I came back?" She threw herself into a chair and covered her eyes. "Please don't, Helm. Please listen to me first. That child—that poor child! When she didn't come back after the week-end I telephoned Frances Holder and found she hadn't been there at all! Then I tried to telephone you; I did, Helm. I notified the police; then I thought of the radio."

"I'll say you did!" groaned Blackadder. "Hasn't it occurred to you Joyce isn't lost at all? That nobody kidnaped her? That nothing has happened to her except what she intended to have happen?" "No, it hasn't. Do you remember what she said to us? Do you? Well, I do; the words are burned into my brain. This is what she said: 'You want to be rid of me—both of you. All right. I promise. If it isn't that way it will be another.' " "Bunk," said Blackadder. "That girl? Never. How much money do you think she had?" Blackadder frowned. He went to the telephone and called up the station master. "Jim, this is Helm Blackadder. Did Joyce Sewell leave Elsinboro on a train?" Promptly came the answer: "No, Helm, she didn't. Naturally as soon as I seen about the reward I wasn't satisfied with only checking up around here. I telephoned every crew from Buffalo to New York. You can take it from me she didn't get away on no train."

"Thanks, Jim," said Blackadder. He hung up and faced around toward the United States, but not me. They were good to me up there, a lot better than I've been to you. We're different. It's like two worlds. There's one way to live in your country and another to live in mine, but let me give you a tip. It takes a strong head to stand mixed drinks. I have a strong head." "So have I," said Joyce. He studied her thoughtfully. "Either you're right about your head or you're a fool." "Why?" "Think it out for yourself. You don't know danger when you see it. You start out with the boner of coming to Mexico. You tie in with a couple of gringo-haters who wouldn't leave a lamb his bleat. You butt into El Tenebroso and when you're out riding with a buzz-saw you think you're playing with a paper pin-wheel. To top the list you decide to mix it with what—with whom? Pepe Dorado! No; there's only one way to make everything fit—you're a fool and I'm another."

"Perhaps I am," said Joyce soberly, "but I hope not." She pushed down the rug, stepped to the curb and gave him her hand. "I'll never forget you or what you've done; please don't forget me." "I won't!" he assured her. "Get along in before you freeze." At ten o'clock at night of the third day Joyce and her baggage were transferred by taxi to the railway station and then as a further precaution by another hired conveyance to Margarida's apartment. Onelia was there. He glanced at his watch and spoke in a tender voice which seemed to drip with regret at parting. "It is time, my child. I shall stay here. Go down by yourself and slip into my car. The chauffeur already has your bags and I've given him the necessary instructions. Don't worry if he drives fast; it's only to make sure nobody can follow."

Joyce hesitated whether to kiss Margarida, chilled by the peculiar look in her eyes. Too impatient to

Arnaldo's strong hands darted out to seize the barrel of the gun and hold it pointed upward. The last of the lights were extinguished and with darkness came uproar. Five shots rang out in a steady spurt, tables were overturned, dishes crashed, women screamed, men groaned and grunted. Joyce sat quite still, pressing back as if to push herself through the wall. Soon she reached out her right hand tentatively; General Onelia was gone. She pushed her left along the seat. It was empty—Margarida was gone.

Pancho Buenaventura, in Uniform, Stepped Out to Help With the Luggage.

At that instant a fumbling hand found her shoulder, shot down along her arm and seized her wrist. She felt herself being hauled along the wall by someone who seemed sure of his way. Who was it and why? Was it Onelia, Van Suttart or Dorado? What did it matter if only she could get out? Something struck her in the face, enveloping her head. For a moment she thought she would suffocate, then realized it had been merely a plunge through heavy curtains. The next thing she knew she was dragging the sharp sweet air of the night into her lungs as her escort half lifted, half hurled her into the tonneau of a waiting car.

The chauffeur started so suddenly her head was thrown against the back of the seat. Then the cold cut of her hair; she shivered from head to toe and her teeth began to chatter. She looked at her wrist. Promptly the man took her in his arms, added to the rug from his bracket a combined drew it over them both. She tried to calm herself—she must have a palm herself or she couldn't think. What did he intend? Where was he taking her? Then he did something which steadied her nerves at once; he tried to light a cigarette without disturbing her. At the flash of the match she looked up into Adan Arnaldo's pensive face.

A great many thoughts struck Joyce all at once, making her dizzy. She had escaped the scene of panic-monium to fall into what? "If you'll put me in a taxi," she said, drawing away from him, "I'll be all right. Then you can go back." "To help the scrubwomen?" asked Arnaldo. "There wasn't anything unusual about our closing tonight. I've seen eight people shot and killed in the last two years." "Oh!" gasped Joyce. "That's why I was wondering," she stated. "About what?" she asked. "You—a girl like you! I don't let it yet. Coming into a dump like that between two buzzards. What do they want?" She decided at once to put Arnaldo off and in the same flash wondered if she dared try to draw him. "How should I know?" she asked, almost without a pause. "I've saw either of them before to you're not lying?" "I came to Mexico only yesterday," said Joyce. "It's the truth. I wanted to see what was going on." "I got Margarida Fonseca to take

HARDWARE and FURNITURE

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence—on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around.

De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost.

With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.
