Mr. Martindale is well known to the people of Slaton and needs no introduction from the Slatonite, but we will say that in conversation with him that he stated to a representative of this paper that he was going to continue the operation of the market in a way that would merit the patronage of the public. Also that he would handle only the highest quality fresh and cured meats and market products.

Snyder Business Men Give Farewell Party for Reverend W. F. Ferguson

Monday night at Snyder, the Business Men of that city, gave a wonderful farewell party for the Rev. W. F. Ferguson. Advance word was received from Snyder, through the courtesy of our friend "Jimmy" Smith, Editor of the Scurry County Times-Signal, that they were loth to see this good family depart from Snyder, but it was a mighty fine gain for Slaton, as the Rev. Ferguson was one of the finest gentlemen in the world, that he is a regular fellow, in other words a man's man.

That the family was just about a million percent plus, and we want you to use them fine, in the Slaton good way.

At the Manhattan Hotel, the leading hostelry of Snyder, 67 business men of that city gathered at the banquet table, paying tribute to one they love. It is recognized by all that Rev. Ferguson and his good family have endeared themselves to the people of Snyder, when the business element of a city combine in paying tribute to one of their number, regardless of the creed he represents, it is a period of mighty fine intolerance, and

NEW HIGHWAY DESIGNATION ASKED MONDAY

Representatives From Four Towns Attend Austin Session

A delegation of South Plains citizens, interested in securing a state highway designation from Tahoka to Slaton and thence north from here to a connection with State Highway No. 53, returned Tuesday night from Austin where they conferred Monday with the State Highway Commission relative to the road designation.

Mr. Pinkston represented the Lubbock County Commissioners' Court at the hearing and Mr. Wilson represented the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development. Mr. Hankins represented the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Williams was the delegate from the Tahoka Chamber, and Mr. Finley represented the Lynn County Commissioners' Court.

The five men were in conference with the three members of the State Highway Commission, Messrs. W. R. Ely, R. S. Sterling and Cone Johnson, for about forty-five minutes just before noon Monday. A formal application for the highway designation was presented, bearing the endorsement of the Lynn and Lubbock County Commissioners' Courts, together with the approval of the chambers of commerce in the following towns and cities: Slaton, Lubbock, Tahoka, Lamesa, O'Donnell, Wilson, Lorenzo and Idalou.

No definite action on the project was taken by the highway commission, according to members of the South Plains delegation. It is hoped, however, that the route will be designated, they said.

Hello World
THIS IS STATION
S-L-A-T-O-N
Broadcasting Slaton's appeal to the patriotic home-loving women

The war on monopolistic chain interests, which, in the last analysis, if lost, must result in the impoverishment and financial surfdom of ninety-five percent of the country's population, makes of it the outstanding conflict in this nation's history from its birth to now.

Not a Government from the beginning of time has survived the righteous wrath of a financially enslaved people. This is a war of extermination; neither parley, compromise nor armistice has any place in its battle cry.

This is a woman's war on an INTOLERABLE CONDITION which, if allowed to survive, will be followed by SOCIALISM, BOLSHEVISM, ANARCHY, REVOLUTION and NATIONAL DEATH. Women had no part in bringing into the world this monopolistic monster of selfishness and greed, but in their innocent trustfulness they have permitted it to grow and thrive from the milk of their own bosoms.

This is a war where the shock troops, the supporting center, the flanks and rear guard must be drawn and enrolled from the ranks of the women ALONE.

THE WOMEN of this Republic hold in their keeping the purse strings to the FIFTY-TWO BILLIONS that go annually to the purchase of the necessities of life, as well as its luxuries.

THE WOMEN are the buyers of everything worn from Ermine and Sable Coats to Sunbonnets and Cotton Hose.

THE WOMEN buy everything we eat from Roasted Pheasant and Partridge to Cornbread and Cabbage. They buy everything our men use except bootleg liquor and chewing tobacco.

In the PURSES of the women lie every munition of war necessary for the winning of this fight.

In the PURSES of the women lie every munition of war that the ENEMY must have that HE may win this fight.

The one and only weapon the women lack is an INTELLIGENT UNDERSTANDING of the FAR REACHING CONSEQUENCES of this monopolistic piracy.

Public men in public office, and the press, should contribute to their education in this momentous matter. And on behalf of the women who DO NOT UNDERSTAND, we declare to those who will seek the glory and emoluments of public office from President to Constable, the slogan: "NONE GO ON GUARD EXCEPT HE WHO GIVES HIS ALL IN THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE FOR FIRESIDE AND HOME."

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that the chain store is a foreign owned profit collection agency for the benefit of a foreign owner.

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that they are annually dropping into the tills of stores FIFTY-TWO BILLION DOLLARS.

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that the THIRTEEN BILLIONS PROFIT on this sum they should keep at home, as they are blindly pouring the larger part of it into the bulging pockets of foreign greed.

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that every dollar in profits on their purchases in chain stores is a nail driven into the coffins of their own communities and homes.

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that the chain store is monopoly's burial plot in the graveyard of the nation's hopes.

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that the profits on what they buy from the chain interests ALONE would, in three years, pay off and wipe out the ENTIRE WAR DEBT of the Nation.

THE WOMEN MUST BE SHOWN that the chain store hog GIVES NOTHING, TAKES ALL; RETURNS NOTHING, KEEPS ALL.

THE WOMEN WHO UNDERSTAND MUST BE SHOWN that it is a part of their duty to teach the women who DO NOT understand.

In every great crisis in history, the gentle, but firmly righteous, hand of woman has been an instrument in its solution and she will NOT fail her country now. We know Slaton women will do their part.

WEATHER REPORT

Weather Observer G. H. Orr, has surely been off the job, in letting those other Observers up North put one over on him. He promised us some Spring like weather. We had it, with the temperature in the 70's, and the trees shooting forth their blooms and in some cases leafing. Well, squaw winter we have just had, with a fall of snow on Tuesday, which melted as fast as it fell. Wednesday morning the earth was covered with a very heavy white frost, with the temperature below freezing.

If you have any kick about this condition just see Observer Orr, and make your complaint to him, for he is surely to blame. Any way the sun is again shining, and we all hope the Observer will stay on the job for the remainder of the year.

Ferguson No. 406 Cotton

IS THE BEST YIELDING COTTON FOR THE CAPROCK

HAVING A HARD, STRONG BODIED STAPLE, BIG BOLLS, STORM PROOF AND HIGH LINTING

Desiring to render assistance to all cotton farmers, and particularly the customers of our gins, in getting the biggest and surest dollars out of their cotton crops, we have canvassed all sources of reliable information to get the BEST VARIETY of cotton for caprock farmers.

With the certainty of a 5-year average result from row-to-row tests by the State's Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock the variety having proven the best combination of qualities for:

HIGH AVERAGE FIELD YIELDS—HIGH GIN TURN-OUTS
—BIG BOLLS THAT ARE STORM PROOF—EARLY RAPID FRUITING AND A STRONG HARD STAPLE THAT CAN BE SOLD WITHOUT PENALTY, IS

from the Ferguson Seed Farms, of Sherman and Plainview, Texas. This variety has been successfully for many years on Farmer's farms in Terry, Floyd, Crosby, Hale and other caprock counties in the region of heavy cotton production. In the tests at the Experiment Station at Lubbock it has averaged higher yields than Half and Half and all storm proof—big balled varieties having a hard strong staple.

We have ordered one car to arrive next week and will place the seed with our customers on easy terms and pay a premium for the seed out of the crop as long as suitable for planting purposes. We want to use other seed in supplying our customers with first year reproduced seed, next year. We would be better off had we been growing this variety all along, as the government tests prove.

These seed are in sealed, branded bags of the well-known Ferguson Seed Farms, the oldest as well as the largest bona fides seed breeding, seed growing seed farm in the south and west. These are the originators “Regular Certified Pedigreed Seed and are fully tagged complying with the seed laws of Texas.

Lubbock Farmer and Wife Praise It

"Just Send 'em to Me About Orgatone, for This Medicine Is a Knockout," Declares Shelton.

East, West, North and South, all over Lubbock, Orgatone is the talk of the town. People by the thousands are now taking this famous medicine that is creating such a sensation at Bowen's Drug store and are reporting remarkable results in restored health, strength and energy.

Statements such as the following from W. T. Shelton, of 420 Avenue F, Lubbock, Texas, well known retired farmer while apparently amazing, are heard on all sides every day. In his statement of the remarkable results his wife has obtained from the use of Orgatone, Mr. Shelton says:

"Believe me, Orgatone is the best medicine that ever came to Lubbock—it's a knockout."

"I would not take $1000.00 for what the first bottle has done for my wife and she praises it every day and will continue to do so for many a day for it has put her in the best of health again."

"I tell you after every meal she used to bloat up with gas as tight as a drum and have sharp shooting pains through her stomach. It seemed that she couldn't digest a thing she would eat."

"Constipation caused her no end of trouble, and she was bothered with biliousness and felt sluggish and tried all the time. Her sleep wasn't any good either, and she just felt pretty much 'all in.'"

"Well, when she began taking Orgatone this medicine lost no time in getting right down to the roots of her troubles, and now it has fixed her up so she can eat whatever she pleases, and lots of it, without a trace of gas pains, stomach cramps or indigestion afterwards. Everything agrees with her now and she sleeps good, feels good and is in A-1 condition in every way."

Chevrolet announces A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its nation-wide dealer organization are pleased to announce a new and broader service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written and signed agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

- 1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate with maximum efficiency from the very first mile of ownership.
- 2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.
- 3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.
- 4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.
- 5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes definite proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

As a result, Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as increased economy.

wealthy bank-
ret Leferre, immediately after he has money to let him have
of it, to pay
immediate obligations, explaining that she married to get revenge for the deed of her brother Rex, who she believed, ruined by Maddison, ready in love, knows that she is a woman who had forged her name to a large sum. He goes out into the London streets to think things over and a crook named Lewing whom he had once done a favor, the Joe Connors gang attacked him, killing Lewing and injuring Maddison to the hospital, he is unconscious for two days. On recovery he finds he is born there as "Smith." He determines to keep that name, trusting to his newly-grown beard for protection. The Connors gang apologizes for their mistake in attacking him by providing a room for him. There he meets Jean Morell, who asks him to drive her for her. He does this and finds himself unwillingly involved in a jewel robbery.
Margaret, believing Luke has gone to Spain, discovers that she really loves him and returns to his bankers all the money he had given her, retaining only an income for living expenses. She is about to start for Spain to look for Luke when Dan-ton Morell, an old friend of her father's, calls. Morell is astonished to learn that she has given her money back. While Morell is in her apartment Gunner yells. Haynes is an American crook who has been in time for a jewel robbery.
He tells her that Luke once did her a favor and asks her if she owns Danty Morell.
Luke, learning that the police are looking for a bearded man who drove the car in which the jewels were taken away, saves himself by his mustache and learns incidentally from his sister that Danty Morell is well known in the underworld as a confidence man and crook. Before he recovers from his surprise at this discovery, two men burst in on him. One is Verdi, a member of the Connors gang, and the other is Curly Smith, recently arrived from Australia.
Verdi resents Luke's use of the name of Smith. A fight follows in which Luke throws both men out.

She was not shocked; it was too tremendous a discovery to produce emotional phenomena of the commonplace kind. She accepted Luke Maddison, banker, burglar, hold-up man, companion of questionable ladies, with the calmness of a scientist who had happened upon a new and interesting discovery.

Here was an immense happening.
To display anger or humiliation would be absurd. One has no regard for a sense of decency when fleeing from an earthquake and its tumbling walls.

She went to bed; and such is the serenity of a resolute mind that she slept dreamlessly. In the morning while she was sitting at breakfast came Inspector Gorton; she listened calmly to his confession of failure.

"The fellow ran like a hare. He must have been a trained athlete," he said. "I'm pretty sure now that he is the fellow who was knifed in a gang fight in South London. Lewing was killed."

"Who was Lewing?" she asked.
Gorton shrugged his broad shoulders.

"Nobody in particular, although he gave his name to a gang. The real leader of that crowd is a gentleman named Danty Morell—though he hasn't taken any very active part."

She had put down her cup. He saw how white her face was.

"Danty Morell? You don't mean
Mr. Danton Morell who lives in Half Moon Street?"

Gorton smiled.

"Perhaps I oughtn't to have said that, but I thought Mr. Bird had told you. You know Mr. Bird? I hope you don't know Mr. Morell!"

"I know him very well," she said; her voice was steady and she was smiling. "But you may rely on my discretion, Inspector—I feel almost like a Scotland Yard officer myself."

She had her hands folded in her lap so that he could not see how they were trembling.

"He may, of course, have turned over a new leaf," said Gorton, uneasily conscious that he had said the wrong thing. "Some of these fellows do. I know there's been no complaint against him at the Yard for a very long time. Morell isn't his name, of course—I forget what it was, but the Sparrow—I mean Mr. Bird knows.
Wonderful fellow, Danty! He can talk the hind leg off a donkey. They say he's the cleverest confidence man that ever operated in Europe. Perhaps he's made enough money to retire."

Danton Morell! How had she come to know him? She tried to trace back the friendship. Of course, it was her brother—her poor brother—who had introduced him. Rex knew so many queer people. She trusted him—she had trusted Danty. She had believed him implicitly, believed him when he told her that Luke had hounded her brother to his death, believed him when he had produced that pitiable note written on two small sheets of notepaper—that at least was genuine, for she knew her brother's writing.

She was viewing a new world, or viewing it from a new angle; and somehow she was able to cope with problems which the day before would have terrified her. Of that new gift she was unconscious—she could only feel the effect.

During the hours which Luke Maddison had spent in his prison house, it was curious that he should think so little on serious topics. He was face to face with death in its most hideous aspect—it was impossible to mistake Connor's intention—and yet for the main part his mind was occupied by the veriest trivialities. If he thought of Margaret at all it was only in a detached and impersonal way and to find an explanation for her presence with the police at his flat that night.
She must have had the key; the police went to her—but why?

Two blocks of rock salt were put on the floor under Luke's legs, and with a knife one of the men scooped a deep depression in two of the corners. The other blocks were laid on top. Connor lifted the heavy chain, wound it carefully around and around the salt, fastening the last two links with a piece of wire.

They discussed their grisly work without emotion.

"You want to be careful it doesn't slip over his feet, Harry," said Connor. "Tighten that chain a bit—not too tight or you'll break the salt."

At last it was finished and Connor straightened his back.

"Get that old plank to lay him on," he commanded, and the bigger of the two walked to the door and pulled it open.

Connor saw him start back and his face wrinkle.

drawled, his thin lips curling in contempt. "You're dropping him in the river, of course, and the water will dissolve the salt, the chains will fall off, and the cerdiet will be 'Death from misadventure.' What a pity!"

"What's the pity, Gunner?" asked Connor.

"That I happened to butt in," said Haynes. "Who's the victim?"

"There's no victim," said Connor loudly. "This poor fellow is ill and we are taking him off to the hospital."

The Gunner nodded.

"I thought you might be pickling him," he said, shook his head and repeated: "Ingenious but not original.
No marks of violence on the body, nothing to show that he didn't drown, as people do drown, by accident. I'm sorry to have spoiled your amusement, but you'll have to let him go."

"Why?" asked Connor.

"Because," said the Gunner deliberately, "I'm in it! You don't catch me as accessory before, after, or in the fact of murder. It's not my graft, Connor. Remove that interesting apparatus."

Connor smiled. His hand dropped quite naturally out of sight below the level of the table.

"If you pull a gun on me," said the Gunner, not a muscle of his lean body moving, "I'll shoot you through the stomach. It'll take you five days to die, and it's a very painful death by all accounts. I shall then go out and explain to the police why I shot you, and there will be no flowers from Scotland Yard."

One of Connor's assistants moved a step toward him.

"Look here, Gunner—" he began,
mildly enough.

Haynes' fist shot out so swiftly that the man could not counter the blow.
He went down with a crash. The Gunner stood motionless, watching.

"Both hands in sight," said Haynes.
"Lay 'em on the table, Connor."

He had no weapon in his hand, but none knew better than the livid man on the other side of the table how quickly the Gunner could draw, with what devilish accuracy he could shoot.

"What's the fuss?" he growled.
"This bird doesn't mean a thing to you."

"Unlace him," smiled the Gunner.
"I'm sorry to butt in, as I said before."

"What did you come here for, anyway?" asked the other savagely.

The Gunner looked up at the ceiling.

"I forget exactly," he said untruthfully. And then: "Who is this man?"

"Man named Smith. He squealed on me tonight, and then tried to carry it off with a tale about being a banker —he's got a nerve! Luke something or other."

Gunner Haynes bent down and peered into Luke's face.

He recognized the sleeping man instantly.

"Luke something or other, eh?
Where did you pick him up?" As he spoke he beckoned one of the men.
"Take that chain off," he said.

chief, but Connor nodded.

"The trouble with you, Gunner, is that you will interfere with other people's graft. If you want to know who he is, he did that job today in Bond Street."

He related "Smith's" biography; Gunner Haynes knew that he was speaking the truth. He was puzzled, but not greatly. He had lived too long on the seamy and shadowy side of life to be surprised at anything.
Men had lived double lives before; but this was the kind of double life which Haynes thought belonged to the realm of imaginative novelists. A banker who amused himself in a smash-and-grab raids was wildly fictional—but possible.

There might be, he thought, a woman somewhere in the background.
Where women touched life, the inexplicable became almost daylight clear.

"What are you going to do with him?" asked Connor, as the man stooped and with scarcely an effort lifted the unconscious Luke onto the chair.

The Gunner did not answer the question. Instead, he propounded one of his own.

"Have you any slush in this place?"
he asked and saw a look of alarm come into the impetuous face of the other.

"Slush?" said Connor quickly. "No —why should we? I don't deal in that kind of stuff."

"No forged French banknotes?" The Gunner shook his head in anticipation of the answer.

"What do you mean, Gunner?"
A smile lit up the saturnine face.

"You asked me why I came here, and I'm telling you. They're raiding your place tonight. I only got to know it an hour ago. I thought I'd come along and tell you. I don't know why, but that's my nature—helping poor crooks!"

He saw the three men glance at one another, and the alarm in Connor's face was patent.

"We had a parcel over from Paris the other day," he said uneasily.
"Harry, get it up."

He looked at the huddled figure of Luke.

"You're making a big mistake about this bird," he said. "You let him get into the hands of the police, and he'll put up a squeal that'll make you deaf!"

Stooping, the Gunner put his arm about Luke Maddison and lifted him bodily. He turned and strode through the door, down the narrow passage, and into the wretched yard. He had already located Connor's van, and he was on the point of hoisting his burden into its interior when he heard a stealthy scraping against wood. It was the sound that a man makes when he is climbing—somebody was getting over the gate.

He sat Luke on the ground, propped him against a wall, and went noiselessly toward the entrance of the yard.
Stooping to get a skyline, he saw the head and shoulders of two men above the gate. It was enough; he need see no more.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE AMERICAN FARMER

Why does the American farmer produce more every year with less labor and on fewer acres? Harken to the answer of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

He knows more about his soils and plants and animals.

He is in a better position to combat pests.

He knows how to apply his labor more efficiently.

He is using more fertilizer.

He is feeding his livestock better.

He selects and plants better seed, breeds and feeds better animals.

He is, in fact, a more efficient person than he was last year and the year before, and he seems likely to be more efficient every year from now on. Why? Because that's just the kind of farmers this country has.

Ships at sea are supposed to slow down in fogs, but automobile drivers with their minds in a fog keep driving just as fast as ever.

OW GO ON WITH THE STORY
She was stumped, bewildered; she could only shake her head in feeble protest.
"It couldn't have been the same man," she said at last.
"Do you know him—the fellow who was here?" The detective looked at her keenly.
"No, no," she said hastily. "I only thought... It would be such an extraordinary coincidence."
"I've got an idea Mr. Gorton knows him." The detective shut the door behind her as she walked out of the room. "I heard him telling the sergeant that he might be the fellow who was killed the night a man named Lewing was killed. If that's the case, he's only been out of the hospital a few days."
The officer smiled some money; with great firmness and she reached her taxi. She was relaxed, when she reached
