McClung School Term Ends With Special Program

Closing programs for this year's term of school at McClung were held Friday and Friday night. In connection with the closing, a special program was held Friday afternoon dedicating the new $7,000 auditorium and gymnasium which has recently been completed there.

Dinner-on-the-ground was served last Friday at noon, and a large crowd of McClung people were present, and several Slaton people were there, including J. H. Brewer, president of the First State Bank; Mel Thurman, Slaton photographer; Rev. I. A. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church; Rev.W. F. Ferguson, Baptist pastor here; and L. A. Wilson, secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

The dedication program was held at 2 p. m. Rev. Ferguson made the dedication address. Rev. Smith gave the invocation, and a short address was made by Mr. Wilson. McClung school pupils had charge of several numbers on the program. Superintendent P. O. Smith was chairman of the meeting.

A photograph of the school buildum was finished. after noon Friday. In the picture the entire crowd attending the program was included. A special cut is being made from this pictpre and will appear in next week's issue of this paper, along with a detailed account of recent progress and improvements in the McClung school.

EDUCATING THE BODY

It will be news to many of our readers that Texas now has what is called a physical education law, which goes into effect September 1, 1930. Section 1 of the Act sets forth "that instruction in physical education shall be established and made a part of the course of instruction and training in the public elementary and secondary schools of the State." In calling this new law to the attention of school superintendents, State Superintendent Marrs calls Civil War. attention to the fact that the time aley. Small lowance and subject matter to be creditors, taught is left to the State Department and to school superintendents. the same He also, under the latitude allowed by the Act, suggests that the title 'Health and Physical Education" be used to describe this new school activity. We especially wish to approve Superintendent Marrs' action in reading "health education" into the law.

The intent of this law is excellent -"to develop the system of the iny is grown dividual through physical activities; m. If properly utilized, her coal, oil, natural gas and water-power will give her a tremendous advantage over New England-that of cheap power with which to transform her raw materials into the finished article. By saving the freight charges from New England to the Southern States, our factory owners would prosper, our laborers could be well paid, and our section would grow wealthy.

The difference in climate between our section and the Northern States gives the average family in the South and Southwest a decided advantage in the cost of clothes and fuel, to say nothing of the saving in building construction.

MOTHER'S DAY

What a wonderful word "Mother", what sacred memories hover around this name. Sunday, May 11th, has been set aside for the proper observance, those that have departed we ionate feeling. It is Mother that sacthoughts are for mother.

We are going to ask every reader of the Slatonite, whether man or three hours, carrying 85 to 150 buwoman, boy or girl, to make Mother shels at a load without having to wait happy on Mother's Day. A telegram for the road to dry out a letter-a bouquet of flowers-a box of candy-some little remembrance will make her happy.

But be sure to send something. And er here. To those readers, we want crops can be done in sixty days work Mother-and make her happy on Mother's Day.

The reward will be two fold-Her happiness-and YOURS.

M is for the million things she gave

O is only that she is growing old T is for the tears she shed to save me, H is for her heart of purest gold E means everything she's done to help me.

THE "NO-CREDIT" TOWN From the Star Telegram. May 3

Bloomfield, Neb., a town of 1600 people, has become nationally known hopelessly tied to the soil. as the town where everybody pays as he goes. There is no such thing as THE NEXT FORWARD credit in the stores at Bloomfiled. It is spot cash or C. O. D., and the plan is said to be successful. The "no-credit" plan has been in effect now for two years, and spokesmen of the town say everybody is satisfied.

Bloomfield is a typical town of year-round, all-weather, Northeastern Nebraska's fertile corn roads. belt. Prosperous farmers live in the territory surrounding the town, and figure in the "agricultural problem" which is worrying the Nation. But Yet the farmer pays seven per cent of Bloomfield's claim to distinction lies the total road tax. in the cash basis system. "frozen credits" threatened to close it up. The merchants and business men got together and decided to stop credit selling. The determination "saved" the town, says R. D. Wilson, president of the Retail Merchants' Association. Credit has its vital uses in industry and commerce. One of the least vital $1.50 ways in which it is generally used is in the purchase of necessaries-food, clothing and shelter. These are things which everyone must purchase at regular intervals, and all the time. Credit in respect to some of these purchases has been found by many to serve their convenience. Here it is useful, but not vital. We wonder how this would work in Slaton.

With the extension of electric service into smaller and smaller communities manufacturing industries are spreading over the country, so that the time may come when nobody who wants to work in industry will have more than a dozen miles to trayel between farm and factory. When that time comes farmers will specialize on single crops adapted to their localities and individual tastes, and work in town a good part of the year. Cooperative marketing organizations will attend to the shipping and selling, perhaps also the harvesting of the crops. The American farmer, already the most independent of men, will be still farther removed from the European peasant road building to provide farmers with is needed. quick outlets to their markets, would be of inestimable benefit to agriculture. It would promote community, and national welfare, open up new territory and relieve traffic on congested main highways.

The farmer, as one of our foremost axpayers, and as a representative of the most necessary of all industries, deserves a road system which is sec ond to none. A new era of rural life has come into being, through the use of automobiles, telephones, electricity tractors and other time and labor sav ing agencies. Good farm-to-market roads should be the next great forward step.

WHO SHALL REDUCE?

boost his production, make more bales, bushels or tons and thus increase his health. income.

But when other farmers make the same attempt the result is increased production and a low price to all. Thus, the effort of the single farmer is nullified. He has worked harder, perhaps increased his expenses but has not increased his income.

In the reduction of acreage, as is called for this year with cotton, the individual farmer must carry his part of the responsibility. In no other way can the acreage be reduced.

Each grower must answer to him self for the acreage he plants. He has the legal right, perhaps the moral right, to plant just as much as he wants to or can. But if the acreage of cotton in 1930 is above the danger line, if too much is produced and if the price is too low, the responsibility will rest squarely on those who dedown on the acres planted.

The acreage of cotton in Texas and Oklahoma has been increased faster than in other states, excepting possibly Mississippi. If we, in the western belt, do not reduce the acreage we cannot expect it to be reduced else-

The maximum acreage of cotton that should be planted in 1930 is put at 40,000,000. It can safely be re duced even below that. Without doubt it would be safer to plant only 35,000,000 acres and give that good care. An average yield on 35,000,000 acres would result in 12,000,000 bales of cotton. With our holdover that would almost insure a fair price. But a high average yield on 40,000,000 acres may well produce over 15,000, 000 bales and 15,000,000 bales is sure to sell at a low price this fall.

The acreage harvested in 1929 was 46,000,000 acres. To reduce that 6, 000,000 acres calls for a 13 percent reduction, or a reduction of one acre out of eight planted last year. But

Political Announcements Rotarians Hear Convention News And Have Debate

A report on the 41st district convention of Rotary, held in Temple, April 23 and 24, was given last Friday at the Slaton Rotary Club luncheon. Will P. Florence made the report, he having been the club's delegate to the Temple meeting.

A debate followed this report, the subject being "Resolved That the Recent Bond Election for a New County Jail Should Have Carried". C. C. Hoffman, Jr., spoke for the affirmative and T. A. Worley, Jr., defended the negative.

The program for Friday of this week will begin with a song by the club, followed by a discussion of "Results of the Recent Naval Conference in London; How it affects the United States", by T. E. (Rod) Roderick.

Various members of the club will be called upon to state their opinions about the best articles in the April issue of the "Rotarian" giving reasons for their choice.

There were no visitors at the meeting last Friday. Four members were absent, all of whom are expected to
