Uncle Ananias says that experience is what you have left after everything else is gone.

We find that we enjoy life more if we avoid the company of well-informed company.

Although we have no access to statistics, our general opinion is that insanity is on the increase.

People who are eager to give a square deal usually get one in return.

An onion breath is good protection against infection by a spring cold.

"To the familiar costs of war one more would be added; we should have to sign away our liberties while the war lasted, and we might never get them back."—Elmer Davis, in Harpers.

There has been an ominous quiet in Europe lately. But with Spain under Fascist control (only a miracle could save the government now, as Franco, buttressed by Italian-German troops, supplies and finances, moves nearer Barcelona) the cause of European democracy becomes steadily graver—and the position of the dictators steadily stronger.

And now comes the proposal from an automobile manufacturer for the government to spend $100,000,000 buying up and scrapping $1,000,000 old automobiles, on the theory that the automobile industry employs one out of every seven persons, directly or indirectly.

The idea is no different than paying farmers for not raising crops, plowing under cotton, destroying young pigs, buying surplus farm crops, etc. But it's pretty hard for the older school who were taught to save and produce, to get used to the new idea of spend and destroy.

Well, folks, we're in a pretty predicament. Thimetime between thimeth and thurth thome thif broke into our printing office and thole all of our etheth. Tho, we'll juth have to thet thith thory without any etheth and hope you can read it.

We cannot imagine what anyone could want with a whole lap-full of etheth, but they're gone and it ith nearly preth time.

We came into the office a thinging a thong and trying to think up thomething to write an editorial about. Well, we that down on the thool, picked up the thick and tharted thetting type, when all of a thudden we found the eth box empty. All gone! Everyone of 'em! Thombody must have wanted to embarath uth. Tho, we tharted thinking. Thuddenly we hit on the thumart idea of uthing "TH" for each "ETH." Theemth thertur thilly. Maybe ith. Who knowth?

It maketh (now we know how the Bible got ith peculiar thyle) uth think about that nurthery rhyme about thipping thider through a thraw. Remember? "And when by chance that thraw did thlip, I thucked thum thider (I'm getting the habit) from her lipth. And now I have a mother-in-law, from thucking thider through a thraw." And they lived therraply ever afterwarth.

How about Thimple Thiman, who was a plemant going to the Fair? Thimple Thimbon to the plemant "Come by and thee me thumtime."

We thing it with a thupid thunt to thal our etheth. We hope our thuthrberth can can thucceed in deciphering thith thungular epithle. We waxed werry wroth at firth, but our anger thoon thubthided. We thaw the hamon of the thituation and thidided to make the beth of it—if pethible—and it themmth ith wath. Mith of the above ith thurepethent, but it thure ith fun while it ketheth.

Bob Burns Cast In Lead of Epic "Wells Fargo"

Bob Burns, the Arkansas drawler who has made millions laugh in pictures and on the radio with his droll stories about the folks back home, goes serious for the first time in "Wells Fargo," which opens Sunday at the Palace Theatre for a two day run.

Cast with Joel McCrea and Frances Dee in the leading roles, Burns plays the part of a philosophical frontier character who helps McCrea break the first trail from St. Louis to San Francisco in the early days of the Gold Rush. It's a new Burns—in "coon-skin" hat and leather jacket and, according to reports from Hollywood, a greater Burns.

Burns' entry into the august ranks of the screen's great players comes a little more than a year after his entry into pictures. For years a vaudeville and carnival actor, Burns was discovered in New York by Bing Crosby when the latter was casting for "Rhythm on the Range." Burns was given a comedy role in that picture and "clicked" immediately.

OUT FOR SHERIFF Social Security

Tax Explained

Holcomb Gives Answers to All Tax Payers

T. E. (CHIEF) MAY

Mr. T. E. May, candidate for Sheriff of Lubbock County states that he was:

"Born in Alabama, came in to the Indian Territory when just a lad and served as United States Deputy at the age of 18 years for quite a while.

"I came to Amarillo in 1905; was engaged in ranching and farming in New Mexico and Texas for several years.

"I came to Lubbock in 1922 and worked for Hodges Bros. before I was Chief of Police in which capacity I served for several years, resigning to enter other business of my own accord. My record as an officer is an open book to the people of the City of Lubbock and Lubbock County."

Ellis Announces for Re-Election As County Treasurer

In Mr. A. B. Ellis' formal announcement in our paper he states to the Citizens of Slaton and vicinity:

"When I announced some weeks ago that I was a candidate for reelection to a second term as County Treasurer, I did so with the full knowledge and satisfaction that I had discharged the duties and responsibilities of the office, faithfully and conscientiously, or a little more than half the term to which I was elected.

"I have not been away from the office for more than two or three days during that time. In asking the people of Lubbock County to re-elect me to another term, I am presenting (to my mind) three good reasons for so doing; first, on my record in handling the business of the office to this date. Second, it has been a Democratic custom to re-elect an official to a second term, when and if he has rendered satisfactory service during the first term. And third, which is not important to the public, "Believe it or not" I "need the business." With one term's experience, most assuredly I am better qualified to serve a second term with greater efficiency.

"As most of the pioneer citizens of Slaton know, I came to your city with my family to make our home in June 1911, living there until the Spring of 1912, and after coming to Lubbock in February 1915, have been identified with its growth and development.

"As it will be impossible for me to see more than a small per cent of the voters, I am making this a personal appeal for your votes and consideration, for which I shall ever be grateful. In conclusion I wish to express my deep appreciation for the fine vote you gave me in 1936."

"As it will be impossible for me to see more than a small per cent of the voters, I am making this a personal appeal for your votes and consideration, for which I shall ever be grateful. In conclusion I wish to express my deep appreciation for the fine vote you gave me in 1936."

Spring Football Practice Started

Thirty-five boys have reported to spring training. All these boys are experienced and have 3 and 4 more years in school. Coach Hamilton is teaching them the fundamentals of football, blocking, tackling. Hamilton said that about half of these boys knew how to put on a football uniform, but that they were learning and will be good men with lots of hard work.

Each day these boys report to the Coach for 45 minutes of skull practice. Here they learn the rules of football, and talk and study football as they would study any subject. They will be given tests and three awards will be given for the highest grades.

Mr. M. L. Holcomb, Claims Examiner of Lubbock, answers the following questions to clarify the Social Security for all persons paying the tax.

Question: My employer deducts a Social Security tax from my pay check. Does this make me eligible for unemployment compensation if I lose my job?

Answer: The tax your employer deducts from your pay check is to pay Old Age Insurance tax. That tax is paid by both you and your employer and is collected by the Federal government. If you retire at 65 or thereafter, you may draw monthly amounts from the fund made up of these payments.

The Unemployment Compensation tax is paid only by the employer and is collected by both the Federal and State governments. Unless your employer pays this tax, you are not eligible for unemployment benefits if you lose your job.

Q. What is meant by "covered" employment?

A. That employment in which the employer is liable for Unemployment Compensation taxes and the employee eligible for unemployment benefits, is called "covered" employment.

Q. Do all employers pay an Unemployment Compensation tax?

A. No. Only employers who have eight or more employees during portions of each of twenty weeks in a calendar year have to pay this tax. Also, certain occupations such as domestic labor, agricultural labor, and other classes are exempt.

Q. Are all employees eligible for unemployment compensation if their job is lost?

A. No. Only employees of "covered" employers are eligible. Also they must have earned enough salary to equal sixteen times the amount of their weekly unemployment benefits.

Q. What is meant by "benefits"?

A. "Benefits" or "compensation" means the check the eligible unemployed man or woman receives weekly from the Unemployment Compensation Commission during unemployment periods. Roughly, this check will equal one-half of the unemployed man's former weekly wage with a maximum payment of $15.

Q. What is a "work record"?

A. Every three months your employer, if he is "covered" under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act, will send a statement of your job and wages to the Unemployment Compensation Commission at Austin. He will also pay a tax on your wages every month. This information will be placed under your name and Social Security Account Number at the Commission and constitutes your "work record," to be used as reference in case you apply for unemployment benefits. The length of time you have been employed and the salary you have drawn will determine the amount of your weekly unemployment benefits and the number of weeks you can get them. If you don't have a work record you can get no benefits.

Q. I got my check for benefits several days later than I was supposed to have it. When it got to me, it was almost time for me to have another check. What caused this delay?

A. Unemployment compensation benefits are not paid in advance. After the waiting period is ended, a claimant must show he is still unemployed by filing a continuing claim with the Texas State Employment Service. The Employment Service sends the claims to the Unemployment Compensation Commission in Austin where the man's name and the amount of his benefit check is placed on a payroll list and sent to the Comptroller's Department. There the checks are prepared and then returned to the Unemployment Compensation Commission to be mailed. All of these operations require on the average about seven days from the time the continuing claim is filed until the check reaches the claimant.

Why... an Oil Polish?

And here, home-makers, is why: The oil element in polish is absolutely essential to all fine wood! For the same reason that we oil machinery—water our plants—massage cream into the face—is oil polish used! The same principle applies—for wood definitely requires this attention to keep it "alive!" The best oil polish has a fine, non-greasy oil base—and it is just this—when rubbed or massaged into the furniture—that prevents the wood from checking, drying out, splitting or cracking. Furniture will not do any of these things, when cared for—and it is the combination of the "oil" and the "rubbing" that prevents it! For the quality oil-polish "feeds" the hungry finish—keeps the wood young! Other polishes may give a quick, easy-to-achieve luster—but a little time and energy (it should not be labor) on the part of the housewife, will pay dividends in the looks and long life of her furniture and woodwork. All experts agree that an oil polish properly used (apply on damp cloth—as directed) is not only better—it is vital! And so, home-makers, take this important tip: Always use an oil polish—and the best one!

AROUND THE HOUSE

Tasty Applesauce.—Applesauce made out of tasteless apples may be enlivened by adding a little nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves, or adding lemon juice for tartness. But if the sauce has a fresh apple flavor, such extra seasonings are unnecessary—in fact, they will blot out the apple's own flavor.

Storing Food Oils.—Store oils, such as olive or vegetable, in the refrigerator. They are likely to become rancid when opened unless they are kept chilled.

When Cooking Eggs.—In cooking eggs and egg dishes temperature is most important. When the protein in egg is heated it coagulates or becomes firm. If this heating takes place slowly, evenly, at a moderate temperature, the eggs will be tender when they are done. But with high temperature the protein in them shrinks and makes the eggs tough.

To Remove Gum.—To remove chewing gum from fabrics, rub with ice and the gum will roll off and leave no marks.

Cooked Pineapple for Gelatin.—Only cooked pineapple should be used with gelatin in desserts or salads, for fresh pineapple contains a substance that acts on the gelatin and does not allow it to jell.

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbances. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for April 17

THE VICTORIOUS SERVANT (Easter)

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:22-36. GOLDEN TEXT—This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses.—Acts 2:32. PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter's First Sermon. JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter's Greatest Sermon. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Winning with the Victorious Christ. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Risen Christ Our Hope of Victory.

"Up from the grave He arose With a mighty triumph o'er His foes; He arose a Victor from the dark domain, And He lives forever with His saints to reign; He arose! He arose! Hallelujah! Christ arose!"

Let the glad chorus swell the good tidings that the One who humbled Himself to become the servant of all is the "Victorious Servant"—yes, the Victorious Lord! Easter is the great holiday—a real holy day of the Christian church. We rejoice in the incarnation, for only as the Son of God identified Himself with the human race could He bear our sins on Calvary's tree. We keep the cross before us, for only as He died did He make atonement for our sin, but above all we observe the resurrection, for had He not risen for our justification we would indeed have been without any hope. Ours is a resurrection faith; let us live it in resurrection power.

Life is so serious in its responsibilities and burdens, so often disappointing in its trials and sorrows, that we need to sound the note of victory. But it must be real victory and it must be assured at the crucial point where all the hopes of man find defeat—at death. Only the Christian has the assurance of victory there, but, thank God, he does really have it in our Lord Jesus Christ.

Turning aside from our studies in the Gospel of Mark for today we consider together the sermon of Peter on the day of Pentecost. He declares Jesus to be:

I. Approved by Mighty Works (v. 22).

Theories may have validity only to the man who accepts the authority of the one who proclaims them, but facts are stubborn things, the reality of which no man can deny. There are those who speak about the Lord Jesus as though we asked them to accept Him on the basis of our claims for Him as the Son of God. They forget the facts of history—from the hundreds of years before His incarnation when the prophets spoke of His coming, down through the account of His earthly life, death, and resurrection to which we may well add the inescapable argument of Christianity as it stands in the world today—all speak of Him as the Son of God.

II. Delivered Up to Die (v. 23).

The cross was not an accident. Jesus did not die as a martyr to a noble but hopeless cause. He came into the world "to give his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:28). He said, "I lay down my life . . . No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again" (John 10:17, 18).

But the fact that the cross was in the eternal plan of God in no way justifies those who slew Him. Though they were fulfilling the divine purpose, they were acting as free moral agents fully responsible for their wicked deeds.

III. Raised Up by God (vv. 24-32).

"It was not possible that he should be holden" of death (v. 24)—what a beautifully final and positive statement. It was an impossibility that Christ should remain in the grave, and it is the absolute assurance of Scripture that we who "be dead with him shall also live with him" (II Tim. 2:11). To the believer, the one who is in Christ, the resurrection of the Saviour is the guarantee that we shall be raised. Christ is the first-fruits of them that sleep in the grave. (I Cor. 15:20.)

Peter in his sermon turns to the Scriptures to prove the resurrection referring to the prophet Joel as well as to the Psalms of David. It would be well for us to do likewise on this Easter Sunday of 1938, for we have infinitely richer resources, for in our hands is the New Testament with the story of the resurrection and all the references of the epistles to this glorious truth.

IV. Ascended and Exalted (v. 33).

"Look, ye saints! The sight is glorious; See the Man of Sorrows now; From the fight returned victorious. Every knee to Him shall bow; Crown Him! Crown Him! Crowns become the Victor's brow." "He humbled himself . . . Wherefore God hath highly exalted him" (Phil. 2:8, 9). Read Philipians 2:5-11 as a fitting close to this glorious lesson.

Gaining Knowledge

Strange Facts

No Such Thing As a Tree

TREES are the oldest things on earth. You have seen hundreds of them. They grow in great abundance in all but a few sections of the United States. Yet there is no such thing as a tree as a matter of scientific classification.

This oldest living thing gives us not only shelter, food and heat, but such a strangely wide variety of products as clothing material, furniture, paper, rubber, dyes, chewing gum, rosin, turpentine and alcohol. Because trees provide for so many of man's needs and because they live for hundreds, sometimes thousands of years trees have figured in the folklore and religions of many nations. The Algonquin Indians and the early peoples of Scandinavia both believed that their ancestors were descended from an ash tree. To the early inhabitants of England and Italy the oak tree was sacred.

We use the word tree to refer to the giant sequoias and redwoods of California, we use it to refer to the great oaks and beeches of America and Europe and to the slender palm and the little fig tree. But as a matter of scientific classification there is no such thing as a tree because the word may be given with equal accuracy to any plant ten feet tall that grows with a singly woody stem and lives more than two years.

THIS "MAKIN'S" TOBACCO STANDS MIGHTY HIGH IN THE SOFT-BALL LEAGUE!

Dick Mansfield shows Marty Fiedler how quick and firm this "crimp cut" tobacco rolls up into a simply grand cigarette

AL VAN CISE (with bat) is up next. "Watch me do my stuff," he tells Bob La Comb (right) and Sammy Shack (front). "After I go in there and knock out a homer, I'll be back for another of those good-tastin' P. A. smokes. They've got the good full body a real 'makin's' smoke should have. There's no harshness to Prince Albert 'makin's' cigarettes. They're cool and smooth, no matter how many I smoke." (And Prince Albert is America's favorite pipe tobacco.)

Administration Makes Great Concessions to Save "Dictator" Bill . . . Senate Gets Tax Measure Built to Aid Business

Members of the house of representatives were swamped with telegrams from citizens all over the country urging that they vote against the administration's reorganization bill which, it was feared, would pave the way to an American dictatorship. Above is seen Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York, a leading foe of the bill, reading some of the messages he received.

Tumult Over Reform Bill

WHEN President Roosevelt returned from Warm Springs he found that a crisis confronted the administration forces concerning the reorganization bill pending in the house and that there was danger that the opposition to that measure would defeat it. He called to the White House a number of leaders, and it was decided to push the bill through with a minimum of concessions. Representative Sam Rayburn, majority leader of the house, told the President it would pass with amendments to which he had agreed. One of these would enable congress by concurrent resolution to override any reorganization proposition the President might put through. Another would exempt the bureau of education from the scope of the bill.

Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, one of the leading opponents of the measure, admitted it probably would get by with the concessions offered, but said he would vote against it even if the title alone remained. He and practically all other members of the house were flooded with telegrams and letters urging that the bill be defeated. Even after passage by the house, the measure would have to go to conference and many days or weeks of debate could be expected there. Eventual enactment of the bill was to be expected but the probability was that it would then have lost most of the "dictatorship" features which seem so repugnant to many thousands of American citizens. The popular opposition had not been lessened at all by the President's action in making public a letter to an unnamed friend in which he disclaimed any intention to become a dictator and asserted he has none of the qualifications that would make him successful in that role.

"Help Business" Measure

WHAT Sen. Pat Harrison called the "help business" measure, being the revenue bill as rewritten by his senate finance committee, was submitted to the senate. Though Harrison said he expected its speedy passage, others believed at least a full week of debate would be necessary. Sen. Charles McNary of Oregon, minority leader promised to support the bill, saying, "I think it is a great improvement over the house version. I am in favor of speeding its passage to help business."

The three chief matters in controversy were: Administration opposition to elimination of the undistributed profits tax and drastic modification of the capital gains and losses tax. A proposal by Sen. James P. Pope of Idaho to attach as a "rider" to the tax bill an amendment to impose $212,000,000 of processing taxes on manufactured cotton, synthetic fabrics, rice, tobacco and wheat. Amendments by Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin to broaden the tax base.

Further south the rebels were almost to Tortosa and their vanguard was actually within sight of the Mediterranean sea. All along the Catalonian front the government troops fought desperately, but it seemed their struggle was hopeless and observers believed the war was nearing its end.

Sloan Hits Government

ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., chairman of the board of General Motors, reported to the stockholders that the corporation's earnings for 1937 were lower. And he declared that the government's policy toward business had caused a lack of confidence which was largely responsible for the business recession.

Man Is a Sponge

Our bodies are like water-logged sponges, for we carry water to the limit of our capacity. A human being is more than two-thirds water, and this proportion must be maintained, if health and strength are to be preserved. There is enough water in a person weighing 150 pounds to fill a 15-gallon barrel. Muscles, liver and kidneys are about 80 per cent water, the brain 85 per cent. Even bone is made up of more than one-third water, so you can see that the old adage "dry as a bone" is not strictly accurate. No cell can function unless it is constantly bathed in fluid. Furthermore, the cells depend upon water to transport their foods through the blood. This alone requires ten pounds of water in constant circulation.

We may term these functions an incoming service. But it is equally important as an outgoing stream. The cells need water to flush away their waste products. And if the surface of the lungs is not kept moist, there can be no intake of oxygen, no output of carbon dioxide.

Without water, no waste would be carried out of the body. Poisonous substances would remain to wreck the system within a short time. Water flushes the countless channels of physical existence—even while we sleep, for it constantly passes from the body through the lungs and skin, as well as through the bowels and kidneys.

Bigger Dreadnaughts

UNITED STATES and Great Britain advised each other that they would invoke the escalator clause of the London naval treaty and would build dreadnaughts larger than 35,000 tons. The British also notified Germany and Soviet Russia of their decision. Both nations based their action on Japan's refusal to disclose her naval construction plans. France, third signatory to the treaty, announced she would continue to adhere to the 35,000-ton limitation "so long as no continental power departs from that standard."

Secret hearings on the $1,100,000,000 naval expansion bill were begun by the senate naval affairs committee, with Secretary of State Hull and Admiral Leahy, chief of naval operations, as the first scheduled witnesses. Chairman Walsh said open hearings would be held later. Opponents of the administration's "big navy" program are rather numerous in congress, though probably in the minority. One of the most consistent of them is Senator Clark of Missouri. Commenting on the invoking of the escalator clause concerning battleships, he said: "It is just the preliminary announcement of a world-wide naval building race."

The maneuvers of the United States fleet were transferred from Alaska to the equator for the second phase. In the "battle" for possession of the Hawaiian islands the fleet lost eleven flyers and three $100,000 bombing planes.

Loyalist Spain Split

SPANISH insurgents are, at this writing, near the accomplishment of Franco's great objective, the splitting of the territory held by the loyalists in the eastern part of the country. They captured the ancient city of Lerida, known as the key to Catalonia.

Further south the rebels were almost to Tortosa and their vanguard was actually within sight of the Mediterranean sea. All along the Catalonian front the government troops fought desperately, but it seemed their struggle was hopeless and observers believed the war was nearing its end.

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses WATER--the Elixir of Life

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

OF ALL the elements required to support life and maintain health and efficiency, water takes precedence. Without it, the protein, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins, which build and repair tissues, provide motive power for the body engine, and regulate the complex processes necessary to existence would be utterly useless.

Water is the magic stream through which all nutritive elements are carried into and through the body and there held in suspension. It is the ever-ready messenger which distributes heat, moisture and body-building material, and as it is needed.

Man is a sponge. Our bodies are like water-logged sponges, for we carry water to the limit of our capacity. A human being is more than two-thirds water, and this proportion must be maintained, if health and strength are to be preserved.

There is enough water in a person weighing 150 pounds to fill a 15-gallon barrel. Muscles, liver and kidneys are about 80 per cent water, the brain 85 per cent. Even bone is made up of more than one-third water, so you can see that the old adage "dry as a bone" is not strictly accurate.

No cell can function unless it is constantly bathed in fluid. Furthermore, the cells depend upon water to transport their foods through the blood. This alone requires ten pounds of water in constant circulation.

We may term these functions an incoming service. But it is equally important as an outgoing stream. The cells need water to flush away their waste products. And if the surface of the lungs is not kept moist, there can be no intake of oxygen, no output of carbon dioxide.

Without water, no waste would be carried out of the body. Poisonous substances would remain to wreck the system within a short time. Water flushes the countless channels of physical existence—even while we sleep, for it constantly passes from the body through the lungs and skin, as well as through the bowels and kidneys.

Where do we get all this water? When we are thirsty, we take a

WE OFFER A New Food Department

All the accumulated knowledge and experience of C. Houston Goudiss, the man who for 30 years has exerted a wide influence on the food habits of this nation, are now available to homemakers through the series of articles now appearing in this newspaper. These discussions are as fascinating as fiction, as up to date as tomorrow, and, above all, authoritative. For no matter what aspect of food is under discussion, C. Houston Goudiss knows whereof he speaks.

His work has been a devotion to the study of food, both from the productive and the manufactured standpoint. He believes that better food means a better nation. Sharing these views, we have secured him to assist in carrying out our aims—to be the best available guide in the most important of all matters that affect the homes of the readers of this newspaper—for health, happiness and prosperity depend first of all upon food.

Every homemaker will want to clip these articles, and save them. She will find them invaluable aids in keeping her family properly fed.

drink and there the interest of most people ends. Few individuals give proper consideration to supplying the body with all the water it needs. Yet, when the water content of the body diminishes, health and life are in danger. A loss of 10 per cent of body water is a serious matter and a loss of 20 per cent is usually fatal.

It is only in rare instances—such as when lost in a desert—that man actually dies of thirst, for even when no fluids are drunk, water is consumed with food. But all about us we see men and women suffering from the effects of water starvation. Some indications of this are dryness of the skin and lips, mucous membranes and scalp. There is also danger of damaging the kidneys which require water to flush away the acid products of metabolism. And very often constipation can be traced to a deficiency of water, which is necessary to soften the contents of the intestinal canal.

None of these ill effects may be feared if you take enough water.

How Much Is Enough?

A healthy, normal individual requires about four quarts of water every 24 hours. That requirement varies somewhat with the season. In hot weather there is a greater elimination of water through perspiration and that loss must be replaced.

However, it is not necessary to drink four quarts of water a day. For part of our needs are supplied by food. The body draws upon three sources for its water: First, water taken as a drink or in other liquids; second, water supplied by foods, especially fruits and vegetables, for although solid foods appear dry, most of them are in fact from 75 to 95 per cent water; third, water formed in the tissues in the combustion of fuel foods. Fat gives the most water when burned. In fact, it produces more water than the weight of the original fat. Sugar gives the least.

Foods Rich in Water

A half-pound potato contains nearly a full glass of water. Some other foods that are more than 70 per cent water are asparagus, berries, string beans, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cucumber, eggs, citrus fruits, cherries, grapes, melons, apples, raw and cooked greens, milk, onions, cooked green peas, boiled potatoes, sauerkraut, shell fish, meat steams, tomatoes and squash.

Foods containing less than 30 per cent water include butter, cakes, candies, ready-to-eat cereals, crackers, dried fruits, nuts, potato chips, sausage, bacon, syrups and zwieback.

Avoid the Dry Habit

In addition to the water consumed with food, every normal individual should drink about six glasses of liquid daily—as water, milk, coffee, tea or other beverages.

Most people drink far too little water. Women often have the mistaken notion that water will make them fat. To demonstrate the fallacy of this idea, a world-famous physician once remarked that if that were true, poor people would long ago have adopted the practice.

It is possible to drink too much water and those who are suffering from disease should be guided by their physician in determining the amount required. But most normal people could increase both mental and physical efficiency by taking more of this magic fluid.

Drink Water with Meals

The question is often asked—"Is it wise to drink water with meals?" The answer is "Yes."

Have You a Question? Ask C. Houston Goudiss

C. Houston Goudiss has placed at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods, diet, nutrition, and their relation to health. You are also invited to consult him in matters of personal hygiene. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for postcard inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address C. Houston Goudiss at 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

There is evidence that the drinking of a reasonable amount of water with meals by normal individuals stimulates the secretion of gastric juice, thereby improving digestion. It has also been demonstrated that it aids in the absorption of food by the body and retards the growth of intestinal bacteria.

The homemaker should be just as conscientious in providing her family with sufficient water as with adequate amounts of the other food substances. For water must be included in the list of essential food constituents. It is in truth, the ELIXIR OF LIFE.

Questions Answered

C. D. L., Jr.—Pyrorrhea seems to be associated with a mild vitamin C deficiency which has gone on over a long period of time. To obtain adequate amounts of vitamin C, you should eat plenty of citrus fruits, tomatoes, strawberries and raw, leafy vegetables, such as cabbage.

Mrs. S. T. R.—Answering your question as to what is the most efficient time to begin reducing—the proper time is when the weight first begins to climb above normal. Most people wait until they are 20 or 30 pounds overweight and then reducing becomes more difficult.

Miss T. P. G.—Yes, there is a stimulant in cocoa that closely resembles caffeine in coffee. But a cup of cocoa contains less of the stimulant than is found in a cup of tea or coffee.

Mrs. A. R. M.—No, milk is not fattening. Women especially fear that milk will increase their weight, but this fear is not justified, since a pint of milk, or two large glasses, only supplies 340 calories.

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L. C. ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken and bull-headed father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls for the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mille High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunfire. Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment.

During the days that followed he held his friendship back from her. At times he was choleric, at times sullen and distant. Ruth was sorry, because she was aware of his desire for a reconciliation. She guessed that her attention to his wants and her apparent humility were a reproach to him. Since she had a sense of humor, she chuckled over the situation.

"I'm a deceitful little scamp," she told her brother Frank, who had heard the story from Dan Brand. "I'm not half as humble as I was at first. Here I go around as if butter wouldn't melt in my mouth whenever Father is about, and really I'm beginning to think it's sort of fun."

"Hmp!" Frank snorted. "I can tell you someone who won't think it's fun if I meet him."

Ruth's bright eyes snapped. "Don't you dare touch Lou Howard, Frank Chiswick. If you do—"

She left her threat in the air, feeling it stronger not completed.

Ruth was riding circle above the rimrock. She had come out with her brothers and the other vaqueros to round up the yearlings for the Broderick order.

She had combed the ridge above and was coming down an arroyo thick with prickly pear. Her brother Bob had been with her, but he had bolted down a neighboring draw after a small bunch of high-tailing stuff. For the time she could take it easy. Blue Chip had done his full share and was entitled to a breathing space.

Ruth pulled up abruptly. In front of her a pebble had rolled down a steep bank to the path. From the little rock her eyes traveled up the incline down which it had come. Stones sometimes start downhill from force of gravity; more often they need an impetus to set them in motion.

Above the top of a bisnago she saw a Stetson hat, beneath this a brown, sardonic face.

"Buenos dias, senorita," a cool voice drawled.

The girl stared at the owner of that voice, the man who had called himself Jeff Gray.

"What are you doing here?" she asked, and answered her own question: "You are lying in wait to kill my father."

He slithered down the scarred slope, to face a little revolver that had somehow jumped to her hand.

"We'll talk about that," he said, a smile on his face.

To Ruth it was a hateful smile, one that mocked confidently the picture of feminine ferocity she made.

"We'll talk about nothing," she cried, anger aflame in her eyes. "You light out of here, you dirty killer, or I'll call my brothers."

"Why would I want to kill Lee Chiswick when I had never seen him before?" he asked, paying no attention at all to the weapon in her hand.

"For money," she told him contemptuously. "His enemies sent for you to do the murder they were afraid to do themselves."

He shook his head. "I'm a stranger here. I don't know Howard or any of his crowd. Besides, that gang doesn't need an outsider to do its bushwhacking. They have plenty of bull-rattlers right in their midst."

"Why are you arguing about it?" she burst out stormily. "Didn't I see you shoot him? Didn't you run close to try to finish the job?"

"No," he replied quietly. "What d'you mean, no?"

"I mean you didn't see either one of those things. You just think you saw them."

"You talk like a fool. A dozen men saw you. Smoke was coming out of your gun while you were running forward."

"So it was. I'll ask you a question. How many shots were fired before your friends turned loose on me?"

"Two. You fired twice. What has that got to do with it?"

"A whole lot. I fired once. Question is, Who fired the first shot?"

"I don't know what you're talking about." She pushed his argument aside impatiently with a wave of the hand. "All is, you're a liar as well as an assassin. I warn you to get out of this country. I'm going to have you hunted down like the wolf you are."

"Use yore brains, girl," he urged. "Four men were standing within ten feet of yore father. If I had shot him, would I run up and give them all a crack at me?"

"The answer is, you did. Three of them were friends of Sperm Howard. Maybe you expected them to help you." A wave of fury boiled up in her. "I'm not going to discuss anything with the villain hired to murder my father. If you don't get out of here I'll—I'll—"

Still his smile did not go out of commission. "What will you do?" he asked politely.

"Get out of my way," she ordered, and gave Blue Chip a touch of the spur.

The horse went up in the air. Gray caught the bridle, perhaps to quiet the animal, perhaps because he could not get out of the way.

Ruth never knew how it happened. The revolver in her hand went off. Instantly she knew the man had been hit. He dropped the rein and staggered back. Blue Chip plunged down the arroyo.

The rider of the horse dragged it to a halt and turned. She had dropped the gun during the wild dash down the draw and she dismounted to recover it. Pulling herself to the saddle again, Ruth rode back to the spot of the encounter. Her heart was beating wildly. She had shot a man. Perhaps she had killed him.

"We'll talk about that later."

He was climbing the rubble slope to the bank where she had first seen him, and he was making bad going of it. One leg dragged.

She stopped in the bottom of the trough below him.

"It's your own fault for snatching at my bridle," she told him.

He said, with cool effrontery, "You did almost as bad a job as I did at Tail Holt."

"The gun went off."

"My leg is telling me that. Did you come back to finish what you began?"

"I carry it for rattlesnakes. I didn't mean to—"

"Not for wolves?" he inquired pleasantly.

"Are you hurt—badly?"

He saw she was frightened. The bark of the revolver had for the time driven away anger.

"I reckon I'll make out," he answered.

"Is your horse back there in the brush?"

"You can tell yore father it's even steeper now," he drawled.

She swung down from Blue Chip and climbed the bank. "I'll help you get up," she told him in a small voice.

"Good of you, Miss Chiswick, to help a hired killer."

He accepted her aid. After a struggle, during which the wounded leg collapsed under him once or twice, they reached the top of the bank.

Gray whistled. Out of the brush trotted a long-barreled roan.

"Where are you going? Who will look after your leg?" Ruth asked.

"I'm wondering about that," he said.

"You can't go back to Tail Holt, unless you are Sperm Howard's man."

"Tail Holt is out."

Ruth thought swiftly. She dared not take him to the ranch-house, especially now that her father was holding himself unfriendly to her. How serious the wound was she did not know, but he could not let him try to ride as far as Tough Nut. He might never reach the town. An idea jumped to her mind.

"There's a line-camp in the rim-rock not far from here," she explained. "Old Pat Sorley is staying there now. He is close-mouthed, and he will do as I ask. And he's a pretty good doctor too. You can hole up there for a week and not be seen by anybody except Pat. After today our riders will be out of the rimrock. I'll take you there. We'd better hurry, so that I can get back before I'm missed."

He pulled himself to the saddle. "You're heaping coals of fire on my red head," Gray said sardonically. "Let's get going, girl."

Ruth went back to Blue Chip, mounted, and put the horse at the easiest part of the slope. The cowboy clawed its way up like a cat, the muscles of its legs standing out like heavy ropes.

"We don't want to meet anybody," the girl said. "Better swing off to the right."

"You're the caporal of this outfit," he told her.

She led the way into the chaparral, guiding Blue Chip through the mesquite and the cholla with an admirable economy of motion.

They crossed the mesa and dropped down into a gulch which took them through the broken rimrock to a point where they looked down on a wide valley below. Ruth turned to the left, picking a way among the boulders and working up again into the rimrock along a cow trail. This dipped sharply, at a fault in the ledge, to a small park containing four or five acres. This was so completely hidden that nobody could have suspected its existence from the contour of the country.

A corral of thorny ocotillo lay at their feet. Close to it was a barn built of sahuaro poles and mud. The cabin nestled against a rock wall that bounded the far side of the park.

The girl and the man wound down into the little mountain valley and crossed to the cabin. Someone stood in the doorway and watched their approach.

Pat Sorley was a little old man with a wrinkled face like a map of Ireland. At sight of Ruth he twisted it to a grin. They were the best of friends. His hands were in his pockets and there was a clay pipe in his mouth.

Ruth waved at him. He took one hand from a pocket and the pipe from his mouth.

"It's glad I am to see you, Miss Ruth," he said.

"I've brought someone to stay with you, Pat," the girl told him. She turned to the guest, a touch of cool insolence in her voice. "You said your name is—"

"Still Jeff Gray," the man said in his soft, mocking drawl. He understood that Ruth Chiswick was going to make it clear to the line-rider he was no friend.

"Mr. Gray has been hurt," she said. "I want you to patch him up and keep him hidden here until he can travel."

"Hidden who from?" Pat asked.

"From my father and my brothers and any of our riders."

"And what for would I be doing that?" Pat asked bluntly.

"Out of Christian charity," Gray murmured ironically. "I'm supposed to have taken a crack with a six-gun at Lee Chiswick in Tail Holt the other day."

Pat bristled. "You've got a nerve telling me that." He turned to the young woman. "I'll be listenin' to anything you've got to tell me, Miss Ruth."

"He's wounded," she answered. "Let's take care of him and do the explaining afterward, Pat."

"There's sense in that," Pat did not know how much or how little of what this fellow had said was true, but he did not intend to be the victim of his derision. "Better get that brindle thatch down and let's see what's ailing you," he said crustily.

Gray eased himself gingerly out of the saddle. "Got a pill in one leg." He hobbled into the cabin.

"Go ahead and fix him up," Ruth said. "I'll tie the horses back among the rocks."

"What is this fellow?" Pat asked. "Some kind of outlaw on the dodge?"

Ruth shook her head. "I don't know." She ignored the presence of Gray in her answer as completely as Pat had in his question. "We'll talk about that later."

She turned away with the horses. Ungraciously Pat set to work doctoring the wound. The bullet had passed through the thigh close to the surface and missed the artery.

"Ought to heal up nice," Sorley grunted.

CHAPTER IV

Turning to Ruth, Sorley said, "I don't know where he got this wound or anything about him, be gory, but what I say, is that if he's the bird shot at the old man at Tail Holt I'll see him in Jericho before I'll let him stay here. He can put that in his pipe and smoke it, be-dad."

Ruth nodded. "I know how you feel, Pat, because that's the way I feel myself."

"What's to keep this buckaroo, soon as his leg gets a little better, from going up to the ranch some night and taking another crack at your dad?"

"That's what I'm afraid of," she admitted.

Jeff Gray sat on a homemade chair with his wounded leg resting on another. He volunteered no assurances of good behavior.

"Looky here, Miss Ruth," Pat urged, "we'd ought to tell Lee or one of the boys he is here, especially if you are sure he's the fellow you think he is."

"I know," Ruth's face wore a troubled frown. "Only . . . I shot him."

Pat dropped his pipe to the floor. It shattered into fifty bits. "The devil you say! Beggin' your pardon, Miss."

"I don't know how it happened. Blue Chip was jumping around, and he got in the way. I didn't mean to do it."

"An innocent bystander hit through an unfortunate accident," Gray suggested.

"What was the fellow doing around here?" Pat asked accusingly.

"I was on my way to the L. C.," explained Gray. "Wanted to have a little talk with Chiswick."

"Wanted to shoot him, you villain."

"I'm one of these victims of circumstantial evidence," the crook-nosed man drawled. "Someone takes a crack at Chiswick, and I'm unanimously elected as the guy."

"We saw you do it—half a dozen of us," Ruth cried.

"Just what did you see?" the accused man asked.

"After you had shot you ran forward to finish Father, and the other men there fired at you and drove you away. What's the use of denying it?" she cried hotly.

"Not much use, is there?" he said evenly. "If I told my story you wouldn't believe it."

"No, I wouldn't. It would be all lies . . . But tell it."

"Much obliged, Miss Chiswick. I reckon I'll keep it under my own hat."

"What story could you tell? Father was wounded. We saw the smoke coming from your gun as you ran forward."

"That's correct."

"So you must have been the man."

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington. — "I see Jimmy Byrnes is going to reorganize the government," commented another Southern senator after studying the various roll calls on the reorganization bill.

It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of the service the South Carolina senator rendered the White House in leading the fight for this bill. Up until a few weeks before the final roll call the whole measure had been considered dead. It was believed that the senate would agree with the house in giving President Roosevelt his six additional assistants. But it was never dreamed that the senate would vote to abolish the office of comptroller, which has proved such an effective check on illegal spending, and the whole purpose of which is to make sure that before money is paid out, the purpose for which it is to be paid is in clear accord with the language of the law.

Nor was it dreamed that the senate would hand the veterans' bureau over to White House control.

Several factors contributed to the change. Most important, probably, were the secret promises made—nobody knows how many. These promises included, it is assumed, a good lame-duck job for Senator William H. Dieterich of Illinois, who is headed for retirement by the Illinois Democratic factions despite the most slavish devotion to the President, even extending to reversing his stand on the leadership battle last year between Senators Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Army Engineers Win

High up on the list also should be the astuteness which caused Senator Byrnes to have the army engineers specifically eliminated from the powers granted to the President. It just happens that the army engineers are the most efficient bunch of lobbyists in Washington today. They have been since the Anti-Saloon league passed into its present slough of despond, and probably will be so long as congressmen have the right to appoint cadets to West Point. The engineers are old friends, politically, socially, and in the distribution of pork, with the senators and representatives. They did not want to be changed around. They did not want their functions transferred to some New Deal agency such as TVA, or the proposed department of public works. They like it the way it is, and that's the way it is going to stay.

Another big reason for the President's victory was the mounting tide of opposition to the New Deal taxation ideas. It became necessary, because of pressure from home, reinforced by the business depression, for a number of senators to oppose President Roosevelt on his tax ideas, specifically on his pet tax on undistributed corporation earnings, and also on the capital gains and losses tax.

That would be all right, but some of them had opposed the President also on the court packing issue, and some figure they must oppose him on some other issues also. Altogether, they were in danger of getting branded as anti-Democratic, in danger of having the Jim Farley-built New Deal machines back candidates against them in their next primaries.

So probably enough senators to turn the tide were forced into the "Yes" column on the reorganization bill by this question of regularity alone. Especially as it is common knowledge in Washington that on a secret vote the reorganization bill would have been overwhelmingly beaten.

Robert on the Spot

Lawrence W. ("Chip") Robert, Jr., secretary of the Democratic National committee, and one of the most ardent Southern supporters of the administration, is in a dither as a result of President Roosevelt's speech snubbing Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, and virtually inviting Governor E. D. Rivers to run against George.

"Chip" is on the spot. He is not only a loyal friend of the President, and almost a pal of Governor Rivers, but he is an enthusiastic admirer of Senator George. In fact, despite the Georgia senator's resurgence on the Supreme court issue, and on reorganization of the government bureaus, departments and commissions, friends of the two say "Chip" thinks Walter George just about the best qualified man in the Democratic party to take the place of President Roosevelt when Roosevelt steps out, whether that be in 1941 or 1945.

The terrible part of it all, from "Chip's" point of view, is that he arranged this particular party, set the stage for the dramatic denouement that followed. But "Chip" had a very different climax in mind. In fact, it was scarcely a climax he wanted. What "Chip" wanted to arrange was a public reconciliation, so to speak, among his three friends, President Roosevelt, Governor Rivers, and Senator George. All he hoped for was a few kind words from each about the other two, which would give the Georgia folks the impression that all was harmony in the party—that Roosevelt was for George, that George was for the renomination for governor of Rivers, and that Rivers was for Roosevelt and George.

He talked a good deal about his hopes, did "Chip." He persuaded Senator George, very much against the senator's will, to make the trip, and also—which was not particularly against his will—to say some complimentary things about Ed Rivers.

Spilled the Beans

The mere fact that George was riding on Roosevelt's train, and appearing with him on the platform, "Chip" thought, would be enough. It really did not make any difference if Roosevelt failed to say anything particularly friendly. The appearance would be enough.

But Roosevelt, to "Chip's" chagrin, and to the enormous embarrassment of the George lieutenants, lashed out on the wage and hour scales in the South, and, on top of that, after assailing the forces of special privilege, turned smilingly, to Governor Rivers and told the crowd their governor understood his aims and was fighting shoulder to shoulder with him.

Which every one within sound of his voice interpreted as an open invitation to Governor Rivers to run against Senator George in the senatorial primary this fall, and run with Roosevelt's active support!

The timing was deadly. "Chip's" maneuver had been timed too, right after most of the George Democratic leaders figured they had everything straightened out, with George to be unopposed for senator and Rivers unopposed for governor.

Now, word from George holds, Rivers is almost sure to run against George. Rivers will be counting on the enormous popularity of Roosevelt in Georgia, demonstrated by a number of local votes last year when referenda were held on the court issue.

Speech Pleases Some

President Roosevelt's comments about the exploitation of labor by the South's "feudal" system naturally strengthened him with the elements he must have to retain the New Deal in power for the four years beginning in January, 1940, whether he runs for a third term or succeeds in naming his successor.

Indignation among many of his ardent supporters in the house and senate will not do any harm to that particular objective. There will be just one effect that Mr. Roosevelt will not relish, and even if he had calculated this also in advance, it probably would not have deterred him.

This one effect will be to strengthen every Southern senator and member of the house who has been independent, and make it much more difficult for any one to raise the cry of "anti-Roosevelt" against them. For example, it would help renominate Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, and Senator Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith of South Carolina, if their opponents make this issue. Both these senators come up this year in the states where the election is unimportant as the primary decides everything.

But, as stated, if he gave any thought to this at all, Mr. Roosevelt might reasonably calculate he would not be able to beat either of these senators anyhow.

But Maryland is a much more interesting story. Senator Millard E. Tydings has been a thorn in the White House side for years now. In fact, it surprised the folks in Maryland—and Washington—somewhat when Tydings actually made speeches for Mr. Roosevelt in 1936.

Would Boost Welles

Every time any issue comes up which involves a fight between the conservative Democrats and the White House, Senator Tydings is right with the antis. Privately, the President has been trying to give his undersecretary of state, Sumner Welles, a boost from time to time. Welles was born in New York, having become a resident of Maryland only in recent years, but he has cherished, and not very secretly, an ambition to represent Maryland in the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt occasionally visits him at Oxen Hill, his gorgeous home in southern Maryland. During the 1936 campaign Mr. Roosevelt used Oxen Hill as a meeting place for all the Maryland Democratic leaders.

But though a very divided state, Maryland has always had pronounced Southern leanings. It has direct commercial connections, and an extraordinary sentimental tie with the South. In fact, it probably was more shocked at the scolding the President gave the South than any other particular Southern state.

So that speech by the President in push Mr. Tydings out of the senate, or to push Mr. Welles into the American house of lords.

Rockingham House, Gen. Washington's Headquarters, Has Been Restored

Rockingham, the rambling 10-room Colonial house, where General George Washington received word of the treaty of Paris that concluded Revolutionary war hostilities, has been restored to its original appearance after scores of years in disrepair. Ten thousand dollars in state and federal funds went into the project, notes a Rocky Hill (N. J.) correspondent in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Under the sponsorship of the WPA and the Historical Sites Commission of New Jersey, this eighteenth-century landmark, located a half-mile from Rocky Hill community and four miles from Princeton, has come into its own. The building has been completely renovated while the two-acre plot on which it stands has been landscaped to enhance the natural beauty of the spot.

Sheltering many historic relics and documents, Rockingham is steeped in the history of significant days of the Revolution. It was here in the "blue room" that General Washington wrote his farewell address to the Continental army and it was here that he conducted all of his correspondence with Governor Clinton concerning the evacuation of New York city by British troops.

On the long, double-decked veranda of the structure Washington delivered his farewell address to a handful of troops retained at what was then his headquarters. Rotted flooring has been replaced in the porch and several new pillars have been put in to bolster the sagging framework.

Washington last stayed at Rockingham in the ebbing days of the war, from August 24 until November 10, 1783. On November 2, 1783, he composed his farewell speech in the "blue room," delivered it first from the veranda and later at West Point where the army was finally dismissed.

Do you want to SAVE MONEY?

The Standard Ford V-8, with 60-horsepower engine, gives you a lot of car for a little money.
300,000 new owners acclaimed the “thrifty 60” last year. Hundreds a day are buying it in 1938. Why?
Because it is priced low—includes essential equipment without extra charge—and goes farther between filling stations than any Ford car ever built. Owners all over the country report averages of 22 to 27 miles on a single gallon of gasoline.

But economy isn't all the story by any means. The Standard “60” is built with the same precision as the De Luxe “85,” and has the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis. It is easy to look at and ride in —as well as easy to buy and run. There's a Ford dealer near you.
