YANKS MAY GET IT

Congress has made a pretty respectable appropriation for a cotton laboratory to be set in the South and to try to find new uses for our greatest single crop. It seems that Senator Cotton Ed Smith of South Carolina claims to have thought up the idea, and consequently claims that the laboratory should be located in South Carolina. Naturally we are just like that only different. We think it ought to be located in Texas. We could easily give two good reasons for our choice and not duplicate the reasons a hundred others might advance. Oklahoma has joined her voice to that of Texas and in favor of Texas. But even at that those Yanks up there in Carolina may get the cotton laboratory.

MUST BE A-FOOT

Abernathy must have some deep, dark sorrow in her life. We had always thought of our neighbor up the road a little piece as a nice little town with a depot, and a post office and a cheese factory and schools and churches and progressive business men and Buford Davenport in the Abernathy Review. All that, and being located in the middle of a cotton and grain and wheat and dairying and sheep country ought to be an ideal set up. You'd think there would be a lot of good men sitting up at night wanting to be mayor of a city like that. But no. That is the very thing that makes us suspect there is a shadow over the life of our neighbor. News dispatches tell us that Mayor J. D. Norman served last year but won't any more. J. M. Gardner was elected for this year, but he won't qualify. That leaves Mayor Norman serving until his successor is elected and qualified. And to show that Norman is going to get out, he has called a special election to fill his place. We guess Abernathy is afoot.

MISEDUCATED

It is a good thing that it is occasionally true that what you don't know doesn't hurt you. We have made it this far in life thinking, as we have frequently heard, that if we'd dig right down through the center of the earth we'd come out in China. Thus if we'd ever started to do such a thing we'd have taken a thermos bottle of ice water and some straw sandals to be properly equipped for the climate and country. A superficial inspection of a geographical globe this week shows us that we would by far better take a boat with a supply of rations and fuel, for if we should get out straight down on the other side we'd be in the middle of the Indian Ocean about a thousand miles from Australia or Madagascar or the Antarctic mainland. We must have been miseducated.

WE GUESS NOT

When Theodore Roosevelt organized the Bull Moose party everybody could understand that it was organized so Theodore could run for president. Of course there were some principles involved and all that, but the main principle was that the Republicans wouldn't let "Teddy" run for office. Now Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin has started what he hopes will be a third party in the United States. There have been third parties before, but unless the Wisconsin product is it, there is not one in America today that is any threat. We are doubtful of the practical value of the plan to nationalize money and credit, which seems to be the most radical of his proposals. We like best of his proposals the statement that "socialism" is not the way out, and his definition which tells us that what he means by socialism is a plan to reward everybody equally without regard to their contributions to society. From this should follow that "Private business and private capital must be afforded opportunities to go to work. When people spend their own money, they are careful to get their money's worth." We don't know whether Governor Phil aims to run for president, but if we had two guesses, we'd guess (see A WEEK AT A TIME pag 4)

A. V. Weaver Is Candidate for County Judge

Lubbock Lawyer Long Time Resident of Area

A. V. Weaver, Jr., has announced his candidacy for the office of County Judge of Lubbock County. Mr. Weaver is a well known lawyer of Lubbock, having lived there for about twenty-seven years. In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Weaver said:

"I am asking the voters of this county to elect me solely on my merits. I believe that my legal education at the Law School of the University of Texas, where I received the degree of Bachelor of Laws, together with five years as an actively practicing lawyer, qualifies me for the position. I am not obligated to any 'machine' or political organization and there will be no strings on me if I am elected.

"My decisions will be based solely on the law and on the evidence as adduced before the jury. It is my contention that the facts found by a jury of honorable men are not to be disregarded by the judge in rendering judgment; new trials are costly to the parties and to the county and should not be granted simply because one side has lost. In case of manifest injustice, as where one party has been unable to present his side of the matter, then justice requires that a new trial be granted. But a court is not placed for favoritism.

"To those of you who voted for me in the last election, I again express my gratitude and ask your continued support. To those who voted for some one else, I ask your careful consideration of my qualifications, and I satisfied that I will make you a good judge, earnestly request that you cast your vote for me and good government. I thank you."

Mr. Weaver is president of the County Bar Association, formerly served as Secretary and Treasurer of that body, and is a former student of Texas Technological College.

Plains Rains Are Great Benefit

Rains Are General Over This Area

Tractors will sputter and purr in the cotton fields of Lubbock County this week. Mules and horses that have waxed fat, and perhaps lazy, in the winter and early spring will sweat as thousands of bushels of cotton seed are strewn in the rich furrows put into perfect condition for planting by the rains of Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Adequate subsoil season was already in the ground, according to all reports, but some moisture at the surface was anxiously awaited until the precipitation of this week. Now with the season and the warm weather we may expect at this time of the year, cotton will be planted with every expectation of its quick germination. The rain was general over the South Plains, and Lubbock County got varied fall from one-half to one and one-half inches.

Some scattered planting had been done before the rain, but little cotton is up and a very little feed is peeping above the ground. General prospects are promising and better than the average for this season of the year.

HUGE LOANS ON WHEAT
Bumper Crop Makes These and Acreage Reductions Probable . . . Wage-Hour Bill to Be Passed

Congresswoman Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, chairman of the labor committee, affixes her signature—the first one—to the petition which was signed by 217 other house members to force house consideration of the revised wage-hour bill. With Mrs. Norton are, left to right, Congressmen R. J. Welch of California, J. Burrwood Daily of Pennsylvania, Arthur Healey of Massachusetts and Edward Curley of New York.

Wheat Loan Program

ONLY a major crop disaster like a nation-wide drought can prevent the United States from having the largest supply of wheat this summer in the country's history. Consequently the Department of Agriculture is preparing to announce a huge wheat loan program designed to prevent prices from falling to extremely low levels. Under the new crop control act loans are mandatory if the 1938 yield exceeds domestic needs and estimated export needs, which are put at about 740,000,000 bushels.

At the same time Secretary Wallace, as head of the AAA, was contemplating the prospect of asking the wheat growers of America to make the heaviest reduction in plantings ever proposed. This reduction may be as much as 37.5 per cent. Growers who this season planted approximately 80,000,000 acres would be asked to reduce their operations to about 50,000,000 acres—the smallest since before the World War. Allotments then would be 12,500,000 acres less than for 1938.

Government estimates place the crop at between 925,000,000 and 950,000,000 bushels. The winter wheat estimate is between 740,000,000 and 750,000,000 bushels while the spring wheat crop is expected to reach 200,000,000 bushels.

Added to this will be a carry-over of 150,000,000 bushels or more from last year's crop of 874,000,000 bushels. The total supply is expected to reach an all-time high of approximately 1,100,000,000 bushels.

In addition to the loan program, Secretary Wallace will move to bolster the market through the new government crop insurance program. Already a campaign is under way to "sign-up" farmers for wheat insurance.

The insurance program is expected to remove about 50,000,000 bushels of wheat from the market through farmer payments of premiums on 1939 wheat insurance. The government will store this wheat in elevators for future indemnity payments to insured farmers.

Officials of the AAA expect that reduction of acreage will stir up protests from wheat growers similar to the current revolt in the corn belt, and among the cotton and tobacco farmers of the South. Concessions already have been made to the Southerners, and the AAA people said some "minor adjustments" in corn acreage allotments were planned. The revolt in the Middle West, however, was growing steadily under the leadership of the Corn Belt Liberty league, now incorporated in Illinois.

When and if wheat acreage allotments are made, farmers can comply with or ignore them, but only those who comply will be eligible for maximum federal benefit payments and wheat loans.

Crop Report Birthday

ON THE day it issued its May crop report, the Department of Agriculture celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the government crop reporting service. The names of the oldest living crop reporters were inscribed on a roll of honor, and the ceremonies were witnessed by a group of veterans of the service who were invited to Washington by Secretary Wallace.

The crop reporting service was started in May, 1863, by Isaac Newton, first commissioner of agriculture, appointed by President Lincoln in 1862. The first report was prepared on the basis of reports from 2,000 farmers in 21 states. Today reports are based on returns from 200,000 voluntary reporters.

President Returns

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT returned to Washington from his ten-day fishing trip not only brown and well but highly elated. There was reason for his elation for the political tide in the capital had turned in his favor. The successful revival of the wage-hour bill in the house demonstrated the waning opposition among southern Democrats, following closely on the renomination of Senator Pepper of Florida, who defeated Congressman Wilcox, an opponent of the Roosevelt bills to enlarge the Supreme court, to reorganize the executive government and to control wages and hours of labor. The $5,000,000,000-pump priming bill seemed assured of passage with only some earmarking of funds to which the administration has no serious objection.

Mr. Roosevelt resumed work by calling Secretary Hull to the White House presumably to discuss the Nye resolution to lift the arms embargo against Spain. He then held a legislative conference with Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leaders Barkley and Rayburn and others. It was believed they considered resumption of the drive for enactment of parts of the President's program that have been defeated or delayed.

Wage-Hour Bill to Pass

WHEN 218 members of the house of representatives signed the petition to discharge the rules committee from consideration of the administration's wage-hour bill it became virtually certain the measure would be passed by the house on May 23. Chairman Mary T. Norton of the house labor committee and other proponents of the bill predicted it also would be approved by the senate, but admittedly it faces a bitter fight there, for the southern senators are angered by the omission of differentials favoring the South.

There is a chance that they can organize a filibuster and prevent passage before congress adjourns. Opposition in the house crumbled suddenly and there was a veritable stampede to sign the petition forcing the measure to a vote. Mrs. Norton was first to put her name on the paper, and 217 other members rushed forward to get on the band wagon.

The 218 signers were divided by parties as follows: 182 Democrats, 23 Republicans, 8 Progressives, and 5 Farmer-Laborites.

In its present form the bill provides for minimum wages of 25 cents an hour to be raised to 40 cents an hour over a three-year period and maximum hours of 44 a week to be reduced to 40 hours in two years. It would be administered by the Labor department and enforced by the Justice department. It carries no differentials between the different sections of the country.

Davies to Belgium
JOSEPH DAVIES, wealthy lawyer, was nominated ambassador to Belgium by President Roosevelt. Davies will be transferred from Moscow which he and his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Post Hutton Davies, found boring because of the lack of social life among the soviets.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Meeting Francesco Malipiero at a party in the Royal Danielli in Venice, soon after the World War, I thought he was one of the most charming and brilliant, and, at the same time, most cryptic men I had ever seen. There was in the company another Italian musician, a famous conductor, who was the lion of the evening. I have forgotten his appearance and his name, but everything about Signor Malipiero is vividly remembered.

On the way home in a gondola, I asked the conductor for an appraisal of Signor Malipiero as a musician. There was considerable concision in the reply.

Malipiero was gifted but erratic, it was even hinted that he was "unsound," in some deeply subversive sense. But my Virgil eagerly agreed that the signor was a most extraordinary human personality.

As recently as four years ago, a Malipiero opera threw the Royal opera house of Rome into a tumult of howling and cat-calls. Mussolini banned it as "inimical to the faith and sound teachings of the new Italy." But, by this time, Malipiero had become a world-famous musician, and he was soon restored to favor.

This status is unquestioned as his symphony, "Elegiaca," was given its first performance in New York, with John Barbirolli conducting. For many years, critical opinion discounted him as somewhat of an outlaw and disturber. Now it has caught up with him, as it did with Stravinsky and Richard Strauss. Both the "Fire Bird" and "Salome" were met with cat-calls when they were first produced.

Critics note some mysterious "enervating influence" in Malipiero's new symphony. It may be an afterthought, but the explanation seems clear as I recall my conversation with him. His face saddened and he seemed ten years older when I mentioned the war.

For his ballet, "Pantea," he had written of "the struggle of a soul hurling itself into oblivion and death." The war had been to him a tragic and devastating experience. He said it had profoundly shaken both his art and his life.

Never again would the suave fluncies or banalities of music have meaning for him. He was impelled to a deeper search.

This disillusionment was sublimated in irony. He was suspected of slyly sabotaging the grandiose new Italian state. It was in March, 1934, that his opera, "The Fable of the Exchanged Sons," with the text by Luigi Pirandello, all but caused a riot in the Royal opera house.

So far as I could learn at the time, there was no brash heresy in the work, but, as elaborated by the text, a subtle hint that ultimate truth is forever elusive and supreme power dead sea fruit. That, of course, is dangerous doctrine in a totalitarian state, and it was quickly and savagely resented. The next day, Il Duce forbade another presentation.

Malipiero is a poet and a mystic. Of dominant presence, with sharply cut Roman features and hair brushed back in a thick pompadour, he is at the same time extraordinarily gracious, friendly and unassuming.

He lives in a quaint stone villa, forty or fifty miles from Venice, centuries old, rambling and tumble-down. Cut in the stone door lintel there is a Latin text, "To the obscene, all things are obscene." That was his answer to the critics of one of his operas.

The art of living engrosses him as much as the art of music and he studiously maintains a relationship of courtesy, dignity and friendly intimacy with the creatures in his retreat—he has a gift for friendship with animals and thinks that much of the trouble of mankind is due to its insensitiveness to the subhuman and superhuman. His music is apt to range into those zones.

He was born in Venice in 1882, beginning his violin studies in his sixth year. His father was a political exile and the family was in Germany for many years. Wagner was a crashing strain of modernity which profoundly affected his work.

C. Houston Goudiss
Discusses the NEED FOR IODINE

Key Substance of the Thyroid Gland--Tells How to Avoid Iodine Starvation

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York City

THE discovery of our vital need for iodine is one of the most thrilling chapters in the long history of scientific research.

Many investigators contributed to our understanding of iodine hunger, but special credit is due to Dr. David Marine and his co-workers; and to Dr. E. C. Kendall of the Mayo Clinics at Rochester, Minn.

Today we know that although it constitutes only about one part in three million parts of the body weight, iodine is so essential that its absence from the diet may have the gravest consequences.

Thyroid—The Gland of Glands

Iodine is necessary for the normal functioning of the thyroid gland, situated in the front part of the neck. The thyroid is so important that it is often regarded as the throttle which governs the human locomotive, and when it fails to function normally, the body machinery may be thrown out of balance.

Thyroid disturbance during childhood may affect mental and physical development, and many children have been accused of laziness who are suffering from thyroid deficiency. Thyroid disorder may be a complicating factor in obesity, and specialists have found that it is associated with many stubborn skin diseases. It is also claimed that iodine starvation influences mental make-up and emotional tendencies.

Disfiguring Goiter

Simple goiter is a common disorder of the thyroid gland. At one time the very mention of this disease terrified girls and women, who feared the unsightly lump in the neck which disfigures the victim. Now, thanks to dramatic experiments, we know that simple goiter is an iodine deficiency disease.

Animal Experiments Point the Way

In 1916, it was estimated that a million young pigs died annually in Wisconsin. Investigation disclosed that their thyroid glands were abnormally large and abnormally low in iodine. When iodine was administered to the mothers, the young pigs were born normal.

Scientists reasoned that if goiter could be prevented in animals, it could be prevented in humans, and undertook the now famous census in Akron, Ohio. A study was made of the thyroid glands of all school girls from the fifth to the twelfth grades. Almost 50 per cent were found to have enlarged thyroid glands.

The girls were given small doses of sodium iodide dissolved in drinking water at given periods over 2½ years. At the end of that time, investigators found that of 2,000 pupils, only 5 developed thyroid enlargement. Of the same number not treated, 500 showed enlargement.

Danger Periods

This demonstration aroused the interest of the scientific world and gave impetus to additional experiments which increased our knowledge of the iodine requirement.

The great danger periods are during pregnancy, childhood and adolescence. The diet of the expectant mother must include an adequate supply to protect herself and avoid the early development of simple goiter in the child.

It is also essential to provide sufficient iodine for growing children, as the incidence of the disease increases steadily up to the eighteenth year in girls; in boys it reaches its peak at twelve.

Some investigators also claim that one way to enhance the action of the glands after middle life, and so prolong youth, is to include in the daily diet some foods with a high iodine content.

Nature's Storehouse of Iodine

It is the duty of every homemaker to learn where the necessary iodine can be obtained and to include iodine-rich foods in the daily diet, but it is especially important for those living in "the goiter belt." This area stretches along the Appalachian mountains, as far north as Vermont, westward through the basin of the Great Lakes to the state of Washington, and southward over the Rocky Mountain and Pacific states.

Iodine-Rich Foods

The sea is the great storehouse of iodine and hence, the most abundant sources are sea food, including salmon, cod, crabmeat and oysters; cod liver oil; and salt.

Fruits and vegetables grown near the sea contain varying amounts of iodine, depending upon

There's graceful beauty in every stitch of this butterfly which you'll find charming for a chair set, buffet set or scarf ends. Crochet it in-string . . . the same medallion makes the center of each wing and arm rest. Fascinating pick-up work that's easy to do. In pattern 6031 you will find directions for making a chair or buffet set, and scarf; illustrations of the chair set and of all stitches used; material requirements; a photograph of the butterfly.

Have You a Question? Ask C. Houston Goudiss

C. Houston Goudiss has put at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods and diet. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for post card inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address him at 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

the water and soil, and the season, the iodine content being at a maximum in the autumn and winter.

In general, it may be said that the leaves of plants contain more iodine than the roots, and that leafy vegetables and legumes store more than fruits, with the exception of cranberries, which are a good source. When the soil is rich in iodine, watercress becomes a fine source of this substance.

Iodized Salt

One of the most satisfactory methods for adding iodine to the diet, especially in goiterous regions, is through the use of iodized salt. In Detroit, a city-wide test of iodized salt reduced the prevalence of simple goiter from 38 per cent to 2 per cent. Similar figures have been cited for other localities. Iodized salt costs no more than ordinary table salt and is an excellent safeguard against simple goiter.

Iodine in Drinking Water

Even in early times, it was believed that there was some relation between goiter and drinking water, and recent evidence has disclosed that there was a sound basis for this belief. Two investigators found that the water in a large part of the northern half of the United States falls into a low-iodine classification.

Several communities have given consideration to the prevention of goiter by the addition of iodine to the water supply. This method is commendable, but it must be borne in mind that wherever iodine is taken in forms other than food, careful supervision by the physician or the public health authorities is necessary.

To those homemakers interested in planning the best possible diet for their families, I shall gladly send lists showing which foods are rich in iodine and which are poor in this substance.

Questions Answered

Miss C. T.—Agar-agar is a non-irritating, indigestible carbohydrate. As it is not digested, its caloric value is zero, and it could not possibly be fattening.

Mrs. B. R. S.—The average meal leaves the stomach within four hours, though a large meal may stay for five hours. However, the length of time food remains in the stomach is only a fraction of that required for the entire digestive process, which varies in normal individuals from 12 to 47 hours. Carbohydrates leave the stomach most quickly, proteins are next, and fats require the longest period.

Miss S. G.—There is no justification for serving toast at every meal instead of bread. It is true that proper toasting changes some of the starch to dextrine which is quickly and easily digested. But laboratory experiments reveal that the proteins of toasted bread and crusts have a lower digestibility, and animals gain less weight when fed on them than on the untoasted bread and the inside crumbs of the loaf.

accusingly. "Who saw them after they got here? Does anyone know who they were?" "I wouldn't know the answer to any of those questions, Sherm," answered Norris, sulkily defiant...

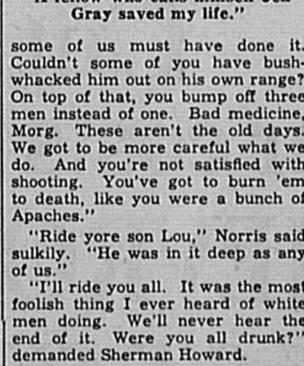

"All right. Go find out the facts," ordered Howard. "Twenty minutes later his men reported that there were no bodies in the ashes and that a hole had been knocked in the stable wall."

Gray said: "Ready to leave town yet? Or am I still too big a liar to believe?" "I don't know what you are," Frank answered. "Hadn't been for you they would have got me. But you fired the first shot at me."

Sherm Howard slammed a big fist down on the table in front of him. "Never saw anything more crazy in my life. That's no way to get a man—lie in wait for him right here in town so Lee Chiswick will know"

"A fellow who calls himself Jeff Gray saved my life."

After Reynolds had gone, the big man turned on the others with bitter sarcasm. "Now we don't know where we are at. You're a fine bunch of warriors. Arbuckle hands, I would say. Why pack guns at all? Better shuck them and go back to Kansas and Iowa. All four of you plugging at this Chiswick and he gets off scot free. You'd better find out soon as you can about the other two fellows who were with Frank. Maybe they're getting sore sides laughing at you. Was there a back door to this stable?"

"Sounds reasonable," jeered their leader. "You boys were having such a good time at the fire you never thought to watch the back of the barn."

When Frank reached in his narrative the fight with Lou Howard, his sister cut in sharply. "I told you to leave him alone—that it was my fault as much as his," she scolded. "Now you've made more trouble."

"Then what?" Ruth asked tensely. Frank told his story. "Son, I ought never to have sent you to town alone," exclaimed Lee. "I knew there were a lot of bad hombres in that bunch of rustlers, but I didn't think they would go so far as to try to burn a boy to death. Well, I've had my lesson. I might have known that any outfit bossed by Sherm Howard would be rotten. About this fellow Gray. I don't get him at all. We no sooner get him pegged for a double-crossing scoundrel than he up and goes into the fire for you. What's his game? Who in time is he?"

Gray watched him go, then cut across to the main street and joined those who were hurrying to the fire. He saw the roof of the barn crash in as he climbed over the wall. His gaze swept the crowd. He caught sight of Morgan Norris and joined him. "How'd the fire start?" he asked. Norris slid a look at him. "How would I know?"

some of us must have done it. Couldn't some of you have bushwhacked him out on his own range? On top of that, you bump off three men instead of one. Bad medicine, Morg. These aren't the old days. We got to be more careful what we do. And you're not satisfied with shooting. You've got to burn 'em to death, like you were a bunch of Apaches."

"Ride yore son Lou," Norris said sulkily. "He was in it deep as any of us." "I'll ride you all. It was the most foolish thing I ever heard of white men doing. We'll never hear the end of it. Were you all drunk?" demanded Sherman Howard.

"Two or three times I heard that he was an outlaw wanted in Texas for robbing a train," Frank said. "Name of Clint Duke, it was claimed. He's in with Howard's gang somehow. When we were in the barn he changed his voice, so they wouldn't know who he was."

Dresses for Street and Home Wear!

TWO dresses, as practical as they are pretty—one for shopping and general street wear, the other ideal for round the house, and made on slenderizing lines. Notice that they both use the smart front closing. Both these patterns are quick and easy to make up, and each is accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart.

mer. Silk crepe, silk print (in that case, have a plain-colored girdle effect) sharkskin, linen and shantung are good fabric choices for this.

House Dress for Large Women. It's a diagram dress, so that it may be made in just a few hours. The long, unbroken, unbelted line, the utter simplicity, the v-neck, make this dress extremely becoming to women in the 36 to 52 size range. Short, pleated sleeves give plenty of ease for reaching and stretching. Make this up in pretty cottons that will stand plenty of wear and washing—percale, gingham, seersucker, broadcloth.

Stoning Raisins.—To stone raisins easily, first place them in boiling water for a short time. Improving Fudge.—If you will add a small spoonful of cornstarch to the next batch of fudge you make, you will be amazed at the improvement in flavor.

Stuffed Eggs.—To stuff eggs, put them into cold water as soon as taken from the stove. This will keep the whites in better condition.

Cooking Dried Fruit.—Soak and cook slices of lemon with dried apricots, prunes or peaches. One thin slice of lemon will be enough for each two cups of dried fruit.

Varnish Straw Articles.—All articles made of straw, such as baskets suitcases, matting, will last longer if given an occasional coat of white varnish.

For a Flakier Crust.—One-half teaspoonful of vinegar, added to the water when making pie crust, will assure a flakier crust.

Stretching the Salad.—When the salad is limited and you wonder if it will go around comfortably, scoop out tomatoes and use the salad as a filling. Then you will surely have enough.

THE BRONX CHEER AND THE FORD HISS

We have lately learned that the Bronx Cheer is. We had heard of it off and on for a good many years, but not wishing to show how green we were, just lay low and waited for the information to come to us. Which it did. To give the Bronx Cheer thrust out your head and chin as far as possible, stick your tongue out slightly and blow. A little practice will make you quite adept at this un-polite style of salutation. Also practice will make it possible to use it without thinking. And that is the beauty of the whole thing. It comes in so handy when somebody gets the best of you and you can't think of the proper repartee, or when you can't even think of anything to say or if you can't think at all. But be cautioned not to become too sensitive about taking the salute. And now Henry Ford contributes to American speech by making classic a popular hiss that the reporters spelled "Ptaasass." Pronounce it to suit yourself, but we feel that with the proper expression behind it we could set forth quite a bit of scorn and derision with the Ford Hiss.

Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the state AAA committee, who pointed out that the state AAA office at Texas A. and M. College was releasing the allotments at the rate of 8 to 10 counties a day.

Meanwhile the bulk of the payments under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program have been completed. The state office has certified 160,218 applications for payments totaling $27,012,603.66. The state committee expects that approximately two hundred thousand applications will be received, and that total payments will be in the neighborhood of 35 million dollars.

Payments in many counties have been held up pending the approval of deduction factors for administrative expenses within the county. This factor must be determined before any payments can be made. Slaughter said that the deduction factor had been approved for all except 7 counties in the state.

Western Electric* telephones are made to work together

*Western is manufacturing and supply unit for the Bell System

Whether you're talking across the street or to San Francisco, it doesn't "just happen" that you hear clearly and easily over the telephone. One reason you can do it: Western Electric telephones, precision manufactured for the entire Bell System, are the same all over the country. You might say they're "tuned" to each other, somewhat like radios to a broadcasting station.

If telephones and equipment weren't uniform, voices might not be clear. It would be vastly more difficult for us to give you the good service at low cost that you have come to expect.

Lesson for May 22

SERVING THROUGH CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-17, 28-34. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Mark 12:31. PRIMARY TOPIC—A Sermon on a Penny. JUNIOR TOPIC—A Sermon on a Penny. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to God and Country. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obligations of Christian Citizenship.

"For God and Country" is a rallying cry that well summarizes the spirit and duty of the Christian citizen. So clear and inspiring are the teachings of God's Word regarding the relationship of the Christian to his country that one marvels that national leaders who are seeking to stimulate civic loyalty do not promote a revival of the study of the Bible. Dr. Moore is right when he says, "No bad citizen is a good Christian and no good Christian is a bad citizen." The solution of our nation's problems would be a great evangelistic campaign from coast to coast. A man like Moody would then appear in his true position as a great patriot. The soul-winner would be more important than the vote-getter. Why not try it?

Our lesson presents our Lord on Tuesday of His passion week, when He met His adversaries in their cunning efforts to entrap Him in His words so that they might condemn Him. The two incidents before us have broader application than to citizenship alone, but we may well consider them in that light, for they reveal that the citizen who is right with God will be right with the nation and with his own neighbors.

I. The Christian Citizen Loves His Country (vv. 13-17).

The Pharisees, who hated Rome for its domination of Palestine, and the Herodians, who supported Rome in its control of the land, were enemies, but they joined forces to tempt Christ. They knew that if He said "Yes" to their question the Jews would be angry, and if He said "No" He could be condemned as a traitor to Rome.

The trap was set, but it caught only the crafty hunters. Taking their own pocket money he declared that if they used Caesar's money they ought to pay taxes to Caesar. The coin stood for an orderly government, benefits of which they enjoyed and which they ought to support.

II. The Christian Citizen Loves God (vv. 20-30).

Although this point comes second in our lesson it comes first in experience. It is the man who renders unto God the love of the heart, soul, mind, and all of his strength (v. 30) who is ready really to love his country as he should.

The scribes loved to dispute about which was the greatest of the 613 commandments which they recognized. Jesus astonished them by referring to the passage of Scripture most familiar to the Jews (Deut. 6:4, 5), which declares the unity and absolute exclusiveness of the Lord our God. It may be well for us to stress this truth even in our time, for most folk regard the worship and service of God as optional.

III. The Christian Citizen Loves His Neighbor (vv. 31-34).

The scribe did not ask for the second commandment but Jesus presents it as an unavoidable corollary of the first. The man who really loves God will love his neighbor.

Every social injustice would be wiped out and every cause for strife removed if all men loved their fellow-man as they love themselves. Such a condition will never prevail, however, until men love God. It is too much for the flesh to put others before self. Only the grace of God is sufficient for that. Hence the real solution of the problems of capital and labor, the "haves" and the "have nots" is to win the men and women on both sides of the struggle to a true love for God through Jesus Christ our Lord. In other words, we come again to the inevitable conclusion that what our nation needs is a revival.

Social panaceas, revolution either by force or by law, dictatorships, all these are destined to failure. Men must learn to know and love God supremely and thus come to love their neighbors as themselves. The crossroad Sunday-school teacher, the missionary in the city slums, the preacher of the gospel, whether in the great city or on the countryside, the faithful Christian living out the love of Christ daily in kindly word and deed—these are the real forces for social as well as spiritual good. Let us do all we can to prosper their ministry!

Got Something You Want to Sell?

Most people have a piece of furniture, a farm implement, or something else which they have discarded and which they no longer want.

These things are put in the attic, or stored away in the barn, or left lying about, getting of less and less value each year.

Treatment of Peptic Ulcer

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THERE are apparently fewer operations now for stomach or intestinal ulcer in proportion to the number of cases than there were a few years ago. This is not because surgery does not give results in emergency cases, but because medical treatment combined with treatment of the patient generally (not just the stomach or intestines) gives good results with less after-effects.

The thought in the minds of physicians now is that the ulcer patient is of the type who, if cured of one ulcer by medicine or surgery, is quite likely to simply go ahead and "grow" another ulcer unless he changes his habits of life.

The patient with stomach or intestinal ulcer is usually of the nervous type and slender in build. While this, in itself, may not cause ulcer, it predisposes to ulcer, so that it is like having paper and wood all ready to start a fire; the fire will not start unless a match—irritation, infection from teeth and tonsils or other causes, is applied. Individuals of different build or physique with the same irritation or infection would not be as likely to develop an ulcer as these slender, nervous individuals.

Quiet Life Essential.
Thus when the ulcer patient consults his physician his own history and his family history is learned before the usual tests, including X-rays, are made.

"An attempt is made to prevent, besides cure, peptic ulcer (as stomach and intestinal ulcers are called). Patients with an irritable stomach or family history of ulcer should be advised to live a 'sensible' life and be placed on a mild ulcer regime or plan—bland diet, regular meals, thorough chewing of the food, a short rest (lying down) before meals, and a short rest after meals either sitting up or lying down on right side."

This quietness or calmness of mind means less disturbance of the muscular walls of the stomach, less chance of irritation and ulcer formation. The avoidance of all infection from teeth, tonsils, sinuses or elsewhere, may also prevent the formation or reappearance of ulcer.

Tests for Diabetes.
One of the best bits of work our insurance companies are doing is the free annual examination of their policy holders.

One of the tests regularly made is for sugar in the urine, which, if present, is a sign of diabetes in two of every three cases. If there is really no sign of diabetes present—drinking a great amount of water, and passing a great amount of urine—it can readily be seen that an early diabetic would not likely have discovered that he had diabetes had not the urine been tested by the insurance examiner.

Many factors have been suggested as entering into the cause of diabetes. Heredity, overweight, hardening of the blood vessels (arteriosclerosis), gall bladder disease, nervous strain, disease of the pituitary gland which lies on the floor of the skull, thyroid gland disease, and other conditions have been examined.

Men and women should have the urine tested once or twice a year. Cutting down on starch foods should prevent overweight and the development of diabetes in those who inherit the tendency toward it. It should also do away with the need for insulin in early cases of diabetes.

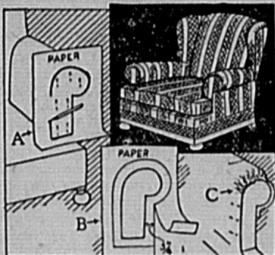

Scotland Took Irish Name
Scotland takes its name from a tribe of Irish people called the Scots, who crossed the Irish sea at the end of the Fifth century and settled on the west coast of Scotland from the Clyde river to the Ross. Legend says that this tribe was named for Queen Scotia, the wife of a king of Ireland. Originally the Romans called Scotland Caledonia and its people the Caledonians. But by 843 Kenneth MacAlpin, a chief of the tribe of Scots, had united all of the country north of the Firths of Forth and Clyde under his rule. Within the next hundred years the name of his tribe came to be applied to all of this territory and it was called Scotland. Nova Scotia is, of course, New Scotland.

First Printer in United States
The first printer in the United States was Stephen Daye, who came to Massachusetts in 1638 under contract to Rev. Samuel Glover, who brought a printing press, but died on the voyage to America. Daye set up the press in Cambridge and there, in 1639, issued as a broadside, "The Freeman's Oath," the first piece of printing in the Colonies.—Washington Star.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

STRIPES are popular for slip covers this season. Don't forget to center a striped pattern in the back and the seat of a chair. The crosswise use of stripes may also have possibilities as for the bottom of the chair shown here. Generally the main pieces of a slip cover are fitted and cut right on the piece of furniture with a generous allowance for seams and a tuck in around spring seats. For small shaped sections, such as the fronts of some chair arms and parts of some wing chairs, paper patterns may be made to use in cutting the fabric.

Pin the paper to the part of which you wish to make a pattern, as shown here at A, then mark the outline on the paper feeling your way along the edge line with the side rather than the tip of the pencil point. Cut the pattern 3/4-inch outside the outline as shown at B. This allows for a seam and slight ease in the slip cover which should never be taut at any point. When gathers are needed to shape the fabric over rounded parts, gather the edge and arrange the gathers with the cover piece pinned in place as shown at C.

Directions for making various types of slip covers are given in my book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator; also many types of dressing table covers, seventeen different types of curtains, bedspreads, and numerous other useful and decorative things for the home. I shall be glad to send you a copy upon receipt of 25 cents (coins preferred). Address Mrs. Spears at 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Impossible Conditions

What would happen if an irresistible force hit an immovable object? The only answer to this old question is that it presupposes impossible conditions, the two terms being mutually exclusive. You cannot conceive of a force that is irresistible being stopped by any object, nor can an immovable object be moved by any force. As the existence of the two conditions at the same time is impossible, it is also impossible to say what would happen if they did exist.

"HERE'S MORE SMOKIN' JOY FOR YOUR MONEY"

Eddie Nichols tunes in on Bruce Williamson's remarks about the "makin's" tobacco that's extra-rich and double-mellow

"You're taking no chances when you buy your first tin of Prince Albert," says Bruce Williamson (left) to Eddie Nichols. "You can put in to the Prince Albert people for money back if P. A. doesn't ring the bell with you." Bruce knows Prince Albert's "crimp cut" assures fast-rolled, mellow-tasting, milder "MAKIN'S" SMOKES.

EDDIE NICHOLS is no new hand at spinning 'em up out of Prince Albert. "Why, you know, most every cigarette roller around here goes for Prince Albert," he tells you. "Why not—that big red tin is just chock-full of happy 'makin's' smokes. Tastes better, rolls quicker—there's no spillin', no blowin' away, no bunchin'." "Fancy tobacco as to taste," adds Bruce, "but nothing fancy about the cost of those 70 ripe, tasty 'makin's' smokes in a P. A. tin. When it comes to smokin' joy, I say Prince Albert is downright generous." (P. A.'s the National Joy Smoke for pipe-smokers too.)
