Mrs. Ross Hightower of Glasscock County who is now at her parents home, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Nabors, following a serious operation, is slowly but surely regaining her health and strength.

If you have the building of a home in view why postpone its erection any longer. Busy times are sure to be holding forth this fall and now is the opportune time to start building and other improvements.

Mrs. Eva Parker arrived Monday from McCauley for a visit with her brother T. F. Nabors and family. This is Mrs. Parker's first visit in eight years and Mr. Nabors states he is going to try to persuade her to make Howard County her permanent home.

Fred N. Baker, highway engineer in charge of the construction of the Bankhead Highway thru Howard, Martin, Midland, Ector counties, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Mercy Hospital Monday is getting along nicely.

Miss Dorothy Lomax on Monday received the sad intelligence of the death of her brother. He died while in Cuba on a business and pleasure trip, and so far no particulars have been received. Mr. Lomax was a representative of the Tension Saddlery Co. of Dallas, Texas.

Miss Edith Hatchett, formerly a member of the office force of the Rix Furniture and Undertaking Company, has accepted a position with the First State Bank of this city; beginning upon her new duties last Tuesday. Miss Edith Haller of the clerical force of the First State Bank will leave soon for points in Colorado, where she will spend her vacation.

The history of medicine shows that the remedies of one age become discarded the next.

At one time disease was a sure indication of evil spirits within you, to be driven out by charms and incantations. Later you were thought to have too much blood, and so it was drawn off by leeches and the surgeon's lancet. Still later they dosed you with calomel until toothless and hopeless.

But medical fashions continue to change. Now you may have all your teeth extracted for everything that ails you. You may have everything cut out that hurts you, and you don't need the organs the Creator gave you anyway. If you are well, you may take serums to keep from getting sick. If you are sick, you may take serums to get well. If you are old, you may take monkey's glands to recover youth. Wonderful, isn't it?

But history repeats itself, and as other fads and fancies have passed, so may these fade also.

Contrast medicine with Chiropractic—the release of pressure on nerves shutting off the vital power generated in the brain—a power that can and will give health to every organ in your body.

A little thought and investigation will convince you that the principle of Chiropractic is right—a principle that has never changed since its discovery. Consultation is free.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

Bankhead Highway Being Marked

Curtis Hancock, former chairman of the State Highway Commission and his son, Louis Hancock, were in Big Spring Tuesday on an inspection trip of State Highway No. 1, or better known as the Bankhead National Highway. They left for El Paso Tuesday afternoon and on their return trip will arrange for the marking of this highway. They have undertaken the task of properly marking this great highway from Texarkana to El Paso, a distance of 972 miles. They have completed the work of marking the road from Texarkana to Dallas and have financed the marking from Dallas to Abilene. They expect to arrange for marking the balance of the distance as they return eastward from El Paso.

It is their boast that this will be the best marked Highway in the state of Texas. A tourist can travel the entire route between Texarkana and El Paso without any inquiries being made as to routing.

The marking of this highway is a twelve inch white band painted on permanent objects such as telephone poles, culverts, wells, etc., with a four inch black band at top and bottom. In the white space is stenciled State Hy. No. 1. These markers—very prominent day or night—are to be placed at every half mile along the entire distance. These are "Confidence markers" to let the tourist know he is on the right road. These markers will be on every block along the route thru cities and towns; there will be four markers at every turn, two markers at every doubtful point so the tourist can go on his way with the assurance that he is on the right road. At all dangerous points, such as railroad crossings and dangerous curves will be placed danger signs. Pointers are placed on both sides of every city, giving name of town, direction and distance to next town along the route, etc.

In addition to marking the highway Messrs Hancock will have published and distributed 10,000 maps of Highway No. 1, which will be distributed along the Bankhead National Highway between Texarkana and Washington, D. C., El Paso, Texas, and San Diego, California, along State Highway No. 1 and to touring bureaus throughout the U. S. In addition to the map showing the route thru Texas, there will also be a complete log of the route and a story of the various towns along this route, which will include a story of Big Spring. Mr. Hancock and son expect to return to Big Spring next Tuesday and complete arrangements for the marking of this highway thru Howard County.

What the "Flapper" Needs

Everywhere and everylastingly, it seems, someone is discarding to us on woman's sphere, the crying need to "live one's own life," the beauty of self-expression! Yet we observe that, with the whole world before them, the vast majority of women still choose to marry, establish a home, and raise a family.

What the rising generation of flappers needs more than anything else is to get back to the good old-fashioned virtues that made for happy families. The young women of today have countless advantages their grandmothers never dreamed of, but there would be far more happy homes if they, too, excelled in the arts of cookery, fine needlework, and the thrifty managing of a limited income.

Think what it would mean in comfort, health, and happiness, not only to the young woman herself who expects to start out in a new home of her own, but to her husband and to her family, if she could cook well balanced, tempting meals, at least make her own simple dresses, and in general run her little domain economically and efficiently on a business basis!

But take hope! The world's not going to the bad. We're moving in the right direction. Domestic science is one of the prescribed courses in most public schools today. Right now there is a nation-wide revival of interest in the fascinating art of home dressmaking. Countless women budget their household expenses and balance accounts as carefully as any office manager.

We're just old-fashioned enough to think that if a woman doesn't have any intention of running the home end of a marriage partnership efficiently, she has no business to join the firm. That's why we say that the rising generation needs to get back to the old-fashioned virtues. On the average salary of today, with our ever-increasing list of "necessities," it's what you might call some job to make anything that resembles a home without 'em!

Robert Grimes held in the county jail on a charge of forgery made his escape from jail Saturday night and was caught by Sheriff W. W. Satterwhite several hours later at the Wyoming Hotel where he had registered as Mr. Dodson of Fort Worth and was in hiding until he could engage a service car driver to take him to another town. This makes about the second time Grimes has made his escape from the local jail.

Are Railroads to Obstruct Development?

Railroads are getting ready for the heaviest movement of freight on record, next autumn. Looks as if they will not be disappointed.

A business boom almost beyond imagination is getting under way.

Already there's a shortage of more than 70,000 freight cars. And nearly 16,000 locomotives are laid up for repairs.

Among the railroads which will be best prepared to care for unprecedented traffic will be those which long ago dropped the war against the shopmen's union.

These do not include the big Texas lines.—Fort Worth Press.

What Is Prosperity?

John B. Puelicher, president of the American Bankers Association, addressing the Bankers' Forum recently, essayed the definition of prosperity, but gave a negative rather than a positive description of it, telling instead what it was not. We quote his words:

"And what is prosperity?"

"That is not prosperity which does not include the well-being of all workers."

"That is not prosperity which does not give the laborer his full wage, nor the employer his full value."

"That is not prosperity which fails equitably to compensate the tiller of the soil."

"That is not prosperity which rewards speculation rather than production."

"That is not prosperity which denies the incentive of just reward to each contributor in the degree of his contribution."

"That is not prosperity which forgets the educational and cultural needs of all the people."

"National prosperity can result only from the intelligent distribution of the nation's work, and the equitable distribution of the work's rewards. These rewards must go in due proportion to labor, to capital, to talent, to initiative."

Turning his description around, we may infer that prosperity is a condition marked by the well-being of all workers, every worker enjoying a full wage and giving full value therefor, in which the tiller of the soil gets all that is rightfully coming to him and producers rather than speculators reap the reward of industry, in direct ratio to the value of their production. These, with due attention to the educational and cultural needs of the people, will, he believes, be the natural result of an intelligent distribution of the nation's work and fair distribution of its rewards.

Editorial

He is Un-American who Puts Self Wealth Above the Commonwealth

The Cost of Our Local Improvements

From all parts of the country come reports of great activity in towns and villages in the matter of public improvement. Nothing could be more encouraging providing the problem is sensibly attacked, but if your villages begin to run wild and act without a proper perspective of finance then many of them are brewing serious trouble. Taxation is on the jump almost everywhere. The amount of taxes now paid by the American people is larger than the whole foreign trade of the United States both incoming. The sum total of taxation is four times as great as the American profit on all foreign trade.

In Germany is heard the cry that taxation has brought utter ruin to the people. We hear the echo from France, and also from England. Let us not forget that the law of economics is not national. It is universal. America cannot escape the effect of exchange taxation any more than can Great Britain or the benighted Choctaws of Passamaquaddy.

The business of the world today needs more capital than ever. The trouble is the man on the street does not grasp the first rules of national business building.

With restricted capital business cannot expand. It requires more money to harvest and market a hundred acre crop than it does a ten acre crop and if American industry is to expand and prices be kept within the normal, liquid capital and legitimate credit must be increased. We cannot have our cake and eat it. If the money of the nation is spent because of a sudden craze for improvements something else will have to go by the board.

Steering Business Ships to Success

Fred P. Mann is a drygoods merchant in Devil's Lake, North Dakota. He sells a half million dollars' worth of goods every year in a town of five thousand population. He has built his business from nothing. His capital has been intelligence. He stands today an inspiration for any small town merchant who seeks to build a paying business on a sound foundation.

There are thousands of merchants who flop along without any definite aim except an instinctive desire to accomplish. These are the merchandising derelicts. The ship that reaches port in time to win the cargo is one that is steered with a definite purpose and along a course thoroughly charted.

Mr. Mann frankly says his success is one of two things—sensible buying and vigorous newspaper advertising. He spends more money in newspaper advertising than any small merchant in the United States. The answer is he does more business than any small merchant in the United States.

Half the local merchants in small towns see in advertising nothing but typographical announcements. The money they waste in direct by mail advertising is astounding. There is not a skilled advertising man in the whole of the United States who uses a direct-by-mail advertising except as a supplement to the newspaper. Without the newspaper the rest is useless. If we fail to learn by the experience of others who have succeeded than we fall behind in the march of progress.

John Wanamaker, Marshall Field and Fred P. Mann are not fools. Hitch your wagon to a star, not to a doubting Thomas.

Punchettes

Rev. M.A. Matthews, D.D., D.D., Autocaster.

THE CHURCH BLACKHAND

As has been said by many who are students of the condition, there are two tendencies that are working together to disrupt all orthodox evangelical denominations. These two forces might properly be called false teaching and autocracy.

The false teacher has been in the church since the first century. He tried to destroy with his false doctrine the little group of Christians who began in the first century, and since that time he has been marching across the continents of time.

The rationalist is compelled to set up a human gospel, a piece of human machinery, and to build his little bureau in order that he may advance his cause. He is corrupt at heart, designing in his motives, autocratic in his methods, bureaucratic in his government.

A great many of those who are teaching and who have taught false doctrines have taught them because they wanted to reduce God's standard and mode of living, or because they have never become regenerated Christians.

The false teachers and the advocates of the vicious doctrines are perfectly willing to use money, political machinery, or any other means that they can devise, to destroy the influence and power of the great Christian leaders of the day. They use every method of chicanery to keep such ministers out of pulpits, to prevent their being called to permanent pulpits, and to deprive them of leadership in their denominations.

No regenerated man has ever denied or will ever deny the deity of Christ. Therefore, any such denial on the part of any man who claims to be a minister of the gospel is prima facie evidence that he has never been regenerated.

These false teachers and rationalistic agents enter our denominations and try to destroy our church governments and establish their Nero-like autocratic, bureaucratic government of destruction.

Will the laymen awake and drive this black hand from the church?

Wife Beating; Against

Mineral Wells Index: Robert Gimme of Philadelphia was sentenced to six months in jail for spanking his wife. There's one of the "gimme" crowd that got what was coming to him.

Philadelphia is the City of Brotherly Love. It has been that way a long time. All the more reason then, why a Philadelphian who spans his wife should be disciplined. A city of wife spankers could not possibly be a city of brotherly love, although a man's wife is certainly not his brother. The idea is that if wife-spanking should become the accepted practice in Philadelphia that city would be ruined in its reputation for fraternal benevolence. It must be remarked, however, that there are two sides to the question of spanking a wife. We hear a great deal these days concerning the decay of the home. Shall it be left unsaid that the decay of the home was coincident with the decay of wife beating?

In other years, the years of auld lang syne, a whipped wife was not a rarity—but divorce was altogether rare. A good while ago some writing man said that every Englishman was at heart a wife beater. It was an Englishman, we believe, who said it. And hadn't an Englishman a right to interpret other Englishmen? Under present conditions a wife beater is called a brute. But when the wife beaters were looked upon as good disciplinarians the home was not decadent. Now was it? Please do not misunderstand State Press. He doesn't advocate wife beating. He is only reminding his lady friends that when wife beating was the rule the home was a durable institution. When a man whipped his wife instead of divorcing her there was not in the minds of good men and women that vague dread of the collapse of civilization which we have been reading about of late years. Marriage was not a failure when the rod was kept in pickle. Here is a good place to stop, but S. P. can not forbear to again remind the ladies that he is not favorable to the use of the rod for the preservation of the home. He is a historian, not a propagandist. State Press in Dallas News.

Mrs. Barbara Hamilton Dead

The announcement of the death of Mrs. Barbara Hamilton, which occurred at Anson, Texas, at 11:50 p. m. Monday, April 16th, came as a shock to relatives and friends in this city.

Mrs. Hamilton had gone to Anson several weeks ago for a visit with her sister and contracted pneumonia, rallied from the attack and then suffered a relapse which culminated in her death.

Mrs. Hamilton, who was aged sixty nine years and four months of age, moved to Big Spring from Austin some seventeen years ago and has resided here continuously since that time. She had a wide circle of warm friends and was loved and esteemed for her fine christian character and her willingness at all times to aid and assist those in need or in trouble. Her pathway thru life is plainly marked with noble deeds unselfishly performed.

The remains were brought to this city from Anson, Tuesday night and funeral services were conducted at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. W. W. Greenhaw, 600 Johnson street, at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. W. L. Shepherd officiating. The remains were laid to rest in Mt. Olive cemetery beside those of her husband who was called to that Home on High ten years ago.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Walter Pike, of this city, and two sons, one residing in this county; three granddaughters and three great grandsons and to those who deeply mourn for one much beloved is extended the condolence of a host of friends in this city.

Revival Services at Christian Church.

The evangelist has been preaching some excellent gospel sermons and proving all he preaches by the bible. There is special music every night, in addition to the solo's being sung by the singer, and everybody is enjoying the singing and preaching by these two earnest and capable brothers who have come to Big Spring. The meetings will continue over Sunday, and definite announcements with reference to same will be made on Sunday. Everybody is cordially invited to all services.

Likely to Make Trouble

The suspicion that the "Chester" concessions in Turkey are more likely to make trouble than to make anything else either for Turkey or for the American concessionaires is borne out by cable accounts from abroad. There doesn't seem to be the least doubt as to the fact that France is mightily stirred up over the announcement of the plans of the American-Turkish Development Company. It is even declared from Paris that the French have made representations to the Angora Government that the carrying out of the concessions will be regarded as an unfriendly act on the part of the Turkish Nation.

France claims rights which are purported to be granted Americans under the new agreement. The French claim goes back to 1914, shortly before the beginning of the World War. Turkey had arranged to borrow a billion francs from France, and in return had granted many concessions. France had actually delivered one-half of the proposed loan to Turkey, and the delivery of the other half was interfered with only by the fact that Turkey went to war on the side against France. France now claims under this treaty, holding that Turkey violated it by going to war as the ally of Germany and prevented France from carrying out her side of it. The Turks treat the 1914 contract as voided by the war and by the failure of France to lend the full amount promised.

The situation of the United States is now well complicated. On one hand we have gone on record as being in favor of the open door in Turkey. Our whole insistence at the interrupted conference at Lausanne was upon that principle. We now face the convening of the second Lausanne conference with the open door and door frame and most of the wall, so to speak, in our exclusive possession. Europe claims in fact that the American group have practically every worth-while concession in Turkey. Should the American Government back Admiral Chester and his associates in the attempted enforcement of their acquired "rights," European Governments would undoubtedly make a diplomatic "incident" of it. Meanwhile from Washington it is announced that the Government sees no reason why the Chester interests should not receive the sanction of the United States. The appearance that we have gone out of our way to get into difficulties clings to this whole enterprise. And yet, when the whole thing is summed up, it seems to be a matter of the oil in the Mosul district. —Dallas News.

Worrying is Part of Life

Scientists and thinkers all advise everybody to stop worrying. Our grandmothers gave the same advice when they remarked that "worrying killed the cat" an animal with at least nine lives. I would be willing to bet a thin dime that the very man who patronizingly gives me this advice would not be able to eat any dinner tonight if the income tax expert were to come into his office this afternoon and assess him an additional $1,000 tax on his last year's report when he did not have that thousand and had a note coming due day after tomorrow. I don't think much of the man who never worries about anything. He is too much like the South African native who is perfectly happy if the sun shines and he has a full stomach today. The fellow who does not worry is one who is satisfied with himself and everybody else is through as far as this world is concerned and ready to die. —William Southern in the Independence Examiner.

Eliminate Your Tire Troubles by Using Maxotires

Make your tires practically puncture proof, keep your tubes from being chaffed or pinched; use your weak, even your "rim-cut" tires, from 1,000 to 5,000 miles longer with safety. The Maxotire is so made that it wraps itself around the inner-tube. As the air pressure increases it automatically locks itself about the tube and holds almost all the pressure within itself. Maxotires are guaranteed to not blow-out or slip or run hot, and can be removed from tire to tire. I have quite a few Maxotires running here in Big Spring. I have received shipment for Fords and will take orders for odd sizes until I secure my location for a Maxotire Station. Phone 586 or call at 507 Johnson street. S. F. WALLING. 31-21-

O. T. Lacey Claimed by Death

A cloud of sorrow overshadowed our city this morning when it became known that O. T. Lacey had been claimed by death. He passed away at his home at 601 Main street at 7:15 o'clock this morning following a brave fight for life.

Mr. Lacey had made his home in Big Spring the past sixteen years or more, and no one was held in higher esteem. He was a substantial and progressive citizen; a good friend and neighbor and in his death our city and people suffer a great loss. He served as Mayor of Big Spring for two terms and though his term was during the great upheaval in Europe, under his administration our city made a great saving in the conduct of its affairs. He was a Christian and a gentleman in the broadest meaning of the term and many hearts are saddened because of his being called from his sphere in this world.

To the wife and two sons, Harold and Alfred, his father and sister, Mrs. E. O. Ellington and other relatives is tendered the deepest sympathy of our entire citizenship.

Funeral services will be held in this city at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

I had pains across my kidneys and if I bent for any length of time, it was hard to straighten again, my back hurt so. There was a constant ache in my back and I was also troubled with my kidneys acting too freely. Doan's Kidney Pills soon eased the pain in my back and regulated my kidneys. Before long I was entirely cured and my work doesn't bother me now at all."

As the Editor Sees It

Hundreds of thousands of bright minds in this country are being destroyed by the dope habit, which has flourished since the advent of prohibition.

If the habit continues to grow at the rate it has grown in the last few years it will only be a question of time when we will become a nation of dope fiends—a race of people deprived of their mentality and daily sinking below the level of a beast. The beast does not use dope.

The remedy?

Change our laws—make them more drastic—let the punishment for trafficking in the stuff be so severe the seller would sooner cut off an arm than dispose of even an atom of these destroying drugs.

There will be no end to the traffic until we enact laws capable of putting an end to it, and find officials with honor and nerve enough to enforce them to the letter.

Is the mentality of a nation worth the effort.

Married today—tired of each other tomorrow—divorced the next day—and looking for another.

We haven't quite reached that stage in this country, but we are hopping right along.

In some courts it is about as easy to get a divorce as it is to buy a license to wed. The principal difference is in the cost.

The rising generation just growing to maturity is being brought up to look upon divorce as a matter of fact—as a natural means of settling family differences.

With divorce rampant today and running amuck tomorrow, how long will it be before the parson will have nothing to do?

Some day, if you live long enough, you may see the editor of this paper ascend straight up in the air for a hundred feet or so, sail through space until he is directly over your front yard, and then gently descend onto your doorstep for a friendly chat.

That is what they are working at now, and they are beginning to see light ahead.

The airship is a wonderful invention, but it is only a means to an end. It is like the first rung to a ladder—there are many others to mount before we can hope to reach the top.

But we'll get there!

It will not be long before we will be scrapping our present supply of airships and investing in helicopters.

Helicopter—that's what they call it now, until some bright fellow coins a shorter and more popular name.

Big business has developed this country to a wonderful degree. It is necessary for our future development and expansion.

But there is one nauseating fly in the commercial pudding. Big business is making too many multi-millionaires and billionaires through excess profits. Those excess profits are siphoned from the pockets of our millions of consumers.

The government should set a reasonable limit to the wealth of an individual, and when that wealth exceeds the limit the surplus should be diverted into the federal treasury.

Limitations does not mean bolshevistic or communistic confiscation. It is common sense applied for our mutual salvation.

It may even prevent this country from becoming Russified in the near future.

Political parties are like private homes. When they become filthy they need a thorough cleaning. Republicans did it in Chicago by electing a democratic mayor.

Feeling Patriotic

That sturdy British patriot of yesterday, Dr. Samuel Johnson, "patriotism is the last refuge of the scoundrel," he meant no disparagement of the sentiment itself, but to dig the scoundrel who that time promoting patriotism a consideration. He entered the same scorn which we have for the professional purveyor of patriotism, and he had no hesitation in calling the windy shyster who peddles sentiment as so much merchandise for marketing at a profit. It is not to apply in case someone is trying to work you up to the next pitch is this: "Is this organization trying to support any good sound cash for some 100 per cent American-made cheaper in any other should it not be, after all, the free?"

To the Farmers of Oklahoma

I have just signed your amended Cooperative Marketing law and I doubt if during my term of office as your Governor, there will be opportunity for me to render any service that will give me more real pleasure than has been mine in completing this piece of constructive legislation.

The reason for this pleasure is twofold. First, the fact that you as producers have asked for this law, convinces me that you are now ready to undertake in a practical manner the solution of your problem of getting cost of production out of the necessities of life that must be furnished by you. Second, the fact that this measure, which recognizes your right to protection under the law in your effort to stabilize your products at a price that will be fair both to you and to the consumer, was passed by the two houses of the legislature after careful study, with only one vote recorded against it, is conclusive evidence that all of society now recognizes its dependence upon agriculture and is glad to extend to you, not class legislation and that at last the other business interests of the state have come to realize that laws made to fit other kinds of manufacturing and commerce do not meet the requirements of agriculture.

If you have not yet organized for the orderly marketing of your product, let me urge you to do so at once, for only by organization can you take advantage of this law or can you ever hope to have any material influence on determining the price that you shall receive for your product.

When you have formed your organizations do not forget that they are your organizations and that they will be effective just in the proportion that you give them your complete support and I urge you to keep yourself fully informed about what your organizations are doing and to remember always that in doing this work you are necessarily going to deprive some people of profits that they have been making out of your commodities and that naturally they are going to oppose you. If you listen to the stories that may be circulated directly or indirectly, from these people you will do injury to your own efforts in solving your problems; so, I appeal to you to find out that you may properly protect yourself and not be guilty of tearing down the organization but help build it up as it is the only agency thru which you can hope to finally receive the benefits that you so much need.

I am glad to be able to say to you that the farmers in practically all of the other states of the union are proceeding along this same line in the solving of their problems; and, I sincerely hope that since Oklahoma is largely responsible for this present movement, that you will continue your work here in such manner as to keep Oklahoma in the lead in the effort of agriculture to receive a fair price for its products.

Hoping that you will use to the fullest extent, this law and assuring you my personal desire to be helpful to you, I am Yours very truly,
J. C. WALTON, Governor.

The League Again

This country is very much divided on the question of the United States becoming a full member of the League of Nations, and that division is not along party lines.

The league has strong advocates and bitter opponents in both of the great political parties.

Millions of Americans are opposed to this country mixing up in European affairs. They dread the possibility of being drawn into another foreign war.

But there are other millions who contend that there can be no stability in world affairs until America takes her stand by the side of the other nations and assumes her share of the burdens and responsibilities of world reconstruction.

Even the wisest men of our nation are at variance on this question.

One thing, however, is morally certain. Unless the nations of Europe reach some fair and just basis of an early settlement of their rapidly growing differences, thereby making possible a restoration of the industry and commerce of the world, it is but a question of time when the lid will be blown off again and hell will become an iceberg compared to the next furnace of war.

Our first duty is to our own country and to our own people, but undoubtedly we owe a duty to the world in the present crisis.

Just how far that duty should carry us is the question of the hour, and it is a difficult one to solve.

We can not afford to ruin our own country, and neither should we contribute to the collapse of civilization through the withholding of our cooperation and assistance.

Solomon should be alive today.

Prices Show Upward Tendency

No doubt the subject of mirrors is an old one to you by this time but never-the-less it is a fact that the prices on glass today is just eight per cent less than the highest price paid during the peak of 1919-1920, and in spite of high prices we simply cannot obtain enough glass to keep our big factory running to full capacity—and must reduce our production down to the amount of glass we are able to obtain. Since Mr. Ford bought the plate glass plant at Pittsburgh a month ago, three-fourths of the glass produced in America is controlled by the Automobile interests.

Gum lumber has advanced another thirty per cent since January first, and the Walnut Veneer makers have tacked on another forty per cent in the same period, it just seems the raw material markets have gone wild.

Of course spring business is never so big as Fall business. If these conditions exist now in the raw material markets—what will happen this fall when the demand increases, as it always does at that season of the year? It looks like the "sky" will be the limit on glass in particular.

Information — The Great Corrective

What we misunderstand we distrust. That is a human trait as universal as the race, and works as inexorably in the savant as in the savage.

The naked savage in the dark jungles of Africa distrusts the Livingston because he misunderstands him, and his savagery mounts with his misunderstanding.

The savant in a world center distrusts whatever he misunderstands, and his primal instincts return in degree with his misunderstanding.

As understanding increases the margin of misunderstanding decreases; and as misunderstanding decreases, the margin of savagery narrows.

Our labor troubles are not the result of wages, nor employment, nor treatment of the laborer—they are the children of misunderstanding.

All misunderstanding is based upon the lack of information!

Man wants to know. When you take him into your confidence and impart to him the information that he has a thirst for, he will become your humble devotee; but when you hog-tie him and seek to cram down him the sort of information that you think he ought to have, he will turn and rend you if he can.

The laborer would resent your coming to him with the theory and malpractice of your business; but he would hang upon your words if you undertook to straightforwardly answer the question he would shoot at you if you permitted him to interrogate you?

So with all society. The human suspicion and distrust so rampant today is a by-product of that system of denying man the information that he wants and seeking to cram down him that information you think he needs!

The surest way to enlightenment is to let the human mind seek, and then give it bread instead of a stone.

"Knock and it shall be opened unto you!" said the Master; but we have reversed the order and we rush about, beating upon the doors, shouting, "Open up and I shall show you!" The safest panacea for human ills is information, for when we have all the facts we agree, and when we agree we become partners in life enterprises. —Texas Commercial News.

Senator Pat Harrison Coming

During the last few years the newspapers have had steadily increasing comment on the "Gentleman from Mississippi."

Eleven years ago, not long out of his twenties, Byron Patton Harrison took his seat in Congress—the youngest member of the House. Several years of distinguished public service had preceded that event.

Report has it that young members of Congress, until after a term or two, are heavily frowned upon if displaying any precocity outside of voting.

Just how or when the Honorable Byron Patton Harrison jumped the hurdles of convention seems to be lost to history. That he did jump them seems to be fairly evident.

After three terms in the House we find him in his third year as Senator from Mississippi. In that election the record is that he received ninety-five per cent of the votes cast. How that five per cent of heretics happened to creep in no-one knows. Must have been a split in the party in some county.

In the august and sedate Senate we find mirable dicta, in three short years the gentleman from Mississippi an outstanding orator, a spectacular debater with the nickname "Pat."

If anything were needed to tell who is one of the most loved men in Washington, that nickname tells the tale. High in the councils of his party, young, respected by political antagonists. Senator Pat Harrison is a spectacular figure.

Senator Harrison will appear at Big Spring on the Redpath-Horner Chautauqua program this season.

The Spring Rain From a Hygienic View Point

The drenching rain which has been falling over Texas during the past week is no doubt beneficial to stock raisers and to plant life. On the other hand, the falling rain has been sweet music to bug and insect life, so reads a bulletin of the State Board of Health. Water is nature's cleanser. A downpour washes off accumulated rubbish, cleans out dusty corners and flushes storm sewers.

Some of this run off water drains into reservoirs which supply communities their DRINKS. Every city that uses surface water should endeavor to remove all contaminating agencies from its water shed. Mr. Farmer who has his own supply should look well to his well, and make sure surface water—especially from his barnyard—does not drain into his supply. Rain water is really "distilled" water, that is, it is water that has been vaporized and then condensed.

Rain washes the dust out of the air, and thereby purifies it, but rain also makes puddles of water which serve as breeding places for mosquitoes. Rain will wash the filth out of our gutters into our cisterns, unless the first water is by-passed. Rain also furnishes moisture so essential for the development of hookworm eggs in sandy soil.

From a hygienic stand point, it is generally not advisable for "Mr. Urbanite" to permit rain water to hesitate in gutters, visit under the house or become a habitat in an open cistern, rain barrel, tin can or bottle. Rather, lead it on its way to the brook so that it may "go on forever."

High School Notes

(Frances Sullivan & Frances Melton)
The Declamation contest was held Tuesday night April 17. Those in the Senior contest were: Edith Runyan, Opal Pittman, Marion Kennedy, Grace Sullivan. The pupil winning first place was Marion Kennedy. She read the "Star Spangled Banner." Opal Pittman won second place. She read "The Man Without a Country."

The pupils in the Junior contest were: Lois Peters and Margaret Bettie. The winner of the first place was Margaret Bettie. She and Marion Kennedy will represent Big Spring high school at the Track meet at Abilene. The girl debaters who will go are Ruth Miller and Frances Sullivan. There will be a holiday for the school children Friday April 20. It is hoped that a large number of the students and people will go as boosters to the meet.

The Home Economics evening classes in Foods and Home Planning and Furnishing began this week with an attendance of 18. No fees are charged for admittance to either course. The work is quite practical as well as interesting. Don't fail to take advantage of the opportunity.

The State clothing contest is to be held this year in Fort Worth—April 26, 27 and 28. This is the annual contest held for the schools offering work in Home Economics. The representatives to the contest from over the State are those girls who have won out in their local schools.

The Big Spring representatives this year are Louise Shive and Elza Jeanette Barnett. The Home Economics classes working together have succeeded in raising sufficient funds for the expenses of their two representatives and the chaperone Miss Euhank.

The Majestic program which was rendered at the High School Friday night, April 13 proved very successful. The Japanese Garden scene was especially attractive. The scene was laid in a summer resort. The stage was attractively decorated with cedar and flowers. A canopy was fixed overhead and a lattice work of cedar and flowers went across the back of the stage. At table No. 1 were Helen Hayden, Frances Sullivan, Albert Allen and Charles Stovall. At table No. 2 Berdie Shockley, Laura Robertson, Vera Gilmore, Pauline Williamson, Morris Williams, Robert Lee Pike, Herbert Whitney, and Rogers Hefley sat; and T. B. Hoover, Wanda True, Ruby Harwood and Buell Cardwell were at table No. 3. Baloons and confetti filled the air, while Aline Crowley danced and Marie Boswell gave a reading, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." Margaret Happel and Mary Elizabeth Burns were Japanese butterflies. At the end of the first scene the boys and girls got up, pushed the tables back and—well, the curtain fell.

The Glee club course was especially interesting. Among the courses were: "Mr. Gallagher, Mr. Shean," "I Don't Know Why I Should Cry Over You," and "Carolina in the Morning."

The next number on the program was a folk dance, Reaping the Flax. Grace Taylor, Dorothy Ellington, Elsie Jeanette Barnett, Ada Lingco, Helen Hatch, and Mary Hazel Hathecock were the dancers.

The Glee Club then rendered an old fashioned Garden scene. Marieanne McCamley was the old fashioned girl and the rest of the Glee Club sang old fashioned songs.

The last number on our program was a Southern Musical Wedding. Miss Wanda True was the soloist, singing "Kiss Mama, Kiss Papa," and "Don't Bring Me Posies When It's Shoesles That I Need." Irene Bates also sang "Aggravating Papa." The wedding scene was very and the First Maid of Honor, Lillian Potton and Wanda True manned during the whole ceremony.

At the close of the wedding, the groom, Bill Turpin, was lifted up so he could kiss the bride, Monroe Johnson. Chewing gum was the prevailing decoration. After the wedding Buell Cardwell and Melvin Pittman, as comedians, entertained for a few minutes.

After the comedians, the negroes sang, "Lil Liza Jane."

We wish to thank everyone for his support and we want to thank especially Mr. Albert Fisher, who was willing to let us have a style show in addition to our program. The reason we did not have it was that our program was long enough without it.

Special music was rendered during the whole program by Lynn Hatcher, Olivia Kirby and Omar Pittman.

Wednesday of this week was Senior day. All of the members of the senior class were dressed as near as possible like the first day they came to school.

All of the teachers treated the "little kids" as if they were primary students. We had reading lessons in the Playmate Primer and spelling lessons and lessons in numbers. At recess they played games on the campus and laughed and played as they used to do. At noon hour, they spread their lunch in the hall and had a regular picnic. After lunch they all marched to town.

This is one of the best times that the Senior class has had this year and we wish to thank Mr. Flaniken and all the members of the faculty for helping us to make this Senior day a success.

She perhaps likes her corset looser when she is working about the house—and tighter when she dresses for the street. The Modart Front Laced then is the ideal corset for her.

The Tale of the Old Tin Can

I'm just an old tin can, lying out in your back yard, but I have an important story to tell you.

When you ripped my lid open, dumped the pork and beans out of me, and pitched me out the door, you probably never expected to hear from me again.

But, listen. I'm no longer empty as I was the day you flung me out into the yard. Those rains—they've half-filled me, and the water is getting stagnant.

Five mosquitoes have made their nest in me so far.

These mosquitoes talk a lot. They're expecting to have a great season for malaria and dengue fever.

"This old can ought to produce about five million of us before the summer is over," one of them remarked.

"I've been talking to some of the gang in the next block, and everything is lovely down that way, too."

"Bill Skeeter, who lives near the drip pan under the ice box in that white house on the corner, says he never saw things look so promising."

Another one was telling his friends about having conducted a little investigation of windows and doors.

He found most of them screened all right, he said, but the screens were full of holes or didn't fit tightly. He thinks it will be an easy job to get in almost every home in this part of town.

Folks are nice and fat out this way, too, he added, and will be fine to chew on.

That's the sort of stuff I hear as the weather begins to warm up, folks.

I'm not in love with these mosquito schemers—that's the reason I'm tipping you off. I don't want to see a lot of people down with the dengue again this summer.

It's "inside dope" I have. For heaven's sake, take me seriously.

If you want to protect your health, empty me of this stagnant water right away, and then turn me over to the garbage collector.—Fort Worth Press.

Deal for the Farmer

The farmer has sold his product at profitable prices, he finds his dollar he receives is worth 60 cents when he comes to spend it, if the present trend continues, his dollar will finally sink to the German mark or the Chinese. If it does, he will make no money at all, instead of the loss himself, as he has done in the past.

He does not care what they pay for his products, provided he gets for them the same amount of dollars that will pass when he goes to the store, for 100 cents. He is not standing hat in hand, nor is he asking special favors from the law or government. He demands a fair price for his products, and he will in the future, although he has thus far failed to get it. He has taken a full course in the school of "hard knocks," and he has learned that the only way to handle his financial matters is to get them on an empty purse.

Bad Luck—Mr. Farley is approaching, with "good news," all and hatred for none. He has financial entanglements, and he is up to the bat with full assurance. He has a home run in the game, but he has an even chance of losing it. He has a better chance of getting hit than he has of scoring. He has better luck, better luck, better luck, but he will enter the game with a certainty of losing it. He is dividing the stakes with the devil.

Eight revenue-raising measures were included in the governor's first message to the legislature. Meanwhile the state faces a deficit of several million dollars in the next few months. It seems not to have occurred to the governor and the legislature that their time could be more profitably spent devising ways and means to care for this deficit, rather than appealing to the people to kick in with extra money. Several of the state's bureaus and commissions, for instance, might be abolished or consolidated at considerable saving—a plan, we believe the governor himself favors. A Few Discords

In press statements, in speeches, and amazing arrays of figures, the administration chieftains in Washington are joining in the prosperity chorus. Prosperity is here, or it's just around the corner, waiting to make its debut when campaign days roll around.

All of which is fine! Who doesn't welcome prosperity, if it is more or less evenly spread around among folks? There is a lot of hokum in the claim of administration leaders that the party in power has a patent on the prosperity process, but even so, it doesn't make much difference to most of us whether it's Republican or Democratic, so long as prosperity is shoes for the baby.

The notes that strike a discord in the prosperity chorus are those struck by such "snobs" as Charles G. Dawes of "Hell and Marla" fame and close political pal of the president. Dawes is trying to strike high-G in the Republican song-fest with this "open shop" note of his, and with his denunciations of the unions.

If Dawes stood alone among Republican leaders in his slams at the labor unions, it would cause little worry. But he doesn't. He merely voices recklessly a feeling which seems to be more or less prevalent among high party leaders to whom the president turns for advice.

It's up to Mr. Harding to say, now that he has been made the exclusive spokesman for the Republicans, what attitude his party will take toward the labor unions. There is just this about it—if he cares for this much heralded prosperity his cabinet lieutenants have been cooling along, he won't trust it out of doors with a general industrial warfare between capital and labor going on. And that's what Mr. Dawes' "open shop" fight would mean.—Fort Worth Press.

Sew Up the Holes in His Pockets!

Patrolling Old Man Texas' pants with constitutional amendments occupies so much of our statesmen's time that they have neglected the holes in his pockets. Now comes a favorite son, not a member of our present taxing Legislature, with a suggestion that these holes be sewed up and the opening to the pocket be narrowed by a constitutional patch that will, in some measure, protect his wad when he strolls through the capitol building.

This taxpaying son of Texas, too modest to accept credit for his idea, offers an amendment to the Texas constitution, requiring the Legislature to make appropriations for all existing public institutions and for work already started before any appropriation is made for any new institution or for the starting of any new work or project or for the maintenance of any new commission, bureau or office.

Another son of Texas offers an amendment which would provide that the Legislature at its regular session shall make all appropriations, pass all tax and revenue measures and finish all necessary business for the conduct of the state's affairs before local bills, reform measures and new legislation are introduced.

Farm and Ranch favors both amendments. The two suggestions are the most sensible that have come to our attention for several years. If the Legislature were forced to attend strictly to the necessary business of the State before pet measures were introduced, the chances are there would be fewer of them brought up for consideration. With necessary business disposed of, legislators would begin to think of home. There would be no demand for a special session, and none needed. The State would be better off and the cost of government reduced. Let's have these amendments by all means.—Farm and Ranch.

Glacier to Gulf Highway

The Glacier to Gulf Highway is a highway that "starts somewhere and goes somewhere." This is another important highway that reaches Big Spring.

Connecting as it does, with the Park to Park Highway and the twelve national parks of the northwest, the Glacier to Gulf offers a direct route from Glacier National Park through Billings, Montana, Rocky Mountain National Park, Denver, Pikes Peak, and the Garden of the Gods, along the Puget Sound to Gulf Highway thru West Texas and on to Tampico, Mexico. The Glacier to Gulf is destined to become a great commercial highway as well as one for the pleasure of motor-tourists.

The officers and directors of the highway are using their influence and efforts to have the new Texas Technological College located at some point on the Glacier to Gulf Highway.

El Paso city waterworks system is now making a profit for that city. In the past three years the water system has contributed $265,000 toward paying the city expenses besides meeting its own. Earnings by years were: 1920, $40,000; 1921, $60,000; 1922, $165,000. During the ten years previous the earnings were only $20,000.

D. Callahan enroute from Shreveport, La., to Los Angeles, California, stopped over in this city Wednesday to visit old time friends. Mr. Callahan is a former resident of Big Spring.

To Whom It May Concern:

It is being rumored that the petition circulated by the writer and signed by Howard County citizens, both farmers and business men was being done for the purpose of injuring the Farmers Union which I beg to say is false and they had no selfish motive, as cotton seed are being shipped from boll-woevil districts, by various people in this county. I am aware that cotton seed can be treated or disinfected in a way that there is little danger scattering the woevil. However there is some danger and we should use precaution in this matter.

This is to show the good people of Howard County that I had no other motive and there is no other implication in this rumor. I have had experience with the boll woevil and know the loss they will cause in the cotton when they get started. D. PRICE

Baseball fans were out in goodly number last Sunday afternoon to witness a series of games at the baseball park. Three five-inning games were held. The bankers and insurance men were winners over the garage men by a score of 8 to 3. The clerks took the hitherto unbeatable barbers into camp by the score of 8 to 4. Those not too tired to compete further, then chose up and had a warm five-inning game. The bankers are to take on the clerks in the next series.

"Birth of a Nation" Coming

D. W. Griffith's wonder spectacle "The Birth of a Nation," a United Artists release, is to be seen here for a special presentation at the R. and R. Lyric theatre, May 7th and 8th.

It will be presented upon the same elaborate scale which has marked its recent presentation in New York and other important cities where the great public demand for it induced Mr. Griffith to send several companies on tour.

No American film spectacle has enjoyed the vogue or the fame of "The Birth of a Nation" and it stands alone as an achievement of the American screen. The story which moves thru the most stirring periods of our history lends itself to that form of sweeping drama Mr. Griffith has employed in recent years to astonish the world.

Certainly no screen spectacle in contemporary times has for its lay characters such wonderful figures in our native history as are the protagonists in this elaboration of the Thomas Dixon novels dealing with the events that led up to the Civil War, the great battles of that conflict and the thrilling days of the reconstruction period when the South had to be reclaimed from a horde of adventurers who landed there with the back wash of war and caused more suffering than the war itself with its bitter disappointments and terrible sacrifices. Running through it are several love stories and touches of romance which materially heightens the action.

In these days of costly production it would be impossible to reproduce "The Birth of a Nation" with its remarkable cast and its great scenes. The public, therefore, is benefitted by the shift of times and given an opportunity to see Griffith at his best in a master work which would swamp a National Reserve Bank to produce in these days.

Milking Machines are Economical

Since milking machines first began bidding for favor with farmers and dairymen, there has been more or less discussion relative to the advisability of subjecting the cow to a mechanical process of extracting the milk from her udder. The subject has been threshed out in one way or another for several years, and even at this time, after the mechanical milker has demonstrated its merits on hundreds of dairy farms, there are some who doubt its efficiency, or at least its economy.

In order to settle the question of mechanical milker economy, also the efficiency of the milker, various tests have been made by dairy departments of agricultural colleges and experiment stations. Some of these tests have not been completed. Others have made their reports, and among these reports is one from the experiment station of the University of Illinois. Also a report of their investigations on farms where the milker was used. Data was obtained from thirty-two farms milking a total of 860 cows by hand and 860 cows mechanically. Thus a comparison of both efficiency and cost was secured. Briefly stated, in herds of less than twenty-five cows, the mechanical milker saved the farmer an average of $3.23 per head. In herds of more than twenty-five, the average saving was $5.70 per cow. Another saving, hard to estimate, brought about by use of the milker, is the saving of time during the busy season.

Other reports on the mechanical milker favor it as against man power, or hand milking. The milking machine has been practically perfected. It does efficient work and is an economy where the farmer or dairyman has a sufficient number of cows to justify the investment.—Farm and Ranch.

J. C. McKinnon recently purchased of Mrs. F. L. Bell, six hundred and forty acres of land, seven miles south of town and is getting one hundred and sixty-five acres in readiness to begin planting at once.

S. H. Brewer returned Monday from a visit in San Angelo. Mr. Brewer and daughter who have been visiting in San Angelo the past two weeks will return home today.

In Regard to Cotton Seed

The farmers around Big Spring have been raising several kinds of cotton including half and half. These conditions have made against us in selling our cotton. Some other places where the staple averaged better where the farmers did not raise, so many different kinds of cotton they have been able to get better prices.

It has been recommended by leading farmers and other cotton men as well, that if we would select one kind or not more than two kinds of cotton of good staple and one that was adapted to this climate, that we could profit very materially by it.

The Farm Labor Union of this county is trying to carry out this plan. We believe it is commendable and should have the support of every farmer in the county.

The different locals in the county, after some debating and contending on the part of a few individuals for their favorite cotton have agreed upon the A. D. Mebane Improved Triumph.

This cotton has been tried out here and is well adapted to the conditions prevailing in this section. It yields well to the acre and the staple of this improved cotton is good for a short staple cotton.

We had the seed from two cars that we shipped in last year but that was not enough to supply our men for this year as we lost a good many last year on account of heavy rains at planting time.

We have ordered three cars this year to be sure to have plenty so we will not have to plant inferior seed in case of heavy rains or hail.

When individuals order these seed in small quantities they cost $2.75 per bushel but by ordering them in car lots we save seventy-five cents per bushel or $900. per car of 1200 bushels to the car.

We are trying to help build up the cotton industry of Howard County with preference to the quality and price.

We are not shipping seed in here indiscriminately, but advisedly from reputable people under government inspection.

Just as our third car was announced in the paper a petition was circulated in Big Spring signed mostly by business men attempting to place this kind of seed under ban and urging farmers not to buy same, saying it made no difference if they were treated it was extremely dangerous.

But the facts in the case very emphatically contradicts these statements. There is no embargo placed by the government upon shipping this kind of seed to Big Spring.

And the fact that seed from this same place, and other places as well, have been shipped in here by individuals and cotton seed dealers for 12 or 15 years and we have no boll weevil yet is absolute proof that there is no danger when the proper precaution is used under government inspection.

We wonder why some one got so badly scared over a proposition that has been going on all of these years, and "It was so sudden."

We do not want the weevil in our county at all, but we considered all the facts before ordering any seed.

If the instigators of this petition have seed to sell let them say so, and sell them, we are not trying to corner the seed proposition, for we are not making any profit on it, merely helping what we consider a good move.

It looks very much like a huge joke to the ones who can read between the lines.

Mrs. Mesdames H. W. Leeper and John Clarke were hostesses to some two score of their friends last Friday afternoon. Tables for both Rook and Bridge had been arranged, the hand painted score cards also serving as place cards, by means of which each guest found her proper table.

Several games were played, Mrs. J. B. Neel winning high score at Rook, Mrs. Joye Fisher at Bridge. A delicious salad course was served. Miss Maud Leeper assisted her mother and Mrs. Clarke, and the afternoon was a very pleasant one for all present.

POEM

by UNCLE JOHN

If I was makin' sejestions, which I seldom attempt to do,
I might remark that old friends is giner'ly safer'n new. . . .
If you feel that Spring is upon us, remember this sage advice:
Be slow to part with yer fuzzies, till you're feelin' the need of ice.
If I should admonish my neighbors, which I hardly expect to try,
I'd start with the freaks of weather, from now till about July, dwell on the danger of takin' a blasted cold, if you peel off the winter fuzzies, because they're a trifle old.
If I was disposed to orate on matters of health in spring,
I might refer to the changes that April is bound to bring;
an' the crime of clippin' yer whiskers a month and a half too soon, is as fatal as sheddin' yer fuzzies before it's the tenth of June.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY

for 1923

Ah, the joy of childhood—to romp, to swim, to fish, to play, to while away the live long day filling the storehouse of the mind with memories that last through life. And youth—the thrill at vision—life, its possibilities, its potentialities, the expanding intellect, the virility of the hour, the ardor of sweet companionship, the birth of love. And middle age—the satisfaction of accomplishment, the rounding out, the home, the pride in recreation, the honor of responsibility, of guidance to the young. And age—repose, the vision of the setting sun, reflection of the day well spent, the task performed, the kindly word, the deeper understanding of humanity. Time? Comes the day of passing, the end of weariness, the entry into the great new world.

Richard Lloyd Jones Says

Your Success is Within Yourself

Others can bring you up carefully; can give you equipment and education, but at the end there is but one power that decrees for or against our success, and that is yourself.

Stevenson said, "One man I had to make good. Myself. All others I have to make happy—if I can."

Yourself is your direct point of contact with the world and those about you. Yourself is the point that needs study and adjustment because the world by all the laws of physics and metaphysics is bound to react upon you as you affect it.

Were it not for the real serious business of training and bringing the best out of yourself, the business of bringing happiness out of this world would be automatic.

As the world has grown complex, more and more study of the relation of each individual to his surroundings has been necessary.

There are certain qualities that belong to you yourself. Your most devoted friend cannot force them on you. Your most relentless enemy cannot take them away. They are a free gift of your inheritance.

If your birth has been niggardly with these qualities, then all your life you work to disadvantage, but if yourself be mostly of the right spirit, you will triumph anyway.

There are unfortunate, ill-born souls who come into the world with their heritage of self-mastery stolen from them. They are foredoomed to be a drain on humanity and a burden to their fellowmen. They may have many gifts of brilliancy and power, but they are like a fine and delicate machine that cannot be co-ordinated into productive power.

This is an age of attempt to study oneself with the idea of making oneself of use to others. More and more religions center on the necessity and duty of being right-minded.

You say, superficially, "My duty in this world is to others—not to myself." The truth is, your pre-eminent duty in this world is just to yourself. Only by doing the very highest best for yourself can you do the very highest best for others.

No man can teach mathematics who has not himself mastered mathematics. You can only teach astronomy so far as you have studied the study of the stars.

You cannot hope to make others cheerful until you have made cheerfulness your habit. You cannot give sympathy until you have acquired sympathy.

Emerson said that the best thing a boy got out of college was a room to himself.

Every wise man, like the wise merchant, knows where he stands because he knows the worth of pause for invoice. Take stock of yourself. If on reviewing your shelves you find your stock of consideration for others below, or your jars of generosity empty, get more of those commodities in your storehouse. You need them to make yourself good to yourself and therefore good to others.

It is only the poorly man who shies of self-study.

Fiddle and Fire

Rome burned. That seems to be a fact. Nero fiddled. That probably is fiction, seeing that the violin as we now know it was not yet perfected in Nero's day. But to all intents and purposes Nero might as well have fiddled. Whether he did or didn't is of no importance to the matter in hand. The point is that, so far as history is concerned, if it hadn't been for the fiddle we wouldn't refer to the burning of Rome nowadays at all. When it comes to history the habit of man is to remember the fiddle and forget the fire. We may conclude, therefore, in harmony with this observed tendency, that when the long-nosed investigators of the year 3023 shall have assembled the "data" for their account of the habits and doings of us folks of 1923 these foolish long-distanced dances will surely be included—to the exclusion of who was President or Governor or Mayor or author of the year's best seller.

Consider that for awhile—that for the year 1923, from the standpoint of the year 3023, the most important thing that is happening is a series of contests to determine in what city is being agitated the most obstinate pair of legs in the world. On the face of things it is ridiculous that ten centuries hence all things else of our time will have faded out of the picture except the glimpse at a man and a woman laboriously engaged in the folly of embodying the spirit of restlessness, the surrender to frivolity, aimlessness of energy and a dogged pertinacity in the manifestly trifling accomplishment of making an ordeal out of an amusement. In an exaggerated sense those phases of then-on-stop dance are typical of exaggerated specimens of our present-day humanity. But just as surely as the incroyables of the French Revolution—who dressed in diaphanous gowns wet with water the closer to conform to their persons, and who otherwise behaved themselves so as to earn the title of unbelievables—have held their place as illustrations of the mood and current of their day, so will these non-stop dancers dance on in history as objects of wonder and types of a supposed age far more foolish than they actually live in.

The year 3023 will be foolish itself, of course, so to misjudge us, just as we are foolish to judge France by the incroyables or Rome by Nero's fiddle. And yet these limber-legged young people ought to reveal our time to us in a way. If all of us weren't a bit too fond of winning, regardless of the race or the goal, would such meaningless contests as these find either contestants or spectators? It will not do to dismiss these affairs as merely the working off of animal energy. So to denigrate them is unjust.—Dallas News.

Shame on You!

Bonham Favorite: A fellow who got mad and quit reading this paper about a year ago passed the office door yesterday and looked to be very much surprised to learn that we were still publishing the paper. Of course we regretted to have this gentleman quit reading the paper, but we will manage in some way to get along until he gets in a good humor.

Tut, tut! Humility is the only proper attitude for an editor whose paper has been stopped by a disgruntled subscriber. When a disgruntled subscriber stops his paper the editor ought to be ashamed of himself. It shows that in his editorial policy he has failed to please everybody, and probably hasn't tried to. Shame on an editor who doesn't try to be all things to all men! If State Press were an editor—which heaven has forbade—he would make everybody love him. He would make everybody love him by not crossing anybody's opinions, prejudices, purposes, pompousness or pin-headedness. In other words, if State Press were an editor he would be hypocritical, insincere, lacking in courage, lacking in character and maintain only a surplus of piffle to pour on the people. By this method he could make friends—oh, so many friends! And when he should come to die the bereft public would approach his bier and say, "He was one great and good editor. He never knew anything and never said anything—a grand editor was he.—State Press in Dallas News.

Play Grounds and Health

President Harding said recently, "I regard play as having no small part in the building of good citizenship."

The proper use of leisure by the children of our land is a responsibility which rests upon the right thinking men and women of America. The lack of proper recreational facilities is one of the principal causes of the widespread juvenile delinquency which exists throughout our country today.

The playground boy of today is the healthy, happy useful citizen of tomorrow. The boy or girl who plays in the open air, under wholesome environments, is in little danger of contracting those habits which break down health and ruin character. The more playgrounds we have, the fewer jails and reformatories and hospitals will we need.

and benevolent work for the three years preceding the Campaign.

The contribution of larger gifts to religious work has been accompanied by larger spiritual results in the local churches. It is pointed out. For instance, Southern Baptists baptized 150,000 more converts during the first three years of the Campaign than they did in the three years before, gained 3,000 new Sunday schools and 400,000 new pupils, enhanced the value of their local church property by $33,000,000, enlarged their contributions to local causes by $22,350,000, and increased their contributions to all causes by $43,480,490.

Baptist Institutions Grow
Some other phases of denominational progress made possible by the Campaign include increasing the number of Baptist hospitals in the South from 12 to 19, with three others under construction and four more definitely planned; strengthening of 17 Baptist orphanages and the establishment of two new ones, lifting $3,000, 000 indebtedness on 119 Baptist schools, colleges and seminaries, completion and projection of permanent improvements there in the sum of $4,000,000, and the addition of substantial sums to the endowment funds.
Over 2,500 ministerial students are enrolled at Southern Baptist schools.

Church Loan Fund Raised
Among the outstanding accomplishments in the work of the Home Mission Board are the aiding of 1,000 churches in building new houses of worship, the completion of the million-dollar Church Building Loan Fund, strengthening the work among the foreigners and Indians and the 35 Mountain mission schools. The Board has employed an average of 1,495 workers during the Campaign and reports for that period 134,832 baptisms, 218,371 additions to churches, 2,376 Sunday schools and 759 churches organized, and 1,400 houses of worship built or repaired.

On the foreign fields the equipment for mission work has been practically doubled, more than 250 new foreign missionaries have been sent out, more than 400 new native workers have been employed, and the Board has entered the new fields of Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania, Southern Russia, Palestine and Siberia. The Board reports for the period of the Campaign 117 new churches on the foreign fields, 21,723 baptisms, 211 new Sunday schools, gain of 17,578 pupils, native contributions of $1,003, 390.68, and 529,642 treatments administered by medical missionaries.

Another result of the Campaign is that the Relief and Annuity Board, which is seeking to care for the aged dependent ministers and their families, has been enabled to double the number of such persons helped and the amount that is given these beneficiaries. Last year the Board was able to dispense $128,956 among needy ministers. It has invested assets of $1,148,083.

Receive 500,000 New Members
More than 500,000 new members have been received into the local Baptist churches of the South since the Campaign began, and in the hope of enlisting all these in the Campaign, as well as reaching the older members of the churches who have not shared in the forward movement heretofore, the month of November 5-December 3 has been designated as Re-enforcement Month by the Campaign Conservation Commission. During this month it is planned that every Baptist church in the South will call upon all its members who are not already participating in the Campaign and secure subscriptions from them covering the two remaining years of the movement, and cash offerings to the Campaign from all the members. Dr. L. R. Scarborough, of Fort Worth, Texas, who was general Director of the original Campaign, has been elected to serve in that capacity for the Re-enforcement program.
Although the details are being worked out in the various states under the leadership of the secretaries of the state mission boards, it is hoped to secure several million dollars in additional subscriptions and several million in cash as well by December 1.

ANNOUNCEMENT

of INTEREST to

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude"

Said Henry Ford in 1903--Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan!

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car---to put it within the reach of millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford Cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers---more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months---and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be deposited in one the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it---father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford Car.

Railroads Asked to Supply Information

Fifty-one of the largest railroad systems have been given until May 25 to furnish under oath responses to a questionnaire covering labor conditions in their maintenance departments and the general situation in regard to fitness of their equipment.

Each railroad was asked for data as to how the strike of shopmen had affected it, and whether any settlement had been made with the employes as a body. Where no agreement had been formally reached the roads were required to state what the striking employes demanded before returning to work. They also were asked for information on the fight of the strike, such as providing lodging for guards and strike breakers and to give by months from July 1, 1921 to March 31, 1923 the total number of train and engine employes in their service. They want information relative to the efficiency and economy, or the lack thereof, of the railroad management.
