Political Issues Up To Texas Electorate Tomorrow

Top Interest Centered On Senate Race

State Vote Total May Go Beyond 700,000

By The Associated Press
Texas reached the penultimate stage today in a bitterly fought U. S. senatorial race which has held chief attention in an otherwise comparatively quiet political campaign.

The three senatorial candidates took to the hustings for the last time before the democratic primary election tomorrow, when it was estimated may bring out as many as 700,000 votes or more.

Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, running for election to his first full-length term, was scheduled to speak at Schulenberg, Gonzales and Victoria.

Dan Moody was to talk at La Grange and Brenham today and at Woolridge Park in Austin tonight.

The third aspirant, James V. Allred, planned to appear before an audience at Fort Worth tonight.

At Houston last night Allred renewed an attack on what he described as O'Daniel's "isolationism," asserting that "28 hours after he took the oath of office the Senator broke his pledge to cooperate with the president and voted with Wheeler and Nye to disband our trained army."

Turning to a frequent reference by O'Daniel to "communistic labor racketeers," Allred said "to hear some folks talk you'd think there was only one man in America that has been opposed to labor racketeering. I want to remind you that in 1937 I was the first and only governor to speak out. I said then we would have no sit-down strikes and we didn't have any."

O'Daniel declared at Huntsville last night "there ain't gonna be no runoff" and reiterated that the race was not an issue because "the people are not divided on war—the real issue is the defeat of O'Daniel."

Moody told a Fort Worth audience that he was receiving favorable reports from over the state concerning his chance of election, adding "if all the people who are saying I am the best man vote for me I'll lead the ticket in the first primary."

Numerous candidates for governor, railroad commissioner, lieutenant governor and other state offices had last-minute appearances by radio and from the stump in all parts of the state in their final appeals for support.

In addition to the possibility of a run-off in the senatorial race, there also loomed a like chance for an August campaign in the 11-man race for the unexpired railroad commission term, and in the 9-man contest for lieutenant governor.

Five men were seeking the position of state treasurer and four were in the race for state commissioner of agriculture.

'Something Big' In Sabotage Case

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—The trial for their lives of eight alleged Nazi saboteurs entered its fourteenth day today amid an air of expectancy as one prominent participant in the case who declined to be quoted by name suggested that "something big" might happen soon.

Members of the prosecution staff were in conference in Attorney General Biddle's office beyond the scheduled 9:30 a. m. meeting time of the military commission of seven generals.

Biddle hurried into the heavily guarded trial area about 15 minutes late, while some of his aides in the proceeding continued in conference.

Flying School Work Moving On Schedule

Construction of the U. S. Army Flying School here is moving along as per original schedule and the initial cadre is due to arrive here early in August.

This was the word Friday from Col. Sam L. Ellis, in charge of the school, designated by the army as a bombardier training unit.

Construction curves on the original project are bobbing right along the scheduled line, and work is being mapped so that all essential buildings will be ready when the time calls for occupancy.

Virtually all barracks are in a stage of completion and many only lack the installation of oil heating units which are in storage. Mess accommodations are coming on and bid fair to be well ahead of demands when equipment arrives.

The initial cadre, said Col. Ellis, would necessarily be comparatively small detachment assigned to headquarters. A few later another and larger contingent likely will be ordered in and the following month probably will see most personnel on hand.

Some confusing reports on the stage of construction have arisen out of the authorization for additional structures not included in the original contract, the commandant believed. For example, approval of a big recreational building came through only recently and other additions are constantly being passed. Naturally, these will be later in completion and are not to be completed.

Girl's Body Is Taken From River

DALLAS, July 24 (AP)—The body of a woman recovered from the Trinity river Wednesday was identified yesterday as that of Rosalie Fielder, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert Fielder of Denton.

Identification was made by Mrs. Mary Ellen Adams, proprietor of a rooming-house where Miss Fielder lived for two weeks, and by other roomers at the place, Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Decker said.

Moody Merits Office

(AN EDITORIAL)

The Nazi hordes are hammering at the gates of the rich Caucasus; the sneaking Japs cling to the Aleutians and gain new footholds to menace Australia; our shipping losses are running beyond our ability to produce—

The war is becoming more deadly perilous by the hour. Is it any wonder that the thinking people of Texas are ready to rise up in righteous determination and see to it that they are represented properly and ably in the national congress?

For make no mistake about it, the war and the election of a United States senator are inseparably linked. You cannot escape it. The senate is charting our course in this war. It will chart our course in the peace to follow. There never was a time in the history of this state when the selection of a senator was so utterly serious.

It is not a thing to be treated lightly, as some of the candidates themselves have been prone to treat it.

Dan Moody is an exception. As has no other man in the race, he has grasped the significance of the office and its demands. As has no other man in the race he looks forward to furthering our victory effort and to the vital solution of peace problems. As no other man in the race he has pitched his appeal on the fundamentals of merit and ability.

As has been his practice, W. Lee O'Daniel has made the campaign a travesty. Even James V. Allred has dropped that dignity which the people had a right to expect. Both have been disappointments.

Moody has been a standout candidate, and he has been gaining ground. He will make a standout senator, one whom the people of Texas can trust, one for whom they will never have to make apologies. By every measure of statesmanship, he ought to have the senatorial office.

Countless numbers of people have conceded him to be the best qualified man in the race. If those people will vote conscientiously, Dan Moody will get their vote. If all voters will put give his candidacy due consideration before they go to the polls tomorrow, Dan Moody will be the final choice.

Land Measure Work Near End

Land measuring work in Howard county will be practically completed by the end of this week, C. M. Weaver, AAA administrator said today.

In going over the land for the first time in 1942, work is closing out slightly behind schedule, Weaver said, which is due to a scarcity of workers.

About 50 per cent of the farms in Howard county over planted their cotton quota, measuring reports show. Farms which over planted will have to be measured again after they have plowed up their excess acreage.

Before the recheck can be made farmers must make a deposit with the AAA office Weaver said. One dollar covers the cost for re-measuring where not more than two spots were plowed up, and fifty cents for each additional spot.

Nazis Covet Oil Wealth Of Caucasus

MOSCOW, July 24 (AP)—The German command turned covetous eyes on the oil laden Caucasus today as its military machine rumbled through the lower Don River steppes within 280 miles of the nearest oil fields in the rich producing area between the Black Sea and the Caspian.

It was evident that the Germans are trying to isolate the north Caucasus by cutting the rail line which runs from Stalingrad to Tikhoretsk, then to thrust southeast along the main line which runs from Rostov some 600 miles to the great Caspian oil port of Baku along the north slopes of some of the highest mountains in the world.

Although nothing had been heard recently from the German forces poised on the Kerch peninsula of the Crimea, it was obvious that the Nazi commanders there, too, were looking across the narrow strait, eager to try a thrust into the Caucasus from the flank.

The closest oil to the Germans in their present advance to the lower Don is at Maikop, 280 miles south of Rostov on a spur of the all-important communications system of rail line and pipe lines linking Rostov, Baku and the oil ports of Tuapse and Batum on the Black Sea.

The other great fields range from 500 to 800 miles or more to the southeast on both sides of the towering Caucasus mountains.

Russian dispatches pointed out that the Red army along the Don was fighting not only the battle for Rostov, Stalingrad and the Caucasus, but the battle of the northwest and of submarine war as well because its lot is to protect the vital oil.

County's Vote May Be Shy Of 1940 Record

Machinery In Readiness For Handling The Local Count

Candidates seeking nomination for public office in the democratic primaries will rest their case with the voters as democrats go to the polls tomorrow and pass their judgment.

Election machinery in Big Spring and Howard county is being set up today in preparation for the Saturday balloting. Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Closed for election day activities will be banks and liquor stores, and in general throughout the state Texas people are expected to be on this single day, interested chiefly in politics, which has taken a back seat in favor of the war during most of the campaign.

Indications are that Howard county's votes will fall considerably short of the all-time high total set in 1940 when 5,400 ballots were cast. Based on the number of absentee votes cast, of which there were 548 in 1940 and 305 this year, general opinion is that the county will poll about 4,000 votes for 1942.

Once more officials reminded voters in No. 3 and No. 4 (carved out of the old Junior No. 3) to be sure they voted in the correct box. The dividing runs down W. 4th street to Lancaster and south to W. 18th (the alley north of Dallas street), and thence westward to the section line about the west side of Soenic Mountain, and thence south to the county line.

For town voters, location of the voting boxes was considered pertinent information. No. 1 will be in the grand jury room (upstairs in the northwest corner of the courthouse); No. 2 will be in the county judge's office (upstairs southeast corner); No. 3 in the county courtroom downstairs; No. 4 district courtroom (center upstairs); and No. 5 at West Ward school.

The war effort has kept the focus of attention from centering on politics during the present campaign, which has seen no speakings or rallies conducted by county and precinct candidates. Race of statewide significance drawing most attention is the three-way battle being waged for the office of Junior United States Senator, and returns of this race will be watched closely by all citizens, as a close contest has been evidenced by the campaign.

Many candidates for county and precinct offices are running unopposed, as there are only 25 seeking election to 15 offices.

British Gains Consolidated

CAIRO, July 24 (AP)—British armored forces continued to stab at the Axis forces west of El Alamein while consolidating positions won on the northern and central sectors in two days of sharp fighting, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's headquarters announced today.

At the same time the enemy was subjected to a steady bombardment by artillery and the RAF, which blasted at Axis gun emplacements, concentrations of motor vehicles and communication lines.

Most of the action, the communique said, again centered on the central front, where the British have driven the enemy from the western end of El Ruweisat Ridge, and in the coastal area, where Australian forces were reported in control of the "Hill of Jesus" and neighboring ridges.

New Officers Will Handle Contracts

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—With the aim of reducing excess profits, the War Department has established price adjustment sections in district procurement offices over the country and given them power to renegotiate army contracts.

The new units will call in contractors to "study their contracts for determining possible profit reductions," the announcement said.

Red Resistance In Don River Sector Claimed Broken

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH Associated Press War Editor

Germany proclaimed today that Rostov had been stormed and captured, although not yet mopped up, and Moscow reported that unprecedented numbers of United States-built planes—especially Douglas Boston bombers—had taken to the Caucasus skies to bolster Russia's fight for life.

The Hitler command announced capture of the capital of the northern Caucasus, on the main railway and pipeline which tap the oil and mineral wealth of the deep Caucasus, and the Russians, while not acknowledging the claim, said the battle had reached the city gates.

Quickly the Germans followed this up with an announcement that resistance by fresh Russian troops within the Don bend had been broken.

Moscow dispatches said, however, that Red armies had taken a last ditch stand on the lower Don and were developing a flank attack against the east wing of the German lodgement in the Tamlyansk region, about midway between Rostov and Stalingrad.

From the wording of the Moscow communique the flank action was on a small scale, however. The Red air force was still a power in the Caucasian skies, "inflicting continuous blows on enemy formations and communications," as the communique put it.

The Russian stand on the Don indicated a determination to hold the Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad railway which roughly parallels the course of the lower Don between Rostov and Stalingrad, an air line distance of 260 miles.

Tikhoretsk, south of Rostov, is at the junction of this railway and the north-south line from Rostov into the Caucasus. The Germans at their Tamlyansk position were about 35 miles from the Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk link.

Today's Moscow communique said merely that Russian troops through the night had "fought the enemy in the areas of Voronosh and also in the areas of Tamlyansk, Novocharkassk and Rostov. No change took place in other sectors of the front."

That was the extent of the official Russian mention of Rostov although the communique went on to describe fighting in the Novocharkassk area, about 20 miles northeast of Rostov, near the bend of the Azal river.

"Our men repulsed attacks by numerically superior enemy forces," it said. "In one narrow sector alone the Germans lost 17 tanks and more than 800 men killed."

Grave Threat To Russia's Lifeline

The German high command used a special communique to proclaim the capture of Rostov—an occasion calling for a minute-long trumpeting and rolling of drums on the German radio, Berlin's device to call attention to special victory claims and gain maximum audience.

The Rostov situation and developing battles further up the Don valley, including a sharp menace to Stalingrad, an industrial center on the Volga where it elbows close to the Don bend, constituted a mighty threat to Russia's southern lifeline link with allied forces in the Middle East.

This and a lotting of the Caucasus treasure trove were Germany's major objectives.

At the other end of the Allies' middle east line, in Egypt, British armored forces lanced at Axis forces on Alexandria's outlying defense line west of El Alamein while consolidating positions won on the northern and central sectors in two days of sharp fighting.

ing planes were knocked down. The RAF's daylight campaign against nearer objectives across the channel in northern France was resumed at dawn.

Quotas Boosted Over Industrial Sugar

Industrial and institutional users of sugar will be given an increase of 25 per cent for the months of September and October, the local war rationing board has announced.

This increase has already been provided for in the rationing regulations, and does not require the procedure used heretofore in securing increases.

Other quotas for institutional industrial users can be increased only by the submitting of special applications showing an increase of business over the same period during 1941.

Red Cross To Send Food To US Prisoners

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24 (AP)—The American Red Cross disclosed it would have a ship loaded and ready to sail within two weeks from San Francisco to the Orient with $1,000,000 worth of packaged food for American war prisoners and civilian internees.

A. L. Schafer, Pacific area manager of the Red Cross, said that the Swedish ship Kanangoora, now drydocked here, was being made ready.

Kobe, Japan, Shanghai, Hongkong and Manila are the ports at which the American Red Cross expects the ship to call.

The only obstacle to her departure within a fortnight is that negotiations for safe conduct of the vessel have not been completed by the U. S. State Department and Red Cross officials in Washington through the International Red Cross with Tokyo and Berlin.

"The ship is now being painted white from stem to stern," Schafer said. "She will have large red crosses painted on each side. We plan now to have her strike out straight across the Pacific, as soon as final details are worked out."

Schafer has placed orders for immediate shipment of 100,000 standard Red Cross prisoners of war food packages to San Francisco.

Servicemen Wallop WOW 12-2 In Softball Playoff

Continuing their sensational play in the final playoff series in the city softball league, ABC-Lions walloped the favored WOW entry 12 to 2 Thursday night, as Blankenship, ABC-Lion pitcher scattered six hits and proved effective all the way.

The service club team scored enough runs in the very first inning for their victory, but continued to add to their tallies through the fifth inning.

Blankenship gave up exactly nothing during the first three innings, but was finally touched for a one-baser in the fourth. In the sixth, first three men up for WOW hit singles, but the service club pitcher settled down and retired the next three in order, leaving all three hitters stranded on the bags.

WOW scored both their runs in the seventh on two safe hits and an error.

The game, first in the final playoff series, gave the edge to the service club team. Next game will be played Monday night.

The box score:

Mike Jacobs Schedules To Garden Fights

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—A featherweight championship fight for September 24, by being handed a split 13-round decision over Pedro Hernandez of Puerto Rico last night in the co-feature on the garden's card, but this verdict was bowed lustily.

Charley (Lulu) Costantino got the featherweight shot with Charley Wright, tentatively written in for September 24, by being handed a split 13-round decision over Pedro Hernandez of Puerto Rico last night in the co-feature on the garden's card, but this verdict was bowed lustily.

Much more decisive was the way the Bronx Belter, young Mauriello, punched old Baltimore Red Burgran around the place and finally stopped him in nine rounds of a ten-rounder with a badly gashed left eye. Red just didn't seem to have it any more, and through his triumph, Tamal was awarded the go with Savold for Aug. 20.

Texas Crop Of Golfing Stars Never Falters

Wide World Features FORT WORTH—The supply of golf stars never runs low in Texas.

This applies both to male and female stars.

Texas has produced such standouts as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl, Jimmie Demaret and a flock of others who cashed in on the big time.

Among its amateurs have been Gus Moreland, Reynolds Smith, David Goldman, Bill Welch, Harry Todd and many more who won national fame and brought this section a fine representation on the Walker Cup teams.

Among the women are Betty Jameson, twice national champion; Antela Goldthwaite, Peggy Chandler and others who rank with the country's best.

National champions? Well, in addition to Miss Jameson there were Nelson, Guldahl and Hogan who took open titles; Welch, winner of the public links crown, and Earl Stewart, 1941 national inter-collegiate king.

Watch These Three Now tab three youngsters for future greatness: 17-year-old Ray Kenny of Dallas, C. Tyrell Garth of Beaumont, also 17, and 16-year-old Polly Riley, the extroverted of Fort Worth.

Polly, the experts say, will become one of the finest Texas ever has produced.

Results have been outstanding thus far. In 1940 Polly won the first flight of the Southern tournament held here and in 1941 went to the semi-finals of the championship flight at Memphis. She also reached the quarter-finals of the State tournament in 1941.

This season the pretty miss won the women's West Texas tournament and the critics say she definitely is on the way to national prominence.

A. G. Mitchell, Fort Worth professional who developed Mrs. Goldthwaite and other women golf stars, is quite enthusiastic about Polly's chances. So is Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth, who has played with and beaten practically all the top-flight women golfers of this section. Polly won the West Texas by defeating Mrs. Winger in the finals.

Has Plenty Of Power Stocky Miss Riley is the combination of many required qualities, the experts say. She has the physique, loves the game to the degree that she is willing to work at it tirelessly and has a strong competitive spirit and mental poise.

She possesses the power to hit the ball farther than most of the top women players. She has a sound swing and smooth coordination and improvement of her short game is what Mitchell is working on mostly now.

Sewell Due Orchids As Browns Hold To Berth In Top Division

By JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer James Luther (Luce) Sewell, the 41-year-old pilot of the St. Louis Browns, is being spoken of these days as the manager of the year and while this may be premature, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy as the saying goes.

Probably no manager of a fourth place club ever has been considered for any such recognition before, but it has been a long time since the Browns have been in the first division at this extended stage of the American League pennant race.

The fact that the Browns now not only are in fourth place, but have won 12 of their last 14 contests and are just four games back of the second place Boston Red Sox, is a glowing tribute to the leadership of the soft-spoken University of Alabama alumnus.

Sewell has put himself back on the active list and caught parts of two games in the last week.

Sewell worked five innings yesterday while the Browns went about beating the Philadelphia Athletics 9-6. Chat Laska, who has developed into a star recently, made three hits and Vernon (Junior) Stephens contributed a homer.

This happened while the New York Yankees were ending their 11-game winning streak at Cleveland and dropping a full game of their ample lead to all the first division teams in the league.

The Yankees had a 2-0 lead and Big Ernle Bonham was within a whisper of his fifth shutout, with two out in the ninth, when Phil Rizutto made an error to give the Indians an opening. They promptly tied the score with three singles and then won the game 3-2 in the eleventh.

The Boston Red Sox halted their losing streak by noosing out the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

Washington whipped the Detroit Tigers again 5-3.

In the National League the New York Giants took over undisputed possession of third place by out-homering the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4. Johnny Mize notched his 19th roundtripper of the year.

In a night affair at Philadelphia, the last-place Phils knocked off the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3.

Mitchell County Boy Died Defending His Plane's Equipment

COLORADO CITY, July 24—Everett A. Pond, first casualty from Mitchell county in this war, lost his life in the Pearl Harbor attack. This week, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pond of Cuthbert received a letter from Col. E. L. Eubanks of the United States Air Corps, relating in detail how and when and why young Pond met his death.

Pond, a bombardier, was killed in defense of Clark Field, at his place of duty, defending his equipment during a severe bombing and machine gun raid, according to the colonel's communication. He was buried with full military honors in the Fort Stotsenburg cemetery.

Picture of Pretty Nurse May Cause Enlistment Epidemic

COLORADO CITY, July 24 (Sp)—Glamour has joined the ranks in downtown Colorado City with the addition of the first picture of a woman in the service of America at war added to the grocery store window which has been given over to photographs of Mitchell county man in the service.

The picture is that of Lt. Irene Chitney, pretty young nurse who is in Australia with the American forces. Her picture is given the featured spot in the front line and is drawing more than its share of window-shoppers. One window-shopper put it like this: "Hey! If all the nurses over there look like that, there's going to be an epidemic."

Nelson, Little Hit Their Stride At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—The Tam O'Shanter golf tournament made considerable sense today for a change, because Byron Nelson and Lawson Little were winging along in front of the field in the $15,000 open event, with identical scores of 67—five strokes under par—after the first round of the 72-hole contest.

This was the first really sane development of an otherwise daffy week at Tam O'Shanter.

Nelson, last year's winner here and possibly the finest medal player in the game today, shot his round early to get the jump on some 23 professionals and a flock of distracted amateurs, who were otherwise wrapped up in their own match-play championship.

Little came in just before dark last night to the Nelson and announce his candidacy for the first prize of $2,500 that will be handed out Sunday.

Gib Sellers of Walled Lake, Mich., was right behind the leaders with a 68, while Dick Metz and Clayton Heafner were next at 69. Ben Hogan, the game's consistent money winner, was in threatening position with a 71.

Three negro professionals, Howard Wheeler of Los Angeles, Calvin Searies of New Orleans and Edison Marshall of Indianapolis, each equaled par 72.

The amateurs, after two days of furious battle, had reduced themselves to a quartet—Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., the national champion; John Holmstrom of Rockford, Ill.; Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., and Mike Stolarik, storekeeper third class at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. In the 36-hole semi-final matches today Wehrle met Holmstrom and Ward tackled Stolarik.

Ward had to go 23 holes to eliminate Earl Stewart, the '41 inter-collegiate champion, in their third round match.

At 63, Underwent Operation To Enlist

SHEPPARD FIELD (AP)—A 63-year-old private, whose military service in times of emergency dates back to the Spanish-American War, has joined the Army Air Forces technical training command at Sheppard Field. He is Private Harry Rudolph, of Brooklyn, who gave up a veteran's pension and underwent an operation on both legs to qualify for enlistment and a chance at specialized training for a ground crew post.

A press release just received from the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight Training School in Athens, Ga., reads in part as follows: "Texans who carried the Lone Star banner to the front in college and scholastic sports now are helping train the U. S. Navy's future pilots for a more vital victory in the greatest fight of all time."

"Fifty-five Texas stars of recent and present vintage are Naval officers here in the athletic department at the new Navy Pre-Flight School. They were hand-picked men to direct the cadets through a stiff three-months conditioning course, aimed for the actual flight training."

Included on the list of Texas men at Athens are representatives from virtually every college and university in the state. Some have held important coaching posts such as F. C. (Whitey) Bacus, formerly of SMU, and Mike Brumbelow, late of Rice. Charles Burton, former sports editor of the Dallas News is listed as aide to the commanding officer. Bacus, Brumbelow and Burton all hold commissions of lieutenant (J. G.).

Jack Brillheart Still Pitching After 21 Years In Baseball

DALLAS, July 24. (AP)—When rugged old Jack Brillheart got a sore arm—the kind that has put many of baseball's greatest in the scrapheap—he just kept pitching.

His idea was that one of two things would give sooner or later and he had a darned good idea it wouldn't be Jack Brillheart.

Well, it wasn't. And the 38-year-old veteran, working with Shreveport as he rounds out his twenty-first baseball campaign, is throwing them today even better than a decade ago.

Chunky Jack has strolled out to the mound 877 times—4,393 innings or 488 complete games, as many as a professional team will play in three full seasons.

Brillheart carried that sore arm around with him a long time. But this is the word for it. A sort of bony structure that forms at the elbow. Well, Jack just kept pitching and one day the bony structure broke loose. Soon it was gone.

Jack's hair is streaked with gray and he's a trifle thick through the middle but that left hand still can smoke the ball in there—not as fast as when he broke in with Washington of the American league at the age of 17 but still carrying a lot of steam.

"He's got a better curve ball than ever," said Salty Parker, manager of the Shreveport club.

Brillheart has won eleven games while losing seven this campaign. He's a mainstay in Shreveport's drive toward the pennant.

The boy's just getting his second wind.

Exporters Add To Lead, Cats Defeated, 4-1

By The Associated Press Beaumont accomplished a double task last night, in increasing its leadership of the Texas league by a game and at the same time pushing the second-place Fort Worth Cats down a little further in the standings.

The Exporters drubbed the Cats 4-1 at Fort Worth by virtue of Anse Moore's homer with two mates aboard in the first inning and another circuit clout in the second by Johnny Lipton. Charly Fuchs did his part by holding the Cats to one hit until the ninth, when Fort Worth annexed two more hits for its lone tally.

In the only other game of yesterday's schedule the cellar-dwelling Rebels beat third-place Shreveport 3-2 in a ten-inning battle at Dallas. Mel Stiner, who entered the contest in the third when Lloyd Rigby was expelled for beating at a decision, lined the ball over second to bring in Dick Korte with the winning score. The victory put the Rebels within two points of seventh-place Oklahoma City. Today's schedule (all night games): Houston at Tulsa.

San Antonio at Oklahoma City. Beaumont at Fort Worth. Shreveport at Dallas.

Ropes 8 Calves In Time of 3:9

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 24 (AP) It's no cinch, roping a frisky calf, but for $600 Cowboy Royce Sewall of Brownsmith, Texas, lassoed and tied eight of them in three minutes 9.1 seconds.

In a roping contest at the Cheyenne Frontier Days rodeo yesterday, Sewall's snake-like rope, twirled from the saddle of his calf-wise horse, snared the eight fleet-footed, darting animals.

In that three minutes 9.1 seconds, Sewall had to rope the calves, jump off his horse and wrestle and tie them.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By SID FEDER (Pitching for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK, July 24. (Wide World)—A bunch of the Pirate and Dodger ball players, chinning about this and that on the way east early this week, tabbed Tommy Hughes of the Phillies as the National League's No. 1 elbow right now. Proving you never can tell where you'll find gold. . . . The fur-lined skimmer for the best managing job of the season looks like a photo finish between old Luke Sewell and Master Melvin Ott. . . . (any arguments?) . . . Tom Facka, the St. Leo leading impression, angled that wild west show in the polo grounds a couple of weeks ago to the tune of a neat ten grand. . . .

Wanna know why Forbes Field is so quiet these days? . . . Bruce McAllister, the fan who's such a strong, silent guy they call him "the screech owl," has enlisted in the Marines. . . . Ring magazine took a nation-wide poll and found out that 68 per cent of the fight clubs in the country have shut down or haven't had a show since January. . . . New York State sometimes had as high as 28 in the past, but shows only 13 licensed now. . . . And only nine of them operating. . . . Bert McGraw (Dea Moines Register), Wilfred (Tincy) Smith (Chicago Tribune) and Clyde McBride (Kansas City Star) have organized a national football writers' association—first of its kind. . . . Did you know Chet Laab's uncle, Tony Sculscowski, had a tryout with the Cubs 25 years ago and later played with the Milwaukee Brewers? . . . He gave the linotypers a break by traveling under the name of Schultz. . . . Ted Mann, the ex-duke tub-thumper, is doing it now for the Jacksonville air station.

Lew Riggs has only slapped two doubles and a pair of homers and knocked in seven runs for his first ten pinch-hit appearances this year. . . . Which hardly comes under the heading of a slump. And do you suppose Bill Dickey's telling those Yankee pitchers to sorta take it easy on his kid brother? . . . 'cause Skeets has banged the champ elbowers for a homer, a double and a pair of one-base knocks as a White Sox pinch-hitter this season. . . .

Satchel Paige, the Negro pitching ace, is getting a mere $2,000 for serving 'em up for the Kansas City Monarchs in that doubleheader with the New York Cuban stars in Yankee Stadium Aug. 2. . . . The Giants are about ready to give up on that synthetic twilight ball. . . . It just isn't box office.

About 500 freight trains move through the Pittsburgh, Pa., area every 24 hours, an average of more than 20 an hour.

War Is A Battle For Freedom, Secy. Hull Tells The World

Calls For Full Front Against The Axis

WASHINGTON, July 24. (AP)—The United States is calling on all peoples who hope to keep their freedom, regain lost freedom or win new freedom to help defeat the axis now.

Secretary of State Hull sounded the call last night in an address shortwaved to all countries—friends, foes, defeated nations, and those still listed as rigidly neutral. He stressed that the conflict now raging is "not a war of nation against nation" but a worldwide fight by those who love freedom against would-be conquerors who seek to enslave all mankind.

Characterizing professions of neutrality in such a conflict as "absurd and suicidal," he pictured the worldwide war as a test of the caliber of nations and individuals.

"There is no surer way," he said, "for men and for nations to show themselves unworthy of liberty than, by supine submission and refusal to fight, to render more difficult the task of those who are fighting for the preservation of human freedom—unless it be to align themselves freely and voluntarily with the destroyers of liberty."

Then, in a sentence apparently at the militarily helpless inhabitants of axis-occupied countries, he added:

"There is no surer way for men and nations to show themselves worthy of liberty than to fight for its preservation, in any way that is open to them, against who would destroy it all."

In further emphasis of the theme that those who would be free must show themselves willing to fight against the despots of freedom, Hull asserted that in this vast conflict the wholehearted support of Americans is dedicated to those who are:

1. Fighting for the preservation of their freedom.
2. Fighting to regain the freedom of which they have been brutally deprived, or
3. Fighting for the opportunity to achieve freedom.

After victory, Hull pointed out, will come the difficult period of transition from war to peace. During this period the United Nations must cooperate to provide quick relief for starving populations, to restore public order, and a semblance of normal life in war-torn areas.

To prevent a new outbreak of war, "it is plain that some international agency must be created which can—by force if necessary—keep the peace among nations in the future." Such international cooperative action must include "adjustment of national armaments."

"It is equally clear," Hull added, "that in the process of re-establishing international order, the United Nations must exercise surveillance over aggressor nations until such time as the latter demonstrate their willingness and ability to live at peace with other nations."

To restore world trade and "the immeasurable benefits of international exchange of goods and services" there must be reduction of tariff barriers.

Then, in a sentence apparently at the militarily helpless inhabitants of axis-occupied countries, he added:

"There is no surer way for men and nations to show themselves worthy of liberty than to fight for its preservation, in any way that is open to them, against who would destroy it all."

In further emphasis of the theme that those who would be free must show themselves willing to fight against the despots of freedom, Hull asserted that in this vast conflict the wholehearted support of Americans is dedicated to those who are:

1. Fighting for the preservation of their freedom.
2. Fighting to regain the freedom of which they have been brutally deprived, or
3. Fighting for the opportunity to achieve freedom.

After victory, Hull pointed out, will come the difficult period of transition from war to peace. During this period the United Nations must cooperate to provide quick relief for starving populations, to restore public order, and a semblance of normal life in war-torn areas.

To prevent a new outbreak of war, "it is plain that some international agency must be created which can—by force if necessary—keep the peace among nations in the future." Such international cooperative action must include "adjustment of national armaments."

"It is equally clear," Hull added, "that in the process of re-establishing international order, the United Nations must exercise surveillance over aggressor nations until such time as the latter demonstrate their willingness and ability to live at peace with other nations."

To restore world trade and "the immeasurable benefits of international exchange of goods and services" there must be reduction of tariff barriers.

Then, in a sentence apparently at the militarily helpless inhabitants of axis-occupied countries, he added:

"There is no surer way for men and nations to show themselves worthy of liberty than to fight for its preservation, in any way that is open to them, against who would destroy it all."

Nazi Europe's Harvest Will Be Short

LONDON, July 24. (AP)—Germany and Nazi-controlled Europe will harvest a crop of 15 to 20 per cent below normal this year and it is possible a shortage of farmhands and rainy weather may make the deficit still greater, British-American agricultural experts said today.

In addition, these sources declared, Germany can count on only one-fifth of her normal cereal grain imports from fertile southeastern Europe, on which she has been banking heavily.

As a result, the Germans will face the most serious food situation this winter they have encountered since the start of the war, said these experts, who would not permit their names to be used.

This picture was presented:

For the first two years of the war Germany kept food rations at a comparatively high level by eating accumulated stocks. Because of this year's poor general harvest she will have to fall back upon her own production and on reserves reduced to a bare "working minimum." That little she imports will be offset by grain she must send to her allies, such as Finland.

A heavy frost last winter destroyed more than 6,000,000 acres of barley, wheat, rye and rye— one-third of Germany's farm acreage. The fields were replanted, but a late spring delayed the work. Because of the risk that the grain would not ripen, considerable of this acreage was replanted with potatoes.

The cold also affected fruit trees, which still had not recovered from the severe winter of two years ago.

LET NO DEMAGOGUE OR PRESSURE GROUP BEFOUL YOUR BALLOT

The inveigling of Frank Doble by the corporation owned newspapers into signing his name to a political article made up of material gathered from the campaign speeches of Jimmie Allred and Dan Moody represents the most reprehensible imposition upon a man's loyalty to his benefactor. Since these great publications buy and distribute the syndicated article written by Frank Doble, it was natural that Frank, for loyalty's sake, consented to help them in their cunning efforts to smear O'Daniel, and in their futile efforts to arouse public enthusiasm for their puppet candidates. The work proved too nasty for the pen which for years had rejoiced in depicting the beauty of western sunsets, the chugging along of the chuckwagon and the stampedes of the herds moving maddly up the trail. Therefore, lacking the soul of the true Frank Doble, the article was as pitiless as a pickled cadaver. Money cannot buy true emotions. Money can buy only synthetic substitutes.

We do not know the man, Frank Doble. The Frank Doble we know is shaped and formed out of the impressions gathered in reading these syndicated articles. This Frank Doble is a West Texas pioneer, gentle, considerate, but unafraid. He would not have stood by during the past three years when our country was facing the greatest peril of its existence, and permitted the loss of over twenty-six million man days of labor in our war industries due to strikes and slowdowns called by selfish unpatriotic, foreign labor leaders. He would not have stood idly by on that fateful Sunday morning when the yellow Japs were bombing Pearl Harbor, where ten thousand of our brave boys were killed and wounded, and permitted the foreign-born labor leader racketeers to close the gates of our airplane factories, refusing to let red-blooded Americans enter that they might make shot and shell for their own sons who were on that day defending outposts of America. This Frank Doble, whom we know, would not stomp his great state deriding and ridiculing Senator W. Lee O'Daniel because he dared to stand alone, single-fisted, and hostile foes, in that great senate chamber and fight for a law compelling labor and industry to keep our factories humming so that tanks, planes and ammunition may flow in consuming quantities to the aid of our boys and to the defense of our country. Dan and Jimmie, through their silence, tell the mothers and fathers of Texas that they think it is fair, equitable and just to force our boys, under the compulsory selective service law, to take their places in the fox holes but that they do not think it right to use any compulsion to make any man work in the making of guns and ammunition for the defense of these boys. Had the millions of man days of labor lost due to strikes and slowdowns been used faithfully in the production of planes, tanks and other munitions of war and their delivery to China, Russia and the Philippines expedited, who can say that these forces may not have been sufficient within themselves to terminate a favorable victory?

Dan and Jimmie, if they like, may ridicule O'Daniel's music. They may ridicule his lowly birth, but it ill becomes them to ridicule and deride him for standing alone upon the senate floor and fighting for what he considered right and for what every red-blooded patriotic American knows was right. Often it is easier to condone the wrong and stand with the multitude than to champion the right and stand alone.

Dan and Jimmie, if they like, may ridicule O'Daniel because he is of and for the common man. They may ridicule him because of his supposed country-like social awkwardness, but to laugh at him and belittle him because he voted with 217 house members and 85 Senators in the keeping of a solemn obligation made by our Government is descending to a baseness unworthy of the lofty traditions of our country. And the keeping of this promise would have caused no upheaval in our Army plans, for the boys would have been discharged in small groups just as they were inducted, and their places would have been immediately replaced by new recruits. Then, when the selfish labor leaders permitted our factories to make a few guns and cannons to replace the broomsticks and sledgehammers, these discharged soldiers would have been re-inducted with their original classification and without any re-examination. This is the way that 217 out of 435 House members and 85 out of 80 Senators saw the matter. Since when, dear friends, has it become unpatriotic and dishonorable for an American citizen to keep his word of honor? As Frank Doble would say, "Dan and Jimmie are sirs in a dog and swears a buffalo." The trouble with the cockeyed world is that contracts, agreements, promises and covenants are not worth the breath expended in their dictation or the ink used to record them. If America is ever destroyed it will not be from outside force, but it will be from our own internal rottenness.

Dan and Jimmie may question the patriotism of Senator O'Daniel. They may question the intensity of his feelings for the safety and welfare of our soldier boys. But when they do, they sink to the level of character assassins unworthy of the respect of the fathers and mothers of Texas. O'Daniel has a son marching by the side of your boy and my boy. Therefore, any accusation accusing him of indifference toward these boys is an indirect accusation against every parent who supports O'Daniel. As for you, we cannot speak, but as for us, the accusation is as filthy as the domicile of the alley rat. The man who questions our love for our boys and our patriotism for our country is a sneaking coward. To die on the battle field fighting for right and justice is honorable and commendable, but to die at the hands of the character assassin is ignoble and infamous. It is disgusting to see self-proclaimed patriots running about over the state questioning the patriotism of their opponent and accusing him, the father of a soldier boy, of indifference for the welfare of our boys when they, without children in the service, and with no intention of serving their country in actual combat, claim a monopoly on patriotism and sacrificial service to our country. Why, dear countrymen, Dan and Jimmie are as far removed from the war as right is from wrong. If America's front army is one-tenth as strong and valiant as are our swivel-chair brigades at home, all the fury of the inferno cannot make a dent in our armor and the war would certainly end much quicker than predicted by Congressman May, Harold Ickes and Senator O'Daniel.

Thus do we appeal to the fathers and mothers of Texas who have sons in the Army and who believe in the proposition that labor shall work without interference, that industry shall produce without thought of profit and that the politicians shall become statesmen and not dispensers of political patronage, to march to the polls like free-born Americans unafraid of the demagogues or the pressure groups and cast a vote for the man who dared to stand up for right though he stood alone.
(Signed) THOS. A. KING
(of Dallas)

F.S. Wait a minute! Frank Norris is on the air. Thought he was dead. Opposition, in desperation, evidently hired old Frank to come to their rescue. Same old Frank as thirty years ago. Listen! He is tearing down the other lanes, holding the heart and character of O'Daniel in his waving hands, and shouting that O'Daniel is a slacker, and doubting the true origin of O'Daniel's name and questioning the month and year that O'Daniel married the mother of his soldier boy. How funny! Frank is now telling that he has been a friend and personal admirer of O'Daniel for many years, that he voted to raise him from an ordinary laboring man to the two highest offices in the gift of the people. Yet, now Frank says that O'Daniel fooled him three times in three different elections with the same old trick. Gosh! The old boy certainly should have a guardian appointed over him. Frank is at his best, for it is his hour of vindictiveness. We can remember old Frank when he tried to disrupt the Democratic party in Texas by campaigning the state in behalf of Herbert Hoover. Yes, it's worth a dollar. Brings back reminiscences of school days in Fort Worth when we students would attend his speaking engagements just to hear him raise hell and do a little rabble rousing. This was Frank's heyday. He held Fort Worth in the palm of his hand. The air was filled with rumors and more rumors. We will ignore the rumors. Don't like gossip. Don't like the rattle of hidden skeletons. So it was, Frank grew in popularity and self-importance until the day he attempted to dominate a Baptist convention, and, if we remember correctly, a Baptist rift was the result. Following this, Frank raced back to Fort Worth declaring that he would build himself a church whose steeple would play hide and seek with the stars. After much ratiocating for financial help Frank finally got his church building one story above the ground. May it be hoped that Frank's efforts in this campaign will remunerate him sufficiently to carry out his dreams and raise the spires to grace the skyline in his beautiful city.

Since we have no free radio time or newspaper space furnished us by the demagogues and pressure groups, we, for financial reasons must tune off as Frank's choir sings a beautiful religious song. As Winston Churchill would say, some mixture of incompatible, political and religious, with the pulp used as the crucible.

STONE turns down Job Of Making A Rubber Inquiry

SUGAR HILL, N. H., July 24. (AP)—Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone said today that he did not intend to accept the task of making an independent inquiry in the rubber situation to end present controversies over the problem.

Here for his summer vacation, the chief justice, when told stories had been published to the effect that President Roosevelt had asked him to make such an inquiry, said:

"I have not accepted any such responsibility and I do not intend to."

The New York Times, in a Washington dispatch, said that President Roosevelt had been counseled to nominate some one in whom the public would have full confidence to get to the bottom of the situation, so that an official policy could be based on the findings.

What Senatorial Candidates Are Saying

O'DANIEL
HUNTSVILLE, July 24. (AP)—Declaring "there ain't gonna be no runoff," Senator W. Lee O'Daniel told an audience last night there was a big "ground swell" that would turn into a landslide of votes for him in the Democratic primary election tomorrow.

Reiterating that the war was not an issue, he said an issue was a question on which people were divided—and there was no division of opinion concerning the war effort.

Referring to a charge by his opponents, Dan Moody and James V. Allred, that he was not interested in the war, O'Daniel declared he had one son in the service and another was ready to go.

During his term in the Senate, he added, he had backed every war measure, and while governor of Texas he said he had supported a strong national guard.

He forecast that the war would not last more than two or three years.

He accused his opponents of conducting a whispering campaign against his family. But he gave no details.

MOODY
FORT WORTH, Tex., July 24. (AP)—Dan Moody moved in his race for the U. S. Senate toward the finish line—a first primary election eve rally at Austin tonight—with the assertion that he could "take care of either Allred or O'Daniel in a runoff."

And there will be a runoff, Moody told a responsive crowd in Capps park at Fort Worth last night, adding: "If all the people who are saying that I am the best man vote for me I'll lead the ticket in the first primary."

His forecast was backed at the end of a measured address in which the former governor pressed his theme that the campaign, because of the war, was the most important for Senator ever conducted in Texas.

The campaign has gained impetus, Moody told the Fort Worth crowd, "because of the part which the Senate shall have in moving the war to victory: in enacting laws which will keep domestic life going while we fight; in securing a lasting peace, and because of the part the Senate will have in meeting the problems of the after-war world."

ALLRED
HOUSTON, Tex., July 24. (AP)—Jimmy Allred, intent on sending Senator W. Lee O'Daniel out of politics "the same way he came in—without a runoff primary," struck out for Fort Worth today and the closing speech of his hard-hitting campaign to go to the U. S. Senate.

Allred told an enthusiastic Hermann Park crowd of Harris county homefolks here last night that Texas, facing its greatest political decision in its history, could not afford to send one of the "Pacifist, appeasement and isolationist crowd" to Washington.

The main theme of his speech—lasting 70 minutes—was that incumbent O'Daniel was such a man.

"My friends," Allred asked, "How are we going to win the war and then write a peace when our leadership sings and fiddles while Texas burns?"

The most pronounced reaction from the crowd came when Allred sarcastically asked such questions and made the motions of strumming a guitar.

All Wages Must Be Reported To Social Security Officials

All wages paid for services rendered, regardless of the length of time involved, should be reported on the regular quarterly Social Security tax returns, Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring office of the Social Security Board, announced today.

The announcement was made to correct the false impression of many employers that work of a short duration need not be reported. "Temporary, part-time, intermittent, or casual labor, which is in the course of an employee's trade or business should be reported, even though the amount of wages involved is small," Adams said. "Employers should record the name and Social Security account number of each such worker, and the required information should be reported the same as that for regular employees who work steadily for one employer."

Adams added that night watchmen, janitors, and others who may be employed by several firms at the same time are entitled to the old-age and survivors insurance benefits which are provided by the Social Security Act. The benefits are computed on the basis of the total wages received from all employers who are covered by the social security act.

Laws Demanded To Put Stop To Contract Profiteering

WASHINGTON, July 24. (AP)—Laws to curb the profiteering fringe of war contractors were demanded today as the result of a year-long investigation by the house naval committee.

In a summation of its inquiry, the committee said that 95 percent of contractors were doing an honest job but "the other five percent appear to be taking advantage of the war situation."

For that group, the report suggested action to limit profits. It added, however, that "whether this ideal should be achieved through a direct limitation law, excess profits taxes, or some other means should be carefully considered by the proper committees of congress."

The excessive profits of the five percent group ranged as high as 1,768.22 per cent on individual contracts. This was the black spot in a report which otherwise commended the navy for its "high degree of efficiency" and industry as a whole for doing a "magnificent job."

On the basis of its study of 39,405 naval contracts, with a total value of $4,599,087,085, the committee reported that profits averaged 8.1 percent of cost, and described that figure as "reasonable." Largest profits in a specific field showed up in engineering and architectural where a survey of contracts of 66 firms disclosed an average profit of 25.97 per cent.

The committee made public figures showing a 380 per cent increase in ship construction over a year ago, and development of an air arm which it said would "provide the United States with the strongest offensive force in naval history."

Sell B'Spring, Says Greene

Big Spring people have a marvelous opportunity to sell Big Spring to hundreds of newcomers, J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager, said in an address to the American Business club Friday noon.

The club took on a big responsibility in accepting the task of raising $1,000 for Chinese relief, according to an announcement from President Doug Orme. The club will assume charge of organizing the city for the necessary campaign to raise funds.

In his talk, Greene stressed the need for maintaining community pride, or keeping up reputations for courtesy and friendliness, for keeping residential and other property in as good appearance as possible. He also touched on the business result of the bombardier school construction here and reminded of the grave community responsibility in meeting the housing shortage.

Guests for the day included R. M. Harvey, Alpine, R. R. Grace, Fort Worth, Bruce Meador, Abilene, Greene, Cy Bishop and Boyd McDaniel.

Allred Boys Will Watch Outcome Of Dad's Race Here

How Dad makes out Saturday will be a matter of vital concern for two youngsters as they watch election returns come in with their grandparents here this week-end.

They are David Crockett Allred and his younger brother, Sam Houston Allred, sons of Judge James V. and Mrs. Allred and grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Miller, 510 Washington Blvd.

While their older brother, Jim Boy, has been carrying on for Dad elsewhere, David and Sam Houston haven't been letting any political moss grow under their feet. Mr. Miller has been on a two weeks vacation, spent in Central Texas where he grew up, and the boys took advantage of the trip to get in some real campaigning for their Dad.

Of course neither David or Sam Houston are up to the stumping age yet, but they are veterans when it comes to passing out cards and putting out posters for "a mighty good friend of ours." Judging from the response they had in asking to put up posters, they are more than encouraged at the backing they believe their father is getting in his race for the democratic nomination as U. S. senator.

Sunday they hope that Mother and Dad, along with Jim Boy, will be out to spend a few days visiting with the Millers. For several summers now this has been a sort of vacation spot for Judge Allred and family and the Millers as well as the two younger Allreds are hoping that it will be "Senator" Allred on this particular visit.

Electric Equipment Wanted For Use In The Signal Corps

Full cooperation in the USDA War Board's survey to locate used electric motors, generators and power plants was urged today by C. M. Weaver, administrative officer of the local AAA office.

Location of all such items are to be recorded by the local offices and then forwarded to the state office, where they will be available to the Army Signal Corps, Weaver said. Several letters to persons in the county have been sent in regard to the survey, but time has been too short for a response.

Desired is information concerning location of alternating current motors and generators of 110 to 220 volts and all kinds of power plant machinery, whether it be gasoline, kerosene or diesel.

Persons possessing power plant machinery should make personal contact with the "War Board," so that they may give direct information in regard to type, capacity and condition of their equipment.

Promptness is requested in this survey, as a report must be mailed to the state office Monday afternoon.

Ad Campaign Urges Scrap Collection

Nationwide advertising is being used with daily and weekly newspapers, the farm press, trade papers, magazines and radio to stimulate the flow of scrap metals into war production. The industries of America are financing the $2,000,000 advertising campaign and the Bureau of Industrial Conservation of the War Production Board is assisting in the concentrated drive for scrap material.

"This campaign," said John L. Dellinger, regional conservation manager, "was undertaken by a group of the nation's leading industries, in cooperation with the Conservation Division of the WPB and is closely integrated with the WPB's new national salvage program. The committee includes member companies of the American Iron and Steel Institute, which is concerned with assuring a continual flow of scrap metal into its plants, but is also using its advertisements to stimulate the flow of other needed materials. The immediate response of industry in setting up machinery for the campaign was particularly gratifying, in so far as it helped us to clear the tracks for an all-out drive to bring in the scrap."

Although the current advertising campaign is designed to stimulate the immediate flow of scrap into the war production, conservation officials emphasize that the over-all scrap and salvage program is a continuing campaign throughout the war and it is essential that every ounce of scrap should be gathered for war production purposes. A date drive does not mean that collection for that material will end at the time the drive ends; the scrap program and the war program are identical and inter-related, conservation officials said.

Medal Awarded To Odessa Army Flier

LONDON, July 24. (AP)—Sergeant Frederick BARRICK of Odessa, Texas, was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for "exceptional gallantry in the face of the enemy" while flying with the Royal Canadian Air Force in Burma, where he was credited officially with downing five enemy planes.

The citation said that Barrick shot down over Loiving a Japanese fighter which was attacking a yellow platoon and then was forced down himself when his engine failed. Though blinded by an enemy machine gun, he landed, enemy planes continued fire at him on the ground.

Despite burns and wounds, Barrick succeeded in regaining the Chinese lines after walking for two hours.

Insurance Group To Meet Saturday

American National Insurance representatives will hold a general meeting of the Big Spring district here Saturday morning beginning at 9:30 at the offices on the mezzanine of the Settles hotel.

Agents from Crane, Odessa, Monahan, Pecos, McCamey, Midland, Alpine and Fort Stockton are expected for the one day session. C. A. Amos is superintendent of this district.

Lomax Organizes For Conservation

In a meeting this week farmers in the Lomax community organized a new soil conservation project for that area, County Agent O. P. Griffin has announced.

Area included in the new program extends from the north and south road at Lomax school westward for about two miles, and it embraces three and one half sections of land. Any farms located adjacent to those signed up may be added easily, Griffin said.

Army Fliers Are Honored

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Friday, July 24. (AP)—A group of United States army fliers were awarded silver stars by Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett today for parts in bombing attacks on the Japanese airbases at Rabaul, New Britain.

The pilots of a flying fortress also received the silver star for a hazardous mission over Ambonina, in the Dutch East Indies, while four other fliers received purple hearts.

Those awarded silver stars included: Sgt. Durward W. Resmire, Portales, N. M., staff sergeant.

Purple hearts recipients included Lieut. Eddie W. Hayman, Huntsville, Tex.

Hayman, navigator of a flying fortress, was awarded the purple heart for "a meritorious act and essential service" during which he received wounds in action June 30 over Kendari airdrome.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Harvey of Alpine will be the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Amos. Harvey is to attend the American National Insurance company's general meeting here Saturday.

fused with work under the original contract.

Topping of streets has progressed well on areas with less heavy traffic. Where travel is intense the base is in place and a stabilized oil course has made them as serviceable as the topped arteries.

With work progressing smoothly on most of the sections, the school site has been transformed in recent weeks. Rail lines, with exception of ballast, have been extended alongside virtually completed warehouse batteries. Much of the immense concrete apron is in. The million-gallon reservoir will be ready to receive city water next week, and the sewer connections could be made today from several vital areas if the mains to the city lines were ready.

The city, said Mayor G. C. Dunham and City Manager E. J. McDaniel, is making every effort to rush water lines to the school's reservoir. Today the ditching machine was grinding away with a record of ranging between 1,000 to 2,000 feet a day. A second ditcher had been shipped from San Angelo and will be pressed into service immediately in cutting for the three-mile sewer outlet. While the city was hoping for Aug. 1 as the date for having its facilities ready, officials said that connections could be made early in August anyhow.

Nazis Salvage Sunken Ships

LONDON, July 24. (AP)—Germany, pinched for shipping space after almost three years of war, has started a campaign of salvage vessels sunk along the European coast and is pushing a program for construction of standardized merchantmen similar to the American "liberty ships," British sources declared today.

The situation facing the reich is reflected in official British reports that of the 9,000,000 tons of merchant shipping with which Germany and Italy started the war, 5,250,000 tons had been sent to the bottom prior to last December.

How much tonnage the Axis has lost since then is largely a matter of speculation, but Allied communications indicate that it is considerable.

While British and United States navies have virtually throttled Germany's overseas commerce, she is struggling tremendously to maintain vital supply lines in European waters—particularly in the Baltic and Mediterranean.

In the Baltic, German freighters are moving iron ore from Lulea, Sweden, to north German ports and supplying Nazi troops in Russia and their Finnish allies.

With Soviet submarines on the loose in the Baltic this is becoming a hazardous job, and the Germans are reported to have resorted recently to convoying.
