Road Bond Issue Approved

FOUR LANE HIGHWAYS TO BE BUILT

LUBBOCK COUNTY property owners approved by a near ten-to-one margin the Road Bond Issue in Monday's balloting. The issuance of $1,750,000.00 in bonds will now be authorized for the construction of four-lane highways within the county.

PARTICULARLY OF IMPORTANCE to Slaton's area will be the construction of a four-lane highway south of town to the county line, and north of town to the point where four lanes are already in use. Also to be built is a by-pass connecting the two new stretches which will run around the west edge of town.

A two-to-one majority was necessary for the passage of the issue, and Slaton turned in the necessary majority. Of the three Slaton boxes, 395 voted "For" and 182 voted "Against". The margin over two-to-one was 31 ballots.

The Northwest Slaton box voted for the issue 121 to 38; the East box voted 90 to 67; and the Southwest box carried 184 to 77.

Closest At Idalou
Only five voting precincts of the county's 44 boxes failed to give the bonds the necessary two-to-one majority and their margins fell short by a few votes except in the Idalou box where the ballot count showed 63 votes for the bonds to 60 against.

Maintains Long Record
In approving the bonds program, the county's voters maintained the record of never having defeated a bond issue in more than the 70-year history of the county.

A special 15-cent road tax on a pay as you go plan over a five-year period to pay for the right of way was rejected by Lubbock county voters about 18 months ago. The present bonds will be retired over a 12-year period.

Late Vote Is Heavy
The 8,770-vote total was far below the county's 35,000 eligible voters this year but Tuesday's election was confined to property taxpayers which may have been one of the factors for the vote in comparison to the overall total.

The turnout, for this type election, was considered fairly heavy, however.

Voting during the early part of the day started at a slow pace but election officials reported a heavy turnout of voters during the late afternoon which kept counters busy right up to the 7 p.m. closing time of the polls.

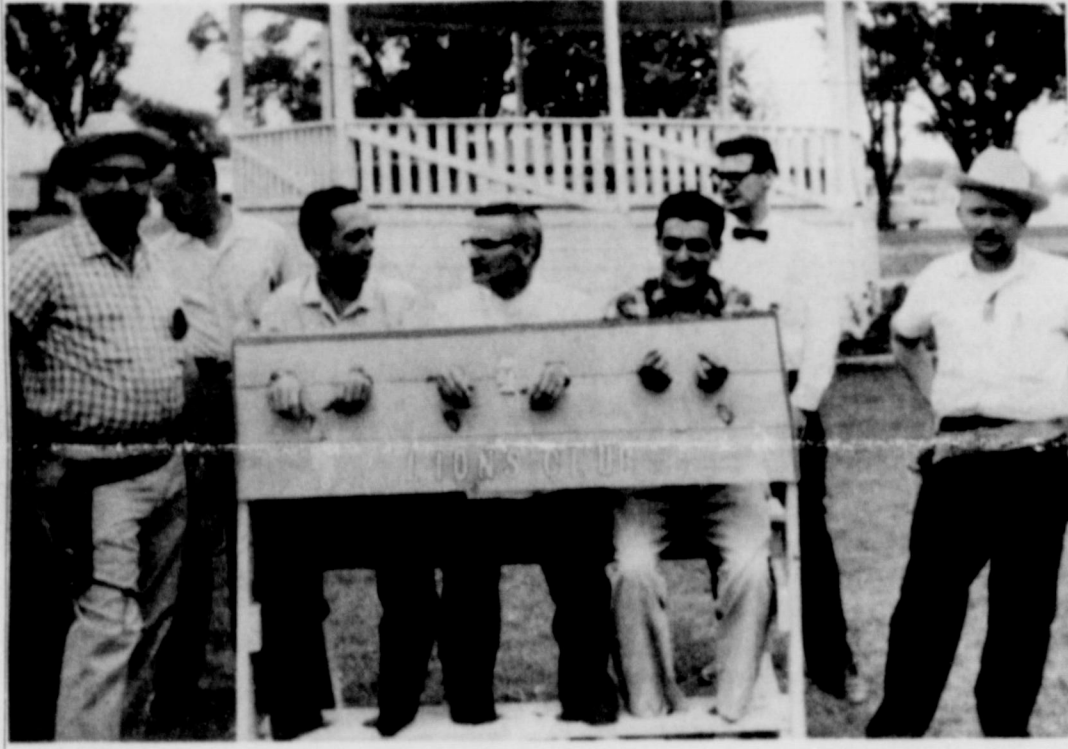

No organized opposition had appeared against the bonds except Tuesday when an anonymous announcement on radio stations warned that the bonds approval would cause an increase in the county's tax rate.

These announcements countered by efforts on the part of a group of Lubbock and Slaton business and civic leaders urging voters to approve the bonds. Backers of the proposal had pledged that no tax increase should result from passage of the bond issue.

The top-sided approval of the bonds will pave the way for purchase of the necessary right of way for four-lane routes in four segments of the county's highway system—U. S. 87 from Lubbock city limits to the Lynn County line on the south, U. S. 84 from Lubbock to the Hockley County line on the northwest, U. S. 84 from around Slaton to the Lynn County line on the southeast and U. S. 87 from Lubbock city limits to the Hale County line on the north.

County Commissioners and highway officials estimate that an estimated $3,200,000 will be required to purchase the right of way for these improvements. The

WARNING GIVEN FOR POISONED APRICOTS THROUGH SPRAYING

If you're planning to borrow an apricot and eat it without giving it a good washing, then heed this message: It was announced this week that many apricot trees had been sprayed for worms, and that within a 30-day period, the apricots could be poisonous.

It is possible to eat the fruit if it is washed thoroughly, but it is not advisable. So the best thing to do is to make sure that the children don't stop for a snack on the way home from school. In 30 days it will be open season again!

Same Old Bureaucrats

Shape U.S. Policy

THE DECLINE in American prestige, as highlighted by the recent debacle in Cuba, is due to wrong policy, wrong strategy, wrong evaluation, and wrong personnel.

The most culpable of the personnel are among some 8,500 State Department employes housed in the 62 million dollar beehive, which is situated appropriately enough in the capital area known as foggy bottom.

One needs only to walk through the network of corridors in the structure that sprawls over a dozen acres to recognize he is in a hive of drones. Charcoal gray suits are almost a uniform. Conversation is a curious gobbledygook of internationalism which subordinates American interest to the interests of a gangster of nations which have the outstretched palm.

Blunders of many of this strange crew are not to be charged to actionable betrayal of the national interest, as was the case with George Blake, the 38-year-old British vice consul, who put the finger on Britain's counter-espionage agents in eight years of spying for Russia. The fault lies more in the fact that so many State Department men feel they must subordinate national interest, so that they place themselves, like Mohammed's coffin, somewhere between the heaven of hope and the earth of reality.

Many State Department careerists feel that they must not deal with problems as Americans but as superior beings. They consider themselves wiser and far better informed than their fellow Americans, just as they frequently feel above natives when assigned to foreign posts.

This is not an indictment of all foreign service officers, but only of the wing which we know as ugly Americans. Under four administrations, a group of policy planners and memo makers has directed American foreign policy with generally disastrous results.

The names change somewhat, though not too much, but the policy remains consistently foggy. The voice may be the voice of John Foster Dulles or Christian A. Herter or Dean Rusk, but the hand is that of the group which lost China to communism and Cuba to communism.

Insiders were confident that the group would bring disaster on President Kennedy, but they did not expect it to come so soon. Dean Rusk and Chester Bowles and Adlai Stevenson are all proteges of Dean Acheson.

Secretary of State Rusk was one of those who helped Acheson sell the idea that the Chinese Communists were agrarian revolutionaries.

Those who sold him on that idea are pushing behind the scenes to get Red China into the United Nations on the argument that the action is inevitable, so why not now?

Rusk has confessed his fault on China and Acheson has acknowledged his innocence of Russia in his State Department days. No fewer than four Ambassadors have blamed the blundering in Cuba and in other areas on those who supply information to the Secretary of State, and thus indirectly to the White House. These have been designated as members of the "in basket brigade"—those who fill the "in basket" on the Secretary of State's desk.

In olden days it was the man who had the king's ear who was the actual king. Today the men who supply the information are the ones who determine American policy. This clique has been in power under four Presidents.

Giveaway Shockers

By Congressman Bruce Alger (R-Tex.)

P. L. 480, a bill to permit an additional $2 billion authorization for sale of agricultural commodities, brought some shockers to view. India is receiving $2.2 million of food in '60 and '61. Yugoslavia has received $597 million, Poland $518 million, United Arab Republic $332 million. A program originally intended as a temporary surplus food disposal measure has become the reason for surplus foods in perpetuity, all the while subsidizing our enemies, failing to convert neutrals, and alienating our friends—sort of an international public assistance program. The fiction of payment is kept alive by payment in local currency, money which we can't have but which is then spent on projects within the specific country as approved by its government.

EDITORIAL

WHAT TYPE WORLD DO YOU INHERIT?

TO THE GRADUATING SENIORS OF SLATON HIGH SCHOOL 1961

According to scientists, you are graduating into an era packed with golden opportunity, into a bountiful new age of space.

According to economists, you are graduating into a period of flamboyant, inflationary false prosperity, held on an even keel by the constant effort of planning and legislation.

According to historians you are following some of the blackest months of the decade, when world peace seems to be crumbling and nations seem inevitably steering toward another world war.

According to business experts, you are entering an age of corporations, with small businesses gradually becoming extinct.

According to theologians, you are entering an age of increasing moral depravity and ungodliness.

According to sociologists, you are graduating into a set of standards that will furnish you the necessary pre-requisites to gain a guaranteed security and a definite niche in an absolute social structure.

The scientists will call the theologians unrealistic and subjective and the theologians will call the scientists ungodly and objective. They forget the one who lives his faith while he proves his profession.

The economists consider the over-all picture and cannot take into account the "young turks" who do not attempt to FIND A WAY in this world but set about to MAKE ONE.

The sociologists consider the number who blindly seek security and stabilization and forget the boy who will crawl out on a limb, and fall off, and then get up and crawl out on another one. They can't enumerate the chance-takers and the individuals.

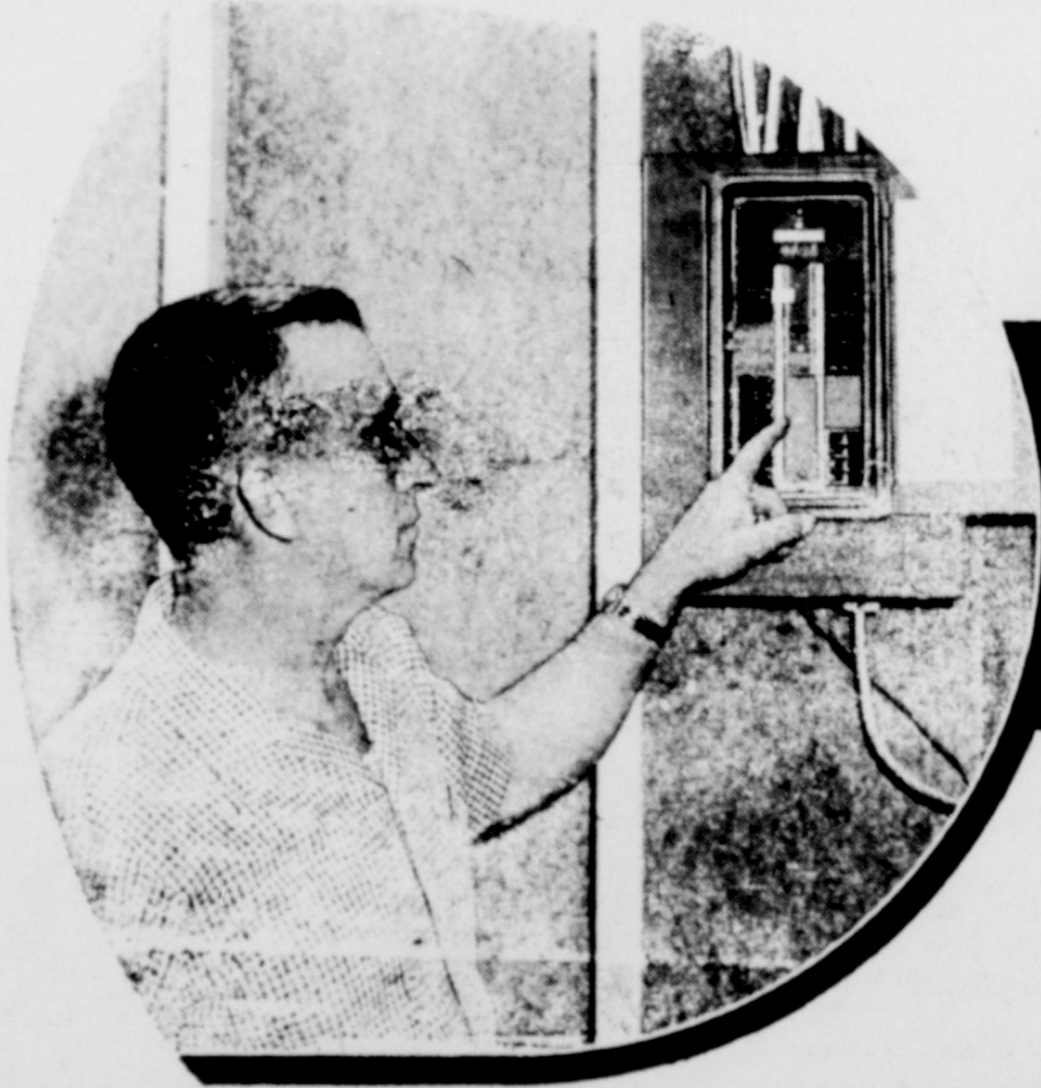

The historians record the past but can't take into account the one man in a graduating class of 70 or 80 who will not accept the future as it is dictated to him, but will plow through all systems that would regiment him and carve a chunk of destiny for himself.

Your world will be called everything by the agencies who derive their opinions from mass movement. Your chance is to be the exception to the rule.

In the final analysis, the world you are entering is predicted on for mass entry. Only the individual will change this status.

It can be easy for those who desire ease, and it can be hard and cruel for those who desire accomplishment.

In the future you may have to remember and utter a prayer for yourself that was once prayed by Admiral Chester Nimitz. He said: God grant me the courage not give up on what I think is right even though I think it is hopeless.

Fishin' Time Is Here

Just as the Ides of March had deep portent for the Romans, so does the first sweet breath of spring have for millions of patient wives and sweethearts: Even the age-old blandishments of heart and hearth are no competition for the call of gurgling waters and the soft sigh of spring breezes.
Who can mistake the signs?
It all begins with mysterious clanking sounds in the basement as tackle boxes are lovingly examined and refurbished. Then comes the glassy-eyed stare and unheeding ear at mealtimes. Finally, the muted man-to-man telephone conversations where code words such as "Royal Coachman," "Gray Dun," "Spinner" rise above the mumbo jumbo fishing ritual unleashed by Sir Isaac Walton, the granddaddy of 'em all.
If you want a peaceful home, untrammelled by floor pacing sky-watching and haunting spaniel eyes, turn loose the angler with your blessing. In fact you can be unique, borrow one of his trout hooks and affix to it a small lock of your hair by means of red silk thread. This could be his good luck hook—and while you're at it, surprise him with a few of his favorite smokes—cigars, cigarettes or pipe tobacco—neatly tucked in his lunch basket or tackle box.
With the co-operation of the fish and the weather, you will welcome home a whole man—all of which guarantees a happy tolerance to that new dress, dinner out or news of an impending weekend invasion of in-laws.

Competition
From Abroad
Can Be Helpful

If the United States pursues sound economic policies at home, the industrial resurgence of other nations will be beneficial rather than destructive to the American economy, the National Association of Manufacturers maintains.
Foreign competition can have the same helpful effects that domestic competition has,
the NAM said in a study prepared under the supervision of its Economic Advisory Committee. The committee is made up of a cross-section of 27 businessmen from various sections of the country.

The NAM study said competition from abroad should be regarded as a challenge to "show the good sense to do the things we ought to be doing anyway." These things are:
"Removing the tax barriers to capital formation; authorizing sound depreciation policies, curbing the monopolistic powers of labor unions, and in-general, providing the kind of economic climate which is conducive to business growth and individual freedom.
"There is no sacrifice involved in doing these things," the study continued. "They will strengthen our economy and raise our standard of living.
"However, if we fail to put our house in order, the consequences for the welfare of the American economy will be serious indeed."

The NAM pointed out that the United States would not have to lower its standard of living in order to meet foreign competition.

"Any nation's standard of living is a reflection of the productivity of its economy," the study said. "It cannot be any other way, since there is no magic in government action or labor union action—or for that matter in business action —which will permit a nation to enjoy more goods than it produces, or than it can get in return for the part of its production which it sends abroad.
Foreign trade raises productivity—and hence the standard of living—because it enables a nation to concentrate its ef-orts on the particular types of activity in which it is most proficient."
The report pointed out that Japan and the nations of Western Europe have raised their productive efficiency to a high degree, chiefly by sticking to the principles of sound money, the free market, and the encouragement of private enterprise.
"They have shown more concern than the United States has in recent years for the control of inflation, perhaps because they have had more experience with its damaging effects," the study noted.

1960 Texas Cotton Crop Hit Hard By Diseases

--Diseases took an estimated $156 million bite out of the 1960 Texas cotton crop, according to reports from 15 cotton specialists located throughout the state.

An estimated 1,116,000 bales never got to market because of diseases, said Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, who compiled the report for the Cotton Disease Council.

In addition to the loss to producers, businesses related to the cotton industry also suffered. Diseases were also a major factor in grade reduction and lower yields, Smith said. In many instances, the weather, soil, planting seed or ginners got the blame for the low production and poor quality when the real culprit was plant diseases, explained Smith.

The major diseases and the estimated losses caused by each were bacterial blight, 5.64 percent; root rot, 5.22 percent; seedling disease, 2.68 percent; Pseudomonas wilt, 2.1 percent; root knot, 2.04 percent; Verticillium wilt, 2.03 percent and boll rots, .63 percent. Other diseases, listed by Smith, as causing losses were Fusarium wilt and Ascochyta blight. Texas ranked second among cotton producing states in percentage loss, over 21 percent, Smith said.

Average figures don't give the true picture, the pathologist said, because in the areas where diseases struck hardest losses ran into ruinous figures. Root rot, for example, caused an estimated 30 percent loss in the Central Blacklands and increased in many areas over the 1959 losses. Bacterial blight continues to be the most important disease though it does not kill plants, Smith said.

The American Way

Bread and circuses destroyed Rome. Edward Gibbon, in the DECLINE AND FALL OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE, relates that "The frequent and regular distributions of wine and oil, of corn and bread, of money and provisions, had almost exempted the poorest citizen of Rome from the necessity of labor... and it was artfully contrived by Augustus that, in the enjoyment of plenty, the Romans should lose the memory of Freedom."

They say history repeats itself. Recently the federal distributions of provisions to the indigent were increased without reference to the locality or the state in which the indigent reside.

The federal distributions of money to the jobless were augmented without reference to the locality or the state in which the jobless reside.

Are we repeating the grim experience of the past? Government continues to take more and more from the producers to provide more and more for the increasing numbers of those who do not produce, removing the incentive for production from both. This is the basic cause for diminishing production in America, and we already sense the potential disaster from continuing the policy of "starving the soul to feed the belly."

Fortunately, however, Americans have a defense against this process. We have an organic law through which we can revitalize the nation, restore the private enterprise system, retrieve the earning capacity of our people and thus increase their incentives. The Constitution was designed to prevent the abuse or misconstruction of power by those who would control the individual people. Through neglect by the people and attacks by bureaucrats the Constitution has fallen into disrepair. It must be reinforced.

During the past two years a positive campaign has developed widespread understanding of the power of the Constitution and how it can be fortified. Through the adoption of a "Proposed 23rd Amendment" we can outlaw the practices of socialism and communism, restore the sovereignty of the States, remove federal control against the enterprises of the private citizen, and in the process accommodate repeal of the federal individual income taxes.

The end result would put a 20 percent increase in the take-home pay of the American people with no out changing the rate of pay by a single penny.

A "Progress Report" (available on request) has just been issued by the National Committee for Economic Freedom, 6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 28, California. It relates the fact that the four States of Wyoming, Texas, Nevada and Louisiana have adopted identical Resolutions for the "Proposed 23rd Amendment." Strong campaigns for the amendment are being waged in 36 States and in 21 of these, hearings are being arranged by the State Legislature. This is happening because of the growing awareness that "Freedom is everyone's business." Everyone should take part.

The proposal has been introduced into the present session of Congress as H.J. Res. 23 by Hon. James B. Utt of California. The growth of public support for the Amendment is reaching enormous proportions. Why has the Congress not quickly served the people by submitting this question to their decision? Is it because a powerful and privileged $40 billion-a-year bureaucracy has no intention of releasing the earnings they take from the American people?

There can be no valid objection to the amendment. It is a simple declaration of long-established public policy. It will not add to the original Constitution, but it will give it full force and effect. It provides that:

Two farmers from Alaska were constantly arguing over who grew the largest crops. One morning the first said to his son: "Jimmy, go over to Mr. Jones and borrow his crosscut saw. Tell him I want to cut a watermelon."

Jimmy was back in a hurry. "Can't have it today," he told his dad. "Mr. Jones says his wife isn't through sifting cucumbers."

EARLY AMERICAN
VILLAGE SQUARE

NOW SHOWING

PREMIER SHOWING

Designed by Charles Horton

In this intense period of national history it is so easy to lose the calm dignity and basic solidness of American home life of the formative years of our country.

To recapture for ourselves and our customers the beauty and richness of early American life, we have developed the "Village Square" collection.

We have followed the practices of our early itinerant craftsmen who used materials that were plentifully available and suited for the use intended. To secure the full beauty and pattern that is available in the finest of cabinet hardwoods we have chosen different species of solids and veneers, all carefully selected and blending to give the rich patina finish in every detail.

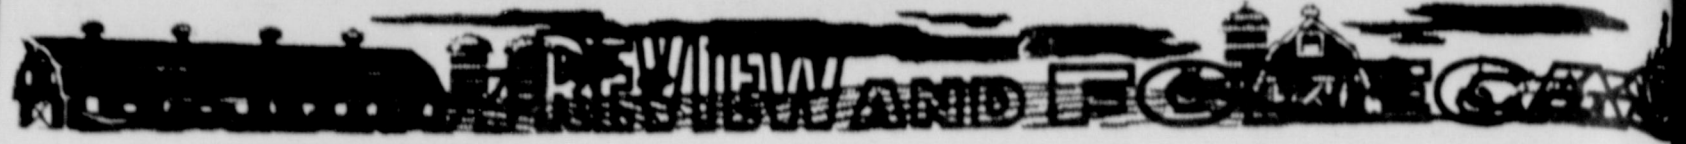

The beauty of figured red gum has been wedded to the strength of tupelo, maple, and magnolia, all adding to the depth and richness that makes the group so beautiful.

In the construction of the tables, chairs, the seating pieces, and the personal units, we have added the strength of beech and hickory, and oak, and here again have blended and harmonized the hardwoods in color harmony and lasting strength.

Good Management Needed To Reduce Cotton Root Rot

Cotton losses due to root rot can be reduced. But, points out Marlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, plans must be made and carried out over a period of years to be most effective. A combination of practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results. These include the growing of resistant crops in rotation; turning under a large tonnage of organic matter prior to the growing of a cotton crop and deep plowing during June, July and August of infected land.

Smith advises that none of these practices can be counted on for effective control when used alone. Crop rotation is of little value if susceptible weeds are permitted to grow in resistant crops.

Turned under organic matter needs to be decaying at its maximum stage of the cotton to be most effective. Rains immediately following the deep plowing will cancel out the expected benefits from this practice. Therefore, adds Smith, the combination of practices is best.

Producing early cotton will, in most instances, help the plants escape root rot damage. The control of cotton seedling diseases, he says, will help get the plants off to a fast start and aid in setting the early crop.

Smith suggests to cotton producers in the areas of the state where root rot is a problem that they visit the local county agent and discuss with him a longtime control program. Also that they pick up a copy of MP-361, "Root Rot Losses Can Be Reduced."

At a dinner, a rabbi was seated next to a pompous woman. "One of my ancestors," boasted the lady, "signed the Declaration of Independence." "Is that so?" asked the rabbi. "One of mine wrote the Ten Commandments."

$44,000 FUND SOUGHT

Drive Opens For More Experiment Farm Land

A campaign to raise $44,000 for acquisition of additional land for a major Agricultural Research and Extension Center here was launched Tuesday morning at a meeting of key farm and allied interests at the Platsman Hotel. C. E. Maedgen Jr., chairman of the drive, explained that the chief objective of the new center "will be to develop a sound, dynamic and profitable agricultural program for the major types of farming for the High Plains."

Bought 221 Acres In 1959. The center would be located at the new site of the Lubbock Agricultural Experiment Station north of here. Maedgen said officials hope to complete the fund-raising drive in about two weeks.

"It has been announced that the aim of the Texas A&M College System (of which the Lubbock station is a part) is to expand its facilities here into a major Research and Extension Center," Maedgen said.

The station acquired 221.6 acres located two miles north of the Lubbock Municipal Airport in 1959, when the transfer of the station from its old location in northeast Lubbock was initiated. Funds used to buy this land were obtained from the sale of the old station. Growth of Lubbock, which completely surrounded the old 160-acre site, blocked expansion there.

Wanted Additional 88 Acres. "In the first year of farm operation on the new land in 1960, it was found necessary to lease additional acreage to conduct the present research program on cotton, grain sorghums, use of water, mechanization, fertilization, crop insect control, oilseed crops and plant growth responses," Maedgen said.

"With the increasing demands for information by farmers, it is imperative that an additional acreage be purchased to more nearly meet the needs," he added.

Maedgen said that acquisition of an additional 88.4 acres "is the immediate goal necessary to insure Lubbock becoming a major agricultural research and extension center."

$1,000 An Acre. Although land values around the new site range as high as $1,500 per acre, the A&M College System, through an option on the 88.4 acres, can acquire this additional acreage for $1,000 an acre, Maedgen said.

Plans have been worked out, he said, whereby if half the needed amount, $44,000, is raised locally, the remaining half will be requested of the State Legislature as an appropriation. He said contacts with state representatives and senators already have been made.

Frank Gray, chairman of the committee for expansion, said establishment of the center "would enable A&M College System, through its experiment station and extension service, to better mobilize its resources for effective cooperation with other local and area organizations in the future development of the area agricultural industry."

Funds May Increase. At present, the research activities, he said, are coordinated and conducted cooperatively with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Texas Tech and the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, in Hale County.

Charles Fisher, Extension superintendent, said grants-in-aid for the center "likely will be for housing facilities."

THE Golden Years

By THOMAS COLLINS
Blueprint Retirement Plans Before the Event

THE DOMINANCE of the female over the male is rearing its head in retirement. Sometimes it's rough, as in the cases where wives turn over the housekeeping chores to their retired husbands, or treat them as mposters in the daytime life of the home. But more often it is subtle.

And the husband sometimes never realizes he is being dominated. For instance: "Although the man is supposed to have the problem of where and how to live after he retires," says a husband who for obvious reasons doesn't want his name used, "you will find that most couples make this decision on the basis of the wife's desires."

"These desires involve proximity to some child, or some good friend, and always hinge on social opportunities for the wife. It is these things, almost to the exclusion of everything else, that determine where a retired man lives, and it is no wonder that he has trouble adjusting himself."

This husband also thinks many wives dominate the personal activities of their retired husbands. "Although doctors stress the necessity of keeping in shape by exercise," he says, "few retired men make any plans or seek any means to provide it except for light home jobs, which aren't enough."

Even the doctor who made me promise that I would never stop getting enough exercise has cut his own activity to mowing the lawn and washing the car. You can't blame the men because in many cases their wives won't let them get up a sweat or tackle anything that will make them healthily tired.

"My wife is like that, but I get exercise in spite of her, quails. I see no reason to add to the present surplus of widows. This man has one other interesting thought about retired men: "It seems to me there are just two classes of retired people: Those who have the inner resources to make a new life, amuse themselves, keep interested in many things, and look ahead as opposed to those who do not have these faculties. I know of no case where a man has developed these faculties AFTER retiring."

The relationship of a man and his wife goes through many stages—the honeymoon, the diapers and 2 A.M. feedings; the slow pull to business success; the physical changes of middle age; and finally retirement. All require adjustments, and perhaps retirement requires more than any of the others. Because here the two people, for the first time since their wedding, make a major change in their exposure to each other. Many wives who love their husbands at breakfast and in the evening can get an overdose when they have them all day long. Many husbands likewise.

THE WORLD OUTDOORS

THE GREAT, national surge of interest and support of advice columns has reached into almost every field—romance, business, health, insurance, stock market, etc. A four-cent stamp will bring the desired answer to any problem one might have regarding alimony or zoology.

Fortunately, no such column has appeared willing to meet and cope with the problems of the average hunter and angler. How do you think the Outdoor Writer, referred to hereafter as O.W., would handle a few typical problems?

Dear O.W.: "On our 30th wedding anniversary I gave my wife a new refrigerator. She had needed one for 20 years. She's real proud—but now she won't let me keep my fishing worms in the refrigerator, which I always did before. Should I take back the refrigerator, or get a divorce?"

If you were O.W.—how would you answer? And, let's consider another one.

Dear O.W.: I want a straightforward answer and no hedging. What is the best kind of fishing? Like I do—cattfishing—where a fella can use all sorts of baits from chicken innards to soap; or that fancy type 'angling' they call it where these dudes go after them with little pieces of feather and wool and skinny little poles? I just won one argument with a fellow on this subject (convinced him with a right cross) and I just thought you would want to make it official-like. Put your answer in the paper real soon, cause I want to come to your office and tell you about some of the real big ones I caught in my day and how I did it.

Like we said, if you were O.W., where would you go from here—or is there a really safe place?"

"REMEMBER" BY The Old Timers

From Mrs. Maggie Hill: I was born in Hunt County, Texas on February 5, 1886 and have lived in East Texas all my life. Among my memories is that of the man who went turtle grabbing. Lots of men went fish grabbing, but this man would grab only big turtles. He would get them out of rivers and sloughs and one day he brought one by our store that looked as big as a number 3 wash tub. He took the turtle out of the wagon and placed it on the store porch where folks could get a good look at it. Tantalizing it for a little while, he then walked inside the store and brought out an ax handle.

There's a District Attorney at Groves Texas, that is walking on eggs right now. He is what is commonly called, "Between a Rock and a Hard Place." Seems a Baptist minister has filed formal charges against a Catholic church pastor for "letting games of chance run in his bazaar." The Baptist pastor went to the Catholic bazaar to look for gambling. The Father ordered the other man to leave. The Baptist pastor says, and with witnesses, the Father told him "You get the hell off my property." We've run bazaars 15 years and none has complained before. PICTURE PRETTY

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Psalms	15	1-5
Monday	Hebrews	2	13-15
Tuesday	Mark	7	14-23
Wednesday	John	14	1-14
Thursday	John	8	12-18
Friday	Philippians	1	4-11
Saturday	John	16	25-33

Pretty as a picture, isn't she? She looks "downright" angelic. Yet, five minutes from now, she may be a little bundle of fury!

Children change faster than the wind. They haven't learned to hide their feelings. But while grown-ups may present a better camouflage to the world, there are few of us without inner conflicts. And these conflicts can be serious.

It would be a lonely world if we had to keep all our problems to ourselves. We don't. God never intended that we should have to solve all our difficulties single-handed. Remember, He established His Church on earth for us. In that Church we will find understanding fellowship, and the faith to work out our own destinies.

Take your problems to Church. Pray that you will find a solution to them. Talk them over with your minister. And what seems a maze today may become a straight road tomorrow.

VIEWING:

Your City Government
by J. J. Maxey, City Secretary

I would like to reminisce just a little and talk about what was in the past, what has been done up until now and what we would like to do in the future.

As everyone knows (or should know) Slaton will celebrate its' fiftieth anniversary on June 10th. As we look back we are able to evaluate some of the happenings of the past in the light of results. In 1929 Slaton citizens must have been reasonably sure that there were at least 3,000 people here. A charter was voted and according to State Law the first requisite is to have 5,000 people. The census in 1930 only showed a little over 3,500. Of course we know that the beginning of the depression in late 1929 was the direct cause of the population loss. Prior to that time Slaton had been a very progressive town. From that time until early in 1947 no further capital improvements were made. We can remember that as late as 1945 the streets were being swept with push brooms, the trash and garbage was being picked up in an old flat bed truck and this service was only being provided every three to four weeks. The tax roll was producing $30,000.00, the Water System was producing $30,000.00, and many of the employees were working for $90.00 per month. The Water and Sewer systems were in comparable condition and the only paving we had was the brick paving that was installed in 1926 and the W.P.A. paving that was installed in 1939.

Today the only thing that we have to be ashamed of is a City Hall that will be 40 years old next year. Our Water and Sewer systems are as modern and efficient as any in cities of comparable size. Our police force is recognized throughout the area for its organization and efficiency and our Street and Sanitation Departments are being improved constantly with the addition of equipment and personnel. Needed water and sewer facilities have been added, streets have been paved where property owners were willing and able, the fire department has been enlarged and new equipment added. All of this has been done with only two increases in taxes since 1945. In 1946 we had a re-evaluation tax program that raised and equalized taxes and again in 1958 we had a 10% increase in taxes.

Your present City Commission is of the opinion that the citizens of Slaton want the best City services that can be afforded. Realizing that two heads are usually better than one, the Commission has appointed some twenty-seven different citizens to serve on various boards to help attain this goal. One meeting has been held with the Financial Planning Commission, composed of ten citizens representing most every walk of life here. At this meeting the two commissions discussed the City budget and ways and means of improving services and to raise needed revenue to pay for the service. It was mutually agreed that all services should eventually be self-sufficient. Of course, all of the improvements that were enumerated above cost money, and any other improvement will cost additional money. Believing that we have a City that has all of the ingredients with which to build, your City government is making every effort to furnish the kind of services that you want and will keep you as well-informed on progress as is possible.

Here And There

Professional football teams have been getting ready for another season. The St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League acquired veteran defensive lineman Ed Henke from the San Francisco 49'ers for an undisclosed draft choice. The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League traded veteran quarterback Babe Parilli and fullback Billy Lott to the Boston Patriots for halfback Dick Christy fullback Alan Miller, and defensive tackle Hal Smith. Parilli, who starred at Kentucky several seasons ago, was second-string signal caller. Lott, who played for Mississippi, was the team's second leading rusher with 330 yards in 39 carries. Miller played for Boston College; Christy was an All-American at North Carolina State in 1957; and the 250-pound Smith played at U.C.L.A. More than 1,000 persons gathered at a banquet in Cincinnati honoring the University of Cincinnati's N.C.A.A. basketball champions. Ex-champ Ingo Johansson may fight Sonny Liston in Sweden, he has announced.

JUST A THOUGHT:
There is always the opportunity to do good for others. Sometimes, when we refrain from doing something that we know is wrong, we not only help ourselves, but those who know us and look to us for examples in living.

... They could give him tractor, lister points and such. Not enough credit is given the groom.

I have to look at a from a business standpoint, I'm gaining another customer. Well, maybe not if she reads this but not everybody does, you know. Tom told me he bought her diamond at Tiffany's, of New York. They have a branch office here in Acuff.

I guess you know a diamond is just a stepping stone to marriage. My only advice: Don't let your outgo exceed your income, or your upkeep will lead to your downfall. How about that for philosophy. Speaking of marriage and such makes you glad you're a bachelor. That was the only tie you have are those that need cleaning.

Not that all my columns are not educational, but every time I sit down at my typewriter I think I should point at least one fact out. Did you know that an ant-eater is a cannibal who eats his mother's sister. No applause, just mail in a ten dollar bill.

An old timer is one who can remember when a job was the first thing you went steady with.

CBS RADIO'S Arthur Godfrey was elected Radio Man of the Year in the Radio-TV Daily's 19th Annual All-American Poll of the ... nation's radio-TV editors, the results of which reflect the overwhelming popularity of CBS radio network talent... In the publication's traditional top three listings, the network monopolized the Man of the Year selections with Godfrey in first place, former CBS newsmen Edward R. Murrow, second and CBS news correspondent Howard K. Smith, third. Smith was also elected by the editors as commentator of the year, a category in which Murrow occupied second place.
