Miss Laneau's Notes

MARY WHALEY There are lots of times when we hate to be grown up. When the kids wade in the gutters after a big rain, when we see a big marble game, or when we see a good ball game going on in the school yard.

But we remember our adult dignity and manage to suppress the inclination to say "here, let me play too." We do all right over these little temptations but when it comes to standing by watching the youngsters put mustaches on women's pictures on billboards, it is all we can do not to stop and help.

When we were that age, we could draw the most beautiful mustaches. Long curling ones, short bushy ones, and we could make a goatee that was the envy of the neighborhood. We adorned every poster we saw and sometimes stuck on a pair of spectacles that delighted the artist in us.

So when we watch rank amateurs, compared with what we used to do, we burn with an urge to give them a few professional hints. The only trouble is that any advice to ten year old presents adult advice on anything. They would scorn our suggestions. After watching awhile as the little artists play hob with the signs, we sigh and pass on by. They'll never do the job as well as we did, but then with practice maybe they'll get better.

Museum Will Open Sunday

The West Texas Memorial Museum, located in the city park, will be opened for the first time this season Sunday afternoon, officials announced Thursday. Three new to this city or section, and particularly soldiers and their wives, are being invited to inspect the collection of relics housed in the museum, said Mrs. Mary Bumpass, curator.

Bombing

disperse areas at both Grebblix and Catania were churned by the bursts of more than 250,000 pounds of demolition, fragmentation and incendiary bombs.

Hangars and administration buildings received direct hits, upward of two dozen enemy aircraft were blasted to wreckage on the ground and all installations and storage tanks were destroyed, the crewmen said.

Flying in two waves, the Liberator encountered about 25 axis fighters, both Messerschmitt 100s and Macchi 202s. Two Messerschmitts and one Macchi were shot down and others probably were destroyed.

Clearly showing the importance axis air chiefs attach to Panterla, the crews of both tactical and strategic air forces of Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' Northwest African command reported increased fighter opposition.

Despite the increase in the number of axis fighters, their defense was no more effective than before. American bombers and fighters just deflected them.

Bomb-carrying Lightnings, versatile U. S. fighters, were credited with the destruction of five ME-109s out of an attacking formation of 20.

May Rainfall Totaled 3.79

May was a month of moisture, and one with revival of crop prospects, a survey of weather records showed Thursday.

A prolonged drouth was dealt its first blow on May 9 when .37 of an inch of rain fell. Another .04 fell the next day and then it appeared as if the parched country had mislead.

Records collected by the Soil Conservation Service reflected a similar condition for the area. The E. L. Pierce gauge south of Ackerly had 3.49 for the month.

Highway Parley To Be Held Here

Representatives of cities from San Antonio to Amarillo who are interested in promoting post-war traffic on US highway 87 have been called to meet here Saturday at 2 p. m.

M. J. Bennefeldt, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce and also recently named head of the managers association, has called the session.

US 87, originally known as the Glacier to Gulf highway, is now the Veterans of Foreign Wars memorial highway, and it likely will become the "Pan-American highway" when the war is over.

Here 'n There

Things were due to be cooler at the USO center after today, for three new air conditioners — long delayed in arrival—were being installed by J. D. Jones, contractor for the renovation of the center.

The street light casualty list continues to be heavy with reports Thursday showing 14 street lights, 15 whiteways and one alley light all flickered out.

T/Sgt. Leonard D. Alston, better known to friends as Donald Alston, has been visiting here while on furlough. He has been in the army three years now and is with the 392nd service squadron at the army air base at Rapid City, S. D.

There was no crash in this area Wednesday evening as some might have thought, although reports did see a crash wagon making a run to the south.

Just A Friend, Says Benny

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 10. (AP)—"Mrs. Dempsey wasn't married as far as I was concerned x x x she was a friend," Benny Woodall, named by Jack Dempsey as a co-respondent in his divorce suit against Hannah Williams Dempsey, told the court today during heated cross-examination.

Woodall, who obviously maintained his temper self-control as Attorney Arthur Driscoll plied him with questions, denied yesterday that he ever had been intimate with Mrs. Dempsey as charged by the former heavyweight boxing champion.

"If you had slept with Mrs. Dempsey would you admit it under oath?"

A. "I wouldn't be here." Q. "Would you admit it?" A. "I don't know what I'd do." Q. "You might deny it?" A. "I would never have been here under those conditions. I have no idea what I'd do."

The former fighter and promoter, in answer to a question from Driscoll, said he might have telephoned the Dempsey apartment in New York two or three times a week as he frequently called the apartment to talk with his sister, Mrs. Jackie Griffin, who was there most of the time.

"Was there any married woman you called more than once a day?"

A. "Mrs. Dempsey wasn't married as far as I was concerned. I made no difference to me. I wasn't interested in Mrs. Dempsey more than a friend. I was a friend of both Mrs. Dempsey and Mr. Dempsey."

Woodall, in response to another question, said former Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins, was "an acquaintance" of Mrs. Dempsey. Penkins also has been named a co-respondent by Dempsey.

Dempsey was absent from the court room for the second day. He is a lieutenant commander in the coast guard and his leave expired today. His attorney explained that he hoped Dempsey would be permitted to return to court during rebuttal.

Mrs. Dempsey appeared more vivacious and interested than yesterday, when she began her efforts to refute testimony of her husband's witnesses in which they gave testimony seeking to show that she had been intimate with Woodall and Jenkins.

Time For Attack, Australian Says

CANBERRA, Australia, June 10. (AP)—Prime Minister John Curtin indicated today that the time is approaching when the Allies' strategy of defensive warfare in the southwest pacific may give way to a policy of limited and perhaps full-scale attack upon the Japanese.

"The holding war imposed on us under circumstances of great difficulty has been an obligation under global strategy which has been discharged," Curtin declared. "I feel the pressure on this country is to be thrown back on the enemy."

The prime minister's declaration was part of a formal statement issued on the basis of his meetings at Sydney June 7 with General Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander-in-chief in this theater of war.

Registrations Are Received For Camp

Registrations for the tri-district Boy Scout here this next week continue to be received. H. D. Norris, field scout executive, reported Thursday. He urged others who plan on participating to make their reservations by Friday or Saturday at the latest.

More than 15 have applied so far, all of them electing to pay the $8 fee which includes food and swimming. One troop was considering furnishing its own food and paying only the minimum fee of 50 cents.

Air Force To Be Busy, Says Gen. Eaker

LONDON, June 10. (AP)—The current summer will find the Eighth United States Air Force in England carrying its full share of the bomber offensive against Germany with multiple daylight raids, Major Gen. Ira C. Eaker, its commander, disclosed today.

Eaker told a press conference that the American heavy bomber force had doubled. He also since March and would approximate the RAF's bomber strength by the end of the summer.

He said the American Flying Fortresses and Liberators would continue their precision raiding in daylight with relatively small individual forces rather than adopting the British mass raiding technique by night or day.

Eaker's disclosure following a statement from a reliable source here that a unit of Flying Fortresses had been assigned to undertake night bombing experiments from Britain with the RAF.

Meanwhile, Eaker said, American fighter and medium bomber forces in England also are growing rapidly and will be ready to play a full part in supporting Allied troops in an invasion of Europe.

American bomber losses for May were under four per cent, Eaker said. During the month more than 1,800 heavy bombers raided the continent, including those that went twice or more, and dropped 2,800 tons of bombs on 19 targets.

Sixty-two of the big planes were lost, but they shot down 359 enemy craft and probably destroyed 93 more.

American fighter forces made about 2,300 sorties, Eaker disclosed, losing nine planes while destroying or damaging 35 axis craft.

Eaker said that while fortress crews are being trained in night flying to add flexibility to their tactics their main job will continue to be done by daylight.

Crop-Measure Reports Wanted By AAA Now

The AAA office issued an appeal Thursday to Howard county farmers to bring in measurements of their crops to the office while there is a lull in activity and clerks available to assist in the measuring.

M. Weaver, AAA administrative officer, said that the office force is ready to assist the farmers whose cotton is up and whose measurements are ready for the office to compute the acreage.

Cotton is the only crop in the county which requires accurate measuring, Weaver said, since no penalties will be assessed for war crops of this county—grain sorghums and peanuts.

Most farmers could bring their measurements in now, Weaver said, in urging them not to wait and then swamp the office the last of June.

Farmers must have their measurements in the office in order to get marketing cards to sell their cotton, Weaver reminded, and said that the office would be glad to help any farmers now who did not know how to measure their cotton.

In previous years, the AAA office hired men to do this work for each farmer, but this year the farmers will save on this expense by doing their own measuring.

Reinforced Japs Counter-Attack

CHUNGKING, June 10. (AP)—Reinforced Japanese detachments, making a stand after almost two solid weeks of retreat, were reported by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's high command today to have counterattacked Chinese forces closing upon Ouchikow, near the Yangtze 85 miles southeast of Ichang.

"Fighting is no win progress at Chientsau and Shashans," the high command's communique said.

Stimson Lashes At False Rumors About Immorality Among WAACs

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today that "insister rumors aimed at destroying the reputation" of the WAACs through charges of immorality "are absolutely and completely false."

"I refer," Stimson said at a press conference, "to charges of immorality and particularly to the allegation that the war department has agreed to the issuance of contraceptives and prophylactic equipment to the members of this corps."

He added that "anything which would interfere with their recruiting or destroying the reputation of the corps and, by so doing, interfere with increases in the combat strength of our army, would be of value to the enemy. The repetition of any unfounded rumor concerning this corps lessens confidence in it and is actually an aid to the enemy."

The strength of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, Stimson said, has reached 65,000, releasing soldiers for front-line duty to the extent of four combat divisions. "As a yardstick," he added, "our combat ground force in the Tunisia campaign consisted of just four divisions."

"The authorized strength of this corps is 150,000 and since the objective behind the enlistment of the corps is to relieve able-bodied soldiers for combat duty, you can well see that we are speaking now of a sizeable increase in our fighting forces."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—A reader's query about the baseball hall of fame recently led Clyde McBride of the Kansas City Star to suggest that a lot of the old-time ball players hadn't received their just desserts in the balloting for the honor roll at Cooperstown because the old-time baseball writers weren't around to tell of their feats. . . "If Chadbourne, Phelon, Bulger, Sam Crane and others could come back, wrote McBride, "you would soon be knowing about early stars who played the game with all the daring and stamina and skill of the modern stars, and different game perhaps, but nevertheless baseball." . . . "Well, there's one who doesn't have to come back, Hugh Fullerton, Senior. He doesn't rate himself as an old-timer yet, but he used to pal around with those guys and he can tell you plenty about the stars of the nineties and even before."

MATTER OF OPINION

The real "old timers" swore by such players as Jere Denny and Fred Pfefer, star infielders of the 80's, and Mike "King" Kelly, colorful catcher who in his day probably was as famous as Babe Ruth. . . Pop doesn't agree on these choices, nor does he agree entirely with the most recent baseball writers' ballot on which Frank Chance, Rube Waddell, Ed Walsh, Miller Huggins and Ed Delahanty came the closest of those who failed election. . . Most of them will get plaques in the hall some day, he says, but some of the best players have been neglected or forgotten entirely.

Remember these fellows?

There was big Bill Lange, for instance, another player whose fame could be compared to Ruth's. He was a gigantic fellow who could hit terrifically and run 100 yards in 10.5 in his baseball uniform. . . There was Ed Williamson, who "probably was nearer to Wagner than any infielder I ever saw and he was going back then," and Herman Long of Boston, hailed as the developer of "inside" baseball. . . There were some great pitchers—a unusual number of them, in fact—who have received few votes or none at all. Mordcael Brown and Addie Joss have had some backing, but how about Bill Dinneen, better known as an umpire, Tom "Toad" Ramsey or "Willie Bill" Hutchinson? . . . And did you ever hear of Charley Bennett, who caught for Detroit and Boston and led the league nine times in eleven years? Pop considers him a better receiver than Mickey Cochrane, who probably will be in the hall of fame after a few more elections, Johnny Kling or Lou Creiger.

Four Texans Are Given Air Medals

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, June 5. (Delayed) — (AP) — Four Texans were among those who received air medals today for meritorious achievements.

Staff Sgt. James E. Eithertidge, Palestine, Texas, was one of nine members of the crew of a heavy bomber who were decorated. They attacked a Japanese destroyer in Rabaul harbor, New Britain, last October and left it on fire, half submerged and sinking. Eight 500-pound bombs were dropped and two direct hits were scored.

Among 89 officers and enlisted men took part on a bombing attack upon Lae, New Guinea, in the face of stormy weather and heavy anti-aircraft fire last December were:

Second Lieut. Carol C. McGlasgow, Jr., Plainview, Texas.

Milk May Go On Ration List

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 10 (AP)—Milk may be the next commodity to be rationed, a federal authority disclosed today.

The War Food Administration (WFA), the Office of Price Administration and the Dairy Industry are studying ways of limiting civilian consumption of milk, expecting a decline in supplies later this year, said T. G. Stitts, chief of dairy and poultry in the WFA.

Stitts, in a speech prepared for delivery before the California dairy council, said food officials had concluded that the government must curtail consumption of fluid milk or cut down on the manufacture of such products as butter, cheese, evaporated and dried milk. The latter alternative was said to be out of the question because manufactured products now meet only essential military and civilian needs.

These four methods of limiting consumption of fluid milk are under study, the dairy official said.

Rationing of fluid milk on a coupon basis, somewhat like gasoline.

Restricting transportation of milk, thereby limiting, and possibly reducing, the size of urban milk sheds. This would cut out the importation of so-called "emergency" milk brought in from long distance.

Eliminating sales of cream and cream by-products.

Allocating supplies to dealers or to markets.

Stitts said it was possible that a combination of these methods might be used.

The products from which farmers can, with proper management, expect a profit are those that are selling above the parity price. It will be noticed that these are in the main animal products. In this area, where farmers who are willing to learn how to handle livestock production that may expect good returns.

This is illustrated very well at the present time by certain farmers who have not been able to make a good profit from raising hogs, and are now talking about doing away with their hogs. Others have done well with hogs, and will continue to raise them, and make a profit from them. We have a war to win and it must be won. This hog raising and the production of chickens and eggs is just as important as guns, ships and airplanes. And the farmer who gives up and quits is like the soldier who runs at the being of the first gun in battle. I do not mean to say that the farmer should go on producing at a loss. The point is that, if you are doing that, the fault is in not knowing how. Millions of people are learning how to do things they never did before. Why should some farmers be an exception? If you quit you acknowledge defeat. You say to the other farmers who are in this struggle that you are incompetent to help. Instead of quitting, why not study the business of livestock and poultry production? If others can succeed with it so can you.

Vegetable Cookery On The Home Front

As more Victory gardens come into production, many Texas families can have green vegetables every single day during the growing season. You can serve salad one meal and cooked green vegetables the next. If you eat green twice a day, so much the better. In either case, fresh or cooked, green vegetables will contain more food value if they're brought in from the garden only a little while before they're prepared.

Then in cooking, too, it's important to keep these vegetables both fresh and colorful. Here are some rules for keeping them good and saying food value: Begin with a good product. Cook them soon after they're prepared. Use all of the edible parts. Cook in a small amount of water, and don't throw away the liquid. Begin cooking vegetables in boiling water, returning the temperature quickly to the boiling point. Then lower the temperature until the liquid just simmers. Green vegetables that require a longer cooking period, for example green beans or peas, may be cooked uncovered in order to retain more of the green color. Green vegetables that cook in five to ten minutes such as spinach will be green although they are overcooked. It's important, too, to serve them soon after they're done. If they have to wait . . . then let them cool and then reheat them. That better than keeping them hot for a long time. A walk through your garden will suggest any number of good raw green salad combinations. They'll help supply you with the minerals, vitamins, and cellulose, or bulk, necessary to a good diet.

Texas Crops Are Showing Progress

AUSTIN, June 10 (AP)—Texas crops made fair to excellent progress in the week ended June 6, the USDA reported today. In a review of crop conditions the agency said exceptions to the favorable outlook were north Central Texas which received excessive moisture and parts of the Panhandle and high plains which were exceptionally dry. Wheat harvest started in North Texas and in the northwest plains, but peak operations were delayed by excessive moisture in these areas. Cotton made fair to good progress during the week, but frequent rains delayed chopping and cultivation. Corn showed further improvement generally. Grain sorghum was being planted in the Panhandle and was making fair to excellent progress elsewhere in the state. Peanuts are growing in fair to excellent condition in South Texas.

Fruit crop prospects are poor in some areas and only fair in others. Pecan prospects continue good. Harvest of watermelons was becoming active in all early districts. As field work in the North Texas onion crop area was resumed, another heavy rain covered most of the area with some sections being damaged. Potato harvest was completed in most early districts and good progress was being made in Central, East and Northeast Texas until the weekend rains occurred. The Panhandle district made excellent progress. Conditions were favorable for harvest of the lower valley tomato crop to get started after the previous week's heavy rains. Most East Texas districts were developing favorably when heavy rains again reached into part of this district. Range and pasture grass continued to make very good growth. The western tier of Panhandle counties continued dry and grass was short. Cattle marketings continued in volume. The spring marketing of lambs and yearling weathers continued in heavy volume although past the peak for the season. Completion of sheep shearing was delayed by rains.

See That Hens Have Plenty Of Water

When laying hens don't drink enough water, egg production will drop as fast, or faster, than when they fall off in eating. The drop in consumption of water in summer most often is traceable to the drinking fountain being left in the open exposed to the afternoon sun. Normally, hens drink more liquids in hot weather than at other times of year, but if the water in the fountain gets too hot the birds won't drink enough. A decline in consumption of water also results in a reduction in the size of the eggs. Placing the water fountain inside the chicken house, or under shade nearby, will induce the chickens to drink more freely. Advancing summer has still another reaction upon eggs. Usually, when green feed begins to dry up thin shells begin to appear. As a corrective I suggest adding at least three per cent more of good quality dehydrated alfalfa leaf meal to the ration. In addition, a handful of fresh oyster shell should be sprinkled over the mash at least every other day until the shells of the eggs become normal. It is a good practice in placing shell in small hoppers to use only small amounts and change it whenever it becomes dirty or litter accumulates in the hopper.

Complaints Prepared Against Recaptured Prison Fugitive

CLEBURNE, June 10 (AP)—Sheriff Oran Smith said Johnson County Attorney Jewel Baldwin was preparing several felony complaints today against Robert McEachern, 23, of Lubbock, who was captured yesterday. A fugitive from a Retrievs state prison farm for nine days, McEachern was caught when a posse and bloodhounds closed in on him in the Brush country of this county between Egan and Keena. Smith said McEachern, who had been serving a life term, was unarmed and did not offer resistance when he was apprehended. He was sent to prison from Fort Bend county on a slaying conviction, Sheriff Smith said. Since his

Army Seeking To Secure Long Lease On Maneuver Land

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The army plans to procure unlimited leases on some 70,000 acres of maneuver grounds at Camp Barkley, Abilene, Texas, Rep. Mahon (D-Texas) said here yesterday. The army has restricted, limited leases on the property now, Mahon explained. He understood that the army would seek options to purchase outright the leased lands.

FOOD NUTRITION and Joint Rationing NEWS

The Big Spring Daily Herald

The Home War Patrol Low Point Meat Dishes

THE HOME WAR PATROL
 (Official news of rationing, nutrition and other war programs affecting the home and kitchen, prepared by the Regional Office of War Information.)

Of course it takes more time and cleverness on your part . . . but there seems no end to what the American woman can contrive in wartime. So do go ahead and make good use of the new low point value meats. Get a good-sized veal breast or shank—either is three points per pound with the bone in—or a chuck or shoulder, cross cut with bone in, at four points. Give it a long slow roast for the final meal, then keep in the coldest part of your refrigerator as you gradually use up the rest in some of these ways:

Cubed, with vegetables, under biscuit crust for a grand meat pie. Be sure to have plenty of gravy

Why Not Try Fish Often?

Why not try fish oftener? There's lots of nourishment there and the flavor of well-cooked fish has made many a chef famous.

Be sure to keep fishery products well cooled or in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Fish and shellfish are very perishable; they must be kept cold when raw and quickly chilled after cooking if not to be eaten at once. Do not thaw frozen fish until ready to prepare for cooking. Never permit frozen fish to thaw and re-freeze.

To remove any fish odor, wash hands or dishes in strong salt water and rinse them well before using soap.

If you incline to fresh shrimp, you'll find them much easier to shell and clean before boiling.

Any good cook book gives plenty of advice and recipes for fish cookery, but don't fail to realize the importance of sauces and garnishes for fish. Success is much more certain with plenty of lemon, parsley, tartar sauce or one of the cooked sauces like creole or white sauce, depending on the way you've prepared your fish.

Cheese Sauce Does Honor To A New Vegetable In Your Victory Garden

Asparagus on Toast with Cheese Sauce

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 4 tablespoons flour
 1 cup milk
 1/2 pound American cheese, shredded

Salt, pepper
 Hot cooked asparagus tips
 Toast points

Make cream sauce with the butter or margarine, the flour and milk. When thickened and smooth add the shredded cheese, and stir until it is melted. Season to taste. Place each serving of asparagus on two toast points and cover with a generous amount of the hot cheese sauce.

CHEESE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 cup milk
 1 cup shredded American cheese
 Salt, pepper

Make cream sauce with butter or margarine, the flour and milk. When thickened and smooth add the cheese and stir until it is melted. Season to taste.

"Sparrow-grass" we called it when we were children. Its more aristocratic grown-up name is asparagus. But either way, this handsome greentipped vegetable, is one of the true appetite treats of summer.

Like many another beauty of the vegetable garden, asparagus can be changed from a supplementary to a main dish—by the wise and happy addition of a cheese sauce. A small amount of cheddar cheese, because of its highly concentrated protein values, can be used to add important nutritional substance to almost every vegetable in the victory garden. Stamp-wise buyers are learning, too, that the purchase of rationed American cheddar cheese offers tremendous food value point for point. Just a few ration points are required for the purchase of half a pound of cheddar—and every ounce of that precious half pound is usable, ready to go to work in wartime menus as varied as they are delicious.

A basic recipe for cheese sauce, to turn vegetables into main dishes, to add food value to leftovers, to serve as the principal protein of many meals—is a "must" for wise meal-planners today. The sauce recommended for this purpose is made with a base of cream sauce, and uses just half a pound of rationed American cheddar. Not only does this cheese sauce add its tremendous important food values to the dish with which it is served, but highly appetite appeal and flavor as well.

The victory gardener glowing with pride in his achievement of the first asparagus of the season could not present his triumph in more dramatic or delicious fashion than to serve it with a cheese sauce. This is the way it is done.

Asparagus On Toast With Cheese Sauce

2 tablespoons butter or margarine.
 4 tablespoons flour.
 2 cups milk.
 1-2 pound American cheese, shredded.
 Salt, pepper.
 Hot cooked asparagus tips.
 Toast points.

Make cream sauce with the butter or margarine, the flour and milk. When thickened and smooth add the shredded cheese, and stir until it is melted. Season to taste. Place each serving of asparagus on two toast points and cover with a generous amount of the hot cheese sauce.

Kate Smith swaps stories with Miss Honey

Who'd ever guess that Death Valley miners could give helpful hints on cooking? Well, that's what happened to Miss Honey.

"When I came out to this mining camp in the Funeral Mountains," writes Miss Grace Honey, "the men were using Calumet. One of the boys showed me the virtue of Calumet, and now I feel I can't use any other baking powder. I am known all around here for being a good cook—especially cakes—and believe me, it's since I learned to use Calumet!"

"Sometimes you have to hand it to the men!" Kate answers. "But I wonder if your miners know what makes Calumet so dependable. It's because Calumet is double-acting—works once in the mixing bowl and again in the oven."

"Surprise your boys with this temptin' dessert. The first time I tried it, the orders for seconds came so fast, I almost missed getting some myself!"

You'll love Kate's Blackberry Roly-Poly!

Some Interesting Salad Dressings

For those fresh vegetable salads you should be glorifying in now, a variety of dressings is suggested. Gives the family some surprise to look forward to. To turn half a cupful of home-made mayonnaise or bought-in-a-jar dressing into about a cupful of something interesting, try some of these.

Quick Russian Dressing: add an equal part of chili sauce.

Cheese Dressing: thin the dressing with a tablespoonful of top milk, add about one-third cup of cottage cheese and a chopped hard-cooked egg.

Sour Cream Dressing: mix dressing half and half with sour cream.

Thousand Island Dressing: add an equal part of chili sauce to the dressing, then one dried pickle and one-half hard-cooked egg, sliced.

Ham Dressing: add one-fourth cup tomato juice or a tablespoonful of tomato ketchup and a couple of tablespoons of chopped ham.

ANOTHER 'MEANEST THIEF'

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Mrs. Beatrice Bartley's version of the "meanest thief" conception is as follows: Her son, Lt. William E. Bartley, now stationed in Honolulu, had sent her a telegraphic order for an orchid for Easter. She picked out a really beautiful one, pinned it on her coat and then, as she sauntered along in the Easter parade, a man, about 30, snatched the orchid and fled. In spite of the fact she is the wife of Police Captain John Bartley, neither the orchid nor the thief has been captured.

Free Business To Care For Post War Employment Task

Research Institute of America, is something along the lines of the Brookings Institute, and the individual forecasting of Roger Babson and the Gallup Poll. The Research body has forecast, through its secretary, Leo M. Cherne, that labor shortages will continue for at least a year after the war ends.

Cherne's forecast is based on his belief that demobilization will be very slow and we will have a considerable standing Army for some years after the war. He thinks also that industries will engage in manufacture of civilian goods as soon as they are relieved of the making of war supplies, and that even old models of many articles will be made, pending transition of machinery and patterns for new models. Estimates of as many as thirty million men and women to be left without jobs when the war ends are made by various agencies planning for after the war, but these Cherne thinks will not all be released at one time, and most of them will be taken into private industry.

All of which is very encouraging, and it is to be hoped that it will come to pass. It will be more likely to do so if the restrictions now imposed by government bureaus, under the assertion that the war makes them necessary, are removed, and business and industry given enough freedom from reports and taxes to resume their activities. There are just two ways in which the unemployment bogey can be dispelled—by private employment or by government subsidies in the form of age assistance, made-work jobs, or just plain handouts. Unless there has been a radical change in the thinking of the people of this Nation, the latter alternative will not be welcomed by them.

There will always be "gimmies," but we should have learned by this time how to minimize their number, and return to the time-proven system of employment by private enterprise.

Other Side Of War Picture—What's Happening To The New England Villages

By ROBERT N. COOL
AP Features Writer

BELFAST, Me.—A lot of Down East cracker-barrel philosophers have left the crossroads general store for war work in the shipyards. Many of Maine's offshore islands have reverted to a state of primitive isolation.

This is the other side of the New England war boom picture. It takes people from innuagable rural hamlets to swell the population of the industrial cities to their present size.

Add to this emigration from the villages the fact that summer visitors this year will be few, and you see how the face of New England has been changed, in more ways than one, by the war.

Old Railroad Men

The first thing you notice as your north-bound train rattles over the switch points of Portland is that old men seem to be running the railroad. Veterans of 60 and 70 have been called from retirement.

Later on, at Bath, you see where the younger folks are. This fine old shipbuilding community has doubled its working population in recent months.

Boarded-up summer homes and cabin camps beside U. S. Highway One, at what would normally be the start of the tourist season, complete the picture of the social upset which war has brought to this American homeland of culture and recreation.

Build Barges

Yet in some white-painted communities, such as Belfast on Penobscot Bay, war industry is on a relatively small scale—the prosperity less hectic and an actual revival of New England town life is under way as local folks earn and spend the money formerly brought in by summer residents.

City Manager Cornelius Frost said that on the waterfront 250 local artisans are building wooden barges, as their ancestors built wooden sailing vessels. He added that townfolk were also busy canning mussels for the government—which would have startled their ancestors.

"We are restoring our city park to its original function, as a place of recreation," Frost said. "Two years ago it was slanted for tourists. This summer we hope to revive band concerts on Sunday afternoons to encourage workers to come there on their day off."

At Belfast the war has brought some increase in population and a revitalized economic life, similar to that of fifty years ago.

Rural Depression

But ten miles up the coast, Stockton Springs is gripped by the rural depression. This village of 900 persons has lost approximately 200 of its most active residents. Many of them have moved to Bath or Portland. Half a hundred commute daily to other towns and have little time left for local affairs.

Services flags in the windows show where sons—and daughters—have gone, explain mutely why farmers are desperate for help.

Three men sat listening to a Churchill speech in La Furlay's general store. A year ago there would have been fifteen, they told me.

Respectable W. F. Tiundy, town clerk, shook his head sadly over Stockton Springs' plight.

"In the last war," he said, "twelve vessels were built in this town. At one time we had more than 2,000 people but this time we've been left behind, and gas

Ask For Role And Hollywood Gives Opposite

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—"I prefer light comedy roles," said David Bruce. The first role he drew in Hollywood was that of an innocent man electrocuted in "The Man Who Talked Too Much."

Today he was a pleasant sight, continuing on his career of "light comedy." He looked green, and his reddish blonde hair was pulled up, cave-man style, over his green forehead. His face was a wrinkled map of horror, thanks to spirit gum and molded clay and make-up man Jack Pierce, who added the final touch by rimming his eyes with crimson paint to make the whites look like mottled Easter eggs.

David Bruce, in this get-up, has become the title character of "The Mad Ghoul," one of those light comedies about a mad scientist who discovers a gas which, properly administered, forces its victims to go around robbing graves and snatching hearts. There is nothing in the script to explain why a ghoul, i. e., a grave-robbing, must look like a nightmare—but there is everything in Universal's box-office figures to justify it.

David Bruce from Kankakee, Ill., who once survived for three days on cough drops during a jobless period in New York, spends three hours daily getting his make-up on—without benefit of cough drops. George Zucco, the real heavy of the piece, the mad scientist, suffers not at all. He just looks evilly and hypnotically at heroine Evelyn Ankers, and when his own gas gets him in the end he dies without aid from make-up man Pierce. This is a relief to Zucco and especially to Pierce, who is getting a little irked with the monster parade.

These proceedings, under the merry Irish eye of director James Hogan, will include some gay new twists in the spook field. Besides the usual mad scientist and his wicked laboratory, and the usual newspaper office excitement over the latest murders, there will be scenes in a mortuary and six cemetery sequences.

The author behind it all is Hans Kraly, who never had the horrors before. Kraly's past screen work was often in association with Ernst Lubitsch, the expert of sophisticated comedy, and Kraly was adept in the light line and the witty gab. When they asked him to whip up a shiver piece, I understand, he retired to his office, pulled down all the shades, gave himself the creeps and emerged finally, some weeks later, with this script.

"Sophisticated comedy used to shock moviegoers," he said. "Now I find that in order to shock them, you've got to give them the horrors. I am frightening even myself."

A very light comedy, as you can see, for comedy-loving David Bruce.

Women Who Can Sew Buttonholes May Make Expert Spot Welders

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—In an effort to tap the last great labor reservoir in the country, the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor has just finished an amazing and amusing survey.

Seeking to find what peacetime pursuits, hobbies and household duties basically equipped women for work on the victory lines, the bureau really made some discoveries.

For example, if you have ever sewed on buttons or made button holes with your sewing machine, you are practically a spot welder. Any operator of an electric sewing machine is in fair way to become a parachute maker.

Those women who have fine embroidery or tinkered away at making their own jewelry or worked in costume jewelry factories can assemble time fuses, radio tubes and the delicate control instruments used on airplanes and submarines with hardly more than a refresher course.

Any lady of the house or kitchen maid who has polished silver on an electric buffer can find a place on a score of assembly lines—the job is called burring.

The bureau found that this nation of household gadgeteers and hobbyists have been equipping the female of the species for years to step right onto assembly lines and in many instances master the stint much faster than their husbands ever could.

Back of that is perhaps the reason why women, barred by masculine prejudice from most factory jobs when war broke out, have literally set the male sneerers back on their heels with the speed with which they have become highly proficient in all industries from light to heavy.

A woman may have to be mechanically minded to run a lathe or milling machine, but any one who has done a fair job at sorting dried beans or berries can inspect and sort small munitions parts and some of the best women inspectors today had no more preliminary education than a reputation for keeping their houses spotlessly clean.

One amusing find that the bureau made is that women who meticulously follow recipes in cooking, measuring out ingredients to the last fraction, make the most proficient shell loaders.

There are many women who run their sheets through electric mangles on wash-Mondays. It's only slightly different from operating a blueprint machine and there isn't an instrument of war that doesn't require thousands of blueprints.

Through the U. S. employment bureaus, which do the hiring, allocation and make arrangements for free training school attendance, the Women's Bureau is really driving hard to replace the 12,000 men a day pouring into the armed services.

Their "aptitude survey" promises to be a big stride toward answering that question often asked by housewives and female hobbyists: "But what could I do?"

If you've never done more than roll a baby carriage in the park, you can push parts and tool bins around a factory. It's as simple as that.

WSA Dispute Tossed Into Lap Of Congress

WASHINGTON, June 10. (AP)—An administrative impasse which has deadlocked the war shipping administration (WSA) and the comptroller general for months and impounded payment of upwards of $200,000,000 to American shipowners was tossed back in the lap of congress today for settlement by direct legislative action.

The dispute is over what congress meant when it authorized the government to requisition merchant vessels in a national emergency on payments.

Nazis Claim Allies Use Carrier Planes In Anti-Sub Fight
LONDON, June 10. (AP)—The German radio, making the first Axis reference to Allied use of carrier escorts in the battle of the Atlantic, told today of what it called "a dramatic fight" in mid-Atlantic between a U-boat and planes from a British carrier.

The broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, declared the surfaced undersea craft stood off eight planes, shooting down one, and "after the successful conclusion of this unequal engagement the U-boat continued on its operations."

The treasury has jurisdiction over salaries of $5,000 and more, and over salaries of less than $5,000 paid to unorganized white collar workers.

Regional directors of salary stabilization have authority to grant or deny all requests of employers to increase salaries. Where a request is denied, the employer may appeal to the treasury in Washington.

Two German Prisoners Are Still At Large
TEMPLE, June 10. (AP)—Only two of five German prisoners of war who escaped from North Camp Hood, Texas, early yesterday morning, remained at large today.

Still sought were Indwig Jung, 21, and Harold Stallejien, 22. Jung is 5 feet 11 inches, weighs 155 pounds, and has grey eyes and blond hair. Stallejien is 6 feet tall, weighs 150 pounds, has hazel eyes and brown hair.

Two of the men, Adolph Bodenberg and Rolf Zieschang, both 22, were picked up on a road in the Brush country of northwestern Bell county last night. Sheriff John R. Bigham of Belton and a deputy, Ralph Jeffers, were cruising down a road, with high embankments on either side, when they spotted the two fugitives and overtook them.

Bigham said both men, former college students, could speak English to some extent. Bodenberg pointed to his map of South America and said "can't do that now."

Bigham said the men, apparently lost, were traveling in the general direction of the camp from which they had escaped.

Earlier, military police had reported the re-capture of Hans Masseour, 21, at Flat, Texas, eight miles south of the internment camp.

Two other would-be escapees were picked up before they could get off the reservation.

Hog Prices Due To Be Pegged At Top Of $13.75

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—With the average hog price slumping below $14 a hundred pounds for the first time this year, a representative of the Food Distribution Administration, who asked anonymity, said today the government had "every intention" of holding to its pledge to support the market at $13.75.

The government support level was announced early this year, but it has never been brought into action because, until this week, hogs have sold well above the minimum. In the first three days this week, however, prices have slumped about 40 cents and many head sold yesterday at $13.80 a hundred pounds. Average price was about $13.85.

change. All the other public phones along the road had been closed and most of the buildings in Tiarac, like those in the villages, were boarded and closed.

"The telephone lines to the north have been cut but I'm going on up," I told Ray. "You probably won't hear from me for a few days but I'll get the story in as soon as possible. Where we go will depend on how things look ahead. We'll probably spend the night in Baguio. I've always wanted to see it."

"Okay, but you better look out," Ray said. "Baguio is past our extreme right flank. Army communications seem to have broken down and we have no news here up to now."

We drove on, expecting momentarily to come to our third line. I expected to see trenches like those in France in World War I. But there were no lines and only a few sentries. One of them stopped us a few miles north Tiarac and we showed him our press cards and went on, wondering now when we would come to our second line.

Cars from the north were speeding down the road. We saw one that had stopped to repair a flat tire and went over to talk. An American woman, with a baby in her arms, was weeping. "We went up to Baguio when the war would be safe. But they have been bombing all around us. Last night we heard the noise of big guns, over at Ligayan Gulf, all night long. This morning the Japs bombed Camp John Hay at Baguio again. We seem to be surrounded. What shall we do?" I advised her husband to keep going until he got to Manila.

Trucks were loaded with beds and chairs and all the people who could crowd aboard. Filipino families told us they had seen the Jap ships in Lingayen Gulf that morning, and the planes had been killed in Lingayen City and the other towns along the south shore. We reassured them. "Our army is fighting them now. Within a short time you will be back in your homes."

Traffic to the north was sparse and we noticed that the nearer we got to Lingayen, the slower it was moving. Traveling fast, we overtook a few jeeps and army trucks and motor-cycle riders. Some of the occupants were Americans.

Approaching the gulf at about five in the afternoon we reached a fork in the road. The left-hand road led out to Da Mortis, four miles away on Lingayen Gulf. The right-hand one went to Baguio. We could see the waters of the Gulf, but no ships. The Japs were further over to the west. An American soldier rode up and stopped his motorcycle.

"Those Japs are pretty smart," he said. "They made a feint at landing on the south shore of Lingayen, where we have strong defenses. They sent their main forces along the eastern beach from Da Mortis, over here to Bauang, which is about twenty miles north. The Twenty-Sixth Cavalry is fighting there a couple of miles up this left-hand road." He advised us to turn back and then rode on, slowly, toward the fighting. We had about two hours of daylight left and had to decide fast.

Juan wanted to take the soldier's advice. Carlos was neutral. "Let's go on up to Baguio, where headquarters for this area are located," I said, "and find out what the score is. I want to see Baguio, and this might be my last chance. We'll have a good sleep in the cool air and get going in the morning."

Juan objected. "But the Japs may cut this road in the night." I said, "Hell, amigo, they are fighting the American Army now and the American Army will hold them on the beach forever. Hirohito's boys will die right where they land."

Plywood Secret Of New Bomber Success

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 10 (AP)—The birth of British Mosquito bombers in an Oshkosh woodworking plant was disclosed today.

Veneer from the finest birch and maple trees in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan moves out of this factory direct to England where it becomes wings and fuselages for the speedy planes wreaking havoc on Hitler's Europe.

Simultaneously the company, Plywood, Inc., announced production of a new plywood, half the weight of aluminum but stronger than many metals, used for propellers and other undisclosed wood parts of "Mosquitoes."

Until last July the factory was an abandoned relic. Rehabilitated, it gave Oshkosh a new 100 per cent industry employing several hundred persons of whom 85 per cent are women.

But Dr. Monte M. Wladaver, chief laboratory technician, said the postwar uses of the resin impregnated, heat and pressure treated plywood are virtually unlimited.

He said it resists mild acids, fire, salt water, actinic rays of the sun; that it's virtually scratch-proof; has a brown, permanently glossy finish needing no paint, varnish or wax; is impervious to the elements, and can be sawed, drilled, turned, threaded, milled and tapped like metals.

Among postwar uses Dr. Wladaver envisioned were for window sills (you wouldn't have to close the windows at night in a rain or snowstorm), bowling alleys, bars and table tops (spilled drinks wouldn't faze the stuff), golf club heads and shafts, ship decking, tool handles, gears, bushings, and store counters and fronts.

LIFE IS REAL . . .

DENVER, (AP)—Regional Director John McCusker of the War Manpower Commission assembled his office staff on his return from a trip to Salt Lake City, and declared: "Gentlemen, you have a problem!"

In Salt Lake City, he explained, he had to make his hotel bed and clean the room.

WAR TODAY: Preliminaries To Invasion Now Underway

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Whether the volcanic island fortress of Pantelleria has been occupied by Allied forces, as is rather vaguely reported in some quarters in London, the fact remains that the preliminaries to invasion not only of this small island but of Europe as a whole already are under way.

Just as in the case of an offensive by an army on land, intensive bombardment of enemy positions precedes the zero hour when the men swarm "over the top."

The liabilities are likely to be much greater in amphibious offensives than in attacks carried out entirely on land. Landing operations may entail a terrible loss of life, ships and material unless most careful preparations are made.

British Prime Minister Churchill says "it is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching." That's good news, and not unexpected, but you will note that he doesn't say when the zero hour will be.

Probably the prime minister doesn't say when the zero hour will be.

Probably the prime minister doesn't know when the major action will take place. It must depend on developments. It might come quickly and it might drag on for months.

Probably a great deal will depend on what happens along the Russian front. If Hitler should launch a great offensive suddenly, that might easily send the Allied invasion machine into high gear. While the Allied strategy is directed along very certain lines, the hour to hour tactics of the fighting front, must be controlled by circumstances.

Pantelleria stands right in the middle of the narrow channel between Sicily and the African mainland. It must be knocked out before Allied shipping can operate freely in those waters for the larger operations. Lampedusa, not far from Pantelleria, also is a thorn in the side of a water-borne traffic.

The great islands of Sicily and Sardinia are a particular menace to the narrow ship lanes which runs between Sicily and Tunisia.

In considering the question of time required for major amphibious operations, we mustn't overlook the vastness of the preparations required. It takes a huge fleet to move even a moderate size army to the scene of action, and keep it supplied with munitions and food. It also demands great aerial and naval support.
