(Editor's Note: Our guest this week is James Jamison, a native of Lubbock for 44 years. He graduated from Dunbar High School in 1956. At present time, he is employed by Lubbock Texas Instruments, Inc. as a Facilities Supervisor and has been employed there for six years and three months. Prior to joining the TI family, he was a businessman. He was the owner of Jamison Building Maintenance and Jamison Bar-B-Que. He is a member of the Community Baptist Church. Mr. Jamison is married to Mrs. Cora L. Jamison and they are proud parents of seven kids, namely: Evona Thomas of Boston, Mass., James H. Jamison, Shree Chime, Jacqueline Jamison and Demetra Jamison, all of Lubbock, and Warrnett Tatum of Amarillo, Texas. The Jamison Family is one of the oldest families living in Lubbock, having moving to the "Hub City" in 1919.)

Mr. Jamison, as a native of Lubbock and graduate of Dunbar High School, have you seen much change in the black community?

James Jamison

Yes, I have! We came from bootleg joints to clubs, insurance companies, nice barber and beauty shops, grocery stores, nice homes, nice cafes and good jobs. And with our black paper, we've made a great change.

In your opinion, what are some of the problems facing black people?

"One of the most serious problems facing blacks is the lack of interest. I have observed blacks who are content with small time jobs. They are afraid because they will not accept responsibility as a commitment thinking that it means you are under pressure all of the time. Everyone should realize that everything is not given to you on a silver platter. You've got to earn what you get."

In your opinion, are there opportunities for young black men and women?

"Yes, there are opportunities in Lubbock for Blacks if they are willing to go out and seek them. There was a time when blacks didn't have the chance to make it big. But with a better chance for a complete education, there is no reason blacks can't make it. If a little effort is put forth, you can do anything. Get out and vote. In other words, become interested in community affairs."

Why did you join Texas Instruments?

"I joined TI because it was a great opportunity to make a decent living for my family. It is the best thing that could happen to Lubbock for the black community. When it came to Lubbock, most of the black ladies were working as maids for $1.25 per hour. But now, these ladies make a decent living and don't have to work half as hard. I started to work at TI over

EEOC Wins Injunction for Woman In Sexual Harassment Case

Washington - The U. S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission won a temporary restraining order (TRO) against a Los Angeles glass company barring discharge of a receptionist who had accused her boss, the president of the company, of unwelcome sexual advances in a complaint filed with the Commission.

The president of Golden State Glass Company was ordered to continue paying the receptionist's salary, without having to expose her again to the work environment, until a court hearing.

The woman had filed a sexual harassment charge with EEOC accusing the president of the company of lewd conduct and suggestive contacts and comment. When she was discharged, she filed a complaint with EEOC charging retaliation for having filed the first complaint. EEOC lawyers then sought a TRO. In granting the TRO, Judge Malcolm M. Lucas, Central District Court, Los Angeles, Calif., said that if the factual allegations are true, it would indicate that the employer's conduct was "egregious."

An EEOC investigation of the woman's allegations of sexual harassment was being conducted when she was discharged on February 26, 1980, without warning. Several witnesses corroborated the woman's allegations and one former employee said she too had left the company because of sexual advances by the same employer.

Commission lawyers argued that few women are willing to come forward with accusations of sexual harassment against their employer because of fear of

Brooks Super Market Observes 51st Anniversary

Brooks Super Market had its beginning fifty-one years ago when H. L. Brooks opened a small grocery and service station on the corner of Avenue H and Second Place.

This was in 1929 and the beginning of the great Depression years. It was a time of struggle and endurance for everyone, but brought forth the desire for something better. And something better did occur in 1954 when a new and modern Brooks Super Market was built and thanks to the many friends and customers of north Lubbock it grew rapidly.

In 1967, a major building program was completed, doubling the size of the building on Avenue H. Then in 1970, the tornado destroyed forty years of work in less than five minutes.

The building was destroyed, but not the spirit of the people who worked there.

Within two days after the tornado, the present location at 1807 Parkway Drive was purchased and opened for business. With great and loyal customers, Brooks Super Market lives on.

One reason Brooks Super Market has survived through adversity has been its loyal employees such as store manager Doug Conway; market manager Dick Pierce and produce manager Dick Barnett, each with over 25 years service and John Ballew, assistant manager with over 15 years.

The owner is Frank Kerr, son-in-law of the founder H. L. Brooks, has been with the firm for 26 years.

Special items are on sale this week for a price of 51¢ as the Brooks Super Market Family observes its 51st Anniversary, because of good customers in Lubbock and surrounding areas.

six years ago working on the assembly line. Then I made group leader. From that time, I became a quality control inspector and from there moved to QRA tech. As I got into my fourth year, I made exempt supervisor in facilities. As you can see, I am able to speak from experience about Texas Instruments."

What advice can you share with younger black men and women of this community?
"My advice is to get an education. Set your goals and strive for what you put forth. That extra effort will make you feel that you have accomplished something during your lifetime. A young healthy black mine and body is a terrible thing to waste. Brother and sisters, the time is here. We can change the world. Let's do it! Be proud! We are on our way."

After seeing Lubbock develop over the past years, do you see a possibility of black developing in the economic arena here?

"It's going to be slow! We've got to have leadership and pull together. But we don't have any other choice. We've got to become a great part of Lubbock. As a whole, blacks have contributed to the economic structure in the past years, but there is so much more we need to do toward economic development in order to be able to stand out in this society."

How do you see the black and white relationship in Lubbock, as compared to the time you were a young person growing up here?

"It has improved greatly! I feel equal to any man. But it was a hard struggle. As a kid, I saw some terrible things happen. I saw a little black kid hit and kicked because he wanted to drink out of the white water fountain in the court house. He thought the white water was different from the colored water. We could not even try on shoes to see if they fit, because we might give the white people black foot. But now they know our money spends just like theirs."

How do you feel about being a member of one of the oldest families living in Lubbock?

"I feel very proud. We've come a long way since 1919. I think the Jamisons have contributed a lot to Lubbock, including a hotel, cafe, shine parlor, funeral home, insurance company, building maintenance company, bar-b-que restaurant, grocery store and a name to be respected. Jamison."

Know Your City Government

by Eddie P. Richardson

"Mayor At City Hall"

Mayor Bill McAlister

Why is it called the council-manager plan rather than simply the manager plan? To make clear and to emphasize the fact that all real power is in the city council. What the city manager has is responsibility, not independent power. In what way is the city council so "extremely strong?"

It is stronger than in any other form because it not only determines policy by adopting budgets and levying taxes, as all city councils do, but also and especially because it hires and oversees a city manager as chief administrative officer to carry out its programs.

How is the city council chosen?

The members are elected, usually but not necessarily at large, and usually on a nonpartisan ballot for terms of two or four years.

What assurance is there that the council will choose a competent city manager rather than a popular politician?

City charters and state enabling acts prescribing the plan provide that the manager shall be chosen "solely on the basis of his executive and administrative qualifications." Generally councils have a commitment to the manager plan and with its widespread use there is an ever-growing pool of trained professional manpower from which councils can obtain competent managers.

(Editor's Note: The Council members will follow the Mayor. It is our hope to move to another governmental body until we cover all political subdivisions in our community).

On April 5th Bill McAlister was elected Mayor of Lubbock by a large majority. The office of mayor is a two year term paying $75 monthly. Council members make $25 monthly.

When interviewed about his view of the position and its responsibilities, McAlister stressed that the mayor should give directions to the council. Leadership is essential. "He should be responsive to the people, especially when they are frustrated and offer not authority but consolatory leadership."

Although the City of Lubbock is fortunate to have an excellent city staff, McAlister said, it is important for the mayor to bring harmony between the staff and the community. "The staff needs to know the attitudes of the people and the mayor has an opportunity to be sensitive to the mood of the people as a result of the many invitations to speak, and other opportunities to talk to and associate with the people."

In addition to representing the city on a local level, the Mayor is the City representative in other governmental bodies - Federal, State, and County in an effort to bring harmonious relationships.

The Mayor and the Chamber of Commerce must work to encourage more industrial development which provides more jobs and better jobs for local residents.

The success of democracy depends on an active and enlightened citizenry. Bill McAlister appreciates and congratulates Lubbock Digest on these series of articles.

The Mayor is in his City Hall Office a portion of every day to attend meetings with groups and individuals and to answer correspondence.

He and the Council hold at least two official business meetings each month. Regular council meetings begin at 9:30 a. m. on the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Business in the Black

By Charles E. Belle

On the Surface REAGAN IS RIGHT

Government took in over $731.7 billion too much for the top two current conservative balance the budget boys in this year's Presidential campaign. Carter has recently called for "painful" cuts, including ones in urban aid, transportation and youth employment.

Even this presumably is too little and too late for this Republican challenger Ronald Reagan. According to the A-1 Republican candidate, the federal government "has overspent, overestimated, and overregulated" the American economy. All the evidence points to a slash in the federal government spending side if either of these two men take office in January, 1981.

Carter's administration officials admit they are finding the recent rise in unemployment to 62 percent in March to be an upward trend. The jobless rate among blacks increased to nearly 12 percent. This disastrous trend is dictating death to blacks in a real sense. A spurt in black suicide is prompting growing concern across the country.

The overall suicide rate in the United States has varied very little since 1900 with the average annual rate at approximately 11 suicides per 100,000. But in the last few years, it has grown to 12.8 in 100,000. The nationwide suicide rate for the black population has always been low when compared to the white rate, but it has grown significantly among young blacks in northern urban areas.

White suicide nationally is 11.3 with the black rate at 4.6 per 100,000. Suicide was the third leading cause of death (behind accidents and homicide) for Black American males between the ages of 15 and 24, at a rate of 10 per 100,000. It's no secret, Black American unemployment is at its peak during this age period, bouncing between 30 and 50 percent! The most recent writings on suicide within the Black American population points to an increase in suicides among the low and non-income group. History hits us with the cold hard fact that Black Americans committed suicide in droves during the period of slavery in the United States.

No one is suggesting that either of the two aforementioned gentlemen is going to deliver us back into slavery, even if one is an old plantation owner. In fact, both might qualify for that little barb since Reagan owns a ranch. There must be a difference between a plantation owner and a farmer or rancher. Or is there? Well not matter, since one of them is President for the other one would be President and therefore master of most people anyway.

Am impressed though, Mr. Reagan's remark regarding government at the federal level. He claims it must be more lean and efficient. However, he says, "this streamlining must not come at the expense of the poor and the disadvantaged." Ronald Reagan is running for President, so all political points must be taken with a grain or gallon of salt. Still the statement still stands and sounds good.

EDITORIAL Tell It Like It Is

by
T. J. Patterson, Sr.

This writer, who host the weekly tv show "Happenings", KTXU-TV, Channel 5, had some interesting guest on the show last week. This show was about the local plight of the black community in relations to the recent riot in Miami, Fla. which was triggered by the killing of a black citizen there. The guest were Rev. Stephen Pierson, pastor of Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church; Rose Wilson, president of the Lubbock Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP); and Everett Hooper, a concerned local black man.

In the discussion, the point arrived that we as black people need to use what we have in the black community so we can upgrade what we have. More unification of all blacks is needed was the concern by those on the show. At the same time, the local branch of the NAACP is making preparation for its annual "Freedom Fund" banquet. It will not be held in the black community, but on the campus of Texas Tech University. This writer made the point, on the show, that we should use those facilities in the black community, i. e. American Legion Hall (in Yellowhouse Canyon), or some of the local churches for various functions.

This writer would hope that the members of the local branch would bring these kinds of activities back to the black community. It is a must that we start at home and do things for ourselves in our community. We can't continue to forget our community when we have programs which are of importance to black people.

No question about it, this newspaper supports the efforts of this local branch, and realizes that without the efforts of the NAACP, we as black people wouldn't have an opportunity to have some of the jobs and positions we have in Lubbock. Nor would this weekly tv show be possible. Because of our support of the NAACP, this newspaper will become a life time member as soon as possible.

In keeping with our support for continued utilization of facilities in the black community, the third annual Market Seminar will be held this year at the American Legion Hall, Post 808, on Saturday, June 14, beginning at 8:30 a. m. The first annual "Top Ten Best Dressed Black Men" contest will also be held that evening at the hall.

As one member of the American Legion told this writer and partner (Eddie), "We as black people can't never have the necessary facilities we need for various projects if we don't support what we already have." This is correct and it is a must that we support what we have in the black community. This way, we can continue to grow as a black community, economically and socially.

Congratulations to Geoffrey Crawford who will be competing with other top track and field athletes in Sacramento, California in early June. This young man ranks second in the nation (tied with another youth) in the high school 300 yard immediate hurdles. He will represent the state of Texas (and Lubbock) in this meet.

As black people, we should all get behind this young man from Dunbar-Struggs High School and give him our moral and financial support. He is a deserving young man, and let's all show him that he is.

Many of us drive pass the Eastern Little League ball park each evening they are playing baseball. This writer is sure you have noticed that not many watch the baseball game. You've perhaps noticed that many cars are parked on the grass (which we thought was against the law) and other areas around the ball park. Of course, this writer is sure that you have noticed the many young people involved in the drinking of alcoholic beverages, i. e. beer and whiskey. At the present time, nothing is being done about this kind of activity on this public park. Not only this, but just a few days ago a large crowd gathered and a fight began. And to this day, nothing has been done or even said about this activity.

It is time for something to be done about this kind of activity in our community. If we are going to teach our young people good sportsmanship, then something has got to be done about the drinking of alcoholic beverages on the park and the fighting of each other.

If this is not done, then the playing of baseball on this park should be discontinued before someone is killed or hurt for life. This writer would hope the City Council would encourage more enforcement of the laws which govern all Lubbock citizens.

WHY ARGUE? THE FACTS ARE HERE!

Nobody likes a quitter... but we do!

American Cancer Society

As parents and guardians of these young people who frequent the park, we should be more concerned about what is going on there. And if we love our little ones, we'd go there and see how things really are. Don't just take this writer's word. You might say that I'm begging you to take a look at the situation.

This writer would hope the ministers and pastors would say something from the pulpit about this bad situation. On other hand, ministers and pastors, go by one evening and see what's going on.

Anyway, that's the way it is at the Eastern Little League baseball park. If you are concerned about it, then you should do something about it now! 'Til later, you take care - you are somebody!

QUESTION:

When my first child was born, I quit my job as a bookkeeper. Now that all the children are in school, I've decided to return to work. Were the social security credits I earned in my former job taken off my record when I stopped working?

ANSWER:

No. Any social security credits you earn, regardless of when you earn them, remain on your social security record. Of course, if you stop working before you have enough credits, no benefits will be payable on your social security record. But if you return to work, you can earn any additional credits you need to get benefits.

QUESTION:

My granddaughter has been living with me since her parents were killed in a boat accident 5 years ago. Can she get social security benefits when I retire in a few months?

ANSWER:

A grandchild may be eligible for social security benefits on a grandparent's work record if the natural parents are dead or disabled and if the grandchild is living with and supported by the grandparent. For more information, contact any social security office.

QUESTION:

Up until the end of October, I didn't have any medical expenses for this year. Then, I had to make several office visits to my doctor and have some tests done at a laboratory. Isn't there a special Medicare rule that lets me count these expenses toward the $60 deductible for this year and next year, too?

ANSWER:

The rule you're referring to is called the carryover rule. If you have covered medical expenses in the last 3 months of a year that can be counted toward your $60 medical insurance deductible for that year, they can also be counted toward your $60 deductible for the next year. Any social security office can give you more information about the carryover rule.

HOLOCAUST 1980

After the second night of violence in Miami and surrounding cities, Gov. Bob Graham implored all angry crowds to disperse and go home. "We have come too far, worked too hard to see it lost in one more night of needless violence and rage," he said in a televised address.

I'm sure the Governor meant well, but he missed the point. Black America has waited since 1865 for some semblance of justice. Miami's black population has waited for six months for justice in the wanton killing of Mr. Arthur McDuffie. The execution of his killers was just one slap in the face too many. You can't diminish years of oppression with a televised speech. Black folks have not come too far. Rather have been left too far behind.

America has recently opened its arms to over 60,000 Cubans with many more expected. Yet has denied one black man justice, even though he was a marine veteran who served his country without question.

Miami police Sgt. Mike Evans stated, "They're using the McDuffie thing as an excuse to steal." The 'thing' he spoke of was a despicable murder. A human life was taken by thugs in uniforms pretending to be the protectors of the public. Mr. McDuffie was part of that public. And while few people will condone looting, one has to understand the pent up emotion: boiling inside of nearly 30 million disenfranchised black bodies. But you see, that has always been the problem: White America doesn't understand Black America and hasn't been trying to. You just can't continue to oppress people without incident. If proof is needed, ask the Czar of Russia, the captured Shah of Iran, and countless others.

Obviously Sgt. Evans, by his unintelligent statement, doesn't know that not only are some blacks expending their frustrations, but you can bet the Communist, the Klan, and other provocateurs are in the thick of things, stirring the flames of unrest. An unrest that can be blamed directly on racism.

POSTMORTEM

During the turbulent sixties, while city after city was engulfed in flames by angry blacks, I, like many other blacks, echoed the words of the white press. We asked, why are they doing it? Don't they know that they are setting themselves back?

Back where? Back to what? When you are at the back of the bus, the only way you can go is forward. When you don't have anything, you have nothing to lose.

The continued escalation of oppression and racism since then has forced me to abandon the policies of passive resistance in favor of militancy. The problem (riot) was caused by a racist insult. To find the murderers of Mr. McDuffie innocent was an insult to the principles of American democracy and especially to ever black American.

At this crucial time in history while all the world is watching America and reassessing our position as a world leader and power, the last thing needed is flagrant, unmitigated racism.

Black people don't want to hear anymore rhetoric from forked tongued rednecks nor bourgeois Uncle toms. Remember the bumper sticker, "America - Change it or lose it?" Well, that statement has never been more apropos than at this moment in time.

Black folks are entitled to our share of "America the Beautiful", today. You know we never did get the 40 acres nor the mule.

Black America must demand equal rights NOW, without anymore delays - or else!

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The Lubbock Citibus is funded almost entirely from federal and state tax money except for the fare.

It does not provide service to the medically indigent who receive clinic services at the Lubbock City County Health Department. The infant mortality rate in Texas is high. The infant mortality rate in Lubbock has been one of the highest in the nation.

I do not believe that the state and federal funds were intended only for domestics to be transported to the more affluent areas of the city. How can you give bus service to the health department for these poor people.

Dear Editor:

"Letter to the Readers of the Digest"

Apathy is a disease of the spirit. Worse yet it is a contagious disease which can infect any and everybody in a community. For the past several weeks, I have written letters to the Lubbock Digest reflecting certain of my opinions on various issues. From the response I have seen in the Digest, I assume one of two things. Either everyone agrees with me (highly unlikely) or everyone has been afflicted with apathy (quite likely).

Black voter turnout in the last elections likewise reflects either everyone is happy with present government (highly unlikely) or everyone has been afflicted with apathy. This is stupid.

If you invest thousands of dollars in business aren't you concerned with that business? Don't you want to know what's going on with it? Look at what you pay in

The Outreach Prayer Breakfast

The members of the Outreach Prayer Breakfast Club met last Saturday morning in the home of our president Mrs. Mary Ward. This was a beautiful gathering. We were in one place, in one accord and the spirit of love dwell throughout the meeting. Presiding over the weekly meeting was Mrs. C. E. Fair and Mrs. M. Ward.

Our sick and shut in list include: Rev. P. S. Roberts, Mr. Jordan, who is at home; Mr. George Woods, at home; Mr. Harry Buntch, and Mr. M. E. Collins, at home.

Open devotion was led by Mrs. Lantina Childress, Mrs. C. E. Fair and Mrs. Dorothy Hood. The morning lesson was found in Phillipians 4:8.

Remember God is the answer to all problems. Call on Him, He is standing near!

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true. Whatsoever things are honest, Whatsoever things are pure, Whatsoever things are lovely, Whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise. Think on these things. Thought for the day: 'Take a good look at self, from inside out.' Think about it! Breakfast was served by President Ward and it was delicious. Are you hungry? Come and eat with us. We care. We really do!

Can any good come out of Nazareth? Our answer is "Come and See!"

Our next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Clara Cage, 2420 East 8th Street.

Mrs. Mary Ward is president; Mrs. C. E. Fair is vice president; Mrs. C. E. Brown is secretary; and Mrs. Dorothy Hood is reporter.

MONITORING BLACK NEEDS REGARDING BLACK YOUTH CRIME

That black Americans must develop some means of monitoring or keeping tabs on—and exercising control over—every public or governmental concern which is crucial to their lives is especially evident in the area of black youth crime.

Let us note—with due gravity and alarm—these facts.

• While black youth comprise 12-17 percent of the nation's youth population, black youth account for more than 50 percent (or 3 to 4 times their due proportion) of all of the nation's property crime arrests.

• At the same time, those personnel chosen to administer programs for rehabilitation of juvenile offenders are disproportionately white and overwhelmingly tend to see black youth as almost innately committed to criminal behavior.

• Black youth arrests for violent crimes are 2 to 3 times the rate for white youth, with black youth representing more than a third of all offenses involving violence.

• Most of the nation's young offenders who commit acts of extreme violence and pursue criminal careers come from minority, ghetto and poverty backgrounds; so do their victims.

• Still, over a three year period, the federal government's Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention has sought no official technical assistance from minority firms, those which would be most sensitive to black youth needs.

• Meanwhile, white firms and advisors were paid $5 million over the same three year period for technical assistance in the lessening or amelioration of black and white youth crime.

There is more.

• Between 1975-1979, the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention expended $37 million for research into the causes and prevention of black and white youth crime, and not one minority individual, college or university received funds. A solid case could be made for the majority of these funds to be spent with minorities.

• Monies of the federal government for juvenile justice and delinquency prevention tend to create an association of the term "hard core offenders" with black youth by expending most of the federal resources for rehabilitation on those youth whose offenses are unrelated to the ghetto. Thus, when white youth are released—after intensive rehabilitation efforts (with 2 to 3 times the federal resources)—they tend not to become repeat offenders. The opposite results are built in for blacks, and, at federal government expense.

• LEAA has not been known to be an agency friendly to black people. Its history is steeped in the white backlash of the late 1960's and early 1970's; and it has a hard line "law and order" image, supplying local police agencies with warfare and surveillance equipment of a totalitarian or police state in birth rates nationally, the critical fact remains that young urban black males (between the ages of 18 and 25) will increase eight percent over the next fifteen to twenty years. This means an even larger proportion of the nation's criminal offenders than at present will tend to be black!

The major federal youth crime initiative, let us not forget, is through the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP), an agency of the controversial Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) of the U.S. Justice Department.

• LEAA has not been known to be an agency friendly to black people. Its history is steeped in the white backlash of the late 1960's and early 1970's; and it has a hard line "law and order" image, supplying local police agencies with warfare and surveillance equipment of a totalitarian or police state character. • Funds for youth crime prevention research have been awarded by LEAA and its OJJDP to agencies which have shown the capacity to treat "amenable" youth, with "resistant" youth being largely excluded.

• These "code words" for race and class have resulted in both theories and practices in juvenile justice and delinquency prevention circles which embody the notion that a "get tough" policy is appropriate for chronic, "resistant" (or black) youth, while some form of "saving" seems especially appropriate for low risk, "tractable" (or "amenable" white) offenders.

Thus the seemingly unstoppable blunderbus of racism makes its devastating way in almost juggernaut fashion "behind our prison walls" as well as, ubiquitously and inescapably, in every other area of our nation's life.

The critical need for black folks to compile and keep up to date a listing of all agencies, programs and initiatives which bear upon the black community was made even more evident in the confirmation hearings for Ira Swartz to become the Administrator of the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

There are a number of perhaps salient aspects to that situation. But it should be sufficient simply to note that Mr. Swartz—President Carter's nominee—had given wholehearted endorsement to the policies of OJJDP which have been referred to above.

While black Americans must press for as many new appointments in new areas as the needs for justice require, it is vital that we remove from our backs these albatross forces which, today, as in the past, relentlessly build in the means for black demeaning, desecration and defeat at every hand.

Romance and Sex After 60 a Vital Concern to Some: Part I

Two decades ago societal prejudice viewed sex for the elderly as a matter of ridicule, using labels as "Dirty Old Man" for males and similar labels for females. Today, however, there is a "slowly increasing public acceptance of sexuality in later life," according to Dr. Robert Butler, Director of the National Institute on Aging.

"Training programs, conferences and publications for physicians, sex counselors and psychotherapists are beginning to the problems of older people, as well as those of the chronically ill and physically disabled of all ages," Butler said recently.

"Even some nursing homes are relaxing their puritanical standards by introducing 'privacy rooms' where older people can be alone together. There is a growing recognition that ... romance and sex are still a vital concern for some."

Dr. Butler, who co-authored "Love and Sex After Sixty" with his wife and colleague, psychotherapist Myrna Lewis, stresses that "it's not essential that all elderly people feel compelled to be interested in sex."

But those who do, he says, "should not be restricted from natural expressions of intimacy. In the normal course of aging, women ordinarily do not lose their physical capacity for orgasm, nor men their capacity for erection and ejaculation."

"What we do see is a gradual slowing of response, especially in men -- a process currently described as part of 'normal' aging, but perhaps itself eventually amenable to treatment and reversal. A pattern of regular sexual activity, or at least self-stimulation helps to preserve sexual functioning in body men and women."

Societal disapproval of sexual drive in the elderly, Dr. Butler notes, may cause some older people to give up on sex. If an adult child strenuously objects to a widowed parent's dating, or if a nursing home humiliates residents who make sexual advances, the older person might capitulate.

But "probably the majority of the old, who are interested in sex," he says, "want the opportunity for it and would welcome help with the physical, emotional and social problems that interfere with its enjoyment."

Among the common factors, according to Dr. Butler, which affect sexuality in older people:

Heart Disease: "Especially if a heart attack has occurred, leads many older people to give up on sex altogether for fear of provoking attack. Yet the incidence of death during sexual intercourse is thought to be very low. Sex usually can, and in many cases should be resumed an average of 16 weeks after a heart attack, depending on physical conditioning. An active sex life may in fact decrease the risk of further attack."

A test to determine readiness for sex, according to Dr. Butler, "is whether or not a person can walk vigorously for three blocks, or climb one or two flights of stairs without pain, abnormal pulse rate or blood pressure or electrocardiogram changes."

Anemia: "Produces one of the most common and easily treated sexual problems. Found in some form in one out of four persons over 60, anemia leads to fatigue and often a reduction in sexual activity. An improved diet with adequate vitamins and minerals will frequently restore both energy and sexual activity."

Drugs: "Can cause sexual problems. Tranquilizers, anti-depressants and certain anti-hypertensive drugs are all culprits. A doctor can often prescribe a less sexually inhibiting drug if he or she realizes this is important to the patient."

Alcohol: "In excess, reduces potency in men and delays orgasm in women and is probably the most widespread drug-related cause of sexual problems. In general, an older person should not have more than one and one-half ounces of hard liquor, two six-ounce glasses of wine, or three eight-ounce glasses of beer in any 14-hour period when sex is anticipated."

Emotional Problems: "The fear of impotence ... All men of any age are impotent from time-to-time ... But if a man is unduly alarmed by temporary impotence, or in the case of older men, by sensing a gradual slowing of sexual response, he may cause, or perpetrate the impotence through fear alone."

taxes and then think about the utter stupidity of not voting. These may be strong words but sometimes a disease requires strong medicine.

There are a thousand ways to make your opinion count. Vote! Write letters to the editors of your newspaper! Write your congressman! Speak out at community meetings!

Unfortunately there are also a thousand excuses for not getting involved. But what is an excuse? Generally it's a lie.

Don't get me wrong, I would like for everyone to agree with my viewpoints but that is not possible in a world of individuals. From where I sit you have two choices. You can begin speaking out and make your community strong so you can sit back and become a collection of nobodies. It's your choice.
