Editorial -- Men In Uniform Deserve Respect

Sooner or later some boiled shirt who is also a stuffed shirt was bound to do this. A soldier bearing sergeant's chevrons appeared in the so-very-smart cafe of a fashionable Washington hotel the other day with his best girl, and the boiled-stuffed shirt refused to serve him.

One would have thought that this lesson had been learned during the World War; that no place is too good for the wearers of Uncle Sam's khaki. Even the German army has learned that lesson. Prussian distinctions between officers and men in public civilian places have been eliminated in Germany long ago. Yet apparently a few lingering out-of-daters have not learned it. Happily, this soldier's commanding general, learning of the discrimination against the uniform, went down to the hotel and raised a can, securing an apology and a promise never to do it again.

Today's armies are citizens' armies. Our soldiers are a cross-section of our people. And we hope that this lone case remains alone—that never again do we hear of any public place arrogating to itself the phony "right" to discriminate against men in uniform, officers or enlisted men.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—Gracie Fields, Says Writes, Deserves Place In Pictures

By BOBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — Gracie Fields, in case nobody ever told her, ought to be in pictures.

Gracie is that fabulous Lancashire Lass who stopped making fortunes for herself when the war began and is now well on the way to her first million for British war relief. She's been touring this country and Canada, singing and clowning to drag in the dollars, and the way she throws herself into the job ought to cheer the folks back home.

Gracie never made a movie here, but she should, and when she does they ought to let her be herself—because there's nobody else like her. If they can't make her fit into any of the accepted patterns of the screen, that's to the good. Just put her in front of a camera and let 'er go, we say, and she'll do all right. She's done all right in the English movies already, and she'll do better in a Hollywood movie if they give her the reins.

The reason for this effusion is that Gracie, as part of her tour, has hit Los Angeles and given her first show before a local audience. "I'd never have dared it," she said, "but the cause made me screw up my courage."

Her showcase here was the Shrine auditorium, a vast stage and a vast expanse of seating capacity—nothing coxy and intimate to help a girl along. Gracie, 43 now, might have been fazed by that one, but you can doubt it. She's

Chapter 17
JIM'S CONTRIBUTION

The lawyer and Jim Drossard retired to a far corner of the room, well out of earshot of the others. "Say, Jim—where were you?" Robert Howe demanded.

"I followed the girl into this room, see?" Jim explained. "When I got in here, she was already halfway up the stairs. I was going to speak to her—I had my hand out to pull on her robe and make her turn around. Then—just as I did—the candle went out, like she said, see?"

"No, I don't," said the lawyer testily. "What about this cold, clammy hand?"

"She was nervous, I guess," Jim explained. "My hand ain't cold and clammy. But, when the candle went out, I grabbed her ankle by mistake and she let out a hooray. Then I ran."

Mr. Howe was nodding, a complacent smile on his lips.

"I see. Very sensible of you to keep quiet during the cross-examination, Jim. No harm in letting Miss Prentice—and Mrs. Marbury, think there's a sound foundation for this ghost story. Luckily, with your arm in a sling, they'd never suspect you. But I think tomorrow you could say that your arm is better."

"Say, that will be a pleasure," said Jim with relief. "I keep forgetting it's supposed to be hurt."

The next morning Eve found Brett more disagreeable than he had been before. "And that's some sort of a record," she told herself. Her own patience was wearing rather thin. She had had a restless night, and Julie's constant soliloquy had a wearing effect on her nerves, even so early in the morning. She was in no mood to placate Brett's moodiness.

"Do you feel better this morning?" he inquired, as she emerged from the kitchen quarters after a late and hasty cup of coffee.

"If you mean to suggest that my hysterics last night were due only to my imagination, Eve said haughtily, "you're mistaken. I did feel a cold, clammy hand. But I'm all right—due, doubtless, to your bright smile."

Brett looked at her in astonishment. "I don't mean to play the ogre," he apologized, "but was rather worried about you last night. You shouldn't go prying into places all alone. Wait and call some of the men."

"I did call you," Eve explained.

"Of course," she said impatiently. "I was fairly sure you had that matter."

"No!" said Brett. And then, irrelevantly: "You have a smudge on your nose."

Eve stamped her foot. "That's what you think about, when you should be worrying about our lives—not my appearance! I tell you I did feel a hand—and I know it was from beyond the grave—as Mrs. Jackson suggests. Some one touched me! And I suspect . . ."

"Beautiful! Whom do you suspect?"

Nell, coming out of the dining room in rubber-soled tennis shoes, was at her elbow before Eve was aware he was there. "But, looking at him, seemed to lose some of his carefree attitude. She leaned against Nell's ready arm, and found comfort in its solid strength.

"We were just discussing the trouble last night," she explained.

"Oh, that!" Nell dismissed it as one of the ancient Nordic gods might have tossed it aside, asking something worthier of his shield for a foe. "Last night is over," he said grandly. "This business of keeping a watch was sort of child's play, anyhow. We're more concerned with getting off the island. Aren't we?" His tone was a challenge to Brett.

But, to Eve's surprise, Brett instantly agreed.

"You're right, Bowron. I gather that you want to make a definite attempt to get away from here. What do you advise?"

Eve looked from one to the other, unable to decide whether they were merely using her as an audience, or were actually trying to help each other get away. But neither man even glanced in her direction.

Instead, Nell was saying with a new note of respect in his voice: "I thought we might build a raft."

"A splendid idea!" Brett looked genuinely interested, and he and Nell walked off arm in arm, discussing the various types that might be put together. They left her standing alone in the hall.

"Well!" Eve exclaimed as the two men walked off the door. She sought out Gina, and the two girls disconsolately sat on the upper porch looking out at a serene sea and cloudless sky.

"No reason in the world why the plans can't come back today," Gina was saying. "I'll admit the weather hasn't been any too pleasant before this. But even a novice could bring a sea-plane down on that sheet of water."

Eve was forced to agree. "Nell and Brett don't believe the plane is coming back," she offered. "At

Also and Kintner—Survey Shows Cost Of Defense Preparations

WASHINGTON, April 20. — The first comprehensive statistical analysis of the defense program has recently been completed at the office of production management. Now quietly circulating among the higher officials in the administration, the document has already provoked much discussion. For it shows the defense program straining our business-as-usual economy almost to the breaking point, and it quiet clearly suggests that the program is not adequate.

Statistics are inevitably depressing, but the issues presented by the new statistics from the OPM is of such far-reaching importance that the effort required to master the figures will be well rewarded. The key to the problem is to be found, moreover, in a fairly simple table, showing estimated defense expenditures, estimated national income, and estimated employment percentages in the years 1940, 1941 and 1942.

Defense in Economic Terms
Spending (in billions)	$3.3	$13.6	$19.2
Other Defense Spending (in billions)	$1.2	$ 4.0	$ 3.6
Total	$4.4	$17.6	$22.8
National Income (in billions, assuming constant prices)	$75.	$95.	$105.
Available Labor Force (in billions)	54.7	55.3	56.
Employment (in millions)	46.8	52.7	55.5

Three facts stick out a mile from this table, once it has been studied. First, assuming constant prices, the government spending involved in the defense program is expected to produce directly and indirectly a $30,000,000,000 increase in the national income in the short space of three years.

How such an enormous boom can be got through without price troubles, it is difficult to imagine unless the present makeshift system of price control is improved.

Second, although a reasonable reservoir of free labor is well known to be necessary to the efficient functioning of all industrial systems, this reservoir will have been reduced to the vanishing point by 1942. There are certain classes of labor, such as domestic servants, workers in marginal service industries, etc., who can be drawn into industrial production to improve the margin.

But as a large part of the existing margin consists of men and women now on relief, many of whom are acknowledged to be in part unemployable by the relief authorities themselves, it is pretty plain that a serious labor shortage is immediately ahead.

Third, the labor and price strains will be accompanied by another strain—the strain of vast industrial expansion. As the OPM analysis points out, such a rate of industrial expansion as is now contemplated is without precedent in our history. Yet despite the seriousness of the three strains involved, only 19 percent of the national income will be expended on defense in 1941, and only 22 percent in 1942. That means that less than a quarter of the national energy and economic power will be mobilized for defense purposes.

And measured by the efforts of Germany and Britain, where at least half the national income and energy is dedicated to defense, our effort looks pretty trivial.

A Fair Half

The suggestion that our defense effort will not meet the war situation is inherent in the OPM analysis, rather than expressly stated. The analysis points out the need for about $1,000,000,000 more than the funds now appropriated, to be spent on new facilities for making planes, ships and ordnance. Even assuming this money is appropriated, however, the output will be too small. The estimated production totals are figures which cannot be published, but both in ships and planes they seem sadly lower than what the emergency calls for. 600,000,000 of new engines!

If proof is needed, here is the fact that the plane production statistics do not include the $2,000,000,000 of new heavy bomber capacity believed to be urgently needed by the Army Air Corps and the British.

How then to solve the problem of a program which is inadequate, yet which will strain our economy to the utmost? The answer is to be found in the apparent assumption of the OPM analysis, that the economy will continue on a business as usual basis. Adequate defense cannot be achieved in time if the principle of business as usual is not abandoned. It probably must be abandoned in any case, to prevent the violently disruptive potential effects of the labor and price trends set forth above. The sooner it is abandoned, the better. For then it will be possible to give out 19 or 22 percent of our energy and riches to the fight for freedom, but the fair half that the fight demands.

Man About Manhattan—Oscar Levant Picks Selling Titles For Books He Writes

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—"It is spy-phobia," says Jim Young, "that is disturbing the Japanese. They think everyone is a spy—often with curious consequences."

Young, a midwesterner, is an American newspaperman who spent 13 years in the Far East, principally in Japan, reporting political, economic, and military developments for American newspapers.

Recently he was told to get out of Japan, but not until he had spent 31 dull and dreary days in a Japanese jail. "They searched my quarters," Young recalls, "and happened to find an old fraternity pin of mine, Phi Gamma Delta. And the next thing I knew I was charged with being a Greek fifth columnist."

It was Oscar Levant, the smart, sometimes exuberant but often sulky musical expert of Information Please who chose "A Smattering of Ignorance" as a title for a book of anecdotes and personal incidents last season—a book that astonished publishers everywhere by its unexpected sale. Now Levant is scheduled for a new book, this one with an altogether appropriate title—"Handbook for Insult."

If you like pirates you will be interested in this news of Kenneth Roberts and Daphne du Maurier. The author of "Arunde," "Oliver Wiswell" and other stories of the American Revolution era, Roberts will move to Africa for the locale of his next novel, not yet titled. Its action will center around Derna, a port recently much in the news, and it will deal with the pirates who demanded tribute from merchantmen until America dispatched Deacatur to put an end to that business.

Daphne du Maurier will write on pirates along the Cornish coast in the 18th century. Her new book will be titled "Frenchman's Creek." It will have some of the flavor of "Jamaica Inn," which, with "Rebecca," made her famous. Miss du Maurier in private life is the wife of Brig-Gen. F. A. M. Browning, youngest general in the British army.

Psychologists say people who draw weird hieroglyphics on pads during telephone conversations are generally worried about something. These probers of the human mind should range along the 32nd street bars and watch the bar-dawdlers for a few hours.

There is a frequent guest at Leon & Eddie's who sits at the bar hours on end beating out tunes with a spoon. I have seen him there at intervals of weeks or months for the last several years, and the routine never varies.

Another frequent imbibor, though I have never known him to be intoxicated, sits for hours in Twenty-one ripping paper matches and piling them into little rows like cordwood. He does it every night of his life. Now when he comes in, the waiters gravely place a dozen or so folders of matches before him.

Orchid and yellow were the colors used in the refreshments and appointments. Over 35 persons attended.

Has someone missed a size six Masonic ring within the last week? Fire in the basement of the Dr. G. T. Hall home on Hillside Drive Saturday morning did little damage. A small box over a motor had caught fire, said firemen.

W. W. (Bill) Barker, Midland and formerly of Big Spring, has completed a postgraduate course in advanced underwriting, distinguishing him among his company's (Bankers Life) representatives, a formal announcement said Saturday.

J. W. Sherrod, formerly manager at McCrory's, has accepted a position in the mens' wear department at Montgomery Ward & Co.

'Swing Out' Hits Final Lap Before Monday Night Debut

Dress rehearsal Saturday evening signified that the Lions club all-star comedy, "Swing Out," was ready for presentation in matinee and evening performances at the municipal auditorium Monday.

Under the direction of Myrtle McDonald, the cast was going through the dialogue of the play like trouper, and not only Miss McDonald but club officials as well felt it would prove to be one of the best home-talent shows offered here in years.

Curtain time has been set for 3:45 p. m. and 8:15 p. m. Monday. In addition to the regular show there will be snappy novelty and specialty numbers with some in-between-act fun and foolishness.

Burke Summers, club president, said that "this is more of an all-star party than a home talent one. Look at the cast. You can't miss with thespians like King J. Sides, Dan Conley, Woodrow Wadcock, Elton Taylor, Doug Perry, Mrs. Jack Smith, Eloise Haley, Mrs. Ray Lawrence, Mrs. C. L. Henry and Mrs. Flossie Loik. All of them are looking great in their parts.

Enthusiasm over the chorus numbers has increased during the week, especially after its members—Virginia Douglas, Nina Mae Taylor, Shirley June Robbins, Ilene Killingsworth, Betty Bob Diltz and Gloria Nall—drew heavy applause in appearances before service clubs.

They appear in three numbers, one combining the show theme song of "Swing Out" with a dance, another a military line number with lots of zip, and another in French maid costumes.

All the settings for the show take place in the estate of a wealthy manufacturer who is carrying a sarcastic front as a defense against his social minded wife. The show moves rapidly along as preparations are made for a charity show.

But not without complications, for the daughter, home from a finishing school, brings along a fake Frenchman, Pierre, with whom she is infatuated. Her Dad wants her to marry a young advertising executive in the firm, and Mama has her ideas too. Neighboring girls take a hand to tangle things up good and proper, to the annoyance of all, including the oh so dignified butler.

Mixed in are the specialties and novelties with lively music and some pure horse-play between the acts. Many Big Spring merchants have bought up books of tickets so that their friends will not fail to see the show.

made more popular with the masses. But perhaps they have been killed by the classics. And we mean just that, for the average person loves to hear a sprinkling of melodies he knows as well as difficult selections from the masters. You don't raise a baby by giving it beefsteak the first month, and you don't build musical appreciation that way either.

There should be a little object lesson in what N. Kaderil has done with his turnip patch at Stanton. Mr. Kaderil is 78 years old but he planted a space 12x50 feet in turnips. Off it he sold $57 in greens. Lots of people can't get that off several acres. But then maybe they don't stay on the job like Mr. Kaderil.

Any way now the state WPA office is due to announce approval of the city's $740,000 airport project. When this happens, only one more hurdle is to be taken—that of final approval in Washington. However, this is expected to be given quickly; and construction on the job may not be so far off.

trated," but the British press was anything but optimistic.

"Should the moment come, as unfortunately it may, when forces of the empire will be compelled to retire from the Greek mainland, there certainly should be neither despondency at the event nor any regret that help to Greece was undertaken," said the London News Chronicle, adding that "islanders in the Middle East, particularly in Libya, the situation is full of factors that give confidence."

An indication that the government itself might be thinking along the same lines was seen in the announcement of the landing in Iraq. A British force was sent ashore at Basra, at the head of the Persian gulf.

The new Iraq government, established April 4, the London announcement said, was cooperating with the British in line with assurances of Premier Sayid Rashid Ali Al-Gallani. The official British explanation was that the move was made to open up lines of communication through Iraq.

Pre-School Play Center Makes Hit

The pre-school play center at the ABC park is scoring a big hit with the children and their mothers, Malcolm Bridges, city-WPA recreational supervisor said Saturday.

Designed to care for children between the nursery and school age, the new unit is hailed as an aid to mothers who must work. It operates from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Mrs. Alice Holt is sold on the plan, for she said that she can concentrate on her work because "I can be sure where my boy spends his time." Mrs. A. A. Chapman says her work is more thorough because she "knows that Floyd is under supervised play."

"Wanda was so lonesome when the other children were in school that I was exhausted at night from trying to keep her occupied," said Mrs. Bob Hughes, but now she is a "happy but tired girl at night."

Mrs. Emmett Hull pointed out that Robert Lee wakes up in the morning anxious to go to the pre-school play center. "has a better appetite and sleeps well at night."

In the last 43 years of shipbuilding in the U. S., gross tonnage of vessels launched, according to the census, has ranged from a high of 4,662,000 tons in 1929 to a low of 71,696 tons in 1933. In 1939, 1,405 vessels with a gross tonnage of 632,000 were launched.

Nazis Reported Taking Bulk Of French Vessels

VICHY, France, April 19 (AP)—Fifty-three ships of nearly 240,000 tons have been requisitioned from France in recent months, reliable informants said today, bringing the government to firm and set a limit to such action.

(The cable did not say so, but the Germans apparently requisitioned the ships, perhaps to transport axis men and supplies to Africa.)

The transatlantic French liner De Grasse, 18,453 tons, heads the list of the ships reported requisitioned. Others include the Mexique, 12,200 tons; the Kerguelen, 10,123; the Vendee, 9,153; the Flandra, 8,571 and the Yangtse, 8,150.

This is the first figure on requisitioned means of transportation since it was learned that by last February 140,000 out of 450,000 French freight cars had been requisitioned and that 240,000 of the remainder had been concentrated in occupied France. (These cars were requisitioned by the German authorities).

Up to now the Vichy government has directed its statements toward British seizures of French merchant vessels, saying that these seriously threatened the country's remaining imports and explaining that the losses could not be replaced for lack of shipyards.

The decade of increase from 1910 showed the greatest numerical population gain of any decade. The increase then was 17,064,426, compared with an increase of 8,594,229 shown in the 1940 census.

The population of continental United States on April 1, 1940, was 131,669,275, according to the final count of the census.

SPRING TIME IS FIX UP TIME, and particularly is this week the period for dressing up the landscape in Big Spring, as the city observes Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up Week. At the right, three maids march off to war on unsightliness, their weapons being hoes and rakes. These "Clean Up Girls" are Betty Bob Diltz, daughter of Mrs. Mary Diltz; Leola Vines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vines, and Mina Mae Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Taylor. Immediately below, Cornelia Frazier has had about all the spading she can take without a rest, while her mother, Mrs. Bruce Frazier carries on, in their yard at 1601 Owens. Left below, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. (Jimmy) Beale do a little spring hedge trimming at their home in Government Heights. Both are enthusiastic in home and yard beautification programs. (Perry Photos).

FACE LIFTING the garden gate is the chosen chore of Mrs. G. H. Wood (right), who sets a notable example at her home, 1599 Runnels, for Big Spring people to follow during Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up Week. Below, Boy Scouts are doing their good turn in civic beautification, as they gather up tin cans. They're Jimmy Velvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Velvin; Jim Nummy, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Nummy and Ed Fisher, son of Mrs. Albert M. Fisher. (Perry Photos).

There's Humor In A Training Camp; 'Buck Privates' Is Proof Of It

Laugh Team Scores In Ritz Film

It was inevitable that Hollywood turn its comedy productions to the subject matter of the nation's selective service camps. But it wasn't so inevitable that the first of the laugh fests dealing with "draftees" be such howling success.

But a howling success is "Buck Privates," the Ritz theatre's offering today, as holiday engagements in many cities and fine public reaction will testify.

"Buck Privates" introduces Abbott and Costello—a long and short combination in comedy teams. The two have been seen in only one other picture, and will have to make their own name with movie audiences. That they succeed is the secret of the success of "Buck Privates." Bud Abbott is the long and lanky one, the feeder of straight lines to his partner. Lou Costello is the dumpy one, the little fellow who produces all the gags. Together, they make a very smooth pair.

They are not alone, in either "Buck Privates" or in the army camp. The Andrews Sisters, those popular songstresses of the phonograph records, are very much in evidence, and introduce their own particular brand of boogie woogie with several new songs.

Others in the cast are Lee Bowman and Aun Curtis, Jane Frazee and Nat Pendleton. Jane is one of the hostesses at the training camp, and the romance in the picture develops through the competition of Bowman and Curtis for the girl's interest. Pendleton is the typical tough sergeant who makes life miserable for Abbott and Costello.

There are scenes in "Buck Privates" rated with the top comedy of Charlie Chaplin's old "Shoulder Arms." There are songs, some army shots, some romance. But most of all, there is Abbott-Costello chatter which rates as the season's hottest comedy dialogue.

Although land in farms was greater than ever before, the 1940 census reported a 3.1 per cent decline in the number of farms since 1930. The new total is 6,096,789, compared with 6,312,350 in 1935 and 6,388,648 in 1930.

Army Life, New Version—The Sisters Andrews and a couple of gagsters named Abbott and Costello combine talents to present a new phase of selective service, all in a movie called "Buck Privates," which plays today and Monday at the Ritz. While the Andrews girls bring hot singing—the boogie woogie, if you please—into camp, Abbott and Costello bring plenty of laughs. "Buck Privates" has been one of the surprise smash hits of the season.

Ward Launches Big Ad Campaign For Annual Spring Merchandising Event

It's Midnight Oil for Manager E. M. Conley (right) and M. H. Strong, his assistant as they prepare advertising for their Annual Spring Ward Week Sale, which begins Wednesday. (Ferry Photo.)

Called over to the Ward store at a time when most merchants are spending a well-earned evening at home, The Herald representative found Ward Store Manager E. M. Conley and his assistant in a "huddle" on advertising plans.

"Sorry to bother you at this time of the night," Conley apologized, "but we've got to line up our newspaper campaign with you so we can work out a smooth production schedule for all these ads."

He went on to emphasize the importance of the advertising medium to carry his sale news. "A sale consists of two things," he said, "first, you get a big supply of seasonable merchandise, all of it sale-priced. Second, you tell your customers about it. The more customers you tell, the more merchandise you sell. That's why we always use The Herald, because we know that Big Spring looks to it for all the shopping news."

"We have always depended upon The Herald to carry the story of both our special event and daily advertising," Conley stated, "and we've found that it's a sure-fire crowd-bringer every time."

The Ward store will carry a heavier campaign than usual this year, with a series of ads that will cover the sale news for all parts of the store.

Bumsteads On A Voyage To S. America

'Blondie Goes Latin' Offered Today And Monday At Lyric

The Bumsteads, those masters of mirth, also are masters of melody, according to enthusiastic Hollywood report. They cut loose today and Monday at the Lyric theatre in Columbia's "Blondie Goes Latin," a motion picture said to be the singiest, swaggiest, danciest comedy of the year!

That the Bumsteads are fit protagonists for a musical extravaganza virtually goes without saying; that the stars who play the roles of Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dumping are perfectly fitted for a lilted, lyrical rhythm jamboree was well-known to Hollywood. But nothing was done about it until Robert Sparks started production on "Blondie Goes Latin," with its five hit tunes by Bob Wright and Chet Forrest.

Penny "Blondie" Singleton brings to the gay new hit that musical comedy training which made her one of the most popular stars on Broadway. Arthur "Dagwood" Lake was a renowned song-and-dance man in vaudeville before he turned to motion picture comedy. And "Baby Dumping" Simms is the son of a well-known radio chanteuse. With such a background of musical training to make "Blondie Goes Latin" one of the top-notch melodic memories of the year, Columbia has added two equally famed singing stars—Tito Guizar, of radio, concert and screen, and lovely Ruth Terry, delightful night club songbird of New York, Florida and Chicago.

The musical numbers heard in "Blondie Goes Latin" include "Querida," "You Don't Play A Drum (You Beat It)," "Brazilian Cello," "I Hate Music Lessons," and "You Can't Cry on My Shoulder." In addition, the hauntingly beautiful "Boteiro E Malhor," by Rubens Soares and Felisberto Silva, is also to be heard.

"Blondie Goes Latin" sends the Bumsteads on a South American vacation—everybody, that is, except Dagwood, who goes along anyway!

A New Type Western Film At Queen

Franchot Tone Heads Cast Of 'Trail Of The Vigilantes'

Franchot Tone essays the first western role of his career in heading an imposing cast in Universal's new-venture epic, "Trail of the Vigilantes," playing today and Monday at the Queen theatre.

"Trail of the Vigilantes" is likewise the young star's first screen appearance since his lengthy sojourn on the New York stage.

Sharing honors with Tone in "Trail of the Vigilantes" are such well known players as Warren William, Broderick Crawford, Andy Devine, Mischa Auer, Porter Hall, Peggy Moran and others.

"Trail of the Vigilantes" is a new type western film in that it goes heavily on comedy and represents a hilarious takeoff on many of the stock "melterdrummer" situations.

Tone portrays an undercover agent sent to the western frontier by a Kansas City newspaper to hunt down the murderer of a reporter. At first skeptical of cowboys and their ways, the agent finds himself fascinated by ranch life and, after hair-raising experiences, coupled with a romance, decides to stay.

William is seen as the crooked head of the cattlemen's association. Crawford portrays a rough cowboy who wants to be a gentleman like the agent, while Devine and Auer have comedy roles especially adapted to their talents.

Peggy Moran, young Universal starlet, wins the first big break of her screen career in portraying the leading feminine role opposite Tone.

Big Spring Marshals Forces For Biggest Clean-Up Drive

Trash Will Be Hauled Free

The city stands ready to cooperate to the fullest extent in the Clean-Up and Fix-Up campaign this week, and all it asks is cooperation from residents.

City commissioners, in a recent session, assured members of the chamber of commerce beautification committee that it would furnish, free of charge, ample facilities for removing trash collected during the week to the dumping grounds.

It's a whole of a big job, and to get it done efficiently and quickly will require the help of every person availing himself of this opportunity of free hauling.

As trash and debris is collected around the place, the material should be congregated in barrels, cans, boxes or sacks for the simple reason it will speed collection operations. People are urged not to heap up the results of their clean-up in the alley for crews to pick up. Every time this happens, it robs three or four hours of prompt service.

Doubtless there will be a large amount of brush, shrubbery and tree trimmings gathered. It is strongly urged by the city that these be stacked and packed in one stack and bound tightly with a stout string or small rope so that they can be picked up readily. The same would hold true for planks, pieces of junk, etc.

The appeal is based on experience, for three seasons ago in the face of a mild clean-up campaign the city essayed to haul away trash. The response was terrific. The loads required numbered not in the tens, the scores—but in the hundreds. When it was all over more than a month had been required to do the job.

This time, with all cooperating in bundling their trash, it is planned to handle a much larger volume in a week's time. Not only will the two regular trucks be used, but as many more trucks as are needed will be pressed into service.

Beautification Work Aided By Cheaper Water

Lack of cheap water has been one of the obstacles between the citizens of Big Spring and a well-rounded program of city beautification. Recently these rates were reduced, thereby making it possible for the majority of Big Springers to give their lawns and flowers a much-needed soaking.

Beautification of grounds should start in late winter instead of late spring as is so often the apparent belief of a great many hopeful ones. Starting when a bit of nip is still in the air, householders can take advantage of a saving on rates.

Under the present setup, water rates are inversely proportional to the amount used in winter and summer months. The old winter rate of $2.70 for five thousand gallons has been reduced to $2.25.

For ten thousand gallons the former rate of $4.70 has been cut to $3.50 and fifteen thousand can be obtained for $4.75 as in comparison to the old rate of $6.70.

Under the summer residential irrigation system, the rate was formerly $3.50 for all amounts up to and including ten thousand gallons. Now, a person using less than the minimum obtained for $3.50 will be charged only for that amount he has used. Fifteen thousand gallons under summer rates can be obtained for $4.75, twenty-five cents lower than the former rate, and twenty thousand gallons costs $6.00, fifty cents below the old rate.

There are few things that can improve the appearance of a street and of individual residences like well-kept lawns and colorful arrays of flowers. Although Big Spring is in an area where proper moisture is something of a problem, people should encounter little difficulty in keeping pace with the city beautification program so long as every effort is made to provide cheap water.

Campaign Due To Touch All Of Community

Mayor Proclaims Week As Clubs Join To Insure Success

Clean-Up — Paint-Up — Fix-Up

This is the week to do it, for Big Spring, marshaled as never before for such an activity, is ready for a community-wide drive to dress up the city.

Today Mayor G. C. Dunham proclaimed this as Clean-Up Week even as service organizations and individuals planned to attack unrighteousness on a number of fronts.

Everything was all set for a blitzkrieg with a hoe and a brush. Materialmen will make a survey of the city to ascertain the number of structures which stand in need of painting.

The city has pledged all the trucks necessary to give free hauling on all trash collected by residents during the week.

Service clubs have accepted the responsibilities of promoting alley, street, and vacant lot clean-ups, while another unit has begun work on securing cooperation from food establishments in the program.

Tuesday another promotional event is set for 5 p. m. at 410 San Antonio when amateur teams from four service clubs and from the National Youth Administration center compete in a contest to paint the WPA nursery. Materialmen have donated paint for the affair.

Working through the service clubs, the sponsoring chamber of commerce beautification committee has secured around 200 cards signed by individuals pledging to carry on the clean-up campaign around their own homes.

Boy Scouts have joined in the program, and Stanley Mate, field executive, will operate a bureau for placing scouts on clean-up jobs. What they earn will be applied to their summer camp funds.

The Texas State Employment Service, through its wide contacts, will be able to place individuals in contact with men who can do this type of work.

Preliminary publicity has been widespread and already has produced results. Many Big Spring home-owners did not wait for the drive to get officially underway, but started last week cleaning their places.

Saturday children, getting into the spirit of the thing, contributed a young mountain of tin cans as the Ritz theatre staged a "tin can" matinee to give the campaign impetus.

Many new stories, radio programs and club addresses have been made to inform the public that this is the week when everybody is urged to whip the old bugaboo of untidiness and clean-up, fix-up and paint-up the town as it never before has been done.

American cigar factories produce more than 5,223,365,000 cigars annually, according to reports of 600 factories to the Census Bureau. This is equivalent to about 100 cigars for each male of smoking age.

Use Of Dumping Ground Urged

Not only this week, but as a year around proposition, Big Spring folks can cooperate in keeping this a cleaner city by observing regulations for dumping trash.

The city has a municipally operated dump ground east of town where all refuse is supposed to be taken. The ground may be reached by a lateral road leaving the east highway just this side of Corden refinery.

Unfortunately, some residents—either too poor or too frugal—to hire their trash dumped at the grounds undertake to find vacant lots in the outlying portions of the city or to dump on surrounding county roads.

The city has strict laws against the dumping of trash within the city limits, and the county has issued repeated warnings against using lateral road right-of-way as a place for leaving garbage and trash.

Net result of giving the city and surrounding area a cleaner appearance is nil when trash is taken from one place and littered at another. Both city and county officials urged residents to take note of this to help make and keep this a better appearing place.

More than 105 million square yards of artificial leather is the annual production of American factories, according to the Census, which reports its value at $27,385,000.

Keep City Clean By Using Street Trash Containers

Big Spring beautification need not consist of periodic spurts of civic pride. On each street corner in the downtown section is a humble but useful instrument of city cleanliness—namely, the well-known trash can.

Twelve months of the year, not just for one short week, these important contributors to Big Spring's clean-up program stand ready to receive the odds and ends one casts off while in town. But, too many times citizens who otherwise keep to high standards of neatness use these receptacles merely as a leaning post. Each trash can was put on its location for a purpose—to provide a means of disposing of candy and chewing gum wrappers and all other things that would clutter up the streets when thrown on the sidewalk.

The lowly trash can is sometimes overlooked, but it fills a definite need. Always find a conveniently located trash can and make use of it before tossing on the street various and sundry scraps that one is always gathering.

Do this, and strangers in the town, although they may not comment on the beauty of the streets, at least will not have thrown in their faces the fact that the town is a bit on the messy side. Once the habit is started it will likely become a year-around action.

Here Are Things You Can Do During Drive

Well, here are some things you can do. And that means YOU, not your next door neighbor. Charity begins at home and so does housecleaning.

You know that porch you've been meaning to fix. Well, get a hammer and some nails and fix it. Next, try your hand at a little painting (or get friend husband to work off a little excess energy that way). Better still, get a professional painter to do it. Looks better, doesn't it.

Now survey the lawn. You've been meaning to set out some hedges haven't you. The place looks sort of empty. O. K., do it. Then plant a few bushes around the steps. Put out some grass sod where it will do the most good.

And now you've got the front looking good, how about along the curbing. Spade it up and set out.

So, it's clean up, paint up, fix up week in Big Spring. High time too! But what can I do?

Everybody is in favor of the spirit of the thing but sometimes they feel as isolated citizens they can do very little to make a whole town clean.

A few trees. The chamber of commerce can accommodate you and at a mighty low price.

Look at the side of your house too. A few small border plants now and some flower seeds will convert that barren spot into a place where you'd like to spend a lot of hours this summer.

And now look at the back of your house! Yes, there's a lot of work to be done there. But before you know it, the old homestead, with or without a mortgage, will look twice its old value!

Health Benefits In Cleaning Up

One of the important angles of the "Clean-Up, Paint-Up and Fix-Up" campaign is its effect on health.

Aside from its value from the standpoint of beauty, the campaign is more than worth the effort because of the improvement in health conditions resulting from more sanitary conditions.

Health authorities have long pointed out that mosquitoes, flies and other insects, many of them disease carrying, breed in places of filth.

Stagnant water and damp, weed-covered ground is the favorite breeding place of the mosquito. Flies thrive principally in garbage refuse, open trash cans, and other places where there is decaying matter they get too.

But although these pests breed and grow in places of filth, they make frequent excursions to more sanitary places, namely the home, to carry filth and germs.

FHA Contributes To Civic Beautification

Big Spring's Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign is moving into full swing, thereby raising the question as to how these things can be financed. The Federal Housing Administration is prepared to come to bat for those who feel they may need a boost in carrying out their share of civic beautification.

Cleanup angles can be handled by the sweat of the brow but efficient paintwork and repair calls for an outpouring of another nature. In other words, there is going to be some money change hands before a city beautification program can be considered a complete success.

FHA, complying with its avowed purpose of distributing the most money where it will do the most good, will advance a loan to home owners or to those who lease their residences from amounts of $80 to $2500 for all repairs, paintwork, and additions other than those to be considered as actual additions to the dwelling. All that is expected of the borrower is a plain the one asking for the loan leases his residence, complete closing of the loan must come six months before the current lease expires.

Loans can be obtained for 12, 18, 24, 30, 33 and 36 months. The lowest rate of installments is placed at $5.26 per month and the highest is $79.75 over a like period. Monthly rates include interest.

Big Spring lumber companies are prepared to offer figures and suggestions for any and all who care to take advantage of rather liberal terms to beautify their homes.

For permanent beautification there is nothing that can enhance the appearance of a dwelling, and incidentally increase the sales value, like a fresh coat of paint, a rebuilt garage, or a bit of facilitating on a sagging porch. In case of smaller work to be done, the $80 loan, payable over a year's time at $5.26 per month, is sufficient to meet the need. In the event complete modernization of the dwelling is the requirement, the top loan, $2500 for three years at $79.75 per month, is the logical solution to the problem.

More Garbage Cans Needed

Big Spring is rounding out its first year of free garbage collection by the city, and it is paying in cleanliness and sanitation.

Talked about for years, the program was set up in the budget last year and for the past nine months has been in operation. Today it is paying dividends in dependability, regularity and in sanitation.

Backbone of the system consists of two enclosed trucks with six cubic yards capacity each. The garbage transports are equipped with hydraulic jacks that compress refuse tightly so that a much bigger load may be carried, lessening the number of trips required to the dump ground and thus permitting faster operation.

By having the bodies enclosed, sanitation in hauling is increased since the garbage cannot blow off and flies are prevented from feasting on the stuff and then taking off for some home.

In the same vein, the city is urging all patrons to cooperate by having enclosed cans for the

It was Tom Sawyer, wasn't it, who, assigned the task of whitewashing the fence, called in the gang and convinced his pals that there was a lot of fun and zest in wielding a brush? Fiction says Tom got the job done, without doing a lot of work himself.

Directors of Big Spring Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up Week are employing Tom Sawyer tactics on the service clubs; the difference being that Rotarians, Kiwanians, et al, aren't being hoodwinked. They know what they're going into—and they graciously are lining up to compete in a job that will not only stimulate the use of a little paint over the town, but will also be a work of beautification in behalf of the worthy Nursery School project.

The paint contest has developed interest for the past week, as first one club then another lined up its best welders. The NYA Training Center volunteered a team, and at week's end the word was going around that these youngsters might cop the mythical blue ribbon over less experienced crews.

Local material dealers are contributing the paint for the contest, and professional painters will serve as judges. The line-up is something like this:

The WPA nursery school building on San Antonio street will be divided into five equal sections. Brushes, ladders and scaffolds will be on hand, along with the paint.

At a given signal—Albert Darby of the chamber of commerce civic beautification committee will be the starter—the five teams will set to, and will be judged on the speed and neatness with which the designated sector is painted.

It promises to be one of the most exciting contests in local history—probably better than a womanless wedding or a fat man-thin man baseball game.

Sponsors of the event are keeping their fingers crossed with the hope that the Nursery school building will look better after the paint job than before.

But, they aver, it will at least have a coat of paint—which is what a lot of Big Spring buildings are needing. People are supposed to take the hint, they say—

At any rate, the whole public is invited, to see a mighty brush battle, and to cheer for the favorite team. Old clothes are recommended as proper spectator sports costume.

Much Publicity Given Clean-Up

There's no excuse for ignorance regarding Big Spring's current clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign.

Newspapers, radio and every other means of publicity, have been blaring out for days that the city is going to clean up. The slacker who leaves his place dirty cannot excuse himself by saying he did not know the campaign was to be held.

At least one article has appeared daily in The Herald and other papers during the past week advertising the campaign. Many announcements have been made over radio station KBST. Automobile stickers flash the news, streamer signs remind the citizen that cleanup time is coming.

Speakers, directed by Mrs. Ray Lawrence, have made appearances before most of the city's service and civic organizations to proclaim the clean-up gospel.

So those people who want to keep up with the Joneses by having as nice a place as the Joneses should take warning that the said Joneses are going to work with hoes, rakes, lawnmower, hammer, nails and paint brush next week.

Lutheran Hour Is Largest On The Air

The Lutheran Hour broadcast, featured each Sunday at Big Spring over Station KEST, has now become the world's largest regular program. The executive board of the International Lutheran Laymen's League, sponsor of this outstanding evangelistic mission, signed a contract adding 12 new high-power stations in Central and South America.

Broadcast over a coast-to-coast hookup of the Mutual Broadcasting System and affiliated stations in the United States, Canada and Alaska, this program is regularly heard through English and Spanish transcriptions in 22 foreign countries and territories including Cuba, Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Paraguay, Uruguay, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, China, Argentina, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Peru and Venezuela. Inquiries from British Guiana point to the extension of the Lutheran Hour also in that country.

The Lutheran Hour speaker, Dr. Walter A. Maier, professor of Old Testament Interpretation and History at Concordia Seminary, has been a pioneer in the field of religious broadcasting. Seven years ago the Lutheran Hour emanated from Detroit through a two-station hookup. At that time William S. Knudsen, in charge of defense production, helped launch the broadcast. The growth of this program, known as the "Bringing Christ to the Nations" broadcast, has been steady. In 1936 there were ten stations; in 1937, 28; in 1938, a coast-to-coast broadcast with 62 stations; in 1939, the season opened with 81 stations and closed with 177. Within seven years the Lutheran Hour had increased its coverage from its Detroit-Cincinnati start to the coast-to-coast radio mission which now reaches, besides North America, the shores of four of the world's six continents.

In Spanish Dr. Maier was quick to recognize the value of supplementary transcriptions in Spanish and Portuguese. Sixty stations in 22 foreign countries now carry the Spanish Lutheran Hour. Native-born Spanish-speaking students at Concordia Seminary assist Dr. Maier in the production of the Spanish transcriptions and the handling of the large correspondence in that language. Negotiations are under way for the addition of further stations carrying supplementary broadcasts in French and Dutch.

The General Electric short wave transmitter in San Francisco, KGEL, now carries the Lutheran Hour message by directional antenna to the Far East. The 50,000-watt General Electric station in Schenectady, WGEO, covers Latin America with the Portuguese and Spanish Lutheran Hours. Station HCJB, "The Voice of the Andes," Quito, Ecuador, broadcasts the Lutheran Hour in English and Spanish over its 10,000-watt long and short wave stations. In Asia the broadcast is heard in Shanghai and over the 50,000-watt station KZRM, in Manila, the most far-reaching outlet in the Orient, which brings mail from listeners living a thousand miles up the Yangtze river, in French Indo-China, Australia, New Zealand, New Guinea, the islands of the Archipelago, of the Malanesian seas and even India. Dr. Maier, the Lutheran Hour speaker, has become one of the best known radio preachers of America. Few, if any, clergymen have a wider and more diversified circle of listeners. Almost a million letters have come to him in connection with his radio mission. On one day he has received as many as 5,000, and the weekly average approximates 12,000. They come from grateful listeners who seek answers to family and personal problems, spiritual comfort, help from the Lutheran Hour speaker.

Lilac Is City's Official Flower

Ever hear of the official Big Spring flower?

Possibly not one out of a hundred could tell you what it is, but last year the Garden club sponsored a vote to name an official flower or shrub. In extremely tight voting, the lilac won.

So one way to fix-up during this special week would be to put out a few of these plants that put out fragrant purple blossoms about this season of the year.

A block full of houses with the lawn brightened with the purple flower would make a tempting eye-ful for anyone looking for a place to buy or rent.

The bushes grow without too much care and worry and the results are more than worth the trouble.

Just as tourists go into praise of the blue bonnets around central Texas, so they could exclaim over our lilac bushes that would dot the town. Folks could come and tour Big Spring for a local trail or pilgrimage and go away delighted.

WE SOLICIT YOUR SUPPORT IN GARBAGE DISPOSAL

The City Commission has passed an ordinance regulating the collection and disposal of trash and garbage for the purpose of securing a more sanitary city and to enable the trash and garbage department to render the public better and more uniform service. It is the result of a year's study by the City Health Officer, City Engineer and City Attorney under the direction of the City Manager, and we have attempted to combine the best features of the methods of various other Texas cities. We believe that it is adapted to our local conditions, but to make it most effective we desire to have each and every household become familiar with the provisions of the ordinance. Any complaint or request for information in regard to service will receive courteous attention if given to the Trouble Clerk of the Trash and Garbage Department through Telephone No. 6.

Safety Seen As Benefit From Drive

Cleanliness in a city pays dividends in many ways. One of these is safety. In addition to approving the appearance and health conditions, a clean-up and fix-up campaign will eliminate many causes of accidental death and injury.

There is less fire hazard in a clean city. Firemen have records showing that many fires start in piles of trash, or in buildings littered with trash. Vacant lots covered with weeds likewise present a fire hazard, for a comparatively innocent looking grass fire may suddenly sweep up to a house and ignite it. Littered, poorly kept areas offer many opportunities for miscellaneous accidents, especially among children who romp on vacant lots, in alleys and around backyards. Opportunities for tripping over discarded articles carelessly thrown about, cutting the feet on old bottles and metal and troublesome foot infections brought about when barefooted children step on rusty nails are obviously many in a trashy, junky area than in a path of walk. Adults, too, are subject to trips over unseen objects lying in their neatly kept lot, alley or yard.

Civic And Service Organizations Do Much Work In Clean-Up Drive

United, active participation by various civic and service organizations of the city touches a new high for Big Spring's Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up campaign this week. Practically every unit in the city has enrolled in the civic beautification effort, with the result that the campaign, at open-

Clean Entrances To City Are Needed

Everybody thinks its a grand idea to clean up the front yard so people passing on the street will get a good impression. But few apparently care how the entrances to the city present themselves to visitors, to those just passing through the town. Something could be done about the five main highways and lateral road entrances into town. Most of these, it must be admitted, present a not so pretty picture. Trees could be placed along these lanes of entrance to take away from the bleakness of the area. A shadow lane to travel through after a hot trip is bound to make a traveler relax and want to slow down and stop. Hardy shrubs could be placed around business houses along these highways. It would enhance the looks of the business property in addition to giving the town a look of verdant growth. Even drive-in stands, that line most of the entrances into the town, could capitalize on the looks of their places by planting shrubs, trees and flower beds around their entrances. It would draw customers to their stands like any oasis brings a crowd. Pretty yard furniture on a green lawn would encourage customers to get out of their cars for their refreshment and, being practical, the longer they stay the more money they spend, the sooner they come back. Better paving along the Benton street entrance would also probably take some of the traffic off the other viaduct leading from the state hospital.

Gay Gang Club Holds Election Of Officers

Election of officers was held when the Gay Gang club met Friday evening in the home of Betty Jo Pool. Winnell Wilkinson is to be president, Betty Jo Pool, vice president, and Mary Neal, secretary. Billy Jo Riggs, who was initiated into the club, was named treasurer. Three guests included Janet Robb, Mary Lou Watt and Roy Lee Pool. Refreshments were served and others present were Billie Jean Anderson, Kathleen Little, Cecilia Long and Maxine White.

Graduate Nurses To Have Dinner

Texas Graduate Nurses association, District 15, will meet for a business session and supper at the State hospital Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. Miss Jewel Barton will be speaker on the subject of how nurses as a professional group can cooperate better with other civic, professional and social groups in work in the community. The Big Spring state hospital nurses will be hostesses at a spring supper at 8 o'clock.

Local Club Members Pledge Individual Work In Clean-Up

Crux of success for the clean-up campaign this week lies in individual responsibility, and members of service clubs have rallied to accept this in addition to their cooperative efforts.

At the regular meetings last week, almost every member attending the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and American Business club meetings signed cards pledging to actively participate in the drive. These cards carried pledges not only to support the program, but clean-up, paint-up and fix-up around their own places. Members of the chamber of commerce beautification committee said that little less than 200 of these signed cards had been returned.

Annual production of red earthenware (principally flower pots) in the U. S. is valued at more than $2,000,000, according to the Census.

Painting Survey To Be Made During Week

A survey of the number of houses in Big Spring in need of painting will be made during "Clean-Up, Paint-Up and Fix-Up Week" by a committee of local materialmen.

L. W. Croft, manager of a local lumberyard, heads the committee which, with cooperation of the chamber of commerce, will get the actual figures on painting needs here.
