"More Than Whites Or Hispanics"

Blacks More Likely To Have Work Disability

Blacks were more likely than Whites or Hispanics to have had a work disability in 1988, according to a report by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau. Fourteen percent of Blacks aged 16 to 64 had a work disability in 1988, compared with about 8 percent for Whites and Hispanics. The proportions with a severe disability were 10 percent for Blacks, 6 percent for Hispanics, and 4 percent for Whites. The report defines a disabled person as anyone with a disability that prevents the person from working or which limits the kind or amount of work he or she can do. White and Black workers with disabilities were less likely to be covered by an employer-provided health plan than persons without a disability. About 45 percent of Black male workers with a disability were covered by an employer health plan compared with 61 percent of Black males with no work disability. This pattern, however, was not evident for Hispanics. Among those with a work disability, Whites were more likely to be in the labor force, more likely to have a full-time job, and less likely to be unemployed than Blacks or Hispanics, the report says. As in all surveys, the data are subject to sampling variability and response error.

Black Community Says: "Welcome" To Education Heads

by Dorothy Hereford

For NAACP president Rose Wilson, the reception held Tuesday, August 22, 1989 for new heads of Texas Tech University and the Lubbock Independent School District (LISD), may prove to have been a virtual "ounce of prevention" in community-face relations. Wilson's organization, along with several other community-based groups staged the 7 p.m. gathering at Parkway Community Center to welcome Tech president Dr. Robert Lawless and LISD superintendent Dr. Mike Moses to Lubbock, in a move she would cultivate a better working relationship with the Black community. LISD trustee Billie Caville presented Dr. Moses to the group while city councilman T. J. Patterson presented Dr. Lawless. Both spoke briefly about their concern for minority students to get a good education, and the important role both will play while in their positions. "A lot of times, we don't do that. We wait until something controversial comes up and then we invite them to our community," said Ms. Wilson.

"I thought it would be better to get acquainted with them and their families and then we can all be on one accord ... as friends," she added. Her forecast of rough times ahead for the two administrators may be well-founded. LISD is currently faced with busing and unitary non-compliance, declining Black teacher employment, and budgetary deficits.

On the other hand, Tech, according to Mr. George Scott, Jr. assistant dean of student affairs who will retire Friday, September 1, 1989, has a Black freshmen enrollment which is on an incline, but the number of Blacks who actually graduate is on the decline. Thereby, signaling the need for special programs, which are not presently in place at the prestigious university.

Wilson says her response from the community has left her with a new optimism that the support will be there to work out the educational problems.

"We really have to learn to work together and get involved in our educational process from the start, and not just when there is a big flare up," she said.

Lubbock school trustees will hold a public hearing on the proposed 1989-90 school budget Thursday, August 31, 1989 at 7 p.m. in the LISD Administration Building.

LISD Public Hearing Set Tonight

The public hearing on the tax rate for the Lubbock Independent School District will be held in the Board Room of the LISD Administration Building, 1628 19th Street, at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, August 31.

There were plans to hold the meeting at Coronado High School because of additional room for participants. Because a legal notice on the hearing has already been made, however, the meeting will not be moved to another location. Every effort will be made at the LISD Administration Building to accommodate citizens who desire to attend and take part in the hearing.

Lubbock NAACP Meets

The Lubbock Branch of the NAACP will hold its regular monthly meeting Saturday, September 2, 1989 at 7:30 p.m. at Mae Simmons Community Center.

President Rose Wilson is asking all officers and members to please be present. The chapter will be making preparations for the upcoming George Woods Awards Banquet to be held in October. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

The drop-in activity provides an opportunity for students who have dropped out of school to meet with representatives from educational and employment agencies for educational advice and assistance. Representatives from LISD, the Texas Employment Commission, Job Corps, the school system's Adult Basic Education Program, and the Job Training Partnership Act will be available to provide information about returning to school or obtaining a General Education Development certificate. Although the program is geared toward the 16-21 year-old dropouts, anyone desiring more information is welcome to attend.

The event will be sponsored by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The company has "adopted" the LISD Dropout Resource/Research Center. Tom Brown is coordinator of the center.

business management, and office procedures.

Through the adult classes, adults may earn a regular high school diploma, meet entrance requirements of colleges and vocational schools, meet employment and promotion standards, or improve general educational and cultural levels.

The evening high school program is designed for adults 17 years of age or older. A nominal tuition is charged. Additional information is available from the LISD Adult Education Office, 615 Third Street, Lubbock, Texas 79401, telephone 766-1616.

finish construction tasks, and some of the facility, particularly the auditorium and grounds, will not be complete by the first day of classes.

The first holidays for the students will be at Thanksgiving, November 22-24.

Third Annual "Dropout Drop-In"

The third-annual Dropout Drop-In, sponsored by the Lubbock Independent School District's Dropout Resource/Research Center will be held from 3:00-7:00 p.m., August 31 in Room 1 of the Central Administration Annex, 1620 19th

New School Term Gets Underway

The new school term gets underway Tuesday, September 5, 1989, in the Lubbock Independent School District. The peak enrollment expected later during the semester, is estimated to be 30,325. In addition to the district's regular elementary and secondary schools, the Lubbock Evening High School will also begin classes on September 5.

One new school, Ed Irone Junior High, located at 5214 79th Street, will be open for students the first day. Workers are continuing to

Carrying The Torch For Atlanta Life

The Lubbock District of the Atlanta Life Insurance Company made history at the National Insurance Association (NIA) Convention, which consists of 23 companies nation-wide. The meeting was held in Washington, D.C.

They had an outstanding year in 1988, receiving a record of 4 of the top awards given in the Diamond Division, the largest division of the NIA.

Those receiving the awards were: Mr. Earl L. Elliott, District Manager, who received a plaque for Honorable Mention. This is the first time this award was given because the records for the year was almost identical to Arthur Huskisson of the Chicago Assurance Company who won top award.

Mrs. Mary L. Paul won the award for Number One Staff Manager.

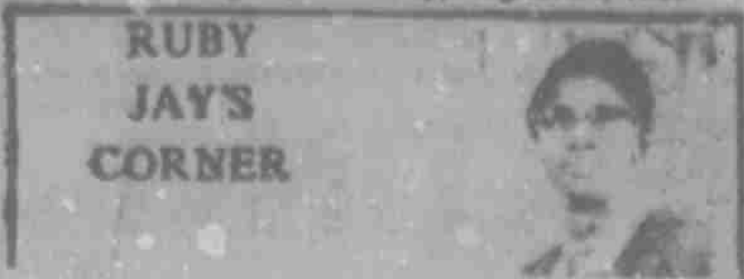

Mrs. Tommie L. Ervin received the award for Number One Agent.

Mrs. Velma J. Lethridge won a trophy for National History Month Top Agent in production.

Other plaques were received for trip winners to the NIA Convention.

This was the first year that one district ever won all awards in that division. Historically, it was done by the Lubbock District who is always the first to break new ground.

Lubbock is outstanding!!! Now the whole NIA has recognized this and has given its prestigious awards to verify that hard work and determination can and will be recognized.

Reviewing A Murder

(Editor Note: This is one in a series of stories written about Clarence Lee Brandley on death row. These articles are written by Akwasi Evans of the NOKA - The Observer, Austin, Texas.)

Nine years ago next week a brutal rape and murder of a child occurred in Conroe, Texas. A man was arrested, convicted and sentenced to death, but he isn't dead. The man, Clarence Lee Brandley, has been the recipient of a nationwide campaign to save his life by people who are thoroughly convinced that he is innocent. Some of those people are his family members, some are general citizens who believe the compelling evidence points to a different suspect and most (including a retired district judge) are patriotic Texans who don't want to be embarrassed by having their state execute another innocent inmate.

On August 23, 1980, some man or some men violated 16 year old Cheryl Dee Ferguson and then cowardly killed her to try and hide his, or their, crime. The blonde teenager from Bellville went to the Conroe High School gymnasium with a bus load of female volleyball players and cheerleaders for a game that faithful Saturday morning. Ferguson was the team manager. Sometime during the game Ferguson left the gym to go to the bathroom. The next time anyone saw her she was dead.

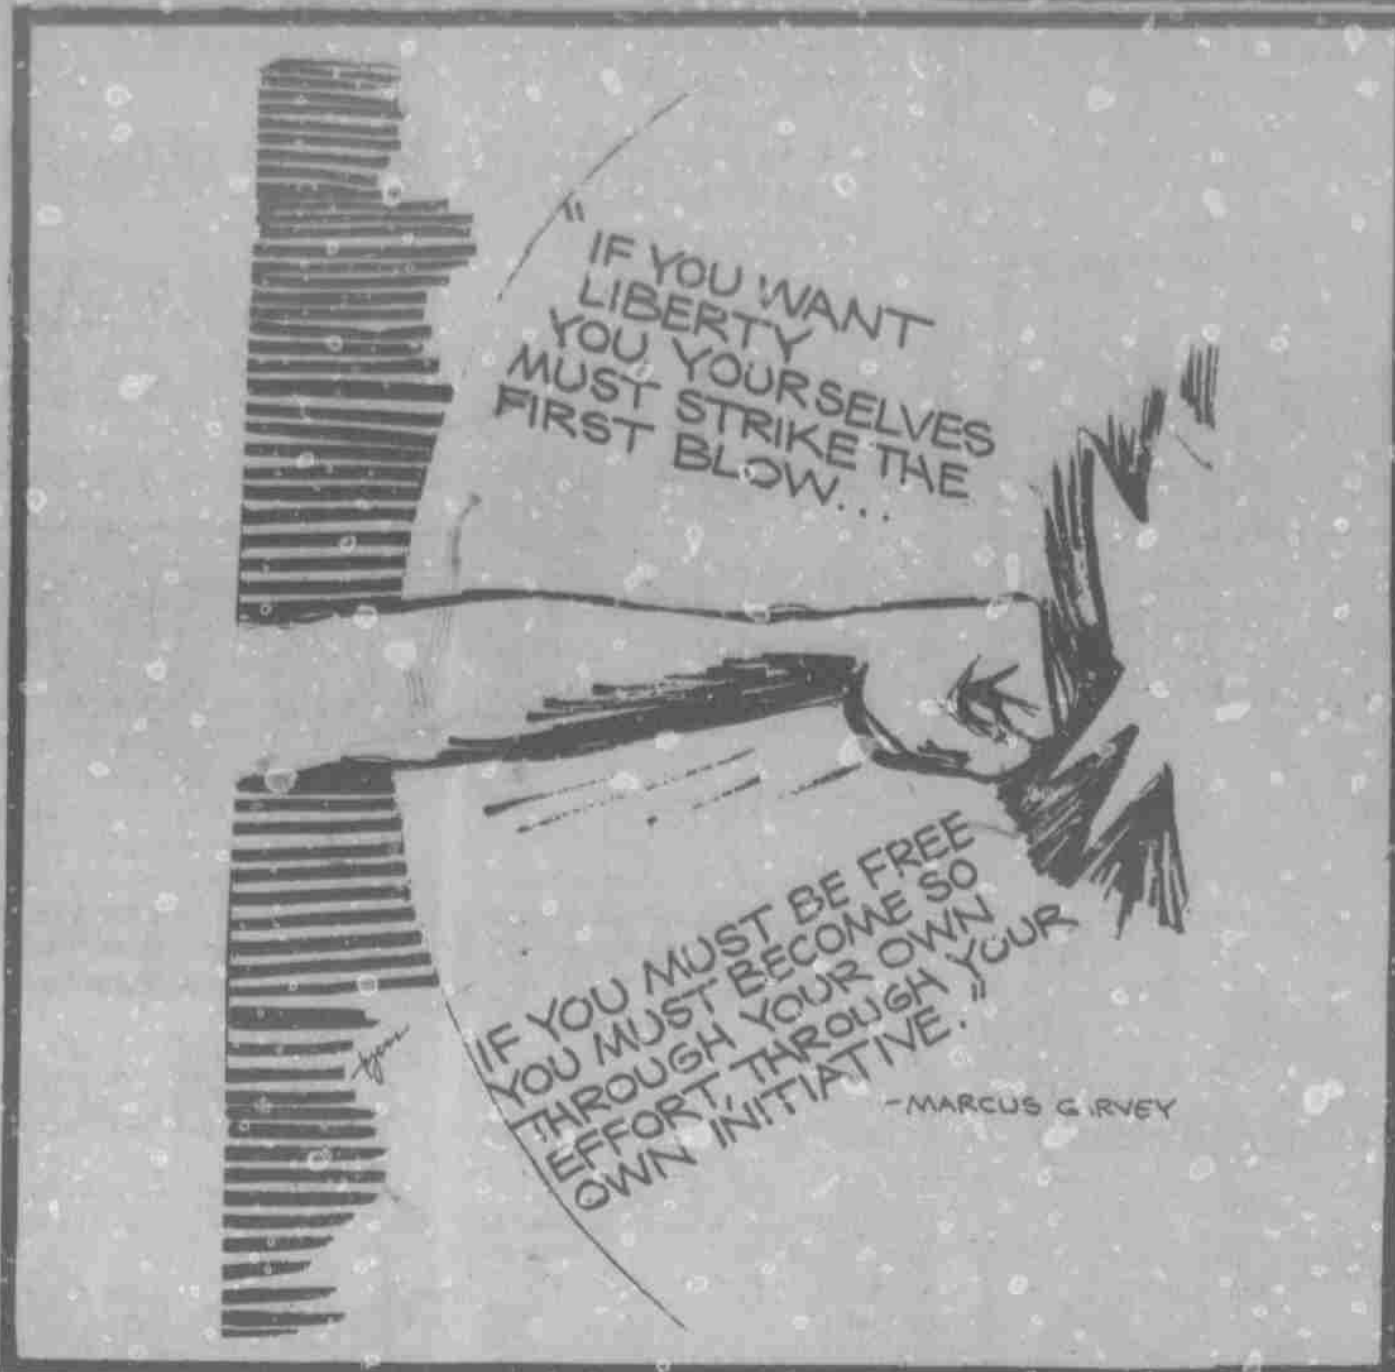

When the girls in the volleyball game realized that Ferguson hadn't returned from the bathroom they became frightened and began searching for her. The police were called and Clarence Brandley was instructed to join the search. He instructed his only assistant still working that day (he had dismissed the others at noon), Henry "Icky" Peace to search the auditorium. No one found the girl so they resumed the search, this time with more diligence. This time Peace discovered the dead body of Cheryl Ferguson in the raft of the Conroe High auditorium. Except for socks, the child was naked.

Clarence Lee Brandley and Henry "Icky" Peace were both questioned, searched and released. When Peace's car was searched police found a loaded .25-caliber Baretta pistol, two knives, a wooden club, a pair of handcuffs, a fake drug agent's identification card and a lewd drawing. The three other janitors (Martinez, Sessums and Acreman) who had been released early by Brandley weren't questioned, neither was James Dexter Robinson, the janitor fired three weeks earlier. School was scheduled to start in less than two weeks and parents were expressing fear of sending their children to the school with a murdering rapist on the loose. The Friday following the molestation/murder Clarence Lee Brandley was arrested. Brandley professed innocence, but the Montgomery County authorities felt their circumstantial evidence was strong enough to pick up and charge their man, Clarence Lee Brandley.

The state argued that Brandley came down the hallway headed toward the girls bathroom with toilet paper in his hands when some girls told him that there was a girl in the bathroom. Brandley, the state claimed, told them he wasn't going in the girls bathroom. Then, they say, he told the four janitors working under him to go across the street and begin cleaning the vocational building. The state claimed that Brandley attacked Ferguson and strangled her with his belt. Expert witnesses, Tony Arnold, testified that a hair found on the girls socks could have been negroid.

The defense contended that when Brandley sent his crew to the vocational building he went to his office where he set, smoking cigarettes, waiting for the men to complete their task. Two of the men went to the store while Brandley was waiting and one, Gary Acreman, came back to the main building, according to counsel for the defense. Caucasian hairs that had been "forcibly implanted" in the girl pubic area were not explained even though test showed that the hairs didn't come from either Brandley or Ferguson. Furthermore, argued the defense, on the day of the murder Clarence Brandley was not wearing a belt. Although Brandley was the only janitor with keys to the auditorium the defense proved that some of the doors to the auditorium didn't lock securely. In fact, they showed that Brandley was not the only employee with keys to the auditorium. The trial ended in a hung jury. Eleven of the white jurors thought Brandley was guilty, but one "nigger lover" was sure.

Clarence Brandley's second trial was more decisive. The defense brought forth a witness, Brenda Medina, who testified that she had been James Dexter Robinson's common-law wife at the time of the murder. The woman told the court that on the night of the rape and murder Robinson came home and told her he had to get out of town because he had killed a girl. Robinson was questioned and given a polygraph. David Glenn Raney who administered the lie detector test pointedly asked Robinson if he had "caused the death of Cheryl Ferguson." He testified under oath that Robinson hesitated for about three and a half minutes before uttering, "Well, I don't remember. I could have done it and forgotten. No, I'm not that kind of person."

Edward Lynn Payne, the father-in-law of janitor Gary Acreman testified that Acreman came home shaky the morning of the murder and told him that he had to "go back to the school and get the girls clothes out of the dumpster before the police find them." Acreman denied the claim, but admitted seeing James Dexter Robinson at the school that morning. The state countered with a student, Danny Taylor, who Brandley had confronted two weeks prior to the murder when the boy pulled a knife on another employee, who testified that he had heard Brandley say "if he got one of them alone, ain't no telling what he might do." The all white jury found Brandley guilty on February 14, 1981, and sentenced him to death.

The defense automatically appealed, but the third trial yielded the same results. The state had some how "lost" all the evidence that pointed toward the other suspects and they wanted Brandley executed. The pictures taken of the dead girls body by Montgomery County police "didn't come out," because officer Woody Allen "miscalculated," his camera. Judge Lynn Coker set January 16, 1987, as Brandley execution date.

Clarence Lee Brandley has won three last minute "stays of execution."

A retired visiting judge hearing all the evidence in the Brandley case argued last year that Brandley was clearly innocent and should be given a new trial and released. The Court of Criminal Appeals is empowered to grant Brandley a new trial, but for nearly a year they have patiently put off making a decision in this highly publicized case. While they wait, Clarence Brandley waits at the Ellis Unit of the Huntsville prison system on death row. He waited there for nine years now. Nine years of constant torment and fear, in a dehumanized position, suffering for a crime he claims, and most believe he didn't commit.

Mickey Leland's Death Leads To "Discovery" Of His Work

Washington, D. C. -- The tragic recent death of Black Texas Congressman Mickey Leland has ironically led to more attention being given to his work against world hunger and other social ills than was given while he was alive.

For example the Vanderbilt News Archive revealed last week that only once since 1984 was Leland's work to end hunger in Africa, Latin America and in low-income U. S. communities mentioned on a national nightly news broadcast. Leland and 15 others died while on an anti-hunger mission to drought plagued Ethiopia when their plane ran into the side of a mountain.

A key example of how Leland's efforts were often not given credit took place in 1984 when Leland sought a meeting with then - President Ronald Reagan to discuss the hunger issue. Before granting the meeting the White House called a Republican Congresswoman on Capitol Hill to find out if Leland wanted to use the meeting to embarrass the president.

That Congresswoman Marge Routema of New Jersey perhaps best summed up the belated recognition of Leland when she said last week, "Mickey in his own way was a hero but he had to become a martyr before people understood, which says something very tragic about the way we work."

D. C. Mayor Says Government Drug War Hurts Blacks

Washington, D. C. -- Washington, D. C. Mayor Marion Barry last week attacked the government's anti-drug tactics as simplistic and said they unfairly target low-level Black drug dealers. According to Barry, "The U. S. government has a failed policy of reducing drugs at the source. It appears to be afraid to take on the drug lords in Columbia and Peru."

Barry said the policies currently being pushed by drug czar William Bennett would do little more than result in the arrest of street-level drug dealers and low-income drug users. Instead Barry urged adoption of an anti-drug plan being pushed by the U. S. Conference of Mayors.

Group Sets Black Women's Political Agenda

New Orleans, La. -- Over 2,000 delegates met in New Orleans recently to plot what they said would be the political agenda for Black women "before we move into the 21st century."

Chaired by C. Delores Tucker, the National Political Congress of Black Women adopted positions encouraging Black women to run for political office, help develop public policy and get young people involved in politics. Tucker emphasized the importance of Black economic development saying, "For had the ex-slave received the 40 acres and a mule which was promised by the government we would not now be the underclass of America, last hired and first fired."

Editorial:

Glaucoma: The Thief Of Sight

Dr. Heenan Johnson, III

Glaucoma is a disorder in which pressure of fluid within the eye increases owing to an interruption of the normal internal cleaning and circulation processes. What happens is an increase in this fluid slowly causing loss of sight. Sight destroyed by glaucoma can never be restored; however, if medical treatment is started early the progress of glaucoma can be controlled. The best defense is early diagnosis and treatment. There are certain groups of people more at risk: 40 years and older; diabetics, blacks have a greater chance than whites, certain drugs taken for gastric distress, family history and emotional states to name a few.

There are four main types of glaucoma. Acute glaucoma strikes suddenly and violently, causing cloudy vision, with severe pain in and around the eye. The chronic type is a slowly progressive form of glaucoma which is often painless. The person is only vaguely disturbed so they often fail to seek an ophthalmologist treatment and exam.

Secondary glaucoma is the third type and is due to disease or injury or both, and must be treated according to the causative factor. The fourth type, congenital glaucoma, is seen in infants at birth. The earlier the diagnosis the better: the chance the infant has of saving his sight.

Topical drugs (eye drops) are widely used today. These drops are not the eye waters which can be bought over the counter, but are prescribed drugs. These drugs work by lowering the intraocular (inner eye) pressure by decreasing the amount of fluid (aqueous humor) without affecting the humor without affecting the pupil size.

Patients who suffer from glaucoma should have regular check up by their ophthalmologist (eye doctor) in order to keep close tabs on their condition. Finally, having a complete physical examination yearly, maintaining good general health, having adequate sleep, and exercising are also helpful. Glaucoma patients who follow the above rules will probably retain useful sight as long as they live.

St. Matthew Baptist News

Sister I. Isaac

Sunday was a busy day at the St. Matthew Baptist Church.

Sunday School was opened at 9:30 a. m. with the Superintendent, Brother Turner, at his post of duty.

The morning worship devotions were offered by the Deacons and Choir. This part of the service was very uplifting and it prepared the members for the great sermon delivered by Rev. W. Jackson who preached on the subject: "Is There Hope?" His text was Acts 18:9-10.

We entertained the monthly meeting of the Federation of Choirs. We had a wonderful time. All the songs that were sung carried with them a message. The spirit ran high. We want to thank all high.

We want to thank all who came to our musical, and those who participated on the program.

Visitors are always welcome at our Church. Pray for our pastor, Rev. R. S. Stanley who is a patient at Methodist Hospital. Let's all pray for our city. Rev. R. S. Stanley, pastor; Sister Imatha Isaac, reporter.

The Fahrenheit thermal detector determined the night temperature to be 101 degrees as a crowd of 42,869 persons squirm with anticipation in the sweltering heat waiting for Nolan Ryan to throw his 5,000th strikeout. Baseball history was to be made in Arlington Stadium this summer night of August 23, 1989.

Nolan Ryan, pitcher for the Texas Rangers, had fanned out five Oakland Athletic's batters. Ron Hassey had been the 4,999th victim of Ryan in the third inning. The crowd was on their feet waving signs of the count Rickey Henderson stepped to the batter's plate and was struckout when a 96 miles per hour fastball zipped past him.

The jubilant commissioner of baseball, Bart Giamatti, said, "I think it's a record no one will ever break." However, Ryan stated, "If I can accomplish it, who's to say someone else can't come along? To do it, though, you'll have to maintain your stuff and stay healthy."

Often we fail in life because we do not maintain a positive attitude -- that which helps us to stay healthy. We become dissatisfied or discontented with experiences life gives us. We hem ourselves in; we shorten our vision; we cut off our opportunities in the making because of our negativity. Jesus made you of the "right stuff" but it is left to you to maintain and stay healthy. Jesus is willing to help. Why not seek Him in prayer!

We Thank God For Jesus

"The Bride Of Christ Has One Life!"

Isaiah 52:5 -- For as a young man marrieth a virgin, so shall thy sons marry thee; and as the bridegroom rejoiceth over the bride, so shall thy God rejoice over thee.

We know from the very beginning, God made the earth and everthing worked fine. The marriage between Adam & Eve, and to God: "The marriage was binded."

It was a prefigure of Christ marrying the Church, and how they became deceived, backsliden, then things got worse.

Eve was of Adam, and Adam was in the image of Christ, Adam and Eve became "1", as husband and wife marrieth to "Christ."

Genesis 2:23-24 -- And Adam said, this is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.

Just as a bone was taken out of Adam, and Eve became his wife. "So shall the Church, come out of the Lord Jesus' Church."

Ephesians 5:23b, 24a & 25 -- Even as Christ is the head of the Church; and he is the saviour of the body. Therefore as the Church, and gave himself for it.

Many of the prophets spoke of Christ (husband) and we're his wife. We're suppose to be a "Glorious Bride," not living a horlet's life.

Jeremiah 3:14 -- Turn, O' backsliding children, saith the Lord, for I'm married unto you. Some are like Adam and Eve: wants a divorce to be free." When to you to do your "own thing." God yet loves thee.

We see these things happening each and everyday. "It's called backsliding; finding new gods, going astray."

Hosea 2:7-8 -- The Lord said, she shall follow after her lovers, but she shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but shall not find them. Then shall she say, I will do and retur to my first husband: for then was it better with me than now. For she did not know that I gave her corn, wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver and gold, which they prepared for ba'al.

We know that "God so loved me, and U, that He gave His only begotten Son." "So that we could become his bride. He said it is finished. It is done."

Ephesians 5:30 -- For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and bones of his bones. "Behold the wedding is now ready; but what about U??? Will U be his bride? Like you know we're suppose too???"

Revelations 21:4; 22:17, 20 & 21 -- God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death. Neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away, and the spirit and the bride say, come, and let him that is thirsty, come, and let him that is thirsty, come, and whosoever will, let him take water of life freely. He which testifieth these things saith, surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. AMEN.

God is not through with us yet!! So let's pray for one another always.

Real Estate Tidbits

by R. J. Givens, Jr.

Just like Social Security, Savings Accounts or going to college, buying a home is an investment in your future. Twenty years ago, new 3 bedroom homes were selling for 10 to 20 thousand dollars. Today, those same homes are selling for 30 to 40 thousand dollars. Within the next 10 to 15 years, you will not be able to find a ready to move in home for less than 25 thousand and that's for a one or two bedroom home.

If you have been putting off buying a home because of a lack of money, poor credit, or whatever, a visit with a Realtor could be most beneficial. A professional Realtor can advise you on ways to overcome your individual problem and get you into a home of your choice. The longer you put off purchasing a home, the more money it will cost, not mention the money being thrown away paying monthly rent, plus deposit.

Twenty years ago, monthly payments were less than $100.00 for most of your average homes. Today, monthly payments for those same type homes are $250.00 and up. Over the next 10 to 15 years, the monthly payments for those monthly payments will double for new home buyers. We work too hard for our money to spend it unwisely and not having anything to show in return. If you sincerely want to get the most from your dollar and
