By NOLAND NORGAARD
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 23 (AP)—A strong German force has launched a sharp counterattack on the British Eighth army lines northwest of Agnone, but was beaten back after two hours of fighting, official reports from the front disclosed today.

hours, but the battle front was still a sea of mud and rivers rendering most operations impossible.
On the Fifth army front, British patrols observed movements of enemy forces on and near Mount Camino, immediately southwest of the town of Migano, and Allied artillery, alerted, promptly laid down a heavy bombardment over the entire zone.

Congress Gets Request From Roosevelt

Wants Action For Care Of Men And Women In Uniform

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)— President Roosevelt sent congress a formal request today that it do something about providing mustering-out pay, unemployment allowances and social security credits for men and women in uniform.

In addition, he urged the legislators in a message to "enact without delay" a measure setting up an unemployment insurance system for the merchant marine.
"The congress will agree, I am sure," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that, this time, we must have plans and legislation ready for our returning veterans instead of waiting until the last moment. It will give notice to our armed forces and the people back home do not propose to let them down."

The steps which he specifically requested of congress today were part of a program of minimum assistance for those serving their country which the president outlined in a radio address to the nation last July. This time he omitted, however, a proposal he made then that persons in the merchant marine be given mustering-out pay.
For those in the armed forces, he said, the mustering-out pay should be uniform and reasonable and should be paid in monthly installments, rather than in a lump sum, at the time of honorable discharge or return to inactive duty. The chief executive mentioned no definite amount, leaving that for congress to determine.

For service personnel unable to get jobs within a reasonable time after they become civilians again, Mr. Roosevelt said, "unemployment allowances should be provided until they can reasonably be absorbed by private industry."

Asserting that state unemployment insurance laws give inadequate coverage to members of the armed forces, the president said that about half of them would have no protection whatsoever when they doff their uniforms. Benefits for others will vary widely and in many instances will be inadequate, he said, so congress ought to set up a uniform system of allowances, with a fixed rate of benefit for a fixed period of time.

Nauru Bombed By Army Planes

GUADALCANAL, Nov. 21 (Delayed AP)—Potato-shaped little Nauru lost most of its strategic air value to Japan as the result of a 1400-mile strike today by heavy land-based bombers of Maj. Gen. Nathan B. Twining's 30th air force.

The raid, fifth on the central Pacific phosphate island, was carried out as an integral part of the new American offensive which began with invasion of the Gilbert Islands yesterday.
All the attacking planes returned.
(This was the first disclosure that Nauru, which flanks the American Ellice Islands and the Japanese-held Gilbert-Marshall group, had been bombed again. The navy announced that carrier-based planes had struck at Nauru Nov. 18 with 90 tons of bombs.)

The bombers ploughed through heavy weather to surprise Japanese defenses. Swirling clouds banked from the surface of the ocean to 25,000 feet presented a formidable barrier to the raiders for 30 minutes but failed to impair the mission.
As the airmen left the target, ack-ack batteries which first had opened up with a vigorous box-type barrage, were completely silenced, and coastal defenses, including elaborate tank traps, were blanketed by hits.

Nauru's two air fields were so wrinkled by direct hits that enemy planes were unable to operate. One medium bomber and two fighters were severely damaged on the ground. There was no enemy air interception.

Berlin In Flames From Aerial Raid; Largest Yet Felt

Former Bank Employee Held On US Charge
Under federal indictment alleging embezzlement and false entry of funds of a "member bank of the Federal Reserve bank," Hayden Corbin, 38, of Big Spring, Tuesday was held in custody at San Angelo.

He was arrested here Monday afternoon by Deputy U. S. Marshal Charles Brown and taken to San Angelo, where Jesse Couch, U. S. deputy clerk, said bond was due to be perfected this afternoon or Wednesday morning.

The indictment was returned last week by a U. S. grand jury sitting at Wichita Falls, in connection with an alleged misuse of funds of the State National bank, where Corbin was employed as teller until last May. The sum allegedly involved was $290.

The grand jury action was taken as a result of investigations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, acting on advice of bank examiners.
San Angelo court sources said Corbin's trial would be docketed for the next term of federal court in Abilene, the second Monday of next April.

Holiday Plans Are Being Made

Thursday will be observed in Big Spring as a holiday and properly as one of Thanksgiving.

Churches cooperating in the city-wide revival are observing their Thursday morning service as the traditional union Thanksgiving service, the Big Spring Pastors' association announced. The meeting will be at 10 a. m. at the First Baptist church. Another church holding Thanksgiving service is the Christian Science congregation which meets at 217 1/2 Main street at 11 a. m.

Business will be halted for the day, and, of course, schools will be dismissed for the occasion.
Family gatherings, although handicapped by the vagaries of war, will be in order, and at 2:30 p. m. the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game between Big Spring and Sweetwater will be played at Steer stadium.

Soviets Regain Initiative Climaxing Raging Battle

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)— After nine days of desperate fighting which Russian battlefront dispatches said equalled in ferocity that which raged during the siege of Stalingrad, Red army troops were reported today to have regained the initiative in some sectors of the bulge west of Kiev while hammering out new advances in the Dnieper bend and in White Russia.

Butressed by fleets of giant tanks, the Russians smashed powerful Nazi attacks near Korostyshev, 20 miles east of Zhitomir, carpeting the battlefield with Nazi dead and wrecking 80 enemy tanks, a Russian communique said. Besides blasting this new Constantin Rokossovsky's forces struck westward on a 100-mile front to liberate 30 towns and villages, kill 800 Nazis and capture eight German strongholds above Gomel, the Russians announced. The Soviet troops were said to have reached the junction of the Beresina and Dnieper rivers, tightening the noose around the key base of Gomel, fall of which appeared but a matter of hours.

Problems Must Be Met Now Says Safety Head At FBI Session Tuesday

Post-war problems and juvenile delinquency must be met by law enforcement officers now, Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the department of public safety of Texas, told over 250 officers from the El Paso and Dallas districts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here for a one day conference at the city auditorium.

Garrison pointed out that some believe that juveniles are not peace-officers problems, but he declared that "it is our moral responsibility to instill good citizenship in juveniles." He pointed to methods used in some cities of boys clubs and recreation spots that have licked the juvenile problem.

In speaking of post war planning, Garrison told the FBI men and other officers that there are thousands of ex-convicts working in Texas now but not committing crime. But he warned that after the war, employment problems that will arise, law enforcement will face the greatest job in its history.

He declared that in Germany, Hitler came to power on the vote of only five percent of the people because of rioting, strikes, and a breakdown of law enforcement at home. "That must not happen here," he said, "and it cannot if the people stand behind us."
R. G. Danner, special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI, who introduced Garrison, also spoke to the group and brought greetings from J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, who wished the conference every success.
Danner pointed out that the southwest has an enviable reputation as leading the way in law enforcement because of its officers and their cooperation.
He pointed out that the internal security of the country had been entrusted to law enforcement officers to protect it against sabotage, fifth columns, and espionage.
"When the war started the Axis nations had groups here set up to take over when the time was ripe," Danner said. "But not one single act of foreign-directed piece of sabotage has been successful. There has been sabotage, yes, but it has Improved financial position of the Cosden Petroleum corporation is reflected in a decision of the directors to declare a dividend on preferred stock—the first in six years.

Although the dividend announcement did not come until after the close of the market Monday, Cosden preferred nevertheless closed 1-4 up, at 24 1/4. Trading has been active in this stock on the New York Curb Exchange in recent weeks, with the price advancing steadily.

Patton Sorry He Struck Soldier

By EDWARD KENNEDY
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 23 (AP)— It was disclosed officially today that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. had apologized to all officers and men of the Seventh army for striking a soldier during the Sicilian campaign.
At the same time Allied headquarters said that correspondents might reveal all of the facts they knew of the incident which since last August has been one of the main subjects of discussion among soldiers in this theater.
While Patton was not relieved of his command of the Seventh army and was not given a formal reprimand, he received a castigation from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower such as has seldom been administered to a commander of an army.

The story is a strange one—the story of a general, whose excellence is admitted by all, who in the heat of battle lost his temper and later admitted he was wrong and made amends.
The incident consisted of this, according to eyewitnesses: Gen. Patton slapped a shell-shocked soldier in a hospital tent because he thought the soldier was shirking his duty.
In a fit of fury in which he expressed sympathy for men really wounded but made it plain that he did not believe that the soldier before him was in that class, the general struck the youth in the rear of the head with the back of his hand.

The soldier fell over slightly and the liner of his helmet which he was wearing fell off and rolled over the floor of the tent.
A nurse, intent on protecting the patient, made a dive toward Patton but was pulled back by a doctor. The commander of the hospital then intervened.
Patton then went before other patients, still in high temper, expressing his views. He returned to the shell shocked soldier and berated him again.
The soldier appeared dazed as the incident progressed but offered to return to the front and tried to rise from his cot.
Patton left the hospital without making further investigation of the case.
The facts concerning the soldier were later ascertained: He was a regular army man who had enlisted before the war from his home town in the south. He had fought throughout the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns and his record was excellent. He had been diagnosed as a medical case the week previously, but had refused to leave the front and continued on through the strain of battle. He finally was ordered to the hospital.

Japs Preoccupied With Intensity Of New Pacific Front

By The Associated Press
Japanese preoccupation with a fast-striking foe grew in intensity today as the United States widened its invasion front in the central Pacific and Allied forces kept up the ceaseless assault on the enemy elsewhere in the vast battle sphere.

Army troops of the 27th infantry division and marines of the Second division who stormed the beaches of three coral-studded atolls in the Gilbert islands gained ground over strong Jap opposition, and the climax appeared certain to come before long.
Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, told of landings on the third atoll—Abemama—in his second communique on the Gilberts invasion which began Saturday. On Tarawa, 80 miles southwest of Abemama, and Makin, 25 miles north of Tarawa, the war bulletin said "our troops have improved their positions."

The Tokyo raider quoted an imperial headquarters communique as saying the mid-Pacific drive already had cost the allies one medium aircraft carrier, one destroyer and 125 planes.

The capital of China's "rice bowl" faced an advancing Japanese army, but on New Guinea, New Britain and Bougainville the Nipponese fell back before the allies or suffered punishing air blows.
Allied communiques told, too, of the destruction of 19,000 tons of Jap shipping by air attacks in the south and southwest Pacific.

As the Japanese advanced on Changteh in the drive for the Hunan, China, province capital of Changsha, the Chinese high command alleged in a special communique that enemy troops had used poison gas to prevent Chinese counterattacks.
The Japs were reported bringing 10,000 troops to their base at Yochow ostensibly to spring a two-way offensive from both the western and eastern shores of Tungting lake toward Changsha 50 miles away.

American planes smashed at the Japs southeastern supply artery on Bougainville—a newly constructed truck route—while U. S. Marines forced the enemy to retreat on the east flank in the Piva river area. The Japs caused light damage and a few casualties in two air raids on American positions.

M'Nutt Asks Veto Of Father Draft Or He Will Quit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)— Paul V. McNutt was described today as "so steamed up" that he will quit as manpower commissioner unless President Roosevelt vetoes the new father draft act.
The bill sent to the White House by the senate on a voice vote yesterday strips McNutt of authority over selective service. It also is designed to slow down or halt the draft of pre-war fathers but officials indicated it would not bring about any radical changes in present induction procedures.

McNutt formally told the senate that the legislation sabotaged "sound administration."
One senator declared he had heard the manpower chief was "so steamed up about this that he has indicated he would resign if the president signs the bill."

McNutt declared in his letter to the senate that the bill would "seriously weaken the manpower program" by divorcing military and civilian manpower authority.

Novel Menu For Thanksgiving Day

POCATELLO, Ida. (AP)— The Pocatello army air base "Bombardier" relays this suggestion for the nation's Thanksgiving Day menu:
"Take one inductee, slightly green, stir from bed at an early hour. Soak in shower. Dress in olive drab. . . . add liberal portions of baked beans and corn bread. . . . sweeten with chocolate bars. Let smoke occasionally. Bake in 110 degrees summer and let cool in below-zero weather."

Berlin Bombing Is Sample Of Allies Goal

By E. C. DANIEL
LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)— Berlin got a terrifying sample last night of the winter ordeal which President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin are expected to offer the Germans soon as an alternative to ending the war already being lost on three fronts.

The heaviest aerial bombardment in history was delivered on the Nazi capital as the hour approached, according to reports from abroad, for a conference of the three Allied leaders to draft the first appeal to the German people to force the politico-military oligarchy to cease fighting.

The circumstances of the attack suggested that winter weather would not bring the normal slackening of the British-American air offensive and served to dramatize for the Germans the mortal peril inherent in a complete unification of Allied strategy at the top level.

The long-awaited conference, meanwhile, assumed greater potential proportion as rumors, which passed without official comment, that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek might participate in the determination of the four powers to collaborate in keeping peace after the war whether they are fighting together now on all fronts or not.

Sen. Barbour Is Death Victim

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)— The senate today mourned the death of W. Warren Barbour, New Jersey republican, opponent of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, millionaire thread manufacturer and one-time amateur heavyweight boxing champion.

Barbour, who was 55, succumbed to heart disease last night after a brief illness in his Washington home. His death followed within 24 hours the fatal injuring of Rep. J. William Ditter (R-Pa.) in an airplane crash and the death from heart disease of Rep. Henry B. Steagall (D-Ala.).

Barbour was appointed to the senate in January 1932 to succeed the late Dwight W. Morrow. Defeated for reelection in 1936, he was returned two years later for the unexpired term of Senator A. Harry Moore, who resigned to become governor of New Jersey. It was in this election that Barbour defeated the candidate sponsored by Hague. He subsequently was elected in 1940 for a six year term.

At the age of 22 he had fought as an amateur boxer and was billed as the "millionaire kid." His death, coming so closely after that of Ditter and Steagall, recalled the warning of Dr. George Calver, Capitol physician a few weeks ago that congress was overworked and tired, and that it was severely taxing its health by not taking a recess.

Notes

MARY WEALEY
With Thanksgiving just a few days away, you don't have to think far, to remember a lot of things for which you can give thanks.

Living was a pretty slim for those first settlers, who finally survived the hardest year of their existence, and when they realized they were still alive, full of hope, and the promise of better years, they knelt and prayed and thanked God.

They faced war, too, and it wasn't any impersonal thing but death that lurked in nearby woods and bushes. Yet they counted their blessings and were glad.

With ill made tools they scratched a bare living from the soil and hunted game, not for sport, but for life itself. They had no comforts, and man, woman, and child, they toiled together in little groups to keep alive.

And they were the group that said, "let's give thanks unto the Lord," and the day was called Thanksgiving Day.

Today it is tough, too, with a modern, improved war, that imparts sudden death to so many more at the same time. For many boys fighting in unheard of places to give thanks is hard to do.

But for the rest at home, there ought to be Thanksgiving in our hearts everyday that there are boys like yours to fight and that at home living conditions are, compared with other lands, that of a Garden of Eden.

KEEPING YOUR WASHER "ON THE JOB"
Don't let your laundry problem get out of hand. If you are the fortunate owner of an electric washer in good condition, keep it that way. You can't buy a new one these days and repair parts are so scarce that a major repair may require weeks of waiting.

CHECK YOURSELF ON THESE POINTS
1. Don't overload the washer. Fill the tub only to the water line and add clothes to the washer's capacity, and no more.
2. When you finish washing, fill tub with clear water, remove the agitator, then drain tub and wipe inside clean with a soft cloth. Don't let dirty water stand in tub overnight.
3. Don't overload the wringer. The rolls are rubber, and doubled-up blankets, buckles, and heavy buttons may damage the rolls.
4. Clean and dry wringer after use and leave in neutral position so pressure is off the rolls.
5. Empty drain hose thoroughly after each use. Avoid sharp bends.
6. A noisy washer may be a washer in need of expert attention. Call a qualified service man if washer does not operate properly.

2. Keep shade linings light. Clean or brush regularly. Repaint or reline dark-colored paper or parchment shades.
3. Have eyes examined regularly by a competent eye-sight specialist.
4. Turn off lamps not in use. Lamp bulbs use critical materials. Make them last longer.

Players Of Four Conference Teams Patch Up Injuries

By The Associated Press
Injuries took dips into the rosters of four Southwest conference teams this week as the circuit's six members turned into the home stretch drive.

One of the four clubs affected was the University of Texas, which meets Texas A&M Thursday at College Station for the championship. Marcel Gres, 210-pound regular left tackle for the Longhorns, fell ill yesterday and was ordered to bed. Taking over his post in the Steers' workout was Charles Phillips, who "last year" was a student at Texas A&M.

All other members of the Longhorn squad were in good condition, and additional injuries seem unlikely since Coach Dana Bible has said there would be no more rough practices for his boys.

In Aggie land, Coach Homer Norton's squad was injury-free. Like Bible, the Aggie mentor said there would be no more scrimmages for his team this week. Instead, the Cadets will spend most of their practice time studying movies of Longhorn plays.

Tackle Jim Lucas, key cogs in the TCU grid machine, missed yesterday's workout because of injuries, but both expect to play Saturday against Southern Methodist at Fort Worth. The winner of this game, last on the 1943 conference schedule, will go into a third-place tie with Rice.

Chevigny Hits Grid Spotlight Again This Year

CAMP LEJEUNE, NEW RIVER, N. C., Nov. 23 (AP) — First Lieutenant Jack Chevigny, who coached the University of Texas Longhorns a decade ago after learning his football from the late Knute Rockne, made football news again this season by guiding the Camp Lejeune Marines to a colorful comeback.

The Leathernecks had lost to Duke University and Bainbridge when Chevigny took over the coaching job September 28, while on a tour of duty from Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, Calif., but since then they've been undefeated—winning five games, and tying one. The rhythm of his reorganized gridgers, who promptly adopted the Notre Dame style of attack, struck a note in the hundreds of Marines here. They became fans overnight with the result that Lejeune's bleacher stadium of 3,500 was replaced by one of 12,500 seating capacity.

And Chevigny, all of a sudden, found himself with a rip-roaring "student body," four Marine women reserve cheerleaders, a band and the trimmings and razzle-dazzle of a college eleven.

The effect was tremendous. Camp Lejeune piled up 1,884 net yards rushing and 180 points in six games compared to 111 yards and 27 points for its opponents.

While Chevigny sought dash and color in his plays, he believed—like the Rock—in sound fundamentals. In good blocking and tackling, he insisted upon precision, timing, decision and perfection of assignment.

The fate that Chevigny welded his squad into a coordinated unit is itself remarkable, because the players hail from 31 colleges, three professional teams and several high school and semi-pro squads, and have played under 11 different systems of football.

They include such names as Quarterback King Cotton (Texas Mines-Pitt Stealers), End Bob Fitch, (Minnesota), Tackle Jim Meek (West Texas State), Guard Chuck Drulis (Temple-Chicago Bears), Halfback Ray Terrell (Mississippi), End Ed Murphy (Holy Cross), Center Joe Sabastanski (Fordham) and others.

Revival Opening Is Successful

First service under direction of visiting evangelists here to conduct a two-week city wide revival sponsored by the Big Spring Pastors association was held Monday at the First Baptist church, with good attendance.

Dr. W. O. Vaught of the University church, Abilene, spoke on "The Romance of Faith," basing his sermon on Matthew 14:22, the story of Peter walking on the water. The evangelist emphasized the fact that Jesus is always watching wherever anyone is in trouble, he also emphasized that Jesus recognizes a reckless faith. "It is the only kind of faith he does recognize." Going further, he mentioned the fact that Peter was to be commended for acting at once when Christ challenged him to come, "Hell will be filled with people who wait," said the evangelist. He said that Peter was safer when he was walking on the water than at any other time in his life—as long as he depended on God to support him. When we try out God's power, we find that it is all it claims to be.

Dr. Vaught stated that when people go down, as Peter did, when he ceased to trust wholly in the Lord, they do not go down all at once but bit by bit. He said we know among our friends those who are going down a little at a time.

The commendable thing about Peter, the preacher concluded when he realized he was sinking is that he did not trust himself and say, "I got into this, I will get out of it my-own-way," instead he said, "Lord Save Me," and He did. He always will save when any one calls on him to save. The closing portion of the message was a story of a Texas hero, Oscar Dodson, of the Hornet, and its sinking by the Japs.

The subject for Tuesday night is, "The Man Who Was Too Busy." A special service was announced for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for parents of service men. The Sunday night sermon was mentioned as one of the most important of the meeting and was inspired while Dr. Vaught was travelling in the Holy Land. Morning services are at 10 o'clock, prayer services at 7:30 p. m. preaching at 8:00 p. m.

Reverend Dick O'Brien of the Pastors' Association, acted as chairman and Rev. Alsie Carlton of Lubbock, lead the congregation in singing familiar gospel hymns.

Yearling Players Awarded Letters

Twenty-two youngsters have earned letters as members of the Yearling football team during the past season, Coach Wayne Matthews announced Tuesday.

Of these, possibly 10 will go up to the Steers next year, and although none is due to break in as a regular, most of them doubtless will play considerable ball.

Lettermen announced by Matthews are: Ladd Smith and Ernest Brooks, centers; Ike Robb, Harry Middleton and Pete Fuglaar, guards; Gerald Harris, Ray McMillan, Ensor Puckett and Billy Casey, tackles; Joe Bruce Cunningham, Darrell Douglass, Donald Williams, Charles Lovelace and W. T. Morgan, ends; Robert Miller, Nathan Richardson, Ed McClaren, Jackie Barron, Horace Rankin, Billy Joe Ayres, George Neal and Benny Byrne.

Among those likely to go up to the Steers are Ike Robb, Harry Middleton, Gerald Harris, Ray McMillan, Joe Bruce Cunningham, Darrell Douglass, Robert Miller, Nathan Richardson, Ed McClaren and Jackie Barron. Two years from now, they may be the backbone of the high school team.

The Yearlings had a fairly successful season. They defeated Midland's junior team 13-7 here, and then dropped a return match to Midland by a 12-0 count. Hermleigh came here and hung one on the Yearlings, 21-0. Next the Yearlings engaged the Steer second stringers and dropped a hard fought tilt, 7-6 (they had trimmed the reserves in a previous, impromptu tilt). San Angelo's Kittens came over and absorbed a 19-6 beating and then the Yearlings returned the engagement at San Angelo, Armistice morning, pounding the Kittens all over the field, 25-0.

The 2052nd Ordnance kept its record intact Monday evening, drubbing the 359th by a 22-12 to make it three straight in the enlisted men's basketball league at the Big Spring Bombardier School.

At the same time, the 812th (South) came from behind to turn back the Medical detachment, 31-18. Leader for Ordnance was Burhardt with eight points, aided by Johnson, who had five points. Hopkins had five for the losers. Bilch's eight points topped the 812th (South) scoring, being one point better than Mitchell. Burkoff, with seven points, was outstanding for the Medicos.

Wednesday leadership of the league will be at stake when the 78th and 2052nd Ordnance tangle at 6:30 p. m. An hour later the 812th (North) and 812th (South) meet in a squadron rivalry, while the 359th and Medical Detachment end the evening's activities with a game at 8:30 p. m.

Benefits Received By Social Security

This is one of a series of articles written to better acquaint the people of this area with various types of benefits now being paid under the social security act. This article was prepared through the cooperation of Mrs. Frances Childress.—Ed.

Typical of aid possible under the social security act is that of Mrs. Francis Childress, whose husband, Leon Allen Childress, a local grocery and market employe, succumbed on Oct. 24, 1942.

On Nov. 9 following, Mrs. Childress filed at the local social security office her claim for any survivors insurance benefits to which she might be entitled!

Since she was not yet 65 and had no children under 18, no monthly benefit was payable at that time—only a lump-sum to assist her in the payment of her husband's burial expenses. Based on her husband's average wages during 1937-42, the social security board determined that Mrs. Childress was entitled to a benefit of $164.46. When she attains the age of 65 in March 1946, she will be entitled to a monthly payment of $20.56 for the remainder of her life.

All benefits, based in a deceased employee's wage record, may be paid to eligible survivors if the employee was paid as much as $50.00 (two work covered by the Social Security Act) in each of half the calendar quarters elapsing between January 1, 1937, (or attainment of age 21, whichever is later) and the date of death. Most benefits may be paid if the deceased was paid $50.00 or more for work in each of 6 calendar quarters during the three years immediately preceding the quarter of death.

Where no one surviving the deceased is immediately eligible, a lump-sum benefit is paid to the widow, child, parent, or person who paid the funeral expenses.

Mitchell Citizen Taken By Death

COLORADO CITY — Nov. 23 — Funeral services for Robert Brozier Morgan, 78, well-known Mitchell county farmer, were held from Kiker chapel with the pastor of the Methodist church, the Rev. C. M. Epps, officiating. Burial was in the Colorado City cemetery.

Born in Georgia June 22, 1865, Morgan died in a Colorado City hospital after an illness of six weeks. He had been a resident of the Looney community for the past 34 years and a member of the Baptist church for 40 years. He was married in 1880 to the first Mrs. Morgan, the former Susan Massey who died in 1922. The present Mrs. Morgan was Mrs. Sallie Boyd before the couple married in 1923.

His widow, two sons, four grandchildren, and two step-children survive. His sons are R. B. and W. B. Morgan, both of Colorado City.

Steers Study Defensive For Sweetwater

How to stop a mass of interference around the end and power drives straight into the line is a defensive problem Coach John Dibrell and his Big Spring Steers are pondering in preparation for the Thanksgiving classic here Thursday 2:30 p. m. against the Sweetwater Mustangs.

Although beaten by San Angelo last week by a 13-7 count, Sweetwater still is regarded as a potent team. The Angelo defeat was the first plastered on the Ponies all season.

Among the threats with which the Steers must deal are the little Towner Leeper, 130 pounds of dynamite who runs and passes, and Buddy Hedrick, a chip off the old Hedrick block of hard hitting backs. Brown and Feagin complete the quartet, making it a poisonous combination.

Sweetwater's line is one of the heaviest and best balanced in the district. According to Dibrell, the forwards are tough on the defense and the ends are fair hands offensively. There are said Dibrell, no files on the guards and tackles.

However, the Steers are hoping to catch the Mustangs on a rebound from San Angelo, and to stop the vaunted running game of the Horses cold by sheer fight. If this pays off to a degree, Big Spring will be making a do or die effort offensively, for this week they are spending a great deal of time on polishing their passing attack and in brushing off the edges on some fancy T formation plays.

Much of the usual pageantry attendant upon football games will be present Thursday when the band stages a special between-the-halves stunt.

Officials, Citizens Aid In Making Big Spring Better City

Headway has been made in making Big Spring a cleaner and better city due to the unstinted efforts of city and county officials, the chamber of commerce, service club members and other public minded citizens according to V. A. Cross, sanitarian for the Big Spring-Howard county division of the Midland-Ector-Howard county health unit.

The recent clean-up drive and rat extermination program was very successful, he asserted with thanks to the chamber of commerce which with the assistance of service club members and other citizens, handled the distribution of rat poison to every house.

Plans are being made now to help the stores get garbage cans and to help those persons needing the cans to get priorities. Hope is held that every home can have a garbage can with flyproof lids. A drive is underway now to eliminate all surface toilets by spring and to help gain priorities for replacing them with plumbing facilities.

Randolph Field, which has led Texas service football all season, plays its last game of the season Saturday—harrng a bowl tilt—and the final is the toughest.

The Ramblers, unbeaten and untied in nine battles during which they scored 262 points to 43 for the opposition, met undefeated but once-tied Southwestern Louisiana Institute at San Antonio.

If Randolph can hurdle the powerful SLI outfit, it can just about claim the football championship of the south and southwest. It also will be open for some attractive bowl bids.

There are a few more games on the service schedule. Abilene army air base meets the Ward Island Marines at Corpus Christi and the 778th tank battalion of Camp Barkeley plays Lubbock Army Air Field at Lubbock, both tilts Saturday, while Sunday 51st General Hospital of Fort Bliss clashes with the New Mexico A&M trainees.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

Honorable Skunk Takes Off For Paradise Often

Honorable skunk, according to the encyclopedia, goes leisurely through life under the same what Greekish name of Mephitis Mephitida, but even the austere encyclopedia admits that there's nothing Greek about the polecat's bad habit; namely "his evil smell."
Too, a tenacious drouth has robbed the prolific polecat of much of his regular diet of grasshoppers and crickets, believes Brownrigg. Watch holes in the pastures have dried. Thus the desire for food and water (the casual kitten is a notoriously hard drinker) have driven him to the farm yard. In the case of Big Spring homes, the reeking wretches have found food scraps plentiful, leaking hydrants ample for water supplies, and the space beneath homes cool enough for comfort. They have been loath to leave such easy pickings, and some have been known to protest vigorously — and effectively — all efforts to dislodge them.

Veneral Rate Is High In Houston

HOUSTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — Houston has the third highest veneral disease rate in the nation, asserted Ellington Field and Camp Wallace health officers in calling for a "strict and unceasing drive against prostitution as a remedial measure."
Termining the veneral disease situation here "far from satisfactory from a military point of view," the officers revealed that 140 men of the armed services contracted syphilis or gonorrhea here during October.

G. C. Blissard Visits Uncle

Lieut. Grover C. Blissard, son of G. C. Blissard of Big Spring, who lost his right leg while piloting a Flying Fortress over North Italy on October 5th, is visiting with an uncle in Fort Worth, the Star Telegram reported Monday, while on short leave from Temple army hospital.

Blissard received word on October 28th that his son had been seriously wounded.

According to the Star-Telegram, Lieut. Blissard is the holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, the Purple Heart, the Air Medal, Caribbean theatre, and the Asiatic-European theatre, and has three Oak Leaf Clusters.

The lieutenant's story was, "We were about half way to our target, a railroad center used by the Nazis in North Italy, when I got it," he said. "Ours was the last ship in the formation, and engine quit and forced us to drop back. Then a bunch of German suicide fighters started peeling off from above, concentrating their fire on us. Our gunners got the first one. Then a 20-millimeter cannon shell blew my right knee all-over the cockpit and a shell fragment lodged in my left leg. The co-pilot took over while he bandaged his bleeding left leg. The heat of the shell had seared his right knee wound so that it didn't bleed.

They continued on to the target, despite the German attackers, dropped their bombs on the target and then, because he was so weak from loss of blood, landed at an Italian Air Force Field.

That's where Lieut. Blissard got a second set of wings. The commanding officer of the Italian force, a colonel, took them off his own uniform and pinned them on Lieut. Blissard while he was waiting for an ambulance to take him to a nearby Italian Navy hospital.

Italian surgeons did the amputation and Lieut. Blissard thinks they "are tops." Later they flew two American flight surgeons to treat him that night with blood plasma.

"I was there three days and my own people could not have treated me nicer than those Italians did," the Star-Telegram story quotes him as saying. "They didn't have much but everyone brought me food and flowers and I think everyone in that little town came to see me."

He got a third set of wings when his squadron commander saw him after he was wounded. "He took them off his uniform," Lieut. Blissard said.

He believes that he will be allowed to see more active combat service. "I know quite a few fellows who are flying with artificial legs," he said. Lieut. Blissard resided in Fort Worth before moving to Big Spring where he attended high school here.

Acts On Council Of Jewish Welfare

HOUSTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Israel Friedlander of Houston will represent Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico on the newly-formed national finance council, budgeting and allocating agency of the National Jewish Welfare Board, announced President Frank L. Weil.

The council is composed of one representative from each of 18 geographical areas. The board is the Jewish section of the USO.

WAGE INCREASE
EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 23 (AP)—A royal commission investigating wage demands of 8,500 Alberta and British Columbia miners Monday directed a $1-a-day wage increase, retroactive to Nov. 1, and two weeks' vacation with pay after 12 months' employment.

Its Time To Pray Pal, But Try Using Safety Measures

NEW YORK, (AP)—David Warren was perched atop a ladder in a garage when five tube-like objects plummeted 10 feet down from above, bounced on the concrete floor, then lay still.

He nonchalantly looked down at them, then gulped, shut his eyes and silently prayed.

The objects were dynamite sticks—enough to blow up a city block.

Will Rid Bugs From Courthouse Beds

CLAYTON, N. M. — Something's been upsetting the work of county officials and jurymen at Union county's courthouse.

There's been an epidemic of scratching ever since a jury foreman complained to Sheriff Fred Spradlin.

Now court house employees will get a 3-day holiday—while the building is closed and gassed to eradicate the bed-bugs.

Cotton plantations in the Soviet Union produce not only white cotton, but auburn, brown, blue, dark green, emerald and khaki.

Quit Kissing

LOS ANGELES — Asserting that common colds cost 100,000,000 man days of labor annually, the city health department says that a kiss is as much of a cold spreader as a cough.

The department's winter season admonition: Quit!

The native word for India is Bharat.

Editorial - - - A Little Courtesy Goes A Long Way

Courtesy is not rationed, but it is practically forgotten by some folks, and this is the subject for some stories that appear from time to time. Maybe the story tells of impatience of a buyer at the salesperson because the buyer is unable to get what is desired. Maybe it is of the sales person who, nettled by the impatience of the buyer, asks if the buyer knows we are in a war. In either case it is unprofitable to both parties. Buyers should be reasonable, of course, because it is a mark of good breeding to control one's temper in time of stress and because it makes for better service if one does so, for the sales person will more willingly serve a customer who shows a realization of the difficulties under which business is operating nowadays. Sales people should be even more careful to not allow themselves to fall into a don't-care attitude and antagonize a customer, even though the attitude of that customer may be unfair. For the salesman or saleswoman is being paid for service, and the customer's money supplies that pay. The proprietor of the business, too, is being wronged when a customer is treated in a manner that brings about resentment, for that sentiment includes the store as well as the sales person, and often means a loss of business that continues. Courtesy is the oil that keeps the wheels of contacts between people from squeaking, which is always unpleasant. It is easily acquired and pays well not only in gaining the friendship and goodwill of others, but it adds to one's own self-respect. It should be used by more of us in these trying days.

Windsors No Longer Are Objects Of Curiosity

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Your capital in wartime:

A year or so ago when I met the Duke and Duchess of Windsor at a press reception here, I detailed that their hope was that they could establish themselves in the United States so that they could come and go without being treated as international celebrities. They have achieved that aim. During their visit here, I watched them cross the lobby of the Mayflower hotel. Not half a dozen heads were turned and there was no buzz-buzz as they walked through.

A little surprised at the non-ehalance, I gave it a further test by saying to a fellow standing near me: "The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, eh?" He said: "Yeah. So what?" Which certainly put me in my place.

A day later I was discussing the King who married a commoner with a western Canadian editor. He is Scotch and still has a burr that tickles American ears. He told me that much of the Canadian animosity toward the Duke has died down, principally because George VI and Queen Elizabeth have become practically the perfection of British royalty.

He explained that much of the early righteous anger was misunderstood by other than the British because few people could understand how every school child in the British empire is taught that the crown can do no wrong and is the epitome of virtue and justice. Imagine the moral impact then on the youth of several generations in having a king who had wed a thrice-wedded commoner. A little meekly then, I asked him how then did the British schoolmasters and marmas explain away Henry VIII.

"Sure, mon," he said, "times have changed. And besides," he added with Scottish twinkle, "we've had our Victoria since then."

The War Department's staged press conference for Capt. Clark Gable was thoroughly mishandled and it embarrassed nobody more than the movie star.

There is no celebrity in the armed forces more desirous of carrying off his job without fanfare or publicity (not even excepting the Navy's Lieut. Robert Montgomery, who is just about tops in sincere modesty) than Gable. But just like the lowliest yardbird, Gable has to obey orders.

In the first place, the physical arrangement of the conference was such that only a handful of press could hear him. In the second, because of Gable's innate modesty, there wasn't much he could say. In the third place, there was some reason for suspicion that Hollywood had a hand in the business.

Gable was as cooperative as possible, but it was pretty apparent that he was upset and didn't consider himself a hero or even a veteran.

I hope the Army has learned a lesson. Exploiting celebrities undoubtedly has its place in the military scheme of things. But making a mishandled show of fellows like Gable who ask nothing better than to take their rap along with the rest in this world struggle is just plain poor home-front generalship.

SEAMEN USE HOTEL
HOUSTON, Nov. 23 (AP) — The Brazos hotel, converted for merchant seamen use under direction of the United Seamen's Service, today became the 17th hotel in the nation and the 59th in the world to be taken over by the U. S. S.

FINAL ASSEMBLY

By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 2
"My name is Katherine Ambrose," the girl said, smiling. "My friends call me Kitty."

Now they were sitting on the grass in the shade of the tree.

"I'm Pete Nell."

"I'm glad you weren't going to jump," she said finally. "But you did look awfully depressed."

Pete nodded. "I was," he admitted.

"But it's over with, now?"

"No." He took a deep breath. "I . . . I don't think it will ever be over with."

"Maybe you feel like telling me about it," she said. "That helps, sometimes."

Undoubtedly, she was wondering about him, wondering why a young man in working clothes should be wandering about through the woods in the middle of the afternoon. She deserved some explanation.

"It's a long story," he said. She raised a smooth slim wrist and looked at her watch. "I've plenty of time."

"And by the way," he asked, "what are you doing out here? I mean where do you come from and how did you get here?"

"I live in Meadville," she said. She waved a hand. "My bicycle is over there, leaning against that tree. I ride over here sometimes, in the afternoon. It's only six miles."

He wondered what kind of work she was doing that she could have the afternoons free. "Your story," she reminded him.

He thought for a moment. Now, since he was about to put the thing into words, it didn't seem so bad, after all. But, yet . . .

"Well," he said finally, "my father was a flyer in the last War. He flew a ship in the old 'Hell-fire Squadron,' and he was shot down twice. But he seemed to bear a charmed life. He got patched up again after each crash and went back again into the fight."

"Sometimes," said Kitty, "I don't understand how those old crates held together. Pete told her, "After the war, my father wanted to help build better planes. He had great confidence in the possibilities of air travel. He designed several successful ships."

Pete was silent for a moment. "He lost his life in one of those ships."

"Oh."

"But it wasn't his fault," Pete hastened to add, "and it wasn't the fault of the design. There was a mistake somewhere in his cause. Someone was careless. Some fool mechanic built a wing with SO rivets that hadn't been hardened. The wing folded up in a dive."

"Oh," Kitty said again. Then, "What carelessness. Someone was probably too lazy to get hardened rivets out of the refrigerator. . . ."

"That was six years ago," Pete continued. "I had just entered college."

He wondered how she knew so much about rivets and that the hardened SO rivets were always kept in a refrigerator.

"When the present war broke out," Pete went on, "my older brother enlisted in the AAF. He soon became a pilot. He's in a hospital, now; he'll probably never be able to fly again. There were only the three of us . . . my father, my brother and I."

"I see," said Kitty softly. "It must have been a terrible shock when you heard that your brother was shot down."

Pete shook his head. "He wasn't shot down; the engine died on him at a thousand feet. The reason was never learned."

"And you . . . Kitty's voice was sympathetic. . . . you intend to carry on?"

Pete smiled grimly. "That's just it," he said, "I can't."

He turned to her suddenly. "Don't you see? My father had a bad break; so did my brother. I wanted to carry on . . . and maybe I was a bit selfish about it, too. A good pilot would always have a good job after the war, would be able to help in the complete development of air travel which is sure to come. So I tried to enlist in the AAF. But they wouldn't let me. I was rejected for the second time today. A pierced ear-drum or something."

"But you seem to have no trouble hearing," she said.

He nodded slowly. "I know. I can hear all right. But there is some regulation . . . something . . . He broke a small twig in his fingers and looked out over the river. "It made me feel as if I . . . well, as if I wasn't wanted. My father and my brother gave all they could, but . . . He tossed the broken twig aside with a gesture of finality. . . . Well, I guess I just don't fit in."

Kitty had clasped her hands about her knees and her hazel eyes were studying him. "I think I know how you feel," she said. "I had a brother at Pearl Harbor."

"I'm sorry," Pete said.

There was a long silence. The faint sounds of the river came to them and someone far off dropped an anchor from a boat.

"But there is something you can do!" Kitty cried suddenly.

"Sure," Pete agreed. "I can go on fixing up cars for some people to waste gasoline and rubber."

"No." Her hand clasped his arm. "The Melvin Aircraft plant is in Meadville. They need mechanics there."

"But that isn't what I want . . ."

Her hand tightened. "But it is what you want! Your father was killed by a faulty wing, your brother was hurt through someone's carelessness. You can help make Melvin ships the best on earth."

The thing grew rapidly in Pete's mind. Formerly, he had been so filled with the desire to become a pilot that he could think of nothing else. But that had changed. A girl, sitting on a river bank had changed it. He knew now where he fitted into the picture.

"How do you happen to know so much about ships?" he asked.

She reached for her green wrap and showed him the big round button pinned on it. "I work for Melvin Aircraft on the second shift," she said. "Paint Department. Number 1566."

The Big Spring Herald

Published Sunday morning and weekday afternoon except Saturday by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Entered as second class mail matter at the Postoffice at Big Spring, Texas, under act of March 3, 1879. MEMBERS OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS making a mishandled show of fellows like Gable who ask nothing better than to take their rap along with the rest in this world struggle is just plain poor home-front generalship.

Thomas Or Davis Likely Will Head Senate Military Affairs

By GEORGE STIMPSON

WASHINGTON—Evening tours through the Washington Cathedral have been discontinued until next spring.

Jan Masaryk, deputy prime minister and minister of foreign affairs of the Czechoslovakian republic in exile and son of Thomas Masaryk, founder and first president of Czechoslovakia, is giving a series of lectures in Constitution Hall in Washington.

The 20th anniversary of the October Revolution was the occasion of a gala affair at the Soviet embassy. Sen. and Mrs. Tom Connally and Speaker Sam Rayburn were especially highlighted.

During the first 10 years I spent in Washington the old Russian embassy on Sixteenth street, now the cynosure of all eyes, was locked up, windows boarded, tenantless, deserted, like a haunted house.

I was intrigued by the following advertisement in a Washington newspaper under the heading "Farms for Sale":

"810-Acre Waterfront Farm, in one family 291 years. We think it is hard to compare its class under $175,000, but priced $53,000. Write for literature. C. J. Prettyman, Exmore, Virginia."

Think of it! A Virginia farm in the same family for 291 years! If my subtraction is correct, that means this family started on that place in 1652, only 45 years after the English landed at Jamestown and only 32 years after the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock. In 1652 Oliver Cromwell was lord of it over England and Texas was still a virtually unexplored wilderness.

Despite transportation difficulties "that cut deeply into their ranks, 161-egg-birds were arrayed at the Hamilton hotel by the National Capital Canary Club. I am duly impressed by the fact that "interest of local breeders in development of a red canary was responsible for the large section of birds with coloring ranging from a dull burnt orange to a bright apricot." It is good to know that, war or no war, bird fanciers are persisting in their efforts to breed "a true red canary" and are staking their hopes on mating "the brilliant plumage of the red Siskin, a graceful little bird with wild notes from South American marshes . . . to produce real scarlet." Sen. Bob Reynolds, of North Carolina, who succeeded the late Senator Morris Sheppard as chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, says he does not choose to run in 1944. That puts Elbert D. Thomas, Utah, in line for the job, if the Democrats control the Senate, and Jim Davis, of Pennsylvania, former secretary of labor, if the Republicans control the Senate. Of course, there are other "ifs."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds—

Some Very Fancy Dancing

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Vera Zorina, the ballerina, was sitting in white lace and spangles on a high stool, her filmy costume flowing around her shapely limbs. George Raft, her dancing partner, was taking his ease in a canvas chair, his gaucho costume being less musable.

A camera crew was hauling and pushing the camera crane, trying an effect. Another crew, with dust mops, was slicking up the shiny black floor as fast as the dancing chorus, then in rehearsal, left its dusty footprints. Georgie Hale, the producer, was conferring with Frank Velez, the dancing dance director, and Eddie Sutherland, the director, was conferring with everybody and pacing.

So the money ($100,000 worth for this number, they told me), was going 'round and 'round and coming out, everybody hoped, in "Three Cheers for the boys." The number fits into the story because Raft, as an ex-vaudevillean, has come to Hollywood and worked up as a hooter until he's now the movie dance partner of Vera Zorina. So they have to show how Zorina and Raft danced together before going overseas for the U.S.O., and this is it—one of the fanciest dance-togethers on a fancy set I ever saw.

All that expanse of polished black floor is in front of three separate curtains, which part to reveal a further expanse, triangular, sided by tall mirrors. The whole set is enclosed in a circle of black cloth so that when the mirrors are exposed, the camera can hide itself, using a mere peephole to photograph the scene.

"Have a cake, baby?" Six sailors on Fourteenth Street, putting caucous hospitality in reverse, dispense doughnuts to girls who passed by. Did any of the girls take the cake? They did.

Producers, processors and distributors, says Rep. Dick Kleberg, find themselves "in a regulation-directive-built and leaky boat on a bureaucratic tossed sea without either rudder or compass, and no land in sight, and in the midst of a storm and far from land."

They were figuring how to make Zorina and Raft disappear, like magic, after their dance, and how to replace them with chorines appearing from nowhere—which was why all the conferring, consulting, pacing and rehearsing.

Joining the pace parade, I paced over to Zorina to talk about ballet. While six out of eight current Broadway musical hits feature ballet routines, ballerina Zorina said she wasn't having any in this picture. Unless, she said, you counted the "swing ballet" she does as another specialty with Raft, and Zorina wasn't counting it. "They're learning," she said of the Broadway ballet craze, "learning about ballet. But pictures haven't yet."

Zorina was one of the first ballerinas to grace a Broadway musical ("I Married an Angel" in 1938) and she has played ballerina roles in several films, but in none of these has the ballet been used to advance the plot. Zorina joins the Broadway ballet brigade in her new musical, "Shadow Dance," around Christmas.

The current lavish number was far from ballet. It was, said songwriter Walter Donaldson who composed the music, a beguine—the kind of dance Cole Porter's music keeps asking us to begin. Mr. Donaldson ("My Blue Heaven," "My Buddy," "Little White Lies" and 697 other songs) said the beguine was opening a new field for writers and arrangers. His composition is called "Tonight."

But when I left the set there was still conferring, consulting, rehearsing and pacing—and they still hadn't begun the beguine.

USO Head Plans Additional Service

Howard Bell, director of the USO, is enthusiastic about his new charge. Bell said the service club was going to have a little more money for dance activities and that he planned to have an orchestra every week.

Clipping the need for about 50 or 60 junior hostesses, Bell said the girls usually turn out for the dances, but on some other occasions when they are needed are not present. He also invites civilian men to come in and visit with the servicemen.

May Go Seven Years Without A Sheriff

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 23 (P)—Doniphan county may be without a sheriff for the next seven years. Sheriff Walter Worman disappeared on a duck hunting trip, and his empty boat was later recovered. County officials presumed he drowned.

Governor Andrew Schoepel, however, said state law requires a lapse of seven years before a man who has vanished can legally be termed dead.

And unless the courts step in with a shortcut, how can he appoint another to Worman's office?

Servicemen's Vote Bill Is Juggled

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (P)—The senate juggled the servicemen's vote bill as though it was loaded with political booby traps today and there were some indications that it might be tossed back to the elections committee for extensive revision.

Democrats and republicans striving to present themselves in the role of the soldier's best friend fired angry charges at each other's motives as they wrangled over the form of a measure designed to make absentee balloting possible next year for the 10,000,000 members of the uniformed forces.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) told a reporter he is convinced republicans are trying to defeat the measure without attacking it frontally.

by his unit doctor.

After Patton left, the soldier demanded to return to the front. This request was refused at the time but after a week of rest, he was in good shape and returned to his unit at the front.

Immediately after the incident the soldier was reported in a miserable state. As a regular army man with pride in his record, he felt his whole world dashed to pieces.

"Don't tell my wife! Don't tell my wife!" He was quoted as saying by persons who talked to him later. The chaplain at the hospital however pointed out that the incident was the result of an outburst of temper due to the strain of battle and after several conversations with the soldier, persuaded him to accept it in that light.

The incident was reported to Eisenhower. The commander-in-chief immediately wrote Patton a letter in which he denounced his conduct and ordered him to make amends or be removed from his command.

"The old man certainly took the hide off him," an Allied headquarters spokesman said.

Patton's conduct then became as generous as it had been furious. He apologized to the soldier whom he had struck, to the commander of the hospital and to all those present at the time.

He then went before many officers and men as could be assembled from each division under his command and repeated his apology.

50,000 Bales Of Cotton To Be Moved From West Texas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (P)—The commodity credit corporation has ordered removal of approximately 50,000 bales of cotton from West Texas warehouses in a move to eliminate a glut hampering growers seeking loans on this year's staple, Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said today.

The CCC also intends to order further shipments of cotton stored in West Texas, particularly in the south plains area, to points through out various southern states as soon as available warehouse space can be located, Mahon added.

Most West Texas warehouses were filled with last year's cotton when the 1943 picking season began, said Mahon, and favorable growing and harvesting conditions have resulted in ten of thousands of bales being stored on the ground for lack of warehouse space.

Growers can not get a loan on their cotton without warehouse receipts," he continued. "As a result, many are forced to sell their crop at a sacrifice in order to pay pickers and settle other obligations."

The points from which the cotton has been ordered removed, and the number of bales to be shipped from each, as given out by Mahon, follow:

Brownfield 9,908; Littlefield 10,260; Slaton 4,943; Lubbock 8,000; Tahoka 2,000; Plainview 2,523; Lamesa 13,956.

Mahon was not informed of the points to which the cotton would be shipped.

But he warned that this is not the time for officers to relax their vigilance as the threat is not over yet.

Andrew Merrick, Howard county sheriff, and J. B. Bruton, chief of police, opened the meeting by welcoming the group and B. J. McDaniel, city manager, spoke briefly before introducing A. V. Karcher, vice president of Cosden, a former FBI man, who gave the welcoming address.

Karcher, who spoke for Mayor G. C. Dunham, paid tribute to the officers who are keeping the home front safe so that the men will not return from the wars to find they lost what they had been fighting for.

The New Mexico and El Paso delegation was introduced by George Franklin, assistant FBI agent at El Paso, and D. A. Bryce, special agent in charge of the El Paso district also spoke.

Moving pictures were taken of the group as they left the auditorium for a barbecue at the city park which was followed by a fireworks exhibition given by Bryce.

Attorney Speaks To Rotary Club

Failure to apply proper disciplinary measures for first offenses is resulting in the production of hardened criminals, even at early ages, according to Marvin H. Brown, Tarrant county district attorney, who spoke on juvenile delinquency before the Rotary club here Tuesday.

He was not prepared to say what these measures should be, but said failure to deal properly in the beginning with delinquents bred contempt of the law.

Brown was introduced by James Little, a former classmate who said he was the only man to be elected to three successive terms as a Tarrant county district attorney.

Guests included Lieut. Robert P. Currie, just returned with honors from overseas duty as in the India-Burma-China theatre, and his father, James Currie; Capt. Tom Hickman, Gainesville; Herb Fox, Midland; Ed. Wadsworth Williams, Cosden tax and insurance manager, was introduced as a new member. W. C. Blankenship arranged the program and introduced Mrs. J. G. Cow's Value Placed At $64, In Verdict By County Jury

A verdict on special issues, finding that a cow involved in a sale by J. R. Moates to Otis Grafa had a value of $64, was returned by a county jury Monday afternoon. Grafa filed suit in justice court, alleging fraud, after purchase of the cow for $150, charging that the animal had Bang's disease.

Verdict for Grafa was returned in justice court, and the case went to the county court on appeal. The county jury found that the cow did have Bang's disease, that the seller had guaranteed the animal's health, and that the market value should be $64. Members of the jury were B. L. LeFever, W. M. Dale, J. A. Falkner, Cecil C. Mason, Troy Gifford and C. C. Balch.

Testimony in a suit on note and foreclosure was being heard before County Judge Jas. T. Brooks Tuesday morning. The litigation was filed by the Gibbs Co. against Mrs. E. A. Funds Sought For Salvation Army

Solicitors were busy—and getting a favorable response—Tuesday morning, in raising funds for the Salvation Army, seeking a sum of $2,500 to carry on the organization's work for another year.

More than a score of volunteer canvassers met at the Army Citadel at 8 a. m. to get pledge cards and an assignment of territories. The City was blocked off for soliciting teams, in such fashion that it was believed the drive could be completed within two or three days. The drive is headed up by R. R. McEwen.

Brief talks were made at the session by McEwen, Rev. P. D. O'Brien, who lauded the work of the Salvation Army, and Major L. W. Canning, Army head here, who expressed appreciation for the fine support the city has shown the Army's activities.

First reports were being turned in to McEwen and the chamber of commerce office, but no tabulation was available.
