Honored Here With Coffee this Month

Mrs. Willie Straws was honored with a coffee last Tuesday, July 21, in the home of Mrs. Percy Hines.

Mrs. Straws is in Lubbock on vacation from her home in Boston, Mass. She and Mrs. Hines were classmates in school.

Pink Daisies were the center piece decoration and several persons were in attendance and enjoyed the coffee affair.

Plans Set for Vocational Program at Texas Tech This Fall to Help Minorities Here

Plans have been announced for launching a vocationally-oriented program at Texas Tech this fall aimed at preparing personnel, including Mexican Americans and Black Americans, for new careers in social and rehabilitation services within their own ethnic groups.

Dr. James T. Yates, director of Tech's Speech and Hearing Clinic is in charge of the innovative program designed to train workers for positions as aides in the areas of speech pathology, audiology and deaf education.

Immediate implementation was made possible by a $53,032 Health, Education and Welfare grant in support of the initial 12 months of the projected five-year program.

Approximately 150 aides are to be trained during the first year, beginning with recruitment in mid-August.

"Applicants should have at least some high school training," Dr. Yates said, "in addition to ties in the community with which they will work and a background which indicates the possibility of success as an aide."

Several levels of training will be available, ranging from an intensive six-week course for Aide I trainees to a year's training for those enrolled in the Aide II classification and a two-year program for students in the Aide III category.

Aide I trainees, who will receive stipends of $25 per week, will become employable immediately upon completion of the six-week course, enabling them to earn while they learn as they move forward into Phase II and Phase III of the program.

Classroom instruction will be at Tech, with clinical practice obtained either on campus at the university's Speech and Hearing Clinic or at one of the several cooperating centers for the handicapped in Lubbock and the South Plains area.

Cooperating groups include public schools which operate programs in speech and hearing therapy as well as state and federal rehabilitation centers serving persons of all ages.

Many of the students will obtain their practical experience as interns in centers which will have future need of their services as para-professional employees, Dr. Yates predicted.

The program curriculum also will stress language development, the director said, particularly as it applies to the acquisition of English as a second language.

"One of the principal objectives of the program," he said, "is to improve skills in communication among minority groups, particularly those unique to the Southwest which has a large minority population of Spanish surnamed residents, many of whom speak only Spanish.

The need for trained bilingual personnel was forcefully demon-

Dr. Heenan Johnson, Local Dentist, Elected Chairman of City-County Library Board

Dr. Heenan Johnson, Lubbock dentist, who resides at 2802 Walnut Avenue, was elected chairman of the board of the Lubbock City-County Libraries, 2001 19th Street here this week.

Dr. Johnson will replace Bob Rooker, Texas Tech University professor, who has resigned, according to William Stewart, director.

Dr. Johnson was named to the board in January and is the first black on the board that serves in an advisory capacity.

Other members are Mrs. John DePauw, vice-chairman; Mrs. Glenn Barnett, secretary; Mrs. Charles Maedgen, Greeley Sanders of Slaton, Mrs. Madison F. Sowder of Idalou, Swain Rogers and Mrs. C. L. Boggs.

Texas Tech University to Conduct Secretarial Training Program for Minorities this Fall

Texas Tech University, as part of its Affirmative Action Program, will conduct a secretarial training program on campus for approximately 12 minority group members beginning this fall.

"This new program," said C. B. Strawn, director of personnel at Tech, "intends to select and train minority members in basic secretarial skills as well as provide on-the-job office experience."

Strawn said that candidates for the program will be sought from the Negro-American and Spanish-American populations of Lubbock. "Upon satisfactory completion of the course," he said, "trainees will be referred to permanent positions here at the university."

Persons selected will be employed by Texas Tech with trainee status full time but will spend approximately half time in class and half at work. They will be paid $1.45 per hour and will be considered regular employees for the purpose of fringe benefits. Departments who accept a trainee will not be under any obligation to retain her after successful completion of the program. Such departments, however, will be given first consideration in the event they have a suitable position available and want to hire her.

Trainees are expected to learn on-the-job and the same time assist departments in accomplishing work at hand. This program is administered by the director of personnel and classroom instruction will be carried out through the College of Business Administration's Business Education Department. "We are most fortunate to have Prof. Delores Kilchenstein responsible for this phase of the program," Strawn said.

According to Strawn, the Affirmative Action Program is designed to provide for the promotion and assurance of equal opportunity for all persons employed or seeking employment with the University.

Texas Tech's policy on equal employment opportunity was stated in former President Robert C. Goodwin's memorandum of August 17, 1965, and has been restated at periodic intervals since that time by President Grover E. Murray.

Tentative scheduling is to continue the program for four to six months. Exact starting date and length of this program will be announced later, Strawn said.

Black Coalition Sets Called Meeting at Multi-Service Center

A special called meeting of the United Black Coalition is scheduled for tonight, Thursday, July 30th, at the Mae Simmons Multi-Service Center at 8:00 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss current issues concerning the community.

The public is urged to attend this meeting tonight.

Lubbock's school system is faced with a federal suit, "in a few days", over desegregation plans concerning the Negro schools here.

After a one hour session in Austin Wednesday, school board officials informed sources here that the local school board can expect a court battle with a short period of time.

Newly installed school Superintendent Ed Irons reported here that no change had been produced in the positions on either side after the Austin meeting.

Irons was quoted as saying, "We presented the plan approved by the hearing examiner and they gave us two alternatives, either we can submit a plan to them or we will be sued."

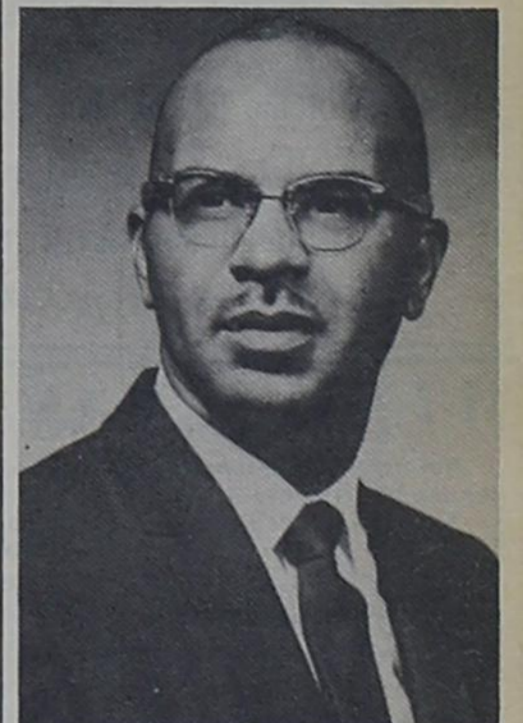

He said that he and other local representative, "could get no direct answer" on what effect the June decision of Department of Health, Education and Welfare hearing examiner Irving Sommer has on the present situation.

Sommer had ruled that Lubbock's schools were in compliance with the civil rights act of 1964, but HEW lawyers appealed the decision.

The new superintendent could give no indication if the local position—defence of the four 99 per cent Negro schools in Southeast Lubbock as neighborhood schools resulting from housing patterns—would change.

When asked if the atmosphere in the negotiations in Austin were hostile, said the federal officials were polite to the Lubbock group.

C. F. Cooke Named To Committee Here

Mr. C. F. Cooke, Jr., local district manager of Atlanta Life Insurance Company, along with four other citizens from a cross section of the population, has been appointed to a "watchdog" committee by the City Council to oversee and advise the Council on any possible "profiteering" or speculative buying in anticipation of civic center development.

The committee is to be headed by Roy Furr, Jr., and is composed of Ervin J. Brandt, Claude Meadows, Jr.; Jose Ramirez and Mr. Cooke.

Councilmen set up the special committee to assure that if present owners sell their property they receive fair market value.

Obstacles Placed for United Black Coalition

Black people are asking each other why Maurice L. Richard, Jr., the young black who ran a good race in the recent City Council election, came out in a public statement against the United Black Coalition concerning their stand taken against the upcoming bond election scheduled August 8th.

Black people could care less about the position taken by any one, but are quite concerned when one (using a paternalistic attitude) decides to save the world at the expense of his own people's organization. It is apparent that the old "disunity" game is being played to tear apart the togetherness which has long been needed and sought in the black community of Lubbock.

Members of the Coalition had been concerned for some time about the repeated absence of Mr. Richard at their meetings, and were astounded when he came out saying: "I am opposed to the position taken by the Reverend Adolphus Cleveland and the Black Coalition in which they oppose the bond election on the sole basis that the minorities do not have fair representation on the City Council."

The United Black Coalition related to the "fair representation" as being all matters of city government—job opportunities, board representation, and the now silent City Charter amendment vote on the idea of equal representation from all areas of Lubbock on the City Council. The members of the UBC have heard of the idea of meetings staged, (as seen with the now non-operating Mayor's Human Relations Committee) to erase the shortcomings of job opportunities in the City of Lubbock. As many of these members recalled, this committee humiliated many black, browns and poor whites with its complete disregard of the problems that exist, and the attitude on the committee members part that there was no real reason for a Human Relations Committee in the first place.

The action by the United Black Coalition has called the city fathers attention to the fact that the black people are concerned about the destiny of Lubbock. But, they, the city fathers, have failed to realize the fact that the black people are not saying no for the sake of saying no. Rather, they are saying that the opportunity has not been here in the past for all black people, and so why should everyone be so concerned about helping to vote for projects that come along before some basic necessities are realized. Certainly no one can fault a person or group for standing up for the community, regardless of how they go about the job. For once, the black community has been recognized as a part of the entire City of Lubbock, and as always in the case of most cities, rather than request a way to work cooperatively, the leaders have decided to divide and conquer.

Yes, Mr. Richard, you were out in left field when you decided to speak as a leader of the United Black Coalition without consulting with those members who went on record for what they firmly believed. Many still remember that in your recent campaign, you disassociated yourself from the Coalition when it seemed politically profitable. The game of "disunity" is being played against your community and your brothers and sisters, and you merely fell for it. Can't you see how important it is for you to continue to communicate with the people you are associated with, and at the same time express the total views of the black people—especially if you are going to pass yourself off downtown as a "leader"?

For all other Maurice L. Richard, Jr.s, in our community, let's look around us and start doing something in our own neighborhoods and communities, before we cross town and represent ourselves as leaders within our community. Let's continue to unite our efforts, and stop beating our gums across town for the sake of being listened to by the establishment. They really care less of what you think, unless it is to parrot their position.

We all have a great deal to do. And granted, any man is entitled to his own opinion, but not as a "leader" without a following. Let us all remember that this is our community—let's keep the faith and build toward unity. If we continue to do this, the obstacles placed in the path of the black community will surely be overcome.

STATE CAPITAL

Austin—As fast as the state's major finance agencies moved out of the capitol into the new Finance Building, contractor's bids were opened for remodeling of the old quarters to the tune of more than $11 million.

Work soon will be underway on all floors of the capitol, including the basement.

Senators will get private offices of at least 550 square feet each. Bulk of the new Senate space will come from quarters long occupied by the State Comptroller.

House members will have smaller offices—but at least a private office—in the old first-floor State Treasury quarters and the basement.

Senators plan new committee rooms, including one specially wired for sound and TV lights.

Capitol station post office will make an early move into the new Finance Building, clearing the east entrance of the statehouse for restoral to its original splendor.

Enrollment Limit Asked—Soaring public college enrollments prompted a request from the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System that each school give "immediate consideration" to the problem.

If voluntary curtailment does not result, Board officials indicate they will ask the Legislature for power to order mandatory ceilings. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held in a recent opinion that the agency does not have such authority. University of Texas system regents, meanwhile, approved a UT enrollment-control plan and a lottery system for use when units reach capacity.

Coordinating Board at its last meeting also placed the student loan program under federal loan insurance to guarantee repayments, advised expulsion of students who are involved in campus disruptions, and directed studies of free credit exchange among all public institutions and possible elimination of unnecessary college courses.

Integration Pressed—Federal negotiators conferring with representatives of Texas school districts found 48 not in compliance with desegregation provisions of the 1964 civil rights act.

Sessions are seen as a last-ditch effort to get voluntary integration without a massive lawsuit by the U.S. Justice Department demanding immediate compliance.

Negotiators included three teams representing the civil rights division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, plus Justice Department Washington headquarters and Dallas regional office.

Man Against System

By Jimmy R. Allen

The country-style singer, Johnny Cash, has proven that it can be done. A man can buck the system for his moral convictions and get some things done.

Associated Press reporter Bob Thomas dug up the story of Johnny's concern and how he bucked the system in order to demonstrate it.

When Cash read the script for a film called "A Gunfight", he objected to a nude scene and was assured that it would be altered. When the time came, the scene was the same.

The easy thing to do would have been to gripe and conform. Cash refused that route. Instead he fought and won. The scene was changed.

It's important to know why the man chose to buck the system. It was not prudishness. No one can accuse Cash of lacking earthiness.

It was religious conviction. He is quoted as saying, "I couldn't do that scene. How could I do that and then record an album of hymns? Or talk on my television show about what religion means in my life. Why I'd be a hypocrite."

Parents and spectators, with sensitivity to moral decay, apparently are not the only ones disturbed about the trend toward nudity and lewdness in today's motion pictures.

And Cash isn't the only man who has to decide whether to go along as a hypocrite or to take a stand. Men face that choice in every walk of life. The shape of pressure is different but the essentials are the same.

It may take the form of the temptation to accept a kick-back, to tolerate a dishonest business practice or to maintain a discrete silence when the torrents of racial hatred are flowing. It may be the subtle temptation to profit from human misery as a slumlord. It may be passively accepting the inundation of filth from the mass entertainment media.

Whatever the form of the system's pressure against one's individual convictions, the effect is the same. It creates a testing ground for one either to discover his own integrity or lose it.

The pessimist asks, "What's the use? What can one man do?"

The cry that everybody is doing it should not drown out the quite voice of conscience. Occasionally some man stands up and says, "No!" It's surprising how often his witness is effective in changing things. Even when it does not, he has preserved something very precious—his self respect.

The Bible's challenge is clear. Paul was a man who stood alone—in the swirling mobs of Ephesus and Jerusalem, in the Courts of Agrippa and the Emperor, in the marketplaces of Athens and Corinth.

He saw this as a part of what it means to be a fully grown Christian. He put it tersely—"And having done all, to stand!" (Ephesians 6:18).

From The Business Desk

I'm just a little more than highly insulted by the opening statement of the story in Monday before last evening issue of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal under the headline, Taxpayers Urged To Approve Bonds, and sub-headlined "Chance To Share".

According to the A-J story, a campaign steering committee feels, "The local taxpayer has yet to show that he is willing to do his share in the recovery effort. The Aug. 8 bond election provides him that opportunity."

Baloney !!! And believe me, that is about the mildest way I can express my sentiments, concerning such a statement. In case the steering committee members have forgotten so soon. Many a local taxpayer, and others that may not have been taxpayers, were up all night, and some for several days and nights, helping find tornado victims, helping relocate people who had lost their homes in the tornado, rushing around delivering ice boxes, sandwiches, hot coffee, and cold drinks in a "willing to share" attitude immediately after the tornado, and for a great many days after.

It would behove the steering committee members to remember that everytime someone put out a call for cots, blankets, sandwiches or milk for the victims of the tornado, a traffic jam resulted around the municipal coliseum, primarily because people were breaking their necks, in a "willing to share in the recovery effort" to bring what was requested. Also it might not hurt for some of the steering committee members to remember that many a local call for help and assistance was immediately cancelled, because the local taxpayers responded so quickly. And perhaps they have already forgotten, or did not know of the many homes, and churches, all paid for by local taxpayers, who....."has yet to show that he is willing to do his share in the recovery effort. . ." they were thrown open to strangers—victims of the tornado—the night of the tragedy. We here in the City of Lubbock did so many things, so quickly and with so much effort and willingness during the immediate hours after the May 11th tornado that I have to be very careful when telling out of town people about the City's efforts, for fear that I might bust a button or two off my shirt from being so proud. And then to have a "Steering Committee" of local leaders make such a statement! It would make you wonder if all the good, willing people have climbed back into their holes and left the town to someone else, wouldn't it?

The way I see it, if they can't get the bonds passed on their own merit, then they have decided that the only thing left to do is "shame" the local taxpayer into voting for bonds. But believe me, there is not a local taxpayer or local citizen in the entire City of Lubbock that deserves that kind of treatment. This is probably the best city, composed of the best citizens, and made up of about the best taxpayers in the nation.

Back-on the same subject, but with a little different slant. Did you see where one of our local Councilmen, Jack Baker by name, had told a local group of businessmen one day last week that if we didn't vote for the bonds, we were going to have a tax raise anyway? I did, again in the other paper here in Lubbock, this time in the morning edition, Friday, July 17th, under the sub-head, "Councilman Puts it Simply:"

Now, everyone in town knows that taxes are going to be raised, the simple questions are, "How Much?" and "Why?". Maybe I don't understand the situation here any longer, but I presumed that someone, at least one of our elected officials would have provided the taxpayers with answers to the questions—rather than just handing the taxpayers another bill (tax bill that is), and then expecting people to blindly vote for more taxes without even asking why, and what will the total cost be? Seems to me we have elected a bunch of people who are more interested in spending money than figuring how to save it.

And as a closing thought, don't be fooled by the misnomer, "Memorial Civic Center Project". What they are trying to tell you, very subtly, is that Lubbock is being asked to vote for, approve and pay for another Urban Renewal Project—something that I think the readers of this newspaper still have a bad taste in their mouth from a few years back—remember?

Our congratulations to Dr. Heenan Johnson, local dentist, on his elevation to chairman of the Board of the Lubbock City-County Libraries. Dr. Johnson is a good man, and in my opinion should have been elected to the City Council several years back—but that was before the Black Coalition, and also before most people in town were aware that Negroes live in East Lubbock.

At any rate, good luck, Doc! And remember we still haven't made that fishing trip we planned one time.

And while we're passing out roses, I would offer my congratulations to Mr. C. F. Cooke, Jr., who has just this week been appointed to the "Watch-Dog Committee" of citizens who will keep the property acquisition in down-town Lubbock above board. No question that Mr. Cooke will also serve the city well. Good luck.

Well, that takes care of two blacks, who might have been seen around or near United Black Coalition meetings, and who might have been in favor of voting against the upcoming bonds. Let's see, with about 6,000 registered black voters, that means that someone downtown is going to have to really get on the ball and set up a bunch of committees if they are going to get everyone on some sort of position before August 8th.

Seriously speaking, both of the men, Dr. Johnson and Mr. Cooke, will certainly serve the City of Lubbock well and represent their community with honor and respect. But it certainly is noticeable that the people are being elevated or appointed faster than one can keep up with the new committees. This is progress, though it appears rather funny that it is such fast progress, after so long.

Black College Presidents Meet With President Nixon Recently

Recently, fourteen black college presidents met with President Richard Nixon and told the President that black people of America are angry, outraged, and frustrated and suggested six steps he might take to improve relations between government and the Negro society.

In a forcefully-worded statement, the presidents told Nixon, "we wish to convey to you the disenchantment of blacks, especially black youth, with our society and with the federal government."

The college presidents are all members of the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education, an association composed of all the predominately black colleges and universities in the nation.

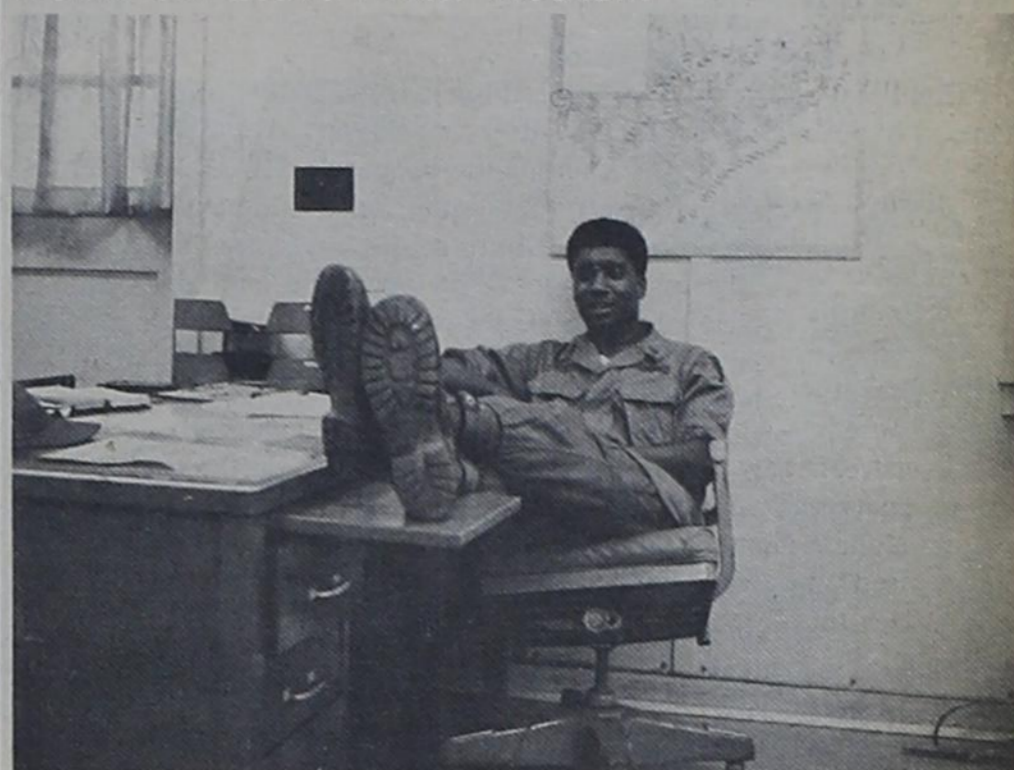

The presidents gave Nixon a list of six proposals to ease tensions with black students. They include:

1. A presidential message on nationwide television reaffirming the federal government's resolve to protect the lives of black citizens.
2. A program to involve more black Americans in the formulation of domestic policies and representation of the black community on major presidential councils.
3. A meeting with black students.
4. Executive recommendations on law enforcement agencies control of crowds and a provision banning loaded guns on campuses.
5. Appointment of a black deputy-attorney general.
6. Increased funding for education and programs benefiting blacks.

Nixon told the group he would carefully consider all the proposals, did not make any specific comments. He asked the men to "Judge me by my actions, not by words."

Dr. M. K. Curry, Jr., president of Bishop College at Dallas, Texas, and secretary of the association, said the meeting with Nixon was,

Home On Leave From Vietnam

It was a big homecoming for the Beaty family July 13th when their son, Sgt. Robert L. Beaty, arrived in the hub city for a thirty day leave from South Vietnam.

The young soldier, who is a graduate of Dunbar High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Beaty of 2713 East 9th Street.

During his tour of duty in South Vietnam, he worked at Tan Son Naut Air Base booking military personnel on flights to the United States. He has completed one year of service and will return for another ten months.

Mr. and Mrs. Beaty have five sons, four of which are in the service, and three daughters. Their other son resides in Lawton, Oklahoma.

It was an especially great day when the Beaty family got together, and they had a wonderful time reviewing old times.

Mrs. Beaty is a member of New Hope Baptist Church and is employed by the Carver Heights Day Nursery.

"a good beginning", and added, "we're prepared to push for results."

Dr. Curry said he was particularly concerned that black colleges might be eliminated in the government's move for total integration.

"Many black people believe integration will never be a two-way street," he said, adding that the black colleges "have something to offer the American society."

The VA is moving to promptly implement recommendations of the President's Committee on Vietnam Veterans relating to jobs, education, loans and other benefits.

MY VIEWS

By Eddie P. Richardson

The most pressing issue in Lubbock now is the proposed bond issue of $13.6 million set for the voters consideration on August 8. First of all think about the proposals, look at it carefully. Ask yourself these questions: What will passage of the bonds contribute to me, my community and my city as a whole? Who owns the land the proposed civic center is to be on, and who owns the adjacent land? Who owns the majority of the land where the lake project will be located? Will passage of any of these proposals create any more jobs? Would I rather have a tax increase to offset the 12% tax base loss due to the May 11th tornado; or am I in a position to have a tax increase of much more if I vote for the bonds? Has the proposed package been properly presented in an honorable manner, one that everyone understands, or have we been painted a pretty picture with the flaws covered? Is Lubbock a convention town? Do we need a convention facility or more and better jobs?

Amarillo has a convention center and no one has stated here whether it is running in the red or in the black, financially. One thing is certain, Amarillo has acquired a very nice convention center over the past ten years, and lost people! The additional taxes might have something to do with this.

One thing I would like to ask all black people, especially the young blacks, keep your cool and don't let the downtown bunch split you up. Since the community has taken a stand and the downtown people have put us some blacks to represent their side of the bond issue, don't let them get you upset. Everyone realizes that these people do not represent the black community, so do not fall for the game of letting yourself become upset just because someone is getting some publicity and you don't agree with them.

Get together, stay together and forget the "Toms", their day is gone forever. Black people no longer accept leaders the white man picks for them to follow.

There has been a lot of talk around the Rev. Cleveland's statement about voting against the bond issue because we do not have equal representation in Lubbock. Think about it. That is as good a reason as any for black people to oppose the issue, since the blacks are excluded from all policy making positions, and everything that counts. The interesting question is why are we always recognized and taken in when downtown people want a vote for something they have dreamed up? If they need us when the bond issue needs votes, and when other such things are at hand, why the hell do they not need us the rest of the time to hold good jobs, fill key slots in city hall, and be recognized as people all of the time?

When it comes to human rights and property rights, why are all other rights placed above human rights when it comes to minority groups? The system was designed to eliminate minorities and still they are excluded until their vote is needed!

Closing thought: "You have a head and a mind, use it, think!!!, think!!, think!, and then think again."

Pictures of People in the News

Lamesa-Suppose I said, here we go again? It would be quite appropriate in the case of this very talented young man, who is none other than Pfc Willie (Sonny) Mitchell.

Sonny, a graduate of Lamesa High School, is doing his thing in Frankfurt, Germany. He does a five day-a-week show, twice daily, which is called the Benelax Courier, and then he does an extra show on Thursday, entitled American Music Hall—featuring mainly the sound of "soul".

A tall, handsome soldier is here on a 30-day leave before he goes to Vietnam. He is Pfc Freddie (Jabo) Swanson, a graduate of Lamesa High School, and a member of Mt. Olive Baptist Church here in the city of Lamesa. Jabo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Swanson.

Jerry Lewis Turns Author—For A Cause

Faces of Hope is the meaningful title of an informative new booklet written by Jerry Lewis, who has served for 19 years as national chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. Its publication was announced here last week by Bill Sandell, president of the South Plains Chapter of the voluntary health agency.

"Writing in his honest and highly readable style, Jerry has succeeded, as no one else could, in telling exactly how dystrophy and related disorders affect their victims," Mr. Sandell stated. "This is no impersonal scientific text but, rather, a human and humane account based on actual case histories."

In telling his story, Lewis uses newspaper clips about individual patients. The press accounts illustrate his concise commentary which explains the tragic course of progressive crippling in children, adolescents and adults. The booklet brings into focus MDAA's extensive patient service and research programs.

"Jerry Lewis is so frequently asked why he, personally, has devoted years to our cause—why his Labor Day telethons to raise funds are so important to him," Mr. Sandell said, "Faces of Hope reveals many of the reasons."

Copies of the booklet are available from MDAA, 1916 Avenue Q, Lubbock.

Life Insurance Coverage of GI's Increased by New Bill Last Week

A bill the President signed into law last week automatically increased life insurance coverage from $10,000 to $15,000 for more than 3,500,000 servicemen, the Veterans Administration reported this week.

The new law also covers about 1,000,000 reservists and members of the National Guard and the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

However, these groups are protected only during certain training activities, and while they are traveling to and from training areas.

Servicemen on active duty will now pay $3 instead of $2 monthly for the increased $15,000 coverage, while premiums for reservists, members of the ROTC and National Guard will be $1.80 per year.

The law also extends from 120 days to one year the insurance of full-time servicemen who are totally disabled at the time of military separation, if their condition remains unchanged.

Reservists, members of the National Guard and ROTC are insured for 90 days after a training period.

Amarillo—Mr. Ordie McKnight of 1604 N.W. 16th left Amarillo Thursday for Las Angeles, California, to be at the bedside of his sister, Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, but he didn't make it in time. She passed away at 4 a.m. Thursday morning and Mr. McKnight didn't arrive until 3:15 Thursday afternoon. Funeral Services were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday, July 28th.

This was Mr. McKnight's first flight, but he said that he will never go any other way from now on. He states that he loves it, and says to all of you that have never flown, "go to it", it's fine.

William Harvey Sanders of Washington, D.C. is visiting his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jas Sanders of 2321 N.W. 11th. William is a former student of Carver High School. I am sure that a lot of you will remember him.

Mrs. George Parrish and daughter, Dianne, left Friday via Texas International Airlines for Oakland, California, where they will spend a few weeks before school starts with Mrs. Parrish's brother and his family.

Mrs. Gussie Evans of Lubbock, Texas, was the house guest of Mrs. Clayton of 910 N.W. 19th here last week. Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Clayton are old friends, and were neighbors when Mrs. Clayton lived in Lubbock.

Mrs. Evans is one of the 10,000 that attended the Jehovah's Witnesses Convention held here last week in the Civic Center Auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wilson and son of Tucson, Arizona, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wilson, Sr., of 1101 N.W. 21st.

Mrs. Elnora Woolbright was resting well as of Saturday in North West Texas Hospital after having surgery last week. She expects to be able to come home soon. Let us pray for her and others.

The Bible says, "Love Thy Neighbor as Thy Self," but it didn't say that thy neighbor should let his trash blow on thy yard because he (thy neighbor) didn't comply with the city ordinance when they said that everyone should have trash racks and cans with lids. Think about it, then do something.

And what about the weeds on the vacant lots next to you, they can be cut by the owner if you want them cut.

Mrs. Eva Cooper of 1632 N.W. 15th Street, has returned home after spending 10 days in Ft. Worth, Texas with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams and three of her grand-daughters and three great grand-daughters. While there, she also visited with her son in Angelton, Texas. You should see the old stage coach he gave her. He carved it himself, and I had the opportunity to see it, it is really something.

Mrs. Cooper visited an old folks home in Houston while on her trip. She said that some of the people and conditions made you want to cry, and while there, she helped some of the old folks laugh. To top off her trip last Tuesday, she went fishing and her luck was just about like mine, she said she caught two fish, about as long as her finger.

Sunday, July 26, 1970 was rally day at Mt. Zion Baptist Church and Mrs. Cooper was very much with it, she reported $110.00. The guest speaker was Mrs. R. M. Stapleton of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Robbie Johnson of 1007 N.W. 18th is in the hospital. At the time of this writing I am not sure just which hospital she is in. Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Henderson of 1007 N.W. 18th.

Black and white citizens concerned with the best interest and welfare of Midland's beloved Negro physician are awaiting with baited breath the outcome of a petition designed to test the constitutionality of the Texas abortion laws, which has been filed in 142nd District Court here in the Tall City.

Dr. Cooper, a long-time Midland physician, was convicted in 1967 on a charge of felony driving while intoxicated. He was given a five year probated sentence. In 1968, according to news reports, his probation was revoked as a result of an attempted abortion.

The petition holds the law unconstitutional due to vagueness and "are unconstitutionally archaic and under contemporary social conditions in light of modern scientific and medical advancements are no longer operative and effective in their practical application as a valid and constitutional exercise of the police power. . ."

The suit charges illegal confinement and was signed by Charles E. Benson of Lubbock, partner in the law firm of Benson and Benson.

Among the Permian Basin citizens appointed to the Citizens Advisory Committee are Dr. W. C. Stewart of Odessa and Rev. H. F. Doyle and Earl Booker of Midland. The committee will study "where we are and where we expect to go" in the Permian Junior College System, it was reported.

Helen Bain, a Tennessee English teacher, is the new president of the powerful National Education Association and has called for more political activity by the nation's school teachers. "It is imperative that we tool up our political might to defend the right of every child to be given an equal chance to grow," the Nashville teacher said. She also defended the right of teachers to strike if necessary.

Dr. M. K. Curry, whose leadership during the past ten years has brought Bishop College to the forefront of religious-related colleges in America, has described the sixties and seventies as an era in which, "Something enormous and evil is dying, and something enormous and fine is being born." The head of the Dallas based institution said in her 89-year history we have always been committed to, "developing leaders who can incite the growth of real men and women, capable of contributing constructively to a dynamic society of free men and women." Curry spoke at the 40th Bishop College Ministers' Institute held on the campus.

The emotional consequences of ghetto life and the social and economic stresses that may produce them came under close scrutiny by some 400 psychiatrists, sociologists and other health professionals attend a symposium entitled: "Ferment, Paradox and Conflict: The Psychiatric Consequences of the Ghetto in Washington, D. C." recently. It was the first in a nation-wide series of symposia undertaken by the Pfizer Laboratories' Foundation.

"Men will teach and preach for religion; lend and spend for religion, write and fight for religion, cry and die for religion, men will seemingly do anything but live for religion." Dr. Hugh M. Gloster at 40th Ministers' Institute-Bishop College.

The National Urban League will continue to do "its thing" which is to work toward full integration and to emphasize job training programs and "ballots rather than bullets" Whitney Young, Jr., national executive secretary, told me in Memphis where he was a scheduled speaker before the 100th Anniversary & General Conference of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church. He said that the League does not and will not condemn other black organizations which have different methods of operation. The possibility of a West Texas chapter was discussed also.

Mail Bag—Dear Bob; If you know of a high school graduate or senior in your community who needs a school home away from home or who would appreciate an opportunity to go to college with or without finance, please have them write me at once.

Signed: David Johnson, Director of Scholarship Fund, Texas College, Tyler, Texas.

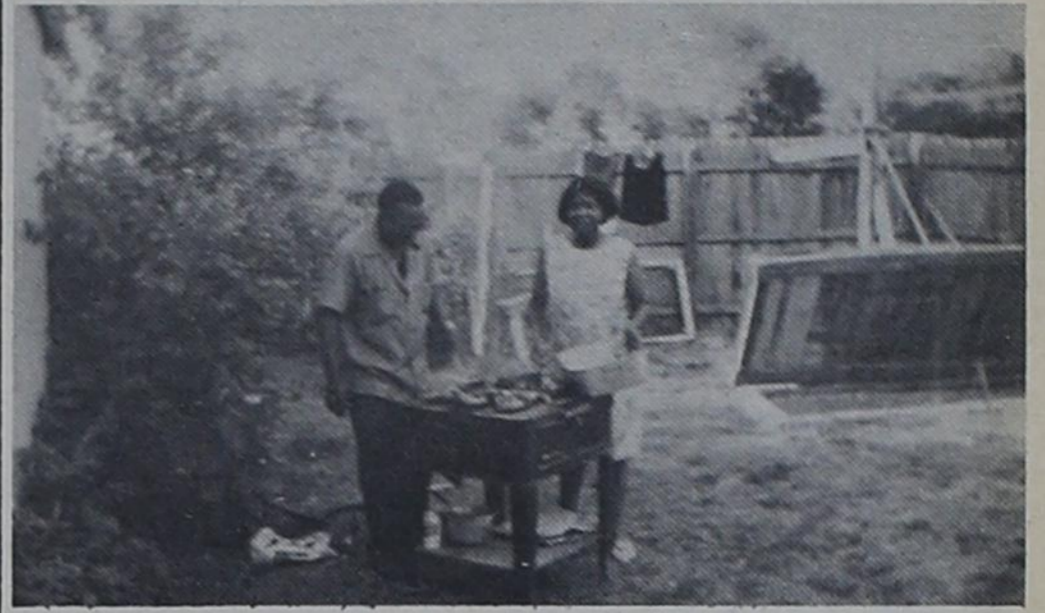

Ok Bellringers! Here is an opportunity for someone surely.

To G. O. of Brownwood: You are right. Most of West Texas is free of racial tensions and strivings that often mark other sections of this country. One of the reasons perhaps is that we are not overcrowded in population and we have time to get acquainted. In Dallas this past week, we just keep wondering where all the people keep coming from. For example, we heard the Superintendent of Schools talking about a one-hundred million dollar budget for education for boys and girls within the next year or two. "Go West Young Man," may still be the final solution to our bulging urban areas that are stacking people upon people.

Home From Vacation in East Texas

Mrs. Etta Mosely has returned home after spending her vacation in Fort Worth, Dallas, Oakwood and Houston, Texas. She and her sister, Mrs. Maggie Shed, also of Lubbock, attended funeral services for their nephew at Houston.

On her return home, Mrs. Mosly was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Kinnie B. Bly and their four children.

Shown in the above picture are Kinnie and Etta preparing "Bar-B-Q" for an evening meal in the backyard with all the family. The guests reported a lovely vacation here and hope to return Christmas.

State University is 43-years old. He is the 14th president of the 115 year old land grant college which has a student enrollment of 41,000, with approximately 1,000 black students. He was vice-president of the Agricultural Development Council of New York when he was elected to the post.

We would like to have the name and address and telephone number of all of our colored senior citizens (70 and over) living in the Midland-Odessa area at once. If you would assist us in this endeavor we would be grateful to you. We plan to honor them soon in a big way and we do not wish to miss anyone in the Permian Basin.

Wonderful! Send me the names in care of this newspaper and we will pass the word along.

Until later, Peace and God be with you.

Jehovah's Witnesses Finish Convention in Amarillo

"With attacks being made from every quarter on belief in God and the Bible, some of these from religious leaders themselves, it was spiritually refreshing to listen to discourses and see Bible dramas enacted that upheld God's Word," reports Horace Dove, presiding minister of the local congregation of Jehovah's witnesses. Dove was referring to the District Convention of Jehovah's witnesses just concluded in Amarillo, Texas. Local delegates returning home this week report that 10,023 persons from over 25 states attended.

Several hundred new ones were added to the Witness organization. They were ordained at a baptismal ceremony. According to Dove, "The decision of these persons to undergo baptism was not the result of some emotional experience but rather an intellectual experience after a concentrated program of Bible study."

"Much information was given for the benefit of the young people," Dove said. "We are now living in the 'age of rebellion', with these 'last days' producing a bump-

Final Rites Read for Mrs. Bessie Scott in Slaton

Final rites were read Wednesday afternoon, July 29, at 4 p.m. at Mount Olive Baptist Church of Slaton, Texas for Mrs. Bessie Scott, 79, who died Saturday, July 25 at 1:40 p.m., after a long illness, at University Nursing Home in Lubbock.

Dove announced that meetings this week will be held at the regularly scheduled time at the local Kingdom Hall.

LINES ON DESIGNS OF THE TIMES

The one-length wardrobe is a thing of the past, maintain the editors of the leading needlework and crafts magazine. The new look is the layered look, the ensemble effect. The never-so-important accessory creates the costume.

Six pages of stunning styles to knit and crochet by French designer Sophie Dess of Paris lead off the Fashion Section. The long and short of it include a midi coat to quick-knit and mini dress to speed-crochet—plus a pouf hat to wear with both. Instructions for ensembles to knit and crochet—and a host of other fashions—are presented in the 272-page fall-winter issue of McCall's Needlework & Crafts Magazine now on newsstands.

"This issue is the biggest we've ever published," reports Nan Comstock, editor-in-chief. "The interest in handicrafts of every kind is very big and has been reflected in our editorial content."

A special Bazaar Section features big, bold jewelry made of tissue paper and glue, also includes merry pencil toppers, and a variety of letter clips and unusual paper novelties, easy to make with scraps of cardboard, bits of brightly colored yarn, and a lot of imagination. These will attract all bazaar shoppers.

There are 30 pages of do-it-yourself wall designs included in the publication. There's even a special project for Dad: making a sparkling rooster with nails. Wall decor ranges from three feet to seven feet tall, the whole height of a wall.

Being a "wallflower" is a social drawback. Yet wall flowers boldly stylized and in garden-fresh hues will make your home blossom with enchantment. The feature entitled "Flower Fantasia" tells how to weave a mass of giant blooms for a perennial display. This bouquet of woven flowers, leaves, stems (plus buds) is applied to burlap, overlapping to make a vivid three-dimensional design. Mounted on a stretcher frame, the picture is 36 square inches.

The magazine's Nostalgia Section shows you how to recreate the treasures of a bygone era. A variety of techniques is included, as exemplified by three cloth dolls in the colorful style of the 1860's—their "printed fabric" dresses created with tube paints. For patchwork fans, the issue presents a quilt of red schoolhouses. A Mississippi steamboat to work in needlepoint is a reminder of the days when Sam Clemens sounded "Mark Twain." And bead jewelry is also updated from the elegant past; oldtime stringing methods use jumbo beads and today's colors. A spirited high-stepping needlepoint horse is taken from an old doily which was worked in cross-stitch on a fine monk's cloth.

The magazine highlights a special section teaching beginners to learn to crochet by making belts, bags, and a poncho. They learn to knit by making toys, scarves, and a hat. Also, in the Children's Section, odds and ends and imagination can create robots from outer space or pinecone creatures.

So learn crocheting and other techniques spelled out in the magazine, and you'll be "with it."

For White Americans

Some of you may have missed Tom Wicker's column in the New York Times May 19th. In it he said: "Suppose you were black. What would you think if you had read these items in your newspaper in the last ten days?"

"From Augusta, Ga.: Six black men are dead, all shot in the back by police rifles or shotguns . . ."

"From Jackson, Miss.: At Jackson State College, two black students are dead and nine wounded, including several girls. All fell before a 30-second barrage of gunfire from state highway police . . ."

"From Chicago: Months after Fred Hampton, a black Panther leader, was killed by Chicago police in what they described as a blazing gun battle with a band of armed Panthers, a grand jury has discovered that only one bullet was fired at the police raiders. It was the police who poured a massive fire into the apartment where Fred Hampton and others had been sleeping; it was the Federal Bureau of Investigation that provided the preliminary information; and it was police and city officials who later covered up the truth and concocted the story of the 'shoot-out' . . ."

"It is bad enough to be, say the victim of a crime, or to be in fear of crime and disorder, when you have recourse only to an ineffective police force and to a court system heavily overburdened. But at least, in that case the law is on your side, or you believe it to be; there is someone to whom you can turn.

"But suppose you feel that the armed policeman is not there to protect your life and rights but to do away with them? Suppose even the Federal Government is no longer trying to assert your rights in court and its highest law enforcement arm seems more interested in helping the police exterminate black militants than in impartially observing and enforcing the law? Suppose that, by all evidence available to you, the law does not even seem to be on your side—is at best indifferent and at worst hostile?"

In addition to unfair treatment in cases of "political" brushes with the law, blacks have reason to fear uneven law enforcement in their own back yards. Blacks are the major victims of crime. In 1969, headlined a black paper, the St. Louis American, there were 282 homicides in St. Louis which has a black population of about 40 per cent. Black victims—225, white—57. A University of Missouri survey showed that 77 per cent of black voters in St. Louis supported higher taxes to fight crime by hiring more policemen for walking beats, improve public lighting in streets, alleys and parks, and expanded facilities to handle juvenile delinquents.

The Washington Afro-American, in an editorial, "Do We Want To Live In Fear or Do Something About Crime?", told of the fear of many teachers and students of being "beaten, knifed or shot by marauding hoodlums." Concluded the Afro: "We think it is time for our readers to speak out against the perpetrators of crimes of violence in the streets, in the schools, or wherever they may occur. Silence, in our view, only gives consent to the criminals."

Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church

The youth of our church were in the spotlight last Sunday as they showed the adults what they could do, and what they plan to do to make our congregation forever growing. The theme for the special youth activities was, "The Voice of Youth in This Exposed, Scientific and Space Age."

Carter Chapel

In order to make the gospel more relevant in the changing times in which we live, the pastor of Carter Chapel has undertaken the study of the Bible with his membership. Each Wednesday night at eight o'clock they gather in the sanctuary of the church building to study the Bible. They are now studying the beginning of human society and clan groups.

Each Saturday at ten o'clock, the pastor instructs the young people who come for Bible study.

To enhance these studies, the pastor delivers messages each Sunday on related subjects. Sunday morning message will be "The Inadequacy of Modern Religion". Sunday night's message will be "The Incredible Journey." A Fellowship dinner is prepared each Saturday. This Saturday the Missionary Society will prepare the dinner of turkey and dressing.

The Advisory Board of the Day Care Center announces that the Carter Chapel Child Day Nursery will be open beginning August 17th for those mothers with small children who are returning to work. Call 762-2920 for information.
