Lubbock Woman Charges Police Mistreatment

Seventeen Receive Secretary Training in Texas Tech University Pilot Program

Secretary Trainees at Texas Tech—Seventeen Negro-American and Spanish-American women are enrolled in a pilot secretarial training program at Texas Tech under the direction of Prof. Dolores Kilchenstein of the Department of Business Education and Secretarial Administration, standing at the duplicating machine. Members of the class, all from Lubbock, are front row from left, Louisa Gomez of 3221 Emory, Rebecca Walker of 324 Mitchell, Reese Village, Rita Pride of 1012 E. 28th Street, Apt. D, Isabelle Chavez of 112 S. Avenue N, (seated), Irene Moreno of 313 Avenue W, Ruth Smith of 3002 Fourth Street, Betty Leos of 2706 Duke, Robbie Price of 2901 Teak Avenue, and Lucy Mosqueda of 2711 First Place; back row, from left are Rita Mitchell of 1001 East 28th Street, Apt. 14, Sophia Cadena of 1503 E. First Street, Gwen Wallace of 1502 East 16th Street, Sadie Mosley of 3623 East 15th Place, Alice Hunt of 2406 East 28th Street, Nelda Jackson of 2702 East Second Place, Margie Williams of 1802 East 31st Street and Gwendolyn Cole of 403 Teak.

Lubbock-Seventeen Spanish-American and Negro-American women are dividing their time at Texas Tech University between classroom instruction and on-the-job training in a pilot secretarial training program.

The program, funded totally by Texas Tech, will provide trained and experienced minority people to help meet university staffing needs, according to Charles B. Strawn, director of personnel at Tech, under whose direction the program is being conducted.

First consideration for traineeships was given to Tech employees and five of the class were selected from on campus. The other 12 came from persons who had previously applied for work at Tech and had not been hired.

Six of the class are Spanish-American, 11 are Negro-American. They range in age from 17 to 48 with an average age of 24.

Those who entered the program as job applicants are receiving $1.45 an hour. Salaries of those who entered as employees of Tech range from $1.45 to $1.65 an hour.

"We sought out these people," Strawn said, "from offices on campus by asking department heads with minority employees if any of them was qualified and interested in a course to qualify for 'Secretary I' positions. We also canvassed departments to learn which ones would be willing to cooperate in this program by accepting a trainee and providing on-the-job instruction and experience."

The response from the departments in accepting the pilot program has been "quite encouraging," Strawn said. "The requests for trainees exceeded the number available by approximately two to one."

"The interest and enthusiasm expressed by the responding departments was a clear indication of concern and readiness to do something to improve Texas Tech's employment of minorities," Strawn concluded.

Several days before the filing of a $75,000 suit against the Chief of Police, other City of Lubbock officials and Attorney General John Mitchell here, a black woman claims that she was beaten by Lubbock police.

The woman, Mrs. Deloris Tobe, told a Times reporter that at the corner of East Broadway and Guava Avenue, Saturday night, October 3rd, she felt that two Lubbock policemen used more force than necessary to apprehend her.

"They were beating me so," she said, "I must have passed out because when I came to I was in the police car."

According to the Lubbock woman, a paddy wagon — with two more policemen — came and helped the others. She further stated that when she got to the police station she ran to a "bunch of policemen", which were standing in the station, for protection. She also claims that none of the policemen present would assist her, even though she recognized and knew one of the officers.

She said that she recognized one of the officers at the police station, as William Britt. At that time, she states, she called out to Officer Britt, "Mr. Britt, they are beating me up", and that he replied, "Be quiet and keep your mouth shut".

During the interview, the lady showed this Times reporter bruises on her leg and knee. Her head was sore and she claims that she was apparently hit and beat so much that she passed out.

League of Women Voters Set Poll Watcher's Schools

The League of Women Voters is sponsoring two poll-watcher's schools for the public in the coming week. An evening session will be held in the Arnett Room of Citizens National Bank Monday at 8 p.m. and a morning session at the Monterey Reddi-Room Wednesday at 10:00.

The roll of poll-watchers and their method of selection; responsibilities of election officials; and rights of voting citizens will all be discussed. A mock-election setup will be used to demonstrate various situations at the polls.

These programs will be led by Leaguers Mrs. John A. Anderson and Mrs. Henry Shine. Other committee members are Mmes. Duane Jordan, Donald Coleman, and Max Britt.

All persons who expect to be out of town on November 3 are reminded that absentee voting dates are October 14 through 30. Ballots will be available at the County Court House.

The League of Women Voters is open to all women age 18 or over. Further information about the poll-watcher's school or the League may be obtained by contacting League president, Mrs. Duane Jordan, at 795-9718.

Three Witnesses to Incident

This incident was brought to the attention of this news reporter, due to the efforts of three witnesses, Limual Hereford, Tenolia Dockins and Thomas B. Jackson,

The three were driving north on Guava Avenue Saturday evening and had approached a stop sign when they observed a '63 model Chevrolet four door sedan curbed by a police car. The three stated that they witnessed policemen pulling open the left door of the auto and watched as they yanked an unidentified woman out of the car and pulled her to the ground. As she got up, the witnesses said, one policeman waved Hereford, the driver, on.

Hereford claims that at that point, Mrs. Tobe called to him for help, but the officers told him, "while unbuckling his weapon and waving his flashlight", to move on, this is not your business.

Hereford stated, "I told him it was my business," adding, "I'm a taxpayer and a citizen and we are not paying you (policemen) to beat up on women and man-handle them, no matter what she has done."

Hereford went on to add, "There was no red light on the patrol car or any kind of flashing light." "I never did see Mrs. Tobe run, it would have been impossible for her to run," he continued.

In keeping with the law and not wanting to be involved in breaking the laws of our city, Hereford says he went back to his service station to call the police department and explain what he had witnessed. After calling the police department, he reports that the desk sergeant on duty gave him a negative response.

He claims the desk sergeant told him, "It's none of your business."

Times Tries to Check Story

This story was first reported to our staff on Sunday, October 4th, and on Monday, the 5th, a representative of the Times contacted Mayor Jim Granberry and requested he investigate the situation and inform our office as to what had happened.

Charges were filed Monday against a 38-year-old Lubbock man, John Ross, Jr., of 1028 East 29th Street, after he surrendered to city police following a shooting at the Chimpanzee Lounge. Anna Doris Johnson, 36, of 2206 Fir Avenue died in Methodist Hospital Monday morning following the shooting incident.

According to police, the suspect was accompanied by an attorney when he surrendered, and he turned over a pistol to authorities. He claimed that he was fired upon during the shooting incident.

Dr. Karl A. Menninger to Speak at Texas Tech University Tonight at 8:00

What causes crime? Should we punish or treat the criminal? How can the law-abiding citizen help cure the crime-provoked ills that beset modern society?

Dr. Karl A. Menninger, chairman of the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, will speak out on these and related questions in his lecture here Thursday, tonight, October 8th, under the auspices of the Texas Tech University Speaker Series.

The topic of his 8 p.m. address in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium will be "Shall We Prevent Crime or Prevent Criminals?" The lecture will be open to the public without charge.

Dr. Menninger, a psychiatrist whose views on crime and its causes have gained widespread interest, has contended that Americans actually like crime and seem to encourage it—by refusing to pay higher taxes for better police systems and adequate courts.

The beginning of public wisdom, he maintains, is to understand the criminal's mind. Toward this end, Menninger has contributed some 50 years of study and research and has participated in many projects that attest to his deep concern as well as his understanding of the issues that plague our times.

United Black Coalition Sets Thursday Meeting

A regular meeting, billed as very important, of the United Black Coalition is scheduled for tonight, at 8:00 in the Mae Simmons Multi-Service Center.

So What Else is New?

By T. J. Patterson

"So, what else is new?" That is a question! The question often asked by our publisher when this writer turns in a column. He really isn't asking the question just for "questions sake", but it's the publisher's way of saying, "man, you've beat this dog around the bush several times. Can't you find something more newsworthy, more important to black people, more directed at the issues of the day to write about?"

Usually when this question is directed my way, a wave of anger flashes over me because, being of average ego, I resent having my written work viewed with, "so what else is new?" After swallowing my anger and after much reflection, I usually agree with the man when he asks that fateful question.

This has been especially true in the past several years because I've spent my time groping in what I've called, "the action scene", but with no results from "telling it like it is" to brothers and sisters all over West Texas. In looking at the Eastern region of these United States—where brothers and sisters appear to be doing things—one wonders how these things are being done. I realize that I can't truly evaluate any situation in a week, but as I believe, "one's first day in a classroom sets a good pattern".

Yes, I now agree with the question and I asked it of myself this past week. "What in the hell is new here?" Why are we black people so complacent about progress in our community? Why are we so quick to relate back years ago to what we did and not be concerned about what is going on today?

We are still meeting with each and every committee which comes along and contribute the same old thing — time. Things still remain as they once were and we still are happy to be a part of something where we don't truly belong. We still remain the "figure heads" in many things and never really become a part of something big. Of course Mr. Publisher, this is not new, but at least it's true, and worth bringing to our readers attention again, and again.

For quite some time now, the black brothers and sisters of this community have been informed about the lack of opportunity in our political subdivisions (city and county) and we still go about life here in the same old way each day. We know that there are not any blacks in positions in these areas and still we let bygones be bygones.

At the same time, we still refuse to question the Board of Trustees of the Lubbock Independent School District about the fact that there is a school heavily populated with black boys and girls in the system, yet there are no black teachers anywhere near that one particular school. The administration building is still the same as it was so many years back, no black in administrative positions at all.

What I am trying to bring to the attention of black people is that apparently we either don't care, or the powers that "be" just take for granted that we don't care. There will be news when our black leaders and black ministers and black organizations begin to move in a direction that is newsworthy, and do something about this ridiculous pattern of complacency in the black community.

We've had committees on top of committees here in Lubbock until they began to stink. We've had a committee for everything that looked like it might be a problem here in Lubbock and needed a good, solid, committee burial! It would be news if we stopped lining up for committee service and started calling a spade a spade, and united our efforts for the same cause.

If all those white liberals are so concerned about seeing something done for the minority groups in our community, why don't they show it? That would be news! Or better yet, why don't the politicians make news by doing something that shows results, instead of trying the same old line of promises, promises, promises?

No one will be required to accomplish anything until the black community calls it to someone's attention, and makes it happen.

I must admit that I cannot solve all of the problems of our community, but I can say that it will be news when all of us begin to leave our petty differences outside the meeting area and start some real action in place of so many words.

"So what else is new?" Frankly, I don't know, Mr. Publisher at this time, but one thing I do know, "we must get up and have our actions noticed, if our problems are going to be resolved". As I said in last week's editorial, the grass is whispering!

Austin, Tex.—State Health Department's new and unique Drug Abuse Program promises statewide health services that are not now available in dealing with the dope menace.

Program was outlined by a Health Department official at a recent hearing of the House Committee to study Psychiatric Problems of Youth.

It will be carried out in three steps, offering laboratory services, clinics and an over-view of health factors in the drug area.

Initial action calls for setting up facilities next year in Nueces, Vexar, El Paso, Bowie, Webb and Lubbock Counties (serving 1.7 million people). Beginning in 1972, the program will be established statewide. Cost may be three to five million dollars for the second year period, $1.2 million for the initial pilot program.

Laboratory services will provide surveillance of drug-abuse patients and detect those needing treatment. Department proposes urine tests of patients to determine if illicit drugs still are being used.

Second stage calls for statewide clinics, especially for the median age 19 group, and informational workshops mostly conducted in schools.

Continual study will use computers to correlate facts from the viewpoint of health personnel who deal with the problem daily.

Department believes the program will fill these basic needs not presently available, and without which little chance exists for success in drug abuse control.

Courts Speak—State Supreme Court, following the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, rejected the plea of La Raza Unida party for mandamus directing that its 15 local candidates be placed on the November 3 ballot in Dimmitt, LaSalle and Zavala Counties. Party already has won a place on the ballot in Hidalgo County and will go to federal court to continue its appeal in the other three.

Austin district judge refused to lift restrictions against the Alcoholic Beverage Commission's enforcing the stringent guest rule covering private bottle clubs pending clubs' appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Landowners who oppose building a new University of Texas branch at Odessa filed notice of appeal after District Judge Herman Jones of Austin threw out their suit on September 17.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin sued General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, claiming they conspired to fix prices and eliminate competition in bids on vehicle purchases from governmental units in Texas.

Martin turned an additional $13,744 to the state in anti-trust recovery from the Brass Mill Tube and Pipe case. Recovery now totals $11,345.00.

Polution Book Released—Attorney General Martin released copies of an 188-page booklet on the principal pollution laws of Texas, for the guidance of local governments.

Booklet contains regulations governing water, air, oil and solid waste pollution, together with "how to do it" suggestions for preparing a pollution suit and exchanging information with state agencies.

Martin said he hopes the publication will provide closer cooperation between local units of government, the attorney general's office, the Texas Water Quality Board and the Texas Air Control Board.

Draft Priority Set—Men whose draft lottery numbers were called by local draft boards in 1970, but who were not ordered for induction, will be the top priority group for calls in the first quarter of 1971.

State Selective Service issued the announcement, as did the White House and national draft headquarters.

First quarter draft calls will go to the carry-overs. If calls do not require all of them, they will be placed in a lower priority.

BLACK MILITANCY

By Bobbie Patterson

Webster defines "militant" in its adjective form as "ready and willing to fight". There is an unanswered portion to this definition which may help to clarify "Black Militancy". Ready and willing to fight, for what?

Most people today wonder why so many black people now are so "militant" when at one time they appeared so peaceful. Do you know the difference between peacefulness and complacency?

It is true that the demonstrations, the lynchings, the bombings, the gunshots and the everlasting fangs of discrimination have contributed to this factor. Many are discontent with the long exclusion of books on Afro-American life from this system we live in. This is a nation which has hushed up the story of slave revolts, silenced or ignored black spokesmen considered too radical, and deleted the black experience almost entirely from the context of American history. But let it be known that "black militancy" is not new. It goes far back into slavery, to the many times that a black man resisted being held in human bondage or slavery; to the time of the establishment of the "underground railroads", which helped carry many slaves to free states; to men like W. E.B. DuBois, who was considered one of the most militant black men who ever lived; and to the times when slaves set fire to plantations. Some call it militancy while others called it resistance to being oppressed, or fighting for human rights. The only trouble today is that most of us black people don't really know what our human rights are. (If you will notice, I said "human" not "civil" rights—there is a grave difference).

Keep this in mind; that wearing an Afro, giving the soul shake and black power signs does not make you any "blacker" or any more fit for these rights, unless you practice and believe them.

The flaw in this system has been hypocrisy and you can see it does not work. It is just as hypocritical for the white man to think that "his way and system must be that of all men", as it is for a black man to wear all the symbols of blackness and then take a knife to his black brother.

I am militant because I see black men selling black women for self pleasure; I am militant because I see my people degrading themselves by abusing the aid of the welfare program; I become more militant because I see whites having to come into my community to help little black children because my black people are too busy to take a little time to do so, and as long as my black people refuse to help each other, while busying themselves trying to imitate the white man, I will be militant.

If there are any blacks in the streets of this nation who cannot cite the facts as to exactly why this system does not and will not work, then he has not felt nor does he possess "soul".

my views

By Eddie P. Richardson

We must become more concerned with our community. We need to become more familiar with each other and take more of an interest in what happens to our neighbors and what is happening in our community. We should start by getting to know who lives next door to us and then who lives on our block, in the neighborhood, and then check out so many of our citizens in the city that seem to be running the show. Black organizations should be familiar with other black organizations, meet together occasionally and learn what each other's aims and goals are. It also wouldn't hurt for church organizations, black civic clubs and other local groups to meet together occasionally and discuss common interests and ways to accomplish like goals.

We should stop sitting back and saying what someone else should do and do something ourselves. We criticize the ministers, teachers, leaders, and so-called leaders—and while we are doing that, we are keeping a chair bottom hot! Nobody is doing as much as could be done, but those of us who are doing some little something are so busy praising ourselves our efforts amount to very little progress. We need to forget the "Big I's" and "little you's" and work for a strong, totally united community.

When you look at it objectively, no one has done anything worthwhile, although many of our leaders and so-called leaders take credit for the changes that are really brought about by the changing time. Some even take credit for progress here that is really a direct result of the efforts of our brothers and sisters' suffering in other parts of the country. Each time blacks make progress anywhere in this nation, the vice-grip loosens a little bit more here—while our "show-case" people run out into the spotlight and proclaim, "Look what I did!"

We have got to get together and work for a better total city—forgetting about spotlights—and remembering that everyone must be allowed to produce before we have accomplished anything.

Everyone should make his voice heard. Speak out against what is wrong, and speak up for what is right. Stop thinking that what happens is not your business, and don't let anyone tell you that what happens in your neighborhood or to your neighbors is not your business. Anything that happens in this city that pertains to the welfare of any citizen is everyone's business. Forget about your previous achievements and start asking yourself what you can contribute to the betterment of Lubbock.

As I stated in a previous column. We have some good people here, but poor leadership. Let us strive to develop all of the good potential leadership we have. Apathy, jealousy, and lack of harmony has held back the leadership potential we do have. Let's get together and use some of the very good talent we have here going to waste.

Closing thought; "Let's not remain silent when things are wrong and not as they should be. Let's tell it like it is!"

Black History—Lost-Strayed or Stolen: Chronology as used in history assigns to events and persons their proper historical dates. Without chronology, history can be indefinite and without history chronology will be dry and insipid.

When there are no dates, calendars or almanacs for history, these measures of time had to be invented in order that the vast and vague periods of time might be measured and the mathematical concept of time created.

For example, I. Diggs, noted historian lists the following dates: 3500 B.C. Pre-historic period in the history of Ethiopia extending down to 2500 B.C.; 2500 B.C. to 723 B.C. Preno-historic period in the history of Ethiopia. This includes: A. The Napatan Period-1723 to 308 B.C. B. The Middle-Meroitic Period 308 B.C. to 10 A.D. C. The Late Meroitic Period, 10 A.D. to 355 A.D. In 1703 B.C. Aahmes founded a new empire which lasted fifteen hundred years. Nefertari, "the most venerated figure of Egyptian history" was his queen.

Egypt is generally recognized as one of the important cradles of civilization. More later.

The Fish Ministry: Our special thanks to Doug Ford, associate pastor of Memorial Christian Church and to Mrs. Elsie Magee and Ernest A. Weichert for the valuable information furnished this column on a ministry for laymen and clergy that we trust will catch fire in the Permian Basin and in all West Texas for that matter.

In many communities throughout the United States Fish members provide services like these: 1. Cook meals and handle laundry for large families where parents are often ill; 2. Drive sick and elderly persons to a hospital or outpatient facility; 3. Read to a blind person; 4. Take over baby-sitting duties temporarily in a broken home; 5. Help a poor family find a home or furniture; 6. Do housework or simply provide companionship for an elderly shut-in. (You name the task—we print it). In an impersonal era, The Fish is an expression of Christian love on the most basic level—man to man. If you would like more information contact Doug Ford at Memorial Christian Church in Midland or this column in care of this newspaper.

The State B.M. & E. Convention will be held in Atlanta, Texas, October 13th through 16th.

The honor service held for Rev. Sykes was very enjoyable for everyone who attended.

The West Texas Baptist District Board will meet at St. Matthews Baptist Church November 10, 11, and 12th. Rev. R. S. Stanley is pastor.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for Mrs. Vera Mitchell's niece.

The Lord has blessed New Hope Baptist Church with the purchasing of three lots across the street facing Ash Avenue.

Greater St. Luke Baptist

A special appreciation hour will be held Sunday, October 11th, at 3 p.m., with guest churches from Macedonia Baptist of Midland, Rev. H. F. Doyle; Ebenezer Baptist of Hobbs, New Mexico, Rev. F. W. Wells; St. John Baptist, Rev. E. D. Toines; New Light Baptist, Rev. Swisher; and Rev. C. D. Collins with our congregation.

Mt. Vernon United Methodist

We are called upon to elect at least three officers for the work of the commissions. Dr. Marvin L. Boyd has given time to elect chairmen for the Council on Ministry, the Administration Board and charge Lay-Leader. These are key persons in the church. Did you know that Sunday is Laymen Day?

Our Charge Conference is to be November 15th. Dr. Boyd would like for every person that is to make a report to please have them ready. This is to be Sunday morning at the close of worship.

been set at 100. We will be trying to have 100 students in our Bible school each Sunday morning. Bible school starts at 9:15 a.m. each Lord's Day. Last Sunday morning we had a few more new students present. We were below our goal. Let us try very hard to reach our goal each Sunday. So plan now to come to Sunday school and bring someone with you.

Brother Evans is the only member at this time that has been reported to be on the sick list. His condition is unknown at this time. Let us continue to pray in his behalf so that he may have a speedy recovery. Go by and visit with him and do whatever you can to let him know that you are concerned about your brother in Christ.

Sister Henderson, Sister McLone and Brother Pitts remain on the shut-in list.

Mt. Gilead Baptist Church

The Baptist Training Union would like to thank everyone for their participation in their lunch program last week.

Sister H. M. Johnson lost a brother in Jasper, Texas. She left Lubbock Wednesday to attend the services.

Members present at Sunday school last week numbered 45.

St. Paul Baptist Church

The public is cordially invited to come out and hear the Star Light Spiritual Singers of Lubbock on Sunday, October 11th, at 3 p.m. Our church is located at 1802 Avenue B, Rev. J. S. Lord, minister.

Rising Star Missionary Baptist

The services for the day began with the Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. with Supt. Morris at his post. After the school devotion, the school proceeded to their respective classes. The review was held in the church sanctuary with Supt. Morris in charge.

In the 11 a.m. services devotion was held by the deacons and singing was by the congregation.

Our pastor, Rev. R. J. Dixon, brought the morning message entitled, "What Kind Are You?" He illustrated the Christians of today as being like the many fish of the sea, using practically all species in his illustrations. His text was found in the Book of St. Matt., 13:47.

In the evening services the Lord's Supper was administered by Pastor Dixon, assisted by the deacons and deaconesses of the church.

The pastor and bretheren made their rounds in visiting the sick and offered prayer and scripture lessons.

Those who are shut-in and desire prayer call us at the church on Saturdays and Sundays and we will be there to render service.
