National Program Launched to Boost Economic Gains of Black People

The West Texas Times learned from a recent publication of Jet Magazine that a national program has been launched to boost gains of black people.

The program is taking another giant step in the development of black economy and aims a major onslaught against "those sectors of the establishment which would deny racial minorities economic justice," according to Rev. Jesse Jackson. He will coordinate this program which has grown from the well accepted "Operation Breadbasket." "We call it RESIST," exclaims the Chicago-based national director of SCLC's Breadbas-ket, "and it's the hottest thing since the wheel."

"RESIST is a bold, new blackprint for the economic organization of our people. The blackprint is not new. It is, in fact, a throwback to the philosophy of my idol and mentor, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., who united a force of 50,000 blacks in Montgomery, Ala., in a historic bus boycott which put the bus company out of the segregation business," explained Jackson.

"RESIST operates on a devastatingly simple plan. Anyone who so desires can participate. You can pay $5 for annual participation. You pledge to support RESIST and its selective buying campaigns and boycotts against business establishments which discriminate against blacks in hiring and promotion.

"You pledge to RESIST the evil of economic exploitation," Rev. Jackson continues, "by denying your support to businesses which will not advertise in the black press, will not support black banks, will not use black services and products or do business with black businesses."

Boy Scout Program in East Lubbock Moving Forward on Several Fronts

Troop 102, a newly organized Boy Scout effort in East Lubbock, had its first Council Ceremony last week at their regular meeting place in the South Plains Boys Club.

The troop meets every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. The Scoutmaster is Raymond Peppers, an instructor at Estacado High School. He is assisted by Lee Hunter, assistant Scoutmaster.

A special meeting was held last Sunday afternoon at the South Plains Boys Club to discuss the progress of the troop. Peppers presented to the interested men present a review of the work to date.

Steps were taken at the meeting to secure another meeting place, since the newly organized troop has outgrown the present facilities. A special committee has been appointed to find another meeting place within the same neighborhood for the Scouts to meet each week.

Another committee was appointed to bring back an organizational chart showing the various phases of progress of the Scouting program in East Lubbock. Both committees will report Sunday afternoon.

In another development, it was announced early this week that T. J. Patterson, editor of the Times, along with publisher Norman L. Williamson and Scout official Mike Stevens had volunteered to serve as trustees of a fund comprised of donations received lately for the East Lubbock Scouts.

Several students of Texas Tech University have volunteered their time to help in the operation of Troop 102. This will include preparing the Scouts for merit badges, and they will also work with the Mary & Mac Private School Boy Scout Troop 136.

The committee of interested men of the community will meet again this Sunday afternoon, February 7th, at 3 p.m. at the South Plains Branch of the Boys Club.

The Three Degrees sing soul numbers "I Do Take You" and "You're the One."

Magician Presto the Great makes objects disappear and reappear right before the Soul! cameras.

"Up Against The Wall" With Lorin Hollander Scheduled on Channel 5 Tomorrow Evening

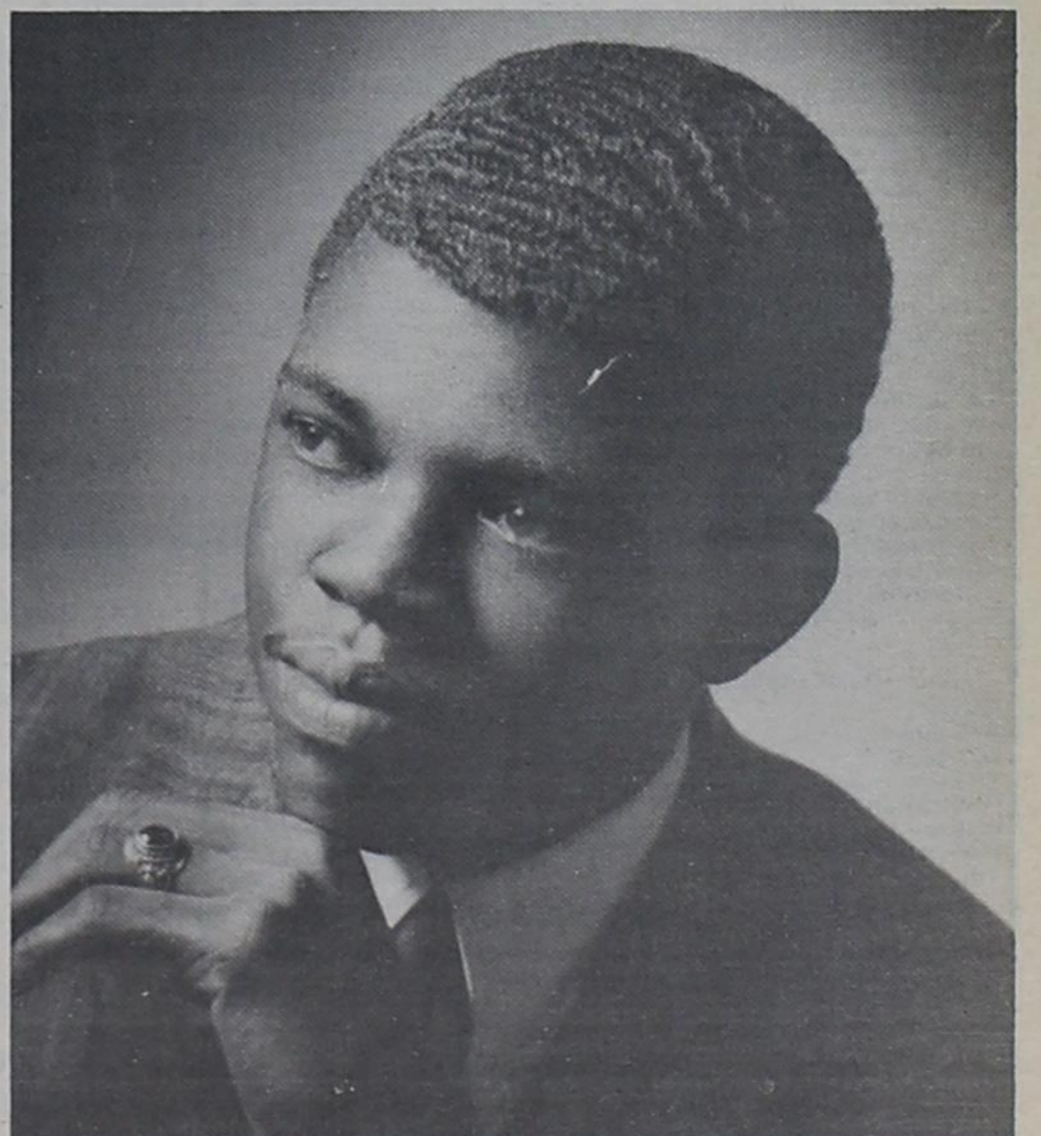

Classical pianist Lorin Hollander, trained at Juilliard School of Music, is considered one of America's finest young artists. While his success on the concert stage is familiar to many, these experiences have been equalled in recent years by success on another kind of stage, the high school classroom. Here he can reach a new audience, turned off by classical music, unsure of the relevance of classical musician can have in its lives. For Lorin Hollander, change must come through communication.

In "Up Against The Wall", Hollander's sense of commitment, fervor and personal dynamics is conveyed with rare poignancy in his exchanges with 23 students from Philadelphia's Edison High School, located in a hard-core ghetto neighborhood where gang violence is a familiar terror. These teenagers, led by Hollander, speak

Problems Seen at Dunbar High School

by T. J. Patterson

It's unfortunate that because of numerous trivial incidents, problems are being seen at Dunbar High School. It has reached the point where parents, students and interested persons of the community are complaining about the situation in the East Lubbock high school composed of black, brown and white students.

From a quick and unpromising analysis, school spirit is down and personnel turn-over has hurt the successful outcome of the first forced attempt at high school integration here in Lubbock. This can be seen with the replacement of three band directors, two choir directors and the athletic program dropping far below average in the last year.

It is the responsibility of the parents, as well as the school's administration, to work—hand in hand—to help fight some of the problems presently existing at the school. No parent has the right to expect the school to rear their youngsters—nor is it fair for the administration of the school to close lines of communication with the parents.

The problems of this school cannot be blamed on any one individual, just simply because the main fault lies with years of established practices within the entire system. There is, without any doubt, pressure from the top (administration) and pressure from the bottom (students) helping build the tensions and misunderstandings. The young people are looking for someone to understand their problems, and this type of situation leaves the school's administration in an awkward position, since everyone expects them to maintain control of the institution. In other words, this type of situation leaves the man in command in water up to his neck and many ripples or waves will certainly drown his efforts—regardless who the individual is.

Prior to the integration of Dunbar pressures were not as great as can now be seen. At that time, the school was made up of an almost all black student body, predominantly black faculty and rested on the neighborhood, "our school, our team" spirit. Since integration, it appears as though the school has been split down the middle, with different factions working against each other, rather than for the school. Integration, as offered to our community, means working together—certainly not working against, and we have seen a gradual split in Dunbar primarily because of trivial reasons.

This is a serious problem, since it will affect the future of our young people. And because of its serious nature, there must be more involvement on the part of everyone concerned, parents, interested citizens, faculty members and most of all the students themselves. The time has passed when we can allow ourselves the luxury of sitting back and talking about the shortcomings of our school. The time has come when we must get to work, now, solving our own problems.

Our young people are grumbling, and we can't afford to brush the problems under the rug. We do have problems in Dunbar High School, but we can work these problems out if we all decide now to get to work and correct the misunderstandings.

Let's get to work—we can do the job!

Crossing Light for Posey A Must!

by T. J. Patterson

Several weeks ago, the West Texas Times made it clear in this space that there should be something done about the problem arising from the lack of a blinking school crossing light on Quirt Avenue where Posey Elementary students cross enroute to school.

Last week this editor received a call from a concerned citizen who stated that she witnessed a driver, exceeding the speed limit, who had to stop very quickly to avoid hitting a young lad enroute to school at the above mentioned spot. Aside from this, there was a young lad who was killed Sunday afternoon on East 19th Street at the Oak Avenue intersection. Of course, the East 19th Street traffic is a different type of travel, but it is not far from the area which so badly needs blinking traffic lights for the Posey youngsters.

It is imperative that some type of preventative medicine be implemented for our young people who are crossing this busy traffic artery in our community! Let's not wait too long and become sorry that precaution was not taken soon enough.

Quirt Avenue—from East 19th Street to 4th Street—is a busy area and many people drive through this area from sun-up to very late in the evening. The powers that be in our city government should do something now—to make this particular crossing safer for our young people.

There Are Also Solutions

by Eddie P. Richardson

In line with the survey of the Top Ten Problems of our area, here are "My Views" on some of the problems and also some solutions.

"Trouble don't last always", says an old Negro spiritual, but Ole Man Trouble has pitched his teepee square in the middle of the 20th Century and settled down for a record run. In times like these, white people seeking a panacea for their problems might take a lesson from the black man on how to live in a troubled world. The black man is an expert. He has known nothing but trouble all of his life. His grievances are multiple; for he has all the white man's fears and doubts plus the additional burden of being black.

Still the black man can smile, for the progress he has made up from slavery to his present status—short of first class citizenship though it is—is one of the most remarkable advancements in the history of mankind. In the process he has learned to turn his liabilities into assets, to adjust to that which he has no control over and have faith in his ability to overcome all of the obstacles between himself and full equality.

The white liberals have become the new power elite. Their basic economic and political theories are now being translated into action after decades of ideological subservience to conservatism. The new elite is liberal, but it is just as white! Its creed aside, had the new power elite not been white, it could have never come to power.

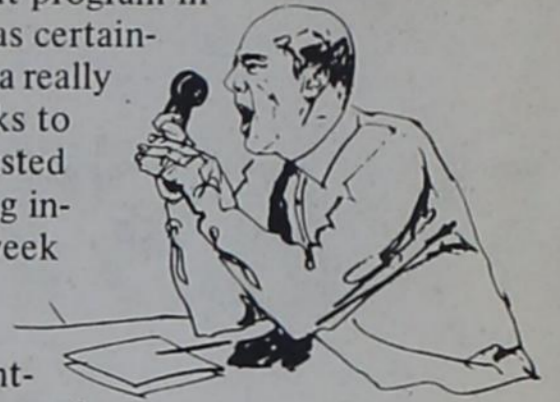

The white liberal is not a happy man. I know, I have encountered him in lecture halls, restaurants, and various meetings across the nation at one time or another. His theory is; "I don't hate nobody, I am not prejudice, but I don't know what to do about the problems."

May I suggest; Turn my hand loose, let me do it myself. Cooperate with me, work with me, but let me chart my own destiny. Let me build pride by doing things my self. Inform me, but please, stop trying to lead me and my people by the hand.

A second problem concerns our schools. Everyone says the black schools are not up to standard. They claim they are inferior, inadaquately equiped and not completely furnished. The solution would be simple, bring them up to par and stop

From The Business Desk

The Boy Scout program in East Lubbock has certainly jumped off to a really great start, thanks to some very interested and hard-working individuals. Last week troop 102 held its first Honor Court and presented the boys with merit badges. Last Sunday the interested individuals I mentioned before got together to help chart and plan the future for the East Lubbock Scouts. And this week the boys received a great deal of much needed and greatly appreciated publicity in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal concerning the need for financial support and for used Cub Scout and Boy Scout uniforms.

The offers of help have come from every direction, and in every form, and many people have directed their donations to the Scout office in the form of money, since some have no uniforms and still wish to help. In the process, a fund has been established to help the East Lubbock Boy Scout program, and your newspaper, the West Texas Times, was asked and has volunteered to administer this fund.

Mr. Patterson and myself, along with Mike Stevens, Scout official, will administer the fund for the entire East Lubbock program, which I understand numbers two Cub Scout packs, two Boy Scout troops and a pending Explorer Post for older boys and girls. We will not solicit funds, nor will we be able to personally underwrite anything, but I feel sure we can help—just simply because so many have offered to help.

If any of our readers would like to help, send your offer either to the local Boy Scout office and if you wish it to go to the East Lubbock boys, mark it so, or send it to us c/o West Texas Times, Box 225, Lubbock, Texas zip 79408. The boys and their counselors will certainly appreciate the help.

shuffling kids around like animals. It's so simple it's hard to say in one sentence and make it sound like the answer.

The church is the most powerful and respected institution in the black community, and could be the leading force in all people's struggle against injustice. If all churches in the South would stand up for the rights of the black, there would be no more unsolved murder and allowed brutality.

But if the church is to do this, it must move quickly. Blacks will not relent their struggle for rights; and through the church they may compel their white brothers of all faiths to join them in a struggle that they understand they cannot win alone. As Frederick Douglas said many years ago, "This is a struggle to save black men's bodies and white men's souls."

The church today is the same church which John called, "lukewarm," from the island of Patmos, and which Paul and the Deciples struggled so vigorously to save from their own sin. If such as these and our Lord can give their lives to the redemption and salvation of man, so can we. In this day and time, when all the forces of history are in a tremendous flux, the church can speak out with clarity and vision, pointing the way.

If the church takes this challenge and opportunity, the whole world will shout for joy, and the sons of God will weep no more; but if we fail the writers of our history will say that, in the time of trial, the church and Christians were weighed in the balance and found wanting, and this was the beginning of the end of an age.

The fourth problem we can take is a close look in our community concerning unemployment and underemployment—the latter being of the "show case" aspect.

About the only solution, and probably the hardest to grasp, is to have complete community effort toward creating more and better job opportunities. But jobs are not created because of high ideals, or because everyone would like to be able to work. Jobs are created because a myriad of things in our society are working together and working right. And because of the great number of things that must be worked right, it is going to take a great deal of cooperation from lots of people—another problem we all—white and black—must eventually face up to.

The solution to the "show case" aspect is to hire more qualified members of minorities in key positions, or to elevate those working to key positions—instead of just meeting quotas.

All-American History Month Observed in West Texas—Americans of all ethnic and religious backgrounds will take a new look and see study of many great Americans during the month of February.

February will also be observed in many sections of our country as Brotherhood Month, launched a number of years ago by the National Conference of Catholics, Protestants and Jews.

Black profiles or courage and inspiration: In West Texas, one person who has lived a life working with and loving humanity for a long, long time, has been Mrs. Alberta Allen of 117 East B Street, in Monahans, Texas.

Red Cross Still Working With Some Tornado Victims

The aftermath of the May 11 tornado lingers for the American Red Cross—and it may hang on for some time to come.

Still open are 53 cases in which the Red Cross is providing aid, and some of these may not be closed for months due to individual circumstances.

David Burchett, chairman of the Lubbock County Chapter of Red Cross, points out that the 53 cases are included in the $750,000 which the national service organization has poured into Lubbock to assist victims of the tornado.

The 53 unclosed cases involve primarily medical and housing aid.

Burchett said that 1300 other cases have been closed, some of them only recently. Assistance in those instances ranged from building new homes to providing food, clothing, medical aid, and lost occupational tools.

"In every one of these instances, the aid was in the form of grant," Burchett emphasized. "No individual who receives Red Cross disaster assistance is required to repay the funds provided."

Some individuals and families received several thousand dollars in Red Cross aid. Basic criterion for the assistance is that the recipient have no personal resources such as savings, tangible assets or insurance.

Although the Red Cross disaster aid office closed here in late July, three of the workers in that office will return to Lubbock on Monday to assist in the remaining 53 cases, all of which were opened prior to the disaster office shutdown.

"The three professional workers will be here up to several weeks, if necessary, to take whatever action is needed in providing assistance in the pending cases," Burchett said.

Prayer Corner

by Sister Berta L. Dixon

The Basis of God's Reward

God will see to it every man gets his proper reward. The Kingdom of Heaven is unto man who is a householder. It is important to work daily in the vineyard. Mercy is not judged by human standards. It is necessary for us to have the right spirit, attitude, and faith while we work with others. The church emphasis is the love of man.

We must be true and faithful to our fellowman as we continue to work in the vineyards. God is faithful, true and His reward is everlasting friendship and eternal life. The Lord is merciful, glorious and He loves His people.

Rising Star Missionary Baptist Church

Services for the day began with school opening for all ages at 9:45 a.m. with Supt. Morris at his post of duty. The lesson was well taught and discussed and reviewed by the superintendent.

We are happy to see our adults take an active part in the Sunday School.

The 11 a.m. services opened with the devotion by the deacons of the church and songs of inspiration by the congregation. Sister Edwards was at the piano.

The message was brought by Pastor Dixon, entitled, "The Blind Man Healed". Scripture lesson was found in the Book of St. John, 9: 1. This was an illustration of only a portion of God's Miracles through his Son, Jesus.

In the evening services, Pastor Dixon spoke from the second epistle to the Corinthians, II Cor. 4:3, using as his theme, "A Hidden Gospel."

Greater Love Baptist Church

The pastor, Rev. Jefferson, and the members of our church wish to thank their many friends for the fine way they responded Sunday night. We had a good time and are hoping for equally as good a time this Sunday evening, February 7th, at 3 p.m. when Rev. Anderson and his church, from Lockney, will be our guests.

Mount Gilead Baptist Church

Our congregation has just implemented a cleaning committee. Sister H.M. Johnson is chairman. Those on the committee include Sisters Gadison, Evans, Titus, Thompson, Williams, Mitchell and Brothers Loggins and Whitfield.

The Senior Choir will serve dinners in the kitchen on Saturday the 6th of February.

Mount Vernon United Methodist Church

Last Sunday was known as T.A.N.E. Field Day in West Texas. It is through this method TANE communicates with the people of the church in presenting the facts and effects of alcohol and narcotics by challenging, encouraging and enlisting each individual to personal involvement.

Our speaker last Sunday was Rev. Mr. Walter Carlton, who spoke on the TANE concept. Rev. M.T. Reed, minister, is a member of the board of directors of TANE, Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education.

Great plans are being made for the Mammoth Tea which will be held in the very near future.

Our visitors last Sunday included Mrs. Lillian Jefferson of El Paso, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moore, all of Levelland, Texas; Miss Vela Joan Worthington of Marshall, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. John Anderson, Dale Anderson, Miss Ossie Mae Horton, Earl Horton, Miss Rachel Divers, Miss Barbara Somerville, Miss Willene Gipson, Mrs. C.E. Fair, Mrs. L.H. Griffin and Ulysses Kelly; all of Lubbock.

Obedience is the first step to the approach toward God in worship. Silence is second, for we listen for the voice of God.

New Hope Baptist Church

The True Light Spiritual Singers of Midland, Texas, will sing at our church Sunday, February 21, at 3 and 8 p.m. Let us make plans for this great program of singing.
