Job Corps is "Springboard" For Higher Education

Warren Rhodes, an eighth-grade dropout, points to the U.S. Labor Department's Job Corps as the springboard for the Ph.D. he now holds in clinical psychology.

An associate professor at Delaware State College, Rhodes, a trim six feet, recently completed his residency in clinical psychology at the University of Mississippi Medical Center at Jackson.

One of four children of working parents, Rhodes was reared in a Baltimore, Md., community marked by young street gangs. "It was sort of a survival-of-the-fittest climate," says the 29-year-old black.

"I was a good fighter and I took what I wanted—the more I took the more I wanted. We were poor but not on welfare. My father was a maintenance man with no formal education and my mother was a cook."

With no interest in school, he failed the sixth-grade and barely passed the seventh.

He failed the eighth-grade three times and finally dropped out at 16, the earliest age one can quit school in Baltimore without being considered a truant.

By this time Rhodes was into drugs and had been arrested several times.

After several menial jobs, he became determined to get away from crime and squallor.

Why the abrupt change in attitude?

"My brother and I were still running the streets with a gang when I put him in a situation which almost cost his life. That experience shook me, and I realized I needed help—I needed to change. I had heard some spot announcements on the radio about Job Corps and decided to look into it," Rhodes explains.

Job Corps is a national program of more than 60 residential centers in 31 states and Puerto Rico. By providing basic education, vocational training, counseling, health care and similar renewal services for disadvantagged young men and women aged 16 through 21, Job Corps helps prepare them for jobs and responsible citizenship.

At the Breckinridge (Ky.), Job Corps center Rhodes found a new way of life. For the first time, he had a perfect attendance record.

"The recognition I got for this encouraged me and gave me the kinds of support I needed," he says.

When Rhodes left Breckinridge the following July, he had training in sales and through the Job Corps, got a job in a Baltimore retail store.

Things went well until Rhodes approached his supervisor concerning a promotion and was told he would need a high school diploma.

Rhodes considered returning to the Job Corps to get his GED equivalency diploma. This would be easier, he felt, than staying at home where his mother wanted him to continue working.

But the screening officer at Job Corps told him he was "running away."

"What this man said to me really had a lasting influence," Rhodes says. "He told me, 'If getting your high school diploma is so important to you, you should stay where you are, work in the daytime and go to school at night. It is difficult, but you can do it if you really want to.'"

"I was really mad for about three hours. Then it dawned on me that he was being truthful, and I've always been grateful."

Rhodes' employer cooperated by letting him work a flexible schedule.

After passing the GED (high school equivalency test) in 1969, Rhodes immediately enrolled in Morgan State College in Baltimore as a psychology major. He graduated magna cum laude in 1973.

With enthusiasm and an outstanding undergraduate record behind him, Rhodes did not

Job Training Programs Offered

Job training programs at the McKinney, Texas job Corps Center have been expanded to include training in four Union programs. The new program offerings which are available to men and women between the ages of 16-21 from Lubbock include Union Carpentry, Bricklayer, Painting and Plastering.

The Job Corps Center in McKinney, located 30 miles north of Dallas, offers a total of nineteen different job training programs that have produced 9,800 Center placements with business and industry.

Commenting on the new Center programs, Center Director John Miller stated, "We feel very fortunate that we were selected by the Labor Unions to provide job training in employment areas where skilled people are needed."

Continuing, Miller said, "The Center was selected for training by the Unions because of the outstanding reputation we have developed with the business and industrial community in training and placing disadvantaged young men and women in jobs."

Prerequisites for entry into Union Carpentry, Bricklayer, Painting and Plastering programs for young men and women from Lubbock require that all students be at least 16 years and 6 months of age with an 8th grade reading and math level.

Job Corps students entering training in all Union programs have the opportunity to obtain their G.E.D. diploma if they did not graduate from high school.

After a year of job training and graduation from a Union training program, the McKinney Center graduate becomes associated with a Union Field Coordinator who works with both the student and Local Unions for entry into a Union apprenticeship training program.

Job Placement officials at the McKinney Center stated that the Center has a placement rate of 94.7% as reported by the United States Department of Labor. The number and percentage of job placements ranks the McKinney Center as one of the top rated Job Corps Centers in America.

Men and women, ages 16-21, from Lubbock interested in signing up for Job Corps should contact their nearest Texas Employment Commission Office.

SCLC Hits Racism in Military

Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) president Rev. Dr. Joseph E. Lowery announced that the organization is stepping up its offensive against racism in the U.S. armed services.

"We are increasingly alarmed at the number of complaints we have been receiving from black servicemen," he said, "and are highly critical of the disproportionate number of dishonorable and less than honorable discharges they have been receiving."

Dr. Lowery said SCLC is investigating some 25 complaints black soldiers at Fort Stewart-Hunter near Savannah, Ga., have filed with SCLC's Jacksonville, Fla., chapter. The organization plans to hold hearings at Ft. Stewart, and possibly other bases, to "substantiate the need for Congressional investigation."

Dr. Lowery indicated that he, SCLC board chairman Cong. Walter Fauntroy, and SCLC staff people would sit on the hearing panels, and that he has been in contact with Cong. Ron Dellums, a black member of the House Armed Services Committee, about the hearings.

Though Dan Flood Was Indicted Friends Say He Won't Falter

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—Favors are part of a politician's stock-in-trade. He is expected to produce government jobs, public works projects and government contracts for the people he represents. All of these federal blessings can be arranged within the constraints of the law and ethics.

The people at home are supposed to be grateful and show their appreciation at the ballot box. The congressman, in his turn, can express his gratitude to the government agencies by supporting their appropriations.

It is sometimes a clumsy system, a throwback to the less artful days of government. But it seems to work.

Rep. Dan Flood, D-Pa., is skilled in the intricacies of this system. As evidence, his hometown of Wilkes-Barre is dotted with monuments to his ability to deliver the spoils.

Within its boundaries are a Daniel J. Flood industrial park, a Daniel J. Flood elderly center, a Daniel J. Flood rural health center and a Daniel J. Flood elementary school. They are a measure of his exaltation, like the jewels proffered an oriental monarch.

But Flood hasn't always been content to await a new Daniel J. Flood facility. We began reporting in October 1972 that he sometimes traded favors for cash. We wrote that his office was "deeply involved in fixing contracts." We identified his top assistant, Stephen Elko, as his bagman.

There was no set price for Flood's benevolence. Like a doctor or lawyer, he allegedly charged what he felt the petitioner could afford to pay.

Two years ago, we reported that evidence of Flood's financial finagling had been turned over to the House Ethics Committee. Then the Justice Department began investigating. Finally, the bagman, Stephen Elko, began singing to the prosecutors.

Last week, Flood was indicted by a federal grand jury on three counts of perjury. He was accused of lying about the payoffs he allegedly received.

It was a sad day for Wilkes-Barre, where he is a hero. But the gloom apparently hasn't affected Dan Flood. He is the House's most flamboyant member. He sports a pencil-thin waxed mustache. His suits are elegantly tailored. He resembles an aging vaudeville actor and performs as if he were constantly on stage.

Those who know him say there will be no whimpering. At age 74, his step may not be as jaunty as it used to be. But his waxed mustache is bristling with indignation. He hasn't lost his flair. His friends promise that he will give the jury a show.

Sweeten the Pot: Americans have a sweet-tooth weakness, a national addiction to sugar. It is found in almost everything we eat. Children are weaned on sugar from the time they begin eating their candy-coated breakfast cereals.

This has created a booming marketing for the sugar producers. But they are still not happy. The sugar daddies complain that they are not making enough profit. They are victims, they say, of inflation and competition.

So the producers want Congress to give them some relief. The sugar lobbyists are working the backrooms of Congress, seeking an increase in federal sugar subsidies.

The White House is opposed. President Carter's economists point out that the measure would cost consumers more than $1 billion a year. They have the support of Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio. He took the trouble of ordering a study on sugar profits. The General Accounting Office discovered that the industry's profits are cyclic.

In 1974, for example, the industry earned a staggering $1.5 billion. Now the profits are down a little. So the producers want the taxpayers to make up the difference, so they can continue to live in the manner to which they have become accustomed.

Master Spy: William Colby used to be the director of the Central Intelligence Agency. He was supposed to be a master spy, who could see without being seen. Apparently, he is now using his skills in civilian life.

Last June, a Maryland woman named Sheila Gearhart filed a lawsuit against Colby and other officials. She is the widow of Daniel Gearhart, an American who was executed by guerrillas in Angola in 1976. The widow charges in her suit that her husband was lured into Angola by a clandestine CIA propaganda program.

But it took several days for federal marshals to serve the complaint on Colby. On the first visit, a marshal knocked on Colby's door, but no one answered. The marshal's notes state that someone "came to the window and moved the curtain (but) didn't come to the door."

Three days later, the marshal tried again. This time he heard a dog bark and saw someone at the window. But there was no response to his knock. He finally served the complaint on Colby's wife the next day.

"I can't explain it," Colby told us. He said the person in his home could have been his daughter or mother-in-law, either of whom would have been reluctant to open the door when a stranger knocked.

Watch on Waste: The Navy has spent $600,000 for metal suits designed to protect workers from microwave radiation. But the suits are hot, heavy and cumbersome, and workers are refusing to wear them. Apparently, they would rather take their chances with the microwaves.

from 84.8 per cent to an unprecedented average monthly percentage of 93.5 per cent during the month of August 1978.

Interest rates have increased from six per cent to seven per cent, and total interest earned on the state's operating funds amounted to nearly $117.8 million during the last 11 months—an increase of 30.8 per cent over the previous 11 months.

Interest earned from state funds amounted to $13.4 million last month, an all time record.

Exports Climb

Exports by Texas farmers and ranchers increased 16 per cent during 1977, according to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Brown predicted Texas will provide a large share of the $26.6 billion in agriculture exports the U.S. will originate this year.

Texas exports increased an estimated 16 per cent last year over 1976. Value of 16 selected major commodities totalled nearly $1.2 billion, Brown said.

Brown reported Texas farmers now harvest one in every three acres for the export market.

Cotton led exports from Texas last year, with a total of nearly $560 million.

Texas cotton production may drop to 3.7 million bales this year, however, from 5.5 million bales in 1977.

Grain sorghum was the second big money maker, with a value estimated at $191 million.

GOP Wants Primary

Texas Republicans revised their party rules to provide for a presidential preference primary in 1980.

In effect, the GOP defied the Democratic-controlled legislature which is not expected to approve a preference primary due to opposition from all Demo factions.

Republican leaders, in their state convention, said they are prepared to go to court if necessary to protect their right to choose presidential nominating delegates in a direct election.

Texas has had only one experience with a presidential preference primary for both parties—in 1976. That primary was approved in 1975, but the legislature inserted a self-destruct provision which provided that the authorization would not extend beyond the 1976 election year.

Lawmakers tried to revive the primary bill in 1977, but the effort died in the Senate.

Income Taxable

State employees must pay income taxes on additional take-home due to the state's paying their Social Security contributions, the Internal Revenue Service has ruled.

That meant the employees won't get as big a pay raise as they anticipated this fiscal year.

The legislature voted to give the employees an across the board pay boost of 3.4 per cent in 1977 and to assume the 5.85 per cent contribution (on the first $16,500 of salary) to Social Security.

Lawmakers attempted to make the contribution tax free in a special law approved during the August special session, but IRS wouldn't go along.

Short Snorts

A district court here held there is no clear prohibition against the state's doing its own printing. Commercial printers challenged the state's big printing operation.

A massive revision of the complex Texas Election Code is being undertaken by a commission.

Horse racing advocates are launching a new drive to win legislative approval of pari-mutuel wagering on a local option basis at non-profit tracks.

A commissioners court is not authorized to direct payment of a claim made without an appropriate purchase order, and a county auditor is prohibited from paying such a claim, Attorney General John Hill said in a new opinion.

Securities registered for public sale in Texas during the last fiscal year soared over the two and a half billion dollar mark last fiscal year for the first time in the 21-year history of the State Securities Board.

AUSTIN—Now the State Board of Insurance has approved a 3.2 per cent statewide average increase in auto insurance rates effective November 1.

The latest raise will boost insurance premiums $35 million overall for private passenger vehicle coverage.

A 26.6 per cent statewide average increase was also approved by the board in commercial coverages which will raise those premiums another $27 million. The industry has sought a 28.9 per cent boost in that category.

Statewide auto insurance rates have not changed since October 1, 1976.

Companies then asked for a 17.4 per cent raise and the board staff recommended a 10.1 per cent increase.

But insurance board chairmen refused to approve increases at the time.

Typical rates by counties include:

Harris County, up $14; Jefferson County, up $17; Tarrant County, up $7; Bexar County, down $2; El Paso, down $6; Orange County, up $16; Nueces, down $1; Bowie County, no change; East Texas oil field area, down $4; Lubbock, down $2; Taylor County, up $8; Webb County, up $8; Grayson County, down $2; Potter and Randall Counties, up $17; Rio Grande Valley, up $4; Tom Green County, down $1;

All of our home appliances have been "falling apart" lately it seems. Just this summer we've had to replace a washer, dryer, and refrigerator. In selecting replacement appliances I made sure I considered not only the initial price but the life-cycle cost as well.

Considering the life-cycle cost of owning an appliance is a new, but very important consideration for most shoppers. According to a study, the energy cost for operating refrigerators constitutes 58% of the total life-cycle cost. What does this mean to you?

While you are concerned about the initial sale price of a new appliance, the sale price is only a small part of the cost of owning some appliances. According to the above study, operating cost will be greater than the initial sale price within the 15 to 16 year life of a refrigerator. As energy costs steadily rise the operating costs may be greater, thus operation will account for a greater and greater portion of the "Cost" of an appliance figured over its lifetime. Keep these alternatives in mind when making decisions based on the life-cycle cost of the appliance.

First, choose the size of equipment that will best meet your family's needs now and in the future. For example, select a refrigerator based on the next 15 years. Avoid larger freezer space than you can use because freezer space is most expensive to keep at 0° temperature. Shop for energy efficiency features such as thicker insulation, especially in the freezer section, and energy saver switches to deactivate the dehumidifier when not needed.

Operating an appliance efficiently is as important as buying energy efficient models. Iowa State University tests indicate that energy consumption is less when a refrigerator door is open less frequently, even if opened for longer periods of time. Also, remember these tips when operating your refrigerator:

- Take advantage of counter space next to the refrigerator to collect items to be returned to the refrigerator with one opening.
- Plan meal preparation to remove as many items as possible at each opening.

- Locate the refrigerator where it can operate at maximum efficiency. Avoid locating it next to or directly opposite from a heat source such as a range or dishwasher. A buffer such as drawers or cabinet space located between them will reduce the heat transfer to the refrigerator.

- Locate out of direct air flow from air conditioning and heating vents.

- Keep the freezer compartment filled. Less energy is needed to keep frozen foods at 0° than to keep air space at 0°.

- If a frost free model, place items so that air can circulate around food.

- If manual defrost, defrost the freezer section when frost is less than 1/2 inch thick. Frosty ice takes up space and insulates foods, making it more difficult to keep them cold.

- Store foods that are most difficult to keep cool in the lower section of the refrigerator (milk and vegetables). This helps keep them fresh and cool at the normal setting and avoids use of higher energy-wasting settings.

To find specific guidelines for efficiency features and efficient use of other appliances, study the literature and owner's manual. For an estimate of how much energy certain home appliances use, request Save Appliance Energy by calling 792-4780.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Sometimes it's hard to say "no" to a door-to-door salesman, even one selling something you don't particularly need or want.

And many Texas consumers find only after that persuasive sales pitch has ended and the salesman has departed with a signed contract that they could have bought the same or a similar item in stores all over town, sometimes at a much lower price than they had agreed to pay.

But our Attorney General's Consumer Protection attorneys point out that there is an important protective device for Texans who find they made a mistake in purchasing goods or services in their home. It's the Texas Home Solicitation Act, passed by the Legislature in 1973 and amended in 1975.

Under this law, a consumer who is solicited at his home by someone selling goods or services that cost $25 or more, or real estate costing $100 or more, has a chance to change his mind.

The act gives consumers the right to cancel a home solicitation transaction up until midnight of the third business day following the day the contract was signed.

The person soliciting the sale must furnish the consumer with a copy of the contract or a fully completed receipt before leaving the premises. In it, the date of the transaction, name and address of the seller, and a notice of the right to cancel must be printed in large, dark type near the spot on the contract reserved for the buyer's signature.

In addition, the law requires that a completed "notice of cancellation" be attached to the contract or receipt for the consumer to use if he decides to cancel the sale. If the seller receives such a cancellation from the consumer, he must return any payment or contract within 10 business days.

One important point for the thousands of Spanish-speaking Texans is that the contract or receipt, the notice of right to cancel, and the completed cancellation notice must be in the same language the salesman used for his sales pitch. In other words, if the salesman spoke Spanish, everything must be written in Spanish.

The act also states that the seller cannot transfer your contract to a finance company or other third party until midnight of the fifth business day after your contract was signed.

Additionally, the seller must pick up any merchandise or title to realty he sold you within 20 days after cancellation or you can keep them with no obligation.

However, our attorneys point out that consumers who want to cancel a home solicitation sale also have some obligations under the law. To cancel such a sale, a purchaser must mail or deliver a signed, dated copy of the cancellation notice or his own written notice, or must send a telegram to that effect to the seller no later than midnight of the third business day after the sale. Our lawyers recommend sending a registered letter or a telegram so you have proof the seller received the notice.

And protection under this law does not extend to purchase of farm equipment; insurance regulated by the State; real estate sales where the buyer is represented by his lawyer or where the transaction is made by the licensed real estate broker; sales made according to a preexisting retail charge account or agreement; or sales where the two parties had previously met and negotiated at a business office where the goods or services were offered or displayed.

Our attorneys point out that a violation of the Home Solicitation Act is also a violation of the Deceptive Trade Practices Act, and that a person who believes such a violation has occurred should contact our Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso, or McAllen. If you live outside these areas, call toll-free: 1-800-252-9236.

SCLC headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., has received over 500 complaints from bases across the country since 1975. In 1976, blacks received 54 percent of all dishonorable discharges; by 1977, the proportion had increased to nearly 57 percent, about twice the rate for white soldiers.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Last year Texas Tech hung on to take a 42-36 victory over Arizona in Tucson. It was typical of the games played by the two schools in that there was a lot of scoring.

There's no reason to think that the Red Raiders won't be faced with the same type of fireworks Saturday when they open their home season. The Wildcats will bring an explosive offensive attack here and passing, against which Tech was weak last year, will be a feature.

The question most people are asking is whether the Raiders possess the same type of attack, one which can put points on the board, one which can better the Wildcats.

Tech has had two weeks, almost, to shore up an attack that did little against Southern Cal, especially the second half. True, there's little experience in the backfield, but most good backfield play is aided by a strong offensive line. So, the game Saturday will tell a lot about the Raiders.

There should be a good crowd on hand for the game. This is an old rivalry and a good one, made especially so by Arizona joining the Pac 8, now the Pac 10. You can bet that the Wildcats will be trying to make an impressive showing and gain national recognition.

It's just as important for the Raiders to show that they don't deserve low ranking in the SWC. In fact, with Texas and Texas A&M coming up, this is a pivotal game on the schedule.

The conference didn't have one of its better weeks Saturday, with only Arkansas and SMU holding high the colors. The Razorbacks were impressive in beating Vanderbilt and the Mustangs did a great job in beating Florida on its home field.

Alas, Baylor stumbled against a so-so Georgia club, which makes you wonder just how good the Bears are.

And Houston, with supposedly one of its best defensive teams and always explosive, looked pretty bad against Memphis State.

This week all nine clubs are in action without a single conference game. Texas, showing its usual power in whipping Rice decisively, entertains Wyoming and Arkansas takes on nemesis Oklahoma State. The Aggies take their power to Boston College.

Baylor travels to Kentucky in a featured game, while Houston entertains Utah. SMU has the unenviable task of playing Penn State, conqueror of Ohio State, while TCU tests Oregon. Oh, yes, Rice has the fun of playing Oklahoma.

DeWitt Weaver and Donny Anderson richly deserve induction into the Tech Hall of Honor. Both played big roles in the advance of Tech from Border Conference stature to SWC standing.

Weaver put Tech on the map as a capable SWC team when the Raiders beat Auburn in the 1953 Gator Bowl. Anderson, of course, teamed with Tom Wilson to set school records and become a bonafide All America, while leading the Raiders to near greatness.

The loss by the Dallas Cowboys Sunday was a blow to prestige, but it may have been the best thing that could have happened over the long haul. Dallas players now know they aren't invincible.

No one likes to lose, of course, but this defeat might be good for Dallas. It should add to the intensity with which the Cowboys play the rest of the season. They should come out of this a better team. There's still a lot of schedule left to play.

The baseball campaigns are winding down rapidly now and it looks like a New York-Kansas City playoff again, along with Philadelphia vs. Los Angeles.

It would be hard to decide which has been the most incredible, the surge of the New York Yankees, or the collapse of the Boston Red Sox. Six weeks ago the Sox looked like sure winners.

Now the Yankees appear to have a secure hold on first place and two weekend series, in Boston and New York, decided events. As they said on TV Saturday, Sweep or Weep. The Bosox couldn't do it.

The Pirates are putting on a valiant effort to overtake the Phillies, but it doesn't look like they will make it. Meanwhile, Los Angeles is running away from the Giants and Reds, while Kansas appears to have withstood a challenge by California.

It all adds up to great baseball excitement in the playoffs and then the World Series.

Tech Meets Arizona Here

Texas Tech will meet the University of Arizona in a non-conference game in Lubbock. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. in Tech's Jones Stadium.

After having a week off, the Red Raiders will play their second consecutive Pac-10 opponent. Tech opened the season Sept. 9 with a 17-9 loss against Southern Cal.

Tech leads overall series 24-3-1, winning a thriller last year 32-26. In fact, the past three games have been offensive gems. Arizona prevailed 32-28 in 1975 and the Red Raiders romped to a 52-27 triumph in 1976.

The Red Raiders will once again be at a huge weight disadvantage this weekend. Arizona is reputed to be the second-largest team in the Pac-10, second only to USC. The offensive line averages 252 pounds per man while the defensive front weighs in at 236 pounds a man.

Texas Tech's Rex Dockery will be after his first collegiate victory while Tony Mason was 32-25 going into last week's game with Oregon State.

Texas Tech is 0-1 and will be out to snap a four-game losing streak carrying over into last season. The Wildcats ripped Kansas State 31-0 in their opening game and were favored to beat Oregon State last weekend in their Pac-10 debut.

A crowd of more than 40,000 is expected at Texas Tech's Jones Stadium for Texas Tech's home debut.

Coach Rex Dockery says, "I was pleased that we were able to throw a scare into Southern Cal. I think our young players gained some needed confidence, but I was disappointed we didn't win the game. I went out there thinking we had a chance to win and at the half I felt like we had a great opportunity if we played the last two quarters like we did the first two. We have worked quite a bit on fundamentals during the off-week and hopefully it will pay off against Arizona. They have a big, physical team so again, it will be important for us to generate some offense so our defense can get some rest. Our games with Arizona the last three years have been wild. It seems like there are always a lot of points scored in our games and some unusual things happen."

Dockery plans to start senior Tres Adami but added that junior Mark Johnson will see plenty of action.

Maury Buford has only been on the Texas Tech campus a few weeks but already he is making a name for himself. His 10 punts for a 45.8 yard average against Southern Cal not only placed him on top of the Southwest Conference punting charts, but ranked him 10th in the nation.

New Pamphlet Offered on Property Taxes

Do you really know very much about the property taxes you pay?

If you don't, like most taxpayers, and would like to learn more, you can get easy-to-understand help in a new pamphlet now available free from your local school district tax office.

It's entitled, TAXPAYERS' rights/remedies/responsibilities.

This eight-page pamphlet explains the four basic stages of the tax process in the local school district—from the first of each year when your property is valued, through the tax bill which you receive later that year.

The various tax procedures are explained in separate articles which can be read any time and then checked again at times of the year when you need specific information about school taxes.

Humorous cartoons of exaggerated tax situations are included, along with a helpful tax-year calendar and information on such things as how to render your property; the tax assessor-collector's job; the items your tax bill should list; determining a fair appraisal; agricultural land value; meeting the board of equalization; certain exemptions; how tax rates are formed; lawsuits; school budgets; and public meetings.

The pamphlet is produced by the Texas School Tax Assessment Practices Board for public distribution through local school district tax offices.

Choosing A Builder
Whether the home you build proves to be the dream of a lifetime—or a nightmare—may depend largely on the attention you give to four key considerations in choosing a builder: location, price range, reputation, and ability to give you a warranty.

Location. Generally, you're better off with a builder who's already active in an area than you would be with a builder who has to import men and equipment from far away.

Price range. All builders can move above or below the usual price range of homes they build, but it may be unwise to impose too tight a budget on a builder of mansions—or to ask a budget builder for the gemstone of an estate.

Reputation. Try talking to some owners of homes the builder has erected, and also talk to your banker. A bank can get you far more data than you might expect—and for free.

Warranty. Check on whether the builder belongs to HOW—Home Owners Warranty. HOW is the only national ten-year new home buyer protection plan, and only registered HOW builders can offer you this protection. The HOW builder is thoroughly checked for financial stability, technical competence and solid reputation before he can offer this plan. He's also required to build according to a set of nationally approved standards.

Klingenstein Fund Awards Grants

The Esther A. and Joseph Klingenstein Fund, Inc. has announced the award of "Presidential Discretionary Fund" grants to 12 educational institutions affiliated with the United Negro College Fund.

These institutions are all private, predominantly black, four-year undergraduate colleges. The funds will be disbursed at each school at the discretion of the college president over a two to three year period.

"The Klingenstein Fund grants are uniquely sensitive to the varying needs of our institutions," said Christopher F. Edley, Executive Director of the United Negro College Fund. "Black colleges today are being forced to stretch their limited resources. This program offers an imaginative new approach for the schools' current financial concerns."

The Klingenstein Fund is a small, private foundation based in New York City. The twelve schools elected to receive the grants of $35,000 each are: Clark College, Atlanta, Ga.; Huston-Tillotson College, Austin, Tx.; Paine College, Augusta, Ga.; Jarvis Christian, Hawkins, Tx.; St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, N.C.; St. Paul's College, Lawrenceville, Va.; Spelman College, Atlanta, Ga.; Stillman College, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Talladega College, Talladega, Ala.; Texas College, Tyler, Tx.; Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; and Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Oh.

Library Lunch Bunch Meets Tuesday

"Mrs. Moore Goes to Washington" is the title of the next Lunch Bunch program to be given by Mrs. Naomi C. Moore on Tuesday, September 26. Mrs. Moore was one of two Texans selected to serve as part of a senior citizen intern program funded by Congress, and went to Washington last May for the training. She spent another week in Washington in the late summer, and will share her experiences.

Lunch Bunch meets each Tuesday from 12:15 to 12:45 in the Mahon Community Room of the Lubbock City-County Library, 1306 9th Street. The public is invited to bring a sack lunch and enjoy coffee and the free program.

Freemasonry From a Black Perspective: According to bellringer-Bossie Simmons the average American citizen, who is not a member of fraternal order, often thinks of Freemasonry as a secret society and Shriners as "playboys of Masonry". Freemasonry is not a secret society but a society with certain secrets, states Simmons.

It is also a well-known nation-wide fraternity whose members proudly declare their membership. They meet in buildings identified as Masonic Temples. Public announcements of their meetings are made in news media to include newspapers, radio and TV, and the stories include the names of the leaders of the organizations, all outstanding men and citizens of the community.

Recently the 85th Imperial Council Session was held in Kansas City, Missouri and thousands from over the country and foreign lands met in a week's conclave. Dr. L.L. Melton of Beaumont, Texas, Imperial Potentate of the Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of North and South America and its jurisdiction, incorporated, Prince Hall Shriners, presided. The native of Abbeville, La., is an uncle of Ambassador Andrew Young. Noble Eugene Dickerson of Washington, D.C. is slated to succeed Dr. Melton.

According to our sources, Freemasonry is a fraternity of men bound together by vows in morality in public and private life who believe in God and in a resurrected life and the constitutional right of members to free choice of religion and political persuasion.

The fraternity endorses free public education, encourages self-improvement, promotes patriotism and respects the Constitution, sanctions equal rights under the law, and contributes generously to philanthropies. Masonry is a charitable, benevolent, educational and fraternal organization. Its basic tenets are Brotherly Love, Relief (Philanthropy) and Truth. Through the improvement and strengthening of the character of an individual, Freemasonry seeks to improve the local community, city, state, nation and the world.

Minority Politics: The New Mexico All Indian Pueblo Council is in a massive registration drive and hopes to unite some 20,000 voters in a single Indian voice in November, according to The Pueblo News. In the meantime, the New Mexico GI Forum, LULAC and Image are said to be joining forces asking candidates for governor: Republican Joe Skeen and Democrat Bruce King, to outline their plans regarding employment of Mexicans in state government.

NAACP chapters are reported conducting voter registration drives of Blacks, especially in the Southeastern sections of the state where a majority of them live.

Ernie Mills, statehouse correspondent wrote recently: "If the Skeen-King race is as close as wall-leaners think it is—the minority groups will play an important role in the next election."

One of the hottest issues developing in New Mexico is the continued growth of utility rates for the people on fixed incomes and the older citizens who are really feeling the pinch. Candidate King told this correspondent that relief for these citizens would come high on his priority list when he is elected. We plan to question Skeen on the issue next week.

Recent great quotes: "Sooner or later, the world is going to have to get used to boxing without a Muhammad Ali. But right now, neither the world nor Ali is quite ready to give one another up. 'The world wants me as champion' said Ali in one of his milder moments of arrogance, 'and money wants me. But my end is coming. I don't have much longer. I'll just be history in a while.'" From L. Sykes in the black-oriented Courier.

Lorraine Hotel For Sale Deadline: The Feb. 28, 1979 deadline for purchase of the Lorraine (Bailey) Motel, the site of the assassination of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., has been announced. The Lorraine Motel would be used as a cultural multi-purpose center and will be a national shrine to the late Dr. King, Charles Buford of Chicago and national chairman of the group said. Efforts will also include the purchase of land adjacent to the motel so that the center will be able to be developed as an educational institution where major civil rights groups can meet and plan, Buford said.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

If ever you have taken my lead and advise on any show I have reviewed over the years in this column, then do take heed to my words this week. The Lubbock Theatre Centre is producing what probably is my favorite American musical of all times, even topping "My Fair Lady," "Show Boat" and, heaven help me, "Fiddler on the Roof." It is "Man of La Mancha" and what the LTC has done with it is incredible. It is a winner and a socko.

I must confess, particularly if you read some words I made a week or so ago prior to the opening night last Friday night, that I approached this selection of the annual musical for the Theatre Centre's September inaugural of the new season with extreme trepidation.

I loved this show too much, from its Broadway presentation to the road company here, through the manhandling mess that the films made of it, to watch the last remnants go to pieces on the shoals of an inept amateur cast and staging.

Eat your words, Sir Sheridan, critic-at-large. What happened was thrillingly the opposite. On the lawn in front of the theater the other night I spoke with the director, Doug Cummins, politely but dubiously, and he told me that they had decided to play the show as originally conceived, without intermission. A straight run of two hours and 10 minutes, the story with a story, author Miguel de Cervantes relating the history of his fictional hero, Don Quixote, to the riff-raff in the Inquisition dungeon. He does this, the lead actor portrays both roles easily, with the supporting cast made up of that same riff-raff.

Well, you see, any thoughts I had about anking the performance say, at the intermission, was ruled out by this high-handed, arbitrary and oh, so wise decision!

Proving conclusively that I know little of what I generally talk about, I stayed the run of the show and came to my feet cheering! LTC has produced a stunningly right and beautiful work and it deserved to be seen by every man, woman, chick and child in this town. It is a glorious accomplishment and director Cummins, musical director James Toland, John A. Packard and his choreography and Jerry Martin's stage designs are all memorable and triumphant.

Certainly, the book by Dale Wasserman, unforgettable music by Mitch Leigh and lyrics by Joe Dalton, have never been served better and, as if the cast themselves knew just this, the total outcome was stunning in its finesse.

In this column I have often raved about the techniques and mastery of Texas Tech University Music Theatre Head, John Gillas, for his staging and directing abilities, and rightly so. But, if I had not known better the other night at "Man of La Mancha", I should have thought his fine Gillas hand was involved. It wasn't. It was all Cummins, Toland and others and Gillas himself would be pressed to see, hear and acknowledge it to be so.

So, the show has already had some performances at the little theatre on Ave. P and there are still three, at least, repeat performances on tap. You can see it at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. For the love of heaven, do not miss this one. It is a ringing smash hit that will please you and echo in your silent hearing for days to come.

Of course, directors, musical directors and all the production people notwithstanding, the ultimate success of a show as seen from the audience side of the footlights lies in the hands of those turned loose when the lights go down, the cast.

The cast of LTC's "Man of La Mancha" is terrific. There is the veteran LTC lead, singer-teacher-actor Harlan Reddell as the hapless Don. He is, as usual, competent, heroic and utterly just right. His handling of the dignified, deluded old knight is touching, sensitive and authoritative. I could not have asked for a better or a more compelling interpretation.

The other totally key role in this marvelous show is in the hands of the slattern Aldonza, the Don's Dulcinea, and, when I heard that Tech star Sarah J. Watkins was going to do it, to sing it, to be this contrast of vulgarity and purity, I knew somehow this would be okay. Miss Watkins is the possessor of a stunning voice, a stage presence of a professional, and a beauty that is earthy, full and exciting. She is all of this in her dual role and without her "Man of La Mancha" would have been a poorer piece. She and Reddell are the "workhorses" of the show but what splendid "workhorses" they are. Absolute master and mistress of their leads.

There is a large cast supporting. Space will limit my mentioning all of them, bless their hearts, but if they will harken back to what I said about the leads, they can apply my commendations to themselves. They were all outstanding and just exactly right.

I have to mention Charles E. Addington, in specific category, for he is the Sancho Panza, the Don's faithful aids. Addington, no stranger to Lubbock boards, is also "just right" in his key support and his moments on stage were pure delight.

The Muleteers were lusty and virile, as Aldonza ruefully learns, and Jerry Cantrell's Padre was muted and moving, Terri Lynn Eoff contributed a bright and shining bit. But, then so did all the others.

I wish "Man of La Mancha" could run forever, so that each and everyone of you could enjoy this spectacular and delightful treat. But, as scheduled, there are just three more on tap, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Reservations can be made at the LTC box office, 2508 Ave. P, or by calling 744-3681. It's an opportunity in theatre experience not often given to us on the Baldies. Do not miss it! You'll love every minute as I did. I'd like to see it again, and, remember, this is the one I THOUGHT might be a bomber! Luckless me!

You have a free and rewarding feast of art works at your fingertips this weekend when the Baker Gallery of Fine Art, 13th and Ave. L, introduces the new season with the showing of new paintings, drawings and sculpture by no less than 42 artists, some of which will be on hand at the opening. The invitational showing is open to all and will be at the store from 1-4:30 p.m. Sunday and I think you'll find your Sunday afternoon well spent if you stop by to see what is being shown. The exhibition continues during store hours through Oct. 21.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Helping Youth

For the good of all Americans the problem of high unemployment among black teenagers should be resolved: recent figures show an unemployment rate of 37 percent among black youth.

Fortunately, an increasing number of concerned businessmen are beginning to search for—and find—ways that the private sector can help alleviate the problem. They are urging industry to make a major effort to train and hire black youth.

One successful, combined work-study project is the Joint Urban Manpower Program (JUMP). Sponsored by a coalition of engineering and architectural professional societies such as the American Society of Civil Engineers, the program offers technical training in the design professions. Although small in scope, the 10-year old program has been so effective that it could be a forerunner for similar programs in other industries.

JUMP provides skills training in drafting and actual on-the-job, paid work experience in addition to remedial education.

After an intensive orientation, the trainees learn skills and academic subjects in the classroom during half of their day. The second half of the day is spent on the job. Initially, the students just apply what they have learned in class to the work situation, but supervisors are trained to guide the trainees into productive work as soon as they can

Intensive personal and career counseling is a vital constituent of the program. Skilled counselors provide the trainees assistance with personal and work problems in individual and group sessions. They also work closely with employers and job supervisors to iron out any problems that arise. The counselors maintain close contact with the trainees and the employers both during and after the 20-week program.

To date, JUMP has trained about 200 young disadvantaged men and women in drafting. But more importantly, they have received their high-school equivalency diplomas from the programs and are productive members of their communities. There are 23 JUMP trainees in the current program working in 20 participating engineering and architectural firms.

JUMP is administrated by a volunteer board of engineers and architects. The Vocational Foundation, Inc. (VFI), a nonprofit counseling and job placement agency for disadvantaged youth, provides classroom space, remedial education, counseling testing services, and also assumes the clerical and fiscal functions.

The participating companies enter into a training contract with a municipality, which monitors the program. They start carrying the trainees on their payrolls during the orientation period, and are reimbursed for 50 percent of all on-the-job training time through Federal funds.

For complete information on this program, write the American Society of Civil Engineers, 345 East 47th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Autoriza a la legislatura que conceda una exención adicional de los impuestos para escuelas públicas sobre propiedad de una cantidad que no exceda $10,000 del valor de mercado de hogares seguros residenciales de personas 65 años o más de edad y ciertas personas incapacitadas. Si la persona de 65 años o más de edad es elegible para esta exención la cantidad total de los impuestos para escuelas públicas sobre el hogar seguro de aquella persona no puede incrementarse.

La enmienda previene que gobiernos locales incrementen los impuestos sobre propiedad a menos que el cuerpo administrativo provea aviso público y lleve a cabo una audiencia pública. La enmienda requiere a la legislatura que disponga por ley que cada propietario reciba aviso de la revaluación de su propiedad y la cantidad de incremento en sus impuestos.

La enmienda limita las apropiaciones de los ingresos de impuestos estatales en una cantidad que no exceda la tasa de crecimiento económico estatal que se anticipa, con la legislatura autorizada para conceder exenciones de emergencia.

La enmienda prohíbe la valuación de propiedad inmueble a través del estado para los fines de impuestos sobre propiedad. Se requiere que la ejecución de normas y procedimientos uniformes para la valuación de propiedad con el propósito de impuestos sobre propiedad, se origine con la autoridad que impone los impuestos sobre propiedad.

La terminología de la enmienda propuesta tal como aparecerá en la boleta es como sigue:

"La enmienda constitucional disponiendo alivio de impuestos para hogares seguros residenciales, personas mayores de edad, personas incapacitadas, y tierras agrícolas; extensiones de bienes muebles; la verdad en procedimientos tocante a la imposición de impuestos, incluyendo participación de ciudadanos; de nuevo definiendo la base de impuestos; limitando los gastos del estado; y la administración de impuestos sobre propiedad."

PUBLIC NOTICE SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 7, 1978

"The Tax Relief Amendment"

(H.J.R. 1)

H.J.R. 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing the legislature to exempt intangible personal property, requiring the legislature to exempt certain household goods and personal effects, and allowing the legislature to exempt all or part of the personal property homestead from state and local property taxation.

The amendment requires the legislature to provide for the taxation of farm and ranch land on the basis of its productive capacity instead of its market value and allows the legislature to provide for the taxation of timber land on its productive capacity.

The amendment permits local governments to extend the present exemption of not less than $3,000 of the residence homestead of persons 65 and older to include certain disabled persons.

The amendment grants an exemption from public school property taxes of $5,000 of the market value of the residence homestead. It authorizes the legislature to grant an additional exemption from public school property taxes of an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the market value of the residence homesteads of persons 65 years of age or older and certain disabled persons. If a person 65 years of age or older qualifies for this exemption, the total amount of public school taxes imposed on that person's homestead may not be increased.

The amendment prevents local governments from increasing property taxes unless the governing body provides public notice and conducts a public hearing. The amendment requires the legislature to provide by law for each property owner to receive notice of the revaluation of his property and the amount taxes will be increased.

The amendment limits appropriations from state tax revenue to an amount not to exceed Texas' estimated economic growth rate, with the legislature authorized to make exceptions for emergencies.

The amendment prohibits the statewide appraisal of real property for property tax purposes. Enforcement of uniform standards and procedures for appraisal of property for property tax purposes is required to originate in the taxing authority where the property tax is imposed.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons, and agricultural land; for personal property exemptions; for truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; for a redefinition of the tax base; for limitations on state spending; and for property tax administration."

NUMBER ONE

(S.J.R. 50)

S.J.R. 50 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to delete an archaic reference to the "Deaf and Dumb Asylum." The amendment would allow the State of Texas to purchase products and services done by handicapped individuals in nonprofit rehabilitation facilities without complying with bid requirements applicable to other state contracts. The amendment also would eliminate the formality of the approval of certain state contracts by the Governor, the Secretary of State and the Comptroller of Public Accounts.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment deleting the archaic reference to the 'Deaf and Dumb Asylum,' allowing certain products and services of handicapped individuals to be used by agencies and departments of state government, requiring the procurement of other products and services required in the operation of state government to be made under bids awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, making all such procurement processes subject to laws enacted by the legislature, and eliminating the requirement that the Governor, the Secretary of State, and the Comptroller of Public Accounts of Texas be personally involved with such transactions."

NUMBER TWO

(S.J.R. 55)

S.J.R. 55 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to permit local governments to issue bonds for the reconstruction or acquisition of facilities (land, equipment and improvements) designed to develop employment opportunities. These bonds would be payable solely from the revenue from the sale or lease of these facilities. The building or acquisition of such facilities must be determined by the local government to be necessary to develop employment opportunities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that the legislature may permit political subdivisions to issue revenue bonds to develop employment opportunities for its citizens."

NUMBER THREE

S.J.R. 44 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution which would allow the legislature to issue tax increment bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas. The bonds are to be paid solely from revenue from municipal tax increments. Payment cannot be made from the revenue of municipal taxes, utilities, or other services.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to give the legislature the power to authorize cities and towns to issue bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas and prohibiting any city or town from granting its money or lending its credit for such purposes."

NUMBER FOUR

(S.J.R. 53)

S.J.R. 53 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to exempt from taxation solar or wind-powered energy devices.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to exempt from taxation solar and wind-powered energy devices."

NUMBER FIVE

(H.J.R. 37)

H.J.R. 37 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to grant exclusive jurisdiction to justices of the peace in civil cases where the amount in controversy does not exceed $200, except where the legislature gives exclusive jurisdiction to another court.

The amendment grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with county courts where the amount in controversy is between $200 and $500, except where the legislature gives the county court exclusive jurisdiction.

The amendment also grants justices of the peace concurrent jurisdiction with both county and district courts where the amount in controversy is between $500 and $1,000, except where the legislature gives the county or district court exclusive jurisdiction.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to extend the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in civil cases."

NUMBER SIX

(S.J.R. 45)

S.J.R. 45 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to expand the number of judges on any court of civil appeals. Presently courts of civil appeals are limited to a chief justice and two associate justices. The amendment also would allow the courts to sit in sections, with the concurrence of a majority of the judges sitting in the section necessary to decide a case.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to increase the number of justices on a court of civil appeals, permitting a court of civil appeals to sit in sections, and requiring a concurrence of a majority of justices to decide a case."

NUMBER SEVEN

(S.J.R. 48)

S.J.R. 48 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution eliminating the State Building Commission and the State Building Fund. The authority of the State Building Commission has been transferred by law to the State Board of Control.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to repeal the constitutional authority for the State Building Commission and the State Building Fund."

NUMBER EIGHT

(H.J.R. 42)

H.J.R. 42 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing certain political subdivisions or districts in the state that can presently issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit to support such activities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendments authorizing certain districts to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds or otherwise lend their credit for fire-fighting purposes."

C'mon, kid, Live!

When the eyes flutter open at last, when the breath finally comes easy and regular—only then can the fireman relax. And maybe take a little pride and pleasure from the special gift he's been given.

It's a learned gift, with a big name: mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

And the gift itself is big, too. Because in many cases it brings people literally back from death.

Whenever you wonder "where Red Cross money goes," think of it. Part of your money goes to train people in all walks of life to do what needs to be done when the chips are really down.

Maybe you'll never need to be brought back to life this way.

Then again, maybe you will.

Isn't Red Cross a good idea? Belong.
