Jeff Earl Carver Certified Here for Trial In Adult Court Following Hearing

Last week fifteen-year-old Jeff Earl Carver was certified to stand trial as an adult in the September 9 slaying of a classmate at Dunbar High School.

This decision was handed down in 137th District Court. Judge Robert Wright granted the state's motion to waive juvenile jurisdiction over Carver and transfer him, as an adult, to the appropriate district court of Lubbock County for criminal proceedings.

Judge Wright read the decision to a sparsely attended courtroom last Friday morning, ending a four-day long hearing determining young Carver's status in future proceedings stemming from the shooting at Dunbar. Carver has been charged with murder with malice in the incident.

As Judge Wright read the following court decision, Carver sat listening:

"After considering all evidence," Wright said, "including a diagnostic study, social evaluation, investigation of the child and his background, the circumstances of the alleged offense and arguments of counsel, this court decides that because of the seriousness of the offense the welfare of the community requires criminal proceedings. The court grants the state's petition and waives its jurisdiction."

The decision capped a four-day hearing that began Tuesday with the state's petitioning of the 137th District Court, sitting as a juvenile court, to waive its jurisdiction over Carver and certify him as an adult to stand trial. The state, represented by County Attorney Tom Purdom, called a total of 19 witnesses before resting its case late Wednesday.

The defense, represented by Thomas L. Clinton, began its presentation behind closed doors as Judge Wright granted a request that the courtroom be cleared of spectators due to the personal nature of the testimony of Carver's parents. After their testimony, the court was declared in open session early Thursday. Clinton concluded his case with the testimony of two psychologists, a psychiatrist and three character witnesses. Carver was not called to the stand.

Judge Wright's decision took less than three minutes to read with little reaction visible as young Carver listened. Wright remanded custody of Carver to the chief juvenile probation officer where he will remain until such time as further criminal action is taken.

About fifty Black citizens of East Lubbock protested Monday evening, at the Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church, to an attorney, J.R. Blumrosen, who was representing the Plains Co-Op Oil Mill, about the proposed construction of a flour mill in the 2800 block of Avenue A.

Rev. A.L. Davis, pastor of the Church, told Blumrosen that Black people are tired of being covered with cotton seeds. "We've spent a lot of money, a lot of hard earned money in our community, and we don't want this flour mill in our backyard," said Rev. Davis.

Mr. Blumrosen told the group he didn't know about the meeting until twenty minutes before coming to the 10:00 p.m. session at the church. "I was watching a football game and was informed by Councilman Morris Turner to come here," he said.

William Powell, a member of the church, told the attorney they, too, were missing the football game but (they) felt this was more important than any football game.

He (Blumrosen) was asked to explain the proposed flour mill by Rev. Davis. Mr. Blumrosen told the group that Plains Co-Op Oil Mill had bought the land from Urban Renewal and that the project (flour mill) the Co-Op had in mind was the first of its kind in the world. The project will consist of processing a high protein substance for human consumption and that there would be no dust or lent blowing in the community. "An engineer has told me that the project will be free of pollution, perhaps as normal an operation as a bakery," he added.

til 1:00. The Dunbar Alumni Association will sponsor this affair.

Estacado High School To Hold Open House

The teachers will be present and are anxious to have this opportunity to know and visit with the parents. Guides will be available to direct you to the classrooms. The principal, teachers and students invite you to come—7:30 p.m., October 25th.

"Go-See" Tours on Tap for League of Women Voters

League of Women Voters members and guests will participate in a Go-See Tour beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, October 28, in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room, 1120 Main Street. After an orientation session on local government, the League will go to City Hall to observe the City Council in session. Beginning at 11:45 an optional tour of the County Jail will be of particular interest to members concerned with the juvenile detention facili-

J.R. Blumrose, an attorney representing Plains Co-Op Oil Mill, is shown appearing before about fifty citizens of East Lubbock Monday evening, explaining his company's position on the proposed construction of a flour mill in an Urban Renewal area at 2800 Avenue A.

Mr. Marshall Taylor, also a member of the congregation, explained that anytime you change the shape or form of a substance, there will be some type of odor.

Mr. Gene Gaines, an active member of the NAACP, told the attorney that the residents would accept his proposal if his organization would guarantee all he was saying about the project being free of dust and lent in writing and would put up a performance bond in case the project did not meet the specifications.

Mr. Harold Chatman made it clear that Black people are tired of being experimented with. It was the total feeling of the body that this type of project should not be "pushed down" the throats of Black people.

Many people on hand voiced concern over the property value of their homes if the project was allowed to continue.

Rev. Davis also told the attorney that there will be Blacks present at the meeting with the Zoning Board of Adjustment which was held this morning in the Council Chambers.

Veterans Day, Monday, October 25th, Will Be Marked Nationally on TV

Fifty years ago an unknown soldier of World War I was committed to a hero's grave with reverent tribute in a solemn and moving ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery, to be followed 37 years later (1958) in ceremonies of like dignity the interment of two other unknown combat heroes from World War II and the Korean Conflict.

On Monday, October 25, Veterans Day, an impressive ceremony will pay tribute to these men and the nation's 28.3 million living veterans, beginning at 11 a.m. with the Presidential Wreath Laying Ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknowns, followed by an appropriate ceremony in Arlington's Memorial Amphitheater.

Millions of people from the United States and abroad have visited the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which was constructed in 1932 with the purest of white Colorado marble.

The Go-See Tour is designed to be of special interest to new League members, but all members and guests are invited to participate. Further information on the Go-See Tour may be obtained by calling the membership chairman, Mrs. J.R. Johnson, at 762-4335 or the League president, Mrs. Duane Jordan, at 795-9718.

The Tomb and the facade of the amphitheater at Arlington National Cemetery are now lighted at night by a permanent lighting system, the gift of the American Legion in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of that organization. Operation of the new lighting system was inaugurated by President Nixon on March 15, 1969.

The first military burial in Arlington was on May 13, 1864, when the remains of Pvt. William L. Christman, Company G, 67th Pennsylvania Infantry, were interred.

In addition to the principal ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery, there will be five Veterans Day regional ceremonies throughout the country.

Narrator at the Arlington observance on October 25 will be television star Greg Morris, an Army veteran who educated himself at the University of Iowa under the G.I. Bill. Morris stars in CBS' "Mission Impossible."

This year is the first since 1921 that Veterans Day will not be observed on November 11. The 90th Congress enacted legislation to change the observance of this day to the fourth Monday in October, along with changes to Monday for several other holidays.

Three Blacks Hired By City of Lubbock

Gerry Brewer, assistant director of personnel for the City of Lubbock, informs the West Texas Times this week that three blacks were hired this week by the city, bringing the total to seven in a two week period.

Those hired, according to Mr. Brewer, were Henry McCullough, building maintenance man at Hodges Community Center; Ramon Spence, traffic ticket trainee; and Margie Francois, library aide.

They Didn't Say That, Councilman Turner

Last week, Councilman Morris Turner denounced a "police review board" approach to the proposed Human Relations Commission. From all that we can gather, the councilman is over-reacting concerning this matter. The present committee, which came out of a meeting last month of the Citizen's Grievance Commission and the City Council, apparently was not thinking in that direction.

Another thing worth paying close attention to is the Councilman's statement that the feeling resulted from the fact that charges of police brutality and discrimination were made before the grievance committee, but the committee never reported whether any of the charges were true. What Mr. Turner should have realized was that the commission was concerned about police harassment, not police brutality.

Mr. Turner, and the other City Council members should also realize that if there had been representation on the City Council there probably would have been no need for any type commission to audit or communicate with our police department. Times have changed and the powers that be must realize that Lubbock, Texas, as well as the feelings of some of the elected representatives, must also change.

The CGC was positive with their input. They certainly did what they had been charged to do, make recommendations to the City Council that would help better understanding between the different groups in the City of Lubbock. We believe they were fair and concerned about the welfare of all of Lubbock's citizens.

On the other hand, we can understand why Mr. Turner came to the rescue of the police department. Let's hope he is sincere with this move, let's hope it's not a political move with 1972 in mind. Could that be the reason, Mr. Turner?

Thanks, Chris Griffin

We would like to take this opportunity and give flowers to a young Black brother who has done some splendid work for the brothers and sisters of the black community. Young, ambitious and intelligent Christopher Griffin, a graduate of Dunbar High School, has made what we call an outstanding contribution to his Alma Mater. He wrote a concise history of the black named secondary institution.

Brother Chris, at the time, was coordinator for the Emergency School Assistance Program—of the LEARN Project, when he took the time and patience to find out some of the early history of Dunbar High School and put it into writing for members of the black community. The project, which was financed by ESAP, is a good one and should be continued by the agency, or by the Lubbock Independent School District.

Of course, it'll take money and effort in order to take the guidelines which Chris gave us and come up with a great project for the City of Lubbock and all of its Dunbar graduates.

Brother Griffin is no longer living here in Lubbock. He is making great strides in Atlanta, Georgia and we wish him all the success in the world. At this time, however, we would like to say thanks, for a job well done. It's a great beginning, and it's also this newspaper's hope that we might find the monies to broaden this special effort and keep it up to date in years to come. Who knows, maybe Brother Chris will utilize his talents to help up-date as well as add to this deserving project in the future?

Others Are Saying . . .

We Shall Overcome

Everyone who attended the Estacado-Coronado game should recall the two bouts between the opposing teams.

Rumors at school are that Coronado was responsible for the fights. Viewers of the game films report that tempers began to flare when a Mustang grabbed the face mask of a Matador.

To a certain extent, everyone more or less enjoyed the fights, even though it was looked down upon by the general public.

Probably the downward looks won't be as strong toward the opposite team and students because they are composed of "the good people."

The majority of the citizens of Lubbock will look down on Estacado though because we're integrated. We haven't convinced them yet that as an integrated school we can and will work in unity.

The natural impulse of any human being is to add a few swings of his own when hit by someone else's fist. This is supposed to be barbaric in our "civilized world."

There is only one solution to the problem. We're going to have to show all of the "good people" that as an integrated school we are THE best qualified and capable school in Lubbock. No matter what the task, we should be able to meet it.

When a rival shows his ignorance by grabbing a face mask, football player, refrain from laying one on them. This is only bringing us down to their level . . . below average!

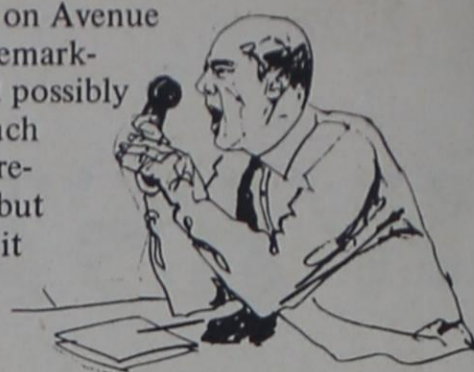

Let's show the city and even the state of Texas that we are No. 1 and will continue to be as long as we are in existence.

From The Business Desk

Fellow I know on Avenue

A the other day remarked that you could possibly be upset with Coach Carlen's way of presenting his ideas, but in the same light, it had been a long time since Tech was tied with

Texas this late in the season, even if we both had a 1-1 record. Looks like to a lot of us it's gonna be a long, late and interesting football season after all.

Impressive to note that last week's story concerning the idea of putting a flour mill in the middle of East Lubbock has drawn some opposition.

There was a meeting Monday night at St. Luke Baptist Church by an interested group of about 50 persons and before the night ended, they had called the paper, to check out the story; a city councilman, to find out what could be done; and received a visit by the lawyer representing the other side, telling his side of the story.

Mr. Blumrosen was most impressive, telling the group assembled how he had been asked to leave his TV football game and come "down here and talk to you people" concerning why there was a need for the flour mill. Most of the people present at the meeting didn't seem to be too impressed with his ideas—although this morning's Zoning Board meet will tell more, and it occurred too late to report.

The most impressive fact that arose out of the whole thing though, was the fact that some of the people present wanted to know what was really going on, and put in a call to City Councilman Morris (Moe) Turner—asking him to provide them with some explanation. He did, he sent the lawyer for the other side, Mr. Blumrosen, on a few minutes notice, to explain to the city taxpayers—and for that matter, voters, what they wanted to know from their elected official.

This week has been set aside, especially Monday as Veteran's Day. If you can't find anything else to do in the near future, look around and ask a veteran out to lunch. He got where he is because you needed him to go stand in your place to protect your life and liberty while you stayed home and took care of his "home front". And if you do not know a veteran, go out and find one—and at least say "Thank You" for a job well done over the last 25 years. We can still honor them for their part in America's heritage—and they deserve honor.

Let's Get Down to Business

Everyone in the world knows—if it is the only thing he knows—that every white man would not like to be a black man.

If a white man knows that, he knows everything he needs to know about race relations. He has no need to ask a black man what he needs.

My gripe is, the black man knows this and the white man knows this—so why should the black man let himself become a tool, a tool in the oldest trick in the book. "Keep the niggers divided and I'll keep them conquered." Divide and conquer. the oldest and most successful trick in use since the first slave ships arrived in America.

Black people, let's wake up and get ourselves together and not be used as tools to keep ourselves down. America must change and is changing. Let's do our part.

Because of the ghastly things we do to our people—these must at least compel America (this includes Lubbock, West Texas and the South Plains) to look searchingly at itself and our society before hatred and violence rush us on to more evil and finally tear our nation apart. We must support positive and constructive activities to overshadow negative forces. From the President of the United States, who set the style for a lot of people, down the line emphasis must be placed on rights for blacks, oppressed, minorities, rather than merely talking of law and order. Talk only will not allow these people their rights—which is a lot more important to many than integration. The most important aspect of rights consist of equal opportunity, and equal education.

We must forge ahead positively and constructively. To a lot of my "super militant" brothers, remember, battles were won by Hitler and Mussolini, but the wars are won by Jesus Christ, Mahatma Gandhi and Martin Luther King, Jr.

Let's get down to business and do our thing together, because my definition of black power is: "Black power is Green (money) power, plus brain power, plus man power." To fool yourself or be misled from that idea is not only wrong, but also frustrating to the many people who have led a life of frustration.

I can understand whites being afraid to go to school in black communities. In view of the crimes committed by whites (organized crime, war and racism), we're the ones that ought to be afraid to go into white communities. Sometimes we are, but we must not be, we must get an education wherever, under any circumstances, because education and equal opportunity is the answer.

My weapon is education. My tools, the people that want to learn in order to better their circumstances. Together, I hope, they will create revolutionary changes that must come in the present system.

Let's remember it is up to us to get ourselves together and take care of business, and do our thing. We can no longer sit around and wait on the white liberal to lead us around, because with them first it was civil rights, then Vietnam and now pollution.

White liberals don't stick to a job long enough to complete it. We must take care of business if it is to be done.

"The Bus Is Coming" is a Film Every Member of the Family Should See

'HALF-BREED MAKES GOOD'— Lovely Stephanie Faulkner stars in the new, black-made motion picture, "The Bus Is Coming." As the sister of a militant leader and girlfriend of a moderate black, she experiences constant turmoil in the film. In real life, Miss Faulkner is the product of an inter-racial marriage. About her success she says, "You could caption it, "Half-Breed Makes Good." "Bus" was made by K-Calb Productions and is being released through William Thompson International.

The new, black-made motion picture, "The Bus Is Coming," is rated GP: It is a film every member of the family can see and—according to certain critics—"should see."

Produced by Horace Jackson, directed by Wendell James Franklin for their K-Calb Productions firm, "Bus" is a multi-faceted movie, a story of black life in Smalltown, U.S.A., a movie for today.

The story revolves around the brutal police murder of a militant, young black man. The murder sets the people of the town at odds with each other. Angered black militants are ready to burn the town down.

But a returning Vietnam war veteran wants to give the "system" a chance. In the end, he almost loses faith, but is finally vindicated when justice in the form of an unusual police chief triumphs.

During its journey from beginning to end, "The Bus Is Coming" examines and appraises black and white alike in the intense pressure-cooker of inflamed racial relationships.

But it is also a movie which encompasses a warm love story between handsome, young stars Mike Sims and Stephanie Faulkner. This is not a love affair, however, that does not know moments of tension and conflict.

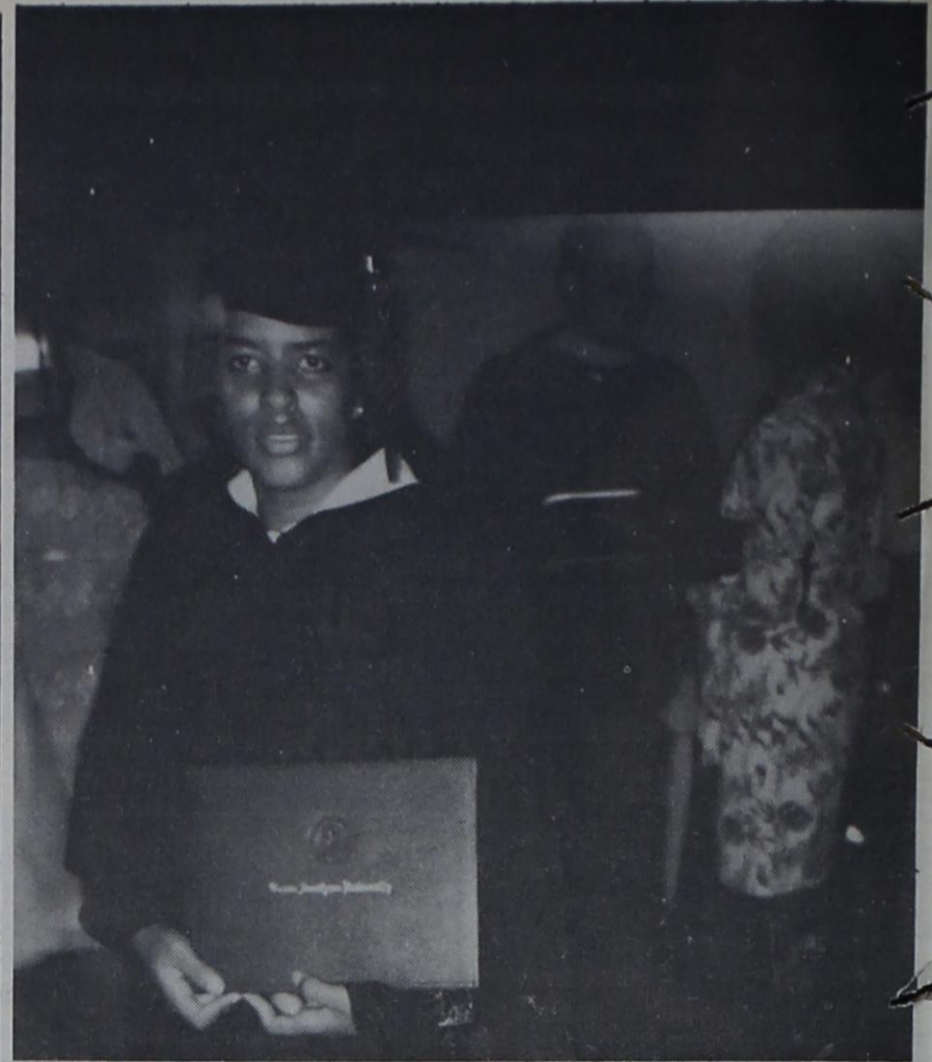

Miss Faulkner portrays the sister of the leader of the militant Black Fist group (Burl Bullock). She loves Sims, who on first returning from Vietnam to find his brother brutally murdered, is a moderate. She is torn between her loyalty to her brother and her love for Sims.

One of the most interesting characters in the movie is "Miss Nickerson," played by the talented, attractive Sandra Reed.

Although she is young and black, Miss Nickerson is a conservative school teacher—and, moreover, the mistress of a bigoted, white cop.

It's a demanding dramatic role. But Miss Reed handles it expertly. Perhaps the highest compliment paid her came the night the movie was premiered in Compton, California.

"You made me hate you up there on the screen," a young black man told Miss Reed. "But you were simply great."

Disabled Vietnam Veteran, George Lee Carter, Offers Encouragement to Youth

Monday, October 25th, is Veterans Day. On this day America will honor 28.2 million veterans who have worn the uniform of freedom and peace with courage and honor. We, too, honor the American veterans of all wars, the men who have fought for freedom since Valley Forge.

A young, disabled veteran, George Lee Crater, of Amarillo, Texas, happens to be one of those veterans we are honoring Veterans Day. George was on the team of the United States Marine Corps as a Sgt. (E-5) until he was wounded in action.

The young enthusiastic Black man tells the West Texas Times that he was manning a tank when everything caved in on him near the DMZ in Vietnam. He says he was on a mission when his tank was hit. Resulting injuries included the loss of both legs, above the knee, loss of the use of one arm and loss of one eye.

"I was blind for six months; the doctors had even given me up," he said. "I have had as many as 30 operations; my body was burned over 50%, but I didn't give up," he continued. "I was, however, in terrific pain, but I would not give up," he smiled.

All of this happened to George in 1967 and today he is most concerned about doing something with his life. He's concerned about making a constructive contribution to society. He has enrolled at West Texas State University and hopes one day to become a criminal lawyer.

The young man, who attended high school in New York City, comes to the Outpatient Clinic at the Federal Building in Lubbock for his check-up. At this time, transportation is no problem. George has a new 1971 Lincoln, Mark III, which has been specially equipped in order for him to drive.

He has been a patient at the Veterans Hospital in Dallas and in Amarillo. He also spent twelve months in a Naval hospital, six months of that time in intensive care.

The former Sgt. with the Marine Corps advises young people to keep a clean record. "Young people can't think about giving up; there's so much we all can do," he said.

He is the son of Mrs. Lucille Carter of 2034 NW 14th Street in Amarillo, Texas, and comes from a family in which the father, one brother and a brother-in-law all have served their country in the armed forces.

As the young man from Amarillo says: "Young people, stay out of trouble and stay away from drugs; there's too much to be done to mess up your life now."

Working with the disable Boy Scouts of Troop 186 in Amarillo is one of his favorite activities. He also belongs to the D.A.V., V.F.W. and American Legion.

On Veterans Day, let's remember men like George Lee Carter, who have served our country and given so much.

Housing Programs Consolidated Here This Month

Effective October 1, the Community Housing Center was established to provide a central location for housing of the moderate and low income families. Six agencies will consolidate under one roof to provide better services for the housing needs of the community. Among those agencies centralizing their efforts are:

Mi-Casita Home Counseling Services. This agency has been a primary factor in seeking permanent housing for over 800 displaced tornado victims. The agency now expands its services to the entire community (to non-tornado victims as well). Such services to be provided include—Spanish speaking caseworkers to assist families with other service agencies where bi-lingual staff is not available, credit counseling for F.H.A. credit rejects and referrals from any service agency and local real estate brokers will be accepted. In addition to serving as a bi-lingual referral and housing information center it will accept and process housing discrimination complaints as outlined in 1968 Fair Housing Act. Mi-Casita is supported by the Lubbock Area Presbyterian Council, Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) and its parent corporation, Panhandle and South Plains Development Corporation. The newly appointed director is Miss Lupe V. Rodriguez, formerly the assistant director.

Panhandle and South Plains Development Corporation. This corporation is the legal entity of Mi-Casita. A seventy-five (75) house project was sponsored by this corporation for moderate-income families in Northeast Lubbock. As a leading non-profit housing sponsor on the High Plains, projects have been completed in Bovina, Anton and Amarillo. Additional low-cost housing in Lubbock is projected by the Panhandle and South Plains Development Corporation. Michael Heneghan is the director of this service agency.

Social Action Services - Diocese of Amarillo. This agency is directed by Sister Regina Foppe. The function of this agency is to assist families break the grip of poverty through education, vocational counseling and developing community leaders.

C.H.D. Counseling Service. This agency provides contractual home counseling services to private developers and individuals seeking homeownership. Consultants are available for F.H.A. project development through C.H.D. Counseling.

Community and Human Development Corporation. This agency is a Lubbock based chartered non-profit corporation. The objective of this corporation is to provide housing for low income families and to provide opportunities for minorities to have direction in programming for their housing needs. This corporation recently contracted to the City of Lubbock to provide counseling for tenants of Public Housing.

Community Home Counselors. A division of Community and Human Development Corporation, this agency is a newly formed agency directed by Mrs. Sylvia Silvas, a recent Tech graduate. This agency provides homeownership courses and individual counseling to tenants of Public Housing to assist them in the purchasing of their assigned Public Housing unit. This program offers its services to all present occupants of public housing and to low-income families who have the potential to become homeowners.

All of the above agencies have combined their resources and leadership to provide a "one stop housing information center" to assist moderate and low-income families in seeking low-cost housing. The Community Housing Center is located at 2601 East Bates. The telephone number 763-7301 serves all of the above agencies. Mrs. Donna Winnett serves as the office manager of the center. Mr. Jack McGraw, an ordained minister in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) serves as the executive director of the Community Housing Center. For additional information, call 763-7301.

Afro-American History Notes for Busy Newspaper Readers: Black Power, believes the late George S. Schuyler in his new book "Black and Conservative" and published by Arlington House, is only reliable when it comes from within. Schuyler died recently in his middle 70's but lived to become one of the nation's leading black writers and journalist, serving as managing editor of several national leaders for a number of years.

At one time Schuyler was a porter, a dishwasher, a handyman and for a time, a Bowery hobo, but expect no sour grapes from him.

"After all the welfare of Blacks is primarily the responsibility of Blacks," he writes. "Unfortunately this responsibility has been too often avoided or ignored as men who should have known better chased butterflies."

Among the butterfly-chasers as he ticks them off are the "Back to Africa" crowd, "the young black militants" who preach black power as destroying and burning lives and property to achieve equality and democracy.

After serving quite a hitch in the U.S. Army, Schuyler met and married Josephine Sennett, daughter of a white Texas rancher and a liberal on the race question.

To this union was born Philippa Duke Schuyler, who played 10 of her own piano compositions at the age of 4 and finished eight grades of gramma school in three years. She was generally regarded as a prodigy and became a leading news correspondent, meeting her death in Vietnam in that capacity.

Schuyler at his death several years ago, was a popular syndicated columnist with North American Newspaper Alliance.

"We are in America blessed with the right of mobility, the right of ownership, the privilege of privacy and development of personality, and the precious machinery of peaceful change. These gifts and gains I have been trying in my small way to preserve for black people and for all the people in our great country," adds George S. Schuyler.

Bellringers Write: Dear Bob—"While some black students waited on the south side of the Oklahoma Capitol building for the governor to speak to them, some white students were waiting in an auditorium on the north side of that building for the governor to speak to them. The governor appeared before the white students and offered to answer any questions. "Why had he not spoken to the black students?" they inquired. The governor said he had three times offered to speak to the black students if they would lower their personal black flag and agree to meet under no flag but the American. Was he right?" Jene Miller.

You bet he was. This is our country whether we be red, brown, white or black. I am American first—Black because God made me that way. Right On!

This column would like to pay tribute to Norman Williamson, an honorary soul brother and publisher of this newspaper. As a former publisher, we know of some of the trials and heartaches and pains of publishing a black periodical.

In the first place, advertisers are often reluctant to support such publications as they ought to and in the second place blacks do not (in this section of the country especially) realize the importance of having a spokesman via mass media like the West Texas Times. The W.T.T. will soon be eleven years old (lucky number Norman) and we hope to join in the birthday celebration. Long live the West Texas Times!, "Dedicated to Informing the Black Citizens of West Texas" and we add—New Mexico.

Girl Scout Playday Staged

Girl Scout troops from the East Lubbock service unit participated in a Playday October 2nd at Camp Rio Blanco Girl Scout Camp, 5 miles east of Crosbyton, Texas.

The girls participated in a Wide Game; learning firebuilding, knot tying, making yarn God's Eyes, folk dancing, nature treasure hunt, playing lemmy sticks and hiking.

If your daughter would like to be in a Girl Scout troop or if you would like to volunteer your time for Girl Scout service, call Mrs. Leon Bunton, 765-5639, Service Unit Chairman.

League of Women Voters to Conduct Elections System Survey Here

Mrs. Duane Jordan, president of the Lubbock League of Women Voters, announced today that the League in Lubbock has been chosen as one of ten Leagues in Texas to conduct an Elections System Survey in conjunction with the National Municipal League. ### Writers to Discuss "Genocide" on Black Journal Next Tuesday Evening

Two black American authors, John A. Williams and Samuel F. Yette, deal with the crucial question of "Genocide?" on Black Journal's fourth show of the new season, Tuesday, October 26th, at 8:30 p.m. on KTXT-TV.

Williams deals fictionally with the theme of genocide in his novel The Man Who Cried I Am. A former Ebony associate editor and director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Yette documents what he calls existing factors of genocide in The Choice: The Issue of Black Survival in America.

On Black Journal both articulate their views, with Yette (now a Washington correspondent for Newsweek) pointing to the essential aspects of genocide in our society: "... extreme racial hostility and economic class hostility. We have the vested interests, we have those who make profit out of repression, we have the lack of black social value historically, and also currently we have the loss of economic value on the part of black people."

Citing another threat of genocide Yette adds, "We have the legalization of the police state as the no-knock search and seizure (and) the preventive detention bill."

Williams discusses his prophetic "King Alfred Plan," the "government's final solution to the black question—vaproization." He created the plan in his book to answer "What would an administration do . . . when a large segment of the population . . . threatened the order and established regime?" Since the book has been published, Williams notes that "We all know that practically every city government has announced a contingency plan for dealing with rebellion, i.e., black people in rebellion, and not only city governments, but the federal government."

Other revelations elicited by the Black Journal discussion on genocide include: attempts to establish mandatory sterilization for unmarried girls; the over-exposure of many black people to doses of X-rays that can cause leukemia, cancer, and sterilization; and different 1970 census questionnaires issued to blacks and minorities and not to the white majority.

Over $12 Million in Back Wages Found

Dallas—Compliance officers for the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division here found more than $12 million due some 70,814 employees in the Southwest during the fiscal year just passed, according to the Dallas office.

Regional Administrator Phillip F. Arrien of the Employment Standards Administration reported that such officers visited 9,856 establishments in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana. They found $5,706,774 due as a result of employers' failure to pay proper overtime, and $4,771,124 due under the minimum wage provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Lesser amounts were found due under the Equal Pay Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, and the Service Contract Act.

"We were able to obtain compliance with the law and the payment of wages due in the great majority of cases by direct negotiations with employers," Arrien said.

When that was unsuccessful, there was legal action in the Federal courts. During the year, 135 lawsuits were filed in the five states to obtain compliance with the law or the payment of back wages found due.

He noted also that employees have the right to bring suit in such cases. Through their own attorney, they can file suit for back wages, an equal amount for damages, and reasonable fees for the attorney.

Monday evenings of each month at 8:00 in one of the member's homes. We are always willing to meet with anyone in the City of Lubbock.

If you are concerned about us meeting in your home, then call Mrs. C.E. Fair, president. We enjoy singing and praying each meeting.

Guests at 54th Northwest Conference

Mrs. L.D. Sherman and Bishop H.C. Bearden were special guests last week at the 54th Northwest Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church which was held at Bethel A.M.E. Church. Bishop Sherman was unable to attend the conference and Bishop Bearden had to fill in his place.

womanhood and better cooperation among cosmetologists. It (Theta Nu Sigma Sorority) also provides a scholarship for some worthy student and continues to elevate cosmetology to a branch of higher education, by working with God and nature.
