'Around the Hub City'

"Around The Hub City" would like to pass some information requested by a lady in a local washeteria one day last week. I think it is fitting and proper that we bring this important fact to you.

Perhaps you, too, will feel as this lady does. She says "I am the most heartbroken person on earth. I always found time to go everwhere else but to see my old gray-haired parents. They sat at home alone, loving me just the same. It is too late now to give them those few hours of happiness. I was too selfish and too busy to give, and now when I go to visit their graves and look at the green grass above them, I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them.

I pray that you, readers of the West Texas Times, will think about this before it is too late for you. Those of you who still have their parents to visit them and show their love and respect while there is still time. For it is later then you think."

What this lady said and thinks is absolutely true. It will make anyone - even this reporter - stop and think.

Mr. Harry Bunton, post commander of Booker T. Washington American Legion in Yellowhouse Canyon, was all in smiles Monday morning as he was driving to work. It would appear as though the meeting held last weekend here in Lubbock was of great benefit to him and his local chapter.

How about that Harry? I know you had a grand time.

MARY & MAC STUDENTS VISIT SAN ANTONIO

The high school department completed the final phase of their trip to the Alamo City last Friday night when they climbed aboard the Blue Goose (their school bus) and headed for the 500 mile trip.

The purpose of their trip was to visit the well renown Hemis-Fair which is presently in operation at San Antonio.

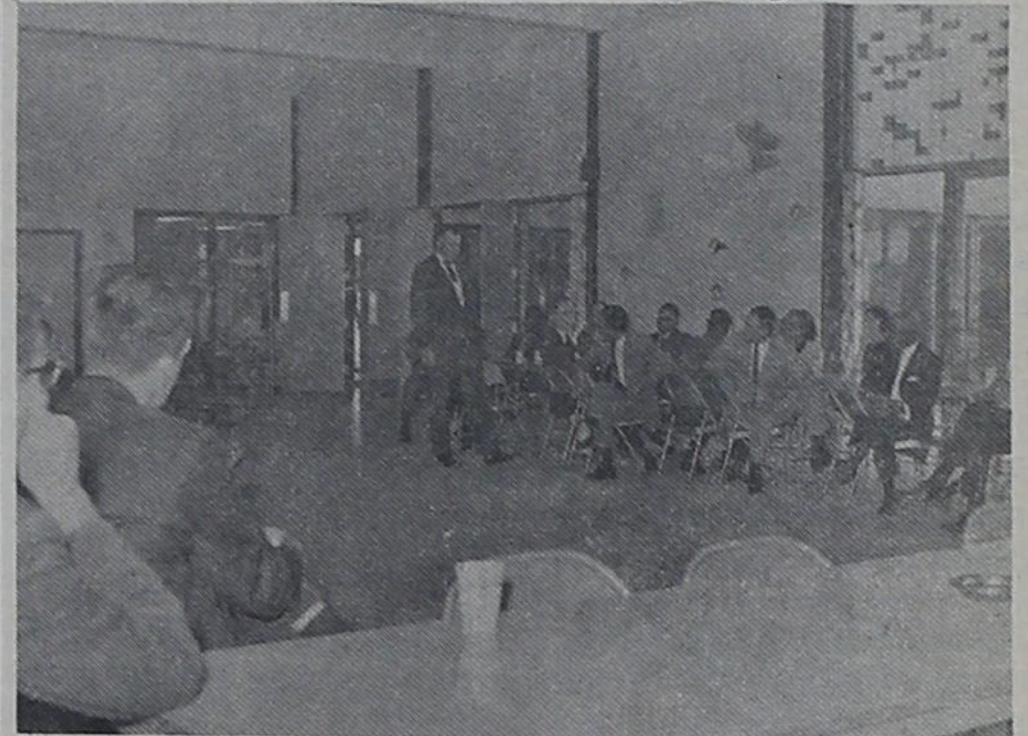

They returned here Sunday night after spending two educational days in South Texas. They can't help but remember the Alamo since it was lodged only 200 yards from the entrance gate of the Hemis-Fair.

As one of the students said, "this is one trip I shall not forget, and I wish every young person as well as adult had the opportunity of seeing this fabulous exhibit."

Accompanying these young people were Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Graves, Robert Crockett and Marshall Garner.

Funds for this trip were raised by many activities of the high school department, including a teen hop and several car washes.

Why Did They Riot?

By: Lester C. Means

The President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders told the white news media and society's leaders to turn to the Negro press for help. Said the Commission's report; "The Negro press-manned largely by people who live and work in the ghetto-could be a particularly useful source of information and guidance about activities in the Negro community. . . Large (white) news organizations would do well to establish better lines of communication to their counter-part in the Negro Press."

The commission said press reports of last year's civil disorders had generally resulted in "exaggeration of both mood and event." It cited reports of white newsmen coaxing Negro youths to throw rocks for the benefit of the cameras, reporting snipers where there were none and giving inflated reports of riot damage.

More importantly, the report said, the white news media both before and after the disorders "failed to report adequately on the causes and consequences of civil disorders and the underlying problems of race relations" The white press has not communicated to most of its audience- which is white-a "feeling for the difficulties and frustrations of being a Negro in the United States" or a sense of Negro culture, thought or history," the report said.

The riot report is a disturbing, almost despairing document. It finds that despite all the marches and all the violence and all the legislation of the last fifteen years, the plight of America's 22 million Negroes grows progressively worse. And the rioting of last summer, as well as this Spring, indeed the whole "explosive mixture which has been accumulating in our cities since the end of the World War 2," is based or traced to a basic single source. Says the commission; "White racism is essentially responsible."

This is a severe moral judgement - one that ought not to be lightly offered or hurriedly credited. It is a somewhat surprising finding, too, since the report as a whole reflects a secular sociological tone. The makeup and methodology of the commission allowed for little in the way of a theological dimension. The role of the churches in urban crisis gets no study in the 250,000-word report.

But what of the charge? Is it really "white racism" that is behind our ghetto problem?

Careful analysis suggests another answer. The underlying evil is not so much prejudice as avarice. The inordinate desire for "more, more, more" is at the heart of the matter. Blame must be shared by both Negro and White.

The white man relegates the Negro to the ghetto, not because of his skin color, but because by and large he appears to be a threat to what the white man thinks are his own best interests. The Negro represents a lower standard of living, and the white man thinks of the granting of equal rights to the Negro as a lowering of the white standard. This is so in housing, in employment, and in education - the three major frontiers of the Negro struggle.

The instiable quest for material goods is in itself a social problem. A study might well show, for example, that a major reason for unemploy-

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

by Walter Burrell

HOLLYWOOD REACTS TO DR. KING'S DEATH

Even Hollywood, usually wrapped in a cobweb of make believe and preposterous ego, was shocked into reality by the sudden and brutal death of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Quincey Jones, talented young black composer-arranger up for two Academy Awards (Best Song - "The Eyes of Love" from "Banning"; Best Musical Score - "In Cold Blood"), was admittedly left with "a sense of overwhelming loss and emptiness. Since I was 15," he added, "the one thing I've dreamed of is getting an Oscar, but now my heart just isn't in it any more."

Don Mitchell, star of the "Ironside" TV series, visited students of the new Aline Locke Senior High school in southeast Los Angeles on Friday, day after the murder of Dr. King, and is credited with helping maintain calm there.

All classes were suspended at 12:30 p.m. that day, but during the morning hours young Mitchell visited several of the school's classes calling for "rational thinking and cool heads" in the wake of Dr. King's death.

Mitchell will head a three-man team of young Negroes from Universal, including screenwriter Jimmie Sherman and this writer, in visiting predominately Negro schools in the Los Angeles area in coming weeks.

Also on Friday, following the assassination, at a luncheon given by the Publicists Guild, the Hollywood group's brilliant black president, Vincent Tubbs, recalled that he and Dr. King had attended the same college, Moorehouse. He offered that the school's motto, "when you wake up, get up; when you get up, do something," would be a good course of action for all Americans to follow these days.

It was also at that luncheon that Tubbs announced that he, actor Marlon Brando and Life photographer-writer Gordon Parks would spearhead a committee to hold a motion picture industry memorial in memory of Dr. King on the day of the civil rights leader's burial.

However, Tubbs later announced that "the action of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in postponing its Oscar ceremonies and ment and underemployment among Negro males in the big cities is the large number of white working mothers who pour in from the suburbs every morning. These women rarely work out of necessity. Many find jobs because they want to raise the yearly family income from $10,000 to $15,000, some because they lack the fortitude to cope with their own children. Then they hire Negro women from the ghettos to care for the children and the house at $2,500 a year.

Greed is common to all races. Many Negroes rioted, not because they hated the white man personally, but because rioting gave them the opportunity to get things they might not otherwise get. The commission contends that the rioter made targets out of white power symbols. Had that been true, the objects of destruction would have been schools, police stations, courthouses, banks and loan companies, and employment agencies. But did you notice that these escaped almost unscathed? The commission itself noted that rioters aimed primarily at stores selling liquor, clothing, and furniture. An estimated 80 per cent of the loss in the Newark riot was in inventory.

Let it be plainly said that IF greed were ever justified, the American Negro would be among the first to qualify. The squalor of the slums-seen, for example, in the estimate of 14,000 cases of ratbite each year, most of them in the inner cities-is a condition for which the smug suburbanity, both christian and non-christian, must share the blame. God will surely judge every contribution to this degradation-whether by acts of commission or omission.

Where does all this bring us? Should we try to buy our way out of vast new commitments to public spending, as the commission recommends? Such spending will help to treat the symptoms and may be a necessary stopgap. But history shows that it is not a permanent solution; public housing and urban-renewal programs have actually contributed to, rather than alleviated racial segregation.

The commission did well to complete and publish its report four months before its deadline so as to give time for remedial action before another long, hot summer begins. THE REST IS UP TO THE CITIZENRY.

Notes From Norm's Notebook

Received a note in the mail last week from the League of Women Voters, requesting that something be done to encourage more Negro women to join the League and take part in their activities. While on the same subject, the YWCA has asked several times what could be done to help the women of the Y meet ladies of the area, any answers?

canceling its Grand Ball is a tribute of such magnitude as to render any efforts on our parts superfluous." He also thanked the Directors Guild, which had offered its facilities as the site of the projected service.

The actual decision to delay the Academy Awards was, to say the least, an historic event. It was the very first time this had happened during the Academy's 40-year history.

The decision to delay the show for two days occurred following the announcement by Sidney Poitier, Diahann Carroll, Sammy Davis, Louis Armstrong and Quincey Jones that they would not participate if it were held prior to Dr. King's funeral.

On the Saturday following the assassination, an hour-long special meeting was held and Academy president Gregory Peck made it clear that "there was a great deal of reasonable opinion gone into before the decision was made."

Telegrams to more than, 1,000 recipients of tickets were sent out advising of postponement of the show and cancellation of the dinner which was to follow. The delay also added to overall costs paid by the Academy since there were two extra days expenses for nominees up for Best Foreign Film who had come from overseas.

Some Hollywood people are speculating that athlete-turned-actor, Jim Brown, could well be one of the tragically vacated leadership of Dr. King. Their reasoning is that Brown's Negro Industrial & Economic Union, supported by both militant and moderate Black people, believes that economics is the answer to the Black man's dilemma.

Other Hollywood personalities have been overheard opinionating that new leadership will strongly resemble the remarkable Los Angeles group called The Black Operational Unity Committee, a central group composed of representatives of all factions of Black thinking.

But the future has yet to unfold. What has been revealed by the recent past and present in Hollywood, however, is that underneath the glitter-covered and pretend world of show business lie the same human reactions to Dr. King's death shared by human beings throughout the world: stunned shock and sincere remorse.

PUSH-BUTTON PREACHERS

By Rev. Raymond Campbell

For lack of a better subject for this statement I have chosen to call those ministers who accept bribes from politicians and those ministers who solicit from merchants unworthily, push-button preachers.

For too long have the Negro minister sold his vote and influence to the highest political payer. Politicians contribute to his church or to him personally in order to bribe him and his congregation into voting for him.

This same political bribery is noticeable in our neighborhood today. It has been brought to my attention that certain ministers have accepted personal money, choir robes, and church contributions from politicians who wish to gain their influence for the Negro vote. Not only political bribery but certain ministers use "Uncle Tomism" to gain personal finance by soliciting from merchants within the city. Last week a minister conned a store out of $400.00 by telling them he was building a church. This minister does not pastor a church. Another minister was given a check for $500.00 by a politician who is running for a high political office for his endorsement and influence among the Negro voters.

Such unethical practices should be spoken against. The individuals involved not only hurt themselves but other Negro clergymen. Not only do they hurt the clergymen but every Negro citizen.

Every Christian should take a stand against these social practices within our neighborhood. Every Negro minister should let it be known that he will not tolerate such conduct and start calling "a spade, a spade". The Ministerial Alliance, although quiet on the matter now, should take a Christian stand against those ministers who solicit money for personal reasons but tell a "lie" in order to get it.

Every Negro minister should let it be known that his vote and the vote of his people are not for sale. As the politician told us last week: "Negro Ministers must stop accepting political bribery." However, each minister should be willing to voice his opinion about the candidate he feels will serve his people the best. There needs to be better organization within the Negro community and, especially, among the Negro ministers.

Let the Hub City know that I, Rev. Raymond Campbell, pastor of Carter Chapel will not be bought or solicit any money under the pretext of doing something I am not, nor will my vote or influence be sold to any political candidate.

After further investigation, police learned that he was in a drunken stage.

New York City will never change. The super-hectic pace of Gothamtown is still torrid. And though it is quite refreshing to be in a city where they don't roll up the sidewalks at midnight, this is really not a fit place to live!

But, I did find Rudy Stevenson—thanks to Andy Stroud, husband and manager of singer Nina Simone. I've been looking for Rudy for months because he is the writer of "I'm Gonna Leave You," the tune recorded last month by Sonya Davis. It was like a family reunion for Rudy and I.

Rudy finished some work for a French vocalist at the Dick Charles Recording Studios, then we repaired to the nearest bar for two hours of uninterrupted "catch-up" conversation. I also gave Rudy his first taste of Sonya's interpretation of his tune. He almost flipped over backward.

"That is the way that I wanted the tune recorded," he said, after playing it over and over again. "To me, the song should have been sung in a low-keyed emotional level, constantly building and modulating until it reached a kind of fever pitch. Sonya has captured this feeling."

The tune was first recorded by Nina Simone on her Philips "High Priestess of Soul" album. But, according to Stevenson, it was recorded in one key signature.

Rudy stated that he had written the song for Jerry Butler, but that it was the kind of tune that could be sung by either a male or female vocalist.

Rudy and I spent several hours in a Westside recording studio with singer Johnny Nash and were amazed at the fantastic things he is currently doing. The story on Johnny Nash will take at least two columns and gives me a grand excuse for my trip to Ocho Rios, Jamaica where Nash has set up his headquarters.

Before I left New York, however, Johnny recorded a song for Sonya to be included on her first album, set for production in July. Armed with a tape recording of the tune and a lead sheet of the Nash-written tune, however, it was decided that this song will be included on Miss Davis' first single. So, back to the studio we go!

Rudy let me listen to several other things he has written and we both agreed that some of his material will be used in Sonya's album. Nash has some pretty fantastic things, too.

The trip was highly successful and Stevenson, who plays guitar, flute, oboe, and about 600 other instruments, has now been hired as a musician with the 5th Dimension. They really deserve each other the Dimensions' gain is certainly Nina Simone's loss.

Wait until the five singers hear some of the things that Rudy has written! He is fantastic and I love him like a brother! See you Among the Stars...

We, the members of the club, would like to express our appreciation to Rev. W.D. Haynes, Rev. A.L. Davis and T.J. Patterson for the panel discussion last Sunday morning. We are proud of you and please run it in the West Texas Times when you all will be on in the future.

Lew Dee and Bill McAlister of KSEL's TTO Show thought it was great and said it should be done at a time when all of Lubbock could hear it.

Thanks to the counselors who met with the group. Where are Mr. W.H. Britt and Mr. Floyd Price? We've missed you. You can't stop now. We still have room on the roll for other girls who want to find a place in life.

Second Place At Odessa Meet

Thirteen high school students from Lubbock who were recent district winners invaded the regional competition of University Interscholastic League contests at Odessa last Saturday.

One of these students was Jacqueline Thomas of Dunbar High School who was a recent winner of District 3-AAA UIL informative speaking contest in Sweetwater.

Jacqueline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hammick Thomas of 1326 East 24th Street, came in second place as she put forth a splendid effort in the contest at Odessa. She was the only Dunbar student to be represented in this year's meet.

Mansker Endorses State Supported Kindergartens

Robert Mansker, a candidate for State Representative from Lubbock, Hockley, and Terry Counties, speaking before a group of Young Democrats from Texas Tech, endorsed the plan to develop a system of state-supported kindergartens in the public school systems of Texas.

Mansker stated, "The situation that has been created in our State, is that children entering school at age six are finding that the group having previously attended kindergarten are nearly ready to enter the second grade. It's an unfair situation for those children that have not attended kindergarten."

"It once was the case," Mansker continued, "kindergartens were simply babysitting services. That time, however, passed by the wayside a few years ago."

Mansker, who served for three terms in the House of Representatives as a legislative assistant to three members, said the addition of public-supported kindergartens would be mandatory in the very near future "if we are to keep the ever-expanding arm of the Federal government from taking more control of our local school districts."

"Our children have the capacity to begin learning the fundamentals of education when they are five

STAYING NO. 1 IN STYLE

New York (NAPS) - Uniforms keep changing with the times and nowhere is this trend more evident than at Hertz Rent A Car, where girl representatives now greet customers in stylish new ensembles of smoky gold trimmed in black (top right). The changing styles at Hertz can be seen in the pictures above, contrasting the new with the boxy, long-hemmed uniform of 20 years ago (top left) and the more feminine suit introduced in 1962 (center).

The girls themselves are responsible for the new ensemble. They asked for something that would flatter them and be comfortable in the varying climates of Hertz's 2,500 car rental locations in the U.S. and more than 100 foreign countries.

Hertz came up with a creation in smoky gold with black striped trim. For warmer weather, girls work in an attractive striped overblouse (right).

The new uniform was field-tested at some of the more than 600 airports, world-wide, where Hertz provides service for "fly-drive" travelers who use a jet plane to cover long-distance hops, then have a rented car reserved and waiting at their destination airport.

"I believe the office of District Judge is important to every family . . . for it is in the courtroom that we make our strongest effort to discourage crime and disorder. An efficient judge saves time and tax money by bringing cases to trial on time. And, above all else, a good judge is dedicated to trying every case fairly, seeking truth and justice, with no favorites under the law."

and they should not be penalized by a lack of facilities due to State inaction," Mansker concluded.

Mansker taught at Texas Tech until February 1st, when he resigned from the faculty to make the race for State Representative, District 76, Place 3. He has also taught in the public school system of the State while working toward his Bachelor of Business Administration.

After the meeting Mansker stated, "If elected State Representative on my pledge to serve on a full-time basis, I will do everything possible to get these public kindergartens in operation."

Mail Users Council Membership Doubles
 M. A. Winegar of Texas Technological College said today the Lubbock Mail Users Council, of which he is chairman, has doubled its membership since the beginning of a drive last September.

More than 72 businessmen and others interested in improving the quality of mail service are now members of the Lubbock council. Thirty-two have been added in the past 3 months. The council is one of more than 350 in communities across the nation.

During a National Postal Forum in September, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien set a goal of doubling the 20,000-membership

Children Come Under New Social Security Benefits

The search is on. The Social Security Offices are looking for 175,000 special children. We don't know who they are or where they are. Their mother is dead and we could not pay the children social security benefits. Because of a change in the law, we can now pay these children. If you know of a child whose mother worked under Social Security before her death, please tell their father or of the councils and called the program one of the most effective methods of making better mail service available to every citizen immediately.

Mr. Winegar explained that the prime purpose of the Mail Users Council is to improve service given to business mail, much of which has cash value to commercial firms.

Many service improvements can be gained by knowledge of post office dispatch times to various parts of the country. Consultation between the postmaster and representatives of businesses and other organizations often bring immediate dollar savings, it was explained by Postmaster E. J. Ohnemus.

The Lubbock postmaster also noted the existence of several nationwide programs whereby businesses and other organizations can help improve mail service. He listed:

- Cycled mailing; businesses avoid the peak mailing time near the first of the month, thus averting pile-ups in the local post office.

-Vertical Improved Mail Service; provision of mail rooms or other arrangements in business buildings to provide early-in-the-day mail service for building tenants.

-Early Warning, whereby mailers alert the post office to impending large volume shipments, allowing the postmaster to schedule adequate manpower and take other precautions to make certain the shipment is handled efficiently.

"Any organization which depends on mail service - and that includes almost every organization - should be represented on our council," said Mr. Winegar, Lubbock council chairman. He continued, "I hope businessmen or other people interested in improving mail service will give me or Postmaster Mr. Ohnemus, a chance to explain the program in more detail."

Away and back from the Central America Country-the Republic of Panama. Bishop and Mrs. W.D. Haynes drove to Miami, Florida and flew from Miami to Panama City, Panama, an aggregation met the people with whom they live to contact the Social Security Representative, at 3428 Avenue H, Lubbock, Texas.

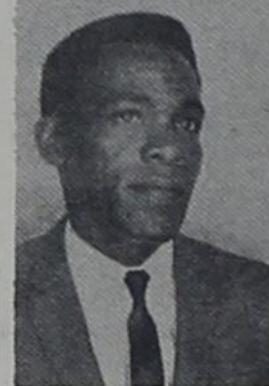

the Bishop and wife. Mayor W.E. Mosby was the host of Bishop and Mrs. W.D. Haynes.

Mrs. Haynes says Panama is a wonderful place to visit, but she is proud to return to Lubbock.
