

Times to Carry Award Winning "Washington Merry-Go-Round"

The Times is adding Jack Anderson's "Washington Merry-Go-Round" column this week.

Anderson, who has made headlines recently by exposing U.S. favoritism for Pakistan during the recent Indo-Pakistani War (negating the U.S. claim of neutrality in the conflict) and the under-the-table dealing between ITT and the Republican party (in which ITT was let off of 3 pending anti-trust suits for a $400,000 campaign contribution) says she has "more secret documents."

"The government," Anderson says, "is so subtle. There is an intense power struggle going on all the time and the only way to stay in power is by controlling the news. Here they pretend to be open, but stamp everything they don't want known 'classified'."

Gloria Jean Hall Crowned "Miss Black Lubbock"

Lubbock has something new going for itself this week. Miss Gloria Jean Hall, 19, a Texas Tech coed, was named the first Miss Black Lubbock last Saturday evening at E. C. Struggs Junior High School. This affair was one of the many activities sponsored by the United Black Coalition.

When asked by Rusty Jones, of KEND Radio Station, what her most important ambition in life, she said to be a high school band director.

Gloria is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hicks and is a music major at Tech. She displayed her musical talent by singing "Misty" in the talent competition.

There were thirteen lovely young Black ladies in this first annual event which was under the leadership of Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, local school board trustee. The crowded halls and cafeteria complex at the junior high school was impressed with the first annual event.

Tanya Priestly, 17, was named first runner-up in the pageant. Miss Priestly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Priestly. She is a senior at Dunbar High School where she is a majorette in the band.

Talented 16-year-old Michelle Crawford, the youngest entry in the pageant, and the daughter of Mrs. Joan Crawford, was selected as second runner-up. She is also a senior at Dunbar and a majorette.

Barbara Price, 23 year-old daughter of Mrs. Janie Price, was selected as the third runner-up.

The Black Spirit Poets received high acceptance with their poetry. The pair, Eric Strong, a 20-year-old student at Prairie View A&M College, and James McCormick, 21, a student at Western Texas College at Snyder, Texas, commanded attention during the hour and a half long pageant. They made it clear what Blackness is all about. They told their story in their own style poetry.

Their original poems and history portrayed the situation of the Black man, his confrontations with the average white and Uncle Sam, and a bountiful supply of witty phrases and situations which made the crowd laugh.

The dynamic duo entertained during intermissions between the different areas of competition and were greeted more riotously with each appearance.

Miss Black Lubbock received a variety of gifts and gifts certificates from several Lubbock merchants, with the total value set at approximately $300.00. The runner-ups also received gifts from local merchants.

Judges for the Saturday night pageant were Mrs. Hazel Taylor, T.J. Patterson, Mrs. A.C. Verner, Deaton Rigsby, all of Lubbock and Mrs. Iris Smith of Amarillo, Texas.

Other members of Mrs. Ervin's committee were Mrs. Rubye Donaldson, Mrs. W.M. Washington, Mrs. Kate Noble, Mrs. Billie Caviel, Mrs. Henrietta Clark and Mrs. Carolyn Ellis.

Third Annual Week-End Of Awareness Goes Over Big Here Last Week

The third annual Week-End of Awareness was a great success here last week. The annual affair, which is sponsored by the United Black Coalition, involved many Lubbock citizens in order to reach the goal of the organization—Involvement.

With two dynamic speakers, Mrs. Julia Brogdon Purnell of Baton Rouge, Louisiana and Reverend Jimmy Jones of Pine Bluff, Arkansas, putting the topping on the cake organized by the Coalition, Black brothers and sisters of the Hub City cannot forget what life is all about.

Rev. Jones took command Saturday afternoon at Mae Simmons Park when he addressed members and friends of the UBC. He warned that we must be prepared as Black people if we are going to compete against the white man.

"We must involve the church in all that we do in our community, and if your minister isn't doing his job, as laymen pull the cover off him and get someone who can get the job done," he told the group.

As Black people he said, "We are the greatest consumers of many products which are produced by the white man, we are the biggest drinkers of Scotch Whisky and can't even distill the drink we drink the most."

Being Black isn't just wearing a natural or Afro hairdo or not taking a bath, we've got to go farther if we are really going to be Black." He added, "We must learn to clean up our lives and quit hurting one another. We're our own enemies."

Mass Community Choir Participates

With the aid of a new approach to reaching young people, the Mass Community Choir, under the direction of Joseph Jones, presented many messages to the members of the Black community. One of the selections by the group on Friday and again on Sunday afternoon was, "Young, Gifted and Black."

The naming of a "Miss Black Lubbock" added much more beauty to this year's affair on Saturday evening in the crowded, hot, E.C. Struggs Junior High School.

We can boast that Lubbock has something new this week. That is, we have an attractive and talented "Miss Black Lubbock." She is Miss Gloria Hall, a junior student at Texas Tech University and a graduate of Dunbar High School.

The Black Spirit Poets, Eric Strong and James McCormick, took the show while the 13 candidates for the "Miss Black Lubbock" title were changing from one costume to another.

Emancipation of the Mind

Mrs. Purnell, who is nationally known as a speaker and past president of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, will never be forgotten for her splendid presentation on Sunday afternoon at New Hope Baptist Church. She told it like it was and ever Black or white person present will never forget the articulate speaker from the state of Louisiana.

Black Democratic Delegates Asked to Meet in Miami One Day Before Convention Opens

by Louise E. Wyche

WASHINGTON, (NBNS)—The 13 members of the Congressional Black Caucus have invited the 500 black delegates expected at the Democratic National Convention in Miami a day early to plan strategy on influencing the convention.

The meeting, which has been set for Sunday, July 9, the day before the official opening of the convention at Miami Beach, is expected to be attended by most of the black delegates chosen so far. And another 250 are expected to be chosen by the opening day of the convention.

The National Black Political Assembly, which was organized in a March meeting in Gary, Ind., is expected to present its demands which are far stronger in many areas than those of the Black Caucus, resolutions condemning Israel as expansionist and a strong anti-busing stand.

But, the Black Caucus, made up of the 13 black members of the U.S. House of Representatives, has presented its own agenda which is comparatively milder than that of the Black Assembly.

Both groups say their agendas should be adopted in the party's platform this year as part of the "price the Democrats will have to pay for the black vote this year."

EDITORIALS

Miss Black Lubbock Belongs to All

We have something new on the Caprock, and there's not another city in West Texas that can boast of having their own queen. In Lubbock we have our own "Miss Black Lubbock," lovely Miss Gloria Jean Hall, a junior at Texas Tech University, who was chosen from a field of thirteen West Texas beauties.

We'd like to thank the committee, under the supervision of Mrs. Joan Ervin, and members of the United Black Coalition for making it possible for us to be able to claim such an honor. We'd also like to thank those young ladies and their parents for participating in order to make the first annual "Miss Black Lubbock" such a success.

At this time we'd like to inform the City of Lubbock that there is a lovely young lady from the Black community who can, and will be more than willing, to represent our city in any given situation which will help our public image. We would also like to encourage the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to get behind this type of effort and help make it something bigger in years to come.

We also hope that next year Lubbock will have a representative in the State Black Pageant. It apparently is too late this year, but with the help of citizens here in Lubbock, we'll have someone there next year.

Since "Miss Black Lubbock" belongs to all of us, we want the nation to see her. This can easily be done over National Television, come Saturday evening when the Coaches All-America Game is played at Jones Stadium, with ABC being responsible for the broadcast. Black beauty, as well as those Black brothers bumping heads on the field, can help make this affair more complete.

Miss Hall, the West Texas Times wishes you all the luck in the world as you represent your community.

Arson Isn't the Way It Should Be In Our Community

Since April of this year, there has been three cases of fires in East Lubbock which could have been the work of an arsonist. In this day and time when we are all trying to pull together, there's no need for the citizens of this community to continue to let this type of activity continue.

Three families have been struck by these unfortunate acts. Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Sandifer, of 1510 East 1st Street, suffered $2,400.00 in damages at their home on April 11th. Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Fair, Sr., of 2007 Date Avenue were hit by a fire and burglary and early Monday morning of this week, at approximately 3:30 a. m., Mrs. Ada Bunton's home at 2205 Elm was destroyed by the work of an alledged arsonist.

In our community, as citizens we're just going to have to get more involved on the things which are happening around us. Whatever has happened to these brothers and sisters in the past few months can very well happen to any of us. Therefore, it is a must that this type of activity cease now.

We would encourage the powers that be to look into these matters and come up with a possible solution. We would also encourage anyone in the community who might have information concerning these cases to contact the Times or local authorities and help put a stop to these crimes.

WASHINGTON—Senator George McGovern has made skillful use of his own party reforms to bring the Democratic presidential nomination almost within his grasp. He now faces the task of gaining support from all factions of his party for the race against President Nixon. But, ironically, McGovern's image as a party reformer may come back to haunt him at the convention.

Since last December, former Massachusetts Governor Endicott Peabody has been a declared candidate for vice president. In March, he became the first candidate ever to capture a primary election for vice president with a victory in New Hampshire.

Subsequently, he made the rounds of state caucuses trying to win over more delegates. He tells me he now has more than 200.

But Peabody isn't waiting around for the presidential candidate to choose him as a running mate. Instead, the whole purpose of Peabody's campaign is to force the party to throw open the convention so the vice presidential candidate can be nominated in a truly democratic manner. Peabody is busy raising money these days and he has already reserved 70 hotel rooms in Miami for his organization.

If anyone besides George McGovern were the likely Democratic nominee, Peabody's crusade would probably be hopeless. But McGovern is the man who led the fight to make the nomination of his party's presidential candidate more democratic. He might find it hard to say no to an effort to do the same for the candidate for vice president.

Perils of Henry

White House adviser Henry Kissinger has described in a top-secret report the perils of negotiating with the North Vietnamese.

As far back as 1967, he arranged for two French intermediaries to carry a peace offering to Hanoi. This led to secret talks which continued in Paris from July through October. The negotiations finally bogged down over what Kissinger called "elliptical references full of double meanings."

The intermediaries' last attempt to break the deadlock illustrates how frustrating it is to deal with the North Vietnamese. The intermediaries phoned North Vietnam's Mai Van Bo at his Paris home. One intermediary did the talking, the other listened on an extension. Here is an excerpt from the secret transcript:

The intermediary said: "We would like to see you urgently."

Bo replied: "There is nothing new to say. The Situation is worsening. There is no reason to talk again."

The intermediary insisted: "There is something new and very important."

Bo repeated: "There is nothing new to say. The situation is worsening. There is no reason to talk."

Again, the intermediary insisted: "There is something very important—perhaps the most important juncture of our exchanges."

But Bo again repeated word for word the original phrase.

No wonder the Bible says: "Blessed are the peacemakers."

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

This week I saw a hell of a lot. Before the third annual Week-End of Awareness, including the losing of the Piggly Wiggly advertisement which has been with us since just after our beginning, this writer was in a frustrated situation. There's no need to get excited about life, all we must do is continue to tell it like it is each Thursday when we hit the street with what's happening in our community.

I must take this time and really give a big applaud to my brothers and sisters who participated in this year's Week-End of Awareness. It was better than last year. As Eddie P. Richardson put it, "We're going to continue to grow each year."

Brother Williamson commented briefly in his column on the Piggly Wiggly thing last week. This week, I'd like to let all Black people know that the West Texas Times will not let anybody own us or tell us what we can or cannot do. We've been in business for over ten years and will continue to maintain the same type of service to the hundreds of readers in the West Texas community, as well as the nation and the world.

When it comes to the point where people start telling us what to do and when to do it; then it's time for us to get out of this business and start doing something else. As long as I'm editor of this media, believe me, this will never happen.

In Lubbock, there are businesses who make a great deal of money off us each week and never advertise in this weekly media. Like Mrs. Julia Brogdon Purnell and Rev. Jimmy Jones, speakers at the Week-End of Awareness activities, told this writer, "Black people are fooled by white businessmen who want nothing but their money. We are the biggest consumers in the world."

I don't care what you may think about the sincerity of the West Texas Times, we worked like hell for ten years for the Black community. Many times, there have been some who have disagreed with what I've said in print, but I could care less. I've got a job to do and if I should hurt some of you, then that's the way the ball bounces.

Too many times I've been cussed out and talked about for not putting certain articles in this paper. Many times, brothers and sisters, the reason articles haven't been printed is because of the lack of advertising.

A week seldom passes when I'm not called and cussed out on what I've written or what I left out. I have tried to maintain good communications with readers without losing my identity as a newspaperman. It's hard and the road is often "tuff".

I hope those of you who had an opportunity to participate in this year's Week-End of Awareness, sponsored by the United Black Coalition, payed attention as to how you have been short changed on many things and can appreciate some of the points, if not all, I've said for many years.

I've never begged any merchant for a hand-out or "donation." I will, however, continue to encourage you to buy merchandise from those persons who advertise in this media. Quit letting the business community laugh at you behind your back. Your money is as green as the other man's and you're just as great.

I had to get some of these things off my mind. Thanks to the United Black Coalition for bringing such talented speakers to town who told it in a positive way on what we have going for ourselves if we only use our resources.

One of your resources is the West Texas Times.

Thought of the Week: "Grief can take care of itself, but to get the full value of a joy, you must have somebody to divide it with."

There is no reason in the world why our newly chosen "Miss Black Lubbock," Gloria Jean Hall, can't be seen on national television Saturday night when the All American Football classic is being played at Jones Stadium.

It would be a step in the future if Miss Hall should be seen on national television, ABC, for she deserves to be seen by the nation.

We're proud of you, Gloria, and we want you to be seen by the millions of viewers of this annual football classic. It can be done and "Miss Black Lubbock" would be good representation for all of Lubbock. With all those Black athletes playing, how about it, ABC? You've got a lot of national Black viewers.

Let's get behind the Nellie Ross Trust Fund, P.O. Box 1469, Lubbock National Bank, Lubbock, Texas, 79401. It's for one of us and we all need to back this type of effort.

We can't forget where we come from, for one day we just may need some type of assistance ourselves. Help this effort and you'll be glad you did.

Police Beat

Theft Over $5—Under $50

Jessie Turman, 3001 East 3rd Place, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that he had a problem one day last week. He reported that someone unknown did take a .22 caliber pistol from his house while he was gone.

He told police that there were guests over at the house prior to it being missing.

The gun was valued at $21.95.

Stabbing

Reginald Hicks, 1001 East 28th Street, Apartment 22, who told police "he wasn't going to tell them a 'damn thing,'" about the stabbing he suffered, and it "would just as well be best that they quit trying to find out," was taken to Methodist Hospital after suffering from stab wounds.

According to the police report, he was stabbed in the upper left thigh.

Aggravated Assault

Carlos Cavala, 2412 Cedar Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that two men came over to his residence. They had been drinking beer. He went on to say he had an argument with them and a fight began.

Carlos was cut under his left eye. He told police that he would file charges this week.

Burglary

R. L. Gilbert, of 2808 Juniper Avenue, Apartment 6, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone broke into his house while he was away one day last week. He told police that when he came back home he found it had been burglarized.

It is believed that entry was gained by breaking a window.

R.L. told police that who ever

Final Rites Read Tuesday For Roy Lampkins

Final rites were read Tuesday at the Lyons Chapel Baptist Church for Roy Lampkins, 31, of 2435 East 28th Street, who was dead on arrival at Methodist Hospital. Lampkins was shot in a dispute last Friday morning in Southeast Lubbock.

Rev. A.L. Dunn, minister of New Hope Baptist Church, officiated the services with burial being held in the City of Lubbock Cemetery under the direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Ruth Lampkins; a daughter, Twila Lampkins, of the home, two stepdaughters, Stephanie Sadler and Kala Sadler, both of the home; a brother, Roger Lampkins of Lubbock; and a half brother, Andrew McNeil of Gonzales.

broke into his house did take approximately $20 worth of meat, three dozen eggs and some jelly. He makes known that approximately $30.00 worth of food was taken.

House Burglary

Samuel O. Thomas, Jr., 2607 Fir Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone broke into his house.

Entry was apparently gained by raising a window to the bathroom and merely crawling inside.

Taken from the house was a special built record player and approximately $300.00 worth of record albums.

targets for American bombers.

They are called Gray Ghosts because they usually wear gray fatigues and disappear like ghosts. But they are really South Vietnamese commandos and Meo tribesmen, who have been recruited and trained by the CIA to operate behind the lines.

In the past, they have harassed the Ho Chi Minh trail complex. They planted electronic devices to measure the traffic, laid bobby traps on the trails and staged hit-and-run attacks against truck parks and supply depots.

Sometimes, the raids were conducted by joint teams of U.S. Special forces and South Vietnamese rangers. These were called MACSOG teams. Unhappily, the raiders often found the enemy waiting for them and suffered severe casualties.

Other intelligence teams slipped inside North Vietnam to gather intelligence and to guide U.S. planes by clandestine radio to bombing targets.

The MACSOG teams and the Gray Ghosts have now combined to harass the North Vietnamese on their home grounds. The Americans no longer accompany the raiders into North Vietnam. But crack raiders, skilled at hit-and-run warfare, are slipping into North Vietnam from Laos and landing by boats on the North Vietnamese coast. They are striking at the nerve centers of the North.

Mrs. Ada Bunton's residence, at 2205 Elm Avenue, was destroyed by fire last Monday morning. The origin of the fire was believed to have been due to the work of an arsonist. This is the second case of suspected arson in east Lubbock in the past two weeks.

The secret intelligence reports indicate these Gray Ghosts are giving the North Vietnamese a lesson in guerrilla warfare.

Intelligence Notes

The Arab extremists who recruited four Japanese terrorists to shoot up Lod airport in Tel Aviv are loosely affiliated with extremist groups around the world. Intelligence reports claim that the Arab group has ties stretching from Japan's United Red Army to South America's Tupamaros. The Arab extremists have even had contact with a Jewish Maoist group, called Matzpen, inside Israel.

The Air Force has been showering North Vietnam not only with bombs but with propaganda leaflets. There has been criticism inside the Pentagon, however, that the leaflets are amateurish and aren't likely to influence the North Vietnamese. The Voice of America has also stepped up its broadcasts to North Vietnam from six to 13 hours a day.

Black History Notes for Busy Newspaper Readers: When thousands of blacks gathered for the 12th annual Memorial Day Rodeo and Homecoming festivities in the largest all-black town in America today: Boley, Oklahoma, here recently—there were others of all racial strains in Oklahoma who came to clean up the grave of a now famous black cowboy, Bill Pickett, and cut the weeds around the monument built in honor of an Indian chief, White Eagle of the Poncas.

They were members of the Marland Historical Society (near Ponca City, Oklahoma) who are making a bid to have the stone tower declared a national monument, where White Eagle and Pickett, originator of the rodeo contest of bulldogging and the first black cowboy to be enshrined at the Cowboy Hall of Fame, is buried about 50 yards in front of the monument.

The grave is marked with a sandstone tombstone that reads, "Bill Pickett—C.S.C.P.A., letters standing for Cherokee Strip Cow Punchers Association. Pickett worked for the Miller brothers for over 25 years, performing his specialty of "bulldogging" in the Wild West Show here and abroad.

There are six unmarked graves at the base of the monument. In addition to Pickett, it is believed that Henry Clay, another black cowboy and Curbstone Kirby, a Spanish-American war veteran who was an ox driver at the famous 101 Ranch of Col. Joseph C. Miller and brothers, are buried there.

Thousands of Oklahomans and others from over the nation are hoping that this segment of history concerning Chief White Eagle, Bill Pickett, the Miller brothers and the 101 Ranch will be preserved for future generations. If you think so too, writer Dr. V.R. Easterling, executive director of the Oklahoma Historical Society, care of State Capitol Bldg., Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

This correspondent has been invited to address the Leadership Training School of the McAlester District of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church. He has been asked to speak on Black Capitalism and the Black Church. The meet of mostly young people will be held at the newly erected and modern Amos Temple Church in Boley from June 12-16. Meeting with these young minds should be interesting and challenging. Leaders include Mrs. G.M. Thompson of Ardmore, M.C. Hardy of McAlester, Mrs. D. DeBose of Ardmore, O. Winn of Muskogee, Mrs. G. Simons of Muskogee, Mrs. T.T. Spann of Boley, Director and Dean, Mrs. J.A. Burris of Broken Bow and T. Miles of Boswell, Oklahoma—Theme of meeting—Jesus Christ-The True Liberator. Rev. H.W. Morrow is host pastor; F.E. Nunley, host Presiding Elder and Bishop W.H. Amos, presiding bishop.

Concluding Statement from College of Bishops from Christian Methodist Episcopal Church recently held in Shreveport, Louisiana: (Statement to County)

"We urge you to be students of the issues on all levels of society, and be citizens who feel compelled to express their wills at the polls. We will not hold our peace concerning the sinfulness of the war in South-east Asia, and our complicity as a nation in racist practices in Africa and South America.

"Our fellowship on all levels with the churches says that we are ecumenical in spirit. Ecumenism of the churches is concerned with oneness in Jesus Christ. But we would remind you that the prayer of our Lord is the Gospel of John 17 presupposes the Genesis creative act of God the Father, who created all human beings out of one blood, so that they are one by creation, one by sin, and can be one by redemption.

"God's mission finds man broken in Church and society and therefore in need of wholeness. The unity we seek as the Church is much more than institutional; it is also unity which is spiritual, human, with social and moral depth sufficient to create an environment and climate for wholeness in Jesus Christ and in His Church and society.

"The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church must advocate God's design to heal the Church and society with it. We should continue in the fellowship of the churches to motivate true oneness in Church and society. God calls us to remain ourselves so long as true oneness for church and society is doubtful in the fellowship and movement of churches."

He That Have Pity on The Poor

Amarillo—I have been disturbed ever since I read the article about Mrs. Nellie Ross and her great loss. I don't feel like this can be pinned on Urban Renewal. What disturbs me is the fact that the churches of Lubbock did not come to her rescue. What are the benevolent offerings being used for and other funds which most people so freely contribute to through the churches. An act like this sure makes the churches stand out in the sight of the people out in the world. I have seen gamblers get $500.00 from another gambler with no questions asked, yet $200.00 was not raised to save an old lady's home and a lifetime dream. How do you feel Lubbock and West Texas?

The Soul Patrol of KSEL are to be commended for their effort in initiating the trust fund. This will help some, but the great damage has been done.

It is my prayer and hopes that this will never happen in Amarillo nor again in Lubbock. It is my belief that we are so involved with self that we fail to see what is happening to our brothers and sisters. We hold our heads so high that we never see the person that is down. We feel like, "I have mine, you ought to have yours." There are others that never look up to see where their blessings are coming from. He that have pity on the poor, lendeith to the Lord. Think about it.

Mrs. Dorothy Parrish of 1613 NW 15th is yet confined to her home, but is much better.

Reverend Susie Neal is home from the hospital and doing fine.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

(Editor's Note: A number of U.S. newspapermen and columnists were invited to Mexico City last week for briefings on the current visit to the United States of Mexico President Luis Echeverria Alvarez. Echeverria dedicated a Mexican Cultural Institute in San Antonio June 19, also visited Washington, D.C., New York and Los Angeles.)

Mexico City—Mexico opened an institution of higher learning in the United States this week—in San Antonio, Texas. Why?

The answer to that question lies in the personality, leadership and goals of Mexico President Luis Echeverria Alvarez. The new dynamic President of Mexico is visiting the U.S. this week to discuss a couple of major problem areas between Mexico and this country.

If his track record here comes close to his achievements in Mexico since his inauguration December 1, 1970, he will go back home with some commitments about the Mexican laborers in California and the salinity problems of the Mexicali Valley caused by the Colorado River water.

His visit to Texas gave this state a clue to his major goals in Mexico. He dedicated the San Antonio Mexican Cultural Institute—located in Hemisfair's Mexico pavilion. It is symbolic of the principal changes Echeverria is attempting in Mexico's way of life.

His enthusiasm and determination to solve Mexico's problems has become contagious among all government leaders in his country.

His common workday is 12 to 14 hours—with no complaints from Mexico's government leaders and their staffs.

There is no "siesta" in Mexican governmental circles these days. The new leadership in Mexico is determined also to get rid of the "manana" image—and turn it to "today and tomorrow."

They recognize internal problems—and have programs to do something about them.

"Most of Mexico's problems can be solved by education," Echeverria believes.

His program for educational reform in Mexico points out the fact that he means what he says.

Echeverria anticipated the country's education problems before he started his six-year term as president (a president may not succeed himself in that country).

"President Echeverria studied the country's population statistics and discovered that 500,000 children per year will be entering the elementary education program," states Mexico's Secretary of Education Victor Bravo Ahuja.

"Mexico has a population of 50,000,000—half of which is in the rural areas. One-fourth of the population is between six and 14 years of age. There were no schools for 150,000 students wanting to enter elementary school.

"More than 12,000 new teachers must be trained each year to educate these new students," the Secretary of Education continued.

Mexico will have 11,000,000 or one-fifth of its entire population in elementary school this year. Only 57% of the elementary school students finish grade school—and this is up from 45% two years ago. Echeverria's goal is to get 75% of the grade school students into high school.

He does not believe all high school graduates should go to college. (There are 133,000 students attending the University of Mexico this year.)

Echeverria has more than doubled the budget for technical institutes. Although the cost of college is only $12 to $15 a year tuition in Mexico, the Mexico President is trying to direct high school graduates into technical and trade institutes.

"We believe that it is a mistake to send everyone to a university. The President's education policy has three principal points," the Secretary of Education relates, "giving students a chance to accept every educational opportunity, get into their working lives without frustration, and the economic opportunity for everyone to be educated."

Here are some facts and figures given to newsmen by Mexico's Secretary of Education Victor Bravo Ahuja.

+ 88% of education in Mexico is financed now by the Federal government.

With all of this interest in education—it is easy to see why President Echeverria wanted to open a Mexican educational institution in San Antonio.

More buildings will be added later, classrooms, labs and a library. Operated by the Secretary of Foreign Affairs Emilio O. Rabasa, the Institute will feature classes in Spanish for four levels, also anthropology, literature and Mexican history.

Exhibits of Mexican arts and crafts, Mexican painting and excavations of ancient temples will be featured also.

Austin, Tex.—Legislative leaders are predicting a quick end to their long-dreaded special session which began last Wednesday.

Gov. Preston Smith caught nearly everybody by surprise when he announced he has discovered an additional $125 million in federal funds which can be applied to welfare.

The federal windfall for social services to the needy was Smith's secret weapon to finance 1973 state operations without need for any new taxes.

Most lawmakers had concluded he would recommend an eight months' budget for welfare to make it possible to avoid another tax bill before he leaves office.

The governor proposed a $4.1 billion budget for 1973 (818 million from general revenue.)

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and House Speaker Rayford Price say they are optimistic about chances of finishing the budget-writing job in two to three weeks.

Submission of other matters would keep the special session going longer, although Smith has indicated he is reluctant to broaden the call. A proposed new code of ethics has been drafted, and there

Lubbock Woman Working in Union City, N.J. As Commercial Writer for Black Radio Station

Miss Carolyn Kaye Rollison, a recent graduate from Texas Southern University at Houston, is working for a Black radio station, WNJK, in Union City, New Jersey. Prior to being hired by this station, she traveled to Elizabeth, N.J. and Howard University in Washington, D.C.

Miss Rollison's new duty will include copy writing and other tasks for the station.

While attendant TSU, she was employed by the University in the chemistry laboratory and did work as telephone operator for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

With ambitions of becoming a news reporter in the future, she sends her regards to all who made it possible for her to be where she is today, especially Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rollison, of 2111 East 29th Street, her parents.

She and her family are members of Bethel A.M.E. Church.

will be pressure on the governor to submit it.

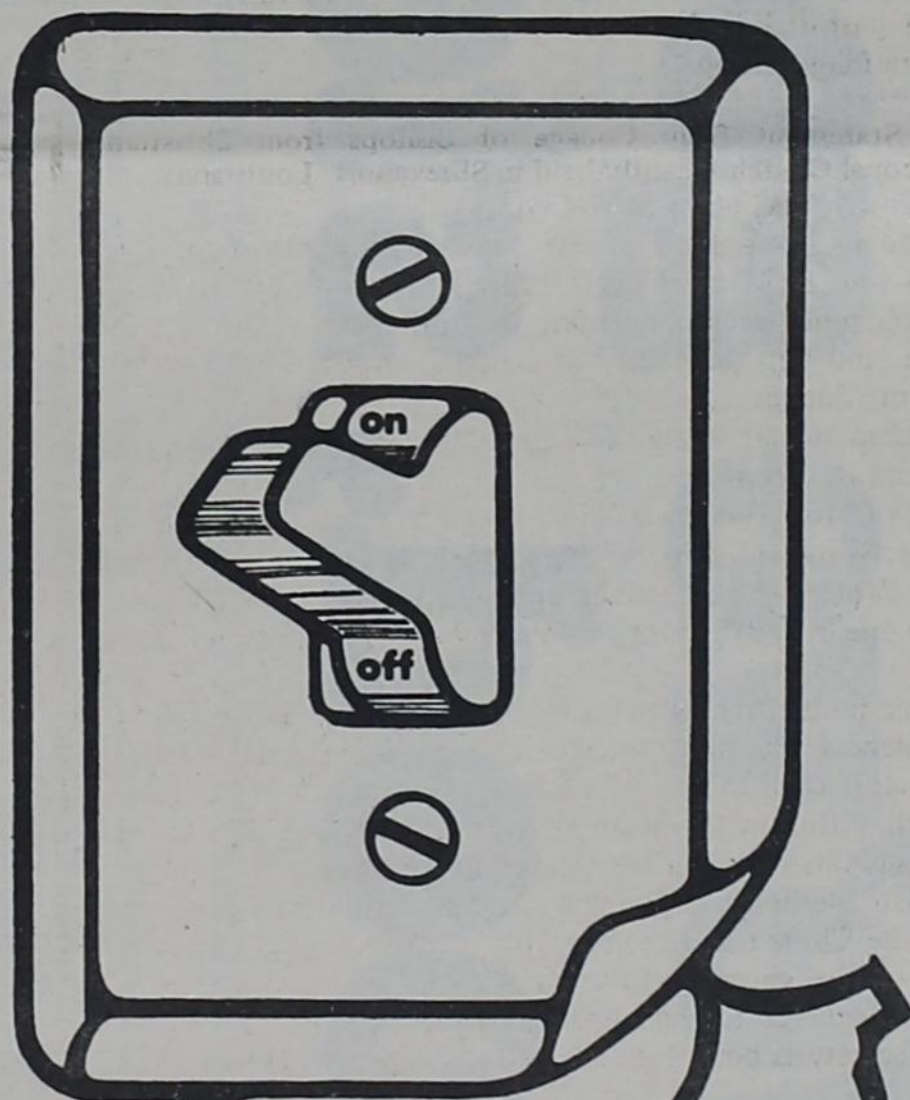

Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell told the joint finance committee he fully expects to get written confirmation from Health, Education and Welfare officials next week that the additional funds will be available.

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, who must certify foreseeable revenue before it can be obligated by the legislature, wants firm evidence the $125 million will be available if he permits it to be counted in 1973 budget-writing. If Calvert declines to certify it, lawmakers almost certainly will turn again to the eight-months' welfare budget idea.

Celebrates 80th Birthday

Family and friends of Mr. Jesse Johnson joined in a family dinner last Sunday as he celebrated his 80th birthday at his home, 2502 Date Avenue.

A native of Meridian, Texas, Jesse has been a long-time resident of Lubbock and has been ill for several months. He admitted that he enjoyed the Sunday get-together.

He was an active member of the Messiah Presbyterian Church until his illness. He is an elder and the oldest member of the church now.

Post Band Member Wins State Honors

Post, (Special)—Playing "Syrinx" by Dubussy, Sherell Guichard of the Post High School band received a Division II rating in flute solo at the state University Interscholastic League invitational solo and ensemble contests held recently in Austin, Texas.

Sherell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Guichard of Post, qualified for the state contest by receiving a Division I rating at the regional level.

The state invitational contest is so difficult that Medals are given for both Division I and Division II ratings, according to Post Band Director Herb Germer.

Sherell took private lessons from Germer and from Margeret Redcay, flute instructor at Texas Tech. The lessons with Mrs. Redcay were paid for by the Post Music Club.

Sherell's high rating in the flute contest at Austin isn't the only honor she has received during the year. She was chosen for all-region band and as an alternate for the all-state band. She was named "Outstanding Bandsman" in the Post High School band, and played in the honor Band at the Texas Tech Band Camp.

Her director says, "Sherell is as fine a bandsman as I've ever taught. I am very proud of her accomplishments and know she will not be satisfied until she reaches the top."

New Directions Program to Operate This Summer

New Directions, the Y.W.C.A. program for pregnant girls and young mothers, is offering a summer session of supportive services. During the summer months, they do not have regular school classes. They will provide, however, instruction in sewing, cooking, nutrition, infant and baby care, and recreation, such as crafts, picnics, weiner roasts and field trips. The summer session is open four days a week from 1:00 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.

Transportation help and nursery facilities are available.

All interested persons should call Mrs. Harry Hamilton or Mrs. Dillard Harris at 792-4753.

Mrs. Addie Belle Green and her sister, Mrs. Ruby James of Navasota, Texas, spent the week-end here visiting their sister and family, Mrs. Mae Emma and Joe McGowen. They left Sunday afternoon for home.

Donna Jones Takes Post, Says She, "Loves Working with Little People!"

"I love working with little people because they are themselves, and I love being able to help them," says Miss Donna Jones, head teacher at the Chatman Head Start Day Care Center, 2305 Cedar Avenue.

Miss Jones was recently hired by the board of directors of this center to implement constructive programs for young people. This program is funded by the local Community Action Board.

A graduate of Dunbar High School, Miss Jones is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don G. Jones, of 1838 Manhattan Drive. She received her B.A. degree from Trinity University at San Antonio, Texas in May of this year. She majored in sociology.

Prior to working in this program, she has had child care experience as a volunteer in the Head Start program in Slaton, Texas. "I hope my role with this center will be of a constructive nature that it will help develop young people in a positive way," she says.

Her hobbies include tennis, piano, organ, horse back riding and she also enjoys playing the violin. She is a member of the Messiah Presbyterian Church here in Lubbock.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Time is a-wasting, so this is the final importation to all readers—Buy your tickets NOW for the All-America game to be played Saturday night. You'll see not only a great football game, but great players; and a large portion of the money collected will stay right here to help worthwhile projects.

The fever for the game has been building steadily. It began with an appearance by Joe Gilliam, Tennessee State quarterback, built up a little more pressure when Chuck Fairbanks visited, increased with Eddie Robinson's inspirational approach and really started smoldering when Bill Murray and Jim Sweeney hit town.

The coaches all arrived Friday, along with the majority of players and the full round of action started Saturday. All anyone has to do is visit Jones Stadium and watch a workout to be impressed with the players.

Lubbock's reputation as host has spread rapidly. Both visiting coaches and players lose little time telling you the great things they have heard about the city and its treatment of the visitors.

Murray, former Duke coach and the executive director for the sponsoring Coaches Assn., said that one of the biggest selling points had been the fact that players were assigned to Lubbock families, who hosted them all week.

That's only part of it, of course. The players are housed comfortably, they have "gentle" workouts once a day and they are given free time, as well as having social events available if they want to participate. It's all informal and relaxed—until game time, when they put out 100 per cent.

Murray said that it was much easier to get the really top players this year because of Lubbock's reputation for making the players feel so much at home.

"They're all outstanding," Murray said. "Most of them are from the top ranks. Some you'll never have heard of because they come from the so-called small colleges. In many cases, these colleges could hold their own with the major colleges."

Murray also made another telling point. Many of the players coming to Lubbock did not receive collegiate honors as outstanding, but the pros, who look at the players differently, selected many of the Lubbock game players for their squads as future greats. That, in itself, ought to tell you something.

As much as I hate it, the game will be played without my being present. I hope to be able to see it on tv. The reason is, even as this appears, I'm camping deep in the woods of New York State's Adirondack mountains.

I had planned a July vacation, but my wife forced a change because of teaching duties, so the whole thing was moved up a month. The daughter and her family from Houston are with us for their first camping experience.

I figure there just has to be some place in Saranac Lake that has a tv set and would welcome some bearded, rough-clothes characters to watch the game. It should be worth it, because I look for a thrilling game.

The next column will have more about camping in northern New York, an area not greatly explored by residents of the South Plains. The Adirondack Park, in which we camp, is the largest forest park in the nation, over 6 million acres.

It's an area that has a lot of mountains, entirely unlike the Rockies, with lakes, ponds, rivers and brooks all over. There is public camping virtually anywhere inside the park and it's all free. If you spend more than three days and two nights, all you have to do is get a camping permit. Again, no charge.

There's great brook trout fishing on one hand, as well as small-mouth bass, walleye pike, perch, sunfish, landlocked salmon and lake trout on the other. But more about that in the next missive in this space.

ed. "As Black people, we are 12% of the total population and 3/10ths of 1% of all local political offices are held by Black people. True, we have our share of poverty in this country, some 30%," she said.

"President Nixon is busy sending us pictures of all the Blacks who he has appointed to some position with his administration, but he refuses to publish the same pictures and names in a daily media, he's keeping us in the background, we can't continue to let things like this continue," she went on to say.

In looking at education of Black children, she said, "We are being misused. We've been bussed for years. Bussing is nothing but racism. It leads to nothing but open education and this is no good," commented the Reading Specialist from Southern University.

"Our school systems in this country who are hung up on integration, send our better Black teachers to their schools and send those who are not qualified to the Black schools, thus robbing our Black children of an education," she said.

In commenting on the publication by a well known author, entitled, "Integration is A Bitch," she said the white man has written most of the literature about integration and knows the least about it."

"There's as much hate among us as Black people as there is white folks hating us. We've got to stop hating one another and start showing love for each other," she said loud and clear.

"Us people over age 30 who forgot once that we were young must learn to work with our young people. We, too, was once young and there are some skeletons in our closets. Those young people who participated in sit ins, walk ins and lay ins, made it possible for us old folks to enjoy some of the fruits of their labor. They were sincere in what they were doing, so quit downing the young people of this country," she concluded.

Afro-American HISTORY

Madam C.J. Walker (1869-1919)
Cosmetics Manufacturer

While America has produced hundreds of millionaires, few ex-washerwomen are numbered among their ranks. One of the first American women of any race or rank to become a millionaire, in her own right, or through her own efforts was Sarah Breedlove Walker.

Orphaned in her native Louisiana at six, married to one C.J. Walker at fourteen and widowed at twenty, Madam C. J. Walker invented a new method of straightening hair. Before her time, Negro women who wanted to de-kink their hair had to place it on a flat surface and press it with a iron, In 1905 Madam Walker invented her hair softner and a special straightening comb. For millions of women these inventions were a godsend. Overnight she found herself in business; with assistants, agents, schools, and eventually; a manufacturing company. Before her death in 1919 Madam Walker could count over 2,000 agents selling an ever-expanding line of Walker products and demonstrating the "Walker System" of treating hair.

A former laundress, Madame Walker proved herself a competent business-woman. She organized her agents into clubs, trained operatives for her system, allocated franchises and provided the cosmetics and equipment required. Her payroll was over $200,000 annually. She donated large sums to charity and to educational institutions. She even founded an academy for girls in West Africa and bequeathed $100,000 to it in her will.

Madame Walker constantly made headlines, both with her business and her social activities. In New York, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, she build Villa Lewaro, a $250,000 mansion. She furnished it with a gold-plated piano, a $60,000 pipe organ, Hepplewhite furniture, Persian rugs and many hugh oil paintings. Through her doors marched a "Who's Who" of American Negro citizens. Yet, through it all, Madame Walker remained a pleasant, kindly person, genuinely interested in those less fortunate.

Madame Walker's ability and ingenuity laid the foundation of the cosmetics industry among American Negroes and spurred the interest in beauty among Black women.
