Yanks Capture Tarlac

Americans Lack 60 Miles Before Fall Of Manila

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor
Armored American columns rolled through the smoldering ruins of Tarlac today to within 60 miles of Manila as all Allied offensives against the Japanese gathered speed.

U. S. Sixth army troops on Luzon island approached the half-way mark on the road to Manila at Tarlac while Allied amphibious forces captured three more islands—two in the Philippines and one off Burma on the seaway to Rangoon and Singapore.

Reports from Tokyo and Honolulu indicated U. S. Third fleet forces were again smashing at Formosa. Land-based planes ranged beyond Formosa to hit a convoy off the China coast, struck at Wake Island, the Kuriles, and the Bonins and Volcanos some 700 miles south of Tokyo.

Superforts reconnoitering the Osaka area of Japan proper brought back photos showing the great Kawasaki aircraft plant was knocked out in a single raid.

Converging U. S. Sixth army columns also swept over two more airfields, bringing to five the number they hold on Luzon island. They are only 22 miles from Clark Field, the most important in the Philippines. Patrols fanned out to take Victoria and La Paz on their left flank. La Paz is 58 air miles from Manila.

Tanks and infantrymen in the lagging eastern flank captured half a dozen towns and two airfields, solidifying their hold on the Manila-Baguio highway and pursued retreating Japanese over lateral roads to the east.

They still fought bitterly for Rosario, on the northeastern extremity of the battlefield. U. S. fighter planes ranging beyond to Aparri valley destroyed 15 enemy planes on the ground at Tuguegarao.

Sixteen others bound from Formosa to reinforce the almost nonexistent Japanese airforce in the Philippines were shot down by Third fleet carrier planes. Tokyo reported carrier aircraft were again attacking Formosa and admitted damage to several airfields and cities.

MacArthur disclosed U. S. amphibious forces have seized Ponso and Poro islands in the Camotes group in the Philippines west of Leyte island where 68,839 Japanese have been killed and 692 taken prisoner. An estimated 60,000 others have been killed trying to reach Leyte.

British amphibious forces in their third leapfrog advance this year captured Ramree island off Burma's west coast. The 80-mile advance was made under cover of heavy navy shellfire.

In the North Burma-China sector, Chinese troops captured Wanting and closed from two directions on Japanese units clinging to a small sector of the Burma Road.

Youth Killed In Auto Mishap

Ernundo (Ednundo) Adame, 20, was killed in an automobile mishap 16 miles northwest of here at 10 p. m. Sunday.

Justice of Peace Walter Grice returned an inquest verdict in which he held that Adame died as the result of a broken neck, sustained when the car in which he was riding overturned. Officers said they understood that two companions riding with Adame escaped without material injuries. The youth had been in this area for the past five months, being a member of a crew that had been working on the George White farm. Nalley Funeral home was to ship the body to San Antonio Monday evening for interment.

Owens Pleads Not Guilty To Charge

Melvin Owens, negro, entered a plea of not guilty Saturday in 70th district court when he was arraigned on a rape indictment before Judge Cecil Collings.

After summoning the defendant's attorney when Owens volunteered an explanation of his case, Judge Collings set the trial date for Jan. 29.

Anger Flares As Wallace Gets Job

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—A move to strip Henry A. Wallace of control over federal loan and financing agencies as commerce secretary was started in the senate today by Finance Committee Chairman George (D-Ga.).

Evidencing the opposition to Wallace's nomination among southern democrats and republicans, George offered legislation to reestablish the federal loan agency as a separate and independent arm of government.

He acted shortly after the senate received President Roosevelt's formal nomination of Wallace to succeed Jesse Jones, a post for which Jones said the former vice president is unsuited.

Mr. Roosevelt's rejection of a congressional request that Jones be retained as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its subsidiary agencies in the event of Wallace's appointment stirred bitter resentment on Capitol Hill.

As the storm gathered Wallace himself issued a statement in which he said he saw opportunity in his new post to raise the lot of the "common man" to a point where he will be no less prosperous in peace than in war. Wallace called for "full and efficient employment" throughout the nation and for "opportunity for free enterprise."

George's bill, which he introduced without floor comment, would set aside President Roosevelt's executive order of 1942 transferring the federal loan agency, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its subsidiary agencies to the jurisdiction of the commerce department.

The order was issued when Jones was both commerce secretary and loan administrator. The bill calls for the appointment by the president of a $12,000 administrator to head the re-established agency.

In his statement Wallace said: "I am happy that the president has named me to a position providing for continuous activity in the public welfare. "In the highly geared world of today and tomorrow, there must be full and efficient employment throughout the nation."

The senate received Wallace's formal nomination from the White House shortly after it convened at noon.

Wallace laid down a four-point program in which he declared that "opportunity for free enterprise among business men must be expanded, particularly among small business men."

House Committee Says Agriculture Will Not Be Classed As Critical

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The house military committee wrote an anti closed-shop amendment into manpower legislation today and refused to specify agriculture as a critical industry.

The amendment, which members said was approved 14 to 10 in a closed session, stipulated that no man taking an industrial job at the request or direction of his draft board shall be required to join a union as a condition of employment.

Opponents contended the amendment, offered by Representative Andrews (R-NY), would violate closed or union shop contracts between industry and labor.

The committee likewise turned down an amendment by representative Stewart (D-Okla) to write into the work-or-be-jailed legislation a directive to selective service to "consider agriculture as a critical war industry" and to issue at once a directive to local draft board ordering them to follow the letter of the Tydings amendment. This portion of the selective service law spells out conditions under which farm workers may be deferred from induction.

Oil Refinery Is Hit By Forts In Howling Blizzard

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Two hundred Flying Fortress bombers pounded a synthetic oil refinery at Sterkrade in the Ruhr today despite howling winter gales over the continent.

The bombers, escorted by 100 Mustang fighters from bases in Britain on the short trip across the Rhine in northwestern Germany.

The day raid followed an attack on Kassel, 75 miles south of Hannover, last night by RAF bombers.

Yesterday American heavy bombers from Britain, flying in temperatures as low as 67 degrees below zero, plastered rail targets in southwest Germany while Italy-based bombers attacked objectives in Austria.

The Mediterranean Allied Air Forces announced 17 bombers were missing from the more than 1,500 sorties flown yesterday. Two enemy planes were shot down. The U. S. Britain-based air force losses were not yet disclosed.

Funeral Rites For Mrs. J. Lee Jones

COLORADO CITY, Jan. 22—Funeral service for Mrs. J. Lee Jones, for 43 years prominent in Colorado City club, church, and civic affairs, has been set for 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Rev. Dick O'Brien of Big Spring will assist the pastor of the First Baptist church here, Rev. John D. Simons, who will officiate.

Ill of a heart ailment for the past seven months, Mrs. Jones was recently thought to be improved and her death came suddenly at the family home Saturday evening. She was 66. Born Mary Christine Cox in Stephenville, April 17, 1878, she was married to Mr. Jones in Carbon, Eastland county, February 9, 1902, and came to Colorado City as a bride.

She had gathered material for the writing and the publication of a pictorial history of Mitchell county. Her historical collection has been termed "outstanding" by several Texas history authorities with whom she had consulted concerning her plans for a book.

Her husband, secretary of the Colorado City Independent school district board, and two sons, survive her. They are Lt. Comdr. J. Lee Jones, Jr., stationed with the USNR at New Orleans, La., who is expected to arrive for the funeral Monday, and S/Sgt. Raymond Jones, veteran of the North African and Sicilian campaigns, and now stationed in France with a military police unit.

Three grandsons, five sisters and six brothers also survive. Her sisters and brothers are Mrs. Don H. Biggers, Stephenville; Mrs. T. H. Hunt, Teague; Mrs. Day C. Stephenville; Mrs. New McGough, Coleton, Calif.; Mrs. Leslie Crowder, Colorado City; Ed T. Cox, Eastland; H. C. Cox, Malessa, Tenn.; Frank Cox, Waco; Proctor Cox, Houston; and Percy Cox, Waxahachie.

Dewey Absent As GOP Heads Meet

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 22 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York took hand indirectly today in the republican national committee's midwinter meeting by sending word to some members that Herbert Brownell, Jr., is doing "a grand job" as chairman.

Dewey was conspicuously absent as the committee convened today to hear a report from Brownell outlining his plans for formation of a four-year organization designed to sink the democrats in 1948 congressional election and the 1948 presidential contest.

In a statement presented to the committee at the opening session, Brownell declared "any attempted use of party machinery for the advancement or blocking of any individual in his personal ambitions shall be completely prohibited."

Thus disclaiming any intent to foster the candidacy of Governor Dewey, Brownell said he hoped this policy might become permanent.

Brownell laid before committee members an eight-point program geared primarily toward winning 1946 congressional elections.

Nazi Vehicles Are Trapped-Destroyed

By JAZMES M. LONG
PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP)— Allied warplanes caught 3,000 German vehicles, the bulk of transport of an entire army, in an attempted sneakaway from the Ardennes salient through the Siegfried line to the Rhine, and tore them to pieces today in a ruinous daylight attack.

The planes attacked with bombs, rockets and machineguns. The Nazis had waited too long to run the gantlet down the snow drifted escape roads and were caught on two highways in concentrations so thick that the Allied pilots said afterwards "we couldn't miss."

There was every indication that the ruin would be the greatest since the wounded Wehrmacht fled for the Seine through the Falaise gap. The destruction of equipment promised virtually to immobilize at least one of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's two mobile reserve armies.

The U. S. Third army fought into the Luxembourg road center of Wiltz (pop. 5,000), southern anchor of receding German lines southward from St. Vith. The achievement marked a mile advance across the Wiltz river during the night.

The U. S. First army closed within two and a half miles of St. Vith. Gen. Eisenhower's communique listed 14 captured towns, nearly all in Belgium and Luxembourg, where the deflated bulge was less than 150 square miles.

The British moved within 35 miles of Dusseldorf and within five miles of the Roer river in a fresh two-mile advance through northwest Germany.

The French First army driving up the Rhine valley and through the Vosges from Mulhouse was slowed by deep snow. German attacks north of Strasbourg, powered by five or six divisions, and in the dormant Saarlautern area across the Saar river were declared repulsed.

The whole portentous next phase of the war in the west was slowly taking shape. It was obvious that the powerful influence of the terrific Russian blows against the eastern front was being felt. Gen. Eisenhower's armies and Marshal Stalin's masses were slightly more than 500 miles apart. Although it is too early yet to see the full effect, there are these possibilities:

1. The Germans, who rushed at least some of the thin armored reserve south to the Alsace plain for a "last try" blow at Strasbourg, may have had to switch their strategy in the middle of the move, and save whatever strength for the supreme test in the spring and summer.

Attacks south of the Wissembourg gap and across the Rhine just north of Strasbourg seemed to lack punch. They were being held by the U. S. 7th army after initial gains which, at least for the moment, were being left unexploited.

2. The Germans were getting out of the flattened Ardennes bulge in virtually a complete abandonment of a 15 to 20 mile flank northwest of Vianden, and heavy troop train movements reported at Bonn reflected last minute changes in the Wehrmacht's cross-Rhine line in the north.

3. For the first time, it began to seem likely that the Allies would get in the next big offensive blow as the Nazi command wavered between conflicting demands of the western and eastern fronts.

Where and how soon the blow would fall could not be disclosed.

Bonds Halfway Toward Goal

Bond sales in Howard county appeared to be reflecting a reaction from the Sixth War Loan with four agencies which normally handle the bulk of sales reporting only $43,704.25 through Saturday.

This stacks up unfavorably in the light of a $110,000 for E, F and G bonds for January, County Bond Chairman Ira Thurman said. Thurman urged individuals, business concerns and institutions to step up the rate of purchases in an effort to make good on the January assignment.

"The fact that some other country might not reach its goal does not justify our falling down on the job," he declared.

LEGION MEETING TONIGHT
American Legion members will hold their regular meeting at 8:30 p. m. today on the Settles mezzanine, according to an announcement from R. R. McEwen, commander. Among other matters to be discussed is the organization's sponsorship of the variety show billed here for Jan. 29.

RUSSIAN ADVANCES LEAD ALLIED GAINS IN EUROPE—Shaded areas indicate territory recently captured from the Germans. Principal gains were made by the Red Army which drove from the Vistula river to the German border and scored other notable advances. ## Germans Cry For All Out Defense

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—A call went out over the German armed forces radio today for everyone in the nation to join this "holy battle for liberty" as Russian forces sweeping into Silesia drove to a point approximately six hours by fast express from Berlin.

"Damned be our enemies. This soulless, bestial, overwhelming mass onslaught must be held at all costs," the announcer shouted. He demanded that "every man who can carry any kind of weapon, in fact anybody who can shoot," join in defense of the Reich.

The Nazis themselves in home broadcasts did not try to conceal that "the hour of greatest peril to the fatherland has struck," and for the first time admitted that Berlin itself is threatened by the Russian offensive.

"If the Russians capture Poznan (in western Poland) then the threat to Berlin enters the acute stage," said a Berlin dispatch to the Stockholm Aftonbladet passed by Nazi censorship.

A German commentator's description of scenes inside Berlin indicated rumors were sweeping the capital and hysteria growing. "Everybody in Berlin talks of news from the eastern front," he said, and told of workers' concern for their families evacuated to East Prussia.

The Bern correspondent of Stockholm's Aftonbladet quoted a neutral diplomat as saying that "Berlin is being evacuated with great speed," but there was no confirmation from other sources.

Stockholm dispatches said a large part of eastern Germany is in a panic, with refugees streaming from Danzig, Poznan and Warthegau in the face of the mounting Russian offensive. Refugees are storming trains in defiance of orders that bar civilian travel without special permission, the advices said.

Stockholm reported Berlin had been showered with emergency decrees. The Volkssturm was called up, armed and shipped eastward by the thousands. Women were ordered to take "extra rapid training" for military service. Wounded soldiers in western and central Germany were being reexamined for military service.

DRUNK DRIVING CHARGES
Charges of driving while intoxicated were lodged Monday against Andres Villarreal Martinez. The car which he was driving figured in a collision at the western end of town. City police turned him over to the sheriff's department Monday for charging.

Nazi Defense Plan Unfolds As...

Reds Move Toward Berlin

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)— The German defense plan now unfolding in the eastern Reich holds the key to whether the Russian tidal wave, engulfing Poland, Silesia and East Prussia with amazing speed, will end the war quickly.

There are indications the Nazis may have extricated the greater part of their 135 central front divisions in the east and pulled them back into the Reich for a do or die stand before the Oder.

There has been no news of any large pockets of Hitler's troops left behind, nor big supply dumps overrun.

Two Red Forces Closing Gap In Prussian Drive

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)— Marshal Gregory Zhukov's armor and cavalry, pounding within 165 miles of Berlin, have captured Gniezno in western Poland after a 38-mile advance in 24 hours. Marshal Joseph Stalin announced this tonight in his fourth order of the day.

Zhukov's bee-line drive from Warsaw toward Berlin blasted a path to within 28 miles of Poznan, last important Polish city before the central German border.

Only a square of northwestern Polish territory about 100 miles wide and 160 miles long remained as a buffer between Stalin's massed forces and the length of the German frontier.

It was evident that the Russian offensive was rolling on unchecked, for the deepest penetration announced by Moscow was about 19 miles.

Marshal Gregory R. Zhukov's First White Russian army struck nearest to the heart of the Reich from the Warta river area near captured Kolo, due west of Warsaw, in another day of spectacular Soviet successes in all sectors.

Simultaneously, the Russian First Ukraine army was within 200 miles of Berlin from the southeast in a powerful push that topped five major towns inside German Silesia and was reported by the German radio to be within 10 miles of the Oder river.

Enveloping Tannenberg, shrine of German militarism, another swift-moving Red army under Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, bit off a huge chunk of East Prussia, stabbing 18 miles in a drive up the old Polish corridor that threatens to isolate that German province from the fatherland.

Other units of this Second White Russian army struck farther west and captured the Polish-East Prussia frontier town of Lubawa, 15 miles west of Tannenberg, and 70 miles from Danzig.

Twin offensives in East Prussia overran in lightning fashion the two German bastions of Allenstein and Interburg.

The most powerful military offensive of the war toppled stronghold after stronghold, as five Red armies raced on without check from East Prussia to Slovakia.

With first German defense lines broken in Silesia and two Soviet armies only 80 miles from a junction across East Prussia, the Moscow commentator Ilya Ehrenburg broadcast: "Their cities are burning now. We are not in potato country. We are at the iron and steel of Silesia."

Already, Zhukov's northern wing had swept past the Vistula bend close to Bydgoszcz, Poland's seventh city, in a thrust which had half-sealed the Polish corridor from the south.

Marshal Gregory Zhukov's central offensive overran Labiszyn, 182 miles from Berlin. Innowroclaw, Aleksandrow, and Argenua also were captured in Zhukov's drive on the main route from Warsaw to Berlin.

Interburg, a city of 40,000, is only 50 miles from Konigsberg, capital of East Prussia, and is 37 miles inside the province.

Stalin announced the fall of the key railway center in his 18th order of the day in six days, and praised 40 generals for taking part in the capture.

Henry And Kok Vie In Series As Rice And Arkansas Fight For Lead

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

Texas basketball experts climbed out on a limb last week and it didn't take the University of Texas Longhorns long to saw it off. The Steers turned the trick neatly by dumping Arkansas' Razorbacks, 49-40.

Thus a two-game series this week-end between long leading Rice and the Porkers could produce a topsy-turvy race, equalling football's merry affair.

Despite the fact Arkansas turned right around and plastered a 74-38 defeat on the Longhorns, the race is definitely scrambled. The Steers had been Little Miss Nobody among conference elite, but definitely showed improvement in upsetting the Porkers.

While most interest will center on Houston Friday and Saturday, when Rice defends its perfect record against once-beaten Arkansas, there are a number of other attractive offerings.

TCU, often beaten outside conference action but tied for second place with the Porkers by virtue of three victories and one defeat, takes on cellar-dwelling Baylor Wednesday and meets the Longhorns in Austin Saturday.

The rest of the schedule—including one other conference fray—pits Texas against Bergstrom Field in Austin Wednesday; Texas A. and M. plays host to McCloskey Hospital of Temple at College Station Thursday, and Southern Methodist tangles with Baylor at Waco Saturday.

The conference's two highest scorers—Bill Henry of Rice and George Kok of Arkansas—clash from rival center positions in their teams' series. Henry, continuing to stay among the nation's leading scorers, boosted his total to 257 for the season and 104 in hoop play last week. Kok has 217 for the year and 73 in conference action.

Sliding Down The Sports Chute

with BILL

The Big Spring Steers have rounded out their practice game schedule and settle down to conference play Tuesday night when they play the Midland Bulldogs on the latter's home court in a game that is due to be filled with plenty of fast-moving action, and with plenty of scores thrown in.

The Bulldogs downed the Steers 34-16 in the semi-final bracket of the Odessa invitational cage tournament last Saturday night, and will rule the favorites in the fray tomorrow night.

However the Steers are due to be a great deal tougher and what could happen would come as no surprise to this corner.

Alvin Mize and Hugh Mason join the team today, as the new semester opens at the high school. Mize was a letterman last year but was ineligible during the fall semester. Mason is a transfer from Garner, moving here last spring, and is just becoming eligible for varsity competition.

Both these lads have been sparking the B team's scoring, a team which lost its opener to Stanton but one that has taken every game since. Playing five games the B team has lost one to Stanton, and has won over Tahoka two times, Safeway grocers and Sweetwater.

COLORADO CITY, Jan. 19 — Hesperian study club members and a number of guests were entertained Friday afternoon at this week at the home of Mrs. J. G. Merritt with a book review and tea.

Mrs. Ed. E. Williams, guest reviewer, presented a vivid resume of "Papa Was A Preacher" by a Dallas author, Alayne Porter. The reviewer was introduced by Mrs. A. L. Whipkey.

At the tea hour Mrs. Merritt was assisted in serving a refreshment course by Mrs. Ford Merritt, Mrs. Whipkey, Mrs. J. A. Sadler, and Mrs. Bill Coffey.

But Byrnes in a letter to Latimer said thanks but under no circumstances would he be interested.

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is a simple method that may change your whole outlook on life. Just ask your druggist for CASELLA stimulating tablets. Take as directed on label. Don't feel old and worn out at 40, 50 or more. Take these tablets regularly until you feel that you have regained the pleasure of living you once enjoyed. Why be discouraged? Why not try CASELLA tablets and regain the verve and zest of a much younger man? There is nothing harmful in these tablets. They contain Celery seed, Thiamin Chloride, Passion Flower, Iron. Ask your doctor or druggist about this formula.

Capt. DeTurk-Miss Bomil Married in Candle-Light Ceremony Saturday At Post

Miss Viola Bomil of New York City, became the bride of Capt. Paul De Turk of Erie, Penn., in a ceremony read Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the post chapel. The vows were read by Chaplain Ray L. Allen of the Protestant Chapel.

The bride wore a winter white dress with blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of orchids. Miss Mildred Barlow attended the bride and wore a white woolen dress with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The altar was banked with daffodils with potted palms and baskets of red carnations at either end of the rail. White candles burned during the candle-light ceremony.

Cpl. Robert Collick, organist, played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin and the wedding march from Mendelssohn. Miss Lee Griffing assisted Chaplain Allen during the services.

Mrs. J. D. DeTurk, mother of the bridegroom, was present and wore a green crepe dress and black accessories with a corsage of pink carnations.

Lt. Charles F. Schlegel was the bridegroom's best man. Both the bridegroom and Lt. Schlegel are stationed at the Big Spring Bombardier school where Capt. DeTurk is a pilot.

Following the ceremony the wedding party went to the Officers club. The couple will be at home here in Big Spring.

Sgt. and Mrs. Bill Dyer have returned to Palm Springs, Calif., after spending 17 days visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma Hurley, his mother, Mrs. Jack Cain, and other relatives and friends.

Sports Leaders Willing To Drop Activities To Benefit War Effort

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP) — War department and War Manpower Commission orders may put a crimp in plans for professional, and intercollegiate sports to operate during the next year, but the men at the head of things aren't too badly worried.

"If suspension of professional sports will hasten V-Day by even an hour, we will gladly suspend our schedule," a representative of the National Football league, oldest pro grid league in the nation said.

"We don't want to continue hockey if there is any interference with the war effort," Bill Tobin, president of the Chicago Blackhawks of the National Hockey league asserted.

Representatives of the Western conference, biggest intercollegiate group in the midwest, echoed the same sentiment.

The recent "work or fight" directive from Washington hit baseball hardest. Baseball players have a game almost every day, and cannot, because of their schedules, take war plant jobs. While they may work in essential jobs during the wintertime, their extensive travel during almost seven months of the year precludes that possibility during their training season and the league schedule.

Most professional football players however, who have but one game a week, work in war plants, and the majority of them either are classified 4-F, or are discharged veterans. There are few 1-A classifications on National football league rosters.

Mangrum Takes Open With Subpar Total

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 22 (AP) — Lanky Ray Mangrum, 34-year-old Los Angeles golfer, whisked over the last 36 holes of the $5,000 Tucson Open yesterday with brilliant subpar rounds of 66 and 64 for his first important victory since he won the Miami, Fla., Open in 1936.

His 72-hole score was 268—12 under par. He pocketed a $1,000 first prize.

Faultless Byron Nelson, Toledo, Ohio's master shotmaker, came in a stroke behind Mangrum after losing a chance for a tie by driving a ball out of bounds on the 813-yard last hole.

Jim Gaunt, Ardmore, Okla., newcomer to the ranks of the traveling professionals, surprised everyone with a 271, three behind Mangrum for third spot. Harold McSpaden, Sanford, Maine, finished in fourth place with a 272 after leading at the halfway point with 134.

The traveling golfers left today for San Antonio, Texas, where the 72-hole open at San Antonio starts Friday. The rest of the winter schedule as announced by Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament director, includes Corpus Christi, Texas, Feb. 1.

Jet Water Pumps Are Available Now

Going into his second year in Big Spring, C. C. Worrell, owner of the Big Spring Tractor company on the Lamesa highway, is rapidly building up a business, fast becoming one of the biggest and best in this section that demands the best in agricultural machinery and equipment.

When Worrell came here to take over the company materials were scarce. His parts department, at that time, was practically empty. Since that time, however, hard work and slow growth have outdistanced the scarcity and at the present time Worrell offers farmers and ranchers one of the most complete parts departments in the area.

His staff now is made up of two first-rate mechanics as well as a bookkeeper. These mechanics, like the parts they use, are the best. They have had many years experience in business of repairing and maintaining equipment and are among the best qualified workers.

With some 100 orders in for his Ford-Ferguson tractors, Worrell sells his stock as fast as he gets it. There is no immediate relief in sight for relieving the critical shortage of these machines, but the company has hopes of a few more tractors during the year. Worrell stated that an end to the war in Germany may help the output, but nothing definite is known.

But like all supply houses Worrell handles every piece of machinery that is needed to go with his line of tractors. Aside from this he has the Burkley water pump, cream separators, oil, tractor tires, and all other farm machinery needed for the first-rate maintenance of lands.

The Ford tractor is among the very best. Its hydraulic system makes farm work so simple, Worrell says, "that even a ten-year-old boy can operate the machine, and make any change in equipment that is needed in ten minutes time." It is the ideal machine for heavy work with little help.

The terracing machine that is supplied with this tractor is among the fastest in the business. It moves more dirt with better results, from a farming angle, than does any other similar machine, relates Worrell. It does the job so well that first-year crops are easily made on the terraces.

Also there is the blade terracer with a 6-foot blade that works off the hydraulic system. This is good both for road and ditch work.

Fords do not work like they should with just any equipment, Worrell states, and a good line of Ford parts and equipment should be used with them. Although his equipment is made to be sold with tractors, he releases it now at any time due to the tractor shortage.

The Burkley water pump that the Big Spring Tractor company has ranges from one-quarter horsepower up to five. It is among the best made, and its wide use in a section where water and electricity are scarce proves its economy and dependability.

This pump has but one moving part, with none moving below ground level. It is completely automatic, and a size for every need is easily available. Water under pressure can be had for household, garden or livestock, and aside from this regular use on the farm the pump is also good for laundries, auto camps, or any other use requiring even water from the municipal water system.

Each member of a family requires about 30 gallons of water each day, while each horse needs ten, each cow requires 20-30, each hog must have five, sheep five, and every 100 chickens requires four gallons daily. To supply this with a minimum of economy no pump should run over two-three hours daily.

The Burkley pumps will supply from 300 to 1,000 gallons of water each hour, dependent upon the size of the pumps.

Worrell states that if farmers and ranchers in this area need re-

Runyan Observing Twenty Years of Local Service

Runyan's Plumbing company is observing its 20th year of service to Big Spring and vicinity in 1945. For the past 20 years Runyan's has given the best plumbing service that it could offer and in the beginning of another year they promise to continue to do so.

J. C. Myrick has been with Runyan's for many years and has done much to contribute to the success of the business. He also pledges his support for the coming year.

Although Runyan's is the dealer for well known trade names of fixtures, their most valuable service at the present time is in repair work. The repair and service department now has a fairly complete stock of necessary parts and equipment. Although the war has taken away some of the materials needed in plumbing repair, they have been replaced to a great extent with war substitutes which have worked out very successfully.

Brass, which is so vital to the production of war equipment and material, has been replaced by plastics and iron or other substitutes. Brass was, when it could be obtained in unlimited quantities, one of the most important metals in the plumbing field. It was able to withstand wear for long periods of time and also was rust-proof, an essential quality in plumbing material. However, now many faucet parts and other equipment are being formed of plastics, yet the more important parts within the mechanism of the faucets are still of brass.

Runyan's is the dealer for Crane, Kohler and Standard makes of fixtures and is able to supply a pair work on their trucks, cars, or tractors, or need parts and equipment for farm or ranch work, then he has the stock they need. Everything that goes with a Ford tractor, and anything that goes with good first-rate farming results, that is the aim of the Big Spring Tractor company, and is their promise to the farmers in this section, Worrell adds.

complete line in all types with the exception of tubs. Now available at Runyan's are metal jacket line of fixtures and to make use of their repair service.

Burnett Stresses Full Coverage

January, a month of inventories, should be the most appropriate time of the year for checking on insurance coverage and needs. Henry C. Burnett, operator of his own agency, points out.

The month is particularly appropriate, for not only is it the beginning of a new year, but it is a time when men are prone to more critically examine their holdings.

Today most insurable values are up, but in many cases policyholders have neglected to advance insurance coverage to protect against this rise.

"You would not want to buy a book with half the pages missing, would you?" asked Burnett. "In insurance this very thing is done every day when agents sell and clients pay for insurance that is incomplete—fire insurance without extended coverage, for example."

Modern coverage, like modern warfare, requires specialized knowledge and thus the services of sound agencies come into play. The alert agent, he continued, must make it his business to help his clients maintain a continuous study of his changing needs to keep insurance up to par at all times.

"More people are coming to our office now to discuss their problems in confidence," said Burnett. "We believe this is as it should be for frank advice on insurance may be given by an insurance expert just as counsel on law would be given by an attorney or a prescription for treatment would come from a doctor."

One of the greatest hazards confronting business today is that of fire," according to Burnett, who had statistics to back up his con-

Expert Counsel On Tires Given By Creighton

Tires and Charles Creighton are synonymous to a host of people in the Big Spring area, for there are few West Texans who have been consecutively longer in the business in one place than has Creighton.

For the past 14 years he has been selling and servicing tires as a major vocation in Big Spring. Although he has stressed the importance of Seiberling tires, Creighton's service has been extended to help users of all makes attention. This being the case, he raised the question: "Have you had a thorough insurance check-up lately?"

of tires get the maximum mileage out of them.

This is not purely a wartime characteristic of his company, for service went hand in hand with sales to build up his business on a sound foundation in pre-war days.

As an example of some of the things which Creighton stresses, he urged drivers to observe these rules in order to secure the utmost in mileage out of their tires:

- Don't overload tires.
- Keep tires properly inflated.
- Don't delay retreading tires.
- Under-inflation of tires builds up heat.
- Overloaded tires heat up quickly.
- High speeds build up heat in tires.
- Heat is destructive to synthetic tires.
- Break in new tires carefully.
- Break in tires under light work.
- Check tire pressure frequently.
- Repair steering defects promptly.
- Wheel misalignment causes early tire wear.
- Steering defects cause early tire wear.
- Unequalized brakes shorten tire life.
- Spinning wheels shorten tire life.
- A single skid loses miles of tire life.
- Avoid bumps and increase tire life.
- Avoid curbs and save tires.

Reducing Conventions

The War Today

by Dewitt Mackenzie
Associated Press War Analyst

Germany's position in the path of the Red avalanche hourly becomes more grim.

Muscovite forces have bludgeoned their way well into German industrial Silesia on the road to proud Breslau, important railway center and next to Berlin the greatest city in Prussia. They've stormed into East Prussia and captured Tannenberg, scene of Russia's greatest defeat in the last war and Valhalla of the Prussian militarism which the Allies have vowed to destroy as the curse of Europe. The Red war machine is driving the Hitlerites before it across the frozen plains of Poland towards the borders of the Reich.

How long can the Germans hold out against this terrific offensive — an onslaught unprecedented in history for weight and intensity? That certainly is a legitimate question, especially since even the Hitlerites are frank to admit that the European war has entered its decisive stage. The only point in doubt is how long the Reich can hold out.

In trying to find an answer we mustn't forget certain basic facts which we long have known about German purposes and the strategy they intended to employ in an effort to achieve those purposes. Emphatically we shouldn't jump to the conclusion — as many did when the Nazis began their great retreat from Normandy — that the war will be over in a few days.

The terrible Nazi defeat at Stalingrad early in 1943 was the turning point of the war. The Germans realized then that their chances of winning were mighty slim, and surely they knew their goose was cooked after they lost their grip on the Mediterranean through their disasters in Africa and Italy.

Hitler then let the world know what his strategy was. He would hang onto the occupied countries and bleed them so long as possible. Finally he would retire inside his own fortified frontiers of Germany and fight it out.

Now the Germans have abandoned their Vistula line and are racing for their frontier defenses. German strategy has called for this withdrawal to the eastern frontier of the Reich for a stand along the defenses of the Oder river.

Whether the Nazis will be able to make a strong stand on the Oder remains to be seen, but that's their intention and we must be prepared for hard fighting. They will be battling on their own threshold. Everything will be at stake. We must expect them to make a desperate and even suicidal

One of the most sensible developments to grow out of the recent tightening-up process, which followed in the wake of reverses in the European theatre, is the clamping down of rules against conventions.

Why there should ever have been so many conventions even in normal times ranks is one of the major mysteries of the nation. Everybody was bidding for conventions, and if there weren't enough to go around, then ingenious souls managed to organize more to meet the demand.

With the advent of the war some of these were sensibly abandoned—and no few of them for good, we hope. However, there was no marked exodus of the convention custom, for the majority of groups envisioned theirs as specially important. It wasn't exactly helping the war effort, but then what would just one little convention hurt?

The net result was that already over-taxed hotel facilities, train and bus schedules, spaces and even means of private travel were burdened with these relatively unimportant meetings. And, really, what could be more senseless than conventioners cluttering up vitally needed quarters?

While there undoubtedly will be many who will rant and tear and cry out that freedom is being restricted when they have to go to Washington to apply for a convention permit, it is, we think, generally a very good thing that this practice has been sharply curbed.

Good Choices In Demand

Ballots have gone out to members of the chamber of commerce for election of 10 directors. These, with a similar number of hold-over directors, will elect five others to comprise a board of 25 men to lead the organization's activities during the year.

In the final analysis, how broad a program is effected for community betterment is dependent largely upon the calibre of men which are called upon to initiate and to supervise the administration of the program.

Thus, we believe that the selection of these directors is a matter of community concern and that members of the organization should all vote—and vote for those in whom they see the ability and interest to undertake progressive programs with vigor and determination.

The chamber is the accepted and logical instrument for community development undertakings. It is well established and deep rooted; it is expansive in the interests it serves as well as those from which it draws its support. It is therefore important that Big Spring command its best material for key service on the chamber board.

If home-front morale collapses and brings unexpectedly early surrender, that will be our good fortune.

The Timid Soul

Hal Boyle: Tough Yank Infantrymen Will Leave Expectant Mothers Alone

By HAL BOYLE
WITH THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY IN BELGIUM, Jan. 14 (Delayed) (SP)—Foxhole fun:

A captured German infantryman who had been pinned in a foxhole for days by the steady pounding of artillery told Pvt. Hans L. Link of Warren, Penn., that he had figured out how "your guns and mortars which never stop" keep their "round the clock" shelling.

"The mortarsmen must spend all their time reading books," the Jerry said. "Every time anyone finishes a chapter he drops a round in the mortar."

"The artillery has a better system. They must play poker all the time and the man who loses goes to the gun and pulls the lanyard."

Hearing some men digging in on the other side of the hedge where he was carving a foxhole, S/Sgt. Russell E. Jones, Dumont, Texas, called over joyfully:

"Is it as tough digging over there as it is here?"

He couldn't hear their answer but he continued a one-sided conversation with his unseen neighbors until his platoon sergeant came over and asked him to whom he was talking.

Hollywood—New Epidemic Springs Up Among Public

By KOBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — Whether you can bear it or not, a new version of the epidemic known as Abbott and Costello is springing up among us. It's too late to avert the calamity, and (in the manner of the late political season) I quote:

"The farmers showed their appreciation with plenty of hearty belly laughs. . . . Sent everyone away happy. . . . Team just as good as Abbott and Costello. . . . Some of the scenes are a little corny, but. . . . Watch out, Abbott and Costello, here comes your match. . . . With correct stories and a bit of exploitation this pair will be as good as, or as bad as, Abbott and Costello. . . ."

These quotes, Mr. A. and Mr. C., are comments from small-town exhibitors in the Motion Picture Herald on the film "Adventures of a Rookie."

The stars thereof are a pair of ex-vaudevillians named Wally Brown and Alan Carney, who henceforth by RKO decree must travel the cinematic highway together—a team.

New York's Carney and Boston's Brown were not meant for each other; they just happened. Carney came out for Cary Grant's "Mr. Lucky" and Brown arrived at the studio almost simultaneously. Mainly to keep them from joining in a "Rookie" film for a surprise hit, quickly followed by four other team pictures. They made side excursions but mainly their future is in double harness.

This is presenting Wally Brown—he's the good-looking one—with the problem of going "straight" as inevitably one member of a comic team must, more or less. Brown wins at the thought, but is gamely trying, not to go straight but to keep on being funny.

To Carney (he's the fat one, 204 pounds on the hoof) there is no such problem. Carney, being stout, is sure he can go on being funny. He's consoling to Brown: "Why, some teams don't have a

Today And Tomorrow Better News And Safer Acts

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Resistance to a national service act has increased during the last two weeks. There are four real reasons. Von Rundstedt's offensive has been contained and pushed back in the Ardennes. MacArthur has made a successful landing in Luzon and has not yet encountered a serious Japanese counter-attack. The Red Army has broken through the line of the Vistula. And here at home the threat of a national service act has brought about a considerable number of applications for jobs in war industries; the proposal to draft nurses has stimulated volunteer recruitment in the Army Nurse Corps.

As the headlines have become more cheerful, the number of those who wish to relax their efforts has increased. The responsible war leaders, after a canvass of Congress, have felt it necessary to yield by coming down from the Austin-Wadsworth bill to the May bill.

The main difference between these two bills is that the May bill exempts women from the legal duty of national service. A second difference is that it exempts men between the ages of forty-five and sixty. The May bill, which is now the best that the responsible leaders hope for immediately, is a national service act confined to males from eighteen to forty-five years of age.

Even this bill is running into opposition from labor leaders, from some farm leaders, and from some who pretend to speak for the manufacturers. There is little doubt that if the war news sounds better in the next few weeks, this opposition will grow stronger and that the softer members of Congress will think of more and more reasons why they should deny to the Army and the Navy the support which they have urgently demanded.

If the opposition is successful in blocking this legislation, it will mean that these gentlemen believe they know better than the men who are fighting how the war can most surely and quickly be won. That is a fearful gamble for them to take on nothing better than their own personal judgment. For how will they excuse themselves if we have another reverse as we had in December? How will they explain to the troops why the men are not there to reinforce them and to relieve them, why all the weapons they need have not been produced?

The Congress cannot afford to overlook the responsible war leaders in favor of the spokesmen of pressure groups. The men who would be compelled under the May bill to transfer from inessential jobs to necessary jobs are not more than 2,000,000 in the next six months. If this is to be considered too heavy a sacrifice to ask of some civilians, what shall be said of the sacrifice made by the 10,000,000 who are already in the armed forces, of the sacrifice which is to be asked of the 900,000 young men who will be drafted by June 30, and of the millions upon millions of men and women already in war industries who have wrought an industrial miracle?

This great mass, who are already doing their full duty, will be affected by this bill only in the sense that it will support them and help them and encourage them. They are the real constituency to which Congress is responsible. By them the Congress will be held accountable if in any respect the Congress has failed to provide the means of finishing the war decisively, promptly, and at the least cost in human life.

Let Congress remember, too, that the eyes of the world are upon it. Much has been said of late in Congress and in public speech about our ideals in this war, and about how the President must champion them to the council of our allies. Just what will be his position if he arrives at the next meeting with Marshal Stalin and Mr. Churchill, and has to admit that because the Red Army has mounted the greatest offensive of the war, the Congress of the United States has decided that American civilians who should be making guns may relax and continue to provide for our comfort and even our luxuries?

Let no one have any illusions about the consequences, even if we relax because the war news is for the moment better, the world will put little faith in any promise we make about acting to preserve peace after the war is over. The world will conclude, and we shall have no answer, that if we relax when the war is far from being won, we shall become so relaxed afterward that we cannot be counted upon to act promptly and effectively to preserve the peace.

The world will say that the Congress of the United States, though loud in its protestations about "power politics," was so pleased with the power of the Red Army at the crisis of this war that it ran out on the President of the United States and the American military leaders.

Nothing is being done to see to it that enough women come forward who will do this work, and will stick at it after the glamour and excitement of battle have subsided.

Of all the arguments for blocking this legislation, the most foolish is that it is not needed because there has been a considerable flurry of volunteer recruitment since it was proposed. Is it not obvious that if the legislation is defeated, the volunteering will quickly taper off, and that after that it will be more difficult than ever to induce those to do war work who have other things they would rather do? The defeat of this legislation would be tantamount in its practical effect to giving all the unwilling, who are not liable to the military draft, a Congressional exemption from any war work.

The May bill, because it exempts women, is bound to have

Washington—Senators Come Up The Hard Way

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—If you want to be a senator, come up the hard way. There are 15 new faces in the Senate in the new 79th Congress, and only three of them can boast of winning without any political background.

To dispose of these three first, they are: Senators Glen Taylor, the ex-singing cowboy from Idaho; Homer Capehart, the music box tycoon from Indiana; and Alexander Smith, of New Jersey. Taylor and Smith are both avowed internationalists. Capehart made his campaign on a straight-out anti-administration ticket and is considered a certain member of the old non-interventionist group.

With these three exceptions, all of the new senators are not only well schooled in politics but firmly grounded in government administration. The only one who wasn't elected was 38-year-old Hugh Mitchell of Washington, just appointed to fill out the term (two years) of former Sen. Mon Wallgren, now governor of his state.

Senator Mitchell knows his way about in Washington better than a lot who have held elective positions for years. He was Wallgren's executive secretary and campaign manager in the gubernatorial battle. He is the son of Harry B.

Mitchell, president of the Civil Service Commission, and was formerly a newspaper man with a particularly observant eye on both state and national politics.

Six of the new senators have been, among other things, governors of their states. They are Saltonstall, of Massachusetts; Hickenlooper of Iowa; Hoy of South Carolina; Johnson of North Dakota; and Donnelly of Missouri. (Missouri will get another new senator when a successor to Vice-President Truman is named.)

All made outstanding records as chief executives of their states, and at least two of them are expected to do likewise as freshman senators. These are Saltonstall, who reversed the vote trend in Massachusetts to win the Republican election by a staggering majority; and Moses who, as a Democrat, has been one of the most popular political figures in years in normally Republican North Dakota.

One important thing about all of the former governors is that they took their stand firmly with the administration on post-war participation of this nation in an international peace organization.

Three of the new senators came to the upper chamber from the House. They are Francis Myers, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Warren Magnuson, of Port Blakely, Wash., and William J. Fulbright, of Fayetteville, Ark.

All three were "youngsters" in the House who rolled up considerable reputations as independent Democrats, almost invariably liberal, but not always on the side of the administration.

Of the remaining, Wayne Morse of Oregon is well known here as a liberal Republican who won his capital spurs as a member of the War Labor Board; and Brien McMahon of Connecticut was formerly an assistant United States attorney, before he upset able isolationist Sen. John Danaher.

Instruction School For Taxpayers Here

In an effort to enlist employer assistance in filing of income tax returns, H. W. Axe, Odessa, deputy collector of internal revenue, will hold a school of instruction in the district courtroom Thursday afternoon.

He will open the session at 2 p. m. and "will continue as long as any one wishes to raise questions. If there are those who cannot attend an afternoon session and want an evening meeting, we can arrange that."

Axe plans to take the form, item by item and explain changes from last year. There will be only the W-2 and the 1040 forms this year, he explained.

The deputy collector is particularly anxious to have some representative from all firms which employ 10 or more persons so that they may in turn assist fellow workers in compilation of returns.

"Last year we were able to spend a week here with a staff of four workers to give assistance," he said. "This year we have only myself and one other agent. This means that we simply won't be able to give as much help as formerly."

Enterprising Inmate

ATLANTA, Jan. 22 (AP)—Maj. William E. Spence, chief of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, gave this account of it:

Charlie Hill, 40, picked the lock at the Wilkes county convict camp at night, burglarized homes and stores and then re-entered the prison and stored his loot in his locker and under his bunk. He apparently was selling the goods to other convicts.

Hill is serving a 15-year term for burglary.

Ted Hale Reported Missing In Action

COLORADO CITY, Jan. 21. — Pfc. Ted Hale, 23, a senior student in Abilene Christian College when he entered military service, has been reported missing in action, according to a War Department message received in Colorado City Sunday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hale. The message stated that Pfc. Hale has been missing since January 5, somewhere in France.

Holder of the Purple Heart for wounds received when he risked his life to rescue men caught in a sneak bombing raid in North Africa early in November, 1943, Pfc. Hale was only recently awarded the combat infantryman's badge for service in France with the Seventh army. He was on duty with a headquarters company of the infantry.

He is a graduate of high school here and entered training in the army in February 1943. After training at Camp Wolters and in Greenville, Pa., he was sent to duty overseas in September of that year.

Church Goes Over Crusade Quota

The Wesley Methodist church went over the top Sunday on its quota for the Crusade for Christ with cash and pledges swelling well past the $800 goal. More than half the amount was in cash, including a $45 contribution presented by A. D. Meador in behalf of the Firemen's Sunday school class.

Featured on the morning program which highlighted the church's whirlwind response were talks by three laymen and the pastor, Elra Phillips spoke on "the need for a crusade in foreign lands"; C. R. Donaldson on "what would Christ do?"; Cecil Nabors on "what has been done"; and the pastor, the Rev. W. L. Porterfield briefly outlined the five points of the crusade.

Following the service, the collection was taken and lunch was served in the church basement. A brief business session culminated the rally.

Local USES Officials Attend San Angelo Meet

Six representatives from the Big Spring U. S. Employment Service office were in San Angelo Sunday for a meeting of area USES officials.

At the business meeting which began at 2 p. m., the Abilene area chapter of the International Association of Public Employment Services was set up. The business meeting was followed by a banquet Sunday evening. Those present from Big Spring were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Clark, Miss Georia Ferrel, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Gunnip, J. D. O'Barr, Frances Renfro and Doyle Wilson.

"WILSON"—The most pretentious of all biographical motion pictures, comes to the Ritz theatre Tuesday and Wednesday for its premiere showing in this section of the state. Because of the 28th president's fight for the League of Nations, the production is pertinent history as well as a biography. With all its richness of color and scope, it nevertheless is human in the extreme with Alexander Knox doing a great job in the character role as Woodrow Wilson.

"Wilson" Opens Here
Tuesday at the Ritz

Big Spring and area will be afforded the opportunity Tuesday and Wednesday of witnessing "Wilson," the epochal biography of the 28th president of the United States.

So gigantic was the scale of production, that it required three years for Darryl Zanuck's great biography to be completed at a cost of four million dollars. Moreover, 13,000 players were used in filming the picture in 162 large-scale sets.

These, however, do not tell the story of Wilson's pretentiousness, for Zanuck achieved success in getting over his idea that "some-times the life of a man mirrors the life of a nation. The destiny of our country was crystallized in the life and times of Washington and Lincoln, and perhaps, too, in the life of Wilson."

Historic newsreels are employed with singular force by Zanuck

in reflecting scenes during the first World War, the Armistice and Wilson's arrival in Paris for the historic peace negotiations.

Critics have widely acclaimed the work of Alexander Knox as Woodrow Wilson, whose role is almost continuous and whose part is one of the longest ever written. His restraint from the spectacular only makes his interpretation all the more powerful.

Other stars in the heavily cast production are Thomas Mitchell as Joseph Tumulty, Sir Cedric Hardwicke as Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, arch enemy of the League, Charles Coburn as a fictional composite of Wilson's professional friends and William Edythe as the student counterpart of Coburn. These are the only fictional characters in the show, which moves with such compelling interest that its length seems no longer than ordinary features.

TB Patch Tests Here Show Positive Result

Mrs. Ann Fisher, city-county health nurse, has patch tested 4,923 people in Big Spring and Howard county for tuberculosis, she announced Monday. Fifteen per cent of the people tested showed positive results. Twenty-nine were X-rayed and about eight per cent were positive.

Of the eight per cent showing positive X-rays, six patients had definitely active cases, seven were inactive and 10 were questionable. Mrs. Fisher disclosed. Six patients were admitted to Sanatorium.

The nurse urged all those people who tested and showed positive results to have their X-rays immediately. Postponement might have serious results, she said.
