Local High School Students Receive Work Performance Awards at Reese

Lt. Colonel Richard A. Ingram, 64th Air Base Group Commande at Reese Air Force Base presented superior work performance award certificates to fifteen high school students during an awards ceremony today in the Wing Headquarters building.

The fifteen awardees were selected from among 32 students who were employed under Reese's 1974 Summer Employment Program for Youth.

The summer trainees began work at the base on June 3 and the majority completed their tenure on August 16 to enable them to return to their respective high schools. A few will be beginning college at the end of August.

The trainees received experience in carpentry, electrical work, landscaping, office work, painting, plumbing, printing and sheet metal work. Mr. William E. Flanders, youth employment coordinator in the civilian personnel office reported that an effort was made to match up each student with a job that he expressed interest in performing.

Flanders praised the students as an exceptional group saying: "This is the best group of summer youth hires we have had in my four years at Reese. They all came to work and wound up doing an exceptionally fine job. When you consider that nearly fifty per cent of them were cited by their supervisors for performing superior work, that makes it even more remarkable."

Twelve of the award recipients are Estacado High School students. They are: Orvilia Aguirre, Vernon Anderson, Delia Hernandez, Claude E. Houston, Wonda Jackson, Roy Jones, Albert Maden, Fred Maden, Jr., Walter Quigley, Gilbert Salas, Earl K. Thomas and Donald Wilson.

Two awardees, Mary Lou Deanda and Delia Moreno, are from Dunbar High School; and one, Chris Lopez, is from Lubbock High School.

Private Clubs Can Exclude Blacks, Judges Say

Hartford, Conn. — (NBNS) — Private clubs may exclude blacks from membership as long as the clubs are not profit-oriented, ruled a panel of three federal judges.

The judicial opinion stated that those who believe racial exclusion fosters fraternity are free to act but they may not promote prejudice for profit.

If such private clubs continue to discriminate on the basis of race,

We're Gonna Have to Get Our Thing Together

The lack of voting at the polls in all elections is the basic reason why the black community in Lubbock hasn't progressed as it should have over the past. Too long have we just sit around and waited for something to be handed to us on a silver platter. By this time, after looking at our many shortcomings, it should tell us that things don't happen that way.

There will be an important election in November. In this election, we (the black community) will have an opportunity to show our concern about who will represent us at the county, state and other levels of government. Although this election may not seem important to you, we still can make a terrific impression if we get up off it and start voting.

After the last election, which was in June, only a handful of black citizens participated in the runoff election. As a matter of fact, only 69 voted in the Ella Iles Elementary School box (Box 20). This was a very bad thing for us to contribute when there is at least two thousand (2,000) persons qualified to vote in that box alone.

Whether we like it or not, many things have gone the other direction because of our lack of voter participation. We have put our values in other things in the black community. We've got to quit putting pleasure ahead of business. We've played bingo and danced too long in the black community. Now it's time to get down to business and start voting in our community.

We've been mentioning the condition of the Green-Fair Manor Apartments over the past months. If we were a voting community, we could get something done about the filthy conditions of that area. If we would get up off our "sitdowns" and cast our votes each election, we could do something about the Green-Fair Manor thing.

Last week, for example, the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) became the sponsor of the local manpower programs in this area. SPAG has no minority representation on its board of directors, and only elected officials can become a member of this group. This is a darn shame for this group to represent minority persons in the manpower area when there is no minority on its board. If we were voting four thousand (4,000) blacks each time, we could change their tune. If you think we are shucking, ask Max Arrants, who is running for his County Commissioner post in November.

Max Arrants, who represents the voters of Box 20, needs to be asked his position on the upcoming manpower programs. These programs will involve the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC). He recently became a member of that organization's advisory board. While you are talking to Brother Arrants, you need to ask him why the County of Lubbock doesn't hire more minorities?

What we are trying to drive home to the members of the black community is that you have the potential. If that potential is utilized at the polls each time, many things will come your way. If you get off your "sitdowns" and start taking care of business, we'll get somewhere. We've played too long, it's time to get down to business.

We've struggled like the dickens at the West Texas Times. Nothing has come to us easy. As members of the black community, we've got to realize the same darn thing. We've got to get the fear out of our minds and start standing up for what is right. One way to erase the fear out of our minds is to get up and VOTE.

There are enough organizations in our community who could come up with some sort of a block effort to see that every person, young or old, gets to the polls and votes. We can do just that in November if we start getting it together. If you want to see your community in a much better position, get up and be counted by voting at the polls in November.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

It's that time of year again, when our young people will be going back to school for another year. As parents, why don't we pledge to get involved more with our young people. We, at least, should be concerned enough to work with our young people in their school.

Last year, this writer made it known that Estacado High School didn't have a Parent Teachers Association (PTA). I hope this will become a reality this school year. Surely, parents of Estacado High School will see that something is done in this area.

There are several black administrators at Estacado, and I hope those persons will do their part to see that young black people have opportunities, such as a viable PTA. Of course, these persons can't do it by themselves, but they can inform parents of their shortcomings.

Speaking of black teachers or administrators in the Lubbock Public School systems, I think it's about time for an administrator from the black community to be in the Central Office. I know we have "top notched" black educators, just as there are whites or Mexican-Americans, who can do a terrific job for our public school system.

Each summer, many black teachers and administrators travel to and from institutions of higher learning to upgrade their status. There has to be someone, male or female, who would meet the criteria of becoming, say an assistant superintendent.

If the Lubbock School Board of Trustees can budget $30 million plus, this fiscal year, to operate our school system, surely we can find some black from our community who can participate in a position as this at the Central Office. I am not talking about hiring a black because that person happens to be black. I am talking about hiring a capable black educator who would do an outstanding job in our public school system. This is really needed in our community. It is a long time coming to Lubbock. I hope the Board of Trustees will discuss this matter in the very near future.

Think what would happen to the image of our education system in the black community if there was an assistant superintendent who happened to be black. Our young black boys and girls would see some hope in the education arena. This would, without a doubt, encourage more parents to participate in our PTA programs. Something for us to think about in our community, a black educator above the rank of principal or coordinator of some government program.

Virgil Johnson, a room mate of mine at Bishop College, and I had an interesting conversation about the image of our young black boys. He made a lot of sense in saying that we (black males) are not portraying the image of the black male as it should be. Come to think about it, when I was a kid, the image of the black male was different than today.

Although my young days are not far in the past, I can still remember being a young fellow and wanting to be somebody one day. In those young days of mine, there was no such thing as "Super Fly" and men wearing over the shoulder purses and other feminine things. A boy wanted to be a man because he saw something in the eyes of his father or a man in the community.

It's something for all fathers and young black males to think about today. Are we portraying the image of the black male as it should be? I think Brother Johnson is right when he says we (black males) should be aware of the image we are creating for the young black males coming behind us.

I have had an opportunity of passing by the corner of East 19th Street and Quirt Avenue (location of the former Panama Club) many times in the past few weeks. It appears as though this location is a place for young blacks to congregate and polish up their cars. It appears as though those young black brothers could be doing something else with their valuable time.

True, I can't tell anyone how he or she should spend their God given time, but I can warn them of looking at the value system they've created. I would like for those young brothers to know that there are more important things in life than measuring those new wide white tires or shinning the "sheen". Look around you and see all the opportunities.

There are two young black brothers, Herbert Johnson and John Howard, who are putting something together at 506 East 23rd Street. They are in the "Stopy 'n Buy" business. They tell me that you can get fresh break and other items at their new establishment.

It makes me feel good to know young people are doing things in our community. There are others involved with Johnson and Howard, but I don't know their names. I wish them the same also.

Young people, you too can do what the brothes are doing down on East 23rd Street. East Lubbock can go if we want it to do so. Lubbock, and most of all East Lubbock, needs your talent.

As I See It, these young black brothers say more in life than shinning their "sheen" at East 19th and Quirt. They are into something. Why not give them your support.

TURK'S GOAL: PARTITION

by Jack Anderson

From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Washington—The renewed fighting on Cyprus was utterly predictable and State Department officials should have seen it coming. Secret intelligence reports from Greece, Turkey and Cyprus suggest the Turks have had one goal in mind all along. They want a permanently partitioned island. This is what they demanded at the Geneva talks. It was, of course, a demand that the Greeks could not possibly meet, and the Turks knew it. Thus the talks served as an official excuse to renew open warfare.

The intelligence reports indicate the Turks are trying to seal off a full third of the island, from the port of Famagusta on the East coast, through Nicosia, to the town of Lefka to the West. The Turks would then be so thoroughly entrenched that partition would be the only solution to peace.

Most of our diplomatic sources, meanwhile, are laying the responsibility for the Cyprus crisis squarely in the lap of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Two months ago we predicted that a new government in Athens could result in the loss of Greece as an ally. For too long, the State Department had alienated the Greek people by supporting the military junta. Now Greece has pulled out of NATO and ordered all U.S. troops out of the country.

Kissinger furthermore knew in advance of plans for the Cyprus coup, yet he did little to stop it. Pressure from Kissinger, our sources believe, could have prevented the Turkish invasion. But the State Department remained silent, suggesting they have been "tilting" in favor of the Turks all along. A State Department spokesman now has confessed the United States favors greater "autonomy" for the Turks. The remark reportedly disgusted the Greeks and precipitated their NATO pullout.

—President Gerald Ford will get no "honeymoon" from inflation.

He's declared it Public Enemy No. 1 and few Americans would disagree. The dollar seems to be shrinking daily.

The new President has already made a break with the policies of his predecessor. The jerky succession of phases and freezes, followed by a hands-off policy, jolted the economy badly.

Ford has staked out a middle path. He plans to have the government police, but not control, the economy.

His call for the reinstatement of the Cost of Living Council and a domestic summit on the economy was considered a good start.

But his plan to slash the federal budget is likely to bring his honeymoon with Congress to an abrupt halt. Many congressional liberals believe that "the old-time religion" of budget cuts and high interest rates does not slow inflation. It only helps the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

Already many Democrats are urging Ford to abandon "the old-time religion" in favor of a tough tax program. Only tax reform combined with a tax hike can stop inflation, the liberals maintain.

Administration sources say Ford will only consider this plan if his own middle road fails.

The economic issue will make or break Gerald Ford as President. He has already helped unite a shattered nation.

Now he must see if he can make it work again.

—One of President Ford's glaring weak spots, if you believe his critics, is foreign affairs. Ford is well aware of such talk. Thus, in his first public statement following Nixon's resignation speech, he assured the world's leaders that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger would stay on the job. Nixon's foreign policy, he said, would be Ford's foreign policy.

State Department insiders believe, however, that President Ford will soon move to establish his own credentials as a maker of foreign policy. One of the major moves in the works, our sources believe, is rapprochement with Cuba.

Secretary Kissinger, we are told, has long yearned to warm the chill winds that blow between Washington and Havana. President Nixon, however, would hear none of it. Nixon had an abiding personal hatred of Cuban Dictator Fidel Castro. He also had no desire to alienate his best friend, Bebe Rebozo, and American-born Cuban who also detests Castro.

But President Ford has no such hangups. He is, of course, a staunch conservative with little affection for Communist governments. But he also realizes the United States cannot go on ignoring an entire nation just 90 miles off our shores. Former president Nixon himself set the precedent when he opened the doors to Mainland China.

Recent visitors to Cuba, furthermore, say that Castro is feeling less hostile to the United States. In short, the time is ripe for a thaw in Cuban-American relations. Kissinger is ready. Castro is ready. All that's needed is a word from Ford. Our State Department sources predict Ford will act. The move to reconcile differences with Havana, they believe, will come within the next six months.

—Gerald Ford's ascension to the presidency has dramatically altered the prospects for every politician. It has saved many Republicans and hurt many Democrats. Now many are wondering how long Ford will remain in politics.

As Vice President, Ford repeatedly said he would not be a candidate in 1976. His wife Betty extracted a promise from him that he would retire from politics.

As Vice President, Ford constantly denied that he was eyeing the presidency. Since he became President, however, Mrs. Ford has backed off from insisting he retire. As a result, Ford has quietly dropped his earlier denials.

In fact, Ford was thinking about a running mate for 1976 as long ago as last March. He was approached by former Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, who wanted advice on whether to run for governor or senator from Alaska. Ford suggested he run for governor.

Our sources say that Ford hinted to Hickel about being his running mate in 1976. Hickel told us that Ford talked "generally" about 1976, but didn't make an offer.

—Richard Nixon's resignation has thrown leading Democrats into a frenzy. Before Nixon stepped down, the Democrats saw a golden opportunity to increase their majority in Congress and win the White House in 1976. Now Gerald Ford has 2½ years to unite the country behind him and run for election as an incumbent president. Democrats also fear that Ford will benefit from an emotional outpouring of support for him.

Only if the economy worsens, Democrats feel, will Ford be vulnerable in 1976. Jerry Ford will be dominant figure in American politics for years to come.

Police Beat

House Burglary

Bill Golstein, 211 17th Street, reported to Lubbock police that he had a problem one day last week. He reported that persons unknown gained entry to his house while he was away by pulling out the air conditioner out of the window. Damage was done to the air conditioner. Entry was apparently gained by crawling through the window.

After entry was gained, unknown persons helped themselves to the house. Eggs, coffee, syrup and all kinds of trash, and water and white paint were scattered all over the floor. Drawers were dumped out in the floor and approximately five pounds of sugar was dumped on top of a desk.

A revolver was taken from under the mattress of Mr. Golstein's bed. He told police that he had no idea who could have taken the gun or broke into the house.

Aggravated Assault

Felix Adigun, an airman at Reese Air Force Base, reported to Lubbock police that a man took advantage of him while he was at a ladies residence in the 2000 block of Date Avenue one evening last week.

Felix reported to police that he had gone to Reese Air Force Base to get some beer for his friend. When he returned from his short trip, the man got mad at him because he was in the house where the lady was. He told police that the man began to hit him in the face, busting his lip, and cut two of his fingers.

The lady, who was apparently close to both men, witnessed the incident. She reported to police that Felix didn't lay a hand on the other man.

Felix is still wondering why the man beat him up since he did travel to get the beer. He said he would file charges this week.

Discharging Fire Arms In City Limits

George Douglas, 2105 East 4th Street, Apt. 60, reported to Lubbock police that his brother, John H. Douglas, saw two females arguing and fighting at a local club one day last week. He said his brother did hear one shot. He said one lady fired at the other.

John told his brother that the lady left the club and did not return. There were no damages to the club.

House Burglary

Juanita Quigley, 1812 East Colgate Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown broke into her house one day last week while she was away. Entry was apparently gained by coming through the garage and then breaking into the kitchen door.

Taken from the house were several items, including a $600 television set and $50 camera.

House Burglary

Annie Baker, 2403 Weber Drive, Apt. C, reported to Lubbock police that a man gained entry to her apartment without her permission one day last week.

Entry was apparently through the front door which was unlocked. Taken from the apartment were a woman's pant suit and $1.50 bed sheet.

She reported to police that she would file charges immediately.

House, Senate Agree on $11.3 Billion Housing Bill

Washington — (NBNS) — House and Senate conferees have agreed on a massive $11.3 billion housing and community development bill that will greatly benefit public housing and other government assistance programs. The bill virtually redefines the nation's federal housing assistance and urban renewal programs.

It is expected to be approved by both Houses. Presidential approval is also expected.

The bill authorizes the expenditure of $8.6 billion over the next three years in block grants to communities that will replace existing Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) financial programs such as urban renewal, open space acquisition, and sewage treatment plant development.

It provides that for the next three years, no city will receive less under the combined block grant than it was getting under the various separate programs.

The compromise bill provides for the construction of 40,000 to 50,000 units of publicly-owned and operated housing, and raises from $33,000 to $45,000 the maximum mortgage the government will insure and allows the Secretary of HUD to raise the interest rates on insured loans.

It also authorizes federal assistance to state-operated housing development agencies, and provides up to $800 million in loans

Census Bureau Sees National Rise in Black Female-Dominated Homes in Survey

Washington — (NBNS) — The number of families headed by females in the United States has increased by more than a million in the last three years, according to the Census Bureau. And the rise of female-headed families has been most pronounced among blacks, nearly 40 per cent of all black children now living are in such families.

One-third of all blacks in the country, one tenth of all Americans now live in female-headed homes, while one-seventh of all children under 18 do.

Most of these matriarchal homes are poor, as the government defines poverty. They account for more than half of the black poor.

"This very rapid increase over the last several years," the Census Bureau said, "has fostered a growing concern among social scientists and government planners regarding changes in family structure and composition."

There is further concern over a possible "general breakdown of family living arrangements in the United States and a lack of agreement as to whether this situation is a basic transformation or a momentarily and transitional change.

Among the possible reasons for this trend is the high rate of divorce and separation, the retention of illegitimate children by the mother and also the liberalization of adoption procedures whereby single persons may now adopt children.

Another important factor, declared the Census Bureau is the increased participation of women in the labor force. This, they insist, "has led to increased economic independence among many women."

Johnny Ford In Trouble

Tuskegee, Ala. — (NBNS) — Mayor Johnny Ford is in trouble. He has been labelled "an embarrassment", and an "Uncle Tom."

Two years ago, the Mayor was extremely popular. He had defeated the white mayor, C.M. Keever, and made history as the first black mayor in this Southern town.

Since then, however, his popularity has progressively waned.

The Mayor contends that politics is a game of the practical. Not only did he publicly endorse Governor George C. Wallace for governor, but after Ford's election to office, he endorsed President Nixon for re-election, and defended that endorsement by saying, "Other places may be losing federal funds because of cuts, but not Tuskegee. I've prevented that."

But his critics don't concur. Said one, "Everything he takes credit for was started before he got here." Others maintain that the town is almost bankrupt, and that much of the money has been spent on long-distance phone calls.

But the white minority residents think differently. They had expected a fullscale takeover by blacks when Ford was elected. It didn't come. They are elated. Many say that they are pleasantly surprised by the job the mayor has been doing.

Tuskegee, 40 miles north of Montgomery is situated in Macon County. It has a black majority. However, before the passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, all political offices here were controlled by whites.

The first signs of change took place in 1966. Lucius Anderson, a black, was elected sheriff, the first black elected to that office in the South since Reconstruction.

The mayor has been plagued by a series of unfortunate incidents. During his first year, three women were slain, allegedly by blacks. One of the two men charged escaped from jail. The National Guard was called in to quell the ensuing panic.

City officials kept up their battles for control of the police and poverty funds. Earlier this year, the police force went out on strike. The police chief, Rayford Ripley was fired. He was popular.

Then, Don Parrack, a white man who was brought in to serve as deputy quit, citing repeated threats on his life. He claimed discovery of an organized crime drug operation in Macon County.

Meanwhile, the mayor must continue to govern. His re-election may be doubtful.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Okay, call me crazy if you want to, but I swear, when I went out to work in the yard Saturday morning about 10 a.m., there was the smell of fall in the air.

I can't explain the particular aroma that made me feel that way. There was just something about the feel of it, a sense that, despite heat that will continue into October, the growing season was on the wane. The days are growing shorter and football is just around the corner.

The name on front of the store was "Maloney Pharmacy" and the card I carried said "Walter Maloney". That might not mean much to some, but I thought that it would be unusual to have two Walter Maloneys in the area.

Sure enough, once inside the pharmacy, there was a smiling figure that even age couldn't make you forget. It was the former Texas Tech halfback from Roscoe and very much alive.

Walter and I gradually warmed to talk of Dell Morgan, Raider football teams of the past and players who starred and then scattered. On the wall of his office was a picture taken about 1949. Players I hadn't thought of in ages beamed out.

There was Bud Conley, an outstanding fullback; Ike Stuver, the Ysleta flash; Zombie Johnson, a rambling end; Googie Jackson, a rugged fullback; Dan Pursel, a smashing guard; and more, many more.

That was the squad that carried Tech to the Sun and Raisin bowls. Tuffy Nabors, Bill Kelley, Cal Stevenson, Primo McCurry, J.W. Thompson, Don Williams, a host of players looking so young and so wholesome. They gained the Raiders a lot of fame and respect.

As we looked, Walt started to reminisce. There was John Andrews, a rugged tackle, who "kept a case of beer under his bed. He'd pop one first thing every morning," Walt laughed. "I didn't know how he could do it."

Walt recalled the time John had met some friends just before a game against Baylor in Waco. John got a little tight and the players tried to cover for him, but Dell came by, took one look and knew the score.

"Coach started him that day," Walt laughed. "I guess he was trying to make him suffer. But John played one of his greatest games. He was all over the field. He's married and has settled down, now. Lives in Brownfield and is doing well."

Then there was "Duck" Thompson. Duck loafed all week but on Saturday, when the whistle blew, there were few better fullbacks anywhere. "He stayed in the Air Force and is a general now," Walt said.

And "Ears" Earhart, a flashy halfback who had more moves than a snake. Ears never did quite go along with Dell and, more often than not, found himself on the bench. In one game he must have run 150 yards on one play to gain 10. He zigged back and forth, trying to find an opening. When he came out, Dell asked him where he thought he had been going.

"Coach", Ears is alleged to have said, "there were 22 players on the field and not one of them knew where I was going!"

Walter remembered the Raisin Bowl game in Fresno, California. Tech was getting beaten by San Jose State when Stuver, on a fourth down punt, suddenly broke up the middle and raced to a touchdown.

Gene Gregston, then of the Star-Telegram, chortled with glee and said: "I knew that Dell would come up with a trick play some time during the game."

No so, said Walt. Instead of being tickled by the run, Dell asked Ike what he thought he was doing? "Well, I saw this big hole and just started running," Walt related Ike saying. "But that wasn't Dell's type of football. When he told you to do something, he expected you to do it."

"I remember one time when I was supposed to go over tackle. Here was this big guy right in the hole, so I went outside. Dell wanted to know why I hadn't run at him."

"Well, he weighs about 240 pounds and I weigh about 157," Walter replied. "There's no way I'm going to run over him."

Walter recalled that part of the Raisin Bowl bid was free tickets to the Rose Bowl game between Ohio State and California. The Raisin Bowl was played on Dec. 31, a Saturday, and the Rose Bowl was on Monday, Jan. 2.

"They were getting 30, 35 dollars for tickets in Fresno," Walt recalled. "We started to sell our tickets, and then we thought, well, we could get more in Los Angeles. Man, when we got to LA, everybody had tickets for sale, so we just decided to go to the game."

In recalling Dell Morgan, Walt remarked what everyone who knew Dell realized. "He was rough as a cob," Walt said. "We even used to talk on the sidelines about how we could kill him. He was a perfectionist and he drove you hard. But, you know, that roughness covered a soft heart. He could make life miserable for you, but let anyone else say anything about one of his players and you'd better be ready to fight. And I just don't think I'd have wanted any part of him."

Life has been good to Walter Maloney. He's been on the school board and served as president. He has a successful business. He's well known and respected in Sweetwater.

On his walls are loads of pictures showing him with boats, bass and buddies. He loves to fish and says that he spends too much time doing it. He's one of the many former Raiders who have done well and we were delighted to have had a chance to talk with him after all these years.

The Roundup—Dove season opens Sept. 1, so better get your guns cleaned and ready—and stop by the Parks and Wildlife office to pick up regulations. . . . A week ago, Alan Carmichael and Steve Long teamed up to win the Sweetwater Partnership Tournament. They are Tech golfers and edged, by one stroke, another Tech duo, Tommie Wilson and John Conine. . . . Worried about Tommy Duniven, Tech's heir-apparent to Joe Barnes' quarterbacking job? Don't be. A doctor told me recently that the knee is in great shape. . . . The moss, it's said, is bad at Oak Creek, but fishermen in doughnut floaters are getting big bass by dropping plastic worms into openings in the goo. . . . And Hubbard Creek is producing a lot of good catfish hauls.

New Dunbar Band Director

When the "back to classes bell" rang Monday morning, August 19, the students of Dunbar High School greeted a new band director, Mr. Billy C. Maiden, of Greenville, Mississippi.

He and his wife, Genell, and two small sons, Leonard, age 2; and Christopher, age 1, have been in Lubbock since July 21. The Maidens reside at 1806 E. 26th St.

Both Billy and Genell received a degree from Mississippi Valley State College, his in music and hers in social science with emphasis on social psychology. Mrs. Maiden has been hired as a teacher's aide at Estacado High School and Guadalupe Elementary School.

Prior to coming to Lubbock, Mr. Maiden served at O'Bannon High School at Shreveport, La., for two and a half years. He says, "I plan to take up where Roy Roberts left off."

Mr. Maiden was guest of Mr. C.F. Cooke at Bethel A.M.E. Church last Sunday morning. The family are members of the Baptist Church, but Mrs. Maiden says they have not had time to select a church home in Lubbock.

The Lubbock community welcomes the Maidens.

Black Mayors Meeting in San Francisco Urge Black Vice President in 1976

San Francisco — (NBNS) — Black mayors in the United States are urging that a black seek nomination as the 1976 vice presidential candidate of Republicans or Democrats or both.

Los Angeles Mayor Thomas Bradley, at an Urban League meeting, stimulated the group by citing that "in city after city the question of race, sex and religion is becoming less and less of a factor in every election."

Meanwhile, the up-beat political mood generated by the emergence of a new political force in the form of elected black officials appears to be creating greater black cohesion.

Republican Senator Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts is deemed to be the man most likely to succeed, according to the heavily Democratic mayors. Should he make a bid, it is reported, it would make for a "very, very hard ticket to beat."

One thing the black mayors did make quite clear was their opposition to Alabama Governor

George C. Wallace, should he be nominated for the 1976 Democratic ticket.

Regarding a possible Kennedy-Wallace lineup, Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton summed up the feelings of the group by calling the idea of such a ticket "scandalous." And Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson affirmed that "a leopard could not change his spots."

The Urban League conference, in tackling other related issues, perceived the obstacles facing blacks as primarily economic rather than political.

Rev. Jesse Jackson of Operation PUSH bemoaned the paucity of black doctors and lawyers.

And one young Urban League delegate summed up the growing black-white economic disparity this way, "In the mid 1960's with the civil rights movement, we had a greater feeling of things getting better. Now its 10 years later and it is getting better, but its a relative position: we are making more...the whites are making much more."

Some 36 per cent of all young black males are unemployed as compared to an overall unemployment just over 5 per cent. The median income gap has grown from $3,000 in 1963 to $4,700 now.

Full employment has been set as the national goal in answer to the effect on the poorer black community of inflation and tight money.

Urban League Executive Director Vernon Jordan expressed his belief that full employment could be achieved through cutbacks in the defense budget, tax adjustments and increases in public service employment.

Rangel Endorsed by Republicans

New York — (NBNS) — The Republican Party of Manhattan has again endorsed U.S. Representative Charles B. Rangel, a Harlem Democrat. Referring to the fact that Rangel voted for the impeachment of Richard Nixon, a spokesman of the party said that the endorsement was not intended as an indication that the Manhattan organization had supported the impeachments efforts.

Political observers, in taking under consideration that Rangel had considerable popularity and that his district was predominately Democratic, feel that it had been impossible for the Republicans to find a candidate to oppose him.

Shirley's Office Ransacked

New York — (NBNS) — The district office of U.S. Representative Shirley Chisholm in Brooklyn was broken into and ransacked for the second time. Although nothing of value appeared to have been stolen, files had been taken from desks and cabinets strewn about. In a similar event, about a year ago, thieves stole a typewriter and

ringing the bell

with Bob Tieucl

The Black Experience: The First Baptist Church of Wichita, Kansas, recently received nationwide publicity when it was criticized by the Secretary of the Publishing Board of the National Baptist Convention of America which annually sponsors the Summer School of Methods. This meet attracts from 10,000 upwards to 15,000 delegates from all across the nation. The black Baptist Churches of Wichita had allegedly made arrangements with the White First Baptist Church for the use of their facilities which the Blacks claim was granted.

It is reported that without warning or explanation of any kind the request was suddenly withdrawn on the eve of the convention, leaving the host churches in a quandry. They were rescued from acute embarrassment only because the White Methodist Church across the street, threw open its doors and invited the delegates and visitors from over the nation, to use their facilities.

Commenting on the situation, the black oriented Oklahoma Eagle said: "It seems hardly necessary to point out that white 'Christians' who cannot stand to live next door to blacks in the United States are not likely to change their attitude by going to Africa as a missionary. Whites who feel secure only when they are isolated in their enclaves from which they sally forth to convert and exploit the heathen, should not be surprised when that 'heathen' decides that he needs that kind of conversion like he needs a hole in the head.

"The White Church is going to have to come to terms with reality. It cannot export love and brotherhood overseas which it does not practice at home. Moreover, the 'heathens' are not going to accept a gospel which is administered with antiseptic gloves at long range. It is the travesty of the missionary enclave which has helped to give Christianity the misnomer of a 'white man's religion'. This club is being used among non-whites all over the world and especially here in this country. White Christians are going to have to either change their attitude towards non-whites or the gap is going to widen and missionary endeavors are going to become impossible among any non-whites." End of quote.

Bellringers in the News: Word comes that Dr. Oree Broomfield of Cleaves Memorial Church in Oklahoma City will be stationed at Cedar Crest in Dallas this conference year. Dr. Broomfield succeeds Rev. Othal Lakey, who has been elected Editor of the Christian Index. Rev. Thomas B. Norman, Jr. who "did the impossible" at St. Mary in Oklahoma in building a new church, will entertain the Oklahoma Conferences with Bishop N.S. Curry, presiding.

Every now and then we have an opportunity to drop in and visit with some of our West Texas Times Bellringers, like the recent Sunday afternoon when we were in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Beauchamp of 917 West Tyler in Lovington, N.M. Bro. Beauchamp is a retired District Court Clerk (in fact both of them) and we talked of the early days in Lea County, the good ole days shall we say. They are arden bellringers and pass their copy to the WTT on to friends each week, just like a lot of others. In Dallas recently, Bishop Bertram W. Doyle, retired of the C.M.E. Church, told us how much he enjoyed sharing these moments with us in the WTT. He lives in Indianapolis, Indiana, is busy putting the finishing touches on his history of the C.M.E. Church. He presided with Bishop Coleman at the Dallas - Ft. Worth conference and looked the picture of health.

Bellringers in the Midland-Odessa area are awaiting my visit too. We are on our way you can bet. We are getting messages ready. Until later, Peace, and remember President Ford in your prayers.

Come out and bring a friend with you.

Let us continue to pray for the members on the sick list. Brothers E. Skief and Dave Bailey are ill this week.

Mt. Olive Baptist Church

Snyder—The message was delivered by the pastor, Rev. F. Nelson. His subject was "Preparation For the Future", from Amos 4:12, 2 King 20:1.

Music for the service was provided by both the Junior and Senior Choirs. Both the message and music was inspiring and uplifting to the congregation.

The superintendent, Sister Bertha Willis, was on time. Bro. Albert Lewis gave the high points of the lesson. Attendance was good.

Ford Memorial Church of God in Christ

The Lubbock District Joint meeting will be Tuesday, August 27 at 8 p.m. at Ford's Memorial Church of God in Christ, 1602 Quirt Avenue, with Rev. R.L. Caro, president of the services and Bishop J.E. Alexander, host pastor.

We are asking our friends and sister churches to come and worship the Lord with us.
