

12,400 New OIC Enrollees During First 9 Months Of 1974 Fiscal Year

Washington—There were 12,400 new enrollees in manpower programs conducted by Opportunities Industrialization Centers (OIC) during the first nine months of the 1974 fiscal year, the U.S. Department of Labor reports.

According to a recent issue of Manpower magazine, 73 percent of the 12,400 new OIC enrollees were black. Of the remaining participants, nearly 10 percent were Hispanic.

Women outnumbered men two to one among new OIC enrollees. More than half were between 22 and 44 years of age. More than 25 percent were on welfare at the time they entered the program.

About half of the new OIC enrollees had completed high school; more than 40 percent had nine to 11 years education.

The placement rate for those leaving OIC training was 42 percent.

The study points out that high female enrollment probably reduces placement rate, as family obligations make it more difficult for women to move into the labor force.

OIC, founded by the Rev. Leon H. Sullivan in Philadelphia in 1964 as a black selfhelp project, now encompasses some 60 centers throughout the nation.

Initially established to serve a specific minority population, OIC has been extended and modified and now serves many different elements of the disadvantaged community.

Manpower magazine is the official monthly journal of the Labor Department's Manpower Program. It is available on subscription at $15.30 a year, single copies $1.30, from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

California Businessman Honored by Government OMBE Official Recently

Minority entrepreneur Jesse Monroy—who rose from a penniless Mexican immigrant in 1949 to a multimillionaire real estate developer and restaurant chain owner—today was honored with a special national achievement award by Alex Armendaris, director of the U.S. Commerce Department's Office of Minority Business Enterprise.

In ceremonies held in Washington, Armendaris praised the "spirit and determination of this man, who embodies the American dream".

Monroy arrived in Houston, Texas from Mexico with 13 cents; worked as a dishwasher for his fare to New York, where he worked as a cook until he joined the U.S. Army and became a naturalized American.

He settled in San Mateo, California in 1957 and worked as a dishwasher and cook at a Fosters West restaurant.

Monroy moved over to manage first one, then a string of five Uncle John's Pancake Houses in the Bay area. Then he sold his shares of the Pancake House operation to open the Los Banos Pancake House, as sole proprietor. At the same time, Monroy

"To live happily as the results of my experiences, and to make a worthwhile contribution to mankind," is the life philosophy of Dr. Charles E. Henry, ED.D., coordinator of curriculum, health careers development and instructor in the Department of Communications at the Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

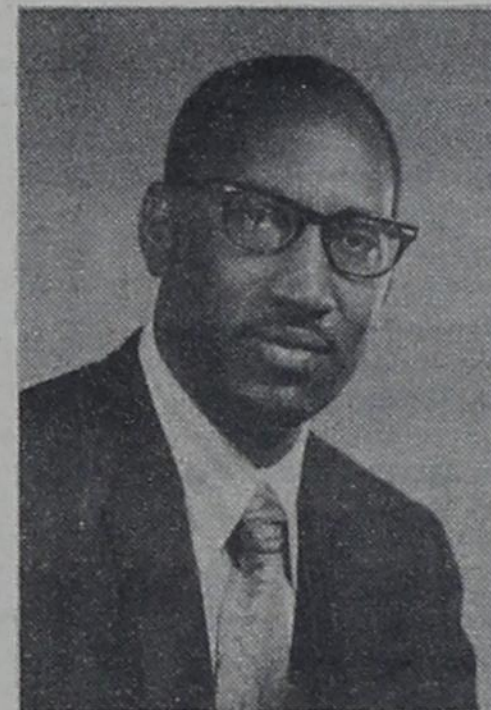

A man who apparently wears three hats in the TTU School of Medicine, he believes in working hard and being dedicated for the welfare of the institution. If you'd look at the areas of his involvement, Dr. Henry works with the curriculum design, which deal with the complete make up, innovation and implementation of the curriculum. In the health career area, he applies his talent in career guidance and counseling for students in levels of education. Last but not the least, Dr. Henry works diligently with the minority medical affairs of the institution. In this area, he utilizes his time and effort to work with the nontraditional student. "No matter who they (students) are, they must have as much information that's available about the field of medicine," he elaborates.

"I have spoke to many clubs, professional organizations and educational institutions about the medical field and the many opportunities," he said. "Not only have I had the opportunity to speak to groups, but I've been most fortunate to take many groups on various tours of the TTU School of Medicine," he continued.

Just returning from an important meeting in Philadelphia, Pa., he related some of the same experiences that other people are having around the country. "I was invited to attend as a delegate to the American Foundation for Negro Affairs (AFNA)—National Interdisciplinary Conferences," he remarked. "This meeting dealt with the AFNA Plan: New Access Routes to Professional Careers for Blacks and Other Minorities in the Medical Field."

Dr. Henry admitted, from his experiences, that one of the main problems confronting the black community is the "lack of involvement by community people." He was quite sincere when he said that the black community is lacking in trained medical people, such as doctors and nurses. "The real needs of the disadvantaged community are not being met, because of the lack of involvement of persons who could contribute something to those communities," he continued.

He related that there are more than 350 physicians in Lubbock, and of that number there is only one black doctor in the East Lubbock community. "Of course, there are several medical facilities where blacks in East Lubbock could receive medical treatment, but the fact remains, more blacks in the medical field are needed," he said.

"We've got to not only initiate, maintain and improve career educational programs for blacks and other minorities, but a true commitment must be taken by those in position to help," he said.

"At the meeting in Philadelphia last week, the AFNA Plan pointed out that we must start as early as possible to educate blacks for the medical and allied health fields. The plan calls for informing kids at the 9th grade level through graduate school," he made known. He went on to add, however, "I am going to say that we must go back to the elementary school and level and make medical field and allied health opportunities aware to blacks and other minorities."

Dr. Henry, over the past few years, has been going from elementary schools to graduate schools explaining what the medical field and allied health fields are all about at their level. "I want to make known what they (students) can look forward to one day," he said.

Listed in the Speakers Bureau of the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, Dr. Henry is well qualified to lecture on the topics: "Curriculum Content and Innovations" and "Health Careers Development."

A native of Palestine, Texas, where he was one of ten children, he has taught science at Dunbar and Coronado High Schools from 1956 through 1972. Other work experiences, before joining the TTU School of Medicine, include I.G.&N. and Memorial Hospital at Palestine; the Central Service and Surgery at West Texas Hospital; Intensive Care and Medical Surgical Wings at Methodist Hospital; Adult Basic Education and Evening High School programs with the Lubbock Public Schools and a parttime instructor at Texas Tech, 1967 through 1972.

"I have always been motivated by my family," he says. "You know being from a large family is sometimes a disadvantage, but in my case, it was an advantage," he continued. He tells of how his sisters and brothers would "turn him on to the many opportunities in medicine and health." Today, he says, "I can appreciate what they were trying to do for me."

A very active person, Dr. Henry has contributed a great deal of his time and effort to many organizations in Lubbock and West Texas. His list of participation is rather long and includes the following: American Heart Association, Task Force Committee on Hypertension; American Association of University Professors, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), the Lubbock Storm Defense Club, a Community Representative for the Lubbock County Head Start Policy Council, American Association of Comprehensive Health Planners, Texas Association of College Teachers, Health Advisory Council of the Health Manpower Utilization Committee for the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG), and sponsor of the Texas Tech Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.

As an instructor in the Lubbock Public Schools, Dr. Henry received a fifteen year Service Award as a science teacher.

Dr. Henry is married to Mrs. Janice O'Brien Henry, a pharmacy medication nurse (LVN) at Methodist Hospital and a student at Texas Tech University. The Henrys have two children, Melvin W. Henry, a former student at West Texas State University; and Carolyn Janiece Henry, a junior at Estacado High School. They reside at 2623 East Auburn Avenue.

Dr. Charles E. Henry has come a long way from a little East Texas town called Palestine. As he admits, "I've only just begun." Apparently this is true, he has many ideas.

Ballenger School Needs Volunteers

We've reported some of the shortcomings of schools in East Lubbock, and believed firmly in what we were reporting, because we are concerned about the young people who attend public schools in Lubbock. This week, we had an opportunity to visit the Ballenger School, 1110 40th Street, and found an outstanding job being done by the principal, teachers, staff and volunteers.

If you didn't know, this school is geared at working with trainable mentally retarded children. In looking at the school, we found that those 130 young people who are in attendance have an opportunity to learn more about themselves as well as the world. To us, this is very good.

The smiles on the young people's faces, ranging in age from 3 through 21 years, makes anyone feel proud to live in a community that has such a facility. It feels good to walk inside and see the work being done by dedicated people. In this day and time, let's thank God that we have such a facility in Lubbock that really cares about the children who are less fortunate in certain areas.

As you look throughout the building, which is kept very well, there is a bulletin board with the names of parents, patrons and Texas Tech students who give of their time to work with these young people. Yes, these volunteers work days, weeks, and months to see that the program at Ballenger continues. The disappointing thing about this bulletin is there are no names of blacks in East Lubbock volunteering their time to help these young people.

Don't you think it is about time for some of us to give of our time for something that will benefit and is benefiting children from East Lubbock. Just think of what you could accomplish if you would give only an hour a month for a worthwhile project such as helping a trainable mentally retarded child.

This is not a race thing, it is one in which we are giving our support for such a facility that is helping boys and girls with the same type problem. Those kids don't know the difference between black and white, brown and black. Those kids are happy because someone cares enough to help them.

Surely, there are some of us who can give of our time and feel good because there are some little people who really care. There are, no doubt, some organizations in East Lubbock who are looking for projects such as this. What about Delta Sigma Theta and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sororities? You can help also Lucky 12 and Swahili Clubs. There are so many organizations in our community that could help. What about the members of the Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU) on the campus of Texas Tech? You too can contribute something to a good cause.

Regardless of how we look at it, our participation from the black community or East Lubbock would be well accepted. We will all pass through life one time, and to be able to help some young people who are less fortunate than we, surely will pay big dividends. Check out the Ballenger School. You'll be glad that you did and will be willing to give some of your valuable time each month.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

It won't be long before we'll have an opportunity to go to the polls and cast our vote in the general election on Tuesday, November 5. It's been said many times, by many people, that we should all go out and vote for the person whom we think is the better candidate. In the past, however, the black community has not exercised its votes as it could and should. Surely by now, after seeing what is going on in the black community, we are ready to do something new in this area.

Of course, no one can tell you who to vote for and tell you what you had better do. If you are any kind of a citizen or resident who would appreciate some of the good things in life, I'm sure you have come to the conclusion that it is important for all of us to vote.

I was thinking about the problems we are having in our local schools, the obstacles the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) is having and other problems. If we really wanted to be heard and get something done about the problems which exist in East Lubbock, we would go to the polls in large numbers and vote, come Tuesday, November 5th.

It's time that we start letting people know the true meaning of how we feel about what is happening in our community. Each of us can do that by voting. Don't you think it's about time that we decided to do just that in East Lubbock? Don't you think it's about time that the black community began to vote as it is doing throughout America?

It's your decision to make as an individual, resident, or Black American. If we continue to sit back and not get involved, we'll continue to have set-backs in the future. The word is out, all over town and West Texas, that black people don't vote in this part of the country. It would be a terrific thing if we made those people out as liars.

Why not take time and think about it before November 5th. At the same time, I hope some organizations in East Lubbock will do their part to see that those persons without transportation will have a way to get to the polls on voting day. Not only organizations, but there are individuals or families who are really concerned about seeing that we are out in large numbers. We all can do our part to see that everyone has transportation to the polls.

Think about it! Voting is something we all can get involved in doing. If we do so, just think of a better community we would have to live in. VOTE, VOTE, NOVEMBER 5th.

Last meeting of the Lubbock Housing Authority Board, the impression one would get is that the residents of Green-Fair Manor Apartments would have an opportunity to appear before this five member board and express their problems. This writer also suggested last month that all residents of GreenFair Manor Apartments attend this meeting on October 10th.

October 10 has come and gone, and the residents of Green Fair didn't have an opportunity to appear and express themselves. After talking with R. Byrn Bass, Jr., a member of LHA, he tells me that the executive director, David Stiles, had to be out of the city to attend a meeting with the HUD people, therefore, there was no meeting.

Brother Bass did inform me, by mail, that he had asked for another meeting on Thursday, October 17, "at the same place". Apparently, he asked Mr. Stiles to reschedule the meeting on October 17, but he was told that there was nothing on the agenda. It would appear to me as though the meeting of LHA in Green-Fair Manor with tenants would be an important meeting.

As Brother Bass said: "To not meet simply because we have nothing on our agenda would imply that nothing the attending tenants might say would be important enough to warrant a meeting."

As I See It, the tenants would have some very interesting things to say to those persons on the Lubbock Housing Authority Board. I hope this meeting will come off this evening (Thursday, October 17).

If the meeting doesn't come off tonight, residents of GreenFair, just keep your "kool", and when there is a meeting in the office of Green-Fair Manor, let's do our thing. Apparently Mr. Stiles would like for you to forget about the meeting. Keep it on your minds and be there when it is held. The West Texas Times will keep it on our minds and we'll be there, too. Let's all be there together and get this "thing" on the table as it should.

There is an effort underway in America today for all parents and patrons of school children. The National Committee for Citizens in Education has announced a nationwide program to help parents reassert their rights in the control of public education. This program, with all the problems in our community, could very well enlighten many parents on their position in public education.

Any parent in the continental United States can dial a toll free telephone number, 800, 638-9675, to hear a message highlighting NCCE's current action programs. By leaving your name and address, parents will be sent more detailed information by return mail.

The new law, called the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, states that parents of students in any educational institution receiving Federal funds—whether day care centers, or elementary and secondary schools or universities—must be allowed to examine their child's full record and must have the opportunity to challenge and correct wrong or misleading information. Further, school administrators are forbidden to show a student's record to an outside party without parental consent. The same rights are extended to students who are 18 years or older. The penalty for non-compliance is withholding of Federal Education funds.

There is so much going on in this world. As parents and patrons, let's call this number (800, 638-9675) and request information which can help our children.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

ROCKEFELLER'S NOMINATION by Jack Anderson

Washington—Top tax experts, including former Internal Revenue officials, have told us they have grave questions about the enormous gifts that Vice President designate Nelson Rockefeller lavished upon his old associates.

One of the "gifts" was $50,000, which Rockefeller passed on to his former foreign policy adviser, Henry Kissinger.

The problem, say the experts, is drawing the distinction between a gift and compensation for services. If the Rockefeller associates were being compensated for their services, the money should be considered "bonuses" and not gifts. As such, they would be taxable at a higher rate, and the recipients would pay the tax, not Rockefeller.

Thus, it is possible that Secretary of State Kissinger, among others, technically owes the federal government back taxes.

Nelson Rockefeller's personal fortune is valued at more than $62.5 million. Yet in 1970, he didn't pay a penny in federal income tax. Since most Americans paid federal income taxes in 1970, that meant that the average citizen was paying Rockefeller's taxes.

All too many millionaires, particularly the oil tycoons, have not been paying their fair share of the taxes. Every dollar they escape paying must be made up by the rest of us taxpayers.

The public is losing patience with the discrimination in the nation's tax structure. Unless tax reforms are adopted soon, our whole tax collection system could be jeopardized.

The House Ways and Means Committee, feeling the public pressure, has finally produced a huge, 700-page tax bill. It contains some tax reforms that are intended to placate the public. The oildepletion allowance, for example, would be phased out, forcing the oil industry to cough up an estimated $3 billion a year more taxes.

But our own tax advisers say that, hidden in the 700page bill, are other gimmicks which would give upperincome taxpayers new tax breaks.

Nelson Rockefeller's nomination, meanwhile, is in limbo on Capitol Hill, and the confirmation of the Vice President designate may even be held up until next year.

The Senate Rules Committee has finished its hearings. But the House Judiciary Committee is in no hurry to act on the nomination.

So far, its 38 members haven't even received briefing papers on the investigation of the nominee's finances.

The Joint Internal Revenue Committee, which audited the Ford and Nixon tax returns, is hard at work on the Rockefeller probe. They are expected to complete it by October 18th.

Congress will be in recess then, and it is doubtful that the Judiciary Committee will act before the election. Indeed, there is a strong possibility the nomination will not be voted on until next year.

Despite his impressive credentials, Rockefeller remains a controversial nominee. The recent disclosures of large gifts have added spice to the old tales about buying favors.

The Judiciary Committee, as well as the House itself, will be quite different in composition next year. Some sources tell us that the leadership will soon decide to hold up the nomination until the new Congress is sworn in next January.

In the meantime, House Speaker Carl Albert, much to his chagrin, will continue to be the nation's No. 2 leader.

Kissinger Charade: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was forced to enact a charade recently to preserve his image on Capitol Hill.

The lawmakers have been growing increasingly frustrated with Kissinger in recent months. Many Congressmen feel he regards them as a necessary evil, that he is too much of a one-man show. They resent his obsessive secrecy. Now their anger is boiling to the surface. In recent weeks, they have lashed into Kissinger with abandon.

Several senators, for example, loudly erupted when they learned Kissinger had been involved in the political sabotage of the late Chilean President, Salvador Allende.

The greatest blow to Kissinger's ego, however, came when both the House and Senate voted to embargo economic and military aid to Turkey. Kissinger had defied the law, the legislators felt, when he continued to ship arms to Turkey after that country had illegally used American weapons to invade Cyprus.

To save face, Kissinger flew to New York for secret talks with the foreign ministers of Turkey and Greece, who were in town for the latest U.N. session. In Washington, meanwhile, President Ford publicly pleaded with Congress not to slash aid to Turkey as it would "undermine" Kissinger's "Negotiations."

The truth is, according to our sources, there were NO "negotiations." It was all a charade designed to convince a balky Congress that delicate talks were in progress.

Kissinger's meetings with Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros, for example, were described to us as "cold very cold." At one point, the two leaders posed for pictures and Mavros did a marvelous imitation of a block of granite.

Finally, Kissinger turned to the Greek leader. "Come on, smile," he implored.

Oil Talks: The foreign ministers of the world's oil consuming nations recently sat down with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to discuss the oil crisis. Despite extreme secrecy, we can report what happened during the private discussions.

Kissinger warned his fellow ministers that today's staggering oil prices are a threat to world order. The West, he declared, is being pushed to the brink.

Britain's Foreign Secretary James Callaghan took a less catastrophic view of the Arab oil squeeze. He suggested that the Arab oil billions might be recycled through a loan fund into the countries in desperate trouble.

Like Callaghan, the other foreign ministers were also uneasy about a confrontation with the oil-producing countries. This wasn't the best way, they argued, to get the Arabs to reduce oil prices.

France's Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues suggested bluntly that the United States bring pressure on Israel to come to terms with the Arabs. A Middle East settlement, he argued, would gain Arab cooperation and solve the oil crisis.

The foreign ministers agreed, however, that the oil consuming nations must work together to relieve the oil crunch.

All of the items, according to the police report, were taken from the bedroom of the house.

Mrs. Betty Iles is recuperating nicely at St. Mary's Hospital after undergoing surgery last week. Rev. T.B. Reece is still holding his own at home. Mrs. Annie Rowe is also a patient at a local hospital.

Mrs. Hallie Mae Johnson is home from a vacation in San Francisco, California, with her sister and friends. She also had an opportunity to visit friends in Los Angeles. Mrs. Johnson reported a lovely trip and it was her first flight which she enjoyed more than she would have thought. Friends were happy to welcome her home as well as her family.

Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Jackson, former Lubbock residents now residing near Waco, attended final rites here last Friday for his uncle, Mr. Aaron Johnson.

Mrs. Sentille Lyons is reportedly recuperating satisfactorily at her home. Her sister, Mrs. Mildred Howelton, who has been at her bedside several days, returned to her home at San Antonio. Mrs. Katie Snell, a patient at Methodist Hospital, is not responding as expected since the amputation of a leg. Her condition is reported changeable from day to day.

Mrs. Sarah Crawford was indisposed the weekend. Mrs. Bobbie Patterson and Mrs. Bessie

Mason were unable to attend church services last Sunday at Bethel A.M.E. Church.

Mrs. Johnella Savage is recuperating at home again. Mrs. J.D. Brown is home from West Texas Hospital.

Salone Cunningham is still a patient at Methodist Hospital. Mr. Joe Rowe, Sr., is also a patient there.

Mrs. Lucy McQuinney was carried to a hospital early Sunday morning where she is undergoing tests, because of a sudden pain. Mrs. Callie Cato is still a patient at Jewell's Rest Home. Mrs. Lee Knighten has been transferred to the V.A. Hospital at Big Spring, Texas. Mr. Clem is recuperating at home.

When Texas Tech played Texas A&M on national television last Saturday, the Red Raider Band did its thing. Debora Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Walker, was one of the members performing with a clarinet. The Raiders went down in defeat, but the band's activity was one

We made a goof last week in giving the age of Mrs. Lois Collier, a longtime resident of the Hub City. The story reported her age as 78, she is only 74 years young. Regardless of which age is correct, it's certainly a blessing to live threefourths of a century.

CHURCH SERVICES

First Progressive Baptist Church

The First Progressive Baptist Church went to Slaton Sept. 29. They were invited to Rev. People's church to help out in their citywide mission. We would like for Rev. People to know that we really enjoyed their program and were pleased they asked us on their program.

Sunday morning, Oct. 13, our pastor, Rev. M.G. Shephard went to Hobbs, N.M. to St. John Baptist Church, pastored by Rev. J.W. Ward. Rev. Shephard brought an inspiring message from St. John 1. Our church was unable to make the trip, but assisting Rev. Shephard was Sis. Francis Shephard, Sis. Linda Howard, Bro. Herbert Robinson, Sis. Della Thomas, Sis. Uby Wilson and Bro. Sammy Judie.

Sunday, Oct. 20, First Progressive will be going to Slaton to be on a program at Rev. Brown's church at 3:00 p.m. We are looking forward to a good time.

Friday, Oct. 18, the choir will have a workshop at the church from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 19, the choir will have a Weiner Roast at the church at 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 20, regular service.

Friendship Baptist Church

A vote of thanks for members of the church for the week of service given Rev. and Mrs. North; also to churches of Brownfield, we thank you for the spirit, and to our out of town friends and churches, we thank you.

The SS Supt. was at his post on time Sunday. Our pastor brought a burning message. His subject was "The People Are All Sinners", text from John 5:7.

May the grace of God be with you all. Let us pray for the sick and shut ins both far and near.

Bethel A.M.E. Church

Although the weather was rainy, members of our congregation came out in favorable numbers to hear their pastor, Rev. A.W. Wilson, deliver a splendid message. Senior Choir No. One rendered music for the morning services. Among those visitors present last Sunday morning were Mrs. Annie Mae Hill of Navasota, Texas and Mrs. Georgia Winfield and Mrs. Earnestine Hester, sister of Mr. Joe McGowen.

Five students from Dunbar High School's sextet, Ester Jackson, Adrian Caviel, Regina Johns, Delton Deal, and Douglas Carroll, played a religious selection for the congregation. The group was invited back by Rev. Wilson and Rev. Jack Robinson, assistant pastor.

Members of the Laymen League met immediately after church services last Sunday morning to make plans for an upcoming program in November. Officers elected are W.H. Stephens, president; J.W. Wilson, assistant president; Herbert Johnson, secretary; Lester Brown, assistant secretary; and Willie Blocker, treasurer.

Senior Choir No. One will sing Sunday, October 20, during the morning services.

Mrs. Geneva Jackson, a resident of Los Angeles, California, was present during our morning services last Sunday morning. She had just returned from visiting some friends in Kansas.

Twentieth & Birch Street Church of Christ

A Gospel Meeting will begin October 27 through 30 at the Broadway Church of Christ. Brother Jim Bill McInteer will be preaching.

We are calling upon each member to be a part of our Bible classes on Sunday mornings and Wednesday evening. You will be truly blessed by being a part of the Bible study and you will be made strong by feasting upon the word of God.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut in members. Those on the sick list this week include Sister Georgia Malone, Sister Jewel Henderson and Brother Charles Williams. Remember these people in our prayers to God.

New Hope Baptist Church

Special services will be sponsored by the Deaconess Board on Sunday, October 20, at 7 p.m. Let us all give our support to this worthwhile program.

A Choir Musical will be held Sunday evening, October 27, at 7 p.m. Let us all make plans to

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Sunday's weather was right in keeping with the mood of most Texas Tech fans—somber, sober, sinister, subdued. You could add weepy, woeful and wrong.

Wrong? Yes, because when everything else is said, the Red Raiders were thoroughly beaten by a better football team. It was not a case of them not being ready to play; Tech just lacked the ability last Saturday, lacked it in all phases of the game.

Like everyone else, I've had 24 hours or more to write this column (this is being written Sunday). It would be easy to say that (1) When you're in a shootout, both sides should be armed; (2) Tech made only one mistake, it showed up for the kickoff, etc.

But let's be totally honest, Saturday Texas A&M was a superior football team in every aspect of the game. Both the offensive and defensive lines controlled scrimmage.

Aggie backs ground out yardage consistently and the right side of the Tech line couldn't stop them. The Raiders needed another Ecomet Burley and an E.J. Holub. They had neither.

It became painfully evident, after the first three punt exchanges, on each one of which the Aggies gained ground, that it was only a matter of time. Finally, in the second quarter, they attacked the Achilles heel and drove inexorably for the Raider goal.

Meanwhile, the Raiders couldn't get any momentum going. Every thrust was stopped. They were completely frustrated. They simply couldn't run over or around that big Aggie line.

To compound matters, the usually error-prone Aggies played a nearly flawless game. And, when the Raiders finally did pounce on a fumble, they couldn't do anything with it. The Tech attack was just one big dud. Nothing worked—and credit A&M for that.

If there were any areas of concern, it was the lack of wisdom to pass on first down from their own 20 (intercepted, leading to a second, quick—and deciding—Aggie Touchdown. There are other receivers than Lawrence Williams, who drew double coverage.

And there is little excuse for any punt return man fielding fair catch punts inside the 10 yard line. It didn't help Tech's field position, which was terrible most of the game, but even the 20 is better than the five-yard line.

All of that is nit picking, of course. The Raiders had it laid on them and it was no fluke. Obviously, the better team won, hands down. Last Saturday, before a nation-wide audience, no one could have gone away thinking anything else.

If the Aggies continue to play as flawlessly through the remainder of the season, they should win the conference title. You had to be awed with their size, ability and execution.

One victory, or defeat, does not make a season, of course, and it would be well for the Raiders to keep that in mind. In this crazy season, anything can happen—and probably will.

You now have Baylor—Baylor?, SMU—SMU?, and A&M on top with one victory each. Tech, Texas and Arkansas can have a loss. And when Rice plays Notre Dame a 10-3 game in South Bend, no one can feel confident. Baylor and SMU tied for the lead—who would have dreamed that a month ago.

If the Raiders continue to play one game at a time, they still have a good shot at the title. Certainly this is one year when no one has a corner on the crown and the old saying about two losses eliminating a club could be in jeopardy.

Indeed, this might just turn out to be the best conference race in history. Obviously, seven teams have a good crack at a title and the Cotton Bowl. Hold onto to your hats, the fun is just beginning!

The World Series, through the first two games, has been marked by the type of pitching you expected, along with the key home run that so often breaks up a tight game.

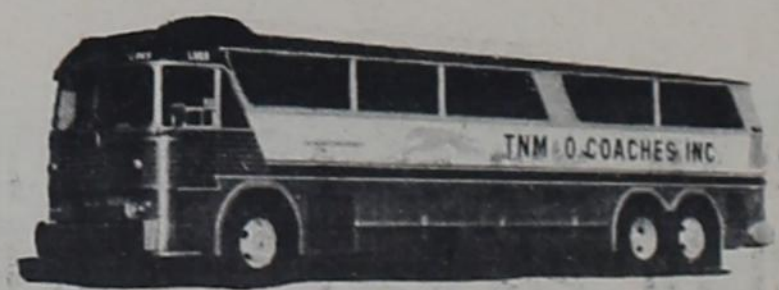

I would no more try to pick a winner than put on Burley's cape and fly around the light poles in Jones Stadium. The A's and Dodgers appear to be matched as evenly as two teams could be. It's liable to go down to seven games. It's starting out as a great Series.

Actually, the Dodgers had the best pitching in the first two games, based on total hits, but that doesn't mean a thing in the World Series. It's the timeliness of the hits that count and, in the opener, the A's had it. The Dodgers had them in Sunday's game.

So, how do you pick a winner? Let's start with tossing a coin. That would do for starters, but if it stands on end, I'll be darned if I'll help you! Settle back and enjoy good baseball.

At the start of this column, I was going to say that even the Dallas Cowboys' defensive team wouldn't have helped Tech Saturday. That was before I saw the game against St. Louis.

Even Tech's defensive team wouldn't have helped the Cowboys! Could the defection of several Cowboys to the WFL next year have created division on the team? The Pokes have the material to be a winner. Obviously, something is wrong. It's going to be a long season in Big D.

Georgia Winfield, both of Houston; and Mrs. Annie Mae Hill of Navasota, Texas, left for their homes last Sunday evening via Greyhound bus after spending the weekend here with their brother, Mr. Joe McGowen and family. They were guest of their sister-in-law Sunday morning at Bethel A.M.E. Church. They enjoyed their visit to the Hub City.

Mrs. Bertha Cowen of Hobbs, N.M., left last Thursday for home after a check up by her doctor here. She also visited her sister, Mrs. Leaner Goldstein. Mrs. Loucreasia Lester, of Hobbs, accompanied her sister here and is still here with Mrs. Goldstein.

It is reported that Mrs. Lola Mae Tyler, a longtime resident of Lubbock and a member of Bethel A.M.E. Church, has moved to Odessa, where she will soon become a new bride. The Usher Board as well as the church and friends will miss her very much. At the same time, everyone wishes her much luck and happiness. Keep looking and listening for more wedding bells at Bethel.

Darrell Edward Berry celebrated his 7th birthday quietly last Friday at his home. He did not ask for anything, but a walkietalkie which his father, Officer Berry, supplied and another toy from his grandfather and grandmother. He also received the usual cake, a chocolate one. He received other gifts. He is a second grade student at Ella Iles.

While visiting in California several days ago, Sug Johnson visited her foster son and daughter in law, Mr. and Mrs. Baker Millian in Perrie, California. She also had an opportunity to visit relatives in San Bernadino and did lots of sight seeing which she enjoyed immensely.

Joe Hibbler, son of Mrs. Vinnie Mae Hibbler, was in the Hub City last week visiting his relatives and friends. He spent some time in California and Colorado while on his three week vacation. Mr. Hibbler is a medical salesman.

The Dunbar Ex Student Association will meet Saturday, October 19th at 3:00 p.m. at Struggs Junior High School. All members and ex students are urged to attend.
